
23 And upon Kiriathaim, and upon Beth-gamul, and upon Beth-meon,

24 And upon [d] Kerioth, and upon Bozrah, and upon all the cities of the land of Moab, far or near.

25 The [e] horn of Moab is cut off, and his [f] arm is broken, saith the LORD.

26 ¶ Make [g] ye him drunken: [h] for he magnified himself against the LORD:

Moab also shall wallow in his vomit, and he also shall be in derision.

27 For [a] was not Israel a derision unto thee? [b] was he found among thieves? for since thou spakest of him, thou †skippedst for joy.

28 O ye that dwell in Moab, leave the cities, and [c] dwell in the rock, and be like the f dove that maketh her nest in the sides of the hole's mouth.

29 We have heard the [d] pride of Moab, (he is exceeding proud) his loftiness, and his arrogancy, and his pride, and the haughtiness of his heart.

30 I know his wrath, saith the LORD; but it shall not be so; ‖ his lies shall not so effect it.

31 Therefore [e] will I howl for Moab, and I will cry out for all Moab; mine heart shall mourn for the men of Kir-heres.

32 O vine of Sibmah, I will weep for thee with the weeping of Jazer: thy plants are gone over the sea, they reach even to the sea of Jazer: the spoiler is fallen upon thy summer fruits and upon thy vintage.

33 And [m]joy and gladness is taken from the plentiful field, and from the land of Moab; and I have caused wine to fail from the winepresses: none shall tread with shouting; their shouting shall be no shouting.

34 From the cry of Heshbon even unto Elealeh, and even unto Jahaz, have they uttered their voice, from Zoar even unto Horonaim, as an heifer of three years old: for the waters also of Nimrim shall be § desolate.

35 Moreover I will cause to cease in Moab, saith the LORD, [r] him that offereth in the high places, and him that burneth incense to his gods.

36 Therefore mine heart shall sound for Moab like pipes, and mine heart shall sound like pipes for the men of Kir-heres: because the riches that he hath gotten are perished.

37 For every head shall be bald, and every beard ‖clipped: upon all the hands shall be cuttings, and [s] upon the loins sackcloth.

38 There shall be lamentation generally upon all the housetops of Moab, and in the streets thereof: for I have broken Moab like [a] a vessel wherein is no pleasure, saith the LORD.

39 They shall howl, saying, How is it broken down! how hath Moab turned the ‡back with shame! so shall Moab be a derision and a dismaying to all them about him.

40 For thus saith the LORD; Behold, [b] he shall fly as an eagle, and shall [d] spread his wings over Moab.

41 § Kerioth is taken, and the strong holds are surprised, and [e] the mighty men's hearts in Moab at that day shall be as the heart of a woman in her pangs.

42 And Moab shall be destroyed ‖ from being a people, because he hath magnified himself against the LORD.

43 Fear, [h] and the pit, and the snare, shall be upon thee, O inhabitant of Moab, saith the LORD.

44 He that fleeth from the fear shall fall into the pit; and he that getteth up out of the pit shall be taken in the snare: for [i] I will bring upon it, even upon Moab, the year of their visitation, saith the LORD.

45 They that fled stood under the shadow of Heshbon because of the force: but [m] a fire shall come forth out of Heshbon, and a flame from the midst of Sihon, and [b] shall devour the corner of Moab, and the crown of the head of the [o] tumultuous ones.

46 Woe [d] be unto thee, O Moab! the people of Chemosh perisheth: for thy sons are taken ‡captives, and thy daughters captives.

47 [r] Yet will I bring again the captivity of Moab in the latter days, saith the LORD. Thus far is the judgment of Moab.

CHAP. XLIX.

CONCERNING § the [k] Ammonites, thus saith the LORD; Hath Israel no sons? hath he no heir? why then doth [o] their king inherit [k] Gad, and his people dwell in his cities?

2 Therefore, behold, the days come, saith the LORD, that I will cause an alarm of war to be heard in [l] Rabbah of the Ammonites; and it shall be a desolate heap, and her daughters shall be burned with fire: then shall Israel be heir unto them that were his heirs, saith the LORD.

3 Howl, O Heshbon, for Ai is spoiled: cry, ye daughters of Rabbah, [m] gird you with sackcloth; lament, and run to and fro by the hedges; for † their king shall go into captivity, and his [o] priests and his princes together.

4 Wherefore gloriest thou in the valleys, ‡ thy flowing valley, O [p] backsliding daughter? that trusted in her treasures, saying, Who shall come unto me?

5 Behold, I will bring a fear upon thee, saith the Lord GOD of hosts, from all those that be about thee; and ye shall be driven out every man right forth; and none shall gather up him that wandereth.

6 And [r] afterward I will bring again the captivity of the children of Ammon, saith the LORD.

7 ¶ Concerning [t] Edom, thus saith the LORD of hosts; [u] Is wisdom no more in Teman? [v] is counsel perished from the prudent? is their wisdom vanished?

8 Flee ye, [x] turn back, dwell deep, O inhabitants of Dedan; for I will bring the calamity of Esau upon him, the time that I will visit him.

9 If [y] grapegatherers come to thee, would they not leave some gleaning grapes? if thieves by night, they will destroy † till they have enough.

10 But [z] I have made Esau bare, I have uncovered his secret places, and he shall not be able to hide himself: his seed is spoiled, and his brethren, and his neighbours, and [b] he is not.

11 Leave thy fatherless children, I will preserve them alive; and let thy widows trust in me.

12 For thus saith the LORD; Behold, they [c] whose judgment was not to drink of the cup have assuredly drunken; and art thou he that shall altogether go unpunished? thou shalt not go unpunished, but thou shalt surely drink of it.

13 For [d] I have sworn by myself, saith the LORD, that [e] Bozrah shall become a desolation, a reproach, a waste, and a curse; and all the cities thereof shall be perpetual wastes.

14 I have heard a [m] rumour from the LORD, and an ambassador is sent unto the heathen, saying, Gather ye together, and come against her, and rise up to the battle.

15 For, lo, I will make thee small among the heathen, and despised among men.

16 Thy terribleness hath deceived thee, and the pride of thine heart, O thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rock, that holdest the height of the hill: though thou shouldest make thy [b] nest as high as the eagle, [c] I will bring thee down from thence, saith the LORD.

17 Also Edom shall be a desolation: every one that goeth by it shall be astonished, and shall hiss at all the plagues thereof.

18 As [d] in the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah and the neighbour cities thereof, saith the LORD, [f] no man shall abide there, neither shall a son of man dwell in it.

19 Behold, he shall come up like a lion from the [g] swelling of Jordan against the habitation of the strong: but I will suddenly make him run away from her: and who is a chosen man, that I may appoint over her? for [h] who is like me? and who will [i] appoint me the time? and [k] who is that shepherd that will stand before me?

20 Therefore hear the [l] counsel of the LORD, that he hath taken against Edom; and his purposes, that he hath purposed against the inhabitants of Teman: Surely the least of the flock shall draw them out: surely he shall make their habitations desolate with them.

21 The earth is moved at the noise of their fall, at the cry the noise thereof was heard in the † Red sea.

22 Behold, he shall come up and fly as the eagle, and spread his wings over Bozrah: and at that day shall the heart of the mighty men of Edom be as the heart of a woman in her pangs.

23 ¶ Concerning [p] Damascus. Hamath is confounded, and Arpad: for they have heard evil tidings: they are ‖ fainthearted; there is [r] sorrow [s] on the sea; it cannot be quiet.

24 Damascus is waxed feeble, and turneth herself to flee, and fear hath seized on her: [t] anguish and sorrows have taken her, as a woman in travail.

25 How is the city of praise not left, the city of my joy!

26 Therefore [u] her young men shall fall in her streets, and all the men of war shall be cut off in that day, saith the LORD of hosts.

27 And I will kindle a [y] fire in the wall of Damascus, and it shall consume the palaces of Ben-hadad.

28 ¶ Concerning [a] Kedar, and concerning the kingdoms of Hazor, which Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon shall smite, thus saith the LORD; Arise ye, go up to Kedar, and spoil [b] the men of the east.

29 Their [c] tents and their flocks shall they take away: they shall take to themselves their curtains, and all their vessels, and their camels; and they shall cry unto them, Fear is on every side.

30 ¶ Flee, † get you far off, dwell deep, O ye inhabitants of Hazor, saith the LORD; for Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon hath taken counsel against you, and hath conceived a purpose against you.

31 Arise, get you up unto [b] the ‡ wealthy nation, that dwelleth without care, saith the LORD, which have neither gates nor bars, which [m] dwell alone.

32 And their camels shall be a booty, and the multitude of their cattle a spoil: and I will [n] scatter into all winds [o] them that are [o] in the utmost corners; and I

37 For I will cause Elam to be dismayed before their enemies, and before them that seek their life: and I will bring evil upon them, even my fierce anger, saith the LORD; and I will send the sword after them, till I have consumed them:

38 And I will [u] set my throne in Elam, and will destroy from thence the king and the princes, saith the LORD.

39 ¶ But it shall come to pass [y] in the latter days, that I will bring again the captivity of Elam, saith the LORD.

CHAP. L.

THE word that the LORD spake [a] against Babylon and against the land of the Chaldeans † by Jeremiah the prophet.

2 Declare ye among the nations, and publish, and ‡ set up a standard; publish, and conceal not: say, Babylon is taken, [b] Bel is confounded, Merodach is broken in pieces; her idols are confounded, her images are broken in pieces.

3 For out of the north there cometh up a nation against her, which shall make her land desolate, and none shall dwell therein: they shall remove, they shall depart, both man and beast.

4 ¶ In those days, and in that time, saith the LORD, the children of Israel shall come, [c] they and the children of Judah together, [d] going and weeping: they shall go, [e] and seek the LORD their God.

5 They shall ask the way to Zion with their faces thitherward, saying, Come, and let us join ourselves to the LORD in a perpetual covenant that shall not be forgotten.

6 My people hath been [z] lost sheep: their shepherds have caused them to go astray, they have turned them away on the mountains: they have gone from mountain to hill, they have forgotten their † resting place.

7 All that found them have [d] devoured them: and [e] their adversaries said, [f] We offend not, because they have sinned against the LORD, [g] the habitation of justice, even the LORD, [h] the hope of their fathers.

8 Remove [i] out of the midst of Babylon, and go forth out of the land of the Chaldeans, and be as the he goats before the flocks.

9 ¶ For, [l] lo, I will raise and cause to come up against Babylon an assembly of great nations from the north country: and they shall set themselves in array against her; from thence she shall be taken: their arrows shall be as of a mighty ‖ expert man; [p] none shall return in vain.

10 And Chaldea shall be a spoil: [r] all that spoil her shall be satisfied, saith the LORD.

11 Because [a] ye were glad, because ye rejoiced, O ye destroyers of mine heritage, because ye are grown [b] fat as the heifer at grass, and [†] bellow as bulls;

12 Your mother shall be sore confounded; she that bare you shall be ashamed: behold, the hindermost of the nations shall be a wilderness, a dry land, and a desert.

13 Because of the wrath of the LORD it shall not be inhabited, but it shall be wholly desolate: every one that goeth by Babylon shall be astonished, and hiss at all her plagues.

14 Put yourselves in array against Babylon round about: all ye that bend the bow, shoot at her, spare no arrows: for she hath sinned against the LORD.

15 Shout against her round about: she hath [f] given her hand: her foundations are fallen, her walls are thrown down: for [g] it is the vengeance of the LORD: take vengeance upon her; [h] as she hath done, do unto her.

16 Cut off the sower from Babylon, and him that handleth the [‖] sickle in the time of harvest: for fear of the oppressing sword [i] they shall turn every one to his people, and they shall flee every one to his own land.

17 ¶ Israel is a scattered sheep; the lions have driven him away: first [k] the king of Assyria hath devoured him; and last this [l] Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon hath broken his bones.

18 Therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; Behold, I will punish the king of Babylon and his land, as I have punished the king of Assyria.

19 And [m] I will bring Israel again to his habitation, and he shall feed on Carmel and Bashan, and his soul shall be satisfied upon mount Ephraim and Gilead.

20 In those days, and in that time, saith the LORD, [n] the iniquity of Israel shall be sought for, and there shall be none; and the sins of Judah, and they shall not be found: for [p] I will pardon them whom I reserve.

21 ¶ Go up against the land [†] of Merathaim, even against it, and against the inhabitants of [‡] Pekod: waste and utterly destroy after them, saith the LORD, and do [h] according to all that I have commanded thee.

22 A sound of battle is in the land, and of great destruction.

23 How is [d] the hammer of the whole earth cut asunder and broken! how is Babylon become a desolation among the nations!

24 I have laid a snare for thee, and thou art also taken, O Babylon, [f] and thou wast not aware: thou art found, and also caught, because thou hast striven against the LORD.

25 The LORD hath opened his armoury, and hath brought forth [i] the weapons of his indignation: for this is the work of the Lord GOD of hosts in the land of the Chaldeans.

26 Come against her [§] from the utmost border, open her storehouses: [k] cast her up as heaps, and destroy her utterly: let nothing of her be left.

27 Slay all her [l] bullocks; let them go down to the slaughter: woe unto them! for their day is come, the time of their visitation.

28 The voice of them that flee and escape out of the land of Babylon, to declare in Zion the vengeance of the LORD our God, the vengeance of his temple.

29 Call together the archers against Babylon: all ye that bend the bow, camp against it round about; let none thereof escape: [m] recompense her according to her work; according to all that she hath done, do unto her: [d] for she hath been proud against the LORD, against the Holy One of Israel.

30 Therefore shall her young men fall in the streets, and all her men of war shall be cut off in that day, saith the LORD.

31 Behold, [n] I am against thee, O thou most proud, saith the Lord GOD of hosts: for thy day is come, the time that I will visit thee.

32 And [§] the most proud shall stumble and fall, and none shall raise him up: and I will kindle a fire in his cities, and it shall devour all round about him.

33 ¶ Thus saith the LORD of hosts; The children of Israel and the children of Judah were oppressed together: and all that took them captives held them fast; they refused to let them go.

34 Their Redeemer is strong; [‡] the LORD of hosts is his name: he shall [‡] throughly plead their cause, that he may give rest to the land, and disquiet the inhabitants of Babylon.

35 ¶ A sword is upon the Chaldeans, saith the LORD, and upon the inhabitants of Babylon, and [o] upon her princes, and upon [p] her wise men.

36 A sword is [r] upon the [•] liars; and they shall dote: a sword is upon her mighty men; and they shall be dismayed.

37 A sword is upon their horses, and upon their chariots, and upon all [t] the mingled people that are in the midst of her; and [u] they shall become as women: a sword is upon her treasures; and they shall be robbed.

38 A [x] drought is upon her waters; and they shall be dried up: for it is the land of graven images, and they are mad upon their idols.

39 Therefore [z] the wild beasts of the desert with the wild beasts of the islands shall dwell there, and the owls shall dwell therein: [a] and it shall be no more inhabited for ever; neither shall it be dwelt in from generation to generation.

40 As [c] God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah and the neighbour cities thereof, saith the LORD; so shall no man abide there, neither shall any son of man dwell therein.

41 Behold, [e] a people shall come from the north, and a great nation, and many kings shall be raised up from the coasts of the earth.

42 They [f] shall hold the bow and the lance: they are cruel, and will not shew mercy: [g] their voice shall roar like the sea, and they shall ride upon horses, every one put in array, like a man to the battle, against thee, O daughter of Babylon.

43 The king of Babylon hath heard the report of them, and his hands waxed feeble; anguish took hold of him, and pangs as of a woman in travail.

44 Behold, he shall come up like a lion from the swelling of Jordan unto the habitation of the strong: but I will make them suddenly run away from her: and who [‡] is a chosen man, that I may appoint over her? for who is like me? and who

CHAP. LI.

THUS saith the LORD; Behold, I will raise up against Babylon, and against them that dwell in the ‡ midst of them that rise up against me, [d] a destroying wind;

2 And will send unto Babylon [e] fanners, that shall fan her, and shall empty her land: for in the day of trouble they shall be against her round about.

3 Against him that bendeth let the archer bend his bow, and against him that lifteth himself up in his brigandine: and spare ye not her young men; destroy ye utterly all her host.

4 Thus the slain shall fall in the land of the Chaldeans, and they that are thrust through in her streets.

5 For [f] Israel hath not been forsaken, nor Judah of his God, of the LORD of hosts; though [g] their land was filled with sin against the Holy One of Israel.

6 Flee [h] out of the midst of Babylon, and deliver every man his soul: be not cut off in her iniquity; for this is the time of the LORD'S vengeance; [i] he will render unto her a recompence.

7 Babylon [k] hath been a golden cup in the LORD'S hand, that made all the earth drunken: [l] the nations have drunken of her wine; therefore the nations [m] are mad.

8 Babylon is suddenly [n] fallen and destroyed: howl for her; [o] take balm for her pain, if so be she may be healed.

9 We would have healed Babylon, but she is not healed: forsake her, and [p] let us go every one into his own country: for her judgment reacheth unto heaven, and is lifted up even to the skies.

10 The LORD hath [q] brought forth our righteousness: come, and let us declare in Zion the work of the LORD our God.

11 Make [r] bright the arrows; gather the shields: [s] the LORD hath raised up the spirit of the kings of the Medes: for his device is against Babylon, to destroy it; because it is the [t] vengeance of the LORD, the vengeance of his temple.

12 Set [u] up the standard upon the walls of Babylon, make the watch strong, set up the watchmen, prepare the † ambushes: for the LORD hath both devised and done that which he spake against the inhabitants of Babylon.

13 O [v] thou that dwellest upon many waters, abundant in treasures, [w] thine end is come, and [x] the measure of thy covetousness.

14 The [y] LORD of hosts hath sworn ‡by himself, saying, Surely I will fill thee with men, as with caterpillers; and they shall § lift up a shout against thee.

15 He [z] hath made the earth by his power, he hath established the world by his wisdom, and [a] hath stretched out the heaven by his understanding.

16 When he uttereth his voice, there is a [b] multitude of waters in the heavens; and [c] he causeth the vapours to ascend from the ends of the earth: he maketh lightnings with rain, and bringeth forth the wind out of his treasures.

17 Every man ‖ is brutish by his knowledge; every founder is confounded by the graven image: for his molten image is falsehood, and there is no breath in them.

18 They are vanity, the work of errors: in the time of their visitation they shall perish.

19 The portion of Jacob is not like them; for he is the former of all things: and Israel is the rod of his inheritance: the LORD of hosts is his name.

20 Thou [d] art my battle ax and weapons of war: for § with thee will I break in pieces the nations, and with thee will I destroy kingdoms;

21 And with thee will I break in pieces the horse and his rider; and with thee will I break in pieces the chariot and his rider;

22 With thee also will I break in pieces man and woman; and with thee will I break in pieces [e] old and young; and with thee will I break in pieces the young man and the maid;

23 I will also break in pieces with thee the shepherd and his flock; and with thee will I break in pieces the husbandman and his yoke of oxen; and with thee will I break in pieces captains and rulers.

24 And I will render unto Babylon and to all the inhabitants of Chaldea all their evil that they have done in Zion in your sight, saith the LORD.

25 Behold, I am against thee, [f] O destroying mountain, saith the LORD, which destroyest all the earth: and I will stretch out mine hand upon thee, and roll thee down from the rocks, [g] and will make thee a burnt mountain.

26 And they shall not take of thee a stone for a corner, nor a stone for foundations; but thou shalt be ‖ desolate for ever, saith the LORD.

27 Set ye up a standard in the land, blow the trumpet among the nations, prepare the nations against her, call together against her the kingdoms of Ararat, Minni, and Ashchenaz; appoint a captain against her; cause the horses to come up as the rough caterpillers.

28 Prepare against her the nations with ‡ the kings of the Medes, the captains thereof, and all the rulers thereof, and all the land of his dominion.

29 And the land shall tremble and sorrow: for every purpose of the LORD shall be performed against Babylon, to make the land of Babylon a desolation without an inhabitant.

30 The mighty men of Babylon have forborn to fight, they have remained in their holds: their might hath failed; [h] they became as women: they have burned her dwellingplaces; [i] her bars are broken.

31 One post shall run to meet another, and one messenger to meet another, to shew the king of Babylon that his city is taken at one end, 32 And that the passages are stopped, and the reeds they have burned with fire, and the men of war are affrighted.

33 For thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; The daughter of Babylon is [k] like a threshingfloor, ‖ [l] it is [m] time to thresh her: yet a little while, [n] and the time of her harvest shall come.

lon hath devoured me, he hath crushed me, he hath made me an empty vessel, he hath swallowed me up like a dragon, he hath filled his belly with my delicates, he hath cast me out.

35 * The violence done to me and to my † flesh be upon Babylon, shall the ‡ inhabitant of Zion say; and my blood upon the inhabitants of Chaldea, shall Jerusalem say.

36 Therefore thus saith the LORD; Behold, I will plead thy cause, and [a] take vengeance for thee; and I will dry up her sea, and make her springs dry.

37 And [b] Babylon shall become heaps, a dwellingplace for dragons, [c] an astonishment,andan hissing,without aninhabitant.

38 They shall roar together like lions: they shall [§] yell as lions' whelps.

39 In their heat I will make their feasts, and I will make them drunken, that they may rejoice, and sleep a perpetual sleep, and not wake, saith the LORD.

40 I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, like rams with he goats.

41 How is [d] Sheshach taken! and how is [e] the praise of the whole earth surprised! how is Babylon become an astonishment among the nations!

42 The [f] sea is come up upon Babylon: she is covered with the multitude of the waves thereof.

43 Her cities are a desolation, a dry land, and a wilderness, a land wherein no man dwelleth, neither doth any son of man pass thereby.

44 And [g] I will punish Bel in Babylon, and I will bring forth out of his mouth that which he hath swallowed up: and the nations shall not flow together any more unto him: yea, the wall of Babylon shall fall.

45 My people, go ye out of the midst of her, and [h] deliver ye every man his soul from the fierce anger of the LORD.

46 And ‖ lest your heart faint, and ye fear [i] for the rumour that shall be heard in the land; a rumour shall both come one year, and after that in another year shall come a rumour, and violence in the land, ruler against ruler.

47 Therefore, behold, the days come, that I will * do judgment upon the graven images of Babylon: and her whole land shall be confounded, and all her slain shall fall in the midst of her.

48 Then [m] the heaven and the earth, and all that is therein, shall sing for Babylon: for the spoilers shall come unto her from the north, saith the LORD.

49 ‡ As Babylon hath caused the slain of Israel to fall, so at Babylon shall fall the slain of all [§] the earth.

50 Ye [n] that have escaped the sword, go away, stand not still: remember the LORD afar off, and let Jerusalem come into your mind.

51 We [o] are confounded, because we have heard reproach: shame hath covered our faces: for strangers are come into the sanctuaries of the LORD'S house.

52 Wherefore, behold, the days come, saith the LORD, that I will do judgment upon her graven images: and through all her land the wounded shall groan.

53 Though [p] Babylon should mount up to heaven, and though she should fortify the height of her strength, yet from me shall spoilers come unto her, saith the LORD.

54 A sound of a cry cometh from Babylon, and great destruction from the land of the Chaldeans:

55 Because the LORD hath spoiled Babylon, and destroyed out of her the great voice; when her waves do roar like great waters, a noise of their voice is uttered:

56 Because the spoiler is come upon her, even upon Babylon, and her mighty men are taken, every one of their bows is broken: [a] for the LORD God of recompences shall surely requite.

62 Then shalt thou say, O LORD, thou hast spoken against this place, to cut it off, that [m] none shall remain in it, neither man nor beast, but that it shall be § desolate for ever.

ZEDEKIAH was [t] one and twenty years old when he † began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

2 And he did that which was evil in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim had done.

3 For * through the anger of the LORD it came to pass in Jerusalem and Judah, till he had cast them out from his presence, that Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon.

4 ¶ And it came to pass in the [y] ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon came, he and all his army, against Jerusalem, and [z] pitched against it, and built forts against it round about.

5 So the city was besieged unto the eleventh year of king Zedekiah.

the men of war fled, and went forth out of the city by night by the way of the gate between the two walls, which was by the king's garden; (now the Chaldeans were by the city round about:) and they went by the way of the plain.

8 ¶ But the army of the Chaldeans pursued after the king, and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho; and all his army was scattered from him.

9 Then [a] they took the king, and carried him up unto the king of Babylon to Riblah in the land of Hamath; where he gave judgment upon him.

10 And [b] the king of Babylon slew the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes: he slew also all the princes of Judah in Riblah.

11 Then he † put out the eyes of Zedekiah; and the king of Babylon bound him in § chains, and carried him to Babylon, and put him in ‖ prison till the day of his death.

12 ¶ Now [f] in the fifth month, in the tenth day of the month, [g] which was the nineteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, [h] came Nebuzar-adan, ‡ captain of the guard, which § served the king of Babylon, into Jerusalem,

14 And all the army of the Chaldeans, that were with the captain of the guard, brake down all the walls of Jerusalem round about.

15 Then Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard carried away captive certain of the poor of the people, and the residue of the people that remained in the city, and those that fell away, that fell to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the multitude.

16 But Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard left certain of the poor of the land for vinedressers and for husbandmen.

17 Also the [m] pillars of brass that were in the house of the LORD, and the bases, and the brasen sea that was in the house of the LORD, the Chaldeans brake, and carried all the brass of them to Babylon.

18 The [n] caldrons also, and the [o] shovels, and the snuffers, and the [p] bowls, and the spoons, and all the vessels of brass wherewith they ministered, took they away.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

Ch. IV. 30.—WOMAN WITH PAINTED EYES. The custom of tinging the eyes with a dark powder has obtained from time immemorial among the eastern women. The ancients called this powder stibium or antimony, but it is rather a rich lead ore, not unlike that used in our drawing pencils. The custom is here especially noticed as supplying one of the arts of attraction used by the courtezan, and the "rending," or distending the eyes, may imply the using the powder to excess. It is a strong figure to intimate the loathsome state of Jerusalem.

Ch. XVIII.—POTTER. The potter is frequently mentioned in Scripture: see Jer. xviii. 3; Ecclesiasticus xxxviii. 29, 30, &c. The trade needs no explanation. The potter is used as an emblem of God's power and sovereignty, Ps. ii. 9; Jer. xviii. 6; Rom. ix.

Ch. XXVII.—EASTERN BAKER. In the more ancient times an oven was intended to bake bread for a single family. Hence an allusion expressive of scarcity in Lev. xxvi. 26, that ten women should bake bread in one oven, meaning that there would be so small a supply that one small oven would bake for ten families instead of one. There were, however, anciently, as there now are, public bake-houses.

The LAMENTATIONS of JEREMIAH.

Bewailing over the desolations of Jerusalem and the captivity of Judah.

CHAP. I.

B. C. 588.

HOW doth the city sit solitary, that was full of people! [a] how is she become as a widow! she that was great among the nations, and [c] princess among the provinces, how is she become tributary!

2 She [d] weepeth sore in the [e] night, and her tears are on her cheeks: [f] among all her lovers she hath none to comfort her: all her friends have dealt treacherously with her, they are become her enemies.

3 Judah [g] is gone into captivity because of affliction, and [†] because of great servitude: [h] she dwelleth among the heathen, she findeth no rest: all her persecutors overtook her between the straits.

4 The ways of Zion do mourn, because none come to the solemn feasts: all her gates are desolate: her priests sigh, her virgins are afflicted, and she [i] is in bitterness.

5 Her adversaries are the chief, her enemies prosper; for the LORD hath afflicted her [k] for the multitude of her transgressions: her [l] children are gone into captivity before the enemy.

6 And from the daughter of Zion all her beauty is departed: her princes are become like harts that find no pasture, and they are gone without strength before the pursuer.

7 Jerusalem remembered in the days of her affliction and of her miseries all her [‖] pleasant things that she had in the days of old, when her people fell into the hand of the enemy, and none did help her: the adversaries saw her, and did mock at her sabbaths.

8 Jerusalem [e] hath grievously sinned; therefore she [†] is removed: all that honoured her despise her, because [m] they have seen her nakedness: yea, she sigheth, and turneth backward.

9 Her filthiness is in her skirts; she remembereth not her last end; therefore she came down wonderfully: she had no comforter. O LORD, behold my affliction: for the enemy hath magnified himself.

10 The adversary hath spread out his hand upon all her [‡] pleasant things: for she hath seen that the heathen entered into her sanctuary, whom thou didst command that [o] they should not enter into thy congregation.

11 All her people sigh, [h] they seek bread; they have given their pleasant things for meat [‖] to relieve the soul: see, O LORD, and consider; for I am become vile.

12 ¶ [p] Is it nothing to you, all ye that [†] pass by? behold, and see [d] if there be any sorrow like unto my sorrow, which is done unto me, wherewith the LORD hath afflicted me in the day of his fierce anger.

13 From above hath he sent fire into my bones, and it prevaileth against them: he hath spread a net for my feet, he hath turned me back: he hath made me desolate and faint all the day.

14 The yoke of my transgressions is bound by his hand: they are wreathed, and come up upon my neck: he hath made my strength to fall, the Lord hath delivered me into their hands, from whom I am not able to rise up.

15 The Lord hath trodden under foot all my mighty men in the midst of me: he hath called an assembly against me to crush my young men: [b] the Lord hath trodden [n] the virgin, the daughter of Judah, as in a winepress.

16 For these things I weep; mine eye, mine eye runneth down with water, because the comforter that should [†] relieve my soul is far from me: my children are desolate, because the enemy prevailed.

17 Zion spreadeth forth her hands, and there is none to comfort her: the LORD hath commanded concerning Jacob, that his adversaries should be round about him: Jerusalem is as a menstruous woman among them.

18 ¶ The LORD is [c] righteous; for I have [k] rebelled against his [§] commandment: hear, I pray you, all people, and behold my sorrow: my virgins and my young men are gone into captivity.

19 I called for my lovers, but [l] they deceived me: my priests and mine elders gave up the ghost in the city, while they sought their meat to relieve their souls.

20 Behold, O LORD; for I am in distress: my [m] bowels are troubled; mine heart is turned within me; for I have grievously rebelled: [n] abroad the sword bereaveth, at home there is as death.

21 They have heard that I sigh: there is none to comfort me: all mine enemies have heard of my trouble; they are glad that thou hast done it: thou wilt bring [o] the day that thou hast [p] called, and they shall be like unto me.

22 Let [q] all their wickedness come before thee; and do unto them, as thou hast done unto me for all my transgressions: for my sighs are many, and my heart is faint.

CHAP. II.

HOW hath the Lord covered the daughter of Zion with a cloud in his anger, [r] and cast down from heaven unto the earth [s] the beauty of Israel, and remembered not [n] his footstool in the day of his anger!

2 The Lord hath swallowed up all the habitations of Jacob, and hath not pitied: he hath thrown down in his wrath the strong holds of the daughter of Judah; he hath [§] brought them down to the ground: [t] he hath polluted the kingdom and the princes thereof.

3 He hath cut off in his fierce anger all the horn of Israel: [u] he hath drawn back his right hand from before the enemy, and he burned against Jacob like a flaming fire, which devoureth round about.

4 He [v] hath bent his bow like an enemy: he stood with his right hand as an adversary, and slew [‡] all that were pleasant to the eye in the tabernacle of the daughter of Zion: he poured out his fury like fire.

5 The [w] Lord was as an enemy: he hath swallowed up Israel, he hath swallowed up all her palaces: he hath destroyed his strong holds, and hath increased in the daughter of Judah mourning and lamentation.

6 And he hath violently [x] taken away his [§] tabernacle, [y] as if it were of a garden: he hath destroyed his places of the assembly: the LORD hath caused the solemn feasts and sabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, and hath despised in the indignation of his anger the king and the priest.

7 The Lord hath cast off his altar, he hath abhorred his sanctuary, he hath [a]given up into the hand of the enemy the walls of her palaces; they have made a noise in the house of the LORD, as in the day of a solemn feast.

8 The LORD hath purposed to destroy the wall of the daughter of Zion: [b] he hath stretched out a line, he hath not withdrawn his hand from [†]destroying: therefore he made the rampart and the wall to lament; they languished together.

9 Her gates are sunk into the ground; he hath destroyed and broken her bars: [c] her king and her princes are among the Gentiles: [d] the law is no more; her [e] prophets also find no vision from the LORD.

10 The elders of the daughter of Zion [f] sit upon the ground, and keep silence: they have cast up dust upon their heads; they have girded themselves with sackcloth: the virgins of Jerusalem hang down their heads to the ground.

11 Mine [g] eyes do fail with tears, my bowels are troubled, [h] my liver is poured upon the earth, for the destruction of the daughter of my people; because the children and the sucklings [‡]swoon in the streets of the city.

12 They say to their mothers, Where is corn and wine? when they swooned as the wounded in the streets of the city, when their soul was poured out into their mothers' bosom.

13 What thing shall I take to witness for thee? [i] what thing shall I liken to thee, O daughter of Jerusalem? what shall I equal to thee, that I may comfort thee, O virgin daughter of Zion? for thy breach is great like the sea: who can heal thee?

14 Thy [j] prophets have seen vain and foolish things for thee: and they have not [k] discovered thine iniquity, to turn away thy captivity; but have seen for thee false burdens and causes of banishment.

15 All [l] that pass [†]by [m] clap their hands at thee; they hiss [d] and wag their head at the daughter of Jerusalem, saying, Is this the city that men call [n] The perfection of beauty, The joy of the whole earth?

16 All thine enemies have opened their mouth against thee: they hiss and gnash the teeth: they say, [k] We have swallowed her up: certainly this is the day that we looked for; we have found it, we have seen it.

17 The LORD hath done that which he had [o] devised; he hath fulfilled his word that he had commanded in the days of old: he hath thrown down, and hath not pitied: and he hath caused thine enemy to [||]rejoice over thee, he hath set up the horn of thine adversaries.

18 Their heart cried unto the Lord, O wall of the daughter of Zion, let tears run down like a river day and night: give thyself no rest; let not the apple of thine eye cease.

19 Arise, [p] cry out in the night: in the beginning of the watches [r] pour out thine heart like water before the face of the Lord: lift up thy hands toward him for the life of thy young children, that faint for hunger [s] in the top of every street.

20 ¶ Behold, O LORD, and consider to whom thou hast done this. [t] Shall the women eat their fruit, and children [†]of a span long? shall the priest and the prophet be slain in the sanctuary of the Lord?

21 The [u] young and the old lie on the ground in the streets: my virgins and my young men are fallen by the sword; thou hast slain them in the day of thine anger; thou hast killed, and not pitied.

22 Thou hast called as in a solemn day [b] my terrors round about, so that in the day of the LORD'S anger none escaped nor remained: [c] those that I have swaddled and brought up hath mine enemy consumed.

CHAP. III.

I AM the man that hath seen affliction by the rod of his wrath.

2 He hath led me, and brought me into darkness, but not into light.

3 Surely against me is he turned; he turneth his hand against me all the day.

4 My [a] flesh and my skin hath he made old; he hath [i] broken my bones.

5 He hath builded against me, and compassed me with gall and travel.

6 He [l] hath set me in dark places, as they that be dead of old.

7 He [m]hath hedged me about, that I cannot get out: he hath made my chain heavy.

8 Also when I cry and shout, he shutteth out my prayer.

9 He hath inclosed my ways with hewn stone, he hath made my paths crooked.

10 He [n] was unto me as a bear lying in wait, and as a lion in secret places.

11 He hath turned aside my ways, and [r] pulled me in pieces: he hath made me desolate.

12 He hath bent his bow, and set me as a mark for the arrow.

13 He hath caused [s] the [‡]arrows of his quiver to enter into my reins.

14 I was a [u] derision to all my people; and [v] their song all the day.

15 He [x] hath filled me with [||]bitterness, he hath made me drunken with wormwood.

16 He hath also broken my teeth [a] with gravel stones, he hath [o] covered me with ashes.

17 And thou hast removed my soul far off from peace: I forgat [‡]prosperity.

18 And [c] I said, My strength and my hope is perished from the LORD:

19 [§]Remembering mine affliction and my misery, [d] the wormwood and the gall.

20 My soul hath them still in remembrance, and is [||]humbled in me.

21 This I [e] recall to my mind, therefore have I hope.

22 ¶ It is of the LORD'S mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions fail not.

23 They are new [w]every morning: great is thy faithfulness.

24 The LORD is my [e] portion, saith my soul; therefore will I hope in him.

25 The LORD is good unto them that wait for him, to the soul that seeketh him.

26 It is good that a man should both hope and quietly wait for the salvation of the LORD.

27 It is good for a man that he bear the yoke in his youth.

28 He sitteth alone and keepeth silence, because he hath borne it upon him.

29 He [f] putteth his mouth in the dust; if so be there may be hope.

30 He [w] giveth his cheek to him that smiteth him: he is filled full with reproach.

31 For [x] the Lord will not cast off for ever:

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CH. II. 10.—MOURNING WOMEN. "The virgins of Jerusalem hang down their heads to the ground." Perhaps more is here intended than we, with our moderated passions, suppose. It may allude to the grief of mourners, which in the East is very great. In our cut is represented the way in which mourning women mourn over the burial place of the dead. It is not unlikely that the virgins of Jerusalem are here considered as overwhelmed with grief like those who mourn for the dead. "Who can heal thee?" ch. ii. 13. The city of Jerusalem is represented in ver. 1 as sitting solitary, which is the posture of mourners, weeping at her desolated state like a widow. The same figure was used by Vespasian, on the medal which he had struck after the conquest of Judea, on one side of which was a woman sitting under a palm tree in a plaintive and pensive posture, with this inscription, JUDEA CAPTA. The prophet more decidedly expresses himself respecting the nature of the sorrow which the miseries of his country would excite, in the 9th chapter of his prophecy. "Consider ye and call for the mourning women," &c., to ver. 21, inclusive. Here there is evidently a reference to the very ancient and still subsisting custom of hiring professed mourners to lament over the dead. The Jewish doctors acknowledge the custom, and inform us that it was so common, that the poorest man in Israel, when his wife died, never had less than two pipes, and one mourning woman. 'The root of this custom,' says Kitto, 'seems to be, that the eastern nations require manifestations of strong feeling to be marked, palpable, and exaggerated. Hence their emotions, particularly those of grief, have a most violent and loud expression; and still, unsatisfied and apprehensive that their own spontaneous manifestations of sorrow, when a death occurred, were inadequate to the occasion, and rendered insufficient honour to the dead, they thought of employing practised women to add their effective and manifest tributes of apparent grief. Thus mourning became an art, which devolved on women of shrill voices, copious of tears, and skilful in lamenting and praising the dead in mournful songs and eulogies. When a person in the family died, it was customary for the female relatives to seat themselves upon the ground in a separate apartment, in a circle, in the centre of which sat the wife, daughter, or other nearest relative, and thus assisted by the mourning women, conducted their loud and piercing lamentations. At intervals the mourning women took the leading part, on a signal from the chief mourner; and when the real mourners remained comparatively silent, but attested their grief by sobs, by beating their faces, tearing their hair, and sometimes wounding their persons with their nails, joining also aloud in the lamenting chorus of the hired mourners.' The artist has represented mourners over a Mahometan's grave, and the attitudes are those of domestic mourners who occasionally visit the graves. Professional mourners are not generally employed, but over the uninterred corpse; but sometimes they accompany the chief female mourner in the daily visits which she pays to the grave during the first seven days of mourning, and sometimes go alone to mourn over the grave when she is absolutely unable to attend. They, however, usually take tambourines with them, which are the badges of their calling. These women are great mistresses of melancholy expressions, they squall out at intervals several times together, 'Loo, loo, loo,' in a deep and hollow tone, with several ventriloquous sighs, and use the most expressive sounds, gestures, and commotions. Christianity forbids us not to weep, but teaches us to moderate our grief; and if our friends have died in the Lord, we are to "sorrow not, even as others which have no hope."

CH. V. 4.—WATER-CARRIERS OF THE EAST. The land of the Jews was a land of brooks, of waters, of fountains and depths; they had wells of water of their own, and water which flowed freely and in abundance, but were now obliged to pay for it, for drink and other uses. It would sound strange in England, if a person travelling should propose to pay for drinking of the water at the wells by the road-side. But still stranger is the expression here, "we have drunk our own water for money:" we bought it of our foreign rulers, although we were the natural proprietors of the wells. Here was the hardship. But the sale of water has been usual in the East. All water there, except at a private well or fountain, is free; but it is so far bought, that householders, who have no supply of water close at hand, are necessarily obliged to pay persons for the labour of bringing it, as often as wanted, to their houses, unless this is done by members or servants of the family. The Chaldeans evidently took possession of the wells, fountains, and pools, which were free to the people, or their own private property, and required payment from the persons they supplied with water. As all the water in oriental towns must be fetched from the river or wells, there are men who make it a trade to supply regular customers. Some use a horse, and some an ass, carrying two leathern vessels at once, after the manner of carrying panniers. The water-carriers in general have a well-prepared goat skin, which is usually brought under the arm and compressed by the hand, serving as the mouth of this curious but exceedingly useful vessel. Let the thirsty soul rejoice that there is a fountain opened which is ever full, ever flowing, and that "whosoever will may come and take of the water of life freely."

This prophet, a captive in Babylon, prophesied in the beginning of the captivity, and during twenty two years. His prophecies were to admonish and comfort the captives.

CHAP. I.

NOW it came to pass in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, in the fifth day of the month, as I was among the [a] captives [b] by the river of Chebar, that [c] the heavens were opened, and I saw [d] visions of God.

2 In the fifth day of the month, which was the fifth year of [e] king Jehoiachin's captivity,

3 The word of the LORD came expressly unto ‡ Ezekiel the priest, the son of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans by the river Chebar; and [f] the hand of the LORD was there upon him.

4 ¶ And I looked, and, behold, [g] a whirlwind came [h] out of the north, a great cloud, [i] and a fire ‖ infolding itself, and a brightness was about it, and out of the midst thereof as the colour of amber, out of the midst of the fire.

5 Also [i] out of the midst thereof came the likeness of four living creatures. And [m] this was their appearance; they had the likeness of a man.

6 And every one had four faces, and every one had four wings.

7 And their feet were [o] straight feet; and the sole of their feet was like the sole of a calf's foot: and they sparkled [p] like the colour of burnished brass.

8 And they had the hands of a man under their wings on their four sides; and they four had their faces and their wings.

9 Their wings were joined one to another; they turned not when they went; they went every one straight forward.

10 As for the likeness of their faces, they four [q] had the face of a man, and the face of a lion, on the right side: and they four had the face of an ox on the left side; they four also had the face of an eagle.

11 Thus were their faces: and their wings were [s] stretched upward; two wings of every one were joined one to another, and [t] two covered their bodies.

12 And they went every one straight forward: whither the spirit was to go, they went; and they turned not when they went.

13 As for the likeness of the living creatures, their appearance was like burning coals of fire, [v] and like the appearance of lamps: it went up and down among the living creatures; and the fire was bright, and out of the fire went forth lightning.

14 And the living creatures [y] ran and returned [z] as the appearance of a flash of lightning.

15 ¶ Now as I beheld the living creatures, behold one wheel upon the earth by the living creatures, with his four faces.

16 The appearance of the wheels and their work was [c] like unto the colour of a beryl: and they four had one likeness: and their appearance and their work was as it were [a] a wheel in the middle of a wheel.

17 When they went, they went upon their four sides: and they turned not when they went.

18 As for their rings, they were so high that they were dreadful; and their ‖ rings were [e] full of eyes round about them four.

19 And when the living creatures went, the wheels went by them: and when the living creatures were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up.

20 Whithersoever the spirit was to go, they went, thither was their spirit to go; and the wheels were lifted up over against them: for the spirit † of the living creature was in the wheels.

21 When those went, these went; and when those stood, these stood; and when those were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up over against them: for the spirit § of the living creature was in the wheels.

22 And [k] the likeness of the firmament upon the heads of the living creature was as the colour of the terrible crystal, stretched forth over their heads above.

23 And under the firmament were their wings straight, the one toward the other: every one had two, which covered on this side, and every one had two, which covered on that side, their bodies.

24 And when they went, I heard the noise of their wings, [m] like the noise of great waters, as [o] the voice of the Almighty, the voice of speech, as the noise of an host: when they stood, they let down their wings.

25 And there was a voice from the firmament that was over their heads, when they stood, and had let down their wings.

26 ¶ And above the firmament that was over their heads was the likeness of [q] a throne, [r] as the appearance of a sapphire stone: and upon the likeness of the throne was the likeness as the appearance of a man above upon it.

27 And [s] I saw as the colour of amber, as the appearance of fire round about within it, from the appearance of his loins even upward, and from the appearance of his loins even downward, I saw as it were the appearance of fire, and it had brightness round about.

28 As [v] the appearance of the bow that is in the cloud in the day of rain, so was the appearance of the brightness round about. This was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the LORD. And when I saw it, [y] I fell upon my face, and I heard a voice of one that spake.

CHAP. II.

AND he said unto me, Son of man, stand [b] upon thy feet, and I will speak unto thee.

2 And the spirit entered into me when he spake unto me, and set me upon my feet, that I heard him that spake unto me.

3 And he said unto me, Son of man, I send thee to the children of Israel, to ‡ a rebellious nation that hath rebelled against me: [d] they and their fathers have transgressed against me even unto this very day.

4 For they are § impudent children and stiffhearted. I do send thee unto them; and thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD.

5 And they, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear, (for they are a rebellious house,) yet [a] shall know that there hath been a prophet among them.

6 ¶ And thou, son of man, [b] be not afraid of them, neither be afraid of their words, though [c] briers [d] and thorns be with thee, and thou dost dwell among scorpions: [e] be not afraid of their words, nor be dismayed at their looks, though they be a rebellious house.

7 And thou shalt speak my words unto them, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear: for they are † most rebellious.

8 But thou, son of man, hear what I say unto thee; Be not thou rebellious like that rebellious house: open thy mouth, and [f] eat that I give thee.

9 ¶ And when I looked, behold, [g] an hand was sent unto me; and, lo, a roll of a book was therein;

10 And he spread it before me: and it was written within and without: and there was written therein lamentations, and mourning, and woe.

CHAP. III.

MOREOVER he said unto me, Son of man, eat that thou findest; eat this roll, and go speak unto the house of Israel.

2 So [m] I opened my mouth, and he caused me to eat that roll.

3 And he said unto me, Son of man, cause thy belly to eat, and [n] fill thy bowels with this roll that I give thee. Then did I [o] eat it; and it was in my mouth [p] as honey for sweetness.

4 ¶ And he said unto me, Son of man, go, get thee unto the house of Israel, and speak with my words unto them.

5 For thou art not sent to a people § of a strange speech and of an hard language, but to the house of Israel;

6 Not to many people ‡ of a strange speech and of an hard language, whose words thou canst not understand. [q] Surely, [r] had I sent thee to them, they would have hearkened unto thee.

7 But the house of Israel will not hearken unto thee; [s] for they will not hearken unto me: for all the house of Israel are † impudent and hardhearted.

8 Behold, I have made thy face strong against their faces, and thy forehead strong against their foreheads.

9 As [t] an adamant harder than flint have I made thy forehead: [u] fear them not, neither be dismayed at their looks, though they be a rebellious house.

10 Moreover he said unto me, Son of man, all my words that I shall speak unto thee receive in thine heart, and hear with thine ears.

11 And go, get thee to them of the captivity, unto the children of thy people, and speak unto them, and tell them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear.

12 Then [x] the spirit took me up, and I heard behind me a voice of a great rushing, saying, Blessed be the glory of the LORD from his place.

13 I heard also the noise of the wings of the living creatures that [y] touched one another, and the noise of the wheels over against them, and a noise of a great rushing.

14 So the spirit lifted me up, and took me away, and I went † in bitterness, in the ‡ heat of my spirit; but the hand of the LORD was strong upon me.

15 ¶ Then I came to them of the captivity at Tel-abib, that dwelt by the river of Chebar, and [a] I sat where they sat, and remained there astonished among them seven days.

16 And it came to pass at the end of seven days, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

17 Son of man, I have made thee [f] a watchman unto the house of Israel: therefore hear the word at my mouth, and give them warning from me.

18 When I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; and thou givest him not warning, nor speakest to warn the wicked from his wicked way, to save his life; the same wicked man [k] shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand.

19 Yet if thou warn the wicked, and he turn not from his wickedness, nor from his wicked way, he shall die in his iniquity; [k] but thou hast delivered thy soul.

20 Again, When a [l] righteous man doth turn from his ‡ righteousness, and commit iniquity, and I lay a stumblingblock before him, he shall die: because thou hast not given him warning, he shall die in his sin, and his righteousness which he hath done shall not be remembered; but his blood will I require at thine hand.

21 Nevertheless if thou warn the righteous man, that the righteous sin not, and he doth not sin, he shall surely live, because he is warned; also thou hast delivered thy soul.

22 ¶ And the hand of the LORD was there upon me; and he said unto me, Arise, go forth [r] into the plain, and I will there talk with thee.

23 Then I arose, and went forth into the plain: and, behold, the glory of the LORD stood there, as the glory which I [e] saw by the river of Chebar: [d] and I fell on my face.

24 Then the spirit entered into me, and set me upon my feet, and spake with me, and said unto me, Go, shut thyself within thine house.

25 But thou, O son of man, behold, [s] they shall put bands upon thee, and shall bind thee with them, and thou shalt not go out among them:

26 And [y] I will make thy tongue cleave to the roof of thy mouth, that thou shalt be dumb, and shalt not be to them ‡ a reprover: for they are a rebellious house.

27 But [b] when I speak with thee, I will open thy mouth, and thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; He that heareth, let him hear; and he that forbeareth, let him forbear: for they are a rebellious house.

CHAP. IV.

THOU also, son of man, take thee a tile, and lay it before thee, and pourtray upon it the city, even Jerusalem:

2 And lay siege against it, and build a fort against it, and cast a mount against it; set the camp also against it, and set § battering rams against it round about.

3 Moreover take thou unto thee ‖ an iron pan, and set it for a wall of iron between thee and the city: and set thy face against it, and it shall be besieged, and thou shalt lay siege against it. [d] This shall be a sign to the house of Israel.

that thou shalt lie upon it [a] thou shalt bear their iniquity.

5 For I have laid upon thee the years of their iniquity, according to the number of the days, three hundred and ninety days: [b] so shalt thou bear the iniquity of the house of Israel.

6 And when thou hast accomplished them, lie again on thy right side, and thou shalt bear the iniquity of the house of Judah forty days: I have appointed thee [c] each day for a year.

7 Therefore thou shalt set thy face toward the siege of Jerusalem, and thine arm shall be uncovered, and thou shalt prophesy against it.

8 And, [d] behold, I will lay bands upon thee, and thou shalt not turn thee [†] from one side to another, till thou hast ended the days of thy siege.

9 ¶ Take thou also unto thee wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentiles, and millet, and [‡] fitches, and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof, according to the number of the days that thou shalt lie upon thy side, three hundred and ninety days shalt thou eat thereof.

10 And thy meat which thou shalt eat shall be by weight, twenty shekels a day: from time to time shalt thou eat it.

11 Thou shalt drink also water by measure, the sixth part of an hin: from time to time shalt thou drink.

12 And thou shalt eat it as barley cakes, and thou shalt bake it with dung that cometh out of man, in their sight.

13 And the LORD said, Even thus [m] shall the children of Israel eat their defiled bread among the Gentiles, whither I will drive them.

14 Then said I, Ah Lord GOD! behold, [n] my soul hath not been polluted: for from my youth up even till now have I not eaten of [o] that which dieth of itself, or is torn in pieces; neither came there [p] abominable flesh into my mouth.

15 Then he said unto me, Lo, I have given thee cow's dung for man's dung, and thou shalt prepare thy bread therewith.

16 Moreover he said unto me, Son of man, behold, I will break the [q] staff of bread in Jerusalem: and they shall [r] eat bread by weight, and with care; and they shall drink water by measure, and with astonishment:

17 That they may want bread and water, and be astonied one with another, and [s] consume away for their iniquity.

CHAP. V.

AND thou, son of man, take thee a sharp knife, take thee a barber's razor, [t] and cause it to pass upon thine head and upon thy beard: then take thee balances to weigh, and divide the hair.

2 Thou shalt burn with fire a third part in the midst of the city, when the days of the siege are fulfilled: and thou shalt take a third part, and smite about it with a knife: and a third part thou shalt scatter in the wind; and I will draw out a sword after them.

3 Thou [u] shalt also take thereof a few in number, and bind them in thy [§] skirts.

4 Then take of them again, and cast them into the midst of the fire, and burn them in the fire; for thereof shall a fire come forth into all the house of Israel.

the nations and countries that are round about her.

6 And she hath changed my judgments into wickedness more than the nations, and my statutes more than the countries that are round about her: for they have refused my judgments and my statutes, they have not walked in them.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Because ye multiplied more than the nations that are round about you, and have not walked in my statutes, neither have kept my judgments, [a] neither have done according to the judgments of the nations that are round about you;

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I, even I, am against thee, and will execute judgments in the midst of thee in the sight of the nations.

9 And [b] I will do in thee that which I have not done, and whereunto I will not do any more like, because of all thine abominations.

10 Therefore the fathers [c] shall eat the sons in the midst of thee, and the sons shall eat their fathers; and I will execute judgments in thee, and the whole remnant of thee will I [d] scatter into all the winds.

11 Wherefore, as I live, saith the Lord GOD; Surely, because thou hast [e] defiled my sanctuary with all thy [f] detestable things, and with all thine abominations, therefore will I also diminish thee; [g] neither shall mine eye spare, neither will I have any pity.

12 ¶ A [h] third part of thee shall die with the pestilence, and with famine shall they be consumed in the midst of thee: and a third part shall fall by the sword round about thee; and [i] I will scatter a third part into all the winds, and [k] I will draw out a sword after them.

13 Thus shall mine anger [l] be accomplished, and I will [m] cause my fury to rest upon them, [n] and I will be comforted: [o] and they shall know that I the LORD have spoken it in my zeal, when I have accomplished my fury in them.

14 Moreover [p] I will make thee waste, and a reproach among the nations that are round about thee, in the sight of all that pass by.

15 So it shall be a [q] reproach and a taunt, an instruction and an astonishment unto the nations that are round about thee, when I shall execute judgments in thee in anger and in fury and in [r] furious rebukes. I the LORD have spoken it.

16 When I shall send upon them the evil arrows of famine, which shall be for their destruction, and which I will send to destroy you: and I will increase the famine upon you, and will break your staff of bread:

17 So will I send upon you famine and [s] evil beasts, and they shall bereave thee; and [t] pestilence and blood shall pass through thee; and I will bring the sword upon thee. I the LORD have spoken it.

CHAP. VI.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face toward [i] the mountains of Israel, and prophesy against them,

3 And say, Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD; Thus saith the Lord GOD to the mountains, and to the hills, to the rivers, and to the vallies;

Behold, I, even I, will bring a sword upon you, and I will destroy your high places.

4 And your altars shall be desolate, and your † images shall be broken: and [a] I will cast down your slain men before your idols.

5 And I will § lay the dead carcases of the children of Israel before their idols; and I will scatter your bones round about your altars.

6 In all your dwellingplaces the cities shall be laid waste, and the high places shall be desolate; that your altars may be laid waste and made desolate, and your idols may be broken and cease, and your images may be cut down, and your works may be abolished.

7 And the slain shall fall in the midst of you, and [c] ye shall know that I am the LORD.

8 ¶ Yet [f] will I leave a remnant, that ye may have some that shall escape the sword among the nations, when ye shall be scattered through the countries.

9 And they that escape of you shall remember me among the nations whither they shall be carried captives, because [g] I am broken with their whorish heart, which hath departed from me, and [h] with their eyes, which go a whoring after their idols: and [i] they shall lothe themselves for the evils which they have committed in all their abominations.

10 And they shall know that I am the LORD, and that I have not said in vain that I would do this evil unto them.

11 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; Smite [m] with thine hand, and stamp with thy foot, and say, Alas for all the evil abominations of the house of Israel! for they shall fall by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

12 He that is far off shall die of the pestilence; and he that is near shall fall by the sword; and he that remaineth and is besieged shall die by the famine: thus will I accomplish my fury upon them.

13 Then shall ye know that I am the LORD, when their slain men shall be among their idols round about their altars, [p] upon every high hill, in all the tops of the mountains, and under every green tree, and under every thick oak, the place where they did offer sweet savour to all their idols.

14 So will I [s] stretch out my hand upon them, and make the land desolate, yea, ‡ more desolate than the wilderness toward [v] Diblath, in all their habitations: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

CHAP. VII.

MOREOVER the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Also, thou son of man, thus saith the Lord GOD unto the land of Israel; [z] An end, the end is come upon the four corners of the land.

3 Now is the end come upon thee, and I will send mine anger upon thee, and will judge thee according to thy ways, and will [c] recompense upon thee all thine abominations.

4 And mine eye shall not spare thee, neither will I have pity: but [a] I will recompense thy ways upon thee, and thine abominations shall be in the midst of thee: and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

6 An end is come, the end is come: it [c] watcheth for thee; behold, it is come.

7 The morning is come unto thee, O thou that dwellest in the land: [b] the time is come, the day of trouble is near, and not the ‡ sounding again of the mountains.

8 Now will I shortly [c] pour out my fury upon thee, and accomplish mine anger upon thee: and I will judge thee according to thy ways, and will recompense thee for all thine abominations.

9 And mine eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity: I will recompense || thee according to thy ways and thine abominations that are in the midst of thee; and ye shall know that [d] I am the LORD that smiteth.

10 Behold the day, behold, it is come: the morning is gone forth; the rod hath blossomed, pride hath budded.

11 Violence [e] is risen up into a rod of wickedness: none of them shall remain, nor of their [e] multitude, nor of any of † their's: [b] neither shall there be wailing for them.

12 The time is come, the day draweth near: let not the buyer rejoice, nor the seller mourn: for wrath is upon all the multitude thereof.

13 For the seller shall not return to that which is sold, ‡ although they were yet alive: for the vision is touching the whole multitude thereof, which shall not return; neither shall any strengthen himself § in || the iniquity of his life.

14 They have blown the trumpet, even to make all ready; but none goeth to the battle: for my wrath is upon all the multitude thereof.

15 The [m] sword is without, and the pestilence and the famine within: he that is in the field shall die with the sword; and he that is in the city, famine and pestilence shall devour him.

16 ¶ But they that escape of them shall escape, and shall be on the mountains like doves of the valleys, all of them mourning, every one for his iniquity.

17 All [o] hands shall be feeble, and all knees shall [o] be weak as water.

18 They shall also [r] gird themselves with sackcloth, and [r] horror shall cover them; and shame shall be upon all faces, and baldness upon all their heads.

19 They shall cast their silver in the streets, and their gold shall be † removed: their [n] silver and their gold shall not be able to deliver them in the day of the wrath of the LORD: they shall not satisfy their souls, neither fill their bowels: because § it is [s] the stumblingblock of their iniquity.

20 ¶ As for the beauty of his ornament, he set it in majesty: [y] but they made the images of their abominations and of their detestable things therein: therefore have I || set it far from them.

21 And I will give it into the hands of the strangers for a prey, and to the wicked of the earth for a spoil; and they shall pollute it.

22 [y] My face will I turn also from them, and they shall pollute my secret place: for the † robbers shall enter into it, and defile it.

strong to cease; and * their holy places shall be defiled.

25 † Destruction cometh; and they shall seek peace, and there shall be none.

26 Mischief [a] shall come upon mischief, and rumour shall be upon rumour; [b] then shall they seek a vision of the prophet; but the law shall perish from the priest, and counsel from the ancients.

27 The king shall mourn, and the prince shall be clothed with desolation, and the hands of the people of the land shall be troubled: I will do unto them after their way, and [c] according to their deserts will I judge them; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

CHAP. VIII.

AND it came to pass in the sixth year, in the sixth month, in the fifth day of the month, as I sat in mine house, and [d] the elders of Judah sat before me, that [e] the hand of the LORD GOD fell there upon me.

2 Then I beheld, and lo a likeness as the appearance of fire: from the appearance of his loins even downward, fire; and from his loins even upward, as the appearance of brightness, as the colour of amber.

3 And he [f] put forth the form of an hand, and took me by a lock of mine head; and [g] the spirit lifted me up between the earth and the heaven, and [h] brought me in the visions of God to Jerusalem, to the door of the inner gate that looketh toward the north; [i] where was the seat of the image of jealousy, which * provoketh to jealousy.

4 And, behold, the glory of the God of Israel was there, according to the vision that I [k] saw in the plain.

5 ¶ Then said he unto me, Son of man, lift up thine eyes now the way toward the north. So I lifted up mine eyes the way toward the north, and behold northward at the gate of the altar this image of jealousy in the entry.

6 He said furthermore unto me, Son of man, seest thou what they do? even the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here, that I should go far off from my sanctuary? but turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see greater abominations.

7 ¶ And he brought me to the door of the court; and when I looked, behold a hole in the wall.

8 Then said he unto me, Son of man, dig now in the wall: and when I had digged in the wall, behold a door.

9 And he said unto me, Go in, and behold the wicked abominations that they do here.

10 So I went in and saw; and behold every form of creeping things, and abominable beasts, and all the idols of the house of Israel, pourtrayed upon the wall round about.

11 And there stood before them seventy men of the ancients of the house of Israel, and in the midst of them stood Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan, with every man his censer in his hand; and a thick cloud of incense went up.

12 Then said he unto me, Son of man, hast thou seen what the ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark, every man in the chambers of his imagery? for they say, [l] The LORD seeth us not; the LORD hath forsaken the earth.

13 ¶ He said also unto me, Turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see greater abominations that they do.

14 Then he brought me to the door of the gate of the LORD'S house which was toward the north; and, behold, there sat women weeping for Tammuz.

15 ¶ Then said he unto me, Hast thou seen this, O son of man? turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see greater abominations than these.

16 And he brought me into the inner court of the LORD'S house, and, behold, at the door of the temple of the LORD, [m] between the porch and the altar, were about five and twenty men, [n] with their backs toward the temple of the LORD, and * their faces toward the east; and they worshipped [o] the sun toward the east.

17 ¶ Then he said unto me, Hast thou seen this, O son of man? § Is it a light thing to the house of Judah that they commit the abominations which they commit here? for they have [p] filled the land with violence, and have returned to provoke me to anger: and, lo, they put the branch to their nose.

18 Therefore [k] will I also deal in fury: mine [r] eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity: and though they [s] cry in mine ears with a loud voice, yet will I not hear them.

CHAP. IX.

HE cried also in mine ears with a loud voice, saying, Cause them that have charge over the city to draw near, even every man with his destroying weapon in his hand.

2 And, behold, six men came from the way of the higher gate, which [t] lieth toward the north, and every man [u] a slaughter weapon in his hand; [v] and one man among them was clothed with linen, with a writer's inkhorn † by his side: and they went in, and stood beside the brasen altar.

3 And the glory of the God of Israel was gone up from the cherub, whereupon he was, to the threshold of the house. And he called to the man clothed with linen, which had the writer's inkhorn by his side;

4 And the LORD said unto him, Go through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem, and [x] set [y] a mark upon the foreheads of the men [z] that sigh and that cry for all the abominations that be done in the midst thereof.

5 ¶ And to the others he said in § mine hearing, Go ye after him through the city, and smite: let not your eye spare, neither have ye pity:

6 Slay [ǁ] utterly [y] old and young, both maids, and little children, and women: but [a] come not near any man upon whom is the mark; and [b] begin at my sanctuary. Then they began at the ancient men which were before the house.

7 And he said unto them, Defile the house, and fill the courts with the slain: go ye forth. And they went forth, and slew in the city.

8 ¶ And it came to pass, while they were slaying them, and I was left, that I [c] fell upon my face, and cried, and said, Ah Lord GOD! wilt thou destroy all the residue of Israel in thy pouring out of thy fury upon Jerusalem?

9 Then said he unto me, The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah is exceeding great, and * the land is * full of blood, and the city full of † perverseness: for they say, The LORD hath forsaken the earth, and [d] the LORD seeth not.

10 And as for me also, mine eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity, but [a] I will recompense their way upon their head.

11 And, behold, the man clothed with linen, which had the inkhorn by his side, † reported the matter, saying, I have done as thou hast commanded me.

CHAP. X.

THEN I looked, and, behold, in the [d] firmament that was above the head of the cherubims there appeared over them as it were a sapphire stone, as the appearance of the likeness of a throne.

2 And [e] he spake unto the man clothed with linen, and said, Go in between the wheels, even under the cherub, and fill ‡ thine hand with [f] coals of fire from between the cherubims, and [g] scatter them over the city. And he went in in my sight.

3 Now the cherubims stood on the right side of the house, when the man went in; and the cloud filled the inner court.

4 Then [h] the glory of the LORD [§] went up from the cherub, and stood over the threshold of the house; and [i] the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was full of the brightness of the LORD'S glory.

5 And the sound of the cherubims' wings was heard even to the outer court, as [k] the voice of the Almighty God when he speaketh.

6 And it came to pass, that when he had commanded the man clothed with linen, saying, Take fire from between the wheels, from between the cherubims; then he went in, and stood beside the wheels.

7 And one cherub [l] stretched forth his hand from between the cherubims unto the fire that was between the cherubims, and took thereof, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linen: who took it, and went out.

8 ¶ And [m] there appeared in the cherubims the form of a man's hand under their wings.

9 And [n] when I looked, behold the four wheels by the cherubims, one wheel by one cherub, and another wheel by another cherub: and the appearance of the wheels was as the colour of a beryl stone.

10 And as for their appearances, they four had one likeness, as if [p] a wheel had been in the midst of a wheel.

11 When they went, they went upon their four sides; they turned not as they went, but to the place whither the head looked they followed it; they turned not as they went.

12 And their whole † body, and their backs, and their hands, and their wings, and the wheels, were full of eyes round about, even the wheels that they four had.

13 As for the wheels, I it was cried unto them in my hearing, O wheel.

14 And [q] every one had four faces: the first face was the face of a cherub, and the second face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an eagle.

15 And the cherubims were lifted up. This is [r] the living creature that I saw by the river of Chebar.

16 And when the cherubims went, the wheels went by them: and when the cherubims lifted up their wings to mount up from the earth, the same wheels also turned not from beside them.

17 When they stood, these stood; and when they were lifted up, these lifted up themselves also: for the spirit [s] of the living creature was in them.

18 Then the glory of the LORD [t] departed from off the threshold of the house, and stood over the cherubims.

19 And [u] the cherubims lifted up their wings, and mounted up from the earth in my sight: when they went out, the wheels also were beside them, and every one stood at the door of the east gate of the LORD'S house; and the glory of the God of Israel was over them above.

20 This is the living creature that I saw under the God of Israel [x] by the river of Chebar; and I knew that they were the cherubims.

21 Every [y] one had four faces apiece, and every one four wings; and the likeness of the hands of a man was under their wings.

22 And the likeness of their faces was the same faces which I saw by the river of Chebar, their appearances and themselves: they went every one straight forward.

CHAP. XI.

MOREOVER [z] the spirit lifted me up, and brought me unto [a] the east gate of the LORD'S house, which looketh eastward: and behold [b] at the door of the gate five and twenty men; among whom I saw Jaazaniah the son of Azur, and Pelatiah the son of Benaiah, princes of the people.

2 Then said he unto me, Son of man, these are the men that devise mischief, and give wicked counsel in this city:

3 Which say, ‖ It is not [c] near; let us build houses: [d] this city is the caldron, and we be the flesh.

4 ¶ Therefore prophesy against them, prophesy, O son of man.

5 And [e] the Spirit of the LORD fell upon me, and said unto me, Speak; Thus saith the LORD; Thus have ye said, O house of Israel: for [f] I know the things that come into your mind, every one of them.

6 Ye [g] have multiplied your slain in this city, and ye have filled the streets thereof with the slain.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; [h] Your slain whom ye have laid in the midst of it, they are the flesh, and this city is the caldron: but I will bring you forth out of the midst of it.

8 Ye have feared the sword; and I will bring a sword upon you, saith the Lord GOD.

9 And I will bring you out of the midst thereof, and deliver you into the hands of strangers, and will execute judgments among you.

10 Ye [i] shall fall by the sword; I will judge you in [k] the border of Israel; [l] and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

11 This city shall not be your caldron, neither shall ye be the flesh in the midst thereof, but I will judge you in the border of Israel:

12 And ye shall know that I am the LORD: [m] for ye have not walked in my statutes, neither executed my judgments, but [n] have done after the manners of the heathen that are round about you.

13 ¶ And it came to pass, when I prophesied, that [o] Pelatiah the son of Benaiah died. Then fell I down upon my face, and cried with a loud voice, and said, Ah Lord GOD! wilt thou make a full end of the remnant of Israel?

14 Again the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

15 Son of man, thy brethren, even thy brethren, the men of thy kindred, and all the house of Israel wholly, are they unto whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, Get you far from the LORD: unto us is this land given in possession.

16 Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Although I have cast them far off among the heathen, and although I have scattered them among the countries, [b] yet will I be to them as a little sanctuary in the countries where they shall come.

17 Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [d] I will even gather you from the people, and assemble you out of the countries where ye have been scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel.

18 And they shall come thither, and they [f] shall take away all the detestable things thereof and all the abominations thereof from thence.

19 And [g] I will give them one heart, and I will put [h] a new spirit within you; and I will take [i] the stony heart out of their flesh, and will give them an heart of flesh:

20 That [k] they may walk in my statutes, and keep mine ordinances, and do them: [m] and they shall be my people, and I will be their God.

21 But as for them whose heart walketh after the heart of their detestable things and their abominations, I will recompense their way upon their own heads, saith the Lord GOD.

22 ¶ Then did the cherubims lift up their wings, and the wheels beside them; and the glory of the God of Israel was over them above.

23 And [p] the glory of the LORD went up from the midst of the city, and stood [r] upon the mountain which is on the east side of the city.

24 ¶ Afterwards the spirit took me up, and brought me in a vision by the Spirit of God into Chaldea, to them of the captivity. So the vision that I had seen went up from me.

25 Then I spake unto them of the captivity all the things that the LORD had shewed me.

CHAP. XII.

THE word of the LORD also came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, thou dwellest in the midst of a rebellious house, which have eyes to see, and see not; they [v] have ears to hear, and hear not: for they are a rebellious house.

3 Therefore, thou son of man, prepare thee [§] stuff for removing, and remove by day in their sight; and thou shalt remove from thy place to another place in their sight: it may be they will consider, though they be a rebellious house.

4 Then shalt thou bring forth thy stuff by day in their sight, as stuff for removing: and thou shalt go forth at even in their sight, [‖] as they that go forth into captivity.

5 Dig [a] thou through the wall in their sight, and carry out thereby.

6 In their sight shalt thou bear it upon thy shoulders, and carry it forth in the twilight: thou shalt cover thy face, that thou see not the ground: [b] for I have set thee for a sign unto the house of Israel.

7 And I did so as I was commanded: I brought forth my stuff by day, as stuff for captivity, and in the even I [†] digged through the wall with mine hand; I brought it forth in the twilight, and I bare it upon my shoulder in their sight.

8 ¶ And in the morning came the word of the LORD unto me, saying,

9 Son of man, hath not the house of Israel, the rebellious house, said unto thee, What doest thou?

10 Say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; This [c] burden concerneth the prince in Jerusalem, and all the house of Israel that are among them.

11 Say, I am your sign: like as I have done, so shall it be done unto them: [d] they [e] shall remove and go into captivity.

12 And [f] the prince that is among them shall bear upon his shoulder in the twilight, and shall go forth: they shall dig through the wall to carry out thereby: he shall cover his face, that he see not the ground with his eyes.

13 My [g] net also will I spread upon him, and he shall be taken in my snare: and [i] I will bring him to Babylon to the land of the Chaldeans; yet shall he not see it, though he shall die there.

14 And [j] I will scatter toward every wind all that are about him to help him, and all his bands; and I will draw out the sword after them.

15 And [o] they shall know that I am the LORD, when I shall scatter them among the nations, and disperse them in the countries.

16 But I will leave [†] a few men of them from the sword, from the famine, and from the pestilence; that they may declare all their abominations among the heathen whither they come; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

17 ¶ Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying,

18 Son of man, [s] eat thy bread with quaking, and drink thy water with trembling and with carefulness;

19 And say unto the people of the land, Thus saith the Lord GOD of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and of the land of Israel; They shall eat their bread with carefulness, and drink their water with astonishment, that her land may [t] be desolate from [‡] all that is therein, [u] because of the violence of all them that dwell therein.

20 And the cities that are inhabited shall be laid waste, and the land shall be desolate; and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

21 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

22 Son of man, what is that proverb that ye have in the land of Israel, saying, The [x] days are prolonged, and every vision faileth?

23 Tell them therefore, Thus saith the Lord GOD; I will make this proverb to cease, and they shall no more use it as a proverb in Israel; but say unto them, [y] The days are at hand, and the effect of every vision.

24 For [z] there shall be no more any vain vision nor flattering divination within the house of Israel.

25 For I am the LORD: I will speak, and [a] the word that I shall speak shall come to pass; it shall be no more prolonged: for in your days, O rebellious house, will I say the word, and will perform it, saith the Lord GOD.

26 ¶ Again the word of the LORD came to me, saying,

27 Son of man, behold, they of the house of Israel say, The vision that he seeth is [a] for many days to come, and he prophesieth of the times that are far off.

28 Therefore say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [d] There shall none of my words be prolonged any more, but the word which I have spoken shall be done, saith the Lord GOD.

CHAP. XIII.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel that prophesy, and say thou unto them that [†] prophesy out of their own [h] hearts, Hear ye the word of the LORD;

3 Thus saith the Lord GOD; [i] Woe unto the foolish prophets, that [†] follow their own spirit, [§] and have seen nothing!

4 O Israel, thy prophets are [k] like the foxes in the deserts.

5 Ye [l] have not gone up into the [•] gaps, neither [†] made up the hedge for the house of Israel to stand in the battle in the day of the LORD.

6 They [m] have seen vanity and lying divination, saying, The LORD saith: and the LORD hath not sent them: and they have made others to hope that they would confirm the word.

7 Have ye not seen a vain vision, and have ye not spoken a lying divination, whereas ye say, The LORD saith it; albeit I have not spoken?

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Because ye have spoken vanity, and seen lies, therefore, behold, I am against you, saith the Lord GOD.

9 And mine hand shall be upon the prophets that see vanity, and that divine lies: they shall not be in the [§] assembly of my people, [o] neither shall they be written in the writing of the house of Israel, neither shall they enter into the land of Israel; [t] and ye shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

10 ¶ Because, even because they have seduced my people, saying, [p] Peace; and there was no peace; and one built up [‖] a wall, and, lo, others daubed it with untempered morter:

11 Say unto them which daub it with untempered morter, that it shall fall: [q] there shall be an overflowing shower; and ye, O great hailstones, shall fall; and a stormy wind shall rend it.

12 Lo, when the wall is fallen, shall it not be said unto you, Where is the daubing wherewith ye have daubed it?

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; I will even rend it with a stormy wind in my fury; and there shall be an overflowing shower in mine anger, and great hailstones in my fury to consume it.

14 So will I break down the wall that ye have daubed with untempered morter, and bring it down to the ground, so that [r] the foundation thereof shall be discovered, and it shall fall, and ye shall be consumed in the midst thereof: [s] and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

15 Thus will I accomplish my wrath upon the wall, and upon them that have daubed it with untempered morter, and will say unto you, The wall is no more, neither they that daubed it;

16 To wit, the prophets of Israel which prophesy concerning Jerusalem, and which [u] see visions of peace for her, and there is no peace, saith the Lord GOD.

17 ¶ Likewise, thou son of man, [v] set thy face against the daughters of thy people, which prophesy out of their own heart; and prophesy thou against them,

18 And say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Woe to the women that sew pillows to all [•] armholes, and make kerchiefs upon the head of every stature to hunt souls! Will ye [w] hunt the souls of my people, and will ye save the souls alive that come unto you?

19 And will ye pollute me among my people [x] for handfuls of barley and for pieces of bread, to slay [z] the souls that should not die, and to save the souls alive that should not live, by your lying to my people that hear your lies?

20 Wherefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I am against your pillows, wherewith ye there hunt the souls [‡] to make them fly, and I will tear them from your arms, and will let the souls go, even the souls that ye hunt to make them fly.

21 Your kerchiefs also will I tear, and deliver my people out of your hand, and they shall be no more in your hand to be hunted; and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

22 Because with lies ye have made the heart of the righteous sad, whom I have not made sad; and [a] strengthened the hands of the wicked, that he should not return from his wicked way, [b] by promising him life:

23 Therefore [c] ye shall see no more vanity, nor divine divinations: for I will deliver my people out of your hand: [d] and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

CHAP. XIV.

THEN [e] came certain of the elders of Israel unto me, and sat before me.

2 And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

3 Son of man, these men have set up their [•] idols in their heart, and put [f] the stumblingblock of their iniquity before their face: [g] should I be enquired of at all by them?

4 Therefore speak unto them, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Every man of the house of Israel that setteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the stumblingblock of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to the prophet; [h] I the LORD will answer him that cometh according to the multitude of his idols;

5 That I may take the house of Israel in their own heart, because they are all [i] estranged from me through their idols.

6 ¶ Therefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [k] Repent, and turn [•] yourselves from your idols; and turn away your faces from all your abominations.

7 For every one of the house of Israel, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israel, which separateth himself from me, and setteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the stumblingblock of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to a prophet to enquire of him concerning me; I the LORD will answer him by myself:

8 And [l] I will set my face against that man, and will make him a [§] sign and a proverb, and I will cut him off from the midst of my people; and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

9 And if the prophet be deceived when he hath spoken a thing, I the LORD [e] have deceived that prophet, and I will stretch out my hand upon him, and will destroy him from the midst of my people Israel.

10 And they shall bear the punishment of their iniquity: the punishment of the prophet shall be even as the punishment of him that seeketh unto him;

11 That the house of Israel may [h] go no more astray from me, neither be polluted any more with all their transgressions; [e] but that they may be my people, and I may be their God, saith the Lord GOD.

12 ¶ The word of the LORD came again to me, saying,

13 Son of man, when the land sinneth against me by trespassing grievously, then will I stretch out mine hand upon it, and will break the [f] staff of the bread thereof, and will send famine upon it, and will cut off man and beast from it:

14 Though [h] these three men, Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it, they should deliver but their own souls [i] by their righteousness, saith the Lord GOD.

15 ¶ If I cause [l] noisome beasts to pass through the land, and they ‖ spoil it, so that it be desolate, that no man may pass through because of the beasts:

16 Though these three men were [o] in it, as I live, saith the Lord GOD, they shall deliver neither sons nor daughters; they only shall be delivered, but the land shall be desolate.

17 ¶ Or if [e] I bring a sword upon that land, and say, Sword, go through the land; so that I [p] cut off man and beast from it:

18 Though these three men were in it, as I live, saith the Lord GOD, they shall deliver neither sons nor daughters, but they only shall be delivered themselves.

19 ¶ Or if I send [r] a pestilence into that land, and pour [s] out my fury upon it in blood, to cut off from it man and beast:

20 Though Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it, as I live, saith the Lord GOD, they shall deliver neither son nor daughter; they shall but deliver their own souls [m] by their righteousness.

21 For thus saith the Lord GOD; [o] How much more when [v] I send my four sore judgments upon Jerusalem, the sword, and the famine, and the noisome beast, and the pestilence, to cut off from it man and beast?

22 ¶ Yet, behold, therein shall be left a remnant that shall be brought forth, both sons and daughters: behold, they shall come forth unto you, and [h] ye shall see their way and their doings: and ye shall be comforted concerning the evil that I have brought upon Jerusalem, even concerning all that I have brought upon it.

23 And they shall comfort you, when ye see their ways and their doings: and ye shall know that I have not done [e] without cause all that I have done in it, saith the Lord GOD.

2 Son of man, What [f] is the vine tree more than any tree, or than a branch which is among the trees of the forest?

3 Shall wood be taken thereof to do any work? or will men take a pin of it to hang any vessel thereon?

CHAP. XVI.

AGAIN the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, [h] cause Jerusalem to know her abominations,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord GOD unto Jerusalem; Thy ‖ birth [m] and thy nativity is of the land of Canaan; thy father was an Amorite, and thy mother an Hittite.

4 And as for thy nativity, [n] in the day thou wast born thy navel was not cut, neither wast thou washed in water † to supple thee; thou wast not salted at all, nor swaddled at all.

5 None eye pitied thee, to do any of these unto thee, to have compassion upon thee; but thou wast cast out in the open field, to the lothing of thy person, in the day that thou wast born.

6 ¶ And when I passed by thee, and saw thee ‡ polluted in thine own blood, I said unto thee when thou wast in thy blood, [t] Live; yea, I said unto thee when thou wast in thy blood, Live.

7 I have § caused thee to multiply as the bud of the field, and thou hast increased and waxen great, and thou art come to ‖ excellent ornaments: thy breasts are fashioned, and thine hair is grown, whereas thou wast naked and bare.

8 Now when I passed by thee, and looked upon thee, behold, [v] thy time was the time of love; [y] and I spread my skirt over thee, and covered thy nakedness: yea, I sware unto thee, and entered into a covenant with thee, saith the Lord GOD, and [z] thou becamest mine.

9 Then [a] washed I thee with water; yea, I throughly washed away thy † blood from thee, and I anointed thee with oil.

10 I clothed thee also with broidered work, and shod thee with badgers' skin, and I girded thee about with fine linen, and I covered thee with silk.

11 I decked thee also with ornaments, and I [d] put bracelets upon thy hands, and [e] a chain on thy neck.

12 And I put a jewel on thy ‡ forehead, and earrings in thine ears, and a beautiful crown upon thine head.

13 Thus wast thou decked with gold and silver; and thy raiment was of fine linen, and silk, and broidered work; [f] thou didst eat fine flour, and honey, and oil: and thou wast exceeding [h] beautiful, and thou didst prosper into a kingdom.

14 And [i] thy renown went forth among the heathen for thy beauty: for it was perfect through my comeliness, which I had put upon thee, saith the Lord GOD.

15 ¶ But [b] thou didst trust in thine own beauty, [c] and playedst the harlot because of thy renown, and pouredst out thy fornications on every one that passed by; his it was.

16 And [d] of thy garments thou didst take, and deckedst thy high places with divers colours, and playedst the harlot thereupon: the like things shall not come, neither shall it be so.

17 Thou hast also taken thy fair jewels of my gold and of my silver, which I had given thee, and madest to thyself images [†] of men, and didst commit whoredom with them,

18 And tookest thy broidered garments, and coveredst them: and thou hast set mine oil and mine incense before them.

19 My [f] meat also which I gave thee, fine flour, and oil, and honey, wherewith I fed thee, thou hast even set it before them for [‡] a sweet savour: and thus it was, saith the Lord GOD.

20 Moreover [g] thou hast taken thy sons and thy daughters, whom thou hast borne unto me, and these hast thou sacrificed unto them [‖] to be devoured. Is this of thy whoredoms a small matter, 21 That thou hast slain my children, and delivered them to cause them to pass through the fire for them?

22 And in all thine abominations and thy whoredoms thou hast not remembered the days of thy [i] youth, when thou wast naked and bare, and wast polluted in thy blood.

23 And it came to pass after all thy wickedness, (woe, woe unto thee! saith the Lord GOD;)

24 That thou hast also built unto thee an [†] eminent place, and [e] hast made thee an high place in every street.

25 Thou hast built thy high place [f] at every head of the way, and hast made thy beauty to be abhorred, and hast opened thy feet to every one that passed by, and multiplied thy whoredoms.

26 Thou hast also committed fornication with [i] the Egyptians thy neighbours, great of flesh; and hast increased thy whoredoms, to provoke me to anger.

27 Behold, therefore I have stretched out my hand over thee, and have diminished thine ordinary food, and delivered thee unto the will of them that hate thee, [k] the daughters of the Philistines, which are ashamed of thy lewd way.

28 Thou [l] hast played the whore also with the Assyrians, because thou wast unsatiable; yea, thou hast played the harlot with them, and yet couldest not be satisfied.

29 Thou hast moreover multiplied thy fornication in the land of Canaan unto Chaldea; and yet thou wast not satisfied herewith.

30 How weak is thine heart, saith the Lord GOD, seeing thou doest all these things, the work of an imperious whorish woman;

31 ¶ In that thou buildest thine eminent place in the head of every way, and makest thine high place in every street; and hast not been as an harlot, in that thou scornest hire;

32 But as a wife that committeth adultery, which taketh strangers instead of her husband!

33 They give gifts to all whores: but [a] thou givest thy gifts to all thy lovers, and [e] hirest them, that they may come unto thee on every side for thy whoredom.

34 And the contrary is in thee from other women in thy whoredoms, whereas none followeth thee to commit whoredoms: and in that thou givest a reward, and no reward is given unto thee, therefore thou art contrary.

35 ¶ Wherefore, O harlot, hear the word of the LORD:

36 Thus saith the Lord GOD; Because thy filthiness was poured out, and thy nakedness discovered through thy whoredoms with thy lovers, and with all the idols of thy abominations, and by the blood of thy children, which thou didst give unto them;

37 Behold, therefore [m] I will gather all thy lovers, with whom thou hast taken pleasure, and all them that thou hast loved, with all them that thou hast hated; I will even gather them round about against thee, and will discover thy nakedness unto them, that they may see all thy nakedness.

38 And I will judge thee, [§] as [h] women that break wedlock and [i] shed blood are judged; and I will give thee blood in fury and jealousy.

39 And I will also give thee into their hand, and they shall throw down thine eminent place, and shall break down thy high places: [k] they shall strip thee also of thy clothes, and shall take [o] thy fair jewels, and leave thee naked and bare.

40 They shall also bring up a company against thee, [m] and they shall stone thee with stones, and thrust thee through with their swords.

41 And they shall [n] burn thine houses with fire, and execute judgments upon thee in the sight of many women: and I will cause thee to cease from playing the harlot, and thou also shalt give no hire any more.

42 So [p] will I make my fury toward thee to rest, and my jealousy shall depart from thee, and I will be quiet, and will be no more angry.

43 Because [r] thou hast not remembered the days of thy youth, [s] but hast fretted me in all these things; behold, therefore [t] I also will recompense thy way upon thine head, saith the Lord GOD: and thou shalt not commit this lewdness above all thine abominations.

44 ¶ Behold, every one that useth proverbs shall use this proverb against thee, saying, As is the mother, so is her daughter.

45 Thou art thy mother's daughter, that [u] loatheth her husband and her children; and thou art the sister of thy sisters, which lothed their husbands and their children: your mother was an Hittite, and your father an Amorite.

46 And thine elder sister is Samaria, she and her daughters that dwell at thy left hand: [x] and [§] thy younger sister, that dwelleth at thy right hand, is Sodom and her daughters.

47 Yet hast thou not walked after their ways, nor done after their abominations: but, [a] as if that were a very little thing, [b] thou wast corrupted more than they in all thy ways.

48 As I live, saith the Lord GOD, [c] Sodom thy sister hath not done, she nor her daughters, as thou hast done, thou and thy daughters.

49 Behold, this was the iniquity of thy sister Sodom, pride, [d] fulness of bread, and abundance of idleness was in her and in her daughters, neither did she strengthen the hand of the poor and needy.

50 And they were haughty, and [c] committed abomination before me: therefore [d] I took them away as I saw good.

51 Neither [f] hath Samaria committed half of thy sins; but thou hast multiplied thine abominations more than they, and [g] hast justified thy sisters in all thine abominations which thou hast done.

52 Thou also, which [h] hast judged thy sisters, bear thine own shame for thy sins that thou hast committed more abominable than they: they are more righteous than thou: yea, be thou confounded also, and bear thy shame, in that thou hast justified thy sisters.

53 When [i] I shall bring again their captivity, [k] the captivity of Sodom and her daughters, and the captivity of Samaria and her daughters, then will I bring again the captivity of thy captives [m] in the midst of them:

54 That thou mayest bear thine own shame, and mayest be confounded in all that thou hast done, in that thou art [n] a comfort unto them.

55 When thy sisters, Sodom and her daughters, shall return to their former estate, and Samaria and her daughters shall return to their former estate, then thou and thy daughters shall return to your former estate.

56 For thy sister Sodom [p] was not I mentioned by thy mouth in the day of thy [§] pride, 57 Before thy wickedness was discovered, as at the time of thy [r] reproach of the daughters of [t] Syria, and all that are round about her, the daughters of the Philistines, which [s] despise thee round about.

58 Thou hast [t] borne thy lewdness and thine abominations, saith the LORD.

59 For thus saith the Lord GOD; I will even deal with thee as thou hast done, which hast despised [u] the oath in breaking the covenant.

60 ¶ Nevertheless I will [y] remember my covenant with thee in the days of thy youth, and I will establish unto thee [z] an everlasting covenant.

61 Then [a] thou shalt remember thy ways, and be ashamed, when thou shalt receive thy sisters, thine elder and thy younger: and I will give them unto thee for [b] daughters, [c] but not by thy covenant.

62 And [d] I will establish my covenant with thee; and thou shalt know that I am the LORD:

63 That thou mayest remember, and be confounded, [e] and never open thy mouth any more because of thy shame, when [f] I am pacified toward thee for all that thou hast done, saith the Lord GOD.

CHAP. XVII.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, put forth a riddle, and speak a parable unto the house of Israel;

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [g] A great eagle with great wings, long-winged, full of feathers, which had [§] divers colours, came unto Lebanon, and [h] took the highest branch of the cedar:

4 He cropped off the top of his young twigs, and carried it into a land of traffick; he set it in a city of merchants.

5 He took also of the seed of the land, and [o] planted it in [n] a fruitful field; he placed it by great waters, and set it [b] as a willow tree.

6 And it grew, and became a spreading vine [c] of low stature, whose branches turned toward him, and the roots thereof were under him: so it became a vine, and brought forth branches, and shot forth sprigs.

7 There was also another great eagle with great wings and many feathers: and, behold, this vine did bend her roots toward him, and shot forth her branches toward him, that he might water it by the furrows of her plantation.

8 It was planted in a good †soil by great waters, that it might bring forth branches, and that it might bear fruit, that it might be a goodly vine.

9 Say thou, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Shall it prosper? †shall he not pull up the roots thereof, and cut off the fruit thereof, that it wither? it shall wither in all the leaves of her spring, even without great power or many people to pluck it up by the roots thereof.

10 Yea, behold, being planted, shall it prosper? [e] shall it not utterly wither, when the east wind toucheth it? it shall wither in the furrows where it grew.

11 ¶ Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

12 Say now to the rebellious house, Know ye not what these things mean? tell them, Behold, [f] the king of Babylon is come to Jerusalem, and hath taken the king thereof, and the princes thereof, and led them with him to Babylon;

13 And hath taken of the king's seed, and made a covenant with him, [i] and hath †taken an oath of him: he hath also taken the mighty of the land:

14 That the kingdom might be [n] base, that it might not lift itself up, §but that by keeping of his covenant it might stand.

15 But [o] he rebelled against him in sending his ambassadors into Egypt, [p] that they might give him horses and much people. [q] Shall he prosper? shall he escape that doeth such things? or shall he break the covenant, and be delivered?

16 As I live, saith the Lord GOD, surely [r] in the place where the king dwelleth that made him king, whose oath he despised, and whose covenant he brake, even with him in the midst of Babylon he shall die.

17 Neither [s] shall Pharaoh with his mighty army and great company make for him in the war, [t] by casting up mounts, and building forts, to cut off many persons:

18 Seeing he despised the oath by breaking the covenant, when, lo, he had [u] given his hand, and hath done all these things, he shall not escape.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; As I live, surely mine oath that he hath despised, and my covenant that he hath broken, even it will I recompense upon his own head.

20 And I will [x] spread my net upon him, and he shall be taken in my snare, and I will bring him to Babylon, and [y] will plead with him there for his trespass that he hath trespassed against me.

21 And all his fugitives with all his bands shall fall by the sword, and they that remain shall be scattered toward all winds: and ye shall know that I the LORD have spoken it.

22 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; I will also take of the highest [a] branch of the high cedar, and will set it; I will crop off from the top of his young twigs [b] a tender one, and will [c] plant it upon an high mountain and eminent:

23 In [d] the mountain of the height of Israel will I plant it: and it shall bring forth boughs, and bear fruit, and be a goodly cedar: and [e] under it shall dwell all fowl of every wing; in the shadow of the branches thereof shall they dwell.

24 And all the trees of the field shall know that I the LORD [h] have brought down the high tree, have exalted the low tree, have dried up the green tree, and have made the dry tree to flourish: [i] I the LORD have spoken and have done it.

CHAP. XVIII.

THE word of the LORD came unto me again, saying,

2 What mean ye, that ye use this proverb concerning the land of Israel, saying, The [m] fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge?

3 As I live, saith the Lord GOD, ye shall not have occasion any more to use this proverb in Israel.

4 Behold, all souls are mine; as the soul of the father, so also the soul of the son is mine: [p] the soul that sinneth, it shall die.

5 ¶ But [q] if a man be just, and do [r] that which is lawful and right,

6 And hath not eaten upon the mountains, neither hath lifted up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, neither hath [t] defiled his neighbour's wife, neither hath come near to a menstruous woman,

7 And hath not [u] oppressed any, but hath restored to the debtor his [x] pledge, hath spoiled none by violence, hath [y] given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment;

8 He that hath not given forth upon [z] usury, neither hath taken any increase, that hath withdrawn his hand from iniquity, [a] hath executed true judgment between man and man,

9 Hath walked in my statutes, and hath kept my judgments, to deal truly; he is just, he shall surely live, saith the Lord GOD.

10 ¶ If he beget a son that is a † robber, [b] a shedder of blood, and that doeth the like to any one of these things,

11 And that doeth not any of those duties, but even hath eaten upon the mountains, and defiled his neighbour's wife,

12 Hath oppressed the poor and needy, hath spoiled by violence, hath not restored the pledge, and hath lifted up his eyes to the idols, hath committed abomination,

13 Hath given forth upon usury, and hath taken increase: shall he then live? he shall not live: he hath done all these abominations; he shall surely die; [c] his § blood shall be upon him.

14 ¶ Now, lo, if he beget a son, that seeth all his father's sins which he hath done, and considereth, and doeth not such like,

15 That hath not eaten upon the mountains, neither hath lifted up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, hath not defiled his neighbour's wife,

16 Neither hath oppressed any, hath not † withholden the pledge, neither hath spoiled by violence, but hath given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment,

18 As for his father, because he cruelly oppressed, spoiled his brother by violence, and did that which is not good among his people, lo, even he shall die in his iniquity.

19 ¶ Yet say ye, Why? [k] doth not the son bear the iniquity of the father? When the son hath done that which is lawful and right, and hath kept all my statutes, and hath done them, he shall surely live.

20 The soul that sinneth, it shall die. [l] The son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither shall the father bear the iniquity of the son: [m] the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon him, [n] and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon him.

21 But if the wicked will turn from all his sins that he hath committed, and keep all my statutes, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall surely live, he shall not die.

22 All [o] his transgressions that he hath committed, they shall not be mentioned unto him: in his righteousness that he hath done he shall live.

23 Have [r] I any pleasure at all that the wicked should die? saith the Lord GOD: and not that he should return from his ways, and live?

24 ¶ But when the righteous turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, and doeth according to all the abominations that the wicked man doeth, shall he live? [p] All his righteousness that he hath done shall not be mentioned: in his trespass that he hath trespassed, and in his sin that he hath sinned, in them shall he die.

25 ¶ Yet ye say, The way of the Lord is not equal. Hear now, O house of Israel; Is not my way equal? are not your ways unequal?

26 When a righteous man turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, and dieth in them; for his iniquity that he hath done shall he die.

27 Again, [s] when the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, [t] he shall save his soul alive.

28 Because he considereth, [v] and turneth away from all his transgressions that he hath committed, he shall surely live, he shall not die.

29 Yet saith the house of Israel, The way of the LORD is not equal. O house of Israel, are not my ways equal? are not your ways unequal?

30 Therefore [x] I will judge you, O house of Israel, every one according to his ways, saith the Lord GOD. [k] Repent, and turn yourselves from all your transgressions; so iniquity shall not be your ruin.

31 ¶ Cast [l] away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed; and make you a [m] new heart and a new spirit: for why will ye die, O house of Israel?

32 For [y] I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord GOD: wherefore turn [•] yourselves, and live ye.

8 But they rebelled against me, and would not hearken unto me: they did not every man cast away the abominations of their eyes, neither did they forsake the idols of Egypt: then I said, I will pour out my fury upon them, to accomplish my anger against them in the midst of the land of Egypt.
9 But [c] I wrought for my name's sake, that it should not be polluted before the heathen, among whom they were, in whose sight I made myself known unto them, in bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt.
10 ¶ Wherefore I [f] caused them to go forth out of the land of Egypt, and brought them into the wilderness.
11 And [g] I gave them my statutes, and † shewed them my judgments, [h] which if a man do, he shall even live in them.
12 Moreover also I gave them my [i] sabbaths, to be a sign between me and them, that they might know that I am the LORD [k] that sanctify them.
13 But the house of Israel [m] rebelled against me in the wilderness: they walked not in my statutes, and they [n] despised my judgments, which if a man do, he shall even live in them; and my sabbaths they greatly [p] polluted: then I said, I would pour out my fury upon them in the wilderness, to consume them.
14 But I wrought for my name's sake, that it should not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I brought them out.
15 Yet also [q] I lifted up my hand unto them in the wilderness, that I would not bring them into the land which I had given them, flowing with milk and honey, which is the glory of all lands;
16 Because they despised my judgments, and walked not in my statutes, but polluted my sabbaths: for [r] their heart went after their idols.
17 Nevertheless mine eye spared them from destroying them, neither did I make an end of them in the wilderness.
18 But I said unto their children in the wilderness, Walk ye not in the statutes of your fathers, neither observe their judgments, nor defile yourselves with their idols:
19 I am the LORD your God; [s] walk in my statutes, and keep my judgments, and do them;
20 And [t] hallow my sabbaths; and they shall be a sign between me and you, that ye may know that I am the LORD your God.
21 Notwithstanding [u] the children rebelled against me: they walked not in my statutes, neither kept my judgments to do them, which if a man do, he shall even live in them; they polluted my sabbaths: then I said, I would pour out my fury upon them, to accomplish my anger against them in the wilderness.
22 Nevertheless I withdrew mine hand, and wrought for my name's sake, that it should not be polluted in the sight of the heathen, in whose sight I brought them forth.
23 I lifted up mine hand unto them also in the wilderness, that [i] I would scatter them among the heathen, and disperse them through the countries;
24 Because they had not executed my judgments, but had despised my statutes, and had polluted my sabbaths, and [a] their eyes were after their fathers' idols.

25 Wherefore [b] I gave them also statutes that were not good, and judgments whereby they should not live;

26 And I polluted them in their own gifts, in that they caused to pass [c] through the fire all that openeth the womb, that I might make them desolate, to the end that they might know that I am the LORD.

27 ¶ Therefore, son of man, speak unto the house of Israel, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Yet in this your fathers have [d] blasphemed me, in that they have † committed a trespass against me.

28 For when I had brought them into the land, for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to them, then [e] they saw every high hill, and all the thick trees, and they offered there their sacrifices, and there they presented the provocation of their offering: there also they made their [m] sweet savour, and poured out there their drink offerings.

29 Then § I said unto them, What is the high place whereunto ye go? And the name thereof is called Bamah unto this day.

30 Wherefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [n] Are ye polluted after the manner of your fathers? and commit ye whoredom after their abominations?

31 For when ye offer your gifts, when ye make your sons to pass through the fire, ye pollute yourselves with all your idols, even unto this day: and shall I be enquired of by you, O house of Israel? As I live, saith the Lord GOD, [r] I will not be enquired of by you.

32 And that which cometh into your mind shall not be at all, that ye say, We will be as the heathen, as the families of the countries, to serve wood and stone.

33 ¶ As I live, saith the Lord GOD, surely with a mighty hand, and [s] with a stretched out arm, and with fury poured out, will I rule over you:

34 And I will bring you out from the people, and will gather you out of the countries wherein ye are scattered, with a mighty hand, and with a stretched out arm, and with fury poured out.

35 And I will bring you into the wilderness of the people, and [v] there will I plead with you face to face.

36 Like [x] as I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I plead with you, saith the Lord GOD.

37 And I will cause you to [y] pass under the rod, and [z] I will bring you into [a] the bond of the covenant:

38 And [b] I will purge out from among you the rebels, and them that transgress against me: I will bring them forth out of the country where they sojourn, and [c] they shall not enter into the land of Israel: [d] and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

39 As for you, O house of Israel, thus saith the Lord GOD; [f] Go ye, serve ye every one his idols, and hereafter also, if ye will not hearken unto me: [g] but pollute ye my holy name no more with your gifts, and with your idols.

40 For [h] in mine holy mountain, in the mountain of the height of Israel, saith the Lord GOD, there shall all the house of Israel, all of them in the land, serve me: there [i] will I accept them, and there will

45 ¶ Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

46 Son of man, set thy face toward the south, and drop thy word toward the south, and prophesy against the forest of the south field;

48 And all flesh shall see that I the LORD have kindled it: it shall not be quenched.

49 Then said I, Ah Lord GOD! they say of me, Doth he not speak parables?

CHAP. XXI.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face toward Jerusalem, and [z] drop thy word toward the holy places, and prophesy against the land of Israel,

3 And say to the land of Israel, Thus saith the LORD; Behold, I am against thee, and will draw forth my sword out of his sheath, and will cut off from thee [a] the righteous and the wicked.

4 Seeing then that I will cut off from thee the righteous and the wicked, therefore shall my sword go forth out of his sheath against all flesh from the south to the north:

5 That all flesh may know that I the LORD have drawn forth my sword out of his sheath: it [b] shall not return any more.

6 Sigh [c] therefore, thou son of man, with the breaking of thy loins; and with bitterness sigh before their eyes.

7 And it shall be, when they say unto thee, Wherefore sighest thou? that thou shalt answer, For the tidings; because it cometh: and every heart shall melt, and all hands shall be feeble, and every spirit shall faint, and all knees shall [d] be weak as water: behold, it cometh, and shall be brought to pass, saith the Lord GOD.

8 ¶ Again the word of the LORD came unto me, saying, ter; it is furbished that it may glitter: should we then make mirth? [e] it contemneth the rod of my son, as every tree.

11 And he hath given it to be furbished, that it may be handled: this sword is sharpened, and it is furbished, to give it into the hand of the slayer.

12 Cry and howl, son of man: for it shall be upon my people, it shall be upon all the princes of Israel: ‖ terrors by reason of the sword shall be upon my people: [d] smite therefore upon thy thigh.

13 § Because it is [e] a trial, and what if the sword contemn even the rod? [f] it shall be no more, saith the Lord GOD.

14 Thou therefore, son of man, prophesy, and [h] smite thine [g] hands together, and let the sword be doubled the third time, the sword of the slain: it is the sword of the great men that are slain, which entereth into their privy chambers.

15 I have set the † point of the sword against all their gates, that their heart may faint, and their ruins be multiplied: ah! it is made bright, it is ‡ wrapped up for the slaughter.

17 I will also smite mine hands together, and I will cause my fury to rest: I the LORD have said it.

18 ¶ The word of the LORD came unto me again, saying,

19 Also, thou son of man, appoint thee two ways, that the sword of the king of Babylon may come: both twain shall come forth out of one land: and choose thou a place, choose it at the head of the way to the city.

20 Appoint a way, that the sword may come to Rabbath of the Ammonites, and to Judah in Jerusalem the defenced.

21 For the king of Babylon stood at the § parting of the way, at the head of the two ways, to use divination: he made his [e] arrows bright, he consulted with † images, he looked in the liver.

22 At his right hand was the divination for Jerusalem, to appoint § captains, to open the mouth in the slaughter, to [l] lift up the voice with shouting, to appoint battering rams against the gates, to cast a mount, and to build a fort.

23 And it shall be unto them as a false divination in their sight, [e] to them that have sworn oaths: but he will call to remembrance the iniquity, that they may be taken.

24 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Because ye have made your iniquity to be remembered, in that your transgressions are discovered, so that in all your doings your sins do appear; because, I say, that ye are come to remembrance, ye shall be taken with the hand.

25 ¶ And thou, [l] profane wicked prince of Israel, whose day is come, when iniquity shall have an end,

26 Thus saith the Lord GOD; Remove the diadem, and take off the crown: this shall not be the same: [e] exalt him that is low, and abase him that is high.

CHAP. XXII.

MOREOVER the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Now, thou son of man, wilt thou § judge, wilt thou judge [k] the ‖ bloody city? yea, thou shalt † shew her all her abominations.

3 Then say thou, Thus saith the Lord GOD; The city sheddeth blood in the midst of it, that her time may come, and maketh idols against herself to defile herself.

4 Thou art become guilty in thy blood that thou hast [t] shed; and hast defiled thyself in thine idols which thou hast made; and thou hast caused thy days to draw near, and art come even unto thy years: [m] therefore have I made thee a reproach unto the heathen, and a mocking to all countries.

5 Those that be near, and those that be far from thee, shall mock thee, which art ‡ infamous and much vexed.

6 Behold, the princes of Israel, every one were in thee to their ‖ power to shed blood.

7 In thee have they [u] set light by father and mother: in the midst of thee have they [v] dealt by § oppression with the stranger: in thee have they vexed the fatherless and the widow.

8 Thou hast despised mine holy things, and hast [r] profaned my sabbaths.

9 In thee are [t] men [e] that carry tales to shed blood: and in thee they eat upon the mountains: in the midst of thee they commit lewdness.

10 In thee have they [t] discovered their fathers' nakedness: in thee have they humbled her that was [u] set apart for pollution.

11 And † one hath committed abomination [v] with his neighbour's wife; and † another hath § lewdly defiled his daughter in law; and another in thee hath humbled his sister, his father's daughter.

12 In thee [w] have they taken gifts to shed blood; [x] thou hast taken usury and increase, and thou hast greedily gained of thy neighbours by extortion, and hast forgotten me, saith the Lord GOD.

13 ¶ Behold, therefore I have smitten mine hand at thy dishonest gain which thou hast made, and at thy blood which hath been in the midst of thee.

14 Can thine heart endure, or can thine hands be strong, in the days that I shall deal with thee? I the LORD have spoken it, and will do it.

tries, and [a] will consume thy filthiness out of thee.

16 And thou [•] shalt take thine inheritance in thyself in the sight of the heathen, and [c] thou shalt know that I am the LORD.

17 And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

18 Son of man, [d] the house of Israel is to me become dross: all they are brass, and tin, and iron, and lead, in the midst of the furnace; they are even the [§] dross of silver.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Because ye are all become dross, behold, therefore I will gather you into the midst of Jerusalem.

20 [†] As they gather silver, and brass, and iron, and lead, and tin, into the midst of the furnace, to blow the fire upon it, to melt it; so will I gather you in mine anger and in my fury, and I will leave you there, and melt you.

21 Yea, I will gather you, and blow upon you in the fire of my wrath, and ye shall be melted in the midst thereof.

22 As silver is melted in the midst of the furnace, so shall ye be melted in the midst thereof; and ye shall know that I the LORD have poured out my fury upon you.

23 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

24 Son of man, say unto her, Thou art the land that is not cleansed, nor rained upon in the day of indignation.

25 There [‡] is a conspiracy of her prophets in the midst thereof, like a roaring lion ravening the prey; they [i] have devoured souls; [k] they have taken the treasure and precious things; they have made her many widows in the midst thereof.

26 Her [m] priests have [•] violated my law, and have [n] profaned mine holy things: they have put no [•] difference between the holy and profane, neither have they shewed difference between the unclean and the clean, and have hid their eyes from my sabbaths, and I am profaned among them.

27 Her princes in the midst thereof are like wolves ravening the prey, to shed blood, and to destroy souls, to get dishonest gain.

28 And her prophets have daubed them with untempered morter, seeing vanity, and divining lies unto them, saying, Thus saith the Lord GOD, when the LORD hath not spoken.

29 The [p] people of the land have used [§] oppression, and exercised robbery, and have vexed the poor and needy: yea, they have [r] oppressed the stranger [•] wrongfully.

30 And [s] I sought for a man among them, that should make up the hedge, and [t] stand in the gap before me for the land, that I should not destroy it: but I found none.

31 Therefore have I poured out mine indignation upon them; I have consumed them with the fire of my wrath: their own way have I recompensed upon their heads, saith the Lord GOD.

CHAP. XXIII.

4 And the names of them were Aholah the elder, and Aholibah her sister: and [‡] they were mine, and they bare sons and daughters. Thus were their names; Samaria is [†] Aholah, and Jerusalem [‡] Aholibah.

5 And Aholah played the harlot when she was mine; and she doted on her lovers, on [x] the Assyrians her neighbours,

6 Which were clothed with blue, captains and rulers, all of them desirable young men, horsemen riding upon horses.

7 Thus she [||] committed her whoredoms with them, with all them that were the [•] chosen men of Assyria, and with all on whom she doted: with all their idols she defiled herself.

8 Neither left she her whoredoms brought from Egypt: for in her youth they lay with her, and they bruised the breasts of her virginity, and poured their whoredom upon her.

9 Wherefore I have delivered her into the hand of her lovers, into the hand of the [f] Assyrians, upon whom she doted.

10 These discovered her nakedness: they took her sons and her daughters, and slew her with the sword: and she became [†] famous among women; for they had executed judgment upon her.

11 And when her sister Aholibah saw this, [g] she [§] was more corrupt in her inordinate love than she, and in her whoredoms more than [‡] her sister in her whoredoms.

12 She doted upon the [h] Assyrians her neighbours, captains and rulers clothed most gorgeously, horsemen riding upon horses, all of them desirable young men.

13 Then I saw that she was defiled, that they took both one way,

14 And that she increased her whoredoms: for when she saw men pourtrayed upon the wall, the images of the Chaldeans pourtrayed with vermilion,

15 Girded with girdles upon their loins, exceeding in dyed attire upon their heads, all of them princes to look to, after the manner of the Babylonians of Chaldea, the land of their nativity:

16 And [†] as soon as she saw them with her eyes, she doated upon them, and sent messengers unto them into Chaldea.

17 And the [‡] Babylonians came to her into the bed of love, and they defiled her with their whoredom, and she was polluted with them, and her mind was [||] alienated from them.

18 So she discovered her whoredoms, and discovered her nakedness: then my mind was alienated from her, like as my mind was alienated from her sister.

19 Yet she multiplied her whoredoms, in calling to remembrance the days of her youth, wherein she had played the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20 For she doted upon their paramours, [u] whose flesh is as the flesh of asses, and whose issue is like the issue of horses.

21 Thus thou calledst to remembrance the lewdness of thy youth, in bruising thy teats by the Egyptians for the paps of thy youth.

22 ¶ Therefore, O Aholibah, thus saith the Lord GOD; [z] Behold, I will raise up thy lovers against thee, from whom thy mind is alienated, and I will bring them against thee on every side;

23 The Babylonians, and all the Chaldeans, [a] Pekod, and Shoa, and Koa, and all the Assyrians with them: all of them desirable young men, captains and rulers, great lords and renowned, all of them riding upon horses.

24 And they shall come against thee with [d] chariots, wagons, and wheels, and with an assembly of people, which shall set against thee buckler and shield and helmet round about: and I will set judgment before them, and they shall judge thee according to their judgments.

25 And I will set [f] my jealousy against thee, and they shall deal furiously with thee: they shall take away thy nose and thine ears; and thy remnant shall fall by the sword: they shall take thy sons and thy daughters; and thy residue shall be devoured by the fire.

26 They shall also strip thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy [g] fair jewels.

27 Thus [h] will I make thy lewdness to cease from thee, and thy whoredom brought from the land of Egypt: so that thou shalt not lift up thine eyes unto them, nor remember Egypt any more.

28 For thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I will deliver thee into the hand of them whom thou hatest, into the hand of them from whom thy mind is alienated:

29 And they shall deal with thee [k] hatefully, and shall take away all thy labour, and shall leave thee naked and bare: and the nakedness of thy whoredoms shall be discovered, both thy lewdness and thy whoredoms.

30 I will do these things unto thee, because thou hast [e] gone a whoring after the heathen, and because thou art polluted with their idols.

31 Thou hast walked in the way of thy sister; therefore will I give her [r] cup into thine hand.

32 Thus saith the Lord GOD; Thou shalt drink of thy sister's cup deep and large: [s] thou shalt be laughed to scorn and had in derision; it containeth much.

33 Thou shalt be filled with drunkenness and sorrow, with the cup of astonishment and desolation, with the cup of thy sister Samaria.

34 Thou shalt [u] even drink it and suck it out, and thou shalt break the sherds thereof, and pluck off thine own breasts: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord GOD.

35 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Because thou [v] hast forgotten me, and [w] cast me behind thy back, therefore bear thou also thy lewdness and thy whoredoms.

36 ¶ The LORD said moreover unto me; Son of man, wilt thou § judge [x] Aholah and Aholibah? yea, [b] declare unto them their abominations;

37 That they have committed adultery, and blood is in their hands, and with their idols have they committed adultery, and have also caused their sons, [c] whom they bare unto me, to pass for them through the fire, to devour them.

38 Moreover this they have done unto me: they have defiled my sanctuary in the same day, and [d] have profaned my sabbaths.

39 For when they had slain their children to their idols, then [e] they came the same day into my sanctuary to profane it; and, lo, [f] thus have they done in the midst of mine house.

40 And furthermore, that ye have sent for men ‖ to come from far, [g] unto whom

CHAP. XXIV.

AGAIN in the ninth year, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, write thee the name of the day, even of this same day: the king of Babylon set himself against Jerusalem [t] this same day.

3 And [u] utter a parable unto the rebellious house, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [x] Set on a pot, set it on, and also pour water into it:

4 Gather the pieces thereof into it, even every good piece, the thigh, and the shoulder; fill it with the choice bones.

5 Take the choice of the flock, and burn also the bones under it, and make it boil well, and let them seethe the bones of it therein.

6 ¶ Wherefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Woe to [y] the bloody city, to the pot whose scum is therein, and whose scum is not gone out of it! bring it out piece by piece; let no [d] lot fall upon it.

7 For her blood is in the midst of her; she set it upon the top of a rock; [f] she poured it not upon the ground, to cover it with dust;

8 That it might cause fury to come up to take vengeance; [h] I have set her blood upon the top of a rock, that it should not be covered.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; [k] Woe to the bloody city! I will even make the pile for fire great.

10 Heap on wood, kindle the fire, consume the flesh, and spice it well, and let the bones be burned.

11 Then set it empty upon the coals thereof, that the brass of it may be hot, and may burn, and that [a] the filthiness of it may be molten in it, that the scum of it may be consumed.

12 She hath wearied herself with lies, and her great scum went not forth out of her: her scum shall be in the fire.

13 In thy filthiness is lewdness: because I have purged thee, and thou wast not purged, thou shalt not be purged from thy filthiness any more, [c] till I have caused my fury to rest upon thee.

14 I [d] the LORD have spoken it: it shall come to pass, and I will do it; I will not go back, neither will I spare, neither will I repent; according to thy ways, and according to thy doings, shall they judge thee, saith the Lord GOD.

15 ¶ Also the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

16 Son of man, behold, I take away from thee the desire of thine eyes with a stroke: yet neither shalt thou mourn nor weep, neither shall thy tears [e] run down.

17 † Forbear to cry, [f] make no mourning for the dead, [f] bind the tire of thine head upon thee, and [g] put on thy shoes upon thy feet, and [h] cover not thy ‡ lips, and eat not the bread of men.

18 So I spake unto the people in the morning: and at even my wife died; and I did in the morning as I was commanded.

19 ¶ And the people said unto me, [k] Wilt thou not tell us what these things are to us, that thou doest so?

20 Then I answered them, The word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

21 Speak unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, [l] I will profane my sanctuary, the excellency of your strength, [m] the desire of your eyes, and [n] that which your soul pitieth; [o] and your sons and your daughters whom ye have left shall fall by the sword.

22 And ye shall do as I have done: [p] ye shall not cover your lips, nor eat the bread of men.

23 And your tires shall be upon your heads, and your shoes upon your feet: [r] ye shall not mourn nor weep; but [s] ye shall pine away for your iniquities, and mourn one toward another.

24 Thus [t] Ezekiel is unto you a sign: according to all that he hath done shall ye do: [u] and when this cometh, ye shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

25 Also, thou son of man, shall it not be in the day when I take from them their strength, the joy of their glory, the desire of their eyes, and § that whereupon they set their minds, their sons and their daughters,

26 That he that escapeth in that day shall come unto thee, to cause thee to hear it with thine ears?

27 In [x] that day shall thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, and thou shalt speak, and be no more dumb: and thou shalt be a sign unto them; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

12 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; [m] Because that Edom hath dealt against the house of Judah by † taking vengeance, and hath greatly offended, and revenged himself upon them;

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; I will also stretch out mine hand upon Edom, and will cut off man and beast from it; and I will make it desolate from Teman; and ‡ they of Dedan shall fall by the sword.

14 And [r] I will lay my vengeance upon Edom by the hand of my people Israel: and they shall do in Edom according to mine anger and according to my fury; and they shall know my vengeance, saith the Lord GOD.

15 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; [s] Because the Philistines have dealt by revenge, and have taken vengeance with a despiteful heart, to destroy it || for the old hatred;

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, [t] I will stretch out mine hand upon the Philistines, and I will cut off the [a] Cherethims, [b] and destroy the remnant of the [b] sea coast.

17 And I will execute great † vengeance upon them with furious rebukes; [c] and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I shall lay my vengeance upon them.

CHAP. XXVI.

AND it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the first day of the month, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, [e] because that Tyrus hath said against Jerusalem, Aha, she is broken that was the gates of the people:

she is turned unto me: I shall be replenished, now she is laid waste:

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I am against thee, O Tyrus, and will cause many nations to come up against thee, as the sea causeth his waves to come up.

4 And they shall destroy the walls of Tyrus and break down her towers: I will also scrape her dust from her, and make her like the top of a rock.

5 It shall be a place for the spreading of nets [d] in the midst of the sea: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord GOD: and it shall become a spoil to the nations.

6 And her daughters which are in the field shall be slain by the sword; [f] and they shall know that I am the LORD.

7 ¶ For thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I will bring upon Tyrus Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, [g] a king of kings, from the north, with horses, and with chariots, and with horsemen, and companies, and much people.

8 He shall slay with the sword thy daughters in the field: and he shall [h] make a fort against thee, and ‖ cast a mount against thee, and lift up the buckler against thee.

9 And he shall set engines of war against thy walls, and with his axes he shall break down thy towers.

10 By reason of the abundance of his horses their dust shall cover thee: thy walls shall shake at the noise of the horsemen, and of the wheels, and of the chariots, when he shall enter into thy gates, [i] as men enter into a city wherein is made a breach.

11 With the hoofs of his horses shall he tread down all thy streets: he shall slay thy people by the sword, and thy strong garrisons shall go down to the ground.

12 And they shall [k] make a spoil of thy riches, and make a prey of thy merchandise: and they shall break down thy walls, and destroy ‖ thy pleasant houses: and they shall lay thy stones and thy timber and thy dust in the midst of the water.

13 And [l] I will cause the noise of [m] thy songs to cease; and the sound of thy harps shall be no more heard.

14 And I will make thee like the top of a rock: thou shalt be a place to spread nets upon; thou shalt be built no more: for [n] I the LORD have spoken it, saith the Lord GOD.

15 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD to Tyrus; Shall not the isles [o] shake at the sound of thy fall, when the wounded cry, when the slaughter is made in the midst of thee?

16 Then all the [p] princes of the sea shall come down from their thrones, and lay away their robes, and put off their broidered garments: they shall clothe themselves with [q] trembling; [r] they shall sit upon the ground, and [s] shall tremble at every moment, and be astonished at thee.

17 And they shall take up a [t] lamentation for thee, and say to thee, How art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited [u] of seafaring men, the renowned city, which was [x] strong in the sea, she and her inhabitants, which cause their terror to be on all that haunt it!

18 Now shall the isles tremble in the day of thy fall; yea, the isles that are in the sea shall be troubled at thy departure.

19 For thus saith the Lord GOD; When I shall make thee a desolate city, like the cities that are not inhabited; when I shall bring up the deep upon thee, and great waters shall cover thee;

CHAP. XXVII.

THE word of the LORD came again unto me, saying,

2 Now, thou son of man, [e] take up a lamentation for Tyrus;

3 And say unto Tyrus, [f] O thou that art situate at the entry of the sea, which art [h] a merchant of the people for many isles, Thus saith the Lord GOD; O Tyrus, thou hast said, I am † of perfect beauty.

4 Thy borders are in the midst of the seas, thy builders have perfected thy beauty.

5 They have § made all thy ship boards of fir trees of [i] Senir: they have taken cedars from Lebanon to make masts for thee.

6 Of the oaks of Bashan have they made thine oars; [k] the company of the Ashurites have made thy benches of ivory, brought out of [m] the isles of Chittim.

7 Fine linen with broidered work from Egypt was that which thou spreadest forth to be thy sail; [l] blue and purple from the isles of Elishah was that which covered thee.

8 The inhabitants of Zidon and Arvad were thy mariners: thy wise men, O Tyrus, that were in thee, were thy pilots.

9 The ancients of [n] Gebal and the wise men thereof were in thee thy § calkers: all the ships of the sea with their mariners were in thee to occupy thy merchandise.

10 They of Persia and of Lud and of [p] Phut were in thine army, thy men of war: they hanged the shield and helmet in thee; they set forth thy comeliness.

11 The men of Arvad with thine army were upon thy walls round about, and the Gammadims were in thy towers: they hanged their shields upon thy walls round about; they have made thy beauty perfect.

12 Tarshish [r] was thy merchant by reason of the multitude of all kind of riches; with silver, iron, tin, and lead, they traded in thy fairs.

13 [s] Javan, Tubal, and Meshech, they were thy merchants: they traded [t] the persons of men and vessels of brass in thy [u] market.

14 They of the house of [x] Togarmah traded in thy fairs with horses and horsemen and mules.

15 The men of [y] Dedan were thy merchants; many isles were the merchandise of thine hand: they brought thee for a present horns of ivory and ebony.

16 Syria was thy merchant by reason of the multitude of § the wares of thy making; they occupied in thy fairs with emeralds, purple, and broidered work, and fine linen, and coral, and ‖ agate.

17 Judah, and the land of Israel, they were thy merchants: they traded in thy market [z] wheat of [a] Minnith, and Pannag, and honey, and oil, [b] and [c] balm.

18 Damascus was thy merchant in the multitude of the wares of thy making, for the multitude of all riches; in the wine of Helbon, and white wool.

19 Dan also and Javan [a]going to and fro occupied in thy fairs: bright iron, cassia, and calamus, were in thy market.

20 Dedan [c] was thy merchant in [†] precious clothes for chariots.

21 Arabia, and all the princes of [b] Kedar, they [‡] occupied with thee in lambs, and rams, and goats: in these were they thy merchants.

22 The merchants of [c] Sheba and Raamah, they were thy merchants: they occupied in thy fairs with chief of all spices, and with all precious stones, and gold.

23 Haran, and Canneh, and Eden, the merchants of [d] Sheba, Asshur, and Chilmad, were thy merchants.

24 These were thy merchants in [‖] all sorts of things, in blue [e] clothes, and broidered work, and in chests of rich apparel, bound with cords, and made of cedar, among thy merchandise.

25 The [f] ships of Tarshish did sing of thee in thy market: and thou wast replenished, and made very glorious in the midst of the seas.

26 ¶ Thy rowers have brought thee into great waters: [*] the east wind hath broken thee in the [‡] midst of the seas.

27 Thy [m] riches, and thy fairs, thy merchandise, thy mariners, and thy pilots, thy calkers, and the occupiers of thy merchandise, and all thy men of war, that are in thee, [§] and in all thy company which is in the midst of thee, shall fall into the [‖] midst of the seas in the day of thy ruin.

28 The [*] suburbs shall shake at the sound of the cry of thy pilots.

29 And all that handle the oar, the mariners, and all the pilots of the sea, shall come down from their ships, they shall stand upon the land;

30 And shall cause their voice to be heard against thee, and shall cry bitterly, and shall [] cast up dust upon their heads, they [] shall wallow themselves in the ashes:

31 And they shall [*] make themselves utterly bald for thee, and gird them with sackcloth, and they shall weep for thee with bitterness of heart and bitter wailing.

32 And in their wailing they shall take up a lamentation for thee, and lament over thee, saying, What city is like Tyrus, like the destroyed in the midst of the sea?

33 When thy wares went forth out of the seas, thou filledst many people; thou didst enrich the kings of the earth with the multitude of thy riches and of thy merchandise.

34 In the time when [*] thou shalt be broken by the seas in the depths of the waters thy merchandise and all thy company in the midst of thee shall fall.

35 All the inhabitants of the isles shall be astonished at thee, and their kings shall be sore afraid, they shall be troubled in their countenance.

36 The merchants among the people shall [] hiss at thee; thou shalt be [‖] a terror, and [] never shalt be any more.

CHAP. XXVIII.

THE word of the LORD came again unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, say unto the prince of Tyrus, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [a] Because thine heart is lifted up, and thou hast said, [b] I am a God, I sit in the seat of God, in the [‡] midst of the seas; [c] yet thou art a man, and not God, though thou set thine heart as the heart of God:

3 Behold [f] thou art wiser than Daniel; there is no secret that they can hide from thee:

4 With thy wisdom and with thine understanding thou hast gotten thee riches, and hast gotten gold and silver into thy treasures:

5 By [§] thy [c] great wisdom and [d] by thy traffick hast thou increased thy riches, and thine heart is lifted up because of thy riches:

6 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Because thou hast set thine heart as the heart of God;

7 Behold, therefore I will bring strangers upon thee, [*] the terrible of the nations: and they shall draw their swords against the beauty of thy wisdom, and they shall defile thy brightness.

8 They shall bring thee down to the pit, and thou shalt die the deaths of them that are slain in the midst of the seas.

9 Wilt thou yet say before him that slayeth thee, I am God? but thou shalt be a man, and no God, in the hand of him that [†] slayeth thee.

10 Thou shalt die the deaths of [h] the uncircumcised by the hand of strangers: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord GOD.

11 ¶ Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

12 Son of man, take up a lamentation upon the king of Tyrus, and say unto him, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Thou sealest up the sum, full of wisdom, and perfect in beauty.

13 Thou hast been in [m] Eden the garden of God; every precious stone was thy covering, the [†] sardius, topaz, and the diamond, the [‡] beryl, the onyx, and the jasper, the sapphire, the [§] emerald, and the carbuncle, and gold: the workmanship of [*] thy tabrets and of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou wast created.

14 Thou art the anointed [*] cherub that covereth; and I have set thee so: thou wast upon [m] the holy mountain of God; thou hast walked up and down in the midst of the stones of fire.

15 Thou wast perfect in thy ways from the day that thou wast created, till iniquity was found in thee.

16 By the multitude of thy merchandise they have filled the midst of thee with violence, and thou hast sinned: therefore I will cast thee as profane out of the mountain of God: and I will destroy thee, O covering cherub, from the midst of the stones of fire.

17 Thine heart was lifted up because of thy beauty, thou hast [n] corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy brightness: I will cast thee to the ground, I will lay thee before kings, that they may behold thee.

18 Thou hast defiled thy sanctuaries by the multitude of thine iniquities, by the iniquity of thy traffick; therefore will I bring forth a fire from the midst of thee, it shall devour thee, and I will bring thee to ashes upon the earth in the sight of all them that behold thee.

19 All they that know thee among the people shall be astonished at thee: [o] thou shalt be [‡] a terror, and never shalt thou be any more.

20 ¶ Again the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

21 Son of man, set thy face [d] against Zidon, and prophesy against it, and I will be glorified in the midst of thee: and [b] they shall know that I am the LORD, when I shall have executed judgments in her, and shall be [c] sanctified in her.

22 And say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [f] Behold, I am against thee, O Zidon;

23 For [d] I will send into her pestilence, and blood into her streets; and the wounded shall be judged in the midst of her by the sword upon her on every side; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

24 ¶ And there shall be no more [f] a pricking brier unto the house of Israel, nor any grieving thorn of all that are round about them, that despised them; and they shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

25 Thus saith the Lord GOD; When I shall have [h] gathered the house of Israel from the people among whom they are scattered, and shall be sanctified in them in the sight of the heathen, then shall they dwell in their land that [i] I have given to my servant Jacob.

26 And they shall [l] dwell † safely therein, and shall [m] build houses, and [n] plant vineyards; yea, they shall dwell with confidence, when I have executed judgments upon all those that § despise them round about them; and they shall know that I am the LORD their God.

CHAP. XXIX.

IN the tenth year, in the tenth month, in the twelfth day of the month, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, [p] set thy face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him, and [q] against all Egypt:

3 Speak, and say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [r] Behold, I am against thee, Pharaoh king of Egypt, the great [s] dragon that lieth in the midst of his rivers, which hath said, My river is mine own, and I have made it for myself.

4 But [t] I will put hooks in thy jaws, and I will cause the fish of thy rivers to stick unto thy scales, and I will bring thee up out of the midst of thy rivers, and all the fish of thy rivers shall stick unto thy scales.

5 And I will leave thee thrown into the wilderness, thee and all the fish of thy rivers: thou shalt fall upon the † open fields; [u] thou shalt not be brought together, nor gathered: [b] I have given thee for meat to the beasts of the field and to the fowls of the heaven.

6 And all the inhabitants of Egypt shall know that I am the LORD, because they have been a [d] staff of reed to the house of Israel.

7 When [f] they took hold of thee by thy hand, thou didst break, and rend all their shoulder: and when they leaned upon thee, thou brakest, and madest all their loins to be at a stand.

8 ¶ Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I will bring [g] a sword upon thee, and cut off man and beast out of thee.

9 And the land of Egypt shall be desolate and waste; and they shall know that I am the LORD: because he hath said, The river is mine, and I have made it.

10 Behold, therefore I am against thee, and against thy rivers, [k] and I will make the land of Egypt † utterly waste and desolate, ‡ from the tower of § Syene even unto the border of Ethiopia.

11 No foot of man shall pass through it, nor foot of beast shall pass through it, neither shall it be inhabited forty years.

12 And [a] I will make the land of Egypt desolate in the midst of the countries that are desolate, and her cities among the cities that are laid waste shall be desolate forty years: and I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries.

13 ¶ Yet thus saith the Lord GOD; At the [c] end of forty years will I gather the Egyptians from the people whither they were scattered:

14 And I will bring again the captivity of Egypt, and will cause them to return into the land of Pathros, into the land of their [e] habitation; and they shall be there a † base [f] kingdom.

15 It shall be the basest of the kingdoms; neither shall it exalt itself any more above the nations: for I will diminish them, that they shall no more rule over the nations.

16 And it shall be no more [h] the confidence of the house of Israel, which [o] bringeth their iniquity to remembrance, when they shall look after them: but they shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

17 ¶ And it came to pass in the seven and twentieth year, in the first month, in the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

18 Son of man, [p] Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon caused his army to serve a great service against Tyrus: every head was made bald, and every shoulder was peeled: yet had he no wages, nor his army, for Tyrus, for the service that he had served against it:

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I will give the land of Egypt unto Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon; and he shall take her multitude, and ‖ take her spoil, and take her prey; and it shall be the wages for his army.

20 I have given him the land of Egypt [o] for his labour wherewith he [r] served against it, because they wrought for me, saith the Lord GOD.

21 ¶ In that day [y] will I cause the horn of the house of Israel to bud forth, and I will give thee [z] the opening of the mouth in the midst of them; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

CHAP. XXX.

THE word of the LORD came again unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, prophesy and say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [c] Howl ye, Woe worth the day!

3 For [c] the day is near, even the day of the LORD is near, a cloudy day; it shall be the time of the heathen.

4 And the sword shall come upon Egypt, and great ‡ pain shall be in Ethiopia, when the slain shall fall in Egypt, and they shall take away her multitude, and [h] her foundations shall be broken down.

5 Ethiopia, and § Libya, and Lydia, and [i] all the mingled people, and Chub, and the ‖ men of the land that is in league, shall fall with them by the sword.

6 Thus saith the LORD; They also that uphold Egypt shall fall; and the pride of her power shall come down: [o] from [l] the tower of Syene shall they fall in it by the sword, saith the Lord GOD.

7 And they shall be desolate in the midst of the countries that are desolate, and her cities shall be in the midst of the cities that are wasted.

8 And they shall know that I am the LORD, when I have set a fire in Egypt, and when all her helpers shall be [a] destroyed.

9 In that day [b] shall messengers go forth from me in ships to make the careless Ethiopians afraid, and [c] great pain shall come upon them, as in the day of Egypt: for, lo, it cometh.

10 Thus saith the Lord GOD; I will also make the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon.

11 He and his people with him, [d] the terrible of the nations, shall be brought to destroy the land: and they shall draw their swords against Egypt, and fill the land with the slain.

12 And [f] I will make the rivers ‖ dry, and [g] sell the land into the hand of the wicked: and I will make the land waste, and [h] all that is therein, by the hand of strangers: I the LORD have spoken it.

13 Thus saith the Lord GOD; I will also [i] destroy the idols, and I will cause their images to cease out of Noph; [k] and there shall be no more a prince of the land of Egypt: [l] and I will put a fear in the land of Egypt.

14 And I will make Pathros desolate, and will set fire [m] in ‖ Zoan, [n] and will execute judgments in No.

15 And I will pour my fury upon ‖ Sin, the strength of Egypt; and [p] I will cut off the multitude of No.

16 And I will set fire in Egypt: Sin shall have great pain, and No shall be rent asunder, and Noph shall have distresses daily.

17 The young men of [q] Aven and of † Pi-beseth shall fall by the sword: and these cities shall go into captivity.

18 At [r] Tehaphnehes also the day shall be ‡ darkened, when I shall break there the yokes of Egypt: and the pomp of her strength shall cease in her: as for her, a cloud shall cover her, and her daughters shall go into captivity.

19 Thus [s] will I execute judgments in Egypt: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

20 ¶ And it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the first month, in the seventh day of the month, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

21 Son of man, I have [t] broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt; and, lo, [u] it shall not be bound up to be healed, to put a roller to bind it, to make it strong to hold the sword.

22 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I am against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and will break his arms, the strong, and that which was broken; and I will cause the sword to fall out of his hand.

23 And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries.

24 And I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and put my sword in his hand: but I will break Pharaoh's arms, and he shall groan before him with the groanings of a deadly wounded man.

25 But I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and the arms of Pharaoh shall fall down; and [x] they shall know that I am the LORD, when I shall put my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall stretch it out upon the land of Egypt.

26 And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them among the countries; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

CHAP. XXXI.

AND it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the third month, in the first day of the month, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to his multitude; Whom art thou like in thy greatness?

3 ¶ Behold, [d] the Assyrian was a cedar in Lebanon † with fair branches, and with a shadowing shroud, and of an high stature; and his top was among the thick boughs.

4 The [e] waters made him great, the deep ‖ set him up on high with her rivers running round about his plants, and sent out her [i] little rivers unto all the trees of the field.

5 Therefore [k] his height was exalted above all the trees of the field, and his boughs were multiplied, and his branches became long because of the multitude of waters, when he shot forth.

6 All the [m] fowls of heaven made their nests in his boughs, and under his branches did all the beasts of the field bring forth their young, and under his shadow dwelt all great nations.

7 Thus was he fair in his greatness, in the length of his branches: for his root was by great waters.

8 The cedars in the [r] garden of God could not hide him: the fir trees were not like his boughs, and the chesnut trees were not like his branches; nor any tree in the garden of God was like unto him in his beauty.

9 I have made him fair by the multitude of his branches: so that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, [r] envied him.

10 ¶ Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; [s] Because thou hast lifted up thyself in height, and he hath shot up his top among the thick boughs, and [z] his heart is lifted up in his height;

11 I have therefore delivered him into the hand of the mighty one of the heathen; § he [y] shall surely deal with him: I have driven him out for his wickedness.

12 And strangers, [z] the terrible of the nations, have cut him off, and have left him: [a] upon the mountains and in all the valleys his branches are fallen, and his boughs are broken by all the rivers of the land; and all the people of the earth are gone down from his shadow, and have left him.

13 Upon his ruin shall all the fowls of the heaven remain, and all the beasts of the field shall be upon his branches:

14 To [c] the end that none of all the trees by the waters exalt themselves for their height, neither shoot up their top among the thick boughs, neither their trees ‖ stand up in their height, all that drink water: for [f] they are all delivered unto death, to the nether parts of the earth, in the midst of the children of men, with them that go down to the pit.

15 Thus saith the Lord GOD; In the day when he went down to the grave I caused a mourning: I covered the deep for him, and I restrained the floods thereof, and the great waters were stayed: and I caused Lebanon to [g] mourn for him, and all the trees of the field fainted for him.

16 I made the nations to [a] shake at the sound of his fall, when I [b] cast him down to hell with them that descend into the pit: and [c] all the trees of Eden, the choice and best of Lebanon, all that drink water, shall [d] be comforted in the nether parts of the earth.

17 They alsowent down into hell with him unto them that be slain with the sword; and*theythat were*hisarm,that dwelt under [e] his shadow in the midst of the heathen.

18 ¶ To whom art thou thus like in glory and in greatness among the trees of Eden? yet shalt thou be brought down with the trees of Eden unto the nether parts of the earth: [f] thou shalt lie in the midst of the uncircumcised with them that be slain by the sword. [g] This is Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord GOD.

CHAP. XXXII.

AND it came to pass in the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, in the first day of the month, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, [a] take up a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and say unto him, [b] Thou art like a young lion of the nations, [c] and thou art as a [†] whale in the seas: and thou camest forth with thy rivers, and troubledst the waters with thy feet, and [d] fouledst their rivers.

3 Thus saith the Lord GOD; I will therefore [e] spread out my net over thee with a company of many people; and they shall bring thee up in my net.

4 Then will I leave thee upon the land, I will cast thee forth upon the open field, and [f] will cause all the fowls of the heaven to remain upon thee, and I will fill the beasts of the whole earth with thee.

5 And I will lay thy flesh upon the mountains, and fill the valleys with thy height.

6 I will also water with thy blood the land ‖wherein thou swimmest, even to the mountains; and the rivers shall be full of thee.

7 And when I shall [*] put thee out, [g] I will cover the heaven, and make the stars thereof dark; I will cover the sun with a cloud,and the moon shall not give her light.

8 All the [h] bright lights of heaven will I make I dark over thee, and set darkness upon thy land, saith the Lord GOD.

9 I will also [§] vex the hearts of many people, when I shall bring thy destruction among the nations, into the countries which thou hast not known.

10 Yea, I will make many people amazed [i] at thee, and their kings shall be horribly afraid for thee, when I shall brandish my sword before them; and [j] they shall tremble at every moment, every man for his own life, in the day of thy fall.

11 ¶ For [k] thus saith the Lord GOD; The sword of the king of Babylon shall come upon thee.

12 By the swords of the mighty will I cause thy multitude to fall, [l] the terrible of the nations, all of them: and [m] they shall spoil the pomp of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof shall be destroyed.

13 I will destroy also all the beasts thereof from beside the great waters; [n] neither shall the foot of man trouble them any more, nor the hoofs of beasts trouble them.

14 Then will I make their waters deep, and cause their rivers to run like oil, saith the Lord GOD.

15 When I shall make the land of Egypt desolate,and the country shall be[o] destitute of that whereof it was full, when I shall smite all them that dwell therein, [p] then shall they know that I am the LORD.

16 This is the [q] lamentation wherewith they shall lament her: the daughters of the nations shall lament her: they shall lament for her, even for Egypt, and for all her multitude, saith the Lord GOD.

17 ¶ It came to pass also in the twelfth year, in the fifteenth day of the month, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

18 Son of man, wail for the multitude of Egypt, and [r] cast them down, even her, and the daughters of the famous nations, unto the nether parts of the earth, with them that go down into the pit.

19 Whom [s] dost thou pass in beauty? [t] go down, and be thou laid with the uncircumcised.

20 They shall fall in the midst of them that are slain by the sword: [u] she is delivered to the sword: draw her and all her multitudes.

21 The [x] strong among the mighty shall speak to him out of the midst of hell with them that help him: they are gone down, they lie uncircumcised, slain by the sword.

22 Asshur is there and all her company: his graves are about him: all of them slain, fallen by the sword:

23 Whose [y] graves are set in the sides of the pit, and her company is round about her grave: all of them slain, fallen by the sword, which caused [§] terror in the land of the living.

24 There is [z] Elam and all her multitude round about her grave, all of them slain, fallen by the sword, which are gone down uncircumcised into the nether parts of the earth, which caused their terror in the land of the living; yet have they borne their shame with them that go down to the pit.

25 They have [a] set her a bed in the midst of the slain with all her multitude: her graves are round about him: [b] all of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword, though their terror was caused in the land of the living, yet have they borne their shame with them that go down to the pit: he is put in the midst of them that be slain.

26 There is [c] Meshech, Tubal, and all her multitude: her graves are round about him: all of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword, though they caused their terror in the land of the living.

27 And [d] they shall not lie with the mighty that are fallen of the uncircumcised, which are gone down to hell [‖] with [e] their weapons of war: and they have laid their swords under their heads, [f] but their iniquities shall be upon their bones, though they were the terror of the mighty in the land of the living.

28 Yea, thou shalt be broken in the midst of the uncircumcised, and shalt lie with them that are slain with the sword.

29 There is [g] Edom, her kings, and all her princes, which with their might are [h]laid by them that were slain by the sword: they shall lie with the uncircumcised, and with them that go down to the pit.

30 There [*] be the princes of the north, all of them, and all the [i] Zidonians, which are gone down with the slain; with their terror they are ashamed of their might; and they lie uncircumcised with them that be slain by the sword, and bear their shame with them that go down to the pit.

31 Pharaoh shall see them, and shall be [a] comforted over all his multitude, even Pharaoh and all his army slain by the sword, saith the Lord GOD.

32 For I have caused [b] my terror in the land of the living: and he shall be laid in the midst of the uncircumcised with them that are slain with the sword, even Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord GOD.

CHAP. XXXIII.

AGAIN the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, speak to [c] the children of thy people, and say unto them, [d] When I bring the sword upon a land, if the people of the land take a man of their coasts, and set him for their [e] watchman:

3 If when he seeth the sword come upon the land, [f] he blow the trumpet, and warn the people;

4 Then [†] whosoever heareth the sound of the trumpet, and taketh not warning; if the sword come, and take him away, [g] his blood shall be upon his own head.

5 He [h] heard the sound of the trumpet, and took not warning; his blood shall be upon him. But he that taketh warning shall deliver his soul.

6 But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned; if the sword come, and take any person from among them, he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand.

7 ¶ So [i] thou, O son of man, I have set thee a watchman unto the house of Israel; therefore thou shalt hear the word at my mouth, and warn them from me.

8 When I say unto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt surely die; if thou dost not speak to warn the wicked from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand.

9 Nevertheless, if thou warn the wicked of his way to turn from it; if he do not turn from his way, he shall die in his iniquity; but [k] thou hast delivered thy soul.

10 Therefore, O thou son of man, speak unto the house of Israel; Thus ye speak, saying, If our transgressions and our sins be upon us, and we [l] pine away in them, [m] how should we then live?

11 Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord GOD, [n] I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for [o] why will ye die, O house of Israel?

12 Therefore, thou son of man, say unto the children of thy people, The righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him in the day of his transgression: as for the wickedness of the wicked, [p] he shall not fall thereby in the day that he turneth from his wickedness; neither shall the righteous be able to live for his righteousness in the day that he sinneth.

13 When I shall say to the righteous, that he shall surely live; if he trust to his own righteousness, and commit iniquity, all his righteousnesses shall not be remembered; but for his iniquity that he hath committed, he shall die for it.

14 Again, [q] when I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; if he turn from his sin, and do ‖ that which is lawful and right;

15 If the wicked [r] restore the pledge, [s] give again that he had robbed, walk in the statutes of life, without committing iniquity; he shall surely live, he shall not die.

17 ¶ Yet the children of thy people say, The way of the Lord is not equal: but as for them, their way is not equal.

18 When the righteous turneth from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, he shall even die thereby.

19 But if the wicked turn from his wickedness, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall live thereby.

20 ¶ Yet ye say, The way of the Lord is not equal. O ye house of Israel, I will judge you every one after his ways.

21 ¶ And it came to pass in the twelfth year of our captivity, in the tenth month, in the fifth day of the month, [t] that one that had escaped out of Jerusalem came unto me, saying, [u] The city is smitten.

22 Now [v] the hand of the LORD was upon me in the evening, afore he that was escaped came; and had opened my mouth, until he came to me in the morning; [w] and my mouth was opened, and I was no more dumb.

23 Then the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

24 Son of man, [x] they that inhabit those [*] wastes of the land of Israel speak, saying, [y] Abraham was one, and he inherited the land: [z] but we are many; the land is given us for inheritance.

25 Wherefore say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [a] Ye eat with the blood, and lift up your eyes toward your idols, and [b] shed blood: and shall ye possess the land?

26 Ye stand upon your sword, ye work abomination, and ye defile every one his neighbour's wife: and shall ye possess the land?

27 Say thou thus unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; As I live, surely they that are in the wastes shall fall by the sword, and him that is in the open field [†] will I give to the beasts [†] to be devoured, and they that be in the forts and [c] in the caves shall die of the pestilence.

28 For [d] I will lay the land [§] most desolate, and the [e] pomp of her strength shall cease; and the mountains of Israel shall be desolate, that none shall pass through.

29 Then shall they know that I am the LORD, when I have laid the land most desolate because of all their abominations which they have committed.

30 ¶ Also, thou son of man, the children of thy people still are talking ‖ against thee by the walls and in the doors of the houses, and [f] speak one to another, every one to his brother, saying, Come, I pray you, and hear what is the word that cometh forth from the LORD.

31 And [†] they come unto thee [*] as the people cometh, and [†] they [‡] sit before thee as my people, and they hear thy words, but they will not do them: [†] for with their mouth they [‡] show much love, but [h] their heart goeth after their covetousness.

32 And, lo, thou art unto them as [§] a very lovely song of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can play well on an instrument: for they hear thy words, but they do them not.

33 And [i] when this cometh to pass, (lo, it will come,) then shall they know that a prophet hath been among them.

CHAP. XXXIV.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, prophesy against the [a] shepherds of Israel, prophesy, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD unto the shepherds; [b] Woe be to the shepherds of Israel that do feed themselves! should not the shepherds feed the flocks?

3 Ye [c] eat the fat, and ye clothe you with the wool, [d] ye kill them that are fed: but ye feed not the flock.

4 The [e] diseased have ye not strengthened, neither have ye healed that which was sick, neither have ye bound up that which was broken, neither have ye brought again that which was driven away, neither have ye [f] sought that which was lost; but with [g] force and with cruelty have ye ruled them.

5 And they were [h] scattered, [o] because there is no shepherd: [i] and they became meat to all the beasts of the field, when they were scattered.

6 My sheep wandered through all the mountains, and upon every high hill: yea, my flock was scattered upon all the face of the earth, and none did search or seek after them.

7 ¶ Therefore, ye shepherds, hear the word of the LORD;

8 As I live, saith the Lord GOD, surely because my flock became a prey, and my flock became meat to every beast of the field, because there was no shepherd, neither did my shepherds search for my flock, but the shepherds fed themselves, and fed not my flock;

9 Therefore, O ye shepherds, hear the word of the LORD;

10 Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I am against the shepherds; and [k] I will require my flock at their hand, and cause them to cease from feeding the flock; neither shall the shepherds feed themselves any more; for I will deliver my flock from their mouth, that they may not be meat for them.

11 ¶ For thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I, even I, will both search my sheep, and seek them out.

12 § As a shepherd seeketh out his flock in the day that he is among his sheep that are scattered; so will I seek out my sheep, and will deliver them out of all places where they have been scattered in [p] the cloudy and dark day.

13 And [b] I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Israel by the rivers, and in all the inhabited places of the country.

14 I [r] will feed them in a good pasture, and upon the high mountains of Israel shall their fold be: there [f] shall they lie in a good fold, and in a fat pasture shall they feed upon the mountains of Israel.

15 I will feed my flock, and I will cause them to lie down, saith the Lord GOD.

16 I [s] will seek that which was lost, and bring again that which was driven away, and will bind up that which was broken, and will strengthen that which was sick: but I will destroy [t] the fat and the strong; I will feed them [i] with judgment.

17 And as for you, O my flock, thus saith the Lord GOD; [l] Behold, I judge between [§] cattle and cattle, between the rams and the [||] goats.

19 And as for my flock, they eat that which ye have trodden with your feet; and they drink that which ye have fouled with your feet.

20 ¶ Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD unto them; Behold, I, even I, will judge between the fat cattle and between the lean cattle.

21 Because ye have thrust with side and with shoulder, and pushed all the diseased with your horns, till ye have scattered them abroad;

22 Therefore will I save my flock, and they shall no more be a prey; and I will judge between cattle and cattle.

28 And they shall no more be a prey to the heathen, neither shall the beast of the land devour them; but [x] they shall dwell safely, and none shall make them afraid.

29 And I will raise up for them a [a] plant † of renown, and they shall be no more consumed with hunger in the land, neither bear the shame of the heathen any more.

CHAP. XXXV.

MOREOVER the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face against mount [d] Seir, and [e] prophesy against it,

3 And say unto it, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, O mount Seir, I am against thee, and I will stretch out mine hand against thee, and I will make thee [‡] most desolate.

4 I will lay thy cities waste, and thou shalt be desolate, and thou shalt know that I am the LORD.

5 Because thou hast had a [•] perpetual hatred, and hast [¶] shed the blood of the children of Israel by the [‡] force of the sword in the time of their calamity, [k] in the time that their iniquity had an end:

6 Therefore, as I live, saith the Lord GOD, I will prepare thee unto blood, and blood shall pursue thee: [a] sith thou hast not hated blood, even blood shall pursue thee.

7 Thus will I make mount Seir [b] most desolate, and cut off from it [c] him that passeth out and him that returneth.

8 And [d] I will fill his mountains with his slain men: in thy hills, and in thy valleys, and in all thy rivers, shall they fall that are slain with the sword.

9 [e] I will make thee perpetual desolations, and thy cities shall not return: and [f] ye shall know that I am the LORD.

10 Because thou hast said, These two nations and these two countries shall be mine, and we will [g] possess it; [†] whereas [h] the LORD was there:

11 Therefore, as I live, saith the Lord GOD, I will even do [m] according to thine anger, and according to thine envy which thou hast used out of thy hatred against them; and I will make myself known among them, when I have judged thee.

12 And [n] thou shalt know that I am the LORD, and that I have heard all thy blasphemies which thou hast spoken against the mountains of Israel, saying, They are laid desolate, they are given us [‡] to consume.

13 Thus [o] with your mouth ye have [§] boasted against me, and have multiplied your words against me: I have heard them.

14 Thus saith the Lord GOD; [p] When the whole earth rejoiceth, I will make thee desolate.

15 As thou didst rejoice at the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so will I do unto thee: thou shalt be desolate, O mount Seir, and all Idumea, even all of it: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

CHAP. XXXVI.

ALSO, thou son of man, prophesy unto the [y] mountains of Israel, and say, Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD:

2 Thus saith the Lord GOD; Because [a] the enemy hath said against you, Aha, [b] even the ancient high places [c] are our's in possession:

3 Therefore prophesy and say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [d] Because they have made you desolate, and swallowed you up on every side, that ye might be a possession unto the residue of the heathen, [e] and ye are [†] taken up in the lips of talkers, and are an infamy of the people:

4 Therefore, ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD; Thus saith the Lord GOD to the mountains, and to the hills, to the rivers, and to the valleys, to the desolate wastes, and to the cities that are forsaken, which [f] became a prey and [g] derision to the residue of the heathen that are round about;

5 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; [m] Surely in the fire of my jealousy have I spoken against the residue of the heathen, and against all Idumea, which have appointed my land into their possession with the joy of all their heart, with despiteful minds, to cast it out for a prey.

6 Prophesy therefore concerning the land of Israel, and say unto the mountains, and to the hills, to the rivers, and to the valleys, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I have spoken in my jealousy and in my fury, because ye have [p] borne the shame of the heathen:

[s] Je. 33. 8.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; I have [q] lifted up mine hand, Surely the heathen that are about you, they shall bear their shame.

8 ¶ But ye, O mountains of Israel, ye shall shoot forth your branches, and yield your fruit to my people of Israel; for they are [r] at hand to come.

9 For, behold, I am for you, and I will turn unto you, and ye shall be tilled and sown:

10 And I will multiply men upon you, all the house of Israel, even all of it: and the cities shall be inhabited, and [s] the wastes shall be builded:

11 And [t] I will multiply upon you man and beast; and they shall increase and bring fruit: and I will settle you after your old estates, and will do better unto you than at your beginnings: and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

12 Yea, I will cause men to walk upon you, even my people Israel; [u] and they shall possess thee, and thou shalt be their inheritance, and thou shalt no more henceforth [v] bereave them of men.

13 Thus saith the Lord GOD; Because they say unto you, [r] Thou land devourest up men, and hast bereaved thy nations;

14 Therefore thou shalt devour men no more, neither [‡] bereave thy nations any more, saith the Lord GOD.

15 Neither [w] will I cause men to hear in thee the shame of the heathen any more, neither shalt thou bear the reproach of the people any more, neither shalt thou cause thy nations to fall any more, saith the Lord GOD.

16 ¶ Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

17 Son of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their own land, [x] they defiled it by their own way and by their doings: their way was before me as [y] the uncleanness of a removed woman.

18 Wherefore I poured my fury upon them [z] for the blood that they had shed upon the land, and for their idols wherewith they had polluted it:

19 And I [a] scattered them among the heathen, and they were dispersed through the countries: [c] according to their way and according to their doings I judged them.

20 And when they entered unto the heathen, whither they went, they [f] profaned my holy name, when they said to them, These are the people of the LORD, and are gone forth out of his land.

21 ¶ But I had pity [†] for mine holy name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the heathen, whither they went.

22 Therefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD; I do not this for your sakes, O house of Israel, [i] but for mine holy name's sake, which ye have profaned among the heathen, whither ye went.

23 And I will sanctify my great name, which was profaned among the heathen, which ye have profaned in the midst of them; and the heathen shall know that I am the LORD, saith the Lord GOD, when I shall be [n] sanctified in you before [§] their eyes.

24 For [o] I will take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countries, and will bring you into your own land.

25 ¶ Then [r] will I sprinkle clean water upon you, and ye shall be clean: [s] from all your filthiness, and from all your idols, will I cleanse you.

26 A [a] new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you: and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh, and I will give you an heart of flesh.

27 And I will put my [b] spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments, and do them.

28 And [c] ye shall dwell in the land that I gave to your fathers; [d] and ye shall be my people, and I will be your God.

29 I will also [e] save you from all your uncleannesses: and [f] I will call for the corn, and will increase it, and lay no famine upon you.

30 And [g] I will multiply the fruit of the tree, and the increase of the field, that ye shall receive no more reproach of famine among the heathen.

31 Then [h] shall ye remember your own evil ways, and your doings that were not good, and [i] shall lothe yourselves in your own sight for your iniquities and for your abominations.

32 Not [k] for your sakes do I this, saith the Lord GOD, be it known unto you: be ashamed and confounded for your own ways, O house of Israel.

33 Thus saith the Lord GOD; In the day that I shall have cleansed you from all your iniquities I will also cause you to dwell in the cities, and the wastes shall be builded.

34 And the desolate land shall be tilled, whereas it lay desolate in the sight of all that passed by.

35 And they shall say, This land that was desolate is become like the garden of [l] Eden; and the waste and desolate and ruined cities are become fenced, and are inhabited.

36 Then the heathen that are left round about you shall know that I the LORD build the ruined places, and plant that that was desolate: [m] I the LORD have spoken it, and I will do it.

37 Thus saith the Lord GOD; [n] I will yet for this be enquired of by the house of Israel, to do it for them; I will increase them with men like a flock.

38 As the [†] holy flock, as the flock of Jerusalem in her solemn feasts; so shall the waste cities be filled with flocks of men: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

CHAP. XXXVII.

THE [b] hand of the LORD was upon me, and carried me out [c] in the spirit of the LORD, and set me down in the midst of the valley which was full of bones,

2 And caused me to pass by them round about: and, behold, there were very many in the open [‡] valley; and, lo, they were very dry.

3 And he said unto me, Son of man, can these bones live? And I answered, O Lord GOD, [/] thou knowest.

4 Again he said unto me, [h] Prophesy upon these bones, and say unto them, O ye dry bones, hear the word of the LORD.

5 Thus saith the Lord GOD unto these bones; Behold, I will [i] cause breath to enter into you, and ye shall live:

6 And I will lay sinews upon you, and will bring up flesh upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath in you, and ye shall live; [k] and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

7 So I prophesied as I was commanded: and as I prophesied, there was a noise, and behold a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

8 And when I beheld, lo, the sinews and the flesh came up upon them, and the skin covered them above: but there was no breath in them.

9 Then said he unto me, Prophesy unto the [a] wind, prophesy, son of man, and say to the wind, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [d] Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live.

10 So I prophesied as he commanded me, [e] and the breath came into them, and they lived, and stood up upon their feet, an exceeding great army.

11 ¶ Then he said unto me, Son of man, these bones are [h] the whole house of Israel: behold, they say, [i] Our bones are dried, and our hope is lost: we are cut off for our parts.

12 Therefore prophesy and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD: Behold, O my people, [k] I will open your graves, and cause you to come up out of your graves, and bring you into the land of Israel.

13 And ye shall know that I am the LORD, when I have opened your graves, O my people, and brought you up out of your graves, 14 And [l] shall put my spirit in you, and ye shall live, and I shall place you in your own land: then shall ye know that I the LORD have spoken it, and performed it, saith the LORD.

15 ¶ The word of the LORD came again unto me, saying,

16 Moreover, thou son of man, [s] take thee one stick, and write upon it, For Judah, and for [u] the children of Israel his companions: then take another stick, and write upon it, For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and for all the house of Israel his companions:

17 And [y] join them one to another into one stick; and they shall become one in thine hand.

18 ¶ And when the children of thy people shall speak unto thee, saying, [a] Wilt thou not shew us what thou meanest by these?

19 Say [c] unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I will take the stick of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel his fellows, and will put them with him, even with the stick of Judah, and make them one stick, and they shall be one in mine hand.

20 [d] And the sticks whereon thou writest shall be in thine hand [d] before their eyes.

21 And say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen, whither they be gone, and will gather them on every side, and bring them into their own land:

22 And [f] I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel; and [g] one king shall be king to them all: and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more at all:

23 Neither shall they defile themselves any more with their idols, nor with their detestable things, nor with any of their transgressions: but I will save them out of all their dwellingplaces, wherein they have sinned, and will cleanse them: so shall they be my people, and I will be their God.

24 And [a] David my servant shall be king over them; and [b] they all shall have one shepherd: they shall also walk in my judgments, and observe my statutes, and do them.

25 And they shall dwell in the land that I have given unto Jacob my servant, wherein your fathers have dwelt; and they shall dwell therein, even they, and their children, and their children's children [c] for ever: and [d] my servant David shall be their prince for ever.

26 Moreover I will make a [e] covenant of peace with them; it shall be an everlasting covenant with them: and I will place them, and multiply them, and will set my [f] sanctuary in the midst of them for evermore.

27 My [g] tabernacle also shall be with them: yea, I will be [h]their God, and they shall be my people.

28 And the heathen shall know that I the LORD do [i] sanctify Israel, when my sanctuary shall be in the midst of them for evermore.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son [k] of man, set thy face against [l] Gog, the land of Magog, [m] the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal, and prophesy against him,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I am against thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal:

4 And [n] I will turn thee back, and put hooks into thy jaws, and I will bring thee forth, and all thine army, horses and horsemen, all of them clothed with all sorts of armour, even a great company with bucklers and shields, all of them handling swords:

5 Persia, Ethiopia, and Libya with them; all of them with shield and helmet:

6 [o] Gomer, and all his bands; the house of Togarmah of the north quarters, and all his bands: and many people with thee.

7 Be [p] thou prepared, and prepare for thyself, thou, and all thy company that are assembled unto thee, and be thou a guard unto them.

8 ¶ After [q] many days thou shalt be visited: in the latter years thou shalt come into the land that is brought back from the sword, and is gathered out of many people, against the mountains of Israel, which have been always waste: but it is brought forth out of the nations, and they shall [r] dwell safely all of them.

9 Thou shalt ascend and come [s] like a storm, thou shalt be [t] like a cloud to cover the land, thou, and all thy bands, and many people with thee.

10 Thus saith the Lord GOD; It shall also come to pass, that at the same time shall things come into thy mind, and thou shalt [u] think an evil thought:

11 And thou shalt say, I will go up to the land of unwalled villages; I will [v] go to them that are at rest, that dwell [w] safely, all of them dwelling without walls, and having neither bars nor gates,

12 To [x]take a spoil, and to take a prey; to turn thine hand upon the desolate places that are now inhabited, [y] and upon the people that are gathered out of the nations, which have gotten cattle and goods, that dwell in the [z] midst of the land.

of Tarshish, with all [b] the young lions thereof, shall say unto thee, Art thou come to take a spoil? hast thou gathered thy company to take a prey? to carry away silver and gold, to take away cattle and goods, to take a great spoil?

15 And [d] thou shalt come from thy place out of the north parts, thou, and many people with thee, all of them riding upon horses, a great company, and a mighty army:

17 Thus saith the Lord GOD; Art thou he of whom I have spoken in old time [f] by my servants the prophets of Israel, which prophesied in those days many years that I would bring thee against them?

18 And it shall come to pass at the same time when Gog shall come against the land of Israel, saith the Lord GOD, that my fury shall come up in my face.

19 For in my jealousy [g] and in the fire of my wrath have I spoken, [h] Surely in that day there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel;

20 So that [i] the fishes of the sea, and the fowls of the heaven, and the beasts of the field, and all creeping things that creep upon the earth, and all the men that are upon the face of the earth, shall shake at my presence, [k] and the mountains shall be thrown down, and the [l] steep places shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the ground.

21 And I will [m] call for a sword against him throughout [n] all my mountains, saith the Lord GOD: [o] every man's sword shall be against his brother.

22 And I will [p] plead against him with [q] pestilence and with blood; and [r] I will rain upon him, and upon his bands, and upon the many people that are with him, an overflowing rain, and [s] great hailstones, fire, and brimstone.

23 Thus will I magnify myself, and sanctify myself; and I will be known in the eyes of many nations, and they shall know that I am the LORD.

CHAP. XXXIX.

THEREFORE, thou son of man, prophesy against Gog, and say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I am against thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal:

2 And I will turn thee back, and [t] leave but the sixth part of thee, and will cause thee to come up from the [u] north parts, and will bring thee upon the mountains of Israel:

3 And I will smite thy bow out of thy left hand, and will cause thine arrows to fall out of thy right hand.

4 Thou shalt fall upon the mountains of Israel, thou, and all thy bands, and the people that is with thee: [v] I will give thee unto the ravenous birds of every [w] sort, and to the beasts of the field to [x]be devoured.

5 Thou shalt fall upon the [y] open field: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord GOD.

in [a] the isles: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

7 So will I make my holy name known in the midst of my people Israel; and I will not let them [b] pollute my holy name any more: and the heathen shall know that I am the LORD, the Holy One in Israel.

8 ¶ Behold, [c] it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord GOD; this is the day whereof I have spoken.

9 And they that dwell in the cities of Israel shall go forth, and shall set on fire and burn the weapons, both the shields and the bucklers, the bows and the arrows, and the [e] handstaves, and the spears, and they shall [†] burn them with fire seven years:

10 So that they shall take no wood out of the field, neither cut down any out of the forests; for they shall burn the weapons with fire: [f] and they shall spoil those that spoiled them, and rob those that robbed them, saith the Lord GOD.

11 ¶ And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will give unto Gog a place there of graves in Israel, the valley of the passengers on the east of the sea: and it shall stop the [§] noses of the passengers: and there shall they bury Gog and all his multitude: and they shall call it The valley of [‖] Hamon-gog.

12 And seven months shall the house of Israel be burying of them, [g] that they may cleanse the land.

13 Yea, all the people of the land shall bury them; and it shall be to them a renown the day that [P] I shall be glorified, saith the Lord GOD.

14 And they shall sever out [*] men of continual employment, passing through the land to bury with the passengers those that remain upon the face of the earth, to cleanse it: after the end of seven months shall they search.

15 And the passengers that pass through the land, when any seeth a man's bone, then shall he [‡] set up a sign by it, till the buriers have buried it in the valley of Hamon-gog.

16 And also the name of the city shall be [§] Hamonah. Thus shall they cleanse the land.

17 ¶ And, thou son of man, thus saith the Lord GOD; [‖] Speak unto every feathered fowl, and to every beast of the field, [] Assemble yourselves, and come; gather yourselves on every side to my [] sacrifice that I do sacrifice for you, even a great sacrifice upon the mountains of Israel, that ye may eat flesh, and drink blood.

18 Ye [*] shall eat the flesh of the mighty, and drink the blood of the princes of the earth, of rams, of lambs, and of [‡] goats, of bullocks, all of them of fatlings of Bashan.

19 And ye shall eat fat till ye be full, and drink blood till ye be drunken, of my sacrifice which I have sacrificed for you.

20 Thus [§] ye shall be filled at my table with horses and chariots, [k] with mighty men, and with all men of war, saith the Lord GOD.

21 And [i] I will set my glory among the heathen, and all the heathen shall see my judgment that I have executed, and [k] my hand that I have laid upon them.

22 So [l] the house of Israel shall know that I am the LORD their God from that day and forward.

CHAP. XL.

IN the five and twentieth year of our captivity, in the beginning of the year, in the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after that [r] the city was smitten, in the self same day [s] the hand of the LORD was upon me, and brought me thither.

2 In [t] the visions of God brought he me into the land of Israel, [u] and set me upon a very high mountain, [†] by which was as the frame of a city on the south.

3 And he brought me thither, and, behold, there was a man, whose appearance was [v] like the appearance of brass, [w] with a line of flax in his hand, [y] and a measuring reed; and he stood in the gate.

4 And the man said unto me, [z] Son of man, behold with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears, and set thine heart upon all that I shall shew thee; for to the intent that I might shew them unto thee art thou brought hither: [a] declare all that thou seest to the house of Israel.

5 And behold [d] a wall on the outside of the house round about, and in the man's hand a measuring reed of six cubits long by the cubit and an hand breadth: so he measured the breadth of the building, one reed; and the height, one reed.

6 ¶ Then came he unto the gate [†] which looketh toward the east, and went up the stairs thereof, and measured the threshold of the gate, which was one reed broad; and the other threshold of the gate, which was one reed broad.

7 And every little chamber was one reed long, and one reed broad; and between the little chambers were five cubits; and the threshold of the gate by the porch of the gate within was one reed.

8 He measured also the porch of the gate within, one reed.

9 Then measured he the porch of the gate, eight cubits; and the posts thereof, two cubits; and the porch of the gate was inward.

10 And the little chambers of the gate eastward were three on this side, and three on that side; they three were of one measure: and the posts had one measure on this side and on that side.

11 And he measured the breadth of the entry of the gate, ten cubits; and the length of the gate, thirteen cubits.

12 The [a]space also before the little chambers was one cubit on this side, and the space was one cubit on that side: and the little chambers were six cubits on this side, and six cubits on that side.

13 He measured then the gate from the roof of one little chamber to the roof of another: the breadth was five and twenty cubits, door against door.

14 He made also posts of threescore cubits, even unto the post of [b] the court round about the gate.

15 And from the face of the gate of the entrance unto the face of the porch of the inner gate were fifty cubits.

16 And [c] there were narrow windows to the little chambers, and to their posts within the gate round about, and likewise to the [§] arches: and windows were round about [||]inward: and upon each post were [d] palm trees.

17 Then brought he me into [e] the outward court, and, lo, there were chambers, and a pavement made for the court round about: [§] thirty chambers were upon the pavement.

18 And the pavement by the side of the gates over against the length of the gates was the lower pavement.

19 Then he measured the breadth from the forefront of the lower gate unto the forefront of the inner court [e] without, an hundred cubits eastward and northward.

20 ¶ And the gate of the outward court [†] that looked toward the north, he measured the length thereof, and the breadth thereof.

21 And the little chambers thereof were three on this side and three on that side; and the posts thereof and the [‡] arches thereof were after the measure of the first gate: the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

22 And their windows, and their arches, and their palm trees, were after the measure of the gate that looketh toward the east; and they went up unto it by seven steps; and the arches thereof were before them.

23 And the gate of the inner court was over against the gate toward the north, and toward the east; and he measured from gate to gate an hundred cubits.

24 ¶ After that he brought me toward the south, and behold a gate toward the south: and he measured the posts thereof and the arches thereof according to these measures.

25 And there were windows in it and in the arches thereof round about, like those windows: the length was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

26 And there were seven steps to go up to it, and the arches thereof were before them: and it had palm trees, one on this side, and another on that side, upon the posts thereof.

27 And there was a gate in the inner court toward the south: and he measured from gate to gate toward the south an hundred cubits.

28 And he brought me to the inner court by the south gate: and he measured the south gate according to these measures;

29 And the little chambers thereof, and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, according to these measures: and there were windows in it and in the arches thereof round about: it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

30 And the arches round about were [a] five and twenty cubits long, and five cubits † broad.

31 And the arches thereof were toward the utter court; and palm trees were upon the posts thereof: and the going up to it had eight steps.

32 ¶ And he brought me into the inner court toward the east: and he measured the gate according to these measures.

33 And the little chambers thereof, and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, were according to these measures: and there were windows therein and in the arches thereof round about: it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

34 And the arches thereof were toward the outward court; and palm trees were upon the posts thereof, on this side, and on that side: and the going up to it had eight steps.

35 ¶ And he brought me to the north gate, and measured it according to these measures;

36 The little chambers thereof, the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, and the windows to it round about: the length was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

37 And the posts thereof were toward the utter court; and palm trees were upon the posts thereof, on this side, and on that side: and the going up to it had eight steps.

38 And the chambers and the entries thereof were by the posts of the gates, where [h] they washed the burnt offering.

39 ¶ And in the porch of the gate were two tables on this side, and two tables on that side, to slay thereon the burnt offering and [i] the sin offering and [k] the trespass offering.

40 And at the side without, [§] as one goeth up to the entry of the north gate, were two tables; and on the other side, which was at the porch of the gate, were two tables.

41 Four tables were on this side, and four tables on that side, by the side of the gate; eight tables, whereupon they slew their sacrifices.

42 And the four tables were of hewn stone for the burnt offering, of a cubit and an half long, and a cubit and an half broad, and one cubit high: whereupon also they laid the instruments wherewith they slew the burnt offering and the sacrifice.

43 And within were [||] hooks, an hand broad, fastened round about: and upon the tables was the flesh of the offering.

44 ¶ And without the inner gate were the chambers of [l] the singers in the inner court, which was at the side of the north gate; and their prospect was toward the south: one at the side of the east gate having the prospect toward the north.

45 And he said unto me, This chamber, whose prospect is toward the south, is for the priests, [m] the keepers of the [e] charge of the house.

46 And the chamber whose prospect is toward the north is for the priests, [n] the keepers of the charge of the altar: these are the sons of [e] Zadok among the sons of Levi, which [p] come near to the LORD to minister unto him.

47 So he measured the court, an hundred cubits long, and an hundred cubits broad, foursquare; and the altar that was before the house.

48 ¶ And he brought me to the porch of the house, and measured each post of the porch, five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubits on this side, and three cubits on that side.

49 The [a] length of the porch was twenty cubits, and the breadth eleven cubits; and he brought me by the steps whereby they went up to it: and there were [b] pillars by the posts, one on this side, and another on that side.

CHAP. XLI.

AFTERWARD he brought me to [d] the temple, and measured the posts, six cubits broad on the one side, and six cubits broad on the other side, which was the breadth of the tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the ‖ door was ten cubits; and the sides of the door were five cubits on the one side, and five cubits on the other side: and he measured the length thereof, forty cubits: and the breadth, twenty cubits.

3 Then went he inward, and measured the post of the door, two cubits; and the door, six cubits; and the breadth of the door, seven cubits.

4 So [d] he measured the length thereof, twenty cubits; and the breadth, twenty cubits, before the temple: and he said unto me, [h] This is the most holy place.

5 After he measured the wall of the house, six cubits; and the breadth of every side chamber, four cubits, round about the house on every side.

6 And [i] the side chambers were three, † one over another, and ‡ thirty in order; and they entered into the wall which was of the house for the side chambers round about, that they might § have hold, but they had not hold in the wall of the house.

7 And ‡ there [m] was an enlarging, and a winding about still upward to the side chambers: for the winding about of the house went still upward round about of the house: therefore the breadth of the house was still upward, and so increased from the lowest chamber to the highest by the midst.

8 I saw also the height of the house round about: the foundations of the side chambers were [p] a full reed of six great cubits.

9 The thickness of the wall, which was for the side chamber without, was five cubits: and that which was left was the place of the side chambers that were within.

10 And between the chambers was the wideness of twenty cubits round about the house on every side.

11 And the doors of the side chambers were toward the place that was left, one door toward the north, and another door toward the south: and the breadth of the place that was left was five cubits round about.

12 Now the building that was before the separate place at the end toward the west was seventy cubits broad; and the wall of the building was five cubits thick round about, and the length thereof ninety cubits.

13 So he measured the house, an hundred cubits long; and the separate place, and the building, with the walls thereof, an hundred cubits long;

14 Also the breadth of the face of the house, and of the separate place toward the east, an hundred cubits.

15 And he measured the length of the building over against the separate place which was behind it, and the * galleries thereof on the one side and on the other side, an hundred cubits, with the inner temple, and the porches of the court;

16 The door posts, and [b] the narrow windows, and the galleries round about on their three stories, over against the door, † cieled with wood round about, ‖ and from the ground up to the windows, and the windows were covered;

17 To that above the door, even unto the inner house, and without, and by all the wall round about within and without, by § measure.

18 And it was made [e] with cherubims and palm trees, so that a palm tree was between a cherub and a cherub; and every cherub had two faces;

19 So [f] that the face of a man was toward the palm tree on the one side, and the face of a young lion toward the palm tree on the other side: it was made through all the house round about.

20 From the ground unto above the door were cherubims and palm trees made, and on the wall of the temple.

21 The * posts of the temple were squared, and the face of the sanctuary; the appearance of the one as the appear ance of the other.

22 The [i] altar of wood was three cubits high, and the length thereof two cubits; and the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the walls thereof, were of wood: and he said unto me, This is [k] the table that is [l] before the LORD.

23 And the [m] temple and the sanctuary had two doors.

24 And the doors had two leaves apiece, two turning leaves; two leaves for the one door, and two leaves for the other door.

25 And there were made on them, on the doors of the temple, cherubims and palm trees, like as were made upon the walls; and there were thick planks upon the face of the porch without.

26 And there were [p] narrow windows and palm trees on the one side and on the other side, on the sides of the porch and upon the side chambers of the house, and thick planks.

CHAP. XLII.

THEN he brought me forth into the utter court, the way toward the north: and he brought me into [r] the chamber that was over against the separate place, and which was before the building toward the north.

2 Before the length of an hundred cubits was the north door, and the breadth was fifty cubits.

3 Over against the twenty cubits which were for the inner court, and over against the pavement which was for the utter court, was [s] gallery against gallery in three stories.

4 And before the chambers was a walk of ten cubits breadth inward, a way of one cubit; and their doors toward the north.

5 Now the upper chambers were shorter: for the galleries * were higher than these, † than the lower, and than the middlemost of the building.

Digitized by Google

6 For they were in three stories, but had not pillars as the pillars of the courts: therefore the building was straitened more than the lowest and the middlemost from the ground.

7 And the wall that was without over against the chambers, toward the utter court on the forepart of the chambers, the length thereof was fifty cubits.

8 For the length of the chambers that were in the utter court was fifty cubits: and, lo, before the temple were an hundred cubits.

9 And † from under these chambers was ‖ the entry on the east side, § as one goeth into them from the utter court.

10 The chambers were in the thickness of the wall of the court toward the east, over against the separate place, and over against the building.

11 And ᵐ the way before them was like the appearance of the chambers which were toward the north, as long as they, and as broad as they: and all their goings out were both according to their fashions, and according to their doors.

12 And according to the doors of the chambers that were toward the south was a door in the head of the way, even the way directly before the wall toward the east, as one entereth into them.

13 ¶ Then said he unto me, The north chambers and the south chambers, which are before the separate place, they be holy chambers, where the priests that approach unto the LORD ᵍ shall eat the most holy things: there shall they lay the most holy things, and ʳ the meat offering, and the sin offering, and the trespass offering; for the place is holy.

14 When ˢ the priests enter therein, then shall they not go out of the holy place into the utter court, but there they shall lay their garments wherein they minister; for they are holy; ᵗ and shall put on other garments, and shall approach to those things which are for the people.

15 Now when he had made an end of measuring the inner house, he brought me forth toward the gate whose prospect is toward the east, and measured it round about.

16 He measured the east † side with the measuring reed, five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed round about.

17 He measured the north side, five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed round about.

18 He measured the south side, five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed.

19 ¶ He turned about to the west side, and measured five hundred reeds with the measuring reed.

20 He measured it by the four sides: ᵛ it had a wall round about, five hundred reeds long, and five hundred broad, to make ʷ a separation between the sanctuary and the profane place.

4 And ʳ the glory of the LORD came into the house by the way of the gate whose prospect is toward the east.

5 So ˢ the spirit took me up, and brought me into the inner court; and, behold, ᵗ the glory of the LORD filled the house.

6 And I heard him speaking unto me out of the house; and ᵘ the man stood by me.

7 ¶ And he said unto me, Son of man, ᵛ the place of my throne, and ʷ the place of the soles of my feet, ˣ where I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel for ever, and my holy name, shall the house of Israel ʸ no more defile, neither they, nor their kings, by their whoredom, nor by ᶻ the carcases of their kings in their high places.

8 In ᵃ their setting of their threshold by my thresholds, and their post by my posts, ᵇ and the wall between me and them, they have even defiled my holy name by their abominations that they have committed: wherefore I have consumed them in mine anger.

9 Now let them put away their whoredom, and ᶜ the carcases of their kings, far from me, ᵈ and I will dwell in the midst of them for ever.

10 ¶ Thou son of man, ᵉ shew the house to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities: and let them measure the ᵒ pattern.

11 And if they be ashamed of all that they have done, shew them the form of the house, and the fashion thereof, and the goings out thereof, and the comings in thereof, and all the forms thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and all the forms thereof, and all the laws thereof: and write it in their sight, that they may keep the whole form thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and do them.

12 This is the law of the house; Upon the top of the mountain the whole limit thereof round about shall be most holy. Behold, this is the law of the house.

13 ¶ And these are the measures of the altar after the cubits: ᵇ The cubit is a cubit and an hand breadth; even the ‡ bottom shall be a cubit, and the breadth a cubit, and the border thereof by the § edge thereof round about shall be a span: and this shall be the higher place of the altar.

14 And from the bottom upon the ground even to the lower ‖ settle shall be two cubits, and the breadth one cubit; and from the lesser settle even to the greater settle shall be four cubits, and the breadth one cubit.

15 So ‖ the altar shall be four cubits; and from ᵒ the altar and upward shall be ᵖ four horns.

16 And the altar shall be twelve cubits long, twelve broad, square in the four squares thereof.

17 And the settle shall be fourteen cubits long and fourteen broad in the four squares thereof; and the border about it shall be half a cubit; and the bottom thereof shall be a cubit about; and ᵍ his stairs shall look toward the east.

18 ¶ And he said unto me, Son of man, thus saith the Lord GOD; These are the ordinances of the altar in the day when they shall make it, to offer burnt offerings thereon, and to ʰ sprinkle blood thereon.

20 And thou shalt take of the blood thereof, and put it on the four horns of it, and on the four corners of the settle, and upon the border round about: thus shalt thou cleanse and purge it.

21 Thou shalt take the bullock also of the sin offering, and he [d] shall burn it in the appointed place of the house, [f] without the sanctuary.

22 And on the second day thou shalt offer a kid of the goats without blemish for a sin offering; and they shall cleanse the altar, as they did cleanse it with the bullock.

23 When thou hast made an end of cleansing it, thou shalt offer a young bullock without blemish, and a ram out of the flock without blemish.

24 And thou shalt offer them before the LORD, [m] and the priests shall cast salt upon them, and they shall offer them up for a burnt offering unto the LORD.

25 Seven [n] days shalt thou prepare every day a goat for a sin offering: they shall also prepare a young bullock, and a ram out of the flock, without blemish.

26 Seven days shall they purge the altar and purify it; and they shall † consecrate themselves.

27 And [r] when these days are expired, it shall be, that upon the eighth day, and so forward, the priests shall make your burnt offerings upon the altar, and your ‡ peace offerings; and I will [t] accept you, saith the Lord GOD.

CHAP. XLIV.

THEN he brought me back the way of the gate of the outward sanctuary [v] which looketh toward the east; and it was shut.

2 Then said the LORD unto me; This gate shall be shut, it shall not be opened, and no man shall enter in by it; because the LORD, the God of Israel, hath entered in by it, therefore it shall be shut.

3 It is for the prince; the prince, he shall sit in it to [x] eat bread before the LORD; [y] he shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate, and shall go out by the way of the same.

4 ¶ Then brought he me the way of the north gate before the house: and I looked, and, [z] behold, the glory of the LORD filled the house of the LORD: and I fell upon my face.

5 And the LORD said unto me, Son of man, § mark well, and behold with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears all that I say unto thee concerning all the ordinances of the house of the LORD, and all the laws thereof; and mark well the entering in of the house, with every going forth of the sanctuary.

6 And thou shalt say to the rebellious, even to the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD; O ye house of Israel, [a] let it suffice you of all your abominations,

7 In [b] that ye have brought into my sanctuary ‡ strangers, [c] uncircumcised [d] in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh, to be in my sanctuary, to pollute it, even my house, when ye offer [e] my bread, [f] the fat and the blood, and they have broken my covenant because of all your abominations.

8 And ye have not [g] kept the charge of mine holy things: but ye have set keepers of my § charge in my sanctuary for yourselves.

9 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; No stranger, [a] uncircumcised in heart, nor uncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my sanctuary, of any stranger that is among the children of Israel.

10 And [b] the Levites that are gone away far from me, when Israel went astray, which went astray away from me after their idols; they shall even bear their iniquity.

11 Yet they shall be ministers in my sanctuary, [c] having charge at the gates of the house, and ministering to the house: [d] they shall slay the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and [e] they shall stand before them to minister unto them.

12 Because they ministered unto them before their idols, [f] and [g] caused the house of Israel to fall into iniquity; therefore have I [h] lifted up mine hand against them, saith the Lord GOD, and they shall bear their iniquity.

13 And [i] they shall not come near unto me, to do the office of a priest unto me, nor to come near to any of my holy things, in the most holy place: but they shall bear their shame, and their abominations which they have committed.

14 But I will make them [k] keepers of the charge of the house, for all the service thereof, and for all that shall be done therein.

15 ¶ But the priests the Levites, [l] the sons of Zadok, that kept the charge of my sanctuary when the children of Israel went astray from me, they shall come near to me to minister unto me, and they shall stand before me to offer unto me the fat and the blood, saith the Lord GOD:

16 They shall enter into my sanctuary, and they shall come near to my table, to minister unto me, and they shall keep my charge.

17 ¶ And it shall come to pass, that when they enter in at the gates of the inner court, [m] they shall be clothed with linen garments; and no wool shall come upon them, whiles they minister in the gates of the inner court, and within.

18 They shall have linen bonnets upon their heads, and shall have linen breeches upon their loins; they shall not gird themselves § with any thing that causeth sweat.

19 And when they go forth into the utter court, even into the utter court to the people, they shall put off their garments wherein they ministered, and lay them in the holy chambers, and they shall put on other garments; and they shall [o] not sanctify the people with their garments.

20 Neither shall they shave their heads, nor suffer their locks to grow long; they shall only poll their heads.

21 Neither shall any priest drink wine, when they enter into the inner court.

22 Neither shall they take for their wives a [p] widow, nor her that is [q] put away: but they shall take maidens of the seed of the house of Israel, or a widow † that had a priest before.

23 And [r] they shall teach my people the difference between the holy and profane, and cause them to discern between the unclean and the clean.

24 And [s] in controversy they shall stand in judgment; and they shall judge it according to my judgments: and they shall keep my laws and my statutes in all mine assemblies; and they [t] shall hallow my sabbaths.

son to defile themselves: but for father, or for mother, or for son, or for daughter, for brother, or for sister that hath had no husband, they may defile themselves.

26 And [b] after he is cleansed, they shall reckon unto him seven days.

27 And in the day that he goeth into the sanctuary, unto the inner court, to minister in the sanctuary, [d] he shall offer his sin offering, saith the Lord GOD.

28 And it shall be unto them for an inheritance: I [e] am their inheritance: and ye shall give them no possession in Israel: I am their possession.

29 They [f] shall eat the meat offering, and the sin offering, and the trespass offering; and [g] every [o] dedicated thing in Israel shall be their's.

30 And the [†] first [h] of all the firstfruits of all things, and every oblation of all, of every sort of your oblations, shall be the priest's: ye [i] shall also give unto the priest the first of your dough, [k] that he may cause the blessing to rest in thine house.

31 The priests shall not eat of any thing that is [m] dead of itself, or torn, whether it be fowl or beast.

CHAP. XLV.

MOREOVER, when ye [†] shall [n] divide by lot the land for inheritance, ye shall [o] offer an oblation unto the LORD, I an holy portion of the land: the length shall be the length of five and twenty thousand reeds, and the breadth shall be ten thousand. This shall be holy in all the borders thereof round about.

2 Of this there shall be for the sanctuary five hundred in length, with five hundred in breadth, square round about; and fifty cubits round about for the [‡]suburbs thereof.

3 And of this measure shall thou measure the length of five and twenty thousand, and the breadth of ten thousand: [p] and in it shall be the sanctuary and the most holy place.

4 The holy portion of the land shall be for the priests the ministers of the sanctuary, which shall come near to minister unto the LORD: and it shall be a place for their houses, and an holy place for the sanctuary.

5 And [q] the five and twenty thousand of length, and the ten thousand of breadth, shall also the Levites, the ministers of the house, have for themselves, for a possession for [r] twenty chambers.

6 ¶ And [s] ye shall appoint the possession of the city five thousand broad, and five and twenty thousand long, over against the oblation of the holy portion: it shall be for the whole house of Israel.

7 ¶ And [t] a portion shall be for the prince on the one side and on the other side of the oblation of the holy portion, and of the possession of the city, before the oblation of the holy portion, and before the possession of the city, from the west side westward, and from the east side eastward: and the length shall be over against one of the portions, from the west border unto the east border.

8 In the land shall be his possession in Israel: and [f] my princes shall no more oppress my people; and the rest of the land shall they give to the house of Israel according to their tribes.

9 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; [‖] Let it suffice you, O princes of Israel: [k] remove violence and spoil, and execute judgment and justice, [k] take away your [•] exactions from my people, saith the Lord GOD.

10 Ye shall have just [a] balances, and a just ephah, and a just bath.

11 The ephah and the bath shall be of one measure, that the bath may contain the tenth part of an homer, and the ephah the tenth part of an homer: the measure thereof shall be after the homer.

12 And the [e] shekel shall be twenty gerahs: twenty shekels, five and twenty shekels, fifteen shekels, shall be your maneh.

13 This is the oblation that ye shall offer; the sixth part of an ephah of an homer of wheat, and ye shall give the sixth part of an ephah of an homer of barley:

14 Concerning the ordinance of oil, the bath of oil, ye shall offer the tenth part of a bath out of the cor, which is an homer of ten baths; for ten baths are an homer:

15 And one [‖] lamb out of the flock, out of two hundred, out of the fat pastures of Israel; for a meat offering, and for a burnt offering, and for [§] peace offerings, [l] to make reconciliation for them, saith the Lord GOD.

16 All the people of the land [‖] shall give this oblation [•] for the prince in Israel.

17 And it shall be the prince's part to give burnt offerings, and meat offerings, and drink offerings, in the feasts, and in the new moons, and in the sabbaths, in all solemnities of the house of Israel: he shall prepare the sin offering, and the meat offering, and the burnt offering, and the [§] peace offerings, to make reconciliation for the house of Israel.

18 Thus saith the Lord GOD; In the first month, in the first day of the month, thou shalt take a young bullock without blemish, and [l] cleanse the sanctuary:

19 And [m] the priest shall take of the blood of the sin offering, and put it upon the posts of the house, and upon the four corners of the settle of the altar, and upon the posts of the gate of the inner court.

20 And so thou shalt do the seventh day of the month [l] for every one that erreth, and for him that is simple: so shall ye reconcile the house.

21 In [n] the first month, in the fourteenth day of the month, ye shall have the passover, a feast of seven days; unleavened bread shall be eaten.

22 And upon that day shall the prince prepare for himself and for all the people of the land a [n] bullock for a sin offering.

23 And [o] seven days of the feast he shall prepare a burnt offering to the LORD, seven bullocks and seven rams without blemish daily the seven days; [p] and a kid of the goats daily for a sin offering.

24 And [o] he shall prepare a meat offering of an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, and an hin of oil for an ephah.

25 In the seventh month, in the fifteenth day of the month, shall he do the like in the [o] feast of the seven days, according to the sin offering, according to the burnt offering, and according to the meat offering, and according to the oil.

CHAP. XLVI.

THUS saith the Lord GOD; The gate of the inner court that looketh toward the east shall be shut the six working days; but on the sabbath it shall be opened, and in the day of the new moon it shall be opened.

2 And [t] the prince shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate without, and shall stand by the post of the gate, and the priests shall prepare his burnt offering and his peace offerings, and he shall worship at the threshold of the gate: then he shall go forth; but the gate shall not be shut until the evening.

3 Likewise the people of the land [b] shall worship at the door of this gate before the LORD in the sabbaths and in the new moons.

4 And the burnt offering that [c] the prince shall offer unto the LORD in the sabbath day shall be six lambs without blemish, and a ram without blemish.

5 And [d] the meat offering shall be an ephah for a ram, and the meat offering for the lambs [e] as he shall be able to give, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

6 And in the day of the new moon it shall be a young bullock without blemish, and six lambs, and a ram: they shall be without blemish.

7 And he shall prepare a meat offering, an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, and for the lambs according as his hand shall attain unto, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

8 And when the prince shall enter, he shall go in by the way of the porch of that gate, and he shall go forth by the way thereof.

9 ¶ But when the people of the land [h] shall come before the LORD in the solemn feasts, [i] he that entereth in by the way of the north gate to worship shall go out by the way of the south gate; and he that entereth by the way of the south gate shall go forth by the way of the north gate: he shall not return by the way of the gate whereby he came in, but shall go forth over against it.

10 And the prince in the midst of them, when they go in, shall go in; and when they go forth, shall go forth.

11 And in the feasts and in the solemnities the meat offering shall be an ephah to a bullock, and an ephah to a ram, and to the lambs as he is able to give, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

12 Now when the prince shall prepare [m] a voluntary burnt offering or peace offerings voluntarily unto the LORD, [n] one shall then open him the gate that looketh toward the east, and he shall prepare his burnt offering and his peace offerings, as he did on the sabbath day: then he shall go forth; and after his going forth one shall shut the gate.

13 Thou [p] shalt daily prepare a burnt offering unto the LORD of a lamb [o] of the first year without blemish: thou shalt prepare it † every morning.

14 And thou shalt prepare a meat offering for it every morning, the sixth part of an ephah, and the third part of an hin of oil, to temper with the fine flour; a meat offering continually by a perpetual ordinance unto the LORD.

15 Thus shall they prepare the lamb, and the meat offering, and the oil, every morning for [r] a continual burnt offering.

16 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; If the prince give a gift unto any of his sons, the inheritance thereof shall be his sons'; it shall be their possession by inheritance.

17 But if he give a gift of his inheritance to one of his servants, then it shall be his to [u] the year of liberty; after it shall return to the prince: but his inheritance shall be his sons' for them.

18 Moreover [v] the prince shall not take of the people's inheritance by oppression, to thrust them out of their possession; but he shall give his sons inheritance [w] out of his own possession: that my people be not scattered every man from his possession.

19 ¶ After he brought me through the entry, which was at the side of the gate, into the holy chambers of the priests, which looked toward the north: and, behold, there was a place on the two sides westward.

20 Then said he unto me, This is the place where the priests shall [x] boil the trespass offering and the sin offering, where they shall bake the meat offering; that they bear them not out into the utter court, [y] to sanctify the people.

21 Then he brought me forth into the utter court, and caused me to pass by the four corners of the court; and, behold, † in every corner of the court there was a court.

22 In the four corners of the court there were courts ‡ joined of forty cubits long and thirty broad: these four § corners were of one measure.

23 And there was a row of building round about in them, round about them four, and it was made with boiling places under the rows round about.

24 Then said he unto me, These are the places of them that boil, where the ministers of the house shall boil the sacrifice of the people.

CHAP. XLVII.

AFTERWARD he brought me again unto the door of the house; and, behold, [a] waters issued out from under the threshold of the house eastward: for the forefront of the house stood toward the east, and the waters came down from under from the right side of the house, at the south side of the altar.

2 Then brought he me out of the way of the gate northward, and led me about the way without unto the utter gate by the way that looketh eastward; and, behold, there ran out waters on the right side.

3 And when [b] the man that had the line in his hand went forth eastward, he measured a thousand cubits, and he brought me through the waters; the || waters were to the ancles.

4 Again he measured a thousand, and brought me through the waters; [c] the waters were to the knees. Again he measured a thousand, and brought me through; the waters were to the loins.

5 Afterward he measured a thousand; and it was a river that I could not pass over: for the waters were risen, ‡ waters to swim in, a river that could not be passed over.

6 ¶ And he said unto me, Son of man, [d] hast thou seen this? Then he brought me, and caused me to return to the brink of the river.

7 Now when I had returned, behold, at the § bank of the river were very many [e] trees on the one side and on the other.

8 Then said he unto me, These waters issue out toward the east country, and go down into the [f] desert, and go into the sea: which being brought forth into the sea, the waters shall be healed.

9 And it shall come to pass, that every thing that liveth, which moveth, whithersoever the [g] rivers shall come, shall live: and there shall be a very great multitude of fish, because these waters shall come thither: for they shall be healed; and every thing shall live whither the river cometh.

10 And it shall come to pass, that the fishers shall stand upon it from En-gedi even unto En-eglaim; they shall be a place to spread forth nets; their fish shall be according to their kinds, as the fish of [e] the great sea, exceeding many.

11 But the miry places thereof and the marishes thereof [g] shall not be healed; they shall be given to salt.

12 And by the river upon the bank thereof, on this side and on that side, shall [†] grow all trees for meat, [/] whose leaf shall not fade, neither shall the fruit thereof be consumed: it shall bring forth [f] new fruit according to his months, because their waters they issued out of the sanctuary: and the fruit thereof shall be for meat, and the leaf thereof [i] for [§] medicine.

13 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; This shall be the border, whereby ye shall inherit the land according to the twelve tribes of Israel: [k] Joseph shall have two portions.

14 And ye shall inherit it, one as well as another: concerning the which I [‖] lifted [m] up mine hand to give it unto your fathers: and this land shall [n] fall unto you for inheritance.

15 And this shall be the border of the land toward the north side, from the great sea, [o] the way of Hethlon, as men go to [p] Zedad;

16 Hamath, [r] Berothah, Sibraim, which is between the border of Damascus and the border of Hamath; [†] Hazar-hatticon, which is by the coast of Hauran.

17 And the border from the sea shall be [s] Hazar-enan, the border of Damascus, and the north northward, and the border of Hamath. And this is the north side.

18 And the east side ye shall measure [§] from Hauran, and from Damascus, and from Gilead, and from the land of Israel by Jordan, from the border unto the east sea. And this is the east side.

19 And the south side southward, from Tamar even to [u] the waters of [‖] strife in Kadesh, the [v] river to the great sea. And this is the south side † southward.

20 The west side also shall be the great sea from the border, till a man come over against Hamath. This is the west side.

21 So shall ye divide this land unto you according to the tribes of Israel.

22 ¶ And it shall come to pass, that ye shall divide it by lot for an inheritance unto you, [a] and to the strangers that sojourn among you, which shall beget children among you: [a] and they shall be unto you as born in the country among the children of Israel; they shall have inheritance with you among the tribes of Israel.

23 And it shall come to pass, that in what tribe the stranger sojourneth, there shall ye give him his inheritance, saith the Lord GOD.

CHAP. XLVIII.

NOW these are the names of the tribes. [b] From the north end to the coast of the way of Hethlon, as one goeth to Hamath, Hazar-enan, the border of Damascus northward, to the coast of Hamath; for these are his sides east and west; [‡] a portion for Dan.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CH. III. 15.—CHEBAR. A river of Mesopotamia, upon the banks of which king Nebuchadnezzar planted a colony of Jews, among whom was the prophet Ezekiel. This is believed to be the same river that was known among the Greeks as the Chaboras, and which now bears the name of Khabour. It flows to the Euphrates through Mesopotamia, and is the only considerable stream which enters that river. It is formed by the junction of a number of small brooks, which rise in the neighbourhood of a ruined town called Ras-el-Ain, thirteen furlongs south-west of Merdin. It takes a southernly direction, till it receives the waters of another stream equal to itself, when it bends westward to the Euphrates, which it enters at Kirkesia, the Carchemish of scripture. This spot is supposed to have been chosen for the captive Jews, partly that they might be safely secured from escaping from their captivity, and partly that they might secure and defend the place from enemies, it being through inundations uninhabited, and so exposed to them.

CH. XIII. 18.—EMBROIDERING. An important part of the oriental dress is that of the head. The veil, or richly embroidered kerchief, seems to have been used for the purpose of improperly attracting, and probably into idolatry. The engraving shews the manner in which kerchiefs and other small pieces are embroidered by the modern Egyptians, whose usages in this and many other respects are, as Kitto observes, 'the same as those of south-western Asia in general.' The pillows mentioned in the same text are thought to have been embroidered cushions for the arm-pits.

CH. XIX. 11.—SCEPTRES. The sceptre was a staff of authority, and in the early ages was very rude and simple, and no better than a shepherd's crook. It appears gradually to have become ornamented, and to have been formed of more durable and precious materials. The psalmist speaks of an iron sceptre (Ps. ii. 7), and Ahasuerus carried in his hand a golden sceptre (Esth. viii. 4.) The sceptre is very significantly used, and often referred to in scripture. Amos represents the sovereign power by him that holds the sceptre, Amos. i. 5, 8. It is also put for the rod of correction—for the sovereign power that punishes and humbles. "Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron," or with an iron sceptre (Ps. ii. 7); and Solomon uses the word to express the rod with which the disobedient son is disciplined (Prov. xxii. 15.) In some passages of Scripture we perceive that the sceptre is taken for a tribe, probably because the princes of each tribe carried a sceptre as a wand of command, to shew their dignity. In this sense it is used and rendered in 1 Sam. ix. 21; x. 19—21; xv. 17; 1 Kings xi. 32. In Lev. xxvii. 32, the word signifies a shepherd's wand; in 2 Sam. xxiii. 21, it signifies the truncheon of a warrior, or any other staff, and in Isa. xxviii. 27, the rod or flail with which they thresh the smaller grains. But we now use the word in the first sense, duly confining the sceptre to the hand of royalty. Proverbially we refer to it in the most simple form, when we advise any one to keep the sceptre in his own hand, signifying that he should tenaciously retain the power to which we allude. How much is comprehended in the description of the Redeemer's reign calculated to tranquillize the spirit under all circumstances, and to win the obedience of the heart! "A sceptre of righteousness is the sceptre of thy kingdom," Heb. i. 8.

CH. XXX. 6.—SYENE. It is now called Assouan. This place is situated on the southern frontier of Egypt, towards Ethiopia, between Thebes and the cataracts of the Nile. In ch. xxix. 10. it is spoken of by the prophet as one of the boundaries of the land of Egypt. Pliny mentions it as a city standing in a peninsula on the eastern shore of the Nile, and says that it is a mile in circumference, and has a Roman garrison.

CH. XXX. 17.—AVEN—HELIOPOLIS. Aven is the same with On: see Gen. xli. 45; and the same with Beth-shemesh and Heliopolis, the city of the sun, Jer. xliii. 13. It was situated on the Nile, half a day's journey from Babylon in Egypt. Strabo speaks of ancient temples and obelisks shewn here in his time, and large houses of the priests, though the city was then deserted. It had a temple dedicated to the sun. It is famous for a fine obelisk of considerable size yet remaining, which is seventy feet in height, and is covered with hieroglyphics, though not equal in execution to some remaining in the south of Egypt. Several others which stood here have been carried to Rome or Constantinople. The area of Heliopolis is now a ploughed field, and a garden of herbs.

The Book of DANIEL.

Relates some historical events respecting the Jews in the latter period of the Babylonish captivity, and predicts some important revolutions in the world, and the coming of the Messiah.

CHAP. I.

IN the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah [a] came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon unto Jerusalem, and besieged it.

2 And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with part of the vessels of the house of God: which he carried into [b] the land of Shinar to the house of his god; and he brought the vessels into the treasure house of his god.

3 ¶ And the king spake unto Ashpenaz the master of his eunuchs, that he should bring ‡ certain of the children of Israel, and of the king's seed, and of the princes;

4 Children [c] in whom was no blemish, but well favoured, and skilful in all wisdom, and cunning in knowledge, and understanding science, and such as had ability in them to stand in the king's palace, and [d] whom they might teach the learning and the tongue of the Chaldeans.

5 And the king appointed them a daily provision of the king's meat, and of the wine § which he drank: so nourishing them three years, that at the end thereof they might [e] stand before the king.

6 Now among these were of the children of Judah, Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah:

7 Unto whom the prince of the eunuchs [f] gave names: for he gave unto Daniel the name of Belteshazzar; and to Hananiah, of Shadrach; and to Mishael, of Meshach; and to Azariah, of Abed-nego.

8 ¶ But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself [g] with the portion of the king's meat, nor with the wine which he drank: therefore he requested of the prince of the eunuchs that he might not defile himself.

9 Now [h] God had brought Daniel into favour and tender love with the prince of the eunuchs.

10 And the prince of the eunuchs said unto Daniel, I fear my lord the king, who hath appointed your meat and your drink: for why should he see your faces † worse liking than the children which are of your ‡ sort? then shall ye make me endanger my head to the king.

11 Then said Daniel to § Melzar, whom the prince of the eunuchs had set over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 12 Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ten days; and let them give us [i] pulse † to eat, and water to drink.

13 Then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenance of the children that eat of the portion of the king's meat: and as thou seest, deal with thy servants.

14 So he consented to them in this matter, and proved them ten days.

15 And at the end of ten days their countenances appeared fairer and fatter in flesh than all the children which did eat the portion of the king's meat.

16 Thus Melzar took away the portion of their meat, and the wine that they should drink; and gave them pulse.

17 ¶ As for these four children, [k] God gave them [l] knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom: and [m] Daniel had [n] understanding in all visions and dreams.

18 Now at the end of the days that the king had said he should bring them in, then the prince of the eunuchs brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar.

19 And the king communed with them; and among them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: therefore [o] stood they before the king.

20 And [p] in all matters of wisdom † and understanding, that the king enquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and astrologers that were in all his realm.

21 And [q] Daniel continued even unto the first year of king Cyrus.

CHAP. II.

AND in the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams, [r] wherewith his spirit was troubled, and [s] his sleep brake from him.

2 Then [t] the king commanded to call the magicians, and the astrologers, and the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans, for to shew the king his dreams. So they came and stood before the king.

3 And the king said unto them, I have dreamed a dream, and my spirit was troubled to know the dream.

4 Then spake the Chaldeans to the king in Syriack, [u] O king, live for ever: tell thy servants the dream, and we will shew the interpretation.

5 The king answered and said to the Chaldeans, The thing is gone from me: if ye will not make known unto me the dream, with the interpretation thereof, ye shall be ‖ cut [v] in pieces, and your houses shall be made a dunghill.

6 But if ye shew the dream, and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receive of me gifts and [w] rewards and great honour: therefore shew me the dream, and the interpretation thereof.

7 They answered again and said, Let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will shew the interpretation of it.

8 The king answered and said, I know of certainty that ye would ‖ gain the time, because ye see the thing is gone from me.

9 But if ye will not make known unto me the dream, [x] there is but one decree for you: for ye have prepared lying and corrupt words to speak before me, till the time be changed: therefore tell me the dream, and I shall know that ye can shew me the interpretation thereof.

10 ¶ The Chaldeans answered before the king, and said, There is not a man upon the earth that can shew the king's matter: therefore there is no king, lord, nor ruler, that asked such things at any magician, or astrologer, or Chaldean.

11 And it is a rare thing that the king requireth, and there is none other that can shew it before the king, [y] except the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For this cause the king was angry and very furious, and commanded to destroy all the wise men of Babylon.

13 And the decree went forth that the wise men should be slain; and they sought Daniel and his fellows to be slain.

14 ¶ Then Daniel † answered with counsel and wisdom to Arioch the ‡ captain of the king's guard, which was gone forth to slay the wise men of Babylon:

15 He answered and said to Arioch the king's captain, Why is the decree so hasty from the king? Then Arioch made the thing known to Daniel.

16 Then Daniel went in, and desired of the king that he would give him time, and that he would shew the king the interpretation.

17 Then Daniel went to his house, and made the thing known to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, his companions:

18 That d they would desire mercies * of the God of heaven concerning this secret; † that Daniel and his fellows should not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon.

19 ¶ Then was the secret revealed unto Daniel i in a night vision. Then Daniel blessed the God of heaven.

20 Daniel answered and said, l Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever: m for wisdom and might are his:

21 And he changeth * the times and the seasons: n he removeth kings, and setteth up kings: o he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and knowledge to them that know understanding:

22 He * revealeth the deep and secret things: p he knoweth what is in the darkness, and q the light dwelleth with him.

23 I thank thee, and praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, who hast given me wisdom and might, and hast made known unto me now what we desired of thee: for thou hast now made known unto us the king's matter.

24 ¶ Therefore Daniel went in unto Arioch, whom the king had ordained to destroy the wise men of Babylon: he went and said thus unto him; Destroy not the wise men of Babylon: bring me in before the king, and I will shew unto the king the interpretation.

25 Then Arioch brought in Daniel before the king in haste, and said thus unto him, § I have found a man of the ‖ captives of Judah, that will make known unto the king the interpretation.

26 The king answered and said to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, Art thou able to make known unto me the dream which I have seen, and the interpretation thereof?

27 Daniel answered in the presence of the king, and said, The secret which the king hath demanded cannot the wise men, the astrologers, the magicians, the soothsayers, shew unto the king;

28 But * there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and † maketh known to the king Nebuchadnezzar r what shall be in the latter days. Thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, are these;

29 As for thee, O king, thy thoughts † came into thy mind upon thy bed, what should come to pass hereafter: and he that revealeth secrets maketh known to thee what shall come to pass.

30 But as for me, this secret is not revealed to me for any wisdom that I have more than any living, but for ‡ their sakes that shall make known the interpretation to the king, and that thou mightest know the thoughts of thy heart.

31 ¶ Thou, O king, * sawest, and behold a great image. This great image, whose brightness was excellent, stood before thee; and the form thereof was terrible.

32 This * image's head was of fine gold, his breast and his arms of silver, his belly and his § thighs of brass, 33 His legs of iron, his feet part of iron and part of clay.

34 Thou sawest till that a stone was cut out ‖ without b hands, which smote the image upon his feet that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold, broken to pieces together, and became * like the chaff of the summer threshingfloors; and the wind carried them away, that * no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image f became a great mountain, g and filled the whole earth.

36 ¶ This is the dream; and we will tell the interpretation thereof before the king.

37 Thou, i O king, art a king of kings: k for the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, and strength, and glory.

38 And * wheresoever the children of men dwell, the beasts of the field and the fowls of the heaven hath he given into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler over them all. Thou art this head of gold.

39 And after thee shall arise another kingdom inferior to thee, and another third kingdom of brass, which shall bear rule over all the earth.

40 And * the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron: forasmuch as iron breaketh in pieces and subdueth all things: and as iron that breaketh all these, shall it break in pieces and bruise.

41 And whereas thou sawest the feet and toes, part of potters' clay, and part of iron, the kingdom shall be divided; but there shall be in it of the strength of the iron, forasmuch as thou sawest the iron mixed with miry clay.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong, and partly ‡ broken.

43 And whereas thou sawest iron mixed with miry clay, they shall mingle themselves with the seed of men: but they shall not cleave * one to another, even as iron is not mixed with clay.

44 And in † the days of these kings shall the God of heaven u set up a kingdom, v which shall never be destroyed: and the ‡ kingdom shall not be left to other people, * but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever.

45 Forasmuch * as thou sawest that the stone was cut out of the mountain § without hands, and that it brake in pieces the iron, the brass, the clay, the silver, and the gold; the great God hath made known to the king what shall come to pass * hereafter: and the dream is certain, and the interpretation thereof sure.

46 ¶ Then d the king Nebuchadnezzar fell upon his face, and worshipped Daniel, and commanded that they should offer an oblation and sweet odours unto him.

47 The king answered unto Daniel, and said, Of a truth it is, that your God is a God of gods, and a Lord of kings, and a revealer of secrets, seeing thou couldest reveal this secret.

49 Then Daniel requested of the king, [e] and he set Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, over the affairs of the province of Babylon: but Daniel [f] sat in the gate of the king.

CHAP. III.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR the king made [i] an image of gold, whose height was threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof six cubits: he set it up in the plain of Dura, in the province of Babylon.

2 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king sent to gather together the princes, the governors, and the captains, the judges, the treasurers, the counsellors, the sheriffs, and all the rulers of the provinces, to come to the dedication of the image which Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up.

3 Then [j] the princes, the governors, and captains, the judges, the treasurers, the counsellors, the sheriffs, and all the rulers of the provinces, were gathered together unto the dedication of the image that Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up; and they stood before the image that Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

4 Then an herald cried ‖ aloud, To you • it is commanded, O people, nations, and languages,

5 That at what time ye hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, § dulcimer, and all kinds of musick, ye fall down and worship the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king hath set up:

6 And whoso falleth not down and worshippeth shall the same hour be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace.

7 Therefore at that time, when all the people heard the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and all kinds of musick, all the people, the nations, and the languages, fell down and worshipped the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up.

8 ¶ Wherefore at that time certain Chaldeans came near, [n] and accused the Jews.

9 They spake and said to the king Nebuchadnezzar, [p] O king, live for ever.

10 Thou, O king, hast made a decree, that every man that shall hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all kinds of musick, shall fall down and worship the golden image:

11 And whoso falleth not down and worshippeth, that he should be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace.

12 There [t] are certain Jews whom thou hast set over the affairs of the province of Babylon, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego; these men, O king, † have not regarded thee: they serve not thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up.

13 ¶ Then Nebuchadnezzar in his rage and fury commanded to bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego. Then they brought these men before the king.

14 Nebuchadnezzar spake and said unto them, Is it § true, O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, do not ye serve my gods, nor worship the golden image which I have set up?

15 Now if ye be ready that at what time ye hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all kinds of musick, ye fall down and worship the image which I have made; [b] well: but if ye worship not, ye shall be cast the same hour into the midst of a burning fiery furnace; [d] and who is that God that shall deliver you out of my hands?

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, answered and said to the king, O Nebuchadnezzar, [g] we are not careful to answer thee in this matter.

17 If it be so, our God whom we serve [h] is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O king.

18 But if not, be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up.

19 ¶ Then was Nebuchadnezzar • full of fury, and the form of his visage was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego: therefore he spake, and commanded that they should heat the furnace one seven times more than it was wont to be heated.

20 And he commanded the † most mighty men that were in his army to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, and to cast them into the burning fiery furnace.

21 Then these men were bound in their ‡ coats, their hosen, and their § hats, and their other garments, and were cast into the midst of the burning fiery furnace.

22 Therefore because the king's † commandment was urgent, and the furnace exceeding hot, the ‡ flame of the fire [k] slew those men that took up Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego.

23 And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, [l] fell down bound into the midst of the burning fiery furnace.

24 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was astonied, and rose up in haste, and spake, and said unto his ‖ counsellors, Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? They answered and said unto the king, True, O king.

25 He answered and said, Lo, I see four men loose, [m] walking in the midst of the fire, and • they have no hurt; and the form of the fourth is like [n] the Son of God.

26 ¶ Then Nebuchadnezzar came near to the † mouth of the burning fiery furnace, and spake, and said, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, ye servants of the most high God, come forth, and come hither. Then Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, came forth of the midst of the fire.

27 And the princes, governors, and captains, and the king's counsellors, being gathered together, saw these men, [r] upon whose bodies the fire had no power, [s] nor was an hair of their head singed, neither were their coats changed, nor the smell of fire had passed on them.

28 Then Nebuchadnezzar spake, and said, Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, [u] who hath sent his angel, and delivered his servants that [v] trusted in him, and have changed the king's word, and yielded their bodies, that they might not serve nor worship any god, except their own God.

29 Therefore ‖ I [x] make a decree, That every people, nation, and language, which speak [y] any thing amiss against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, shall [y] be † cut in pieces, and their houses shall be made a dunghill: because there is no other God that can deliver after this sort.

CHAP. IV.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR the king, [a] unto all people, nations, and languages, that dwell in all the earth; Peace be multiplied unto you.

2 [†] I thought it good to shew the signs and wonders [b] that the high God hath wrought toward me.

3 How great are his signs! [c] and how mighty are his wonders! his kingdom is an [d] everlasting kingdom, and his dominion is from generation to generation.

4 [¶] I Nebuchadnezzar was at rest in mine house, and flourishing in my palace:

5 I saw a dream which made me afraid, and the thoughts upon my bed and the visions of my head troubled me.

6 Therefore made I a decree to bring in all the wise men of Babylon before me, that they might make known unto me the interpretation of the dream.

7 Then [e] came in the magicians, the astrologers, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers: and I told the dream before them; but [f] they did not make known unto me the interpretation thereof.

8 [¶] But at the last Daniel came in before me, [g] whose name was Belteshazzar, according to the name of my god, [h] and in whom is the spirit of the holy gods: and before him I told the dream, saying,

9 O Belteshazzar, [i] master of the magicians, because I know that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and no secret troubleth thee, tell me the visions of my dream that I have seen, and the interpretation thereof.

10 Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed; [‡] I saw, and behold [l] a tree in the midst of the earth, and the height thereof was great.

11 The tree grew, and was strong, and the height thereof reached unto heaven, and the sight thereof to the end of all the earth:

12 The leaves thereof were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all: [m] the beasts of the field had shadow under it, and the fowls of the heaven dwelt in the boughs thereof, and all flesh was fed of it.

13 I saw in the visions of my head upon my bed, and, behold, [n] a watcher and [o] an holy one came down from heaven;

14 He cried [p] aloud, and said thus, [q] Hew down the tree, and cut off his branches, shake off his leaves, and scatter his fruit: [r] let the beasts get away from under it, and the fowls from his branches:

15 Nevertheless leave the stump of his roots in the earth, even with a band of iron and brass, in the tender grass of the field; and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beasts in the grass of the earth:

16 Let his heart be changed from man's, and let a beast's heart be given unto him; and let seven [s] times pass over him.

17 This matter is by the decree of the watchers, and the demand by the word of the holy ones: to the intent [t] that the living may know that the most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will, [u] and setteth up over it the basest of men.

18 This dream I king Nebuchadnezzar have seen. Now thou, O Belteshazzar, declare the interpretation thereof, [k] forasmuch as all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to make known unto me the interpretation: but thou art able; [x] for the spirit of the holy gods is in thee.

19 [¶] Then Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, was astonied for one hour, and his thoughts troubled him. The king spake, and said, Belteshazzar, let not the dream, or the interpretation thereof, trouble thee. Belteshazzar answered and said, My lord, [y] the dream be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies.

20 The tree that thou sawest, which grew, and was strong, whose height reached unto the heaven, and the sight thereof to all the earth;

21 Whose leaves were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all; under which the beasts of the field dwelt, and upon whose branches the fowls of the heaven had their habitation:

22 It [z] is thou, O king, that art grown and become strong: for thy greatness is grown, and reacheth unto heaven, [a] and thy dominion to the end of the earth.

23 And whereas the king saw a watcher and an holy one coming down from heaven, and saying, Hew the tree down, and destroy it; yet leave the stump of the roots thereof in the earth, even with a band of iron and brass, in the tender grass of the field; and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, [b] and let his portion be with the beasts of the field, till seven times pass over him;

24 This is the interpretation, O king, and this is the decree of the most High, which is come upon my lord the king:

25 That they shall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field, and they shall make thee [c] to eat grass as oxen, and they shall wet thee with the dew of heaven, and seven times shall pass over thee, [d] till thou know that the most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and [e] giveth it to whomsoever he will.

26 And whereas they commanded to leave the stump of the tree roots; thy kingdom shall be sure unto thee, after that thou shalt have known that the [f] heavens do rule.

27 Wherefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable unto thee, and [g] break off thy sins by righteousness, and thine iniquities by shewing mercy to the poor; [h] if it may be [§] a [α] lengthening of thy tranquillity.

28 [¶] All this came upon the king Nebuchadnezzar.

29 At the end of twelve months he walked [i] in the palace of the kingdom of Babylon.

30 The king [k] spake, and said, Is not this great Babylon, that I have built for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power, and for the honour of my majesty?

31 While [l] the word was in the king's mouth, there fell a voice from heaven, saying, O king Nebuchadnezzar, to thee it is spoken; The kingdom is departed from thee.

32 And they shall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field: they shall make thee to eat grass as oxen, and seven times shall pass over thee, until thou know that the most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will.

33 The same hour was the thing fulfilled upon Nebuchadnezzar: and he was driven from men, and did eat grass as oxen, and

CHAP. V.

BELSHAZZAR the king [m] made a great feast to a thousand of his lords, and drank wine before the thousand.

2 Belshazzar, whiles he tasted the wine, commanded to bring the golden and silver vessels [n] which his* † father Nebuchadnezzar had ‡ taken out of the temple which was in Jerusalem; that the king, and his princes, his wives, and his concubines, might drink therein.

3 Then they brought the golden vessels that were taken out of the temple of the house of God which was at Jerusalem; and the king, and his princes, his wives, and his concubines, drank in them.

4 They drank wine, [r] and praised the gods of gold, and of silver, of brass, of iron, of wood, and of stone.

5 ¶ In [t] the same hour came forth fingers of a man's hand, and wrote over against the candlestick upon the plaister of the wall of the king's palace: and the king saw the part of the hand that wrote.

6 Then the king's ‖ countenance * was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the †joints of his loins were loosed, and his [y] knees smote one against another.

8 Then came in all the king's wise men: but they could not read the writing, nor make known to the king the interpretation thereof.

9 Then was king Belshazzar greatly troubled, and his ‡ countenance was changed in him, and his lords were astonied.

10 ¶ Now the queen by reason of the words of the king and his lords came into the banquet house: and the queen spake and said, O king, live for ever: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed:

11 There is a man in thy kingdom, in whom is the spirit of the holy gods; and in the days of thy * father light and understanding and wisdom, like the wisdom of the gods, was found in him; whom the king Nebuchadnezzar thy * father, the king, I say, thy father, made master of the magicians, astrologers, Chaldeans, and soothsayers;

12 Forasmuch [c] as an excellent spirit, and knowledge, and understanding, † interpreting of dreams, and shewing of hard sentences, and ‡ dissolving of § doubts, were found in the same Daniel, [f] whom the king named Belteshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and he will shew the interpretation.

13 Then was Daniel brought in before the king. And the king spake and said unto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children of the captivity of Judah, whom the king my ‖ father brought out of Jewry?

14 I have even heard of thee, that the spirit of the gods is in thee, and that light and understanding and excellent wisdom is found in thee.

15 And now the wise men, the astrologers, have been brought in before me, that they should read this writing, and make known unto me the interpretation thereof: but they could not shew the interpretation of the thing:

16 And I have heard of thee, that thou canst * make interpretations, and dissolve doubts: now if thou canst read the writing, and make known to me the interpretation thereof, [o] thou shalt be clothed with scarlet, and have a chain of gold about thy neck, and shalt be the third ruler in the kingdom.

17 ¶ Then Daniel answered and said before the king, [p] Let thy gifts be to thyself, and give thy § rewards to another; yet I will read the writing unto the king, and make known to him the interpretation.

18 O thou king, [s] the most high God gave Nebuchadnezzar thy father a kingdom, and majesty, and glory, and honour:

19 And for the majesty that he gave him, [u] all people, nations, and languages, trembled and feared before him: [v] whom he would he slew; and whom he would he kept alive; and whom he would he set up; and whom he would he put down.

20 But [x] when his heart was lifted up, and his mind hardened ‡ in pride, he was ‖ deposed from his kingly throne, and they took his glory from him:

21 And he was driven from the sons of men; and * his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild asses: they fed him with grass like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven; [b] till he knew that the most high God ruled in the kingdom of men, and that he appointeth over it whomsoever he will.

22 And thou his son, O Belshazzar, [c] hast not humbled thine heart, though thou knewest all this;

23 But hast lifted up thyself against the Lord of heaven; and they have brought the vessels of his house before thee, and thou, and thy lords, thy wives, and thy concubines, have drunk wine in them; and thou hast praised the gods of silver, and gold, of brass, iron, wood, and stone, which see not, nor hear, nor know: and the God in whose hand thy breath is,

[a] and whose are all thy ways, hast thou not glorified:

24 Then was the part of the hand sent from him; and this writing was written.

25 ¶ And this is the writing that was written, MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN.

26 This is the interpretation of the thing: MENE; God hath numbered thy kingdom, and finished it.

27 TEKEL; [c] Thou art weighed in the balances, [d] and art found wanting.

28 PERES; Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the [e] Medes and [f] Persians.

29 Then commanded Belshazzar, and they clothed Daniel with scarlet, and put a chain of gold about his neck, and made a proclamation concerning him, that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

30 ¶ In [g] that night was Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans slain.

31 And [h] Darius the Median took the kingdom, [i] being † about threescore and two years old.

CHAP. VI.

IT pleased Darius to set [k] over the kingdom an hundred and twenty princes, which should be over the whole kingdom;

2 And over these three presidents; of whom Daniel was first: [l] that the princes might give accounts unto them, and the king should have no damage.

3 Then this Daniel was preferred above the presidents and princes, because an excellent spirit was in him; and the king thought to set him over the whole realm.

4 ¶ Then [m] the presidents and princes sought to find occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdom; [n] but they could find none occasion nor fault; forasmuch as he was faithful, neither was there any error or fault found in him.

5 Then said these men, We shall not find any occasion against this Daniel, except we find it against him concerning the law of his God.

6 Then these presidents and princes ‖ assembled together to the king, and said thus unto him, [p] King Darius, live for ever.

7 All the presidents of the kingdom, the governors, and the princes, the counsellors, and the captains, [q] have consulted together to establish a royal statute, and to make a firm decree, that whosoever shall ask a petition of any God or man for thirty days, save of thee, O king, he shall be cast into the den of lions.

8 Now, O king, establish the decree, and sign the writing, that it be not changed, according to the [r] law of the Medes and Persians, which [s] altereth not.

9 Wherefore king Darius signed the writing and the decree.

10 ¶ Now when Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went into his house; and his windows being open in his chamber [t] toward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees [u] three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime.

11 Then these men assembled, and found Daniel praying and making supplication before his God.

12 Then [x] they came near, and spake before the king concerning the king's decree; Hast thou not signed a decree, that every man that shall ask a petition of any God or man within thirty days, save of thee, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions? The king answered and said, The thing is true, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

13 Then answered they and said before the king, That Daniel, [y] which is of the children of the captivity of Judah, [z] regardeth not thee, O king, nor the decree that thou hast signed, but maketh his petition three times a day.

14 Then the king, when he heard these words, [a] was sore displeased with himself, and set his heart on Daniel to deliver him: and he laboured till the going down of the sun to deliver him.

15 Then these men assembled unto the king, and said unto the king, Know, O king, that the law of the Medes and Persians is, That no decree nor statute which the king establisheth may be changed.

16 Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. Now the king spake and said unto Daniel, Thy God whom thou servest continually, [b] he will deliver thee.

17 And [c] a stone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den; [d] and the king sealed it with his own signet, and with the signet of his lords; that the purpose might not be changed concerning Daniel.

18 ¶ Then the king went to his palace, and passed the night fasting: neither were ‡ instruments of musick brought before him: [e] and his sleep went from him.

19 Then the king arose very early in the morning, and went in haste unto the den of lions.

20 And when he came to the den, he cried with a lamentable voice unto Daniel: and the king spake and said to Daniel, O Daniel, servant of the living God, is thy God, [f] whom thou servest continually, able to deliver thee from the lions?

21 Then said Daniel unto the king, O king, live for ever.

22 My [g] God hath sent his angel, and hath [h] shut the lions' mouths, that they have not hurt me: forasmuch as before him innocency was found in me; and also before thee, O king, have I done no hurt.

23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and commanded that they should take Daniel up out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found upon him, because he believed in his God.

24 ¶ And the king commanded, [i] and they brought those men which had accused Daniel, and they cast them into the den of lions, them, [k] their children, and their wives; and the lions had the mastery of them, and brake all their bones in pieces or ever they came at the bottom of the den.

25 ¶ Then [l] king Darius wrote unto all people, nations, and languages, that dwell in all the earth; Peace be multiplied unto you.

26 I make a decree, That in every dominion of my kingdom men [m] tremble and fear before the God of Daniel: [n] for he is the living God, and stedfast for ever, and his kingdom that which shall not be [o] destroyed, and his dominion shall be even unto the end.

27 He delivereth and rescueth, and he worketh signs and wonders in heaven and in earth, who hath delivered Daniel from the [p] power of the lions.

28 So this Daniel [q] prospered in the reign of Darius, [r] and in the reign of [s] Cyrus the Persian.

CHAP. VII.

IN the first year of Belshazzar king of Babylon [a] Daniel [a] had a dream and [b] visions of his head upon his bed: then he wrote the dream, and told the sum of the [†] matters.

2 Daniel spake and said, I saw in my vision by night, and, behold, the four winds of the heaven strove upon the great sea.

3 And four great beasts [d] came up from the sea, diverse one from another.

4 The first was [e] like a lion, and had eagle's wings: I beheld till the wings thereof were plucked, [f] and it was lifted up from the earth, and made stand upon the feet as a man, and a man's heart was given to it.

5 And [f] behold another beast, a second, like to a bear, and it raised up [g] itself on one side, and it had three ribs in the mouth of it between the teeth of it: and they said thus unto it, Arise, devour much flesh.

6 After this I beheld, and lo another, like a leopard, which had upon the back of it four wings of a fowl; the beast had also [i] four heads; and dominion was given to it.

7 After this I saw in the night visions, and behold a fourth beast, dreadful and terrible, and strong exceedingly; and it had great iron teeth: it devoured and brake in pieces, and stamped the residue with the feet of it: and it was diverse from all the beasts that were before it; [m] and it had ten horns.

8 I considered the horns, and, behold, there came up among them another little horn, before whom there were three of the first horns plucked up by the roots: and, behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes [p] of man, [r] and a mouth speaking great things.

9 [q] I beheld till the thrones were cast down, and [t] the Ancient of days did sit, [u] whose garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, [v] and his wheels as burning fire.

10 A [x] fiery stream issued and came forth from before him: [a] thousand thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him: [b] the judgment was set, and the books were opened.

11 I beheld then because of the voice of the great words which the horn spake: I beheld even till the beast was slain, and his body destroyed, and given to the burning flame.

12 As concerning the rest of the beasts, they had their dominion taken away: yet [‡] their lives were prolonged for a season and time.

13 I saw in the night visions, and, behold, [c] one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him.

14 And [h] there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages, should serve him: his dominion is [i] an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed.

15 [¶] I Daniel was grieved in my spirit in the midst of my [||] body, and the visions of my head troubled me.

16 I came near unto one of them that stood by, and asked him the truth of all this. So he told me, and made me know the interpretation of the things.

17 These great beasts, which are four, are four kings, which shall arise out of the earth.

18 But [c] the saints of the [‡] most High shall take the kingdom, and possess the kingdom for ever, even for ever and ever.

19 Then I would know the truth of the fourth beast, which was diverse from all [§] the others, exceeding dreadful, whose teeth were of iron, and his nails of brass; which devoured, brake in pieces, and stamped the residue with his feet;

20 And of the ten horns that were in his head, and of the other which came up, and before whom three fell; even of that horn that had eyes, and a mouth that spake very great things, whose look was more stout than his fellows.

21 I beheld, [f] and the same horn made war with the saints, and prevailed against them;

22 Until the Ancient of days came, [h] and judgment was given to the saints of the most High; and the time came that the saints possessed the kingdom.

23 Thus he said, The fourth beast shall be [k] the fourth kingdom upon earth, which shall be diverse from all kingdoms, and shall devour the whole earth, and shall tread it down, and break it in pieces.

24 And [l] the ten horns out of this kingdom are ten kings that shall arise: and another shall rise after them; and he shall be diverse from the first, and he shall subdue three kings.

25 And [m] he shall speak great words against the most High, and shall [o] wear out the saints of the most High, and think to change times and laws: and they shall be given into his hand [p] until a time and times and the dividing of time.

26 But the judgment shall sit, and they shall take away his dominion, to consume and to destroy it unto the end.

27 And the kingdom and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saints of the most High, [g] whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, [s] and all [†] dominions shall serve and obey him.

28 Hitherto is the end of the matter. As for me Daniel, my cogitations much troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I [t] kept the matter in my heart.

CHAP. VIII.

IN the third year of the reign of king Belshazzar a vision appeared unto me, even unto me Daniel, after that which appeared unto me [a] at the first.

2 And I saw in a vision; and it came to pass, when I saw, that I was at [f] Shushan in the palace, which is in the province of Elam; and I saw in a vision, and I was by the river of Ulai.

3 Then I lifted up mine eyes, and saw, and, behold, there stood before the river a ram which had two horns: and the two horns were high; but one was higher than the [§] other, and the higher came up last.

4 I saw the ram pushing westward, and northward, and southward; so that no beasts might stand before him, neither was there any that could deliver out of his hand; but he did according to his will, and became great.

5 And as I was considering, behold, an he goat came from the west on the face of the whole earth, and * touched not the ground: and the goat had † a notable horn between his eyes.

6 And he came to the ram that had two horns, which I had seen standing before the river, and ran unto him in the fury of his power.

7 And I saw him come close unto the ram, and he was moved with choler against him, and smote the ram, and brake his two horns: and there was no power in the ram to stand before him, but he cast him down to the ground, and stamped upon him: and there was none that could deliver the ram out of his hand.

8 Therefore the he goat waxed very great: and when he was strong, the great horn was broken; and for it came up ‖ four notable ones toward the four winds of heaven.

9 And f out of one of them came forth a little horn, which waxed exceeding great, toward the south, and toward the east, and toward the ‖ pleasant land.

10 And it waxed great, even ‖ to § the host of heaven; and ‖ it cast down some of the host and of the stars to the ground, and stamped upon them.

11 Yea, ‖ he magnified himself even † to the prince of the host, and ‖ by him ‖ the daily sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his sanctuary was cast down.

12 And § an * host was given him against the daily sacrifice by reason of transgression, and it cast down ‖ the truth to the ground; and it practised, and prospered.

13 ¶ Then I heard a one saint speaking, and another saint said unto ‖ that certain saint which spake, How long shall be the vision concerning the daily sacrifice, and the transgression * of desolation, to give both the sanctuary and the host to be trodden under foot?

14 And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred † days; then shall the sanctuary be ‡ cleansed.

15 ¶ And it came to pass, when I, even I Daniel, had seen the vision, and ‖ sought for the meaning, then, behold, there stood before me ‖ as the appearance of a man.

16 And I heard a man's voice between the banks of Ulai, which called, and said, ‖ Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision.

17 So he came near where I stood: and when he came, I was afraid, and * fell upon my face: but he said unto me, Understand, O son of man: for at the time of the end shall be the vision.

18 Now * as he was speaking with me, I was in a deep sleep on my face toward the ground: * but he touched me, and ‖ set me upright.

19 And he said, Behold, I will make thee know what shall be in the last end of the indignation: for at the time appointed the end shall be.

20 The ram which thou sawest having two horns are the kings of Media and Persia.

21 And the rough goat is the king of Grecia: and the great horn that is between his eyes is the first king.

22 Now that being broken, whereas four stood up for it, four kingdoms shall stand up out of the nation, but not in his power.

23 And in the latter time of their kingdom, when the transgressors are * come to the full, a king § of fierce countenance, and understanding dark sentences, shall stand up.

24 And his power shall be mighty, * but not by his own power: and he shall destroy wonderfully, and shall prosper, and practise, and shall destroy the mighty and the ‡ holy people.

25 And through his policy also he shall cause craft to prosper in his hand; and he shall magnify himself in his heart, and by § peace shall destroy many: he shall also stand up against the Prince of princes; but he shall be * broken without hand.

26 And the vision of the evening and the morning which was told is true: * wherefore shut thou up the vision; for it shall be for many days.

27 And I Daniel fainted, and was sick certain days; afterward I rose up, and did the king's business; and I was astonished at the vision, * but none understood it.

CHAP. IX.

IN the first year of Darius the son of Ahasuerus, of the seed of the Medes, * which was made king over the realm of the Chaldeans;

2 In the first year of his reign I Daniel understood by books the number of the years, whereof the word of the LORD came to ‖ Jeremiah the prophet, that he would accomplish seventy years in the desolations of Jerusalem.

3 ¶ And ‖ I set my face unto the Lord God, to seek by prayer and supplications, with fasting, and sackcloth, and ashes:

4 And I prayed unto the LORD my God, and made my confession, and said, O Lord, the great and dreadful God, keeping the covenant and mercy to them that love him, and to them that keep his commandments;

5 We * have sinned, and have committed iniquity, and have done wickedly, and have rebelled, even by departing from thy precepts and from thy judgments:

6 Neither have we hearkened unto thy servants the prophets, which spake in thy name to our kings, our princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

7 O Lord, * righteousness § belongeth unto thee, but unto us confusion of faces, as at this day; to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and unto all Israel, that are near, and that are far off, through all the countries whither thou hast driven them, because of their trespass that they have trespassed against thee.

8 O Lord, to us belongeth confusion of face, to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against thee.

9 To § the Lord our God belong mercies and forgivenesses, though we have rebelled against him;

10 Neither have we obeyed the voice of the LORD our God, to walk in his laws, which he set before us by his servants the prophets.

11 Yea, d all Israel have transgressed thy law, even by departing, that they might not obey thy voice; therefore the curse is poured upon us, and the oath that is written in the * law of Moses the servant of God, because we have sinned against him.

12 And he hath f confirmed his words, which he spake against us, and against our judges that judged us, by bringing upon us a great evil: for under the whole heaven hath not been done as hath been done upon Jerusalem.

13 As [a] it is written in the law of Moses, all this evil is come upon us: § yet † made we not our prayer before the LORD our God, that we might turn from our iniquities, and understand thy truth.

14 Therefore hath the LORD watched upon [b] the evil, and brought it upon us: for the LORD our God is righteous in all his works which he doeth: for we obeyed not his voice.

15 And now, O Lord our God, that hast brought thy people forth out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and hast ‖ gotten thee renown, as at this day; we have sinned, we have done wickedly.

16 ¶ O Lord, according to all thy righteousness, I beseech thee, let thine anger and thy fury be turned away from thy city Jerusalem, thy holy mountain: because for our sins, and for the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and thy people are become a reproach to all that are about us.

17 Now therefore, O our God, hear the prayer of thy servant, and his supplications, and cause thy face to shine upon thy sanctuary that is desolate, for the Lord's sake.

18 O my God, incline thine ear, and hear; open thine eyes, and behold our desolations, and the city § which is called by thy name: for we do not ‖ present our supplications before thee for our righteousnesses, but for thy great mercies.

19 O Lord, hear; O Lord, forgive; O Lord, hearken and do; defer not, for thine own sake, O my God: for thy city and thy people are called by thy name.

20 ¶ And whiles I was speaking, and praying, and confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my supplication before the LORD my God for the holy mountain of my God;

21 Yea, whiles I was speaking in prayer, even the man Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning, being caused to fly † swiftly, touched me about the time of the evening oblation.

22 And he informed me, and talked with me, and said, O Daniel, I am now come forth to § give thee skill and understanding.

23 At the beginning of thy supplications the [c] commandment came forth, and I am come to shew thee; for thou art ‡ greatly beloved: therefore understand the matter, and consider the vision.

24 § Seventy weeks are determined upon thy people and upon thy holy city, to ‖ finish the transgression, and to [c] make an end of sins, and to make reconciliation for iniquity, [d] and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal up the vision and † prophecy, [f] and to anoint the most Holy.

25 Know therefore and understand, that from the going forth of the commandment to § restore and to build Jerusalem unto the Messiah the Prince shall be seven weeks, and threescore and two weeks: the street shall ‖ be built again, and the [c] wall, even in † troublous times.

26 And after threescore and two weeks [g] shall Messiah be cut off, ‡ but not for himself: § and the people of the prince that shall come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary; and the end thereof shall be with a flood, and unto the end of the war ‖ desolations are determined.

27 And he shall confirm [c] the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, [c] and for the overspreading of [e] abominations he shall make it desolate, [d] even until the consummation, and that determined shall be poured upon the ‡ desolate.

IN the third year of Cyrus king of Persia a thing was revealed unto Daniel, whose name was called Belteshazzar; and the thing was true, but the time appointed was § long: and he understood the thing, and had understanding of the vision.

2 In those days I Daniel was mourning three [c] full weeks.

3 I ate no † pleasant bread, neither came flesh nor wine in my mouth, neither did I anoint myself at all, till three whole weeks were fulfilled.

4 And in the four and twentieth day of the first month, as I was by the side of the great river, which is Hiddekel;

5 Then I lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold ‡ a certain man clothed in linen, whose loins were girded with fine gold of Uphaz:

6 His body also was like the beryl, and his face as the appearance of lightning, and his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms and his feet like in colour to polished brass, and the voice of his words like the voice of a multitude.

7 And I Daniel alone saw the vision: for the men that were with me saw not the vision; but a great quaking fell upon them, so that they fled to hide themselves.

8 Therefore I was left alone, and saw this great vision, and there remained no strength in me: for my [c] comeliness was turned in me into corruption, and I retained no strength.

9 Yet heard I the voice of his words: and when I heard the voice of his words, then was I in a deep sleep on my face, and my face toward the ground.

10 ¶ And, behold, an hand touched me, which ‡ set me upon my knees and upon the palms of my hands.

11 And he said unto me, O Daniel, a man ‖ greatly beloved, understand the words that I speak unto thee, and stand † upright: for unto thee am I now sent. And when he had spoken this word unto me, I stood trembling.

12 Then said he unto me, Fear not, Daniel: for from the first day that thou didst set thine heart to understand, and to chasten thyself before thy God, thy words were heard, and I am come for thy words.

13 But the prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me one and twenty days: but, lo, Michael, ‡ one of the chief princes, came to help me; and I remained there with the kings of Persia.

14 Now I am come to make thee understand what shall befall thy people in the latter days: for yet the vision is for many days.

15 And when he had spoken such words unto me, I set my face toward the ground, and I became dumb.

16 And, behold, one like the similitude of the sons of men touched my lips: then I opened my mouth, and spake, and said unto him that stood before me, O my lord, by the vision my sorrows are turned upon me, and I have retained no strength.

17 For how can † the servant of this my lord talk with this my lord? for as for me, straightway there remained no strength in me, neither is there breath left in me.

18 Then there came again and touched me one like the appearance of a man, and he strengthened me, 19 And said, O man greatly beloved, [a] fear not: peace be unto thee, be strong, yea, be strong. And when he had spoken unto me, I was strengthened, and said, Let my lord speak; for thou hast strengthened me.

20 Then said he, Knowest thou wherefore I come unto thee? and now will I return to fight with the prince of Persia: and when I am gone forth, lo, the prince of Grecia shall come.

21 But I will shew thee that which is noted in the scripture of truth: and there is none that ‖holdeth with me in these things, but Michael your prince.

CHAP. XI.

ALSO I in the first year of Darius the Mede, even I, stood to confirm and to strengthen him.

2 And now will I shew thee the truth. Behold, there shall stand up yet three kings in Persia; and the fourth shall be far richer than they all: and by his strength through his riches he shall stir up all against the realm of Grecia.

3 And a mighty king shall stand up, that shall rule with great dominion, and do according to his will.

4 And when he shall stand up, his kingdom shall be broken, and shall be divided toward the four winds of heaven; and not to his posterity, [c]nor according to his dominion which he ruled: for his kingdom shall be plucked up, even for others beside those.

5 ¶ And the king of the south shall be strong, and one of his princes; and he shall be strong above him, and have dominion; his dominion shall be a great dominion.

6 And in the end of years they shall ‖join themselves together; for the king's daughter of the south shall come to the king of the north to make [e]an agreement: but she shall not retain the power of the arm; neither shall he stand, nor his arm: but she shall be given up, and they that brought her, and [f]he that begat her, and he that strengthened her in these times.

7 But out of a branch of her roots shall one stand up in his †estate, which shall come with an army, and shall enter into the fortress of the king of the north, and shall deal against them, and shall prevail:

8 And shall also carry captives into Egypt their gods, with their princes, and with ‖their precious vessels of silver and of gold; and he shall continue more years than the king of the north.

9 So the king of the south shall come into his kingdom, and shall return into his own land.

10 But his sons shall †be stirred up, and shall assemble a multitude of great forces: and one shall certainly come, and [h]overflow, and pass through: then shall he †return, and be stirred up, even to his fortress.

11 And the king of the south shall be moved with choler, and shall come forth and fight with him, even with the king of the north: and he shall set forth a great multitude; but the multitude shall be given into his hand.

12 And when he hath taken away the multitude, his heart shall be lifted up; and he shall cast down many ten thousands: but he shall not be strengthened by it.

13 For the king of the north shall return, and shall set forth a multitude greater than the former, and shall certainly come [o]after certain years with a great army and with much riches.

14 And in those times there shall many stand up against the king of the south: also the †robbers of thy people shall exalt themselves to establish the vision; but they shall fall.

15 So the king of the north shall come, and cast up a mount, and take the ‡most fenced cities: and the arms of the south shall not withstand, neither §his chosen people, neither shall there be any strength to withstand.

16 But he that cometh against him shall do according to his own will, and none shall stand before him: and he shall stand in the [p]glorious land, which by his hand shall be consumed.

17 He shall also [b] set his face to enter with the strength of his whole kingdom, and †upright ones with him; thus shall he do: and he shall give him the daughter of women, ‡corrupting her: but she shall not stand on his side, neither be for him.

18 After this shall he turn his face unto the isles, and shall take many: but a prince §for his own behalf shall cause ‖the reproach offered by him to cease; without his own reproach he shall cause it to turn upon him.

19 Then he shall turn his face toward the fort of his own land: but he shall stumble and fall, [d] and not be found.

20 Then shall stand up in his [p]estate †a raiser of taxes in the glory of the kingdom: but within few days he shall be destroyed, neither in ‡anger, nor in battle.

21 And in his §estate shall stand up a vile person, to whom they shall not give the honour of the kingdom: but he shall come in peaceably, and obtain the kingdom by flatteries.

22 And with the arms of a flood shall they be overflown from before him, and shall be broken; [e] yea, also the prince of the covenant.

23 And / after the league made with him he shall work deceitfully: for he shall come up, and shall become strong with a small people.

24 He shall enter §peaceably even upon the fattest places of the province; and he shall do that which his fathers have not done, nor his fathers' fathers; he shall scatter among them the prey, and spoil, and riches: yea, and he shall [p]forecast his devices against the strong holds, even for a time.

25 And [f] he shall stir up his power and his courage against the king of the south with a great army; and the king of the south shall be stirred up to battle with a very great and mighty army; but he shall not stand: for they shall forecast devices against him.

26 Yea, they that feed of the portion of his meat shall destroy him, and his army shall overflow: and many shall fall down slain.

27 And both these kings' §hearts shall be to do mischief, and they shall speak lies at one table; but it shall not prosper: for yet the end shall be at the time appointed.

28 Then shall he return into his land with great riches; and his heart shall be against the holy covenant: and he shall do exploits, and return to his own land.

29 At the time appointed he shall return, and come toward the south; but it shall not be as the former, or as the latter.

30 ¶ For [a] the ships of Chittim shall come against him: therefore he shall be grieved, and return, and have indignation [b] against the holy covenant: so shall he do; he shall even return, [d] and have intelligence with them that forsake the holy covenant.

31 And arms shall stand on his part, and they shall pollute the sanctuary of strength, and shall take away the daily sacrifice, and they shall place the abomination that [†] maketh desolate.

32 And such as do wickedly against the covenant shall he [‡] corrupt by flatteries: but the people that do know their God shall be strong, and do exploits.

33 And [§] they that understand among the people shall instruct many: [i] yet they shall fall by the sword, and by flame, by captivity, and by spoil, many days.

34 Now when they shall fall, they shall be holpen with a little help: but many shall cleave to them with flatteries.

35 And some of them of understanding shall fall, [o] to try [‖] them, and to purge, and to make them white, even to the time of the end: because it is yet for a time appointed.

36 And the king shall do according to his will; and he shall [p] exalt himself, and magnify himself above every god, and shall speak marvellous things against the God of gods, and shall prosper till the indignation be accomplished: for that that is determined shall be done.

37 Neither shall he regard the God of his fathers, [r] nor the desire of women, nor regard any god: for he shall magnify himself above all.

38 But [‡] in his [§] estate shall he honour the God of [‖] forces: and a god whom his fathers knew not shall he honour with gold, and silver, and with precious stones, and [†] pleasant things.

39 Thus shall he do in the [‡] most strong holds with a strange god, whom he shall acknowledge and increase with glory: and he shall cause them to rule over many, and shall divide the land for [§] gain.

40 And at the time of the end shall the king of the south push at him: and the king of the north shall come against him [u] like a whirlwind, with chariots, and with horsemen, and with many ships; and he shall enter into the countries, and shall overflow and pass over.

41 He shall enter also into the [‖] glorious land, and many countries shall be overthrown: but these shall escape out of his hand, [x] even Edom, and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon.

42 He shall [‡] stretch forth his hand also upon the countries: and the land of Egypt shall not escape.

43 But he shall have power over the treasures of gold and of silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt: and the Libyans and the Ethiopians shall be at his steps.

44 But tidings out of the east and out of the north shall trouble him: therefore he shall go forth with great fury to destroy, and utterly to make away many.

45 And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palace between the seas in the [•] glorious holy mountain; [e] yet he shall come to his end, and none shall help him.

CHAP. XII.

AND at that time shall Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people: and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time: and at that time thy people [t] shall be delivered, every one that shall be found [f] written in the book.

2 And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, [h] some to everlasting life, and some to shame [j] and everlasting contempt.

3 And they that be [§] wise shall [k] shine as the brightness of the firmament; [l] and they that turn many to righteousness [m] as the stars for ever and ever.

4 But thou, O Daniel, [n] shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.

5 ¶ Then I Daniel looked, and, behold, there stood other two, the one on this side of the [•] bank of the river, and the other on that side of the bank of the river.

6 And one said to the man clothed in linen, which was [†] upon the waters of the river, How long shall it be to the end of these wonders?

7 And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and sware by him that liveth for ever that it shall be for a time, times, and [•] an half; [s] and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished.

8 And I heard, but I understood not: then said I, O my Lord, what shall be the end of these things?

9 And he said, Go thy way, Daniel: for the words are closed up and sealed till the time of the end.

10 Many [t] shall be purified, and made white, and tried; but the wicked shall do wickedly: and none of the wicked shall understand; but [v] the wise shall understand.

11 And from the time that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away, and [•] the abomination that [†] maketh desolate set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days.

12 Blessed is he that waiteth, and cometh to the thousand three hundred and five and thirty days.

13 But go thou thy way till the end be: [§] for thou shalt rest, [y] and stand in thy lot at the end of the days.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CH. III. 21.—COAT, HOSEN, AND HATS. The cut is from the carvings in the ruins of Persepolis, supposed to have been erected about the time of Daniel, and perhaps affords as near a representation as possible of the costume referred to. Hats mean a head covering, more properly caps; coats, rather cloaks; and hose, the tunic.

CH. V. 27.—DEATH, JUDGMENT, &c. The Egyptians believed that the actions of the dead were weighed before Osiris the supreme judge of souls, and that their condition was determined according to the preponderance of good or evil. Several of these scenes are before us, in which Osiris is prominent. The god is enthroned in a magnificent shrine, and holds in his hands the symbols of dominion and justice.

HOSEA.

Here begin the twelve minor prophets, so called 'not because their writings are of any less authority, or usefulness, than those of the greater prophets, or as if these prophets were less in God's account, or might be so in ours than the other; but only because they are shorter and less in bulk than the other. We have reason to think that these prophets preached as much as the others, but they did not write so much, nor is so much of their preaching kept upon record.' The Jewish nation, Messiah, and latter days, are the subjects of this book. Hosea prophesied from about 790 years B. C. to about 734.

CHAP. I.

THE word of the LORD that came unto Hosea, the son of Beeri, in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel.

2 The beginning of the word of the LORD by Hosea. And the LORD said to Hosea, [a] Go, take unto thee a wife of whoredoms and children of whoredoms: for [d] the land hath committed great whoredom, departing from the LORD.

3 So he went and took Gomer the daughter of Diblaim; which conceived, and bare him a son.

4 And the LORD said unto him, Call his name Jezreel; for yet a little while, and [f] I will ‡ avenge the blood of Jezreel upon the house of Jehu, and will cause to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel.

5 And it shall come to pass at that day, that I will break the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezreel.

6 ¶ And she conceived again, and bare a daughter. And God said unto him, Call her name † Lo-ruhamah: for I will ‡ no more have mercy upon the house of Israel; § but I will utterly take them away.

7 But [i] I will have mercy upon the house of Judah, and will save them by the LORD their God, and will not save them by bow, nor by sword, nor by battle, by horses, nor by horsemen.

8 ¶ Now when she had weaned Lo-ruhamah, she conceived, and bare a son.

9 Then said God, Call his name † Loammi: for ye are not my people, and I will not be your God.

10 ¶ Yet [m] the number of the children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured nor numbered; [n] and it shall come to pass, that † in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people, there it shall be said unto them, Ye are [o] the sons of the living God.

11 Then [r] shall the children of Judah and the children of Israel be gathered together, and appoint themselves one head, and they shall come up out of the land: for great shall be the day of Jezreel.

CHAP. II.

SAY ye unto your brethren, ‡ Ammi; and to your sisters, [s] Ruhamah.

2 Plead with your mother, plead: for she [t] is not my wife, neither am I her husband: let her therefore put away her whoredoms out of her sight, and her adulteries from between her breasts;

3 Lest I strip her naked, and set her as in the day that she was [u] born, and make her as a wilderness, and set her like a dry land, and slay her with thirst.

4 And I will not have mercy upon her children; for they be the [a] children of whoredoms.

5 For [b] their mother hath played the harlot: she that conceived them hath done shamefully: for she said, I will go after my lovers, that give me my bread and my water, my wool and my flax, mine oil and my [c] drink.

6 ¶ Therefore, behold, I will hedge up thy way with thorns, and † make a wall, that she shall not find her paths.

7 And she shall follow after her lovers, but she shall not overtake them; and she shall seek them, but shall not find them: then shall she say, [d] I will go and return to my first husband; for then was it better with me than now.

8 For she did not [f] know that I gave her corn, and § wine, and oil, and multiplied her silver and gold, ‖ which they prepared for Baal.

9 Therefore will I return, and take away my corn in the time thereof, and my wine in the season thereof, and will [e] recover my wool and my flax given to cover her nakedness.

10 And now [h] will I discover her ‖ lewdness in the sight of her lovers, and none shall deliver her out of mine hand.

11 I will also cause all her mirth to cease, her [k] feast days, her new moons, and her sabbaths, and all her solemn feasts.

12 And I will [e] destroy her vines and her fig trees, whereof she hath said, These are my rewards that my lovers have given me: and [l] I will make them a forest, and the beasts of the field shall eat them.

13 And I will visit upon her the days of Baalim, wherein she burned incense to them, and she decked herself with her earrings and her jewels, and she went after her lovers, and forgat me, saith the LORD.

14 ¶ Therefore, behold, I will allure her, and [p] bring her into the wilderness, and speak § comfortably unto her.

15 And I will give her her vineyards from thence, and [s] the valley of Achor for a door of hope: and she shall sing there, as in [t] the days of her youth, and [u] as in the day when she came up out of the land of Egypt.

16 And it shall be at that day, saith the LORD, that thou shalt call me † Ishi; and shalt call me no more ‡ Baali.

17 For [w] I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shall no more be remembered by their name.

18 And in that day will I make a [y] covenant for them with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven, and with the creeping things of the ground: and I will break the bow and the sword and the battle out of the earth, and will make them to [b] lie down safely.

19 And I will betroth thee unto me for ever; yea, I will betroth thee unto me in righteousness, and in judgment, and in lovingkindness, and in mercies.

20 I will even betroth thee unto me in faithfulness: and [d] thou shalt know the LORD.

21 And it shall come to pass in that day, [f] I will hear, saith the LORD, I will hear the heavens, and they shall hear the earth;

22 And the earth shall hear the corn, and the wine, and the oil; and they shall hear Jezreel.

23 And I will sow her unto me in the earth; and I will have mercy upon her that had not obtained mercy; and I will say to them which were not my people, Thou art my people; and they shall say, Thou art my God.

CHAP. III.

THEN said the LORD unto me, [i] Go yet, love a woman beloved of her [k] friend, yet an adulteress, according to the love of the LORD toward the children of Israel, who look to other gods, and love flagons of I wine.

2 So I bought her to me for fifteen pieces of silver, and for an homer of barley, and an § half homer of barley:

3 And I said unto her, Thou shalt abide [m] for me many days; thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt not be for another man: so will I also be for thee.

4 For the children of Israel shall abide many days [o] without a king, and without a prince, and without a sacrifice, and without † an image, and without an [p] ephod, and without [r] teraphim:

5 Afterward shall the children of Israel return, and [s] seek the LORD their God, and [t] David their king; and shall fear the LORD and his goodness in the [u] latter days.

CHAP. IV.

HEAR the word of the LORD, ye children of Israel: for the LORD hath a [x] controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land.

2 By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and committing adultery, they break out, and [a] blood toucheth blood.

3 Therefore [b] shall the land mourn, and [b] every one that dwelleth therein shall languish, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven; yea, the fishes of the sea also shall be taken away.

4 Yet let no man strive, nor reprove another: for thy people are as they [c] that strive with the priest.

5 Therefore shalt thou fall in the day, and the prophet also shall fall with thee in the night, and I will † destroy thy mother.

6 ¶ My [e] people are ‡ destroyed for lack of knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to me: seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children.

7 As they were increased, so they sinned against me: therefore will I change their glory into shame.

8 They eat up the sin of my people, and they § set their heart on their iniquity.

9 And there shall be, [i] like people, like priest: and I will ‖ punish them for their ways, and [k] reward them their doings.

10 For [e] they shall eat, and not have enough: they shall commit whoredom, and shall not increase: because they have left off to take heed to the LORD.

11 Whoredom and wine and new wine [e] take away the heart.

12 ¶ My people ask counsel at their stocks, and their staff declareth unto them: for [e] the spirit of whoredoms hath caused them to err, and they have gone a whoring from under their God.

13 They [g] sacrifice upon the tops of the mountains, and burn incense upon the hills, under oaks and poplars and elms, because the shadow thereof is good: [h] therefore your daughters shall commit whoredom, and your spouses shall commit adultery.

14 [g] I will not punish your daughters when they commit whoredom, nor your spouses when they commit adultery: for themselves are separated with whores, and they sacrifice with harlots: therefore the people that doth not understand shall fall.

15 ¶ Though thou, Israel, play the harlot, yet let not Judah offend; and come not ye unto Gilgal, neither go ye up to Beth-aven, nor swear, The LORD liveth.

16 For Israel slideth back as a backsliding heifer: now the LORD will feed them as a lamb in a large place.

17 Ephraim is joined to idols: [i] let him alone.

18 Their drink ‖ is sour: they have committed whoredom continually: her [e] rulers with shame do love, Give ye.

19 The [m] wind hath bound her up in her wings, and they shall be ashamed because of their sacrifices.

CHAP. V.

HEAR ye this, O priests; and hearken, ye house of Israel; and give ye ear, O house of the king; for judgment is toward you, because ye have been a snare on Mizpah, and a net spread upon Tabor.

2 And the revolters are [e] profound to make slaughter, ‡ though I have been a § rebuker of them all.

3 I [y] know Ephraim, and Israel is not hid from me: for now, O Ephraim, [z] thou committest whoredom, and Israel is defiled.

4 ‖ They will not frame their doings to turn unto their God: for the spirit of whoredoms is in the midst of them, and they have not known the LORD.

5 And the pride of Israel doth testify to his face: therefore shall Israel and Ephraim fall in their iniquity; Judah also shall fall with them.

6 They [d] shall go with their flocks and with their herds to seek the LORD; but they shall not find him; he hath withdrawn himself from them.

7 They have dealt treacherously against the LORD: for they have begotten strange children: now shall [f] a month devour them with their portions.

8 Blow ye the cornet in Gibeah, and the trumpet in Ramah: [g] cry aloud at Beth-aven, after thee, O Benjamin.

9 Ephraim shall be desolate in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel have I made known that which shall surely be.

in judgment, because he willingly walked after [a] the commandment.

12 Therefore will I be unto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Judah [b] as [c] rottenness.

13 When Ephraim saw his sickness, and Judah saw his wound, then went Ephraim [d] to the Assyrian, and sent † to king Jareb: yet could he not heal you, nor cure you of your wound.

14 For I will be unto Ephraim as a lion, and as a young lion to the house of Judah: [e] I, even I, will tear and go away; I will take away, and none shall rescue him.

15 ¶ I will go and return to my place, till [f] they § acknowledge their offence, and seek my face: in their affliction they will seek me early.

CHAP. VI.

COME, and let us return unto the LORD: for [a] he hath torn, and [a] he will heal us; he hath smitten, and he will bind us up.

2 After [b] two days will he revive us: in the third day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight.

3 Then [c] shall we know, if we follow on to know the LORD: his going forth is prepared as the morning; and he shall come unto us as the rain, as the latter and former rain unto the earth.

4 ¶ O Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee? O Judah, what shall I do unto thee? for your [d] goodness is as a morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away.

5 Therefore have I hewed them [e] by the prophets; I have slain them by [f] the words of my mouth: ‡ and thy judgments are as the light that goeth forth.

6 For I desired [g] mercy, and not sacrifice; and the [g] knowledge of God more than burnt offerings.

7 But they like § men have transgressed the covenant: there have they dealt treacherously against me.

8 Gilead is a city of them that work iniquity, and is [h] polluted with blood.

9 And as troops of robbers wait for a man, so [i] the company of priests murder in the way † by consent: for they commit ‖ lewdness.

10 I have seen [k] an horrible thing in the house of Israel: there is the whoredom of Ephraim, Israel is defiled.

11 Also, O Judah, [l] he hath set an harvest for thee, [m] when I returned the captivity of my people.

CHAP. VII.

WHEN I would have healed Israel, then the iniquity of Ephraim was discovered, and the § wickedness of Samaria: for they commit falsehood; and the thief cometh in, and the troop of robbers ‖ spoileth without.

2 And they [a] consider not in their hearts that I f remember all their wickedness: now their own doings have beset them about; they are before my face.

3 They make the king glad with their wickedness, and the princes with their lies.

4 They are all adulterers, as an oven heated by the baker, ‡ who ceaseth from § raising after he hath kneaded the dough, until it be leavened.

5 In the day of our king the princes have made him sick with [b] bottles of wine; he stretched out his hand with scorners.

their baker sleepeth all the night; in the morning it burneth as a flaming fire.

7 They are all hot as an oven, and have devoured their judges; all their kings [a] are fallen: there is none among them that calleth unto me.

8 Ephraim, he [d] hath mixed himself among the people; Ephraim is a cake not turned.

9 Strangers have devoured his strength, and he knoweth it not: yea, gray hairs are † here and there upon him, yet he knoweth not.

10 And the pride of Israel testifieth to his face: and [b] they do not return to the LORD their God, nor seek him for all this.

11 ¶ Ephraim also is like a silly dove without heart: [c] they call to Egypt, they go to Assyria.

12 When they shall go, [f] I will spread my net upon them; I will bring them down as the fowls of the heaven; I will chastise them, as their congregation hath heard.

16 They return, but not to the most High: they are like a deceitful bow: their princes shall fall by the sword for the rage of their tongue: this shall be their derision in the land of Egypt.

CHAP. VIII.

SET the trumpet to ‖ thy mouth. He shall come † as an eagle against the house of the LORD, because they have transgressed my covenant, and trespassed against my law.

2 Israel shall cry unto me, My God, [a] we know thee.

3 Israel hath cast off the thing that is good: the enemy shall pursue him.

4 They [a] have set up kings, but not by me: they have made princes, and I knew it not: of their silver and their gold have they made them idols, that they may be cut off.

5 ¶ Thy calf, O Samaria, hath cast thee off; mine anger is kindled against them: how long will it be ere they attain to innocency?

12 I have written to him [a] the great things of my law, but they were counted as a strange thing.

13 †They sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offerings, and eat it; but the LORD accepteth them not; [b] now will he remember their iniquity, and visit their sins: they shall return to Egypt.

14 For Israel hath forgotten [d] his Maker, and buildeth temples; and Judah hath multiplied fenced cities: but I will send a fire upon his cities, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

CHAP. IX.

REJOICE not, O Israel, for joy, as other people: for thou hast gone a whoring from thy God, thou hast loved a reward [f] upon every cornfloor.

2 The floor and the ‡ winepress shall not feed them, and the new wine shall fail in her.

3 They shall not dwell in the LORD's land; [g] but Ephraim shall return to Egypt, and they shall eat unclean things in Assyria.

4 They shall not offer wine offerings to the LORD, [i] neither shall they be pleasing unto him: [k] their sacrifices shall be unto them as the bread of mourners; all that eat thereof shall be polluted: for their bread for their soul shall not come into the house of the LORD.

5 What will ye do in the solemn day, and in the day of the feast of the LORD?

6 For, lo, they are gone because of [o] destruction: Egypt shall gather them up, Memphis shall bury them: † the pleasant places for their silver, nettles shall possess them: thorns shall be in their tabernacles.

7 The days of visitation are come, the days of recompence are come; Israel shall know it: the prophet is a fool, [m] the ‡ spiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquity, and the great hatred.

8 The watchman of Ephraim was with my God: but the prophet is a snare of a fowler in all his ways, and hatred ‖ in the house of his God.

9 They have deeply corrupted themselves, as in the days [p] of Gibeah: therefore he will remember their iniquity, he will visit their sins.

10 I found Israel like grapes in the wilderness; I saw your fathers as the firstripe in the fig tree at her first time: but they went to Baal-peor, and separated themselves [r] unto that shame; [s] and their abominations were according as they loved.

11 As for Ephraim, their glory shall fly away like a bird, from the birth, and from the womb, and from the conception.

12 Though they bring up their children, yet [v] will I bereave them, that there shall not be a man left: yea, woe also to them when I [x] depart from them!

13 Ephraim, [y] as I saw Tyrus, is planted in a pleasant place: but Ephraim shall bring forth his children to the murderer.

14 Give them, O LORD: what wilt thou give? give them [z] a ‡ miscarrying womb and dry breasts.

15 All their wickedness is in Gilgal: for there I hated them: for the wickedness of their doings I will drive them out of mine house, I will love them no more: all their princes are revolters.

16 Ephraim is smitten, their root is dried up, they shall bear no fruit: yea, though they bring forth, yet will I slay even [c] the beloved fruit of their womb.

17 My God will cast them away, because they did not hearken unto him: and they shall be wanderers among the nations.

CHAP. X.

ISRAEL is † an [e] empty vine, he bringeth forth fruit unto himself: according to the multitude of his fruit he hath increased the altars; according to the goodness of his land they have made goodly § images.

2 ‖ Their heart is [e] divided; now shall they be found faulty: he shall [a]break down their altars, he shall spoil their images.

3 For now they shall say, We have no king, because we feared not the LORD; what then should a king do to us?

4 They have spoken words, swearing falsely in making a covenant: thus judgment springeth up [f] as hemlock in the furrows of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria shall fear because of [h] the calves of Beth-aven: for the people thereof shall mourn over it, and § the priests thereof that rejoiced on it, for the glory thereof, because it is departed from it.

6 It shall be also carried unto Assyria for a present to king Jareb: Ephraim shall receive shame, and Israel shall be ashamed of his own counsel.

7 As for Samaria, her king is cut off as the foam upon the ‖ water.

8 The high places also of Aven, the sin of Israel, shall be destroyed: the thorn and the thistle shall come up on their altars; [i] and they shall say to the mountains, Cover us; and to the hills, Fall on us.

9 O Israel, thou hast sinned from the days of Gibeah: there they stood: the battle in Gibeah against the children of iniquity did not overtake them.

10 It [k] is in my desire that I should chastise them; and the people shall be gathered against them, when § they shall bind themselves in their two furrows.

11 And Ephraim is as an heifer that is taught, and loveth to tread out the corn; but I passed over upon [l] her fair neck: I will make Ephraim to ride; Judah shall plow, and Jacob shall break his clods.

12 Sow [m] to yourselves in righteousness, reap in mercy; break up your fallow ground: for it is time to seek the LORD, till he come and rain righteousness upon you.

13 Ye [o] have plowed wickedness, ye have reaped iniquity; ye have eaten the fruit of lies: because thou didst trust in thy way, in the multitude of thy mighty men.

14 Therefore shall a tumult arise among thy people, and all thy fortresses shall be spoiled, as Shalman spoiled [u] Beth-arbel in the day of battle: the mother was dashed in pieces upon her children.

15 So shall Beth-el do unto you because of † your great wickedness: in a morning shall the king of Israel utterly be cut off.

CHAP. XI.

WHEN Israel was a child, then I loved him, and [c] called my [b] son out of Egypt.

2 As they called them, so they went from them: [c] they sacrificed unto Baalim, and burned incense to graven images.

4 I drew them with cords of a man, with bands of love: and [a] I was to them as they that [b]take off the yoke on their jaws, and I laid meat unto them.

5 ¶ He shall not return into the land of Egypt, [†] but the Assyrian shall be his king, because they refused to return.

6 And the sword shall abide on his cities, and shall consume his branches, and devour them, because of their own counsels.

7 And my people are bent to [c] backsliding from me: though they called them to the most High, [‖] none at all would exalt him.

8 How [d] shall I give thee up, Ephraim? how shall I deliver thee, Israel? how shall I make thee as [e] Admah? how shall I set thee as Zeboim? mine heart is turned within me, my repentings are kindled together.

9 I will not execute the fierceness of mine anger, I will not return to destroy Ephraim: [f] for I am God, and not man; the Holy One in the midst of thee: and I will not enter into the city.

10 They shall walk after the LORD: he shall roar like a lion: when he shall roar, then the children shall tremble from the west.

11 They shall tremble as a bird out of Egypt, and as a dove out of the land of Assyria: and I will place them in their houses, saith the LORD.

12 Ephraim compasseth me about with lies, and the house of Israel with deceit: but Judah yet ruleth with God, and is faithful with the [§] saints.

CHAP. XII.

EPHRAIM feedeth on wind, and followeth after the east wind: he daily increaseth lies and desolation; [i] and they do make a covenant with the Assyrians, and oil is carried into Egypt.

2 The [m] LORD hath also a controversy with Judah, and will [†] punish Jacob according to his ways; according to his doings will he recompense him.

3 ¶ He took his brother [p] by the heel in the womb, and by his strength [r] he [§] had power with God:

4 Yea, he had power over the angel, and prevailed: he wept, and made supplication unto him: he found him in Beth-el, and there he spake with us;

5 Even the LORD God of hosts; the LORD is his memorial.

6 Therefore [u] turn thou to thy God: keep mercy and judgment, and [v] wait on thy God continually.

7 ¶ He is [†] a merchant, the balances of deceit are in his hand: he loveth to [‡] oppress.

8 And Ephraim said, [w] Yet I am become rich, I have found me out substance: [§] in all my labours they shall find none iniquity in me [‖] that were sin.

9 And I that am the LORD thy God from the land of Egypt will yet make thee to dwell in tabernacles, as in the days of the solemn feast.

10 I have also spoken by the prophets, and I have multiplied visions, and used similitudes, by the [‡] ministry of the prophets.

11 Is there iniquity in Gilead? surely they are vanity: they sacrifice bullocks in Gilgal; yea, their altars are as heaps in the furrows of the fields.

12 And Jacob [b] fled into the country of Syria, and Israel served for a wife, and for a wife he kept sheep.

13 And [b] by a prophet the LORD brought Israel out of Egypt, and by a prophet was he preserved.

14 Ephraim provoked him to anger [‡] most bitterly: therefore shall he leave his [§] blood upon him, and his reproach shall his Lord return unto him.

CHAP. XIII.

WHEN Ephraim spake trembling, he exalted himself in Israel; but [d] when he offended in Baal, he died.

2 And now they [e] sin more and more, and have made them molten images of their silver, and idols according to their own understanding, all of it the work of the craftsmen: they say of them, Let the [†] men that sacrifice [f] kiss the calves.

3 Therefore they shall be as the morning cloud, and as the early dew that passeth away, [g] as the chaff that is driven with the whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke out of the chimney.

4 Yet I am the LORD thy God from the land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no god but me: for there is no saviour beside me.

5 ¶ I did know thee in the wilderness, in the land of [‡] great drought.

6 According [h] to their pasture, so were they filled; they were filled, and their heart was exalted; therefore have they forgotten me.

7 Therefore I will be unto them as a lion: as a leopard by the way will I observe them:

8 I will meet them as a bear that is bereaved of her whelps, and will rend the caul of their heart, and there will I devour them like a lion: the [‖] wild beast shall tear them.

9 ¶ O Israel, [m] thou hast destroyed thyself; but in me [e] is thine help.

10 [‡] I will be thy king: [e] where is any other that may save thee in all thy cities? and thy judges of whom thou saidst, Give me a king and princes?

11 I [e] gave thee a king in mine anger, and took him away in my wrath.

12 The [s] iniquity of Ephraim is bound up; his sin is hid.

13 The sorrows of a travailing woman shall come upon him: he is an unwise son; for he should not stay [‡] long in the place of the breaking forth of children.

14 I will ransom them from the [e] power of the grave; I will redeem them from death: [e] O death, I will be thy plagues; O grave, I will be thy destruction: [p] repentance shall be hid from mine eyes.

15 ¶ Though [x] he be fruitful among his brethren, an east wind shall come, the wind of the LORD shall come up from the wilderness, and his spring shall become dry, and his fountain shall be dried up: he shall spoil the treasure of all [e]pleasant vessels.

16 [†] Samaria shall become desolate; for she hath rebelled against her God: they shall fall by the sword: their infants shall be dashed in pieces, and their women with child shall be ripped up.

JOEL.

The date of this prophesy is fixed by some from B. C. 667 to 660, and in the reign of Manasseh, but this is quite uncertain. Joel prophesied to Judah.

CHAP. I.

THE word of the LORD that came to Joel the son of Pethuel.

2 Hear this, ye old men, and give ear, all ye inhabitants of the land. Hath this been in your days, or even in the days of your fathers?

3 Tell [a] ye your children of it, and let your children tell their children, and their children another generation.

4 [†] That [b] which the palmerworm hath left hath the locust eaten; and that which the locust hath left hath the cankerworm eaten; and that which the cankerworm hath left hath the caterpiller eaten.

5 Awake, ye drunkards, and weep; and howl, all ye drinkers of wine, because of the new wine; [c] for it is cut off from your mouth.

6 For [d] a nation is come up upon my land, strong, and without number, [e] whose teeth are the teeth of a lion, and he hath the cheek teeth of a great lion.

7 He hath [m] laid my vine waste, and [‖] barked my fig tree: he hath made it clean bare, and cast it away; the branches thereof are made white.

8 ¶ Lament [f] like a virgin girded with sackcloth for [g] the husband of her youth.

9 The meat offering and the drink offering is cut off from the house of the LORD; the priests, the LORD'S ministers, mourn.

10 The field is wasted, [h] the land mourneth; for the corn is wasted: [n] the new wine is [†] dried up, the oil languisheth.

11 Be [*] ye ashamed, O ye husbandmen; howl, O ye vinedressers, for the wheat and for the barley; because the harvest of the field is perished.

12 The vine is dried up, and the fig tree languisheth; the pomegranate tree, the palm tree also, and the apple tree, even all the trees of the field, are withered: because [*] joy is withered away from the sons of men.

13 Gird [i] yourselves, and lament, ye priests: howl, ye ministers of the altar: come, lie all night in sackcloth, ye ministers of my God: for the meat offering and the drink offering is withholden from the house of your God.

14 ¶ Sanctify [k] ye a fast, call [l] a [§] solemn assembly, gather the elders and [m] all the inhabitants of the land into the house of the LORD your God, and cry unto the LORD.

15 Alas [n] for the day! for [o] the day of the LORD is at hand, and as a destruction from the Almighty shall it come.

16 Is not the meat cut off before our eyes, yea, joy and gladness from the house of our God?

17 The [*] seed is rotten under their clods, the garners are laid desolate, the barns are broken down; for the corn is withered.

18 How do [p] the beasts groan! the herds of cattle are perplexed, because they have no pasture; yea, the flocks of sheep are made desolate.

19 O LORD, [q] to thee will I cry: for [r] the fire hath devoured the [‡] pastures of the wilderness, and the flame hath burned all the trees of the field.

20 The beasts of the field [s] cry also unto thee: for [t] the rivers of waters are dried up, and the fire hath devoured the pastures of the wilderness.

CHAP. II.

BLOW [a] ye the [§] trumpet in Zion, and [‖] sound an alarm in my holy mountain: let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for [*] the day of the LORD cometh, for it is nigh at hand;

2 A day of darkness and of gloominess, a day of clouds and of thick darkness, as the morning spread upon the mountains: a great people and a strong; [b] there hath not been ever the like, neither shall be any more after it, even to the years of [*] many generations.

3 A fire devoureth before them; and behind them a flame burneth: the land is as [c] the garden of Eden before them, [†] and behind them a desolate wilderness; yea, and nothing shall escape them.

4 The appearance of them is as the appearance of horses; and as horsemen, so shall they run.

5 Like [d] the noise of chariots on the tops of mountains shall they leap, like the noise of a flame of fire that devoureth the stubble, as a strong people set in battle array.

6 Before their face the people shall be much pained: [e] all faces shall gather [‡] blackness.

7 They shall run like mighty men; they shall climb the wall like men of war; and they shall march every one on his ways, and they shall not break their ranks:

8 Neither shall one thrust another; they shall walk every one in his path:

and when they fall upon the [o] sword, they shall not be wounded.

9 They shall run to and fro in the city; they shall run upon the wall, they shall climb up upon the houses; they shall [c] enter in at the windows [d] like a thief.

10 The [e] earth shall quake before them; the heavens shall tremble: [f] the sun and the moon shall be dark, and the stars shall withdraw their shining:

11 And the LORD shall utter his voice before his army: for his camp is very great: [g] for he is strong that executeth his word: for the [m] day of the LORD is great and very terrible; and who can abide it?

12 ¶ Therefore also now, saith the LORD, [n] turn ye even to me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning:

13 And [o] rend your heart, and not [p] your garments, and turn unto the LORD your God: for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil.

14 Who knoweth if he will return and repent, and leave [q] a blessing behind him; even a meat offering and a drink offering unto the LORD your God?

15 ¶ Blow [r] the trumpet in Zion, sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly:

16 Gather the people, [s] sanctify the congregation, assemble the elders, [t] gather the children, and those that suck the breasts: [u] let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her closet.

17 Let the priests, the ministers of the LORD, weep [v] between the porch and the altar, and let them say, [w] Spare thy people, O LORD, and give not thine heritage to reproach, that the heathen should [x] rule over them: [y] wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?

18 ¶ Then will the LORD [z] be jealous for his land, [a] and pity his people.

19 Yea, the LORD will answer and say unto his people, Behold, I will send you [b] corn, and wine, and oil, and ye shall be satisfied therewith: and I will no more make you a reproach among the heathen:

20 But [c] I will remove far off from you [d] the northern army, and will drive him into a land barren and desolate, with his face toward the east sea, and his hinder part toward the utmost sea, and his stink shall come up, and his ill savour shall come up, because he hath [‖] done great things.

21 ¶ Fear not, O land; be glad and rejoice: for the LORD will do great things.

22 Be not afraid, ye beasts of the field: for [e] the pastures of the wilderness do spring, for the tree beareth her fruit, the fig tree and the vine do yield their strength.

23 Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and [f] rejoice in the LORD your God: for he hath given you [†] the former rain [‡] moderately, and he will cause to come down for you [g] the rain, the former rain, and the latter rain in the first month.

24 And the floors shall be full of wheat, and the fats shall overflow with wine and oil.

25 And I will restore to you the years that the locust hath eaten, the cankerworm, and the caterpiller, and the palmerworm, my great army which I sent among you.

26 And ye shall [h] eat in plenty, and be satisfied, and praise the name of the LORD your God, that hath dealt wondrously

CHAP. III.

FOR, behold, [a] in those days, and in that time, when I shall bring again the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem,

2 I [d] will also gather all nations, and will bring them down into [e] the valley of Jehoshaphat, and [g] will plead with them there for my people and for my heritage Israel, whom they have scattered among the nations, and parted my land.

3 And they have [i] cast lots for my people; and have given a boy for an harlot, and sold a girl for wine, that they might drink.

4 Yea, and what have ye to do with me, [m] O Tyre, and Zidon, and all the coasts of Palestine? will ye render me a recompence? and if ye recompense me, swiftly and speedily will I return your recompence upon your own head;

5 Because ye have taken my silver and my gold, and have carried into your temples my goodly [‡] pleasant things:

6 The children also of Judah and the children of Jerusalem have ye sold unto the [§] Grecians, that ye might remove them far from their border.

7 Behold, [t] I will raise them out of the place whither ye have sold them, and will return your recompence upon your own head:

8 And I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hand of the children of Judah, and they shall sell them to the Sabeans, to a people far off: for the LORD hath spoken it.

9 ¶ Proclaim [u] ye this among the Gentiles; [v] Prepare war, wake up the mighty men, let all the men of war draw near; let them come up:

11 Assemble yourselves, and come, all ye heathen, and gather yourselves together round about: thither [‖] cause [w] thy mighty ones to come down, O LORD.

12 Let the heathen be wakened, and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat: for there will I sit to judge all the heathen round about.

AMOS.

Amos was a herdsman, but rural employments were in his time honourable. He was not of the schools of the prophets. He was a native of Tekoa, a city in the tribe of Judah, but prophesied to Israel a. c. 809 to 758. He was contemporary with Isaiah, Hosea, and Joel. Israel's captivity, the judgment of surrounding nations, and Messiah's kingdom, are the subjects of his prophecies.

CHAP. I.

THE words of Amos, [a] who was among the herdmen of Tekoa, which he saw concerning Israel in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel, two years before the [b] earthquake.

2 And he said, The LORD will roar from Zion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem; and the habitations of the shepherds shall mourn, and the top of Carmel shall wither.

3 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [c] Damascus, [†] and for four, I will not [§] turn away the punishment thereof; [d] because they have threshed Gilead with threshing instruments of iron:

4 But I will send a fire into the house of Hazael, which shall devour the palaces of Ben-hadad.

5 I will break also the bar of Damascus, and cut off the inhabitant from [‖] the plain of Aven, and him that holdeth the sceptre from [e] the house of Eden: and [f] the people of Syria shall go into captivity unto Kir, saith the LORD.

6 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [g] Gaza, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they carried [†] away captive the whole captivity, to deliver them up to Edom:

7 But I will send a fire on the wall of Gaza, which shall devour the palaces thereof:

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant from Ashdod, and him that holdeth the sceptre from Ashkelon, and I will [m] turn mine hand against Ekron: and the remnant of the Philistines shall perish, saith the Lord GOD.

9 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [n] Tyrus, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they delivered up the whole captivity to Edom, and remembered not the [‡] brotherly covenant:

10 But I will send a fire on the wall of Tyrus, which shall devour the palaces thereof.

11 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; [o] For three on the head of the poor, and turn aside the way of the meek: [o] and a man and his father will go in unto the same [†] maid, [b] to profane my holy name:

8 And they lay themselves down upon clothes laid to pledge [c] by every altar, and they drink the wine of [‡] the condemned in the house of their god.

9 ¶ Yet destroyed I the [d] Amorite before them, whose height was like the height of the cedars, and he was strong as the oaks: yet I [e] destroyed his fruit from above, and his roots from beneath.

10 Also I brought you up from the land of Egypt, and led you forty years through the wilderness, to possess the land of the Amorite.

11 And I raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for Nazarites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Israel? saith the LORD.

12 But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drink; and commanded the prophets, saying, Prophesy not.

13 Behold, [o] I [f] am pressed under you, as a cart is pressed that is full of sheaves.

14 Therefore [g] the flight shall perish from the swift, and the strong shall not strengthen his force, [h] neither shall the mighty deliver [†] himself:

15 Neither shall he stand that handleth the bow; and he that is swift of foot shall not deliver himself: neither shall he that rideth the horse deliver himself.

16 And he that is [§] courageous among the mighty shall flee away naked in that day, saith the LORD.

CHAP. III.

HEAR this word that the LORD hath spoken against you, O children of Israel, against the whole family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying,

2 You [m] only have I known of all the families of the earth: [n] therefore I will [‡] punish you for all your iniquities.

3 Can two walk together, except they be agreed?

4 Will a lion roar in the forest, when he hath no prey? will a young lion [§] cry out of his den, if he have taken nothing?

5 Can a bird fall in a snare upon the earth, where no gin is for him? shall one take up a snare from the earth, and have taken nothing at all?

6 Shall a trumpet be blown in the city, and the people not [‖] be afraid? [r] shall there be evil in a city, and [†] the LORD hath not done it?

7 Surely the Lord GOD will do nothing, but [s] he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.

8 The lion hath roared, who will not fear? the Lord GOD hath spoken, [u] who can but prophesy?

9 ¶ Publish in the palaces at Ashdod, and in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and say, Assemble yourselves upon the mountains of Samaria, and behold the great tumults in the midst thereof, and the [‖] oppressed in the midst thereof.

10 For they [v] know not to do right, saith the LORD, who store up violence and [o] robbery in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; [w] An adversary there shall be even round about the land; and he shall bring down thy strength from thee, and thy palaces shall be spoiled.

12 Thus saith the LORD; As the shepherd [o] taketh out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear; so shall the children of Israel be taken out that dwell in Samaria in the corner of a bed, and in Damascus in a couch.

13 Hear ye, and testify in the house of Jacob, saith the Lord GOD, the God of hosts, 14 That in the day that I shall [‖] visit the transgressions of Israel upon him I will also visit the altars of Beth-el: and the horns of the altar shall be cut off, and fall to the ground.

15 And I will smite the winter house with the summer house; and the houses of ivory shall perish, and the great houses shall have an end, saith the LORD.

CHAP. IV.

HEAR this word, ye kine of Bashan, that are in the mountain of Samaria, which oppress the poor, which crush the needy, which say to their masters, Bring, and let us drink.

2 The Lord GOD hath sworn by his holiness, that, lo, the days shall come upon you, that he will take you away with hooks, and your posterity with fishhooks.

3 And [i] ye shall go out at the breaches, every cow at that which is before her; and ye shall cast [‡] them into the palace, saith the LORD.

4 ¶ Come to Beth-el, and transgress; at Gilgal multiply transgression; and bring your sacrifices every morning, and your tithes after [‡] three years:

5 And [o] offer [k] a sacrifice of thanksgiving with leaven, and proclaim and publish [l] the free offerings: [m] for [†] this liketh you, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord GOD.

6 ¶ And I also have given you cleanness of teeth in all your cities, and want of bread in all your places: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

7 And also I have withholden the rain from you, when there were yet three months to the harvest: and I caused it to rain upon one city, and caused it not to rain upon another city: one piece was rained upon, and the piece whereupon it rained not withered.

8 So two or three cities wandered unto one city, to drink water; but they were not satisfied: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

9 I [p] have smitten you with blasting and mildew: [o] when your gardens and your vineyards and your fig trees and your olive trees increased, the palmerworm devoured them: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

10 I have sent among you the pestilence [‡] after [t] the manner of Egypt: your young men have I slain with the sword, [§] and have taken away your horses; and I have made the stink of your camps to come up unto your nostrils: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

11 I have overthrown some of you, as God overthrew [v] Sodom and Gomorrah, [x] and ye were as a firebrand plucked out of the burning: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

12 Therefore thus will I do unto thee, O Israel: and because I will do this unto thee, [z] prepare to meet thy God, O Israel.

13 For, lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the [†] wind, [a] and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, [a] The LORD, The God of hosts, is his name.

CHAP. V.

HEAR ye this word which I [b] take up against you, even a lamentation, O house of Israel.

2 The virgin of Israel is fallen; she shall no more rise: she is forsaken upon her land; there is none to raise her up.

3 For thus saith the Lord GOD; The city that went out by a thousand shall leave an hundred, and that which went forth by an hundred shall leave ten, to the house of Israel.

4 ¶ For thus saith the LORD unto the house of Israel, [c] Seek ye me, and ye shall live:

5 But seek not Beth-el, nor enter into Gilgal, and pass not to Beer-sheba: for Gilgal shall surely go into captivity, and [d] Beth-el shall come to nought.

6 Seek the LORD, and ye shall live; lest he break out like fire in the house of Joseph, and devour it, and there be none to quench it in Beth-el.

7 Ye who turn judgment to wormwood, and leave off righteousness in the earth,

8 Seek him that maketh the [e] seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, [m] and maketh the day dark with night: that [n] calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: The LORD is his name:

9 That strengtheneth the [‡]spoiled against the strong, so that the spoiled shall come against the fortress.

10 They [r] hate him that rebuketh in the gate, and they [s] abhor him that speaketh uprightly.

11 Forasmuch therefore as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from him burdens of wheat: [t] ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted [‡] pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink wine of them.

12 For I know your manifold transgressions and your mighty sins: they afflict the just, they take a [§] bribe, and they [y] turn aside the poor in the gate from their right.

13 Therefore the prudent shall keep silence in that time; for it is an evil time.

14 Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live: and so the LORD, the God of hosts, shall be with you, [a] as ye have spoken.

15 Hate [b] the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: [c] it may be that the LORD God of hosts will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph.

16 Therefore the LORD, the God of hosts, the Lord, saith thus; Wailing shall be in all streets; and they shall say in all the highways, Alas! alas! and they shall call the husbandman to mourning, and [d] such as are skilful of lamentation to wailing.

17 And in all vineyards shall be wailing: for [e] I will pass through thee, saith the LORD.

18 Woe [f] unto you that desire the day of the LORD! to what end is it for you? [h] the day of the LORD is darkness, and not light.

19 As [i] if a man did flee from a lion, and a bear met him; or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.

20 Shall not the day of the LORD be darkness, and not light? even very dark, and no brightness in it?

21 ¶ I [m] hate, I despise your feast days,

24 But let judgment [‡] run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream.

26 But ye have borne [§] the tabernacle [d] of your Moloch and Chiun your images, the star of your god, which ye made to yourselves.

27 Therefore will I cause you to go into captivity [e] beyond Damascus, saith the LORD, whose name is The God of hosts.

CHAP. VI.

WOE [f] to them that are [‖] at ease in Zion, and trust in the mountain of Samaria, which are named [*] chief [h] of the nations, to whom the house of Israel came!

2 Pass ye unto Calneh, and see; and from thence go ye to Hamath the great: then go down to Gath of the Philistines: be they better than these kingdoms? or their border greater than your border?

3 Ye that [i] put far away the evil day, and cause [p] the [†] seat of violence to come near;

7 ¶ Therefore now shall they go captive with the first that go captive, and the banquet of them that stretched themselves shall be removed.

9 And it shall come to pass, if there remain ten men in one house, that they shall die.

10 And a man's uncle shall take him up, and he that burneth him, to bring out the bones out of the house, and shall say unto him that is by the sides of the house, Is there yet any with thee? and he shall say, No. Then shall he say, Hold thy tongue: for [*] we may not make mention of the name of the LORD.

11 For, behold, the LORD commandeth, and he will smite the great house with [†] breaches, and the little house with clefts.

12 ¶ Shall horses run upon the rock? will one plow there with oxen? [‡] for ye have turned judgment into gall, and the fruit of righteousness into hemlock:

13 Ye which rejoice in a thing of nought, which say, Have we not taken to us horns by our own strength?

14 But, behold, [k] I will raise up against you a nation, O house of Israel, saith the LORD the God of hosts; and they shall afflict you from the [‡] entering in of Hemath unto the [‡] river of the wilderness.

CHAP. VII.

THUS hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me; and, behold, he formed † grasshoppers in the beginning of the shooting up of the latter growth; and, lo, it was the latter growth after the king's mowings.

2 And it came to pass, that when they had made an end of eating the grass of the land, then I said, O Lord GOD, forgive, I beseech thee: ‖ by whom shall Jacob arise? for he is small.

3 The / LORD repented for this: It shall not be, saith the LORD.

4 ¶ Thus hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me: and, behold, the Lord GOD called to contend by fire, and it devoured the great deep, and did eat up a part.

5 Then said I, O Lord GOD, cease, I beseech thee: by whom shall Jacob arise? for he is small.

6 The LORD repented for this: This also shall not be, saith the Lord GOD.

7 ¶ Thus he shewed me: and, behold, the Lord stood upon a wall made by a plumbline, with a plumbline in his hand.

8 And the LORD said unto me, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A plumbline. Then said the Lord, Behold, / I will set a plumbline in the midst of my people Israel: ᵐ I will not again pass by them any more:

9 And ⁿ the high places of Isaac shall be desolate, and the sanctuaries of Israel shall be laid waste; and ᵖ I will rise against the house of Jeroboam with the sword.

10 ¶ Then Amaziah ᵍ the priest of Bethel sent to ʳ Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, Amos hath conspired against thee in the midst of the house of Israel: the land is not able to bear all his words.

11 For thus Amos saith, Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall surely be led away captive out of their own land.

12 Also Amaziah said unto Amos, O thou seer, go, flee thee away into the land of Judah, and there eat bread, and prophesy there:

13 But ˢ prophesy not again any more at Beth-el: for it is the king's ‡ chapel, and it is the § king's court.

14 ¶ Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no prophet, neither was I ᵗ a prophet's son; but ᵘ I was an herdman, and a gatherer of † sycomore fruit:

15 And the LORD took me ‡as I followed the flock, and the LORD said unto me, Go, prophesy unto my people Israel.

16 ¶ Now therefore hear thou the word of the LORD: Thou sayest, Prophesy not against Israel, and drop not thy word against the house of Isaac.

17 Therefore thus saith the LORD; ᵛ Thy wife shall be an harlot in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be divided by line; and thou shalt die in a polluted land: and Israel shall surely go into captivity forth of his land.

CHAP. VIII.

THUS hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me: and behold a basket of summer fruit.

2 And he said, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A basket of summer fruit. Then said the LORD unto me, ʷ The end is come upon my people of Israel; I will not again pass by them any more.

3 And the songs of the temple shall ‖ be howlings in that day, saith the Lord GOD: there shall be many dead bodies in every place; ˣ they shall cast them forth ° with silence.

4 ¶ Hear this, O ye that ʸ swallow up the needy, even to make the poor of the land to fail,

5 Saying, When will the ‡ new moon be gone, that we may sell corn? and ᶻ the sabbath, that we may § set forth wheat, ᵃ making the ephah small, and the shekel great, and ᵇ falsifying the balances by deceit?

6 That we may buy the poor for ᶜ silver, and the needy for a pair of shoes; yea, and sell the refuse of the wheat?

7 The LORD hath sworn by the excellency of Jacob, Surely ᵈ I will never forget any of their works.

8 Shall ᵉ not the land tremble for this, and every one mourn that dwelleth therein? and it shall rise up wholly as a flood; and it shall be cast out and drowned, ᶠ as by the flood of Egypt.

9 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord GOD, ᵍ that I will cause the sun to go down at noon, and I will darken the earth in the clear day:

10 And I will turn your feasts into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation; and I will bring up sackcloth upon all loins, and baldness upon every head; ʰ and I will make it as the mourning of an only son, and the end thereof as a bitter day.

11 ¶ Behold, the days come, saith the Lord GOD, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but ⁱ of hearing the words of the LORD:

12 And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the east, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the LORD, and shall not find it.

13 In that day shall the fair virgins and young men faint for thirst.

14 They that ʲ swear by ᵏ the sin of Samaria, and say, Thy god, O Dan, liveth; and, The † manner of Beer-sheba liveth; even they shall fall, and never rise up again.

CHAP. IX.

I SAW the Lord standing upon the altar: and he said, Smite the ‖ lintel of the door, that the posts may shake: and ° cut ˡ them in the head, all of them; and I will slay the last of them with the sword: he that fleeth of them shall not flee away, and he that escapeth of them shall not be delivered.

2 Though ᵐ they dig into hell, thence shall mine hand take them; ⁿ though they climb up to heaven, thence will I bring them down:

3 And though they hide themselves in the top of Carmel, I will search and take them out thence; and though they be hid from my sight in the bottom of the sea, thence will I command the serpent, and he shall bite them:

4 And though they go into captivity before their enemies, ᵒ thence will I command the sword, and it shall slay them: and I will set mine eyes upon them for evil, and not for good.

5 And the Lord GOD of hosts is he that toucheth the land, and it shall / melt, and all that dwell therein shall mourn: and it shall rise up wholly like a flood; and shall be drowned, as by the flood of Egypt.

15 And I will plant them upon their land, and [i] they shall no more be pulled up out of their land which I have given them, saith the LORD thy God.

OBADIAH.

Supposed to have flourished between the taking of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, B.C. 588, and the destruction of Idumea by the same monarch, a few years afterwards.

CHAP. I.

THE vision of Obadiah. Thus saith the Lord GOD [a] concerning Edom; We have heard a rumour from the LORD, and an ambassador is sent among the heathen, Arise ye, and let us rise up against her in battle.

2 Behold, I have made thee small among the heathen: thou art greatly despised.

3 ¶ The pride of thine heart hath deceived thee, thou that dwellest in the clefts [d] of the rock, whose habitation is high; [e] that saith in his heart, Who shall bring me down to the ground?

4 Though [f] thou exalt thyself as the eagle, and though thou [g] set thy nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee down, saith the LORD.

5 If thieves came to thee, if robbers by night, (how art thou cut off!) would they not have stolen till they had enough? if the grapegatherers came to thee, would they not leave [§] some grapes?

6 How are the things of Esau searched out! how are his hidden things sought up!

7 All the men of thy confederacy have brought thee even to the border: the men [b] that were at peace with thee have deceived thee, and prevailed against thee; [§] they that eat thy bread have laid a wound under thee: [k] there is none understanding [‖] in him.

8 Shall [l] I not in that day, saith the LORD, even destroy the wise men out of Edom, and understanding out of the mount of Esau?

9 And thy [m] mighty men, O Teman, shall be dismayed, to the end that every one of the mount of Esau may be cut off by slaughter.

10 ¶ For thy [n] violence against thy brother Jacob shame shall cover thee, and thou shalt be cut off for ever.

11 In the day that thou stoodest on the other side, in the day that the strangers [o] carried away captive his forces, and foreigners entered into his gates, and cast lots upon Jerusalem, even thou wast as one of them.

12 But [‡] thou shouldest not have looked

JONAH.

Jonah is the oldest prophet extant. He prophesied in the reign of Jeroboam the second, king of Israel, B. C. 823. He was the only prophet sent to a distant city and people, to declare the Divine will.

CHAP. I.

NOW the word of the LORD came unto [a] Jonah the son of Amittai, saying,

2 Arise, go to Nineveh, that [b] great city, and cry against it; for [c] their wickedness is come up before me.

3 But Jonah rose up to flee unto Tarshish from the presence of the LORD, and went down to [d] Joppa; and he found a ship going to Tarshish: so he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, to go with them unto Tarshish [e] from the presence of the LORD.

4 ¶ But [f] the LORD ‖ sent out a great wind into the sea, and there was a mighty tempest in the sea, so that the ship was [g] like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were afraid, and cried every man unto his god, and [h] cast forth the wares that were in the ship into the sea, to lighten it of them. But Jonah was gone down into the sides of the ship; and he lay, and was fast asleep.

6 So the shipmaster came to him, and said unto him, What meanest thou, O sleeper? arise, call upon thy God, if so be that God will think upon us, that we perish not.

7 And they said every one to his fellow, Come, and let us [i] cast lots, that we may know for whose cause this evil is upon us. So they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah.

8 Then said they unto him, Tell us, we pray thee, for whose cause this evil is upon us; What is thine occupation? and whence comest thou? what is thy country? and of what people art thou?

9 And he said unto them, I am an Hebrew; and I fear [k] the LORD, the God of heaven, which hath made the sea and the dry land.

10 Then were the men ‖ exceedingly afraid, and said unto him, Why hast thou done this? For the men knew that he fled from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them.

11 ¶ Then said they unto him, What shall we do unto thee, that the sea may be [l] calm unto us? for the sea [m] wrought, and was tempestuous.

12 And he said unto them, [n] Take me up, and cast me forth into the sea; so shall the sea be calm unto you: for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you.

13 Nevertheless the men [o] rowed hard to bring it to the land; [p] but they could not: for the sea wrought, and was tempestuous against them.

14 Wherefore they cried unto the LORD, and said, We beseech thee, O LORD, we beseech thee, let us not perish for this man's life, and lay not upon us innocent blood: for thou, O LORD, hast done as it pleased thee.

15 So they took up Jonah, and cast him forth into the sea: and the sea [q] ceased from her raging.

16 Then the men feared the LORD exceedingly, and [r] offered a sacrifice unto the LORD, and made vows.

17 ¶ Now the LORD had prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah. And [s] Jonah was in the [t] belly of the fish three days and three nights.

CHAP. II.

THEN Jonah prayed unto the LORD his God out of the fish's belly,

2 And said, I [a] cried † by reason of mine affliction unto the LORD, [b] and he heard me; out of the belly of † hell cried I, and thou heardest my voice.

3 For [c] thou hadst cast me into the deep, in the [d] midst of the seas; and the floods compassed me about: [e] all thy billows and thy waves passed over me.

4 Then [f] I said, I am cast out of thy sight; yet I will look again [g] toward thy holy temple.

5 The [h] waters compassed me about, even to the soul: the depth closed me round about, the weeds were wrapped about my head.

6 I went down to the † bottoms of the mountains; the earth with her bars was about me for ever: yet hast thou brought up my life [i] from † corruption, O LORD my God.

7 When my soul fainted within me I remembered the LORD: [k] and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple.

8 They that observe [l] lying vanities forsake their own mercy.

9 But I will [m] sacrifice unto thee with the voice of thanksgiving; I will pay that that I have vowed. [n] Salvation is of the LORD.

10 ¶ And the LORD spake unto the fish, and it vomited out Jonah upon the dry land.

CHAP. III.

AND the word of the LORD came unto Jonah the second time, saying,

2 Arise, go unto Nineveh, that great city, and preach unto it the preaching that I bid thee.

3 So Jonah arose, and went unto Nineveh, according to the word of the LORD. Now Nineveh was [o] an exceeding great city of three days' journey.

4 And Jonah began to enter into the city a day's journey, and [p] he cried, and said, Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown.

5 ¶ So the people of Nineveh [q] believed God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them.

6 For word came unto the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, and he laid his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, [r] and sat in ashes.

7 And he caused it to be proclaimed and ‖ published through Nineveh by the decree of the king and his [s] nobles, saying, Let neither man nor beast, herd nor flock, taste any thing: let them not feed, nor drink water:

8 But let man and beast be covered with sackcloth, and cry mightily unto God: yea, [t] let them turn every one from his evil way, and from [u] the violence that is in their hands.

9 Who [a] can tell if God will turn and repent, and turn away from his fierce anger, that we perish not?

10 ¶ And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil, that he had said that he would do unto them; and he did it not.

CHAP. IV.

BUT it displeased Jonah exceedingly, and he was very angry.

2 And he prayed unto the LORD, and said, I pray thee, O LORD, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my country? Therefore I fled before unto Tarshish: for I knew that thou art a [b] gracious God, and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repentest thee of the evil.

3 Therefore [c] now, O LORD, take, I beseech thee, my life from me; for it is better for me to die than to live.

4 ¶ Then said the LORD, [†] Doest thou well to be angry?

5 So Jonah went out of the city, and sat on the east side of the city, and there made him a booth, and sat under it in the shadow, till he might see what would become of the city.

7 But God prepared a worm when the morning rose the next day, and it smote the gourd that it withered.

8 And it came to pass, when the sun did arise, that God prepared a [‡] vehement east wind; and the sun beat upon the head of Jonah, that he fainted, and wished in himself to die, and said, It is better for me to die than to live.

9 And God said to Jonah, [§] Doest thou well to be angry for the gourd? And he said, [‖] I do well to be angry, even unto death.

10 Then said the LORD, Thou hast [•] had pity on the gourd, for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it grow; which [‡] came up in a night, and perished in a night:

11 And should not I spare Nineveh, that great city, wherein are more than sixscore thousand persons [d] that cannot discern between their right hand and their left hand; and also much cattle?

MICAH.

This prophet was contemporaneous with Isaiah and Hosea. His prophecies relate to Judah and Israel.

CHAP. I.

THE word of the LORD that came to [a] Micah the Morasthite in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

2 Hear, [§] all ye people; hearken, O earth, and [‖] all that therein is: and let the Lord GOD [b] be witness against you, the Lord from his holy temple.

3 For, behold, the LORD cometh forth out of his place, and will come down, and tread upon the high places of the earth.

4 And [c] the mountains shall be molten under him, and the valleys shall be cleft, as wax before the fire, and as the waters that are poured down [‡] a steep place.

5 For the transgression of Jacob is all this, and for the sins of the house of Israel. What is the transgression of Jacob? is it not Samaria? and what are the high places of Judah? are they not Jerusalem?

6 Therefore I will make Samaria as an heap of the field, and as plantings of a vineyard: and I will pour down the stones thereof into the valley, and I will discover the foundations thereof.

7 And all the graven images thereof shall be beaten to pieces, and all the hires thereof shall be burned with the fire, and all the idols thereof will I lay desolate: for she gathered it of the hire of an harlot, and they shall return to the hire of an harlot.

8 Therefore I will wail and howl, I will go stripped and naked: I will make a wailing like the dragons, and mourning as the [•] owls.

9 For [†] her wound is incurable; for it is come unto Judah; he is come unto the gate of my people, even to Jerusalem.

10 ¶ Declare ye it not at Gath, weep ye not at all: in the house of [§] Aphrah roll thyself in the dust.

11 Pass ye away, [•] thou [†] inhabitant of Saphir, having thy shame naked: the inhabitant of [•] Zaanan came not forth in the mourning of [†] Beth-ezel; he shall receive of you his standing.

12 For the inhabitant of Maroth [‡] waited carefully for good: but evil came down from the LORD unto the gate of Jerusalem.

13 O thou inhabitant of Lachish, bind the chariot to the swift beast: she is the beginning of the sin to the daughter of Zion: for the transgressions of Israel were found in thee.

14 Therefore shalt thou give presents [•] to Moresheth-gath: the houses of [†] Achzib shall be a lie to the kings of Israel.

15 Yet will I bring an heir unto thee, O inhabitant of Mareshah: [§] he shall come unto Adullam the glory of Israel.

16 Make thee [d] bald, and poll thee for thy delicate children; enlarge thy baldness as the eagle; for they are gone into captivity from thee.

WOE to them [e] that devise iniquity, and work evil upon their beds! when the morning is light, they practise it, because [f] it is in the power of their hand.

2 And they covet fields, and take them by violence; and houses, and take them away: so they [‖] oppress a man and his house, even a man and his heritage.

3 Therefore thus saith the LORD; Behold, against this family do I devise an evil, from which ye shall not remove your necks; neither shall ye go haughtily: [§] for this time is evil.

4 ¶ In that day shall one [h] take up a parable against you, and [i] lament with [‡] a doleful lamentation, and say, We be utterly spoiled: he hath changed the portion of my people: how hath he removed it from me! [‖] turning away he hath divided our fields.

shall [a] cast a cord by lot in the congregation of the LORD.

6 [b] Prophesy ye not, say they to them that prophesy: they shall not prophesy to them, that they shall not take shame.

7 ¶ O thou that art named the house of Jacob, is the spirit of the LORD ‡ straitened? are these his doings? do not my words do good to him that walketh § uprightly?

8 Even ‖ of late my people is risen up as an enemy: ye pull off the robe [c] with the garment from them that pass by securely as men averse from war.

9 The † women of my people have ye cast out from their pleasant houses; from their children have ye taken away my glory for ever.

10 Arise ye, and depart; for this is not your rest: because it is polluted, it shall destroy you, even with a sore destruction.

11 If a man ‡ walking in the spirit and falsehood do lie, saying, I will prophesy unto thee of wine and of strong drink; he shall even be the prophet of this people.

12 ¶ I will surely assemble, O Jacob, all of thee; I will surely gather the remnant of Israel; I will put them together [d] as the sheep of Bozrah, as the flock in the midst of their fold: ‖ they shall make great noise by reason of the multitude of men.

13 The breaker is come up before them: they have broken up, and have passed through the gate, and are gone out by it: and [e] their king shall pass before them, [m] and the LORD on the head of them.

CHAP. III.

AND I said, Hear, I pray you, O heads of Jacob, and ye princes of the house of Israel; [f] Is it not for you to know judgment?

2 Who hate the good, and love the evil; who pluck off their skin from off them, and their flesh from off their bones;

3 Who also [g] eat the flesh of my people, and flay their skin from off them; and they break their bones, and chop them in pieces, as for the pot, and [n] as flesh within the caldron.

4 Then [o] shall they cry unto the LORD, but he will not hear them: he will even hide his face from them at that time, as they have behaved themselves ill in their doings.

5 ¶ Thus saith the LORD [p] concerning the prophets that make my people err, that [q] bite with their teeth, and cry, Peace; and [r] he that putteth not into their mouths, they even prepare war against him:

6 Therefore [s] night shall be unto you, [t] that ye shall not have a vision; and it shall be dark unto you, † that ye shall not divine; [u] and the sun shall go down over the prophets, and the day shall be dark over them.

7 Then shall the [x] seers be ashamed, and the diviners confounded: yea, they shall all cover their ‖ lips; [h] for there is no answer of God.

8 ¶ But truly I am full of power by the spirit of the LORD, and of judgment, and of might, [i] to declare unto Jacob his transgression, and to Israel his sin.

9 Hear this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Jacob, and princes of the house of Israel, that abhor judgment, and pervert all equity.

3 ¶ And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off; and they shall beat their swords into [e] plowshares, and their spears into § pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, [f] neither shall they learn war any more.

4 But [g] they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the LORD of hosts hath spoken it.

5 For [h] all people will walk every one in the name of his god, and [i] we will walk in the name of the LORD our God for ever and ever.

6 In that day, saith the LORD, [k] will I assemble her that halteth, [l] and I will gather her that is driven out, and her that I have afflicted;

7 And I will make her that halted a remnant, and her that was cast far off a strong nation: and the LORD [m] shall reign over them in mount Zion from henceforth, even for ever.

8 ¶ And thou, O tower of ‖ the flock, the strong hold of the daughter of Zion, unto thee shall it come, even the first dominion; the kingdom shall come to the daughter of Jerusalem.

9 Now why dost thou cry out aloud? [n] is there no king in thee? is thy counsellor perished? for [o] pangs have taken thee as a woman in travail.

10 Be in pain, and labour to bring forth, O daughter of Zion, like a woman in travail: for now shalt thou go forth out of the city, and thou shalt dwell in the field, and thou shalt go even to Babylon; there shalt thou be delivered; there the LORD shall redeem thee from the hand of thine enemies.

11 ¶ Now [p] also many nations are gathered against thee, that say, Let her be defiled, and let our eye [q] look upon Zion.

12 But they know not [r] the thoughts of the LORD, neither understand they his counsel: for he shall gather them [s] as the sheaves into the floor.

13 Arise [m] and thresh, O daughter of Zion: for I will make thine horn iron, and I will make thy hoofs brass: and thou shalt [n] beat in pieces many people: [o] and I will consecrate their gain unto the LORD, and their substance unto the Lord of the whole earth.

CHAP. V.

NOW gather thyself in troops, O daughter of troops: he hath laid siege against us: they shall [b] smite the judge of Israel with a rod upon the cheek.

2 But thou, [c] Beth-lehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall he come forth unto me that is to be f ruler in Israel; [d] whose goings forth have been from of old, from [e] everlasting.

3 Therefore will he give them up, until the time that she which travaileth hath brought forth: then the remnant of his brethren shall return unto the children of Israel.

4 ¶ And he shall stand and † feed [h] in the strength of the LORD, in the majesty of the name of the LORD his God; and they shall abide: for now [m] shall he be great unto the ends of the earth.

5 And this man [o] shall be the peace, when the Assyrian shall come into our land: and when he shall tread in our palaces, then shall we raise against him seven shepherds, and eight † principal men.

6 And they shall † waste the land of Assyria with the sword, and the land of Nimrod || in the entrances thereof: thus shall he [s] deliver us from the Assyrian, when he cometh into our land, and when he treadeth within our borders.

7 And the remnant of Jacob shall be in the midst of many people [t] as a dew from the LORD, as the showers upon the grass, that tarrieth not for man, nor waiteth for the sons of men.

8 ¶ And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the Gentiles in the midst of many people as a lion among the beasts of the forest, as a young lion among the flocks of ‡ sheep: who, if he go through, both treadeth down, and teareth in pieces, and none can deliver.

9 Thine hand shall be lifted up upon thine adversaries, and all thine enemies shall be cut off.

10 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD, that I will cut off thy horses out of the midst of thee, and I will destroy thy chariots:

11 And I will cut off the cities of thy land, and throw down all thy strong holds:

12 And I will cut off witchcrafts out of thine hand; and thou shalt have no more soothsayers:

13 Thy graven images also will I cut off, and thy † standing images out of the midst of thee; and thou shalt no more worship the work of thine hands.

14 And I will pluck up thy groves out of the midst of thee: so will I destroy thy § cities.

15 And I will [x] execute vengeance in anger and fury upon the heathen, such as they have not heard.

CHAP. VI.

HEAR ye now what the LORD saith; Arise, contend thou [a] before the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice.

2 Hear ye, O mountains, [c] the LORD's controversy, and ye strong foundations of the earth: for [d] the LORD hath a controversy with his people, and he will plead with Israel.

3 O my people, [e] what have I done unto thee? and wherein have I wearied thee? testify against me.

5 O my people, remember now what [d] Balak king of Moab consulted, and what Balaam the son of Beor answered him from [e] Shittim unto Gilgal; that ye may know [f] the righteousness of the LORD.

6 ¶ Wherewith shall I come before the LORD, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come before him with burnt offerings, with calves † of a year old?

7 Will [i] the LORD be pleased with thousands of rams, or with ten thousands of rivers of oil? [k] shall I give my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my [§] body for the sin of my soul?

8 He hath [m] shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the LORD require of thee, but [n] to do justly, and to love mercy, and to [||] walk humbly with thy God?

9 The LORD's voice crieth unto the city, and [o] the man of wisdom shall see thy name: hear ye the rod, and who hath appointed it.

10 ¶ [§] Are there yet the treasures of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the [o] scant measure [r] that is abominable?

11 Shall I † count them pure with the wicked balances, and with the bag of deceitful weights?

12 For the rich men thereof are full of violence, and the inhabitants thereof have spoken lies, and their tongue [t] is deceitful in their mouth.

13 Therefore also will I [u] make thee sick in smiting thee, in making thee desolate because of thy sins.

14 Thou shalt eat, but not be satisfied; and thy casting down shall be in the midst of thee; and thou shalt take hold, but shalt not deliver; and that which thou deliverest will I give up to the sword.

15 Thou shalt sow, but thou shalt not reap; thou shalt tread the olives, but thou shalt not anoint thee with oil; and sweet wine, but shalt not drink wine.

16 [§] For [§] the statutes of [y] Omri are kept, and all the works of the house of [z] Ahab, and ye walk in their counsels; that I should make thee a [||] desolation, and the inhabitants thereof an hissing: therefore ye shall bear the reproach of my people.

CHAP. VII.

WOE is me! for I am as [a] when they have gathered the summer fruits, as the grapegleanings of the vintage: there is no cluster to eat: [y] my soul desired the firstripe fruit.

2 The ‡ good man is perished out of the earth: and there is none upright among men: they all lie in wait for blood; [a] they hunt every man his brother with a net.

3 ¶ That they may do evil with both hands earnestly, the prince asketh, and the judge asketh for a reward; and the great man, he uttereth [||] his mischievous desire: so they wrap it up.

4 The best of them [b] is as a brier: the most upright is sharper than a thorn hedge: the day of thy [c] watchmen and thy visitation cometh; now shall be their perplexity.

5 ¶ Trust ye not in a friend, put ye not confidence in a guide: keep the doors of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosom.

6 For the son dishonoureth the father, the daughter riseth up against her mother, the daughter in law against her mother in law; a man's enemies are the men of his own house.

7 Therefore I will look unto the LORD; I will wait for the God of my salvation: my God will hear me.

8 ¶ Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy: [e] when I fall, I shall arise; when I sit in darkness, [b] the LORD shall be a light unto me.

9 I [d] will bear the indignation of the LORD, because I have sinned against him, until he plead my cause, and execute judgment for me: he will bring me forth to the light, and I shall behold his righteousness.

10 ‡ Then she that is mine enemy shall see it, and shame shall cover her which said unto me, Where is the LORD thy God? mine eyes shall behold her: now § shall she be trodden down as the mire of the streets.

11 In the day that thy [h] walls are to be built, in that day shall the decree be far removed.

12 In that day also [i] he shall come even to thee from Assyria, ‖ and from the fortified cities, and from the fortress even to the river, and from sea to sea, and from mountain to mountain.

13 [e] Notwithstanding the land shall be desolate because of them that dwell therein, for the fruit of their doings.

14 ¶ [e] Feed thy people with thy rod, the flock of thine heritage, which dwell solitarily in the wood, in the midst of Carmel: let them feed in Bashan and Gilead, as in the days of old.

15 According to the days of thy coming out of the land of Egypt will I shew unto him marvellous things.

16 ¶ The nations [e] shall see and be confounded at all their might: they shall lay their hand upon their mouth, their ears shall be deaf.

17 They shall lick the dust like a serpent, they shall move out of their holes like † worms of the earth: they shall be afraid of the LORD our God, and shall fear because of thee.

18 Who [e] is a God like unto thee, that [f] pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? [g] he retaineth not his anger for ever, because he delighteth in mercy.

19 He will turn again, he will have compassion upon us; he will subdue our iniquities; and thou wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea.

NAHUM.

A prophecy of the downfall of the Assyrian empire.

CHAP. I.

THE burden of Nineveh. The book of the vision of Nahum the Elkoshite.

2 ‡ God is [a] jealous, and the LORD revengeth; the LORD revengeth, and is furious; the LORD will take vengeance on his adversaries, and he reserveth wrath for his enemies.

3 The LORD is slow to anger, and great in power, and will not at all acquit the wicked: the LORD hath his way in the whirlwind and in the storm, and the clouds are the dust of his feet.

4 He [b] rebuketh the sea, and maketh it dry, and drieth up all the rivers: Bashan languisheth, and Carmel, and the flower of Lebanon languisheth.

5 The mountains quake at him, and the hills melt, and [d] the earth is burned at his presence, yea, the world, and all that dwell therein.

6 Who can stand before his indignation? and who can † abide in the fierceness of his anger? [e] his fury is poured out like fire, and the rocks are thrown down by him.

7 The LORD is good, a § strong hold in the day of trouble; and he knoweth them that trust in him.

8 But with an overrunning flood he will make an utter end of the place thereof, and darkness shall pursue his enemies.

9 What do ye imagine against the LORD? he will make an utter end: affliction shall not rise up the second time.

10 For while they be folden together as thorns, and while they are drunken as drunkards, they shall be devoured as stubble fully dry.

11 There is one come out of thee, that imagineth evil against the LORD, a § wicked counsellor.

13 For now will I break his yoke from off thee, and will burst thy bonds in sunder.

14 And the LORD hath given a commandment concerning thee, that no more of thy name be sown: out of the house of thy gods will I cut off the graven image and the molten image: I will make thy grave; for thou art vile.

15 Behold [e] upon the mountains the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace! O Judah, ‡ keep thy solemn feasts, perform thy vows: for [e] the wicked shall no more pass through thee; he is utterly cut off.

CHAP. II.

HE ‡ that dasheth in pieces is come up before thy face: keep the munition, watch the way, make thy loins strong, fortify thy power mightily.

2 For the LORD hath turned away the ‖ excellency of Jacob, as the excellency of Israel: for the emptiers have emptied them out, and marred their vine branches.

3 The shield of his mighty men is made red, the valiant men are [e] in scarlet: the chariots shall be with † flaming torches in the day of his preparation, and the fir trees shall be terribly shaken.

4 The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall justle one against another in the broad ways: † they shall seem like torches, they shall run like the lightnings.

6 The gates of the rivers shall be opened, and the palace shall be [†] dissolved.

7 And [‡] Huzzab shall be [§] led away captive, she shall be brought up, and her maids shall lead her as with the voice of doves, tabering upon their breasts.

8 But Nineveh is [‖] of old like a pool of water: yet they shall flee away. Stand, stand, shall they cry; but none shall [†] look back.

9 Take ye the spoil of silver, take the spoil of gold: [‡] for there is none end of the store and glory out of all the [§] pleasant furniture.

10 She is empty, and void, and waste: and the heart melteth, and [c] the knees smite together, and much pain is in all loins, and the faces of them all gather blackness.

11 Where is the dwelling of [d] the lions, and the feedingplace of the young lions, where the lion, even the old lion, walked, and the lion's whelp, and none made them afraid?

12 The lion did tear in pieces enough for his whelps, and strangled for his lionesses, and filled his holes with prey, and his dens with ravin.

13 Behold, [h] I am against thee, saith the LORD of hosts, and I will burn her chariots in the smoke, and the sword shall devour thy young lions: and I will cut off thy prey from the earth, and the voice of thy [i] messengers shall no more be heard.

CHAP. III.

WOE to the [*] bloody city! it is all full of lies and robbery; the prey departeth not;

2 The noise of [a] whip, and the noise of the rattling of the wheels, and of the prancing horses, and of the jumping chariots.

3 The horseman lifteth up both the [‡] bright sword and the glittering spear: and there is a multitude of slain, and a great number of carcases; and there is none end of their corpses; they stumble upon their corpses:

4 Because of the multitude of the whoredoms of the wellfavoured harlot, the mistress of witchcrafts, that selleth nations through her whoredoms, and families through her witchcrafts.

5 Behold, I am against thee, saith the LORD of hosts; and I will discover thy skirts upon thy face, and I will shew the nations thy nakedness, and the kingdoms thy shame.

HABAKKUK.

Reproves the Jews, and foretells the destruction of the Chaldeans and Babylonian empire.

CHAP. I.

THE burden which Habakkuk the prophet did see.

2 O LORD, how long shall I cry, and thou wilt not hear! even cry out unto thee of violence, and thou wilt not save!

3 Why dost thou shew me iniquity, and cause me to behold grievance? for spoiling and violence are before me: and there are that raise up strife and contention.

4 Therefore the law is slacked, and judgment doth never go forth: for the wicked doth compass about the righteous; therefore [§] wrong judgment proceedeth.

5 ¶ Behold ye among the heathen, and regard, and wonder marvellously: for I will work a work in your days, which ye will not believe, though it be told you.

6 For, lo, [*] I raise up the Chaldeans, that bitter and hasty nation, which shall march through the [†] breadth of the land, to possess the dwellingplaces that are not their's.

7 They are terrible and dreadful: [‡] their judgment and their dignity shall proceed of themselves.

8 Their horses also are swifter than the leopards, and are more [‖] fierce than the evening wolves: and their horsemen shall spread themselves, and their horsemen shall come from far; they shall fly as the eagle that hasteth to eat.

9 They shall come all for violence: †their faces shall sup up as the east wind, and they shall gather the captivity as the sand.

10 And they shall scoff at the kings, and the princes shall be a scorn unto them: they shall deride every strong hold; for they shall heap dust, and take it.

11 Then shall his mind change, and he shall pass over, and offend, imputing this his power unto his god.

12 ¶ Art thou not from everlasting, O LORD my God, mine Holy One? we shall not die. O LORD, thou hast ordained them for judgment; and, O †mighty God, thou hast †established them for correction.

13 Thou art of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on ‖iniquity: wherefore lookest thou upon them that deal treacherously, and holdest thy tongue when the wicked devoureth the man that is more righteous than he?

14 And makest men as the fishes of the sea, as the *creeping things, that have no ruler over them?

15 They take up all of them with the angle, they catch them in their net, and gather them in their †drag: therefore they rejoice and are glad.

16 Therefore they sacrifice unto their net, and burn incense unto their drag; because by them their portion is §fat, and their meat §plenteous.

17 Shall they therefore empty their net, and not spare continually to slay the nations?

CHAP. II.

I WILL stand upon my watch, and set me upon the *tower, and will watch to see what he will say †unto me, and what I shall answer ‖when I am reproved.

2 And the LORD answered me, and said, Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it.

3 For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it shall speak, and not lie: though it tarry, wait for it; because it will *surely come, it will not tarry.

4 Behold, his soul which is lifted up is not upright in him: but the just shall live by his faith.

5 ¶ †Yea also, because he transgresseth by wine, he is a proud man, neither keepeth at home, who enlargeth his desire as hell, and is as death, and cannot be satisfied, but gathereth unto him all nations, and heapeth unto him all people:

6 Shall not all these take up a parable against him, and a taunting proverb against him, and say, *Woe to him that increaseth that which is not his! how long? and to him that ladeth himself with thick clay!

7 Shall they not rise up suddenly that shall bite thee, and awake that shall vex thee, and thou shalt be for ‖‖booties unto them?

8 Because *thou hast spoiled many nations, all the remnant of the people shall spoil thee; because of men's §blood, and for the violence of the land, of the city, and of all that dwell therein.

9 ¶ Woe to him that *coveteth an evil covetousness to his house, that he may set his nest on high, that he may be delivered from the †power of evil!

10 Thou hast consulted shame to thy house by cutting off many people, and hast sinned against thy soul.

11 For the stone shall cry out of the wall, and the *beam out of the timber shall †answer it.

12 ¶ Woe to him that buildeth a town with §blood, and stablisheth a city by iniquity!

13 Behold, is it not of the LORD of hosts that the people shall labour in the very fire, and the people shall weary themselves ‖for very vanity?

14 For the earth shall be filled *with the knowledge of the glory of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea.

15 ¶ Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour drink, that puttest thy bottle to him, and makest him drunken also, that thou mayest look on their nakedness!

16 Thou art filled §with shame for glory: drink thou also, and let thy foreskin be uncovered: the cup of the LORD's right hand shall be turned unto thee, and shameful spewing shall be on thy glory.

17 For the violence of Lebanon shall cover thee, and the spoil of beasts, which made them afraid, because of men's blood, and for the violence of the land, of the city, and of all that dwell therein.

18 ¶ What profiteth the graven image that the maker thereof hath graven it; the molten image, and a teacher of lies, that the †maker of his work trusteth therein, to make dumb idols?

19 Woe unto him that saith to the wood, Awake; to the dumb stone, Arise, it shall teach! Behold, it is laid over with gold and silver, and there is no breath at all in the midst of it.

20 But *the LORD is in his holy temple: ‖let all the earth keep silence before him.

CHAP. III.

A PRAYER of Habakkuk the prophet §upon *Shigionoth.

2 O LORD, I have heard thy ‖speech, and was afraid: O LORD, *revive thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the years make known; in wrath remember mercy.

3 God came from †Teman, *and the Holy One from mount Paran. Selah. His glory covered the heavens, and the earth was full of his praise.

4 And his brightness was as the light; he had §horns coming out of his hand: and there was the hiding of his power.

5 Before him went the pestilence, and burning ‖coals went forth at his feet.

6 He stood, and measured the earth: he beheld, and drove asunder the nations; and the everlasting mountains were scattered, the perpetual hills did bow: his ways are everlasting.

7 I saw the tents of †Cushan ‖in affliction: and the curtains of the land of Midian did tremble.

8 Was the LORD displeased against the rivers? was thine anger against the rivers? was thy wrath against the sea, that thou didst ride upon thine horses and thy chariots §of salvation?

9 Thy bow was made quite naked, according to the oaths of the tribes, even thy word. Selah. Thou didst cleave the †earth with rivers.

10 The mountains saw thee, and they trembled: the overflowing of the water passed by: the deep uttered his voice, and lifted up his hands on high.

ZEPHANIAH.

Zephaniah was contemporary with Jeremiah. He prophesied of the captivity.

CHAP. I.

THE word of the LORD which came unto Zephaniah the son of Cushi, the son of Gedaliah, the son of Amariah, the son of Hizkiah, in the days of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah.

2 [a] I will utterly consume all things from off [†] the land, saith the LORD.

3 I [b] will consume man and beast; I will consume the fowls of the heaven, and the fishes of the sea, and [c] the [‡] stumblingblocks with the wicked; and I will cut off man from off the land, saith the LORD.

4 I will also stretch out mine hand upon Judah, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and [d] I will cut off the remnant of Baal from this place, and the name of [‡] the Chemarims with the priests;

5 And them that worship the host of heaven upon the housetops; and them that worship and that swear [§] by the LORD, and that swear [m] by Malcham;

6 And them that are turned back from the LORD; and those that [•] have not sought the LORD, nor enquired for him.

7 Hold [a] thy peace at the presence of the Lord GOD: [b] for the day of the LORD is at hand: for [c] the LORD hath prepared a sacrifice, he hath [‖] bid his guests.

8 And it shall come to pass in the day of the LORD's sacrifice, that I will [†] punish the princes, and the king's children, and all such as are clothed with strange apparel.

9 In the same day also will I punish all those that leap on the threshold, which fill their masters' houses with violence and deceit.

10 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD, that there shall be the noise of a cry from the fish gate, and an howling from the second, and a great crashing from the hills.

11 Howl, [e] ye inhabitants of Maktesh, for all the merchant people are cut down; all they that bear silver are cut off.

12 And it shall come to pass at that time, that I will search Jerusalem with candles, and punish the men that are [f] settled [g] on their lees: that say in their heart, The LORD will not do good, neither will he do evil.

13 Therefore their goods shall become a booty, and their houses a desolation: they nant of the house of Judah; they shall feed thereupon: in the houses of Ashkelon shall they lie down in the evening: [a] for the LORD their God shall [b] visit them, and turn away their captivity.

8 ¶ I [c] have heard the reproach of Moab, and the revilings of the children of Ammon, whereby they have reproached my people, and magnified themselves against their border.

9 Therefore as I live, saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Surely [d] Moab shall be as Sodom, and [e] the children of Ammon as Gomorrah, [h] even the breeding of nettles, and saltpits, and a perpetual desolation: the residue of my people shall spoil them, and the remnant of my people shall possess them.

10 This shall they have for their pride, because they have reproached and magnified themselves against the people of the LORD of hosts.

11 The LORD will be terrible unto them: for he will [i] famish all the gods of the earth; [j] and men shall worship him, every one from his place, even all [m] the isles of the heathen.

12 ¶ Ye [n] Ethiopians also, ye shall be slain by my sword.

13 And he will stretch out his hand against the north, and [p] destroy Assyria; and will make Nineveh a desolation, and dry like a wilderness.

14 And flocks shall lie down in the midst of her, all [r] the beasts of the nations: both the [s] cormorant [t] and the bittern shall lodge in the [u] upper lintels of it; their voice shall sing in the windows; desolation shall be in the thresholds: [x] for he shall uncover the cedar work.

19 Behold, at that time I will undo all that afflict thee: and I will save her that halteth, and gather her that was driven out; and I will [§] get them praise and fame in every land [‖] where they have been put to shame.

20 At that time [m] will I bring you again, even in the time that I gather you: for I will make you a name and a praise among all people of the earth, when I turn back your captivity before your eyes, saith the LORD.

HAGGAI.

This prophet prophesied to the Jews during the rebuilding of the temple, B. C. 520.

CHAP. I.

IN [a] the second year of Darius the king, in the sixth month, in the first day of the month, came the word of the LORD [*] by Haggai the prophet unto [b] Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, † governor of Judah, and to [d] Joshua the son of [e] Josedech, the high priest, saying,

2 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, This people say, The time is not come, the time that the LORD's house should be built.

3 Then came the word of the LORD by Haggai the prophet, saying,

4 Is [h] it time for you, O ye, to dwell in your cieled houses, and this house lie waste?

5 Now therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts; [‡] Consider [i] your ways.

6 Ye have [m] sown much, and bring in little; ye eat, but ye have not enough; ye drink, but ye are not filled with drink; ye clothe you, but there is none warm; and [r] he that earneth wages earneth wages to put it into a bag [§] with holes.

7 ¶ Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Consider your ways.

8 Go up to the mountain, and bring wood, and build the house; and I will take pleasure in it, and I will be glorified, saith the LORD.

9 Ye looked for much, and, lo, it came to little; and when ye brought it home, I did [‖] blow upon it. Why? saith the LORD of hosts. Because of mine house that is waste, and ye run every man unto his own house.

10 Therefore [v] the heaven over you is stayed from dew, and the earth is stayed from her fruit.

11 And I [x] called for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the new wine, and upon the oil, and upon that which the ground bringeth forth, and upon men, and upon cattle, and upon all the labour of the hands.

12 ¶ Then Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, [c] obeyed the voice of the LORD their God, and the words of Haggai the prophet, as the LORD their God had sent him, and the people [b] did fear before the LORD.

13 Then spake Haggai [d] the LORD's messenger in the LORD's message unto the people, saying, [*] I am with you, saith the LORD.

14 And [g] the LORD stirred up the spirit of Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people; [i] and they came and did work in the house of the LORD of hosts, their God,

2 Speak now to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest, and to the residue of the people, saying,

6 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; [n] Yet once, it is a little while, and [o] I will shake the heavens, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land;

7 And I will shake all nations, [p] and the desire of all nations shall come: and I will fill this house with glory, saith the LORD of hosts.

8 The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the LORD of hosts.

9 The [r] glory of this latter house shall be greater than of the former, saith the LORD of hosts: and in this place will I give [t] peace, saith the LORD of hosts.

10 ¶ In the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD by Haggai the prophet, saying,

11 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [u] Ask now the priests concerning the law, saying,

12 If one bear holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and with his skirt do touch bread, or pottage, or wine, or oil, or any meat, shall it be holy? And the priests answered and said, No.

13 Then said Haggai, If one that is [y] unclean by a dead body touch any of these, shall it be unclean? And the priests answered and said, It shall be unclean.

14 Then answered Haggai, and said, [z] So is this people, and so is this nation before me, saith the LORD; and so is every work of their hands; and that which they offer there is unclean.

15 And now, I pray you, [a] consider from this day and upward, from before a stone was laid upon a stone in the temple of the LORD:

16 Since those days were, [f] when one came to an heap of twenty measures, there were but ten: when one came to the press-fat for to draw out fifty vessels out of the press, there were but twenty.

17 I [h] smote you with blasting and with mildew and with hail in all the labours of your hands; [k] yet ye turned not to me, saith the LORD.

18 Consider now from this day and upward, from the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, even from [l] the day that the foundation of the LORD's temple was laid, consider it.

19 Is the seed yet in the barn? yea, as yet the vine, and the fig tree, and the pomegranate, and the olive tree, hath not brought forth: [a] from this day will I bless you.

20 ¶ And again the word of the LORD came unto Haggai in the four and twentieth day of the month, saying,

21 Speak to Zerubbabel, governor of Judah, saying, [c] I will shake the heavens and the earth;

22 And [d] I will overthrow the throne of kingdoms, and I will destroy the strength of the kingdoms of the heathen; and [e] I will overthrow the chariots, and those that ride in them; and the horses and their riders shall come down, every one by the sword of his brother.

23 In that day, saith the LORD of hosts, will I take thee, O Zerubbabel, my servant, the son of Shealtiel, saith the LORD, [f] and will make thee as a signet: for [f] I have chosen thee, saith the LORD of hosts.

ZECHARIAH.

This prophet was contemporary with Haggai; his message to the Jews was of the same kind, but more particularly pointed to the advent and glory of the Messiah.

CHAP. I.

IN the eighth month, [a] in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD [b] unto Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

2 The LORD hath been [c] sore displeased with your fathers.

3 Therefore say thou unto them, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Turn ye [d] unto me, saith the LORD of hosts, and I will turn unto you, saith the LORD of hosts.

4 Be ye not as your fathers, [f] unto whom the former prophets have cried, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [g] Turn ye now from your evil ways, and from your evil doings: but they did not hear, nor hearken unto me, saith the LORD.

5 Your fathers, where are they? and the prophets, do they live for ever?

6 But [h] my words and my statutes, which I commanded my servants the prophets, did they not † take hold of your fathers? and they returned and said, [m] Like as the LORD of hosts thought to do unto us, according to our ways, and according to our doings, so hath he dealt with us.

7 ¶ Upon the four and twentieth day of the eleventh month, which is the month Sebat, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD unto Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

8 I saw by night, and behold [o] a man riding upon a red horse, and he stood among the myrtle trees that were in the bottom; and behind him were there red horses, ‡ speckled, and white.

9 Then said I, O my lord, what are these? And the angel that talked with me said unto me, I will shew thee what these be.

10 And the man that stood among the myrtle trees answered and said, [r] These are they whom the LORD hath sent to walk to and fro through the earth.

11 And [s] they answered the angel of the LORD that stood among the myrtle trees, and said, We have walked to and fro through the earth, and, behold, all the earth sitteth still, and is at rest.

12 ¶ Then the angel of the LORD answered and said, [w] O LORD of hosts, how long wilt thou not have mercy on Jerusalem and on the cities of Judah, against which thou hast had indignation [x] these threescore and ten years?

13 And the LORD answered the angel that talked with me with [b] good words and comfortable words.

14 So the angel that communed with me said unto me, Cry thou, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; I am [d] jealous for Jerusalem and for Zion with a great jealousy.

15 And I am very sore displeased with the heathen that are at ease: for [e] I was but a little displeased, and they helped forward the affliction.

16 Therefore thus saith the LORD; [d] I am returned to Jerusalem with mercies: my house shall be built in it, saith the LORD of hosts, and a line shall be stretched forth upon Jerusalem.

17 Cry yet, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; My cities through † prosperity shall yet be spread abroad; [k] and the LORD shall yet comfort Zion, and [a] shall yet choose Jerusalem.

18 ¶ Then lifted I up mine eyes, and saw, and behold four horns.

19 And I said unto the angel that talked with me, What be these? And he answered me, [l] These are the horns which have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem.

20 And the LORD shewed me four carpenters.

21 Then said I, What come these to do? And he spake, saying, These are the horns which have scattered Judah, so that no man did lift up his head: but these are come to fray them, to cast out the horns of the Gentiles, which [m] lifted up their horn over the land of Judah to scatter it.

CHAP. II.

I LIFTED up mine eyes again, and looked, and behold [p] a man with a measuring line in his hand.

2 Then said I, Whither goest thou? And he said unto me, [r] To measure Jerusalem, to see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof.

3 And, behold, the angel that talked with me went forth, and another angel went out to meet him,

4 And said unto him, Run, speak to this young man, saying, [w] Jerusalem shall be inhabited as towns without walls for the multitude of men and cattle therein:

5 For I, saith the LORD, will be unto her a wall of fire round about, [y] and will be the glory in the midst of her.

6 ¶ Ho, ho, come forth, and flee [z] from the land of the north, saith the LORD: for I have [p] spread you abroad as the four winds of the heaven, saith the LORD.

7 Deliver [a] thyself, O Zion, that dwellest with the daughter of Babylon.

8 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; After the glory hath he sent me unto the nations which spoiled you: for [c] he that toucheth you toucheth the apple of his eye.

9 For, behold, I will [e] shake mine hand upon them, and they shall be a spoil to their servants: and ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me.

10 ¶ Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion: for, lo, I come, and I [a] will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the LORD.

11 And many nations shall be joined to the LORD in that day, and shall be [c] my people: and I will dwell in the midst of thee, and [d] thou shalt know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto thee.

12 And the LORD shall [f] inherit Judah his portion in the holy land, and shall choose Jerusalem again.

13 Be silent, O all flesh, before the LORD: for he is raised up [h] out of [†] his holy habitation.

CHAP. III.

AND he shewed me [m] Joshua the high priest standing before the angel of the LORD, and [‡] Satan [n] standing at his right hand to [§] resist him.

2 And the LORD said unto Satan, [p] The LORD rebuke thee, O Satan; even the LORD that [q] hath chosen Jerusalem rebuke thee: [r] is not this a brand plucked out of the fire?

3 Now Joshua was clothed with [u] filthy garments, and stood before the angel.

4 And he answered and spake unto those that stood before him, saying, Take away the filthy garments from him. And unto him he said, Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, [v] and I will clothe thee with change of raiment.

5 And I said, Let them set a fair mitre upon his head. So they set a fair mitre upon his head, and clothed him with garments. And the angel of the LORD stood by.

6 And the angel of the LORD protested unto Joshua, saying,

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; If thou wilt walk in my ways, and if thou wilt keep my [x] charge, then thou shalt also [b] judge my house, and shall also keep my courts, and I will give thee [†] places to walk among these that stand by.

8 Hear now, O Joshua the high priest, thou, and thy fellows that sit before thee: for they are men [§] wondered [d] at: for, behold, I will bring forth my servant the [e] BRANCH.

9 For behold the stone that I have laid before Joshua; upon one stone shall be [f] seven eyes: behold, I will engrave the graving thereof, saith the LORD of hosts, and [h] I will remove the iniquity of that land in one day.

10 In that day, saith the LORD of hosts, shall ye call every man his neighbour [k] under the vine and under the fig tree.

CHAP. IV.

AND the angel that talked with me came again, and waked me, [l] as a man that is wakened out of his sleep,

2 And said unto me, What seest thou? And I said, I have looked, and behold [m] a candlestick all of gold, with [‖] a bowl upon the top of it, [n] and his seven lamps thereon, and [†] seven pipes to the seven lamps, which are upon the top thereof:

3 And two olive trees by it, one upon the right side of the bowl, and the other upon the left side thereof.

4 So I answered and spake to the angel that talked with me, saying, What are these, my lord?

5 Then the angel that talked with me answered and said unto me, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my lord.

6 Then he answered and spake unto me, saying, This is the word of the LORD unto Zerubbabel, saying, [b] Not by [c] might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the LORD of hosts.

7 Who art thou, [d] O great mountain? before Zerubbabel thou shalt become a plain: and he shall bring forth [f] the headstone thereof with shoutings, crying, Grace, grace unto it.

8 Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

9 The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundation of this house; his hands [i] shall also finish it; and [k] thou shalt know that the [l] LORD of hosts hath sent me unto you.

10 For who hath despised the day of [e] small things? [§] for they shall rejoice, and shall see the [o] plummet in the hand of Zerubbabel with those seven; [r] they are the eyes of the LORD, which run to and fro through the whole earth.

11 ¶ Then answered I, and said unto him, What are these two olive trees upon the right side of the candlestick and upon the left side thereof?

12 And I answered again, and said unto him, What be these two olive branches which [†] through the two golden pipes [‡] empty [§] the golden oil out of themselves?

13 And he answered me and said, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my lord.

14 Then said he, [x] These are the two [‖] anointed ones, [y] that stand by [z] the Lord of the whole earth.

CHAP. V.

THEN I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold a flying [a] roll.

2 And he said unto me, What seest thou? And I answered, I see a flying roll; the length thereof is twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof ten cubits.

3 Then said he unto me. This is the [c] curse that goeth forth over the face of the whole earth: for every one [‡] that stealeth shall be cut off as on this side according to it; and every one that sweareth shall be cut off as on that side according to it.

4 I will bring it forth, saith the LORD of hosts, and it shall enter into the house of the thief, and into the house of [§] him that sweareth falsely by my name: and it shall remain in the midst of his house, and [‖] shall consume it with the timber thereof and the stones thereof.

5 ¶ Then the angel that talked with me went forth, and said unto me, Lift up now thine eyes, and see what is this that goeth forth.

6 And I said, What is it? And he said, This is an ephah that goeth forth. He said moreover, This is their resemblance through all the earth.

7 And, behold, there was lifted up a [o] talent of lead: and this is a woman that sitteth in the midst of the ephah.

8 And he said, This is wickedness. And he cast it into the midst of the ephah; and he cast the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof.

9 Then lifted I up mine eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came out two women, and the wind was in their wings; for they had wings like the wings of a stork: and they lifted up the ephah between the earth and the heaven.

10 Then said I to the angel that talked with me, Whither do these bear the ephah?

11 And he said unto me, To [b] build it an house in [c] the land of Shinar: and it shall be established, and set there upon her own base.

CHAP. VI.

AND I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came four chariots out from between two mountains; and the mountains were mountains of brass.

2 In the first chariot were [f] red horses; and in the second chariot black horses;

3 And in the third chariot white horses; and in the fourth chariot grisled and [†] bay horses.

4 Then I answered and said unto the angel that talked with me, What are these, my lord?

5 And the angel answered and said unto me, [h] These are the four [‡] spirits of the heavens, which go forth from [i] standing before the Lord of all the earth.

6 The black horses which are therein go forth into [i] the north country; and the white go forth after them; and the grisled go forth toward the south country.

7 And the bay went forth, and sought to go that they might [m] walk to and fro through the earth: and he said, Get you hence, walk to and fro through the earth. So they walked to and fro through the earth.

8 Then cried he upon me, and spake unto me, saying, Behold, these that go toward the north country have quieted my [r] spirit in the north country.

9 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

10 Take of them of the captivity, even of Heldai, of Tobijah, and of Jedaiah, which are come from Babylon, and come thou the same day, and go into the house of Josiah the son of Zephaniah;

11 Then take silver and gold, and make [n] crowns, and set them upon the head of Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest;

12 And speak unto him, saying, Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, Behold [o] the man whose name is The BRANCH; and he shall [o] grow up out of his place, [p] and he shall build the temple of the LORD:

13 Even he shall build the temple of the LORD; and he [q] shall bear the glory, and shall sit and rule upon his throne; and [r] he shall be a priest upon his throne: and the counsel of peace shall be between them both.

14 And the crowns shall be to Helem, and to Tobijah, and to Jedaiah, and to Hen the son of Zephaniah, [f] for a memorial in the temple of the LORD.

15 And [s] they that are far off shall come and build in the temple of the LORD, and ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto you. And this shall come to pass, if ye will diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God.

CHAP. VII.

AND it came to pass in the fourth year of king Darius, that the word of the LORD came unto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth month, even in Chisleu;

2 When they had sent unto the house of God Sherezer and Regem-melech, and their men, to [‖] pray before the LORD,

B. C. 519.

3 And to [a] speak unto the priests which were in the house of the LORD of hosts, and to the prophets, saying, Should I weep in the fifth month, separating myself, as I have done these so many years?

4 ¶ Then came the word of the LORD of hosts unto me, saying,

5 Speak unto all the people of the land, and to the priests, saying, When ye [d] fasted and mourned in the fifth and seventh month, even those seventy years, did ye at all fast [e] unto me, even to me?

6 And when ye did eat, and when ye did drink, [•] did not ye eat for yourselves, and drink for yourselves?

7 ‡ Should ye not hear the words which the LORD hath cried § by the former prophets, when Jerusalem was inhabited and in prosperity, and the cities thereof round about her, when men inhabited [g] the south and the plain?

8 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto Zechariah, saying,

9 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, [•] Execute [h] true judgment, and shew mercy and compassions every man to his brother:

10 And [m] oppress not the widow, nor the fatherless, the stranger, nor the poor; [•] and let none of you imagine evil against his brother in your heart.

11 But they refused to hearken, and [†] pulled away the shoulder, and [‡] stopped their ears, [P] that they should not hear.

12 Yea, they made their hearts as an adamant stone, lest they should hear the law, and the words which the LORD of hosts hath sent in his spirit § by the former prophets: [r] therefore came a great wrath from the LORD of hosts.

13 Therefore it is come to pass, that as he cried, and they would not hear; so [s] they cried, and I would not hear, saith the LORD of hosts:

14 But I scattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations whom they knew not. Thus the land was desolate after them, that no man passed through nor returned: for they laid the [‖] pleasant land desolate.

CHAP. VIII.

AGAIN the word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying,

2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [y] I was jealous for Zion with great jealousy, and I was jealous for her with great fury.

3 Thus saith the LORD; I am returned unto Zion, and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: and Jerusalem [z] shall be called a city of truth; and [a] the mountain of the LORD of hosts [b] the holy mountain.

4 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [c] There shall yet old men and old women dwell in the streets of Jerusalem, and every man with his staff in his hand for [†] very age.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

6 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; If it be [‡] marvellous in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these days, [A] should it also be marvellous in mine eyes? saith the LORD of hosts.

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Behold, [i] I will save my people from the east country, and from the § west country;

8 And I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: [k] and they shall be my people, and I will be their God, in truth and in righteousness.

9 ¶ Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [a] Let your hands be strong, ye that hear in these days these words by the mouth of the prophets, which were in the day that the foundation of the house of the LORD of hosts was laid, that the temple might be built.

10 For before these days [b] there was no hire for man, nor any hire for beast; [c] neither was there any peace to him that went out or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men every one against his neighbour.

11 But now I will not be unto the residue of this people as in the former days, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 For [d] the seed shall be † prosperous; the vine shall give her fruit, and [e] the ground shall give her increase, and the heavens shall give their dew; and I will cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things.

13 And it shall come to pass, that as ye were [f] a curse among the heathen, O house of Judah, and house of Israel; so will I save you, and ye shall be a blessing: fear not, but let your hands be strong.

14 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; [g] As I thought to punish you, when your fathers provoked me to wrath, saith the LORD of hosts, [h] and I repented not:

15 So again have I thought in these days to do well unto Jerusalem and to the house of Judah: fear ye not.

16 ¶ These are the things that ye shall do; [i] Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbour; [k] execute the judgment of truth and peace in your gates:

17 And [l] let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his neighbour; and love no false oath: for all these are things that I hate, saith the LORD.

18 ¶ And the word of the LORD of hosts came unto me, saying,

19 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [m] The fast of the fourth month, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the tenth, shall be to the house of Judah [n] joy and gladness, and cheerful † feasts; therefore love the truth and peace.

20 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; It shall yet come to pass, that there shall come people, and the inhabitants of many cities:

21 And the inhabitants of one city shall go to another, saying, [o] Let us go § speedily to ‖ pray before the LORD, and to seek the LORD of hosts: I will go also.

22 Yea, [p] many people and strong nations shall come to seek the LORD of hosts in Jerusalem, and to pray before the LORD.

23 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; In those days it shall come to pass, that ten men shall [q] take hold out of all languages of the nations, even shall take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, saying, We will go with you: for we have heard [r] that God is with you.

THE [a] burden of the word of the LORD in the land of Hadrach, and [b] Damascus shall be the rest thereof: when [c] the eyes of man, as of all the tribes of Israel, shall be toward the LORD.

2 And [d] Hamath also shall border thereby; [e] Tyrus, and [f] Zidon, though it be very wise.

3 And Tyrus did build herself a strong hold, and [g] heaped up silver as the dust, and fine gold as the mire of the streets.

4 Behold, the Lord will cast her out, and

5 Ashkelon shall see it, and fear; Gaza also shall see it, and be very sorrowful, and Ekron; for her expectation shall be ashamed; and the king shall perish from Gaza, and Ashkelon shall not be inhabited.

6 And a bastard shall dwell [i] in Ashdod, and I will cut off the pride of the Philistines.

7 And I will take away his † blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his teeth: but he that remaineth, even he, shall be for our God, and he shall be as a governor in Judah, and Ekron as a Jebusite.

9 ¶ Rejoice [l] greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O daughter of Jerusalem: behold, [m] thy King cometh unto thee: he is just, and § having salvation; lowly, and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass.

12 ¶ Turn you to the strong hold, ye prisoners of hope: even to day do I declare that I will render double unto thee;

13 When I have bent Judah for me, filled the bow with Ephraim, and raised up thy sons, O Zion, against thy sons, O Greece, and made thee as the sword of a mighty man.

14 And the LORD shall be seen over them, and his arrow shall go forth as the lightning: and the Lord GOD shall blow the trumpet, and shall go with whirlwinds of the south.

4 Out of him came forth [a] the corner, out of him [b] the nail, out of him the battle bow, out of him every oppressor together.

5 ¶ And they shall be as mighty men, which [c] tread down their enemies in the mire of the streets in the battle: and they shall fight, because the LORD is with them, and [‡] the riders on horses shall be confounded.

6 And I will strengthen the house of Judah, and I will save the house of Joseph, and I will bring them again to place them; for I [d] have mercy upon them: and they shall be as though I had not cast them off: for I am the LORD their God, and will hear them.

7 And they of Ephraim shall be like a mighty man, and their [e] heart shall rejoice as through wine: yea, their children shall see it, and be glad; their heart shall rejoice in the LORD.

8 I will [f] hiss for them, and gather them; for I have redeemed them: [g] and they shall increase as they have increased.

9 And [f] I will sow them among the people: and they shall remember me in far countries; and they shall live with their children, and turn again.

10 I will bring them again also out of the land of Egypt, and gather them out of Assyria; and I will bring them into the land of Gilead and Lebanon; and place shall not be found for them.

11 And he shall pass through the sea with affliction, and shall smite the waves in the sea, and all the deeps of the river shall dry up: and [m] the pride of Assyria shall be brought down, and the sceptre of Egypt shall depart away.

12 And I will strengthen them in the LORD; and [n] they shall walk up and down in his name, saith the LORD.

6 For I will no more pity the inhabitants of the land, saith the LORD: but, lo, I will [‡] deliver the men every one into his neighbour's hand, and into the hand of his king: and they shall smite the land, and out of their hand I will not deliver them.

CHAP. XII.

THE burden of the word of the LORD for Israel, saith the LORD, [e] which stretcheth forth the heavens, and layeth the foundation of the earth, and [f] formeth the spirit of man within him.

2 Behold, I will make Jerusalem a cup of [‡] trembling unto all the people round about, [§] when they shall be in the siege both against Judah and against Jerusalem.

3 ¶ And [s] in that day will I make Jerusalem [t] a burdensome stone for all people: all that burden themselves with it shall be cut in pieces, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.

4 In that day, saith the LORD, [u] I will smite every horse with astonishment, and his rider with madness: and I will open mine eyes upon the house of Judah, and will smite every horse of the people with blindness.

5 And the governors of Judah shall say in their heart, [†] The inhabitants of Jerusalem shall be my strength in the LORD of hosts their God.

6 ¶ In that day will I make the governors of Judah [‡] like an hearth of fire among the wood, and like a torch of fire in a sheaf; and they shall devour all the people round about, on the right hand and on the left: and Jerusalem shall be inhabited again in her own place, even in Jerusalem.

7 The LORD also shall save the tents of Judah first, that the glory of the house of David and the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem do not magnify themselves against Judah.

8 In that day shall the LORD defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and [*] he that is [†] feeble among them at that day shall be as David; and the house of David shall be as God, as the angel of the LORD before them.

9 ¶ And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will seek to [e] destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

10 And [d] I will pour upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the spirit of grace and of supplications: and they shall [e] look upon me whom they have pierced, and they shall mourn for him, [f] as one mourneth for his only son, and shall be in bitterness for him, as one that is in bitterness for his firstborn.

11 In that day shall there be a great mourning [h] in Jerusalem, [i] as the mourning of Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon.

12 And [t] the land shall mourn, [m] every family apart; the family of the house of David apart, and their wives apart; the family of the house of [m] Nathan apart, and their wives apart;

13 The family of the house of Levi apart, and their wives apart; the family of [§] Shimei apart, and their wives apart;

14 All the families that remain, every family apart, and their wives apart.

CHAP. XIII.

IN that day there shall be [p] a fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and for [§] uncleanness.

2 ¶ And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD of hosts, that I will cut off the names of the idols out of the land, and they shall no more be remembered: and also I will cause [q] the prophets and the unclean spirit to pass out of the land.

3 And it shall come to pass, that when any shall yet prophesy, then his father and his mother that begat him shall say unto him, Thou shalt not live; for thou speakest lies in the name of the LORD: and his father and his mother that begat him shall thrust him through when he prophesieth.

4 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the prophets shall be ashamed every one of his vision, when he hath prophesied; neither shall they wear [a] [§] rough garment [‖] to deceive:

5 But [p] he shall say, I am no prophet, I am an husbandman; for man taught me to keep cattle from my youth.

6 And one shall say unto him, What are these wounds in thine hands? Then he shall answer, Those with which I was wounded in the house of my friends.

7 ¶ Awake, O sword, against [e] my shepherd, and against the man [b] that is my fellow, saith the LORD of hosts: [e] smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered: and I will turn mine hand upon [d] the little ones.

8 And it shall come to pass, that in all the land, saith the LORD, two parts therein shall be cut off and die; [e] but the third shall be left therein.

9 And I will bring the third part through the fire, and will [f] refine them as silver is refined, and will try them as gold is tried: [g] they shall call on my name, and I will hear them: I will say, It is my people: and they shall say, The LORD is my God.

THE burden of the word of the LORD to Israel * by Malachi.

2 I a have loved you, saith the LORD. Yet ye say, Wherein hast thou loved us? Was not Esau Jacob's brother? saith the LORD: yet b I loved Jacob,

3 And I hated Esau, and c laid his mountains and his heritage waste for the dragons of the wilderness.

4 Whereas Edom saith, We are impoverished, but we will return and build the desolate places; thus saith the LORD of hosts, They shall build, but I will throw down; and they shall call them, The border of wickedness, and, The people against whom the LORD hath indignation for ever.

5 And your eyes shall see, and ye shall say, d The LORD will be magnified ‡ from the border of Israel.

6 ¶ A son e honoureth his father, and a servant his master: f if then I be a father, where is mine honour? and if I be a master, where is my fear? saith the LORD of hosts unto you, O priests, that despise my name. And ye say, Wherein have we despised thy name?

7 † Ye offer g polluted bread upon mine altar; and ye say, Wherein have we polluted thee? In that ye say, The table of the LORD is contemptible.

8 And h if ye offer the blind ‡ for sacrifice, is it not evil? and if ye offer the lame and sick, is it not evil? offer it now unto thy governor; will he be pleased with thee, or i accept thy person? saith the LORD of hosts.

9 And now, I pray you, beseech § God that he will be gracious unto us: k this hath been ‖ by your means: will he regard your persons? saith the LORD of hosts.

10 Who is there even among you that would shut the doors for nought? l neither do ye kindle fire on mine altar for nought. I have no pleasure in you, saith the LORD of hosts, neither will I accept an offering at your hand.

11 For from the rising of the sun even unto the going down of the same my name shall be great m among the Gentiles; n and in every place o incense shall be offered unto my name, and a pure offering: p for my name shall be great among the heathen, saith the LORD of hosts.

14 But cursed be the deceiver, † which hath in his flock a male, and voweth, and sacrificeth unto the Lord a corrupt thing: for c I am a great King, saith the LORD of hosts, and my name is dreadful among the heathen.

CHAP. II.

AND now, O ye priests, this commandment is for you.

2 If ye will not hear, and if ye will not lay it to heart, to give glory unto my name, saith the LORD of hosts, I will even send a curse upon you, and I will curse your blessings: yea, I have cursed them already, because ye do not lay it to heart.

3 Behold, I will § corrupt your seed, and ‖ spread dung upon your faces, even the dung of your solemn feasts; and * one shall k take you away with it.

4 And ye shall know that I have sent this commandment unto you, that my covenant might be with Levi, saith the LORD of hosts.

5 My l covenant was with him of life and peace; and I gave them to him for the fear wherewith he feared me, and was afraid before my name.

6 The * law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, and did † turn many away from iniquity.

7 For * the priest's lips should keep knowledge, and they should seek the law at his mouth: m for he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts.

8 But ye are departed out of the way; ye n have caused many to * stumble at the law; † ye have corrupted the covenant of Levi, saith the LORD of hosts.

9 Therefore o have I also made you contemptible and base before all the people, according as ye have not kept my ways, but † have been partial in the law.

10 Have p we not all one father? hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers?

11 ¶ Judah hath dealt treacherously, and an abomination is committed in Israel and in Jerusalem; for Judah hath profaned the holiness of the LORD which he ‡ loved, and hath married the daughter of a strange god.

12 The LORD will cut off the man that doeth this, [o] the master and the scholar, out of the tabernacles of Jacob, [a] and him that offereth an offering unto the LORD of hosts.

13 And this have ye done again, covering the altar of the LORD with tears, with weeping, and with crying out, insomuch that he regardeth not the offering any more, or receiveth it with good will at your hand.

14 ¶ Yet ye say, Wherefore? Because the LORD hath been witness between thee and [d] the wife of thy youth, against whom thou hast dealt treacherously: [e] yet is she thy companion, and the wife of thy covenant.

15 And [f] did not he make one? Yet had he the [‡] residue of the spirit. And wherefore one? That he might seek [||] a [h] godly seed. Therefore take heed to your spirit, and let none deal [o] treacherously against the wife of his youth.

16 For [i] the LORD, the God of Israel, saith [†] that he hateth [‡] putting away: for one covereth violence with his garment, saith the LORD of hosts: therefore take heed to your spirit, that ye deal not treacherously.

17 ¶ Ye have wearied the LORD with your words. Yet ye say, Wherein have we wearied him? When ye say, Every one that doeth evil [§] good in the sight of the LORD, and he delighteth in them; or, Where is the God of judgment?

CHAP. III.

BEHOLD, [p] I will send my messenger, and he shall [r] prepare the way before me: and the Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his temple, even the messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in: behold, he shall come, saith the LORD of hosts.

2 But who may abide the day of his coming? and [w] who shall stand when he appeareth? for [x] he is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers' sope:

3 And [z] he shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver: and he shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver, that they may [a] offer unto the LORD an offering in righteousness.

4 Then shall the offering of Judah and Jerusalem be pleasant unto the LORD, as in the days of old, and as in [†] former years.

5 And I will come near to you to judgment; and I will be a swift witness against the sorcerers, and against the adulterers, and against false swearers, and against those that [§] oppress the hireling in his wages, the widow, and the fatherless, and that turn aside the stranger from his right, and fear not me, saith the LORD of hosts.

6 For I am the LORD, [d] I change not; [e] therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed.

7 ¶ Even from the days of [f] your fathers ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and have not kept them. Return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the LORD of hosts. But ye said, Wherein shall we return?

8 ¶ Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? [b] In tithes and offerings.

9 Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye have robbed me, even this whole nation.

10 Bring [c] ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the LORD of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and [†] pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it.

11 And I will rebuke the devourer for your sakes, and he shall not [‡] destroy the fruits of your ground; neither shall your vine cast her fruit before the time in the field, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 And all nations shall call you blessed: for ye shall be [g] a delightsome land, saith the LORD of hosts.

13 ¶ Your words have been stout against me, saith the LORD. Yet ye say, What have we spoken so much against thee?

14 Ye [k] have said, It is vain to serve God: and what profit is it that we have kept his [§] ordinance, and that we have walked [‖] mournfully before the LORD of hosts?

15 And now we call the proud happy; yea, they that work wickedness [o] are set up; yea, they that [l] tempt God are even delivered.

16 ¶ Then they [m] that feared the LORD [n] spake often one to another: and the LORD hearkened, and heard it, and [o] a book of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the LORD, and that thought upon his name.

17 And [q] they shall be mine, saith the LORD of hosts, in that day when I make up [r] my [†] jewels; and I will spare them, as a man spareth his own son that serveth him.

18 Then shall ye return, and discern between the righteous and the wicked, between him that serveth God and him that serveth him not.

CHAP. IV.

FOR, behold, [s] the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the LORD of hosts, that it shall [t] leave them neither root nor branch.

2 ¶ But unto you that fear my name shall the [u] Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall.

3 And [v] ye shall tread down the wicked; for they shall be ashes under the soles of your feet in the day that I shall do this, saith the LORD of hosts.

4 ¶ Remember ye the law of Moses my servant, which I commanded unto him [‡] in Horeb for all Israel, with the statutes and judgments.

5 ¶ Behold, I will send you [h] Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD:

6 And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

Ant III. 2.—VALLEY OF JEHOSHAPHAT. This seems to have been named after Jehoshaphat, who returned thanks to God here with his army, after a signal victory over the Ammonites and Moabites; after which solemn act, they entered the city of Jerusalem in triumphal procession, with music and singing. Jehoshaphat, having joined with Ahab in an unfortunate expedition against Ramoth-gilead, became lowered in the estimation of the neighbouring nations; and the Ammonites and Moabites having been brought into a state of subjection by David, now began to conceive hopes of deliverance from the yoke under which they lay. They therefore invaded the country by way of Edom, supported by some Arabian hordes. The enemy had reached the valley of Engedi before Jehoshaphat knew of their approach. He was greatly alarmed, but proclaimed a fast, and cast himself upon God. He marched to meet the enemy, having the Levites in front of his army singing the praises of Jehovah. They reached the allied armies, but instead of meeting a foe, found the field silent and covered with their slain. They had fallen out among themselves. Jehoshaphat returned with immense and precious spoils, and hence the solemn thanksgiving in the valley before referred to. This valley is the most extensive and important of the valleys surrounding Jerusalem. It lies east of the city, between it and the mount of Olives. It is rather more than a mile in length, but narrow, there being but few places in which its breadth exceeds two hundred yards. It frequently occurs under different names in the writings of sacred historians and prophets. According to Lamartine, it is 'a deep and rugged ravine,' rather than a valley. It was formerly a deep and narrow valley, enclosed on the north by dark and barren heights, which contained the sepulchres of kings, shaded on the west by Jerusalem, covered at the east by the summit of the mount of Olives, and crossed by a torrent which rolled its bitter and yellow waters over the broken rocks. 'At some paces distant,' says Lamartine, 'a black and bare rock detaches itself like a promontory from the base of the mountain, and, suspended over the Kidron and the valley, bears several old tombs of kings or patriarchs, formed in gigantic and singular architecture, and strides like the bridge of death over the valley of lamentations.' At the time of Christ's agony, 'no doubt,' observes the same writer, 'the sloping sides of mount Olives were then, as now, watered by brooks from the pools, and by the still-running stream of Kidron. Gardens of pomegranate, orange, and olive trees, covered with a thicker shade the narrow valley of Gethsemane, which delves like a sanny of grief the foot of the west side of the valley of Jehoshaphat.' Jehoshaphat means the judgment of God, and this may be signified in the symbolical language of prophecy.

Amos VI. 10.—BURNING THE DEAD. The custom of burning the dead seems to have been in use among the Hebrews, though most likely not commonly so: see 1 Sam. xxxi. 12. Here it was absolutely necessary to get rid of the bodies in the shortest way, there being numbers dead of pestilence, and but few surviving hands to bury them. The manner of burning among the Romans has been particularly described. The corpse was carried without the city, and there laid on the funeral pile. This pile was in the shape of an altar, differing in height according to the quality of the deceased. The trees which were used were commonly those which had most pitch or rosin in them, and if they took any other wood, they split it for the more easy catching fire. The body was placed on the pile, with the couch or bed on which it lay. The nearest of kin lighted the pile, turning away the head to intimate that the work was not done willingly, but of necessity.

Ca. VII. 14.—SYCAMORE FIGS. The sycamore tree was formerly very common in Palestine, and grows there still. Its leaves resemble those of the mulberry, and its fruit that of the fig tree. This tree grows to a considerable height, and spreads to a great width. The trunk is of great thickness, and some could only be completely encircled by the arms of three or four men. Its fruit is common, and acceptable food among the poor. It grows in clusters on small shoots issuing from the trunk of the tree, but before ripening, it is the custom to rub or scrape it, which was probably the employment of Amos. How often has God selected his most faithful and useful servants from the most humble occupations!

Obadiah, 5.—GRAPE GATHERERS. The vintage in Palestine commences about the middle of September, and is continued into and through October. The grape was anciently a fruit of great importance, and cultivated with as much care as corn. Scripture abounds in references to it. The Moslems have caused some decrease in its growth, but though they do not drink wine, they are very fond of the grape itself. With regard to grape-gathering, Sir J. G. Wilkinson says, 'When the grapes were gathered, the bunches were carefully put into deep wicker baskets, which men carried either upon their heads or shoulders, or slung upon a yoke, to the wine-press; but when intended for eating, they were put like other fruits in flat open baskets, and generally covered with the leaves of the palm, vine, and other trees. These flat baskets were of wicker-work, and similar, no doubt, to those of the present day used at Cairo for the same purpose, and which are made of oalers or common twigs.

Jonah II. 10.—SPOT WHERE JONAH IS SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN CAST ASHORE. Our artist has taken this from La Borde, but he has not named the river on whose banks the caravansary stands. Here all is conjecture. Some have named the Red Sea, some the Tigris, some the Euxine Sea. But against these there are very strong objections. Probability is more in favour of the opinion that it was on the Syrian shore, or in the bay of Iasus, now called the gulf of Lazarro; or near Alexandria, or Alexandretta, now Scandaroon. But it has been asked, 'Why not on the shore of Palestine? and indeed, why not near the place from whence they sailed?' Others think it probable that this case of Jonah gave rise to the story of Arion, who was cast into the sea by the mariners, taken up by a dolphin, and carried to Corinth. Jonah's deliverance was a type of our Lord's resurrection from the dead on the third day, Mat. xii. 40, and a pledge of ours; for, after this instance of Divine power, 'why should it be thought a thing incredible that God should raise the dead?'

Micah IV. 4.—ORIENTAL VERANDAH. We see in this engraving one out of several methods of growing grapes in the East, by training them over a trellis-work, so as to form a sheltering arbour. Vine arbours were common in Egypt, one example of which appears in the Mosaic pavement of Præneste. But they were much more in use among the people of Palestine. It was usual for persons to sit under vines and fig trees to read, meditate, or pray, or converse together. Hence the phrase in the text became proverbial, in order to express the greatest tranquillity, security, and enjoyment of property. In troublous times, the suburban gardens, where the vines were most successfully cultivated, were not in a state of sufficient security for any to take repose under the expanded and broad-leaved vine; but it was expressive of a blessed state, when the vine owner could quietly visit his garden, and meditate in peace amidst the enjoyment of one of the sweetest luxuries in a scorching climate.

Zeph. II. 4.—ASHKELON. This was one of the proudest satrapies of the lords of the Philistines. It was celebrated for the strength of its fortifications. As late as the days of Constantine this city had a bishop, and was renowned in the time of the crusades. But the walls, the dwellings, and the people of Ashkelon have all perished. It has become "a desolation." Here we have a wonderful proof of the truth of prophecy. When Zephaniah predicted, 'Gaza shall be forsaken, and Ashkelon a desolation,' both these cities were in an equally flourishing condition: and, as Richardson the traveller justly observes, 'nothing but the prescience of heaven could pronounce on which of the two, and in what manner the toil of its wrath should be poured out. Gaza is truly without a king. The lofty towers of Ashkelon lie scattered on the ground, and the ruins within its walls do not shelter a human being. How is the wrath of man made to praise his Creator! Has he not said, 'I shall he not do it? The oracle was delivered by the mouth of the prophet more than 500 years before the Christian era, and we behold its accomplishment 1500 years after that event.

Ob. 9.—MOAB. The land of Moab lay to the east and south-east of Judea, and bordered on the east, north-east, and partly on the south of the Dead Sea. There are manifest and abundant vestiges of its ancient prosperousness. Captains Irby and Mangles say, 'The whole of the plains are covered with the sites of towns, on every eminence or spot convenient for the construction of one; and as the land is capable of rich cultivation, there can be no doubt that the country, now so deserted, once presented a picture of fertility.' These towns were numerous—subsisted for ages; many were naturally strong; others built on the richest soil, and amidst fertilizing streams—but all have passed away! The word of God had spoken it!

Zech. XIV. 20.—BELLS ON MULES AND CAMELS. On the monuments of Persepolis a bell is seen on a two-humped camel, and on a horse or mule, hung at the neck; and Niebuhr remarks that similar ones are now used in Arabia, &c., appended to camels, mules, and asses. In western Asia bells are much employed on baggage animals. The uses of the bells are said to be these: to encourage the animals to keep a caravan together, and to recall those who have strayed from their company. The idea here is, that the common affairs of life shall be conducted in a spirit of piety.

ORIENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS TO ISAIAH.

Ch. I.—6. Neither mollified with ointment. Great use was made in Eastern nations of oil and various kinds of unguents in medicine. (See Luke x. 34.) The fruit of olives was used almost entirely for this purpose. 8. As a cottage in a vineyard Rather as 'a shed.' Alluding to the huts erected in vineyards to give shelter to the grape gatherers, and perhaps to those who were appointed to watch the vineyard and guard it from depredation. (See note and cut end of Isa.) 29. Ashamed of the oaks. Groves in ancient times were the favourite places of idolatrous worship. Those were commonly selected which were on hills or high places, and they were usually furnished with temples, altars, and all the implements of idolatrous worship. Different kinds of groves were selected for this purpose, by different people. The Druids of the ancient Celtic nations in Gaul, Britain, and Germany, offered their worship in groves of oak, hence the name Druid derived from the Greek drucos, oak. Most critics, however, concur in the opinion that the terebinth or turpentine tree, a sort of fir, is intended here rather than the oak. The groves or gardens were as deep and shady and dark as possible, to inspire the worshippers with religious awe and reverence on their entrance, though they might be as highly decorated as possible. 30. A garden that hath no water. In Eastern countries this image would be more striking than with us. In those hot regions a constant supply of water is necessary for the cultivation, and even for the very existence and preservation of a garden. Should it want water for a few days, everything in it would be burnt up with heat and totally destroyed. In all gardens, therefore, in those regions, there must be a constant supply of water, either from some neighbouring river, or from some fountain or reservoir within it. To secure such a fountain became an object of indispensable importance, not only for the coolness and pleasantness of the garden, but for the very existence of the vegetation. Dr. Russell, in his natural history of Aleppo, says, 'that all the gardens of Aleppo are on the banks of the river that runs by that city, or on the sides of the rill that supplies their aqueduct;' and all the rest of the suburbs is perfectly barren and totally burnt up in the summer months, the gardens only retaining their verdure, on account of the moistness of their situation.

Ch. II.—4. Their swords into ploughshares. The Syrian plough, which was probably used in all the regions round, is a very simple frame, and commonly so light, that a man of moderate strength might carry it in one hand. In Syria it is often nothing else than the branch of a tree, made to a certain shape, and used without wheels. It is drawn by asses and cows, seldom by oxen, often by a little cow, at most with two, and sometimes only by an ass. In Persia it is for the most part drawn by one ox only, and not unfrequently even by an ass, although it is more ponderous than in Palestine. With such an imperfect instrument the Syrian husbandman can do little more than scratch the surface of his field, or clear away the stones or weeds that encumber it and prevent the seed from reaching the soil. The ploughshare is a piece of iron, broad but not large, which tips the end of the shaft. So much does it resemble the broad sword used by the ancient warriors, that it may, with very little trouble, be converted into that deadly weapon; and when the work of destruction is over, reduced again to its former shape and applied to the purposes of agriculture.—Paxton. Pruninghooks. Hooks or long knives for pruning vines. 6. Replenished from the east. That is, Arabia, Persia, Chaldea, &c., the countries where astrology, soothsaying, and divination, particularly abounded. (See Deut. xviii. 9—11; Dan. ii. 2.) Soothsayers. Persons auguring from the appearance of the clouds. 20. To the bats. The East may be termed the country of bats; they hang by hundreds and thousands in caves, ruins, and under the roofs of large buildings. Among the Hindoos the name of these offensive animals is an epithet of contempt.—Roberts.

Ch. III.—1. The whole stay of bread. Bread is the principal food of men in all countries, but especially in the East; for it is observed by Dr. Shaw, 'that the people of the Eastern nations are great eaters of bread; it being computed that three persons in four live entirely upon it, or else upon such compositions as are made of barley and wheat flour.' 'The principal nourishment of the Orientals' says Niebuhr, 'is fresh baked bread; and, therefore, they take especial care not to want for meal when they travel in the desert.' 16 Stretched forth necks. When in India the females dance, they stretch forth their necks and hold them awry, as if their heads were about to fall from their shoulders.—Roberts. Tinkling with their feet. Ankle-rings or bracelets being worn. Michaelis says, 'In Syria and the neighbouring provinces, the more opulent females bind ligatures around their feet, like chains, or bracelets, united by small chains of silver and gold, and exhibit them by their sound as they walk.' 18. The bravery of their tinkling ornaments. They were accustomed to make a noise with them to attract attention. Their round tires like the moon. This refers to small ornaments in the shape of half moons usually worn on the neck. They were also sometimes worn by men and even by camels. (Judges viii. 21, 26.) It is probable that these ornaments might originally have had some reference to the moon as an object of worship. But it does not appear that they were so worn by the females of Judea. They are still worn by the females of Arabia.—Rosenmuller. 19. The chains. These consist, first of one moat beautifully worked, with a pendant ornament for the neck; there is also a profusion of others, which go round the same part, and rest on the bosom. In making curious chains the goldsmiths of England do not surpass those of the East.—Roberts. The wimples. Supposed to mean a light thin veil. There were various sorts of veils, the one here intended is described by an Arabian scholiast, as drawn tight over the upper part of the head, but the part around the eyes is open, and a space left to see through, and the lower part is left loose and flowing. 20. The bonnets. Turbans, worn by priests, bridegrooms, and women. (Ex. xxxi. 28; Isa. lxi. 10; Ezec. xxiv. 17.) Their form is familiar to us. Ornaments of the legs. The word, says the Arabian scholiast, denotes a small chain, with which females, when they walk, connect their feet in order to make their steps equal. Tablets. Thought to signify smelling boxes of perfumes. 21. Rings, and nose jewels. (See note and cut tion. xxiv. 23.) 22. Changeable suits. The fashions in the East never change, the ladies therefore can wear their grandmothers' dresses and make a perfectly new and pretty dress. Mantles. The fuller tunic which was worn over the common one with sleeves, and which reached down to the feet. Some describe it as a loose robe crossing the bosom. Wimples. Understood to mean a large shawl, 'probably,' says Roberts, 'a Cashmere which is sometimes thrown over the head and body.' Crisping pins. The learned understood rather 'money bags, or purses;' these were often made very large and very highly ornamented. 23. The glasses. Females of Eastern nations carry mirrors to examine and adjust their dress. (See note and cut Ex. xxxviii. 8.) Fine linen. This was of Egyptian manufacture. The rich man wore such. (Luke xvi. 19.) Veils. A larger sort worn in the East, may be here intended. 24. Sweet smell. The Easterns perfume their apartments and persons with aromatics. A girdle. Girdles were necessary to bind the loose and flowing garments when dancing, running, or labouring. Well set hair. So much pains do the Eastern ladies take in braiding their hair, that Miss Pardoe says, in the 'City and Sultan,' that after taking a bath, the slaves who attended her spent an hour and a half in dressing and adorning her hair. A stomacher. Perhaps a stiffened ornament, now occasionally seen and worn on the breast. 26. Her gates. The places of concourse at the entrance of cities.

Ch. V.—2. A tower. Meaning an edifice sufficiently high for the keeper of the vineyard to see every part of it. Schultens says, that travelling through that part of Palestine which formerly belonged to the tribe of Judah, he saw buildings of this sort in almost every vineyard. Wild grapes. Hasselquist is inclined to think that the prophet here means the bearry nightshade, because it is common in Egypt, Palestine, and the East, and the Arabian name agrees well with it. The Arabs give it a name signifying 'wolf grapes.' 'The prophet,' he says, 'could not have found a plant more opposite to the vine than this, for it grows much in the vineyards, and is very pernicious to them; therefore they root it out. It likewise resembles a vine by its shrubby stalk.' 5. Hedge—wall. Kimchi remarks, that vineyards were surrounded with a thorn-hedge, and also a wall of stones to defend the hedge. This double defence is still used in the East. 11. That rise up early—that they may follow strong drink. The Persians, when they commit a debauch arise betimes, and esteem the morning as the best time for beginning to drink wine, by which means they carry on their excess till night. 12. The harp, and the viol, &c. Music universally attends Eastern feasts.

Ch. VI.—3. He covered his feet. Chardin remarks, that when a person sits down in the East, it is a great mark of respect to conceal his feet, and to look down on the ground.

Ch. VII.—15. Butter. Butter is not used in the East; but this means thick and curdled milk, which is still in use. 18, 19. The Lord shall hiss for the fly—And they shall come, &c. Flies are, from their infinite number and habits, almost a plague now in Egypt, especially that part here called 'the end of the rivers,' the six or seven branches by which the Nile flows through 'the Delta' into the sea, or those parts which lay beyond them. The overflowing populousness of Egypt, which gave rise to the comparison, is noticed by all the ancients. The fly, according to Bruce, is called 'zimb,' and is very little larger than a bee. 'As soon as this plague appears, and a buzzing is heard, all the cattle forsake their food, and run wildly about the plain till they die, worn out with fatigue, fright, and hunger. No remedy remains but to leave the black earth, and hasten down to the sands of Atbara, and there they remain while the rains last. Even the camel, with his thick skin defended with strong hair, is not able to sustain the violent punctures the fly makes with his pointed proboscis, for his body, head, and legs break out into large bosses, which swell, break, and putrefy, to his certain destruction. Even the elephant and rhinoceros, who by reason of their enormous bulk, and the vast quantity of food and water they daily need, cannot shift to deserts and dry places as the season may require, are obliged to roll themselves in mud and mire, which, when dry, coats them over, and enables them to stand their ground against this winged assailant: yet I have found some of these tubercles upon almost every elephant and rhinoceros I have seen.

Ch. VIII.—1. A great roll. The Eastern people roll their papers and do not fold them, because their paper is apt to fret. The Egyptian papyrus was formerly much used; the brittle nature of it made it proper to roll what they wrote, and the practice may have been continued even with materials which might safely have been treated in another manner.—Harmer. Roll here more properly means tablet. Tablets for writing were made of wood, metal, or stone. On these tablets, or smooth plates, writing was performed by cutting the letters with an iron stylus or small chisel. The process was slow, but the writing was permanent. They sometimes used the thick bark, and, or the bark of trees, and subsequently the papyrus of Egypt; but Isaiah evidently refers to a plate of metal, on which his prophecy was to be permanently engraved. A man's pen. The iron stylus which was to engrave or cut the letters in the metal or wood.—Barnes. 6. The waters of Shiloah that go softly. The fountain of Siloar rises at the foot of Mount Zion or Mount Ophel, and flows away in a gentle and pure stream.

Ch. IX.—4. Staff of his shoulder. This was a piece of wood fitted to the shoulders of the Eastern porters, with a basket at each end for carrying weights, very much like the yoke which our people use in carrying milk pails. 5. This shall be with burnings. To burn heaps of armour, collected after a battle, was customary among some heathen nations, and considered as an offering to the god who was supposed to give the victory.

Ch. XI.—8. The asp. The poison of this serpent is of such rapid operation that it kills almost instantly. Its bite was regarded as incurable. This serpent is small. It is found particularly in Egypt and in other places. It is here used as the emblem of that which is deadly and destructive. Cockatrice. A fabulous kind of a serpent; was supposed to have been hatched from the egg of a cock. A species of the adder is here doubtless intended.

Ch. XIII.—19. Babylon, the glory of kingdoms. After Nineveh was destroyed, Babylon became the queen of the East. Semiramis founded it, but Nebuchadnezzar made it one of the wonders of the world, by enlarging and beautifying it. Besides its walls and its gates, elsewhere described, and its temple of Belus, built upon a base of a quarter of a mile square, he erected a most magnificent palace, and the famous hanging gardens, which were an artificial mountain, raised upon arches and planted with trees of the largest as well as the most beautiful sorts. The old palace was four miles in compass; the new, built by Nebuchadnezzar, was four times as large. Two canals were made by Nebuchadnezzar a hundred miles above the city; one on the eastern side of the Euphrates called Nabarmalcha, or the royal river, by which the Euphrates was let into the Tigris; the other on the western side, called Pallacopas or Ardahoga, the river of the pool, by which the redundant waters of the Euphrates were carried into a vast lake forty miles square, contrived, not only to lessen the inundation, but for a reservoir, with sluices to water the barren country; on the Arabian side there were also prodigious banks of brick and bitumen carried a long way on each side of the river, to keep it within its channel. The city was a regular square of forty-five miles in compass. 20. It shall never be inhabited. Babylon never recovered its ancient splendour after it was taken by Cyrus, but upon the removal of the seat of empire from thence by the Persians, by degrees decayed till it was at last reduced to an utter solitude. Bersesus, in Josephus, says, that Cyrus ordered the outer walls to be pulled down; the Persian kings ever regarded Babylon with a jealous eye; Darius Hystaspes, upon a revolt, greatly depopulated the place, lowered the walls, and demolished the gates: Xerxes destroyed the temples; the building of Seleucia on the Tigris exhausted Babylon by its neighbourhood, as was also by the immediate loss of inhabitants taken away by Seleucus to people his new city; a king of the Parthians soon after carried away into slavery a great number, and destroyed the most beautiful parts of the city. In more modern times, St. Jerome, who lived in the fourth century, mentions Babylon as nothing more than a chase for wild beasts to feed and breed there for the king of Persia's hunting. From Ranwolf's testimony it appears, that in the sixteenth century there was not a house left to be seen; and now the eye wanders over a barren desert, in which the ruins are nearly the only indication that it had ever been inhabited. It is impossible to behold this scene, and not to be reminded how exactly the predictions of Isaiah and Jeremiah have been fulfilled. Babylon is ruined at the will of the Ottoman, the Israelites, and the sons of Ishmael. It is a tenantless and desolate metropolis.—See Keppel, Mignar, Keith. Neither shall it be dwelt in, &c. The following testimonies of travellers will show how this is accomplished. Rich compares the ruins of Babylon, of heaps of rubbish impregnated with nitre, cannot be cultivated. The decomposing materials of a Babylonian structure doom the earth on which they perish to lasting sterility. On this part of the Euphrates plain, both where traces of buildings are, and where none stood, all seemed equally naked of vegetation; the whole ground appearing as if it had been washed over and over again by the coming and receding waters, till every bit of genial soil was swept away, and a half-clay, half-sand surface being left in ridgy streaks, like what is often seen on the flat shores of the sea after the retreating of the tide. The ground is low and marshy, and presents not the slightest vestige of former buildings of any description whatever. The ruins of Babylon are here so undistinguished, so as to render many parts of them inaccessible, by converting the valleys among them into morasses.—Rich. Porter, Buckingham. Neither shall the Arabian pitch tent there. The Arabians dwell chiefly in tents, and were a wandering people engaged in traffic, which was conducted in caravans travelling on from place to place. Babylon is here represented as not affording a resting place even for a night. Neither shall the shepherds make their fold there. Babylon is situated in the midst of a most fertile region. It might be supposed that though it was destroyed it might still furnish pasturage for flocks. But no; once so fertile it has become barren and unproductive, for the whole region round about Babylon was laid under water by the Euphrates after the city was taken, and became a stagnant pool, and of course an unfit place for flocks. It was, as before stated, reduced to an extended scene of ruins—its walls being decayed and its temples sunk into piles of ruins—and on those extended scenes of broken walls, of bricks, and cement, no grass would grow. It is said that the Arabs cannot be persuaded to remain a single night on the spot, from the superstitious dread of evil spirits. 22. Wild beasts, &c. 'There are many dens of wild beasts in various parts.' 'There are quantities of porcupine quills.' 'In most of the cavities are numberless bats and owls.' 'These caverns, over which the chambers of majesty have been spread, are now the refuge of jackals and other savage animals. The mouths of their entrances are strewed with the bones of sheep and goats, and the loathsome smell that issues from most of them is sufficient warning not to proceed into the den.' 'The mound was full of large holes; we entered some of them and found them strewed with the carcases and skeletons of animals recently killed. The odour of wild beasts was so strong that prudence got the better of curiosity, for we had no doubt as to the savage nature of the inhabitants; our guides, indeed, told us that all the ruins abounded in lions and other wild beasts.' So literally has the prediction been fulfilled. —See Sir R. K. Porter—Keppel.

Ch. XIV.—22. I will also make it—pools of water. Cyrus took the city of Babylon by diverting the waters of the Euphrates, which ran through the midst of it, and entering the place at night by the channel. It was two furlongs wide, but he had made it fordable by means of the lake and trenches which he had prepared. The river being thus turned by the breaking down of dams and banks, and no care taken afterwards to repair the breach, all the country was overflowed and drowned, and ultimately a whole province lost. Alexander, who intended to have made Babylon the seat of his empire, set about remedying the mischief; but difficulties arising, he soon after dying, and the work being never more thought of, that country has remained bog and marsh ever since. —See Prideaux. 28. Whole Palestine. We apply the name Palestine to the whole land of Canaan. Formerly the name referred only to Philistia, from which we have derived the name Palestine.

Ch. XVI.—1. Send ye the lamb. Tribute was so paid. The king of Moab sent 100,000 lambs to the king of Israel. (2 Kings iii. 4.) It is still a custom of the East for the poor people to make presents of lambs and sheep to their lords, as an offering or tribute. Sela. That is 'the rock.' The Greek translation reads 'Petra,' and it is generally agreed that it means the city of Petra, afterwards so celebrated; anciently the metropolis of Arabia Petræa, but in the possession of Moab at the time referred to by Isaiah. Its magnificent ruins have, within a few years, been discovered by Burckhardt, Irby, Mangles, and by Leigh, Irby, and Mangles, it has been described; but still more minutely by Laborde and Linant, whose work contains splendid engravings of the ruins. It is situated in the Wady Mousa—a valley with a stream in the mountainous district called Djebal-Shera, (Seir) and about two days' journey from the southern extremity of the Dead Sea. Here, in an area enclosed by red sandstone rocks, are found mausoleums, temples, statues, colonnades, obelisks, a triumphal arch, an amphitheatre, &c., and all of the most gigantic and imposing dimensions. The rocks on all sides are full of excavated sepulchres, and on every hand are marks of ancient magnificence. To no place could the name of Sela, or Petra, with greater propriety have been applied; the houses of the inhabitants having been hewn out of the solid rock. Petra, when this prophecy was written, was in the possession of Moab. 2. Fords of Arnon. Arnon was the northern boundary of the land of Moab. The river Arnon, or Mojeb Mujeb flows in a deep, frightfully wild, and rocky vale of the same name, in a narrow bed, and forms at this time the boundary between the provinces of Belka and Karrak.

Ch. XIX.—7. The paper reeds. The papyrus is the peculiar produce of the Nile, the streams drawn from it, and the lakes of Egypt. Besides the principal articles made from it,—paper, and the boats on the Nile,—Pliny tells us, that the Egyptians applied it to various purposes, using the root for wood, and making of the bark sails, ropes, clothes, &c.—Vitringa. 13. Zoan—or Tanis. This was one of the principal cities in Lower Egypt, and furnished councillors for state matters. Its sculptured monuments testify to its splendour 3190 years ago. Extensive ruins are still visible around the spot where it is ascertained that it stood, and several obelisks and other monuments of former magnificence have been found among them. Noph. The same as Memphis. It was the residence of the ancient kings of Egypt until the time of the Ptolemies, who commonly resided at Alexandria. Memphis retained its splendour until it was conquered by the Arabians about A.D. 641. It was the second capital and celebrated necropolis of Egypt. An immense number of mummies have been discovered in and around the spot where it stood, many of them between two and three thousand years old. The city stood within four or five miles east of Old Cairo, on the opposite bank of the Nile, and appears to have occupied the whole space between the pyramids of Gisch, and those of Sacarah. According to Josephus, it was founded by Menes, the first of the Egyptian kings, upwards of thirteen hundred years before the time of Solomon. A colossus, and fragments of several statues, bearing the name of Rameses the Great, are still met with among the ruins; but otherwise every vestige of its former grandeur has completely disappeared. In the twelfth century Edrisi describes its ruins as extending nine miles in every direction, but even then containing works of the most stupendous character. Among others, he mentions a monolithic temple of granite, thirteen feet and a half high, twelve long, and seven broad, entirely covered within and without with inscriptions and statues of great beauty and dimensions, one of which was 45 feet high, and consisting of a single block of red granite.

Ch. XX.—2. Walking naked and barefoot. This was a sign of captivity. Multitudes of prisoners taken by the Assyrians, and reserved for sale as slaves, would be driven before them barefoot and uncovered, save with a short garment, which scarcely sufficed to hide their nakedness; the prophet, therefore, was ordered to walk abroad in the same manner. There is no reason to suppose that the least particle of clothing was allowed to many of the captives. See the monuments of Egypt in proof that such barbarity was not then unusual. We must not judge of that age and country by the notions of delicacy now prevalent with us.

Ch. XXI.—1. The desert of the sea. This name is given to Babylon because a flat country, full of lakes, and abundantly watered with the many streams of the Euphrates. This river divided Babylon into two parts; and, running to the south, made great marshes and lakes, in which was that celebrated pond, Pallacopa, into which, on its overflow, it was carried by a canal, so that it seemed like a sea, during Babylon, as all the ancients testify. Herodotus says, 'that before Semiramis restrained it by embankments, the river overflowed all the plain like the sea.' Abydenus, according to Eusebius, says of the site of Babylon, 'they say that all this region of Assyria was overflowed and called the sea.' Whirlwinds in the south. Whirlwinds or tempests are often, in Scripture, represented as coming from the south. The burning sands of Arabia Deserta situated to the south of Palestine, and whirlwinds are described as arising there, and sweeping over the neighbouring regions. 2. Elam. The Persæ, called anciently Elymaeor. They were ferocious and warlike. 5. Anoint the shield. Of whatever materials shields were made, whether of brass, or of wood covered with skins, they must sometimes be anointed, lest the skin, becoming too dry, should crack and burst open at the stroke of a sword.—Rosenmuller. 11. Dumah. A name for Idumea or Edom.

Ch. XXII.—1. Wholly gone up to the housetops. The Eastern houses are built with a court within, into which chiefly the windows open; those that open to the street being so obstructed with lattice work, that they can see through but little. Hence, therefore, anything is to be seen or heard in the streets, any public spectacle, or any alarm, every one immediately goes up to the housetop to satisfy his curiosity. Hence, all the people running to the tops of their houses, give a lively image of a sudden general alarm. 16. A sepulchre on high. There are some monuments still remaining in Persia of great antiquity, called Nakai Rustam, which give a clear idea of Shebna's pompous design for his sepulchre. They consist of several sepulchres, each of them hewn in a high rock near the top. The front of the rock, to the valley below, is adorned with carved work in relievo, being the outside of the sepulchre. Some of these sepulchres are about thirty feet in the perpendicular from the valley, which is itself raised perhaps about half as much by the accumulation of the earth since they were made. It was customary in this manner for kings in the East in general, and other persons of high rank and dignity, to have magnificent sepulchres excavated in the solid rock for themselves, families, and those of their relatives, were deposited in sarcophagi. Besides Persepolis, Petra and other places are examples, and such sepulchres are still visible in the rocks about Jerusalem. 18. Toss thee like a ball. From this expression it is inferred that sports were in use among the Hebrews, either for amusement or invigorating the frame for war.—So Henry. 22. The key of the house of David will I lay upon his shoulder. How much was I delighted when I first saw the people, especially the women going along the streets with each his key on his shoulder. The handle is generally made of brass, though sometimes of silver, and is often nicely worked in a device of filigree. The way it is carried is to have the corner of the kerchief tied to the ring, the key is then placed on the shoulder, and the kerchief hangs down in front. For a man thus to march along with a large key on his shoulder, shows at once that he is a person of consequence.—Roberts. 23. As a nail in a sure place. Alluding to the nails, or spikes, or pins, or pegs, driven into the ground to fasten the cords of tents, or driven into walls, and on which were suspended the garments or the utensils of a family. In ancient times every house was furnished with a large number of these pegs or nails, they having been worked in the wall when the house was built. The houses were usually made of stone, and strong iron hooks or spikes were worked into the mortar while soft. These answered the double purpose of nails to hang things on, and of cramp irons, as they were so bent as to hold the walls together. It was the custom to suspend on these, in houses and temples, suits of armour, shields, helmets, swords, &c. 24. And they shall hang upon him—all vessels. A great portion of the wealth of the ancients consisted in the great quantity of gold and silver vessels which they had for various uses, as well as changes of raiment.

Ch. XXIII.—1. Tyre. There were two cities of this name; one on the continent and the other about half a mile from the shore, four miles in circumference. Old Tyre resisted Nebuchadnezzar thirteen years; then the inhabitants carried the city, so to speak, to the island. This new city held out against Alexander the Great for seven months, who, to take it, was obliged to fill up the channel which separated it from the main land. In A.D. 1289, it was wholly destroyed by the sultan of Egypt, and now contains only a few huts, in which about fifty or sixty wretched families exist. Ships of Tarshish. The Tarshish here referred to was doubtless a celebrated city or country of Spain, and was the most celebrated emporium to which the Phœnicians traded. Cittim. The island Cyprus. So Josephus. 2. The merchants of Zidon. Tyre was a colony from Sidon, and the merchants of Sidon would trade to Tyre as well as to Sidon. 4. Zidon. Sidon was one of the oldest cities in the world. The Sidonians, when their city was taken by the king of Ascalon, betook themselves to their ships and landed and built Tyre. 6. Howl, ye inhabitants. Deep grief among the Orientals was usually expressed by a loud and long, and most melancholy and dismal howl or shriek. 16. Sing as an harlot. The harlots or courtesans of ancient times were distinguished for their exterior accomplishments, and particularly excelled in music.

Ch. XXIV.—20. Removed like a cottage. This rather means a temporary shed or lodge for the watchman of a garden or vineyard while the fruit is ripening. (See note and cut end of Isa.) Sometimes these cottages were erected, as we have before mentioned, in the form of a hut; but sometimes they were a species of hanging bed or couch, suspended from the limbs of trees. They were made either by interweaving the limbs of a tree, or by suspending them by cords from the branches of trees, or by extending a cord or cords from one tree to another, and laying a couch or bed on the cords. They were thus made to afford a convenient place for observation, and also to afford security from the access of wild beasts. Travellers in the East even now resort to such a temporary lodge for security; but it was liable to be tossed hither and thither in a storm, to the no small peril of its inhabitant.

Ch. XXV.—4. A storm against the wall. The walls of Babylon were thrown down by torrents of rain, from time to time washing them away, like the walls of the houses of Damascus, where, in any such rain, the whole city becomes a quagmire.—Maundrell.

Ch. XXVII.—11. The women come, and set them on fire. The gathering of fuel in the East belonged to females, on whom devolved the baking and other culinary occupations. Besides dung, which was most generally in use, thorns, vine twigs, &c. were collected for this purpose.

Ch. XXVIII.—4. As the hasty fruit before the summer. This denotes the early fig, which ripens in June, while the common fig does not ripen until August. Shaw, in his Travels, says, 'No sooner does the early fig (the bocore) draw near to perfection in the middle or latter end of June, than the kermes or summer fig, begins to be formed, though it rarely ripens before August, about which time the same tree frequently throws out a third crop, or winter fig as we may call it. 27. For the fitches are not threshed, &c. Several methods of threshing are here mentioned, all of which are at the present time common in the East, as adapted to different kinds of grain. The threshing instrument and the cart wheel refer to an instrument which is still in use in the East. Niebuhr, in his travels in Arabia, says, 'In threshing their corn, the Arabians lay the sheaves down in a certain order, and then lead over them two oxen, dragging a large stone;' and in another place he says, 'They use oxen as the ancients did to treat out their corn, by trampling on the sheaves, and dragging after them a cumsy machine. This machine is not, as in Arabia, a stone cylinder; nor a plank with sharp stones, as in Syria; but a sort of sledge consisting of three rollers, fitted with irons which turn upon axles. A farmer chooses out a level spot in the fields, and has his corn carried thither in sheaves upon asses or dromedaries. Two oxen are then yoked in a sledge; a driver then gets upon it and drives them backwards and forwards (or in a circle) upon the sheaves, and fresh oxen succeed in the yoke from time to time. By this operation the sheaf is very much cut down; it is then winnowed, and the grain thus separated. This machine is called naurij. It has three rollers which turn on three axles, and each of them is furnished with some irons which are round and flat. Two oxen were made to draw over the grain, again and again, the sledge above mentioned; and this was done with the greatest convenience to the driver, for he was seated on a chair fixed on a sledge.' (See note Deut. xxv. 4, and note and cut 1 Chron. xxi. 23.) The cart wheel is described by Burchart, as consisting of a cart or wagon with wheels adapted to crush or thresh the grain. This, he says, was used by the Carthaginians, who came from the vicinity of Canaan. This instrument seems to have been made with serrated wheels, perhaps almost in the form of circular saws, by which the straw was cut fine at the same time that the grain was separated from the chaff.

Ch. XXX.—6. Fiery flying serpent. Niebuhr mentions a sort of serpent, as does Pliny also, that twirl themselves by the tail to a branch of one date tree, and so spring to the branches of another; hence the modern Arabs call them flying serpents. Anson speaks of flying serpents at the island of Quibo; they darted themselves from the boughs of trees upon man and beast, but were without wings. 'Probably,' says Harmhurst, 'these mentioned by Isaiah here, and Ch. xiv. 29, were of this species.' 13. As a breach ready to fall, swelling out in a high wall. The buildings in Asia generally consist in little better than what we call mud-walls. They are constructed of clay or soft brick dried in the sun, and are extremely liable to rend and be washed down by rain. 14. A sherd to take fire, &c. This allusion may be seen illustrated every morning in the East. Should the good woman's fire have been extinguished in the night, she takes a potsherd to the neighbour, and goes to her oven for a little fire to rekindle her own. Not having pumps, they are obliged to have something to take water from the well or tank. Of a very poor country it is said, "The wretchedness is so great they have not a sherd with which to take water from the tank."—Roberts. 33. Tophet—or Hinnom. (See note on 2 Kings xxiii. 10.) In subsequent times it became the receptacle of all the filth of the city; and hence, in order to purify the atmosphere and prevent contagion, it was needful to keep fires there continually burning. In Isaiah thus it most striking emblem of hell-fire: and as such is used in the New Testament.

Ch. XXXII.—2. As the shadow of a great rock. In Eastern countries, in a burning desert of sand, nothing is more grateful than the cooling shade of a far-projecting rock. It not only excludes the rays of the sun, but it has itself a refreshing coolness that is most grateful to a weary traveller. Campbell, in his Travels in Africa, makes a particular observation on the shadow of the rock. 'Well does the traveller remember a day in the wilds of Africa, where the country was chiefly covered with burning sand, when scorched with the powerful rays of an almost vertical sun, the thermometer in the shade standing at 130 degrees, he remembers long looking hither and thither for something that would afford protection from the almost insupportable heat, and where the least motion of air felt like a flame coming against the face. At length he espied a huge loose rock leaning against the brow of a small cliff which faced the south, to which he fled for refuge underneath its inviting shade. The coolness emitted from this rocky canopy he found exquisitely exhilarating. The wild beasts of the desert were all fled to their dens, and the feathered songsters were all roosting among the thickest foliage they could find of evergreen trees. The whole creation around seemed to groan, as if their vigour had been entirely exhausted. A small river was providentially at hand, to the side of which, after a while, he ventured, and sipped a little of its cooling water, which tasted better than the best burgundy or the finest old hock in the world. During all this enjoyment, the above apropos text was the interesting subject of the traveller's meditation; though the allusion, as a figure, must fall infinitely short of that which is meant to be prefigured by it. 20. That sow beside all waters. Sir John Chardin says, that 'they sow the rice upon the water, and before sowing, while the earth is covered with water, they cause the ground to be trodden by oxen, horses, and asses, who go mud-leg deep, and this is the way they prepare the ground for sowing.'

Ch. XXXIII.—21. A place of broad rivers and streams. Campbell, the African traveller, gives a happy illustration of this passage, showing the importance of such benefits. 'In such a highly cultivated country as England, and where great drought is almost unknown, we have not an opportunity to observe the fertilising influence of a broad river; but in South Africa, where almost no human means are employed for improving the land, the benign influence of rivers is most evident. The Great, or Orange river is a remarkable instance of this. I travelled on its banks, at one time, for five or six weeks; when, for several hundred miles, I found both sides of it delightfully covered with trees of various kinds, all in health and vigour and abundance of the richest verdure; but all the country beyond the reach of its influence was a complete desert. Every thing appeared to be struggling for mere existence: so that we might be said to have the wilderness on one side, and a kind of paradise on the other.'

Ch. XXXIV.—10. From generation to generation it shall lie waste. Burckhardt has given the following description of the eastern boundary of Edom, and of the adjoining part of Arabia Petræa. It might with truth be called Petræa, not only on account of its rocky mountains, but also of its elevated plain, Shera Seir, the territory of the Edomites, which is so much covered with stones, especially flints, that it may with great propriety be called a stony desert although susceptible of cultivation: in many places it is grown over with wild herbs, and must once have been thickly inhabited, for the traces of many towns and villages are met with on both sides of the Hadj road between Maan and Akabe, as well as between Maan and the plain of Hasmara, in which direction also are many springs. At present all this country is a desert, and Maan is the only inhabited place in it. None shall pass through it for ever and ever. Volney says, 'The country has not been visited by any traveller, but it well merits such attention.' Burckhardt says, after he had entered on the north-east, the territories of the Edomites, that he was without protection in the midst of a desert where no traveller had ever before been seen. He adds, 'it was then, that for the first time, he had ever felt fear during his travels in the desert, and his route thither was the most dangerous he ever travelled.' Seetzen, on a piece of paper pasted against the wall, notified his having penetrated the country in a direct line between the Dead Sea and Mount Sinai, through the route which he before accomplished. Burckhardt had determined to attempt to pass the same way, as being the shortest way to Jerusalem, but he was repeatedly told it was impossible: and the difficulty of the journey is illustrated in the travels of Captains Irby and Mangles. They offered five hundred piastres to an Arab tribe if they would conduct them to Wady Mousa, but nothing would induce them to consent. They said they would not go if we gave them five thousand piastres, observing that money was no use to a man if he lost his life. 11. The owl also and the raven shall dwell in it. Captain Mangles relates, that while he and his fellow travellers were examining the ruins and contemplating the sublime scenery of Petræa, 'the roaming of the eagles, hawks, and owls, which were soaring above their heads in considerable numbers, seemingly annoyed at any one approaching their lonely habitation, added much to the singularity of the scene.'

Ch. XXXV.—6. Then shall the lame man leap, &c.—In the wilderness shall waters, &c. This is an expressive image to those accustomed to cross the desert. Campbell says, 'lameness and dumbness are the uniform effects of long travel in a desert; sand and gravel produce the former, fatigue the latter. In such cases some of us have walked hours together without uttering a sentence, and all walked as if crippled from the sand and gravel getting into the shoes; but the sight of water, especially if unexpected, unloosed every tongue, and gave agility to every limb; men, oxen, sheep, and dogs, ran with speed and expressions of joy to the refreshing element.'—Travels in Africa. 7. The parched ground. Rather as Lowth reads it, 'the glowing sand.' It refers to the phenomena which is produced by the refraction of the rays of the sun on the glowing sands of a desert, and which gives the appearance of a sea or lake of water, so that the most experienced travellers are often deceived. This phenomenon is witnessed in the deserts of Arabia and Egypt, and has been also seen occasionally in the south of France and in Russia. The French call it mirage.

Ch. XL.—11. He shall feed his flock, &c.—and shall gently lead, &c. Dr. Shaw says, 'the greatest skill and vigilance, and even tender care, are required in the management of such immense flocks as wander on the Syrian plains. Their prodigious numbers compel the keepers to remove them too frequently in search of fresh pastures, which proves very destructive to the young that have not strength to follow.' Anderson, speaking of the Grecian shepherd and his flock, says, 'All day long the shepherd attends his flock, leading them into green pastures near fountains of water, and chooses a convenient place for them to rest at noon.' At night he drives them near his tent, and if there is danger, encloses them in the fold. They know his voice and follow him. When travelling he tenderly watches over them, and carries such as are exhausted in his arms.' 24. And the whirlwind shall take them away as stubble. Mr. Bruce, in his journey through the desert of Samaria, says, 'That in a vast expanse of desert from west and to north-west of him, he saw a number of prodigious pillars of sand at different distances, moving at times with great celerity, at others, stalking on with majestic slowness; at intervals, he thought they were coming in a very few minutes to overwhelm him and his companion. Again, they would retreat so as to be almost out of sight, their tops reaching the very clouds; their tops often separated from the bodies; and these, once disjoined, dispersed in the air, and appeared no more. Sometimes they were broken near the middle, as if struck with a large cannon shot. About noon they began to advance with considerable swiftness upon them, the wind being very strong at north. Eleven of these awful visitors ranged alongside of them, about the distance of three miles. The nearest diameter of the largest appeared to him, at that distance, as if it would measure ten feet. They retired from them with wind at south-east, leaving an impression on the mind of the intrepid traveller to which he could give no name—he felt wonder and astonishment. He declares it was in vain to think of flying: the swiftest horse or fastest sailing ship could be of no use to carry them out of this danger, and the full persuasion of this rivetted him to the spot where he stood.'

Ch. XLI.—16. Thou shalt fan them, &c. Niebuhr tells us, that two parcels or layers of corn are threshed out in a day, and they move each of them as many as eight times with a wooden fork of five prongs, which they call meidre. Afterwards they throw the straw into the middle of the ring, where it forms a heap which grows bigger and bigger; when the first layer is thrashed they replace the straw in the ring and thrash it as before. Thus, the straw becomes every time smaller, till at last it resembles chopped straw. After this, with their fork, they cast the whole some yards from thence, and against the wind, which, driving beside the straw, the corn and red husks out fall apart from it and make another heap. A man collects the clods of earth and other impurities, to which any corn adheres, and throws them into a sieve. They afterwards place in a ring the heaps, in which a good many entire ears will be found, and drive over them, for four or five hours together, a dozen couple of oxen, joined two and two; till by absolute trampling they have separated the grains, which they throw into the air with a shovel to cleanse them.

Ch. XLII.—11. The wilderness and the cities thereof. The Hebrews gave the name of wilderness, or desert, to those regions that were mostly uncultivated, or sparsely inhabited, though there were in those places villages or cities. They were regions that were chiefly devoted to pasturage, and not cultivated by the plough; or regions of vast plains of sand and far-extended barrenness, with here and there an oasis on which a city might be built. Thus Solomon "built cities in the wilderness," and we know that Palmyra, and Bosra, and Sela, were large cities that were built in the midst of regions that were generally to be regarded as deserts or wastes. The villages. Most of the Arabs dwell in tents, and frequently remove from one place to another; but there are many of them who dwell in villages. Even in Arabia Deserta there were many such villages. Kedar doth inhabit. Kedar was a son of Ishmael (Gen. xxv. 13), the father of the Keidaremans or Cedrei, mentioned by Pliny, who dwell in the vicinity of the Nabathæans in Arabia Deserta. They often change their place, though it would seem that they usually dwell in the neighbourhood of Petra or Sela. The name Kedar is often given to Arabia Deserta, and the word may in some instances denote Arabia in general. The inhabitants of those countries usually dwell in tents, and lead a romantic and wandering life.

Ch. XLIII.—24. Thou hast brought me no sweet cane. A species of aromatic for incense. Campbell, the African traveller, says, 'On approaching and entering first the city of Mashow, and afterwards that of Kurreehane, the two highest-up towns which I visited in Africa, various of the inhabitants, who, like all the rest of their countrymen, had never seen wagons nor white men before, were charmed with the sight, and, as a proof of it, they presented me with pieces of sugar or sweet cane, about a foot in length, and in such numbers, that the bottom of that part of the wagon where I sat was covered with it. It was an act of kindness. This occurrence explained this passage in Isaiah, where God is evidently charging his ancient people with want of affection or unkindness; which expression they would understand, having probably the same custom which I found in Africa, which the Hebrews may have learned while they resided in Africa, that is, in Egypt.' In that country sweet cane is now exposed for sale.

Ch. XLIV.—3. I will pour water upon him that is thirsty. See the man who is weary, he calls for his neighbour, or servant, or wife, to accompany him to the well; he then takes off his clothes, excepting a small strip round his loins, sits on his hams, and the individual who assists begins to 'pour water' upon him, till he be refreshed, and exclaims, 'potham,' that is, sufficient. In this way his body is invigorated, his thirst quenched, and he is made ready for his food.—Roberts.

Ch. XLV.—2. I will break in pieces the gates of brass. Ancient cities were surrounded by walls and secured by strong gates, which were not unfrequently made of brass. To Babylon there were one hundred gates, twenty-five on each side of the city, which, with their posts, were made of brass. 'In the circumference of the walls,' says Herodotus, 'at different distances were one hundred massy gates of brass, whose hinges and frames were of the same metal.' The bars of iron. One method of securing the gates of fortified places was to cover them with thick plates of iron, a custom which is still used in the East, and which seems to be of great antiquity. We learn from Pitts, that Algiers has five gates, and some of these have two, some three other gates within them, and some of them plated all over with iron.—Paxton.

Ch. XLIX.—22. And thy daughters shall be carried upon their shoulders. A reference to the manner in which children were carried. In ch. lxvi. 12, the same idea is expressed by their being carried upon the sides, referring to the custom still prevalent in the East, of placing a child, when it is nursed, astride on the side of its mother. For it is the custom in many parts of the East, to carry their children astride upon the hip, with the arm around the body. In Algiers, where the slaves take the children out, the boys ride upon their shoulders; and in a religious procession which Symes had an opportunity of seeing at Ava, the capital of the Burman empire, the first personages of rank that passed by were three children borne astride on men's shoulders. The custom was evidently the same in Judea; according to Dr. Russell, the children able to support themselves are usually carried astride on the shoulders, but in infancy they are carried in the arms, or a wrapdy on one haunch. Dandini tells us, that on horseback the Abissins 'carry their young children upon their shoulders with great dexterity. These children hold by the head of him who carries them, whether they be on horseback or on foot, and do not hinder him from walking nor doing what he pleases.'

Ch. LI.—20. Thy sons have fainted, they lie at the head of all the streets. What a graphic picture we have here of an Eastern city or town in time of famine. See the squalid objects; in their despair they rush forth, throw themselves down in the streets, and there remain till they die or are relieved. They have scarcely a rag left to defend them from the heat of the sun or the dew of the night; and they court death as a blessing. 23. Bow down, that we may go over. The allusion is to the haughtiness of Oriental kings, who treated their captives with most degrading insolence; as Sapor, king of Persia, did his prisoner, the Roman emperor Valerian, whom he treated as a vile slave, causing him, as often as he mounted his horse, to bend his back, that he might step upon his neck and so mount.

Ch. LII.—2. Shake thyself from the dust. To sit on the ground,—to sit in the dust,—is an expression descriptive of mourning. 15. So shall he sprinkle many nations. A person stands near the entrance at an Eastern feast, holding in his hand a vessel full of rose water, somewhat globe-shaped in the body, with a long neck and perforated top like a watering-pot. With this he sprinkles the guests as they approach. The custom indicates favour and protection. So shall the eternal Son of God sprinkle many nations, and admit them into his presence, in token of their purification, and of his protection and favour.

Ch. LIII.—7. As a sheep before her shearers is dumb. Philo-Judæus, a philosopher and a Jew, born and bred in Egypt, and well acquainted with their customs, has a passage by which it appears that the figurative language of Isaiah was founded upon the practice of the Eastern shepherds: 'Woolly rams, laden with thick fleeces, in spring season, being ordered by their shepherd, stand without moving, and, silently stooping a little, put themselves into his hand, to have their wool shorn; being accustomed, as cities are, to pay their yearly tribute to man, their king by nature.'

Ch. LVII.—8. Hast thou set up thy remembrance. That is, they had filled their houses with the images of tutelary gods, or with something dedicated to them. The Greeks and Romans had their Lares and Penates—their household or domestic gods—the images of which were in every family. So it is with the heathen now. The same was true of the apostate Hebrews. 14. Cast ye up—prepare the way. This cry is often heard before the coming of a distinguished prince or conqueror in the East. It was stated by Dr. Wolf, that on entering Jerusalem from the west, in the direction of Gaza, the road for a considerable distance from Jerusalem was so full of stones that it was impracticable to ride, and those who were entering the city were obliged to dismount. When the Pacha (Ibrahim, son of Mohammed Ali) approached Jerusalem, it was customary for a considerable number of labourers to go before him and remove the stones from the way. This was done amidst a constant cry, 'Cast up, cast up the way: remove the stones, remove the stones:' and the stones placed or stacked as it was written, 'The pacha is coming,' and everywhere the cry was heard, 'The pacha is coming; the pacha is coming; cast up the way; remove the stones.'

Ch. LX.—8. As the doves to their windows. 'In the environs of Ispahan are many pigeon towers to collect the dung for a manure for melons, crowned by conical spiracles, through which the pigeons descend. Their interior resembles a honeycomb, pierced with a thousand holes, each of which forms for a single pair a nest. Many are painted and ornamented. The extraordinary flights I have seen alight on them is perhaps a good illustration of the text. Their great numbers, and the compactness of their mass, literally look like a cloud at a distance, and produce the same astonishment in their passage.'—Morier. 13. The glory of Lebanon shall come unto thee, &c. On great occasions the Temple was decorated with branches of various sorts of trees, to which custom the prophet is supposed to allude here. 14. Bow themselves down at the soles of thy feet. 'Who in the East has not seen the humble suppliant come bending to ask forgiveness or entreat a favour? See him go stooping along, with his hands spread out, till he come near his superior, and then, as in these words, he bows himself down at his feet.'—Roberts.

Ch. LXI.—3. Oil of joy. Perfumed oils are very expensive in the East, and are believed to possess many virtues. Except for medicinal purposes, they are used only on joyful occasions. 10. And a bride adorneth herself with her jewels. It would, in the East, be considered as unfortunate in the extreme for a bride to be married without having on numerous jewels; hence the poorest females, those who have not a farthing in the world, may be seen on such occasions literally covered with jewels. These are borrowed from neighbours and friends, where the girl is poor, and are always faithfully returned.

Ch. LXV.—3. And burneth incense upon altars of brick. The allusion seems to be to some superstitious rite now unknown, connected with magical formulas inscribed on such bricks as are still found in ancient Babylonia, with wedge-shaped letters on them. 4. Lodge in the monuments. When wrapped in the skins of beasts sacrificed, they were wont to lie down to know the future by dreams. 22. As the days of a tree. A tree is among the most long-lived of material objects. The oak, the terebinth, the cypress, the cedar, the banyan, attain to a great age. Many trees also live to a much longer period than a thousand years. The bombab tree of Senegal is supposed to attain the age of several thousand years. Adanson inferred that one which he measured, and found to be thirty feet in diameter, had attained the age of 5150 years. Having made an incision to a certain depth, he first counted 300 rings of annual growth, and observed what thickness the tree had gained in that period. The average rate of growth of younger trees of the same species was then ascertained, and the calculation made according to a supposed mean rate of increase. De Candolle considers it not improbable that the celebrated taxodium of Chapultepec in Mexico, which is 117 feet in circumference, may be still more aged.

Ch. II.—6. A land of deserts and of pits. The account that Irwin has given of that part of this wilderness which lies on the western side of the Red Sea, through the northern part of which Israel actually passed, very much corresponds with this description. Fifty-four miles of ground were passed over, and three days elapsed without finding a spring for a fresh supply of water. The next spring was a distance of seventy-nine miles. Others were still more distant from each other. Irwin travelled, by his estimation, above three hundred miles in this desert, without meeting with a single town, village, or house. It is, indeed, a land of pits, for Irwin says, 'On each side of us were perpendicular steeps some hundred fathoms deep. On every part is such a wild confusion of hanging precipices, disjointed rocks, and hideous chasms, that we might well cry with the poet 'Chaos is come again.'' 22. Nitre. Natron, which is here meant by nitre. Whether native or purified it is easily dissolved in a very small quantity of water; and this solution is in many parts of Asia used for washing, it is made into soap by mixing it with oil. 37. Thine hands upon thine head. Roberts informs us, that when people in the East are in great distress, they put their hands on their head, the fingers being clasped on the top of the crown. Should a man who is plunged into wretchedness meet a friend, he immediately puts his hands on his head to illustrate his circumstances. If any one hears of the death of a friend or relative he does the same, as likewise does the schoolboy who has been chastised at school.

Ch. III.—2. In the ways hast thou sat for them, as the Arabian in the wilderness. The strongest possible idea of vigilant and eager watching is conveyed by this figure, derived from the practice of the desert Arabians, when in wait for their prey on caravans and travellers. They never relinquish their object from delay in its attainment, nor until they feel assured that ultimate success is hopeless. While out on their pursuit they are continually turning their regards to every quarter, raising themselves occasionally upon their horses to extend their view, and scouring about in all directions. The slightest and most distant indication of smoke or dust, and the faintest track on the ground is instantly perceived, and conveys to them the information they desire.—Pictorial Bible.

Ch. IV.—17. As keepers of a field, are they against her round about. In Arabia, and probably in other parts of the East, instead of a solitary watchman in the middle of the plantation, they place guards at certain distances round the whole field, increasing or diminishing their numbers according to the supposed danger.—Paxton.

Ch. VII.—34. The voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride. The voices of the 'bridegroom' and the 'bride' appear to be distinctly mentioned, because, in the East, the women do not feast with the men.

Ch. VIII.—22. Is there no balm in Gilead? The tree, or rather shrub, producing this precious balsam, is a native of Arabia Felix, not of Judea. In different parts of the former country there are many of them growing at this day.

Ch. XI.—13. According to the number of thy cities were thy gods. This deplorable manifestation of the corruption of the Hebrews, was evidently borrowed from their heathen neighbours, among whom there were not only certain great gods worshipped everywhere in common, but others who were honoured as the tutelary divinities of particular towns; and there was scarcely any town without one. Some of these idols were little known beyond the town or district in which they were specially honoured.—Kitto.

Ch. XII.—5. The swelling of Jordan. Refers to its periodical overflowing of its banks, at which time, not only was the adjacent country overflowed, but the wild beasts, which harboured on its banks, were driven into the interior of the country, which made this a striking emblem of an invading army.

Ch. XIV.—4. The ground is chapt, &c. A more true description than this of an Oriental drought, we have never yet seen. After long drought in the East, particularly where the soil is rich and hard, the ground splits into wide and deep fissures, which, when exhibited to any considerable extent, render cultivation impracticable, and travelling troublesome, if not dangerous.—Pictorial Bible. 8. As a wayfaring man that turneth aside to tarry for a night. Arundell, in his discoveries in Asia Minor, states that it is the practice to establish an oda for the stranger universally through the country, to be perpetually maintained at the charge of the estate; sometimes one, at least, is found in a village, supported not by public, but private charity, and frequently a poor man, whose house has but two chambers, reserves one of them as an oda; and no question is asked as to the religion of the traveller; it is enough that he is a stranger and claims your hospitality. It is the usage at these houses of charity, to receive the stranger only for a single night, as was, and still is, the usage of some religious houses in Europe.

Ch. XVI.—7. Neither shall men give them the cup of consolation. Funeral banquets were made among almost all the nations of the world to commemorate the dead, and to comfort the surviving relatives; and the cup of consolation, (strong mingled wine,) was given to those deepest in distress, to divert their minds and soothe their sorrows. 8. The house of feasting. A funeral feast was customary among different nations. The time of commencing is not certain, but the first three days were days of weeping. The entertainment was given by the chief mourner at his own house, if distinct from that in which the deceased had lived. Those invited were usually the friends and acquaintance of the family, including those neighbours who had sent food to the mourners during the days of weeping.

Ch. XVII.—13. Written in the earth. Della Valle observed in India children writing their lessons with their fingers in sand, strewed on a pavement; and when the space was full, the sand was smoothed or swept off and renewed from a heap near. Dr. Bell hence borrowed his plan of teaching.

Ch. XVIII.—14. Will a man leave the snow of Lebanon? The chief benefit the mountain of Lebanon serves for is, that, by its exceeding height, it proves a conservatory for an abundance of snow, which, thawing in the heat of summer, affords plenty of water to the rivers and fountains in the valleys below.—Maundrell. 17. An east wind. Kitto remarks, that from the frequency with which the "east wind" is mentioned in Scripture, it becomes desirable to state that every wind that blows from any point of the compass between the east and north, and between the east and south, was called an east wind by the Hebrews, as is still the case among the Orientals, who attend but little to the subdivisions of the compass.

Ch. XX.—15. Who brought tidings to my father, &c. The Eastern husband is waiting near at hand when his wife expects to give birth to an infant, and as soon as a son is born a servant bears the news, but if it be a daughter no messenger arrives.

Ch. XXII.—6. Thou art Gilead unto me, &c. Gilead was the most fertile part of the country, and renowned for its rich pastures, and Lebanon was the highest mountain in Israel, celebrated for its stately cedars, and both were therefore proper emblems of the reigning family of Judah. 14. Chambers. These were the principal part of the house in Judea, as at this day in Aleppo: the ground floor being chiefly used for horses and servants.

Ch. XXV.—10. The sound of the millstones. It is remarked by Sir J. Chardin, that in the East every where in the morning may be heard the noise of the mills, which often awakens people; for they generally grind every day just as much as may be necessary for the day's consumption. Where then the noise of the mill is not heard in the morning, nor the light of the candle seen in the evening, there must be an utter desolation.

Ch. XXVI.—18. Zion shall be ploughed like a field. Josephus relates, that Titus, after he had taken Jerusalem, ordered his soldiers to demolish it, except three of the largest and most beautiful towers, and the western wall of the city; all the rest was levelled, so that they who had never before seen it, could scarcely persuade themselves it had been inhabited. The Jewish writers also state, that Turnus Rufus, whom Titus had left in command, ploughed up the very foundations of the Temple. When Dr. Richardson visited the spot in 1818, he found one part of Mount Zion supporting a crop of barley, and another undergoing the labour of the plough: the soil turned up consisted of stone and lime mixed with earth, such as is usually met with in foundations of ruined cities. It is nearly a mile in circumference; is highest on the west side, and, towards the east, falls down in broad terraces on the upper part of the mountain, as it slopes down towards the brook Kedron. 23. Graves of the common people. In the necropolis of Thebes it is found that, while the kings spent their whole reign in building and adorning their tombs, and the priests and nobles had whole apartments to themselves of correspondent magnificence, the coffins (containing the embalmed bodies) of the common people, are piled closely together in large receptacles. 'Egyptians who could not afford a coffin were wrapped in a number of palm sticks, fastened with strings like a mat, and deposited in a pit.'—Wilkinson.

Ch. XXXI.—19. I smote upon my thigh. Sorrow is still expressed by the same action in the East; the right thigh being usually smitten. 21. Waymarks. These are to direct travellers over the trackless paths of the wilderness. They are generally of piled stones, and may be seen at a great distance on the extensive plains where they are placed far apart.

Ch. XXXVII.—15. For they had made that the prison. There is nothing extraordinary in making the dwelling house of a great man a prison, according to either the ancient or modern manners of the East. (See Gen. xxxix. 20.) Even in the royal place itself, we find there was a prison. (ch. xxxii. 2.) Sir J. Chardin states, that the Eastern prisons are not public buildings erected for that purpose, but a part of the house in which their criminal judges dwell. As the governor and provost of a town, or the captain of the watch, imprison such as are accused, in their own houses, they set apart a canton of them for that purpose, when they are put into these offices, and choose for the jailor the most proper person they can find among their domestics. 21. The bakers' street. Different streets were set apart for different trades. Though people in general baked their own bread, persons of small families used the baker, as well as strangers and visitors.

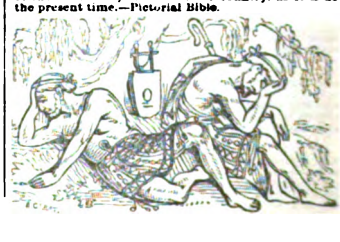
Ch. XLI.—1. Did eat bread together. In the morality of the East this is still considered an inviolable pledge of amity and protection, and is doubtless here mentioned to enhance the treachery recorded.

Ch. XLIV.—18. To pour out drink offerings unto her. Chardin remarks, that still, in Georgia and other parts of the East, before feasting, it is customary to go out and raise the eyes to the naked heaven, and pour out a cup of wine on the ground. 19. Did we make her cakes to worship her. Thus in China, 'from the first to the fifteenth of the month,' says Dr. Morrison, 'persons make cakes like the moon, of various sizes, and paint figures upon them: these are called by a word signifying 'moon-cakes.' Friends and relations pay visits, purchase and present the cakes to each other, and give entertainments. At full moon they spread out oblations, and make prostrations to the moon.'

Ch. XLVIII.—42. Moab shall be destroyed from being a people. Dr. Keith observes, that the most populous and fertile province in Europe is not covered so thickly with towns, as Moab is plentiful in ruins: and none of its ancient cities now exist as tenanted by man. In general they are broken down and undistinguishable masses of ruins: some have, however, remains of temples, sepulchral monuments, and edifices of large stones. Moab has often been a field of contest between the Arabs and Turks; and though the former have retained possession, both have materially reduced it to desolation. The different tribes of Arabs who traverse it, not only bear a permanent and habitual hostility to Christians and to Turks, but one tribe is often at variance and at war with another: and the regular cultivation of the soil, or the improvement of those natural advantages of which the country is so full, is a matter either never thought of, or that cannot be realized. Property is there the creature of power and not of law, and possession forms no security when plunder is the preferable right.

Ch. L.—16. Cut off the sower from Babylon. Herodotus declares, that of all the countries he had seen, none was so suitable as Babylonia for the culture of corn: and says, that the returns were generally two hundred, and sometimes three hundred fold. But all is now an utter desert, offering only some patches of cultivation near the few settlements which it contains. 29. The archers. The conquerors of Babylon are repeatedly described as 'archers.' The Persians, who are intended, were in ancient times famous for their general and very skilful use of the bow, which was in fact the characterizing arm of that people. Even at present, the bow still continues to be a favourite weapon, although, in effective use, it has been nearly superseded by the gun.—Pictorial Bible.

Ch. LI.—58. The broad walls of Babylon. Historians relate that the walls of Babylon were of sufficient width to admit the passing of two chariots on the top, and their depth from their foundation above two hundred feet. The bricks of this wall were dug out of the surrounding ditch, and being mixed up with chopped straw and dried, were then cemented with strong bitumen, (or asphaltam) yet of these walls there are now no remains.



ORIENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS TO THE LAMENTATIONS.

Ch. I.—1. The city sit solitary. When a husband dies in the East, the solitary widow takes off her marriage jewels and other ornaments, her head is shaved, and she sits down in the dust to bewail. The plundered city is compared to a widow. 11. Given their pleasant things for meat. Roberts informs us, that the people of the East retain their little valuables, such as jewels and rich robes, to the last extremity. To part with that which has been a kind of heir loom in the family is like parting with life. The alternative in a time of poverty and distress is to pledge and not to sell, but the covetousness of the one part, and the poverty of the other, usually prevents the recovery of the pleasant things.

Ch. III.—9. He hath inclosed my ways with hewn stone. Thought to be an allusion to extensive tombs and catacombs. The prophet was familiar with Egyptian customs, one of which was to wall up the chambers of the tombe as soon as the body was deposited, and carefully conceal them; also to block up the entrance with a squared stone, sometimes fixed from the inside, whence the workmen retired some other way. 16. Broken my teeth with gravel stones. Alluding to an Oriental method of abusing the vanquished. 52. Chased—like a bird. Alluding to an Oriental custom, still in use in the desert of Arabia, of chasing birds with a stick, and throwing it at them whenever they light, thus tiring them out.—So Laborde.

Ch. IV.—8. Their visage is blacker than a coal. Blackness is still ascribed in the East to the effects of hunger.

Ch. V.—4. We have drunken our water for money. In the East all water, except at a private well or fountain, is free. The Chaldeans, however, seem to have taken possession of those sources of supply, and required payment from those persons who applied for water. (See cut end of Lam.) Our wood is sold unto us. The woods in Israel were anciently common to the inhabitants. They had nothing to pay for it, unless they thought fit to employ others to cut and carry it. But the Babylonians seem to have made it royal property, and obliged the remaining inhabitants to pay. If the complaint relates to the Jews in Babylon then wood, which was only brushwood, was one of the most costly articles in the country, as it is at the present time.—Pictorial Bible.

ORIENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS TO EZEKIEL.

Ch. I.—14, 15. The living creatures—one wheel. As the prophet had beheld the Assyrian palaces, with their mysterious images and gorgeous decorations, it is highly probable, that when seeking to typify certain divine attributes, and to describe the divine glory, he chose forms that were not only familiar to him but to the people whom he addressed—captives like himself in the land of Assyria. Those who were uncorrupted, by even the outward forms of idolatry, sought for images to convey the idea of the supreme God. The mind of the prophet being impressed with such images, they were made to him a channel of divine communication for the instruction of others. It will be observed that the four forms chosen by Ezekiel to illustrate his description—verse 10, the man, the lion, the bull, and the eagle—are precisely those which are constantly found on Assyrian monuments as religious types. The 'wheel within a wheel' mentioned in connexion with the emblematical figures, may refer to the winged circle, or wheel, representing at Nimroud the supreme Deity. 'These coincidences,' says Layard, 'are too marked not to deserve notice; and do certainly lead to the inference that the symbols chosen by the prophet were derived from the Assyrian sculptures.'

Ch. II.—10. Written within and without. The rolls which formed the ancient books were usually written on one side only; but when the matter exceeded the calculation under which the skin was prepared or provided, the writing was sometimes continued to the required extent on the other side, being the outer side of the roll.—Pictorial Bible.

Ch. IV.—1. A tile. The tiles or bricks used for building in the East, were sometimes very large, with one of the surfaces well polished, and capable of receiving the representation described by Ezekiel. In the cabinets of the curious are still preserved fragments of such tiles brought from the supposed site of ancient Babylon. 9. Millet. The dourra of the East. So some. Niebuhr says, 'When made into bad bread with camel's milk, oil, butter, or grease, it is almost the only food eaten by the common people in Arabia Felix. I found it so disagreeable that I should willingly have preferred plain barley bread.' It is also used in Syria, and yields more than any other grain. 12. Bake it with dung. The dung of oxen, animals, &c., is often thus used in the East from scarcity of fuel, and even human dung to bake with by the miserably poor in Egypt.

Ch. VIII.—10. Idols—pourtrayed upon the wall round about. This practice was perhaps borrowed from the Egyptians. Round the room in Thebes, where the body of King Osymandias seemed to be buried, a multitude of chambers were built, which had elegant paintings of all the beasts sacred in Egypt.—So Secker and Newcombe. 17. Put the branch to the nose. Those who favour our present translation, think that the text alludes to a custom among the ancient Persians, who are said, when they prayed, to have held in their hands a small bundle of twigs, which was called in their language, borsam. Michaelis says, that they held it before their faces opposite the holy fire; and Spencer observes, that the heathens, in worshipping their deities, held forth the branches of those trees which were dedicated to them.

Ch. IX.—2. A writer's inkhorn by his side. It is still the custom in the East to carry the inkhorn stuck in the girdle. Scribes carry them constantly in their girdles, and ministers of state wear them in the same manner, as symbols of their office. They are about the length and shape of a four-faced razor strop, containing the utensils for writing, and a large inkstand attached to one end. 4. Set a mark upon the foreheads. This alludes to the customs of the Eastern nations to mark their servants in the forehead.

Ch XII.—7. I digged through the wall with mine hand. A brick or stone wall could not so have been dug through, but the allusion is to a cob wall made of mud and straw, a common way of building in Devonshire.

Ch. XIII.—10. Daubed it with untempered morter. The Hebrews did sometimes plaster their walls. The article used was made of chopped straw and clay. It could only be used on walls built with dry cob, and was only of service in dry countries. 18. Make kerchiefs, &c. We are told by some Oriental travellers that the Eastern women bind on their ornaments with a rich or embroidered handkerchief, which is described as completing the head dress of the ladies and falling without order upon the hair behind. Pillows. Probably embroidered cushions on the armpits, or on such couches as the Orientals use to support themselves in sitting, or both. Some refer it to the back and corner cushions of the divan.

Ch. XVI.—4. Thou wast not salted. From this text it appears that it was an ancient custom to salt the bodies of new-born infants. It is probable that they only sprinkled them with salt, or washed them in salt water, which they imagined would dry up all superfluous humours, purify the body, and prevent putrefaction. Galen says, 'a little salt being sprinkled on the infant, its skin is rendered more dense and solid.' It is said that the inhabitants of Tartary still continue the custom of salting their children as soon as they are born. 17. Images of men. This is probably an allusion to the shameful exhibitions that were usual, and to the images that were set up, as well as to the lascivious practices that were common in the worshipping of Baal-peor, and in celebrating the death of Tammus.

Ch. XX.—37. Pass under the rod. A metaphor derived from the practice of shepherds, who when they count their flocks, carefully make them pass one by one under their staff or rod.

Ch. XXI.—21. To use divination. They wrote on several arrows the names of the nations, or cities, which they intended to attack, and mixed them together in a quiver; and then drawing the first that came to hand, they declared war with the nation, or besieged the city, whose name was written upon the arrow first drawn. This custom was common among the Greeks, and still prevails among the Turks and Arabians.

Ch. XXIII.—5, 6. The Assyrians—horsemen riding upon horses. Horsemen and charioteers formed an equally important part of the Assyrian army. Horsemen are seen in the most ancient sculptures of Nimroud, and disciplined bodies of cavalry were represented in the bas-reliefs of Kouyunjik. 25. They shall take away thy nose and thine ears. These mutilations were common amongst the Chaldeans. St. Jerome assures us, that they frequently cut off the nose and the ears of adulterers. The spiritual adultery and the punishment are here implied and expressed. The Hebrews never practised these cruelties themselves, but they must have known them as practised by surrounding heathen nations.

Ch. XXV.—5. I will make Rabbah a stable for camels. Buckingham saw this fulfilled to the very letter. Not that camels are provided with stables and stalls and litter. They need no such accommodation, as they feed in very barren dry places where nettles and thorns grow, which they eat, and also thistles and heath, and remain abroad in rain and snow. The prophecy, therefore, merely states that camels should eat the vegetables which would grow in the place where Rabbah then stood; that they should make use of the ruins of the city for shelter during the night, or perhaps in the season of winter.

Ch. XXVI.—5. A place for the spreading of nets. Many modern travellers attest that Tyre is now what is here described; the description, however, though literally fulfilled, receives an ample accomplishment in its being a fishing station.

Ch. XXVII.—5. They have made all thy ship boards of fir, &c. The Tyrian vessels were constructed of the most costly materials. The sails were of "fine linen with embroidered work from Egypt;" and the ornaments were of "blue and purple from the isles of Elishah." The benches were of ivory, and, it will be remarked, were made by Assyrian workmen, of whose skill we have full proof in the beautiful carvings from Nimroud. The oars were of the wood of the oaks of Bashan, the planks of fir-tree from the mountain of Senir, and the masts of cedar of Lebanon. The people of Zidon and Arvad were employed as mariners, and the management and sailing of the ship were confided to the pilots of Tyre, who, through long experience, were well versed in the art of navigation, and were consequently looked upon as "the wise men" in a city of sailors and merchants. In these vessels the Phœnicians coasted along the shores of the Mediterranean, and carried on an active commerce with very distant nations; establishing their colonies and diffusing far and wide their civilisation, their arts, and their language.—Layard. 11. Hung their shields upon thy walls. Sandys, speaking of the decoration of one of the gates of the imperial seraglio in Constantinople, tells us, that it is hung with shields and cimeters.

Ch. XXIX.—15. The basest of the kingdoms. For more than two thousand years Egypt has had a succession of foreign governors, and it has long been subject to pachas under the appointment of the Turks, who have so oppressed the people that they are nothing but a nation of poor impoverished slaves, and the original Egyptians cannot now with certainty be traced.

Ch. XXX.—17. Aven. (See note and cut end of Exe.) It was a famous seat of science and learning, and it is supposed that here Moses became learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians. Pibeseth. Another city of Egypt, supposed to have been the famous city of Bubastis, on one of the branches of the Nile. Here it has been thought that Diana was worshipped in a magnificent temple in the city. 18. Tehaphnehes. Identified with Daphnæ Pelusia, not far from Pelusium and on the Eastern branch of the Nile. The kings of Egypt had a royal residence in this town, though it does not appear to have been a capital city.

Ch. XXXIII.—30. Talking—by the walls and in the doors of the houses. Kitto says, 'While residing in Oriental towns, and particularly in Mesopotamia, where Ezekiel was, we had constant occasion to notice this practice. We never went out in fine weather without observing frequent groups of men conferring together, or solacing themselves at the doors of houses, or seated on the ground, under the shade of the walls, in the broader streets and public places.'

Ch. XXXV.—4. I will lay thy cities waste and thou shalt be desolate. Irby and Mangles have left testimony respecting Petræa and its vicinity. 'At present the barren state of the country, together with the desolate condition of the city, without a single human being living near it, seem strongly to verify the judgment pronounced against it.'

Ch. XXXVII.—20. The sticks whereon thou writest. Writing on sticks or pieces of wood was practised among ancient nations; among others, by the ancients Greeks and Britons. The letters were cut in.

Ch. XXXVIII.—2. Gog, the land of Magog. Josephus and others consider these as names applied to the Scythians of the ancients, answering to the Tartars of the moderns—a people extending through the centre of Asia, and the south-east of Europe. 3. Came like a storm. Describing forcibly the character of a Scythian or Tartar invasion. Their vast numbers covering the land like a cloud: their rapid and irresistible progress, compared to a storm, are pointed out by the prophet, and confirmed by historians. Gibbon describes them, as having a body of cavalry amounting to two or three hundred thousand men; 'formidable by the matchless dexterity with which they managed their bows and their horses, by their hardy patience in supporting the inclemency of the weather, and by the incredible speed of their march, which was seldom checked by currents or precipices, by the deepest rivers, or by the most lofty mountains.'

ORIENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS TO DANIEL.

Ch. I.—2. Land of Shinar. That is, Babylonia wherein was the tower of Babel. He brought the vessels into the treasure-house of his god. Heathen temples there is a place for the sacred jewels and other treasures. The ornaments of the idol are sometimes of great value. I have seen the small crown, breast-plate, and necklaces of one idol worth more than four hundred pounds. 3. The master of his eunuchs. Or 'the chief of his chamberlains.' It appears to have been a title given to the satrape, or such distinguished men as had the care of the royal chambers or wardrobe. 7. Gave names. It was customary among the Eastern nations, for the kings to distinguish their favourites by new names, when they conferred on them new dignities. 20. The magicians and astrologers. These words seem to comprehend the persons in general who were distinguished for the several kinds of learning cultivated among the Chaldees. Of the like character were the Magi in Egypt and Persia, and the other countries of the East, and those "wise men" that came to our Saviour at his birth. (Matt. ii. 1.)

Ch. II.—46. Should offer an oblation and sweet odours unto him. To make a present of perfumes was deemed a mark of reverence and honour in the remotest times among the Orientals. Such an offering was made to Daniel with a view to do him great honour.

Ch. III.—4. O people, nations, and languages. This form of speech was designed to set forth the largeness and extent of the Babylonish empire, which had subjects of so many different languages. The same phrase was afterwards used under the Medes and Persians. (ch. vi. 25; Esth. i. 22; iii. 12; viii. 9.) 6. Be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace. This mode of putting to death was not unusual in the East in more modern times. Chardin says, 'There is a particular way of putting to death such as have transgressed in civil affairs, either by causing a dearth, or by selling above the tax by a false weight, or who have committed themselves in any other manner. The cooks are put upon a spit and roasted over a slow fire, bakers are thrown into a hot oven. During the dearth in 1668, I saw such ovens heated on the Royal Square in Ispahan, to terrify the bakers, and deter them from taking advantage of the general distress.'

Ch. V.—7. Shall be clothed with scarlet, and have a chain of gold, &c Gold chains are a mark of dignity in Abyssinia, bestowed by the sovereign on the most meritorious persons in his army. It is usual to give a splendid suit of clothes at the same time; an Egyptian and Persian custom. (See Gen. xli. 42; Esth. viii. 15.) 27. Thou art weighed in the balances. In the account of Sir Thomas Roe's embassy to the Great Mogul, we are informed that on the Mogul's birthday, he retained an ancient yearly custom of being weighed in a balance in the presence of his chief grandees. The scales were plated with gold, and so was the beam on which they hung by great chains, of the same metal. The king, sitting in one of them, was weighed first against silver coin, which immediately afterwards was distributed among the poor; then was he weighed against gold, and lastly, as was reported, against jewels. The valuables were, however, laid in silken bags in the contrary session. 'When I saw him in the balance,' says Sir Thomas, 'I thought on Belshazzar who was found too light. By his weight, of which his physicians yearly keep an exact account, they presume to guess of the present state of his body, of which they speak flatteringly however they think it to be.' 29. They clothed Daniel with scarlet. The coming out from the presence of princes in a dress presented to the wearer as a mark of distinction, is an honour still practised in the East. They are conferred sometimes merely as an honour, and sometimes as an ensign of office. 30. Belshazzar. The name does not occur in the profane histories. It means doubtless the same who is called Neriglissar. He was killed by conspirators on the night of the impious feast.

Ch. VI.—1. Darius. He was the Cyaxeres of the Greek writers. One of his sisters married to the king of Persia, was the mother of the great Cyrus; and another, married to the king of Babylon, appears to have been the mother of Belshazzar. In his latter days, he was, in fact, governed by his nephew and heir, Cyrus. 7. He shall be cast into the den of lions. Most reformers on, in his account of Morocco and Fez, that 'In Morocco the king has a lions' den, into which men, particularly Jews, are sometimes thrown; but the latter generally come off unhurt, because the keepers of these animals are Jews, who may safely be with them, with a rod in the hand, if they only take care to go out backwards, as the lion does not suffer any one to turn his back on him. The other Jews do not let their brethren remain longer than a night among the lions, as they might otherwise become too hungry; but ransom them with money, which is, in fact, the king's object.' Monuments brought to light by modern travellers on the sites of Babylon and Susa, represent lions destroying and preying upon human beings. 28. In the reign of Cyrus the Persian. When, upon Darius's death, took possession of the whole monarchy of the Medes and Persians, called the Persian monarchy. (Ezra i. 2.)

ORIENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS TO THE MINOR PROPHETS.

HOSEA.

Ch. II.—6. I will hedge up thy way with thorns. The Indian fig tree, of which the hedges are formed, serves as an insurmountable barrier for the security of the fields in the East. No horse will entangle himself with the thorny bushes which are used even as barriers to towns, nor could his rider, dismounted, get over them.

Ch. IV.—12. Their staff declareth. The allusion is to a species of divination by means of rods or staves, which was much in use among the ancient heathen. The diviners set up rods, muttered enchantments, and when the rods fell they drew their presages from the manner and direction of the fall. The Hebrews had a similar practice.

Ch. VI.—4. As the early dew it goeth away. Dr. Shaw, speaking of Arabia Petræa, says, 'The dews of the night, as we had the heavens only for our covering, would, in the night, frequently wet us to the skin; but no sooner was the sun risen, and the atmosphere a little heated, than the mists were quickly dispersed, and the copious moisture, which the dew had communicated to the sands, had entirely evaporated.'

Ch. VII.—8. Ephraim is a cake not turned. All along the coast of the Black Sea, from the Palus Mæotis to the Caspian Sea, in Chaldea, and in Mesopotamia, except in towns, the people make a fire in the middle of the room; when the bread is ready for baking, they sweep a corner of the hearth, lay the bread there, cover it with hot ashes and embers, and in a quarter of an hour they turn it. Baked only on one side was a significant emblem of serving God by halves.

Ch. VIII.—8. A vessel wherein is no pleasure. The earthenware vessels in common use in the East, are so exceedingly cheap, that they form the least valuable possession that any one can have. They are also so frail and constantly breaking, that they are decidedly perishable articles and a source of continual, though small expense.

Ch. XIII.—3. Smoke out of the chimney. This rather means a hole to let out the smoke, or a funnel above the fire-place. There are no chimneys like ours.

Ch. XIV.—7. The scent thereof shall be as the wine of Lebanon. The wines of Lebanon, Hermon, Carmel, the mountains of Israel, Jerusalem, and Caphtor, excel all in fragrance, flavour, and medicinal virtue.—Kimchi. Modern travellers also commend the excellence of Lebanon wines.

JOEL.

Ch. I.—4. The locust. This insect has been so often described that it is now well known. It is in shape like the grasshopper, with a scaly body, large head, and bright eyes. 6. Strong, and without number, whose teeth, &c. The locust has mandibles strong and robust, and which seem destined for the work of destruction. With such mandibles it easily laid the vine waste and barked the fig tree. 19. The fire hath devoured the pastures. Kitto takes this to allude to the custom of setting the herbage on fire before the autumnal rains, and to the destructive consequences which sometimes follow beyond the intention of those who kindled the fire. But comparing the passage with the next chapter, verse 3, which describes the progress of the locusts, it seems to point to their destructive powers; for every part they visit in bodies is left as if it were completely burned up. 'They consume like a general conflagration, they destroy the ground not only for a time, but burn trees for two years after.'—Sir Hans Sloane's Nat. Hist. of Jamaica.

Ch. II.—2. A day of darkness and of gloominess. Travellers inform us, that the locust will of a sudden cover the sky like a cloud, intercept the light of the sun, and diffuse a darkness over the land. 3. Nothing shall escape them. Volney informs us, that 'the quantity of these insects is incredible to all who have not themselves witnessed their astonishing numbers; the whole earth is covered with them for the space of several leagues. The noise they make in browsing on the trees and herbage may be heard to a great distance, and resembles that of an army foraging in secret. The Tartars themselves are a less destructive enemy than these little animals; one would imagine that fire had followed their progress. Wherever their myriads spread, the verdure of the country disappears as if a covering had been removed; trees and plants stripped of their leaves, and reduced to their naked boughs and stems, cause the dreary image of winter to succeed, in an instant, to the rich scenery of spring. This calamity is the inevitable forerunner of famine and the maladies it occasions. (See notes on Ex. x. 4. &c.) 4. As the appearance of horses. There has generally been thought to be a very strong resemblance between the head of a horse and that of a locust, so much so that the Italians call the locust cavaletta, or little horse. As horsemen, so shall they run. Alluding to the rapidity and force of the locusts. 7. They shall not break their ranks. St. Jerome says, 'I lately saw in this province the swarms of locusts come. They fly in such exact order, by the disposition and the command of God, that every one keeps his place like the squares in a chequered pavement, and does not vary from it so much as a point or a nail's breadth. Whilst employed in devouring the produce of the land, it has been observed that they uniformly proceed one way, as regularly as a disciplined army on their march; nor will it be possible to discover a single one going a different way from the rest.' 20. His stink shall come up. Thevenot says of the locusts, 'that they live not above six months; and when dead the stench of them so corrupts and infects the air that it often occasions dreadful pestilence.'

AMOS.

Ch. III.—3. Walk together. There is perhaps a reference to the affectionate manner in which intimate friends walk in the East, with each one's arm over the shoulders of the other, the hands of the other arm joined in front. 12. As the shepherd taketh out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear. When a flock was entrusted to a shepherd or other person, he was expected to make good the loss of any sheep "torn of beasts" unless he produced the torn carcase, or part of it, in evidence of the circumstance; and herein, of course, when a flock was attacked by a wild beast, the shepherd was anxious to secure so much of the torn remains as might furnish sufficient proof to the owner that his property had not been improperly disposed of by the shepherd. That dwell in Samaria in the corner of a bed, and in Damascus in a couch. Harmer has shown that the corner of a bed was considered the most honourable place, and he thinks we are here to understand 'a divan,' or a part of a room raised above the floor, and spread with a carpet in the winter, and in the summer with fine mats. A mattress laid on this floor might serve for a bed. 15. Houses of ivory. Houses were ornamented with ivory. The Orientalists used much cedar in their buildings, which, being a dark wood, must have looked very beautiful when banded, strung, or inlaid with ivory.

Ch. IV.—1. Ye kine of Bashan. Bashan was remarkable for the richness of its pastures, and consequently for its breed of cattle. Under the appellation of its kine, it is probable that the prophet designates the proud and luxuriant nations of Israel.

Ch. V.—19. Leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him. The smaller serpents in the East delight to harbour in the old walls of houses, and particularly of dark chambers, to which they obtain easy access, as the doors hang loosely, and the windows are often mere wooden lattices without glass. In such situations they will remain and increase, unless extirpated; and their extirpation from such places is the work of the serpent-charmers, who, in some respects, answers to the rat-catcher of Europe. It is particularly common to find serpents and also scorpions, in houses or rooms that have remained for any time unoccupied; and the new occupants are obliged to be careful. Under these circumstances such accidents as that to which the prophet refers are by no means uncommon.—Kitto.

OBADIAH.

Ver. 3. Thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rock, whose habitation is high. The celebrated city of Petra, (so named by the Greeks, and so worthy of the name on account of its rocky mountains, and its numerous dwellings excavated from the rocks,) was situated within the patrimonial territory of the Edomites. There is distinct and positive evidence that it was a city of Edom, and the metropolis of the Nabatheans, whom Strabo expressly identifies with the Idumean possessors of the same country, and subject to the same laws. 'Petra,' says Dr. Vincent, 'is the capital of Edom or Seir, the Idumea or Arabia Petræa of the Greeks; the Nabatea, considered both by geographers, historians, and poets, as the source of all the precious commodities of the East.' The caravans in all ages, from Minea in the interior of Arabia, and from Gerrha on the Gulf of Persia, from Hadramants on the Ocean, and some even from Sabea or Yemen, appear to have pointed to Petra as a common centre; and from Petra the trade seems to have branched out in every direction, to Egypt, Palestine, and Syria, through Arauna, Gaza, Tyre, Jerusalem, Damascus, and a variety of subordinate routes that all terminated in the Mediterranean. 8. Wise men out of Edom. Idumea or Uz, was regarded by the Jews in the same light and elegance as Greece was by the Romans, and Teman, as the Athens of Arabia Petræa.—Dr. Mason Good.

MICAH.

Ch. II.—8. Ye pull off the robe with the garment, &c. To strip a traveller of his clothes is an exceedingly common form of depredation in the East, particularly among the Bedouin Arabs. To this the text seems to refer.—Kitto.

Ch. III.—12. Zion—be plowed as a field. 'We had to examine the hill which now bears the name of Sion: it is situated on the south side of Jerusalem, part of it being excluded by the wall of the present city, which passes over the top of the mount. If this be indeed mount Sion, the prophecy concerning it, that they should plough and sow over it, has been fulfilled to the letter; for such labours were actually going on when we arrived.'—Clarke's Travels. (See note on Jer. xxvi. 18.)

Ch. IV.—4. Sit every man under his vine. Palestine was more of a vine country than Egypt: yet even in Egypt, the ancient inhabitants were fond of sitting in vine-harbours. We have an example in the mosaic pavement of Præneste. In this example, the arched trellis, over which the vine is trained, spans a stream, on each bank of which, within the harbour thus formed, persons repose on couches, drinking wine and playing on instruments of music.—Kitto.

Ch. VI.—7. Shall I give my firstborn for my transgression? This was very usual among the heathen. In Florida a male infant was offered by the mother with great ceremony to have its brains dashed out upon the stones as a sacrifice to the sun. Hacon, king of Norway, offered his son in sacrifice, to obtain of Odin the victory over his enemy Harold. Aune, king of Sweden, devoted the blood of his nine sons to Odin, in order to prevail upon that God to prolong his life.

Ch. VII.—1. My soul desired the firstripe fruit. The Turks and Persians are particularly fond of fruit just before it is ripe, and without any ill consequences they eat prodigious quantities of melons, plums, and other fruits.

NAHUM.

Ch. II.—4. The chariots shall rage in the streets. The recent discoveries of Layard have brought to light some spirited sculpture of the war chariots and horses of Nineveh. The horses appear to have been of pure Arabian breed, and their harness was of the most elegant kind. (See following cut.) She is empty, and void, and waste. This description has been a just characteristic of Nineveh for ages. The surface of the earth shews no remains of this once great city, nor can the discovery of a few relics underneath invalidate the prophecy. Nineveh has not inhabitants nor habitations, and even with every diligent research the exact site of the city cannot be ascertained.

HABAKKUK.

Ch. I.—8. Their horses also are swifter than the leopards—they shall fly as the eagle, &c. No one can look at the horses of the early Assyrian sculptures without being convinced that they were drawn from the finest models. The head is small and well shaped, the nostrils large and high, the neck arched, the body long, and the legs slender and sinewy. That the Assyrians carefully portrayed animals, is shown by the lions, bulls, goats, and stags, so frequently introduced into their bas-reliefs; it is highly probable, therefore, that they carefully copied the forms of their horses, and showed the points for which they were most distinguished. It is not unlikely that the plains watered by the Tigris and Euphrates, producing, during the winter and spring, the richest pasturage, were at the earliest period as celebrated as they are now for the rearing of horses; particularly when so large a supply must have been required for the cavalry and chariots of the Assyrian armies. At a later period, indeed, we find the plains of Babylonia furnishing horses to the Persians, both for the private use of the king and for his troops. It may, therefore be conjectured that they were of the most noble and celebrated breeds; for the Persians being masters of the greater part of Asia and of Egypt, could have obtained horses had they found better from elsewhere.—Layard.

From Assyrian Marbles.—British Museum.

16. Burn incense unto their drag. A part of the fishing tackle. Ward says, 'The Hindoos annually worship the implements of their trade.'

Ch. III.—9. Thy bow was made quite naked. This may mean that it was prepared for action; it being both in ancient and in modern times, customary in the East to carry the bow in a case when not required for immediate use.

ZEPHANIAH.

Ch. I.—5. Worship the host of heaven upon the housetops. Hasn, in his travels north of Sinjyrna, [illegible] 'Large fires lighted on the housetops;' their flat plastered roofs would therefore afford hearths for altars: so that the expressions of the text need not seem unaccountable. 9. That leap on the threshold. An allusion to some idolatrous rite like that practised in the temple of Dagon, where the priest did not tread on the threshold, (it may be invading with violence a neighbour's dwelling.

ZECHARIAH.

Ch. XIV.—18. That have no rain. Marshal Marmont thus writes to the French Academy:—'Formerly it scarcely ever rained, and only for a short time at Alexandria; now it rains there for thirty or forty days annually, and sometimes, after the middle of October, it does not cease for five or six days together. At Cairo instead of a few drops falling, and those rarely, there are from fifteen to twenty rainy days every winter. It is supposed that this change of climate is owing to the immense plantations of the Pasha, twenty millions of trees having been planted below Cairo. The contrary effect has been produced in Upper Egypt by the destruction of the trees there.' 20. Bells of the horses. Rooke, in his Travels to the coast of Arabia Felix, saw a display of Arabian horses on a field day, of which he says, 'The horses were sumptuously caparisoned, being adorned with gold and silver trappings, bells hung round their necks, and rich housings.' The Gospel according to S. MATTHEW.

An history of the descent, birth, acts, sufferings, death, resurrection, and ascension of the Messiah.

CHAP. I.

THE book of the [b] generation of Jesus Christ, [c] the son of David, [d] the son of Abraham.

2 Abraham [e] begat Isaac; and [f] Isaac begat Jacob; and [g] Jacob begat Judas and his brethren;

3 And [h] Judas begat Phares and Zara of Thamar; and [i] Phares begat Esrom; and Esrom begat Aram;

4 And Aram begat Aminadab; and Aminadab begat Naasson; and Naasson begat Salmon;

5 And Salmon begat Booz of Rachab; and Booz begat Obed of Ruth; and Obed begat Jesse;

6 And [m] Jesse begat David the king; and [n] David the king begat Solomon of her that had been the wife of Urias;

7 And [o] Solomon begat Roboam; and Roboam begat Abia; and Abia begat Asa;

8 And Asa begat Josaphat; and Josaphat begat Joram; and Joram begat Ozias;

9 And Ozias begat Joatham; and Joatham begat Achaz; and Achaz begat Ezekias;

10 And [p] Ezekias begat Manasses; and Manasses begat Amon; and Amon begat Josias;

11 And † Josias [q] begat Jechonias and his brethren, about the time they were [r] carried away to Babylon:

12 And after they were brought to Babylon, [s] Jechonias begat Salathiel; and Salathiel begat [t] Zorobabel;

13 And Zorobabel begat Abiud; and Abiud begat Eliakim; and Eliakim begat Azor;

14 And Azor begat Sadoc; and Sadoc begat Achim; and Achim begat Eliud;

15 And Eliud begat Eleazar; and Eleazar begat Matthan; and Matthan begat Jacob;

16 And Jacob begat Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, who is called Christ.

17 So all the generations from Abraham to David are fourteen generations; and from David until the carrying away into Babylon are fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Babylon unto Christ are fourteen generations.

18 ¶ Now the [u] birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise: When as his mother Mary was espoused to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child [x] of the Holy Ghost.

19 Then Joseph her husband, being a just man, and not willing [y] to make her a publick example, was minded to put her away privily.

20 But while he thought on these things, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: [z] for that which is [a] conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost.

21 And [b] she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name * JESUS: for [c] he shall save his people from their sins.

22 Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying,

23 Behold, [d] a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and [e] they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.

24 Then Joseph being raised from sleep did as the angel of the Lord had bidden him, and took unto him his wife:

25 And knew her not till she had brought forth [k] her firstborn son: and he called his name JESUS.

CHAP. II.

NOW when [f] Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judæa in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men [m] from the east to Jerusalem,

2 Saying, [g] Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen [n] his star in the east, and are come to worship him.

3 When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

4 And when he had gathered all [o] the chief priests and [p] scribes of the people together, [q] he demanded of them where Christ should be born.

5 And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judæa: for thus it is written by the prophet,

6 And [s] thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come a Governor, [t] that shall ‡ rule my people Israel.

7 Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, enquired of them diligently what time the star appeared.

8 And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also.

9 When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was.

10 When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy.

11 ¶ And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, [x] they § presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

12 And being warned of God [z] in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way.

13 And when they were departed, behold, [a] the angel of the Lord appeareth to Joseph in a dream, saying, Arise, and take the young child and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be thou there until I bring thee word: for Herod will seek the young child to destroy him.

14 When he arose, he took the young child and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt;

15 And was there until the death of Herod: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, " Out of Egypt have I called my son.

16 ¶ Then Herod, when he saw that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently enquired of the wise men.

17 Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by [o] Jeremy the prophet, saying,

18 In Rama was there a voice heard, lamentation, and weeping, and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not.

19 ¶ But when Herod was dead, behold, an angel of the Lord appeareth in a dream to Joseph in Egypt, 20 Saying, Arise, and take the young child and his mother, and go into the land of Israel: for they are dead which sought the young child's life.

21 And he arose, and took the young child and his mother, and came into the land of Israel.

22 But when he heard that Archelaus did reign in Judæa in the room of his father Herod, he was afraid to go thither: notwithstanding, being warned of God in a dream, he turned aside [r] into the parts of Galilee:

23 And he came and dwelt in a city called [s] Nazareth: that it might be fulfilled [m] which was spoken by the prophets, He shall be called a Nazarene.

CHAP. III.

IN those days came [o] John the Baptist, preaching [p] in the wilderness of Judæa,

2 And saying, Repent ye: for [r] the kingdom of heaven is at hand.

3 For this is he that was spoken of by the prophet Esaias, saying, [t] The voice of one crying in the wilderness, [u] Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.

4 And the same John [x] had his raiment of camel's hair, and a leathern girdle about his loins; and his meat was [y] locusts and [z] wild honey.

5 Then [a] went out to him Jerusalem, and all Judæa, and all the region round about Jordan,

6 And [b] were baptized of him in Jordan, confessing their sins.

7 ¶ But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees come to his baptism, he said unto them, [c] O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath † to come?

8 Bring forth therefore fruits † meet for repentance:

9 And think not to say within yourselves, [d] We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, that God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham.

10 And now also the ax is laid unto the root of the trees: [e] therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

11 I [f] indeed baptize you with water unto repentance: but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear: [g] he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire:

12 Whose [h] fan is in his hand, and he will throughly purge his floor, and gather his wheat into the garner; but he will [i] burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire.

13 ¶ Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him.

14 But John forbad him, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me?

15 And Jesus answering said unto him, Suffer it to be so now: for thus it becometh us to fulfil all righteousness. Then he suffered him.

16 And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water: and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw [k] the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him:

17 And [l] lo a voice from heaven, saying, [m] This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

CHAP. IV.

THEN was [n] Jesus led up of [o] the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil.

2 And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward an hungred.

3 And when [p] the tempter came to him, he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread.

4 But he answered and said, It is written, [q] Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

5 Then the devil taketh him up [r] into the holy city, and setteth him on a pinnacle of the temple,

6 And saith unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down: for it is written, [s] He shall give his angels charge concerning thee: and in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone.

7 Jesus said unto him, It is written again, [t] Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.

8 Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them;

9 And saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me.

10 Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, [u] Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.

11 Then the devil leaveth him, and, behold, [x] angels came and ministered unto him.

12 ¶ Now [y] when Jesus had heard that John was [z] cast into prison, he departed into Galilee;

13 And leaving Nazareth, he came and dwelt in Capernaum, which is upon the sea coast, in the borders of Zabulon and Nephthalim:

14 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying,

15 The [a] land of Zabulon, and the land of Nephthalim, by the way of the sea, beyond Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles:

16 The [b] people which sat in darkness saw great light; and to them which sat in the region and shadow of death light is sprung up.

17 [c] From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, [d] Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.

18 ¶ And [e] Jesus, walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon [f] called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers.

19 And he saith unto them, Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men.

20 And [g] they straightway left their nets, and followed him.

21 And going on from thence, he saw other two brethren, James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, in a ship with Zebedee their father, mending their nets; and he called them.

22 And they immediately left the ship and their father, and followed him.

23 ¶ And Jesus went about all Galilee, [a]teaching in their synagogues, and preaching [b] the gospel of the kingdom, [c] and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people.

24 And his fame went throughout all Syria: and they brought unto him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatick, and those that had the palsy; and he healed them.

25 And [d] there followed him great multitudes of people from Galilee, and from Decapolis, and from Jerusalem, and from Judæa, and from beyond Jordan.

CHAP. V.

AND seeing the multitudes, [e] he went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came unto him:

2 And he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying,

3 Blessed [f] are the poor in spirit: for their's is the kingdom of heaven.

4 Blessed [g] are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.

5 Blessed [h] are the meek: for [i] they shall inherit the earth.

6 Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: [k] for they shall be filled.

7 Blessed are the merciful: [l] for they shall obtain mercy.

8 Blessed [m] are the pure in heart: for [n] they shall see God.

9 Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

10 Blessed [o] are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for their's is the kingdom of heaven.

11 Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner [p] of evil against you [q] falsely, for my sake.

12 Rejoice, [r] and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for [s] so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.

13 ¶ Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men.

14 Ye [t] are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid.

15 Neither do men light a candle, and put it under [u] a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house.

16 Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.

17 ¶ Think [w] not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil.

18 For verily I say unto you, Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled.

19 Whosoever [x] therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach them, the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

20 For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall exceed [y] the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven.

21 ¶ Ye have heard that it was said [z] by them of old time, [a] Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment:

22 But I say unto you, That [b] whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment: and whosoever shall say to his brother, [c] Raca, [d] shall be in danger of the council: but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire.

23 Therefore [e] if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee;

24 Leave [f] there thy gift before the altar and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift.

25 Agree [g] with thine adversary quickly, [h] whiles thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison.

26 Verily I say unto thee, Thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou hast paid the uttermost farthing.

27 ¶ Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, [i] Thou shalt not commit adultery:

28 But I say unto you, That whosoever [k] looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart.

29 And if thy right eye [l] offend thee, [m] pluck it out, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not that thy whole body should be cast into hell.

30 And if thy right hand offend thee, cut it off, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not that thy whole body should be cast into hell.

31 It hath been said, [n] Whosoever shall put away his wife, let him give her a writing of divorcement:

32 But I say unto you, That [o] whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery: and whosoever shall marry her that is divorced committeth adultery.

33 ¶ Again, ye have heard that it hath been said by them of old time, Thou shalt not forswear thyself, but shalt perform unto the Lord thine oaths:

34 But I say unto you, [p] Swear not at all; neither by heaven; for it is [q] God's throne:

35 Nor by the earth; for it is his footstool: neither by Jerusalem; for it is [r] the city of the great King.

36 Neither shalt thou swear by thy head, because thou canst not make one hair white or black.

37 But [s] let your communication be, Yea, yea; Nay, nay: for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil.

38 ¶ Ye have heard that it hath been said, [t] An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth:

39 But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: [u] but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.

40 And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloke also.

41 And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain.

42 Give to him that asketh thee, and [b] from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away.

43 ¶ Ye have heard that it hath been said, [d] Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy.

44 But I say unto you, [e] Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray [f] for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you;

45 That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for [h] he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.

46 For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? do not even the publicans the same?

47 And if ye salute your brethren only, what do ye more than others? do not even the publicans so?

48 Be [k] ye therefore perfect, even [n] as your Father which is in heaven is perfect.

CHAP. VI.

TAKE heed that ye do not your [o] alms before men, to be seen of them: otherwise ye have no reward † of your Father which is in heaven.

2 Therefore [r] when thou doest thine alms, † do not sound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

3 But when thou doest alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth:

4 That thine alms may be in secret: and thy Father which seeth in secret himself [u] shall reward thee openly.

5 ¶ And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

6 But thou, when thou prayest, [v] enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly.

7 But when ye pray, [x] use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: [y] for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking.

8 Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him.

9 After this manner therefore pray ye: [a] Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name.

10 Thy kingdom come. [c] Thy will be done in earth, [e] as it is in heaven.

11 Give us this day our [d] daily bread.

12 And [e] forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors.

13 And [f] lead us not into temptation, but [g] deliver us from evil: [h] For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen.

14 For [i] if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you:

15 But [m] if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

16 ¶ Moreover [o] when ye fast, be not, as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance: for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

17 But thou, when thou fastest, [r] anoint thine head, and wash thy face;

18 That thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.

19 ¶ Lay [s] not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal:

20 But [t] lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal:

21 For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

22 The [l] light of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be [t] single, thy whole body shall be full of light.

23 But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness!

24 ¶ No [n] man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. [p] Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

25 Therefore I say unto you, [x] Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?

26 Behold [t] the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?

27 Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit unto his stature?

28 And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin:

29 And yet I say unto you, That even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

30 Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to day is, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?

31 Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed?

32 (For after all these things do the Gentiles seek:) for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things.

33 But [b] seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.

34 Take therefore no thought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

CHAP. VII.

JUDGE [k] not, that ye be not judged.

2 For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: [l] and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

3 And [a] why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

4 Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye?

5 Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

6 ¶ Give [d] not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you.

7 ¶ Ask, [f] and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you:

8 For [g] every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.

9 Or what man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone?

10 Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent?

11 If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask him?

12 Therefore all things [m] whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for [n] this is the law and the prophets.

13 ¶ Enter [o] ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat;

14 [p] Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.

15 ¶ Beware [q] of false prophets, [r] which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.

16 Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?

17 Even so [s] every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.

18 A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

19 Every [t] tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

20 Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them.

21 ¶ Not every one that saith unto me, [u] Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven.

22 Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we [d] not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works?

23 And [f] then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: [v] depart from me, ye that work iniquity.

24 ¶ Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock:

25 And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock.

26 And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand:

27 And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall of it.

28 And it came to pass, when Jesus had ended these sayings, [b] the people were astonished at his doctrine:

29 For [c] he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes.

CHAP. VIII.

WHEN he was come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed him.

2 And, behold, [e] there came a leper and [f] worshipped him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

3 And Jesus put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will; be thou clean. And immediately his leprosy was cleansed.

4 And Jesus saith unto him, [g] See thou tell no man; but go thy way, shew thyself to the priest, and offer the gift that [h] Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them.

5 ¶ And [i] when Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto him a centurion, beseeching him,

6 And saying, Lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy, grievously tormented.

7 And Jesus saith unto him, I will come and heal him.

8 The centurion answered and said, Lord, [p] I am not worthy that thou shouldest come under my roof: but [r] speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed.

9 For I am a man under authority, having soldiers under me: and I say to this man, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.

10 When Jesus heard it, he marvelled, and said to them that followed, Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel.

11 And I say unto you, That [w] many shall come from the east and west, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven.

12 But [x] the children of the kingdom [y] shall be cast out into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

13 And Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour.

14 ¶ And when Jesus was come into Peter's house, he saw [z] his wife's mother laid, and sick of a fever.

15 And he touched her hand, and the fever left her: and she arose, and ministered unto them.

16 ¶ When [a] the even was come, they brought unto him many that were possessed with devils: and he cast out the spirits with his word, and healed all that were sick:

17 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying, [k] Himself took our infirmities, and bare our sicknesses.

18 ¶ Now when Jesus saw great multitudes about him, he gave commandment to depart unto the other side.

19 And [l] a certain scribe came, and said unto him, Master, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest.

20 And Jesus saith unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but[a] the Son of man hath not where to lay his head.

21 And [b] another of his disciples said unto him, Lord, [c] suffer me first to go and bury my father.

22 But Jesus said unto him, Follow me; and let [d] the dead bury their dead.

23 ¶ And when he was entered into a ship, his disciples followed him.

24 And, [e] behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, insomuch that the ship was covered with the waves: but he was asleep.

25 And his disciples came to him, and awoke him, saying, Lord, save us: we perish.

26 And he saith unto them, Why are ye fearful, [h] O ye of little faith? Then [i] he arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm.

27 But the men marvelled, saying, What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him!

28 ¶ And [m] when he was come to the other side into the country of the Gergesenes, there met him two possessed with devils, coming out of the tombs, exceeding fierce, so that no man might pass by that way.

29 And, behold, they cried out, saying, What have we to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God? art thou come hither to [n] torment us before the time?

30 And there was a good way off from them an herd of many swine feeding.

31 So the devils besought him, saying, If thou cast us out, suffer us to go away into the herd of swine.

32 And he said unto them, [o] Go. And when they were come out, they went into the herd of swine: and, behold, the whole herd of swine ran violently down a steep place into the sea, and perished in the waters.

33 And they that kept them fled, and went their ways into the city, and told every thing, and what was befallen to the possessed of the devils.

34 And, behold, the whole city came out to meet Jesus: and when they saw him, [p] they besought him that he would depart out of their coasts.

CHAP. IX.

AND he entered into a ship, and passed over, [q] and came into his own city.

2 And, [r] behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed: [s] and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee.

3 And, behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

4 And Jesus [t] knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts?

5 For whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and walk?

6 But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy,) Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house.

7 And he arose, and departed to his house.

8 But when the multitudes saw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given such power unto men.

9 ¶ And [u] as Jesus passed forth from thence, he saw a man, named Matthew, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he saith unto him, Follow me. And he arose, and followed him.

10 ¶ And it came to pass, as Jesus sat at meat in the house, behold, many publicans and sinners came and sat down with him and his disciples.

11 And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto his disciples, Why eateth your Master with [x] publicans and sinners?

12 But when Jesus heard that, he said unto them, They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick.

13 But go ye and learn what that meaneth, [y] I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, [z] but sinners to repentance.

14 ¶ Then came to him the disciples of John, saying, [a] Why do we and the Pharisees fast oft, but thy disciples fast not?

15 And Jesus said unto them, Can [b] the children of the bridechamber mourn, as long as the bridegroom is with them? but the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken from them, and [c] then shall they fast.

16 No man putteth a piece of [d] new cloth unto an old garment, for that which is put in to fill it up taketh from the garment, and the rent is made worse.

17 Neither do men put new wine into old bottles: else the bottles break, and the wine runneth out, and the bottles perish: but they put new wine into new bottles, and both are preserved.

18 ¶ While [e] he spake these things unto them, behold, there came a certain ruler, and worshipped him, saying, My daughter is even now dead: but come and lay thy hand upon her, and she shall live.

19 And Jesus arose, and followed him, and so did his disciples.

20 ¶ And, behold, a woman, which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment:

21 For she said within herself, [f] If I may but touch his garment, I shall be whole.

22 But Jesus turned him about, and when he saw her, he said, Daughter, be of good comfort; [g] thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole from that hour.

23 And when Jesus came into the ruler's house, and saw [h] the minstrels and the people making a noise,

24 He said unto them, [i] Give place: for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn.

25 But when the people were put forth, he went in, and took her by the hand, and the maid arose.

26 And † the fame hereof went abroad into all that land.

27 ¶ And when Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, [k] Thou son of David, have mercy on us.

28 And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yea, Lord.

29 Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you.

30 And their eyes were opened; and Jesus straitly charged them, saying, [l] See that no man know it.

31 But [m] they, when they were departed, spread abroad his fame in all that country.

32 ¶ As [a] they went out, behold, they brought to him a dumb man possessed with a devil.

33 And when the devil was cast out, the dumb spake: and the multitudes marvelled, saying, It was never so seen in Israel.

34 But the Pharisees said, [d] He casteth out devils through the prince of the devils.

35 And [e] Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people.

36 ¶ But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they [o] fainted, and were scattered abroad, [f] as sheep having no shepherd.

37 Then saith he unto his disciples, [h] The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few;

38 Pray [i] ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest.

CHAP. X.

AND [m] when he had called unto him his twelve disciples, he gave them power against unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of sickness and all manner of disease.

2 Now the names of the twelve apostles are these; The first, Simon, [n] who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother;

3 Philip, and Bartholomew; Thomas, and Matthew the publican; James the son of Alphæus, and Lebbæus, whose surname was Thaddæus;

4 Simon [p] the Canaanite, and Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him.

5 These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, [r] Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of [s] the Samaritans enter ye not:

6 But [u] go rather to the [v] lost sheep of the house of Israel.

7 And [x] as ye go, preach, saying, [y] The kingdom of heaven is at hand.

8 Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: [z] freely ye have received, freely give.

9 [a] Provide [b] neither gold, nor silver, nor brass in your purses,

10 Nor scrip for your journey, neither two coats, neither shoes, nor yet † staves: [c] for the workman is worthy of his meat.

11 And into whatsoever city or town ye shall enter, enquire who in it is worthy; and there abide till ye go thence.

12 And when ye come into an house, salute it.

13 And if the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it: [k] but if it be not worthy, let your peace return to you.

14 And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear your words, when ye depart out of that house or city, [l] shake off the dust of your feet.

15 Verily I say unto you, [k] It shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrha in the day of judgment, than for that city.

16 ¶ Behold, I send you forth as sheep in the midst of wolves: [m] be ye therefore wise as serpents, and harmless as [n] doves.

17 But beware of men: for they will deliver you up to the councils, and [o] they will scourge you in their synagogues;

18 And [r] ye shall be brought before

22 And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake: [f] but he that endureth to the end shall be saved.

23 But when they persecute you in this city, flee ye into another: for verily I say unto you, Ye shall not † have gone over the cities of Israel, till the Son of man be come.

24 The [k] disciple is not above his master, nor the servant above his lord.

25 It is enough for the disciple that he be as his master, and the servant as his lord. If [l] they have called the master of the house ‡ Beelzebub, how much more shall they call them of his houshold?

26 Fear them not therefore: for there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; and hid, that shall not be known.

27 What I tell you in darkness, that speak ye in light: and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye upon the housetops.

28 And [o] fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell.

29 Are not two sparrows sold for a ‖ farthing? and one of them shall not fall on the ground without your Father.

30 But [p] the very hairs of your head are all numbered.

31 Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows.

32 Whosoever [r] therefore shall confess me before men, [s] him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven.

33 But [s] whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven.

34 Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword.

35 For I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter in law against her mother in law.

36 And [t] a man's foes shall be they of his own houshold.

37 He [t] that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me: and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me.

38 And he that taketh not his cross, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me.

39 He that findeth his life shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it.

40 ¶ He [l] that receiveth you receiveth me, and he that receiveth me receiveth him that sent me.

41 He that receiveth a prophet in the name of a prophet shall receive a prophet's reward; and he that receiveth a righteous man in the name of a righteous man shall receive a righteous man's reward.

42 And [r] whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water only in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward.

CHAP. XI.

AND it came to pass, when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities.

2 Now [b] when John had heard [c] in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples,

3 And said unto him, Art thou [f] he that should come, or do we look for another?

4 Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see:

5 The [i] blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and [l] the poor have the gospel preached to them.

6 And blessed is he, whosoever shall not [m] be offended in me.

7 ¶ And [n] as they departed, Jesus began to say unto the multitudes concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? [o] A reed shaken with the wind?

8 But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? behold, they that wear soft clothing are in kings' houses.

9 But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? yea, I say unto you, [p] and more than a prophet.

10 For this is he, of whom it is written, [p] Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

11 Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist: notwithstanding he that is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he.

12 And [b] from the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven [q] suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force.

13 For [d] all the prophets and the law prophesied until John.

14 And if ye will receive it, this [c] is Elias, which was for to come.

15 He [f] that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

16 ¶ But [t] whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto children sitting in the markets, and calling unto their fellows, 17 And saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced; we have mourned unto you, and ye have not lamented.

18 For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, He hath a devil.

19 The Son of man came eating and drinking, and they say, Behold a man gluttonous, and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners. [u] But wisdom is justified of her children.

20 ¶ Then [v] began he to upbraid the cities wherein most of his mighty works were done, because they repented not:

21 Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida! for if the mighty works, which were done in you, had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago [r] in sackcloth and ashes.

22 But I say unto you, [s] It shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon at the day of judgment, than for you.

25 ¶ At [d] that time Jesus answered and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because [e] thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, [g] and hast revealed them unto babes.

26 Even so, Father: for so it seemed good in thy sight.

27 All [h] things are delivered unto me of my Father: and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father; [h] neither knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him.

CHAP. XII.

AT that time [m] Jesus went on the sabbath day through the corn; and his disciples were an hungred, and began to pluck the ears of corn, and to eat.

2 But when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto him, Behold, thy disciples do that which is not lawful to do upon the sabbath day.

3 But he said unto them, Have ye not read [y] what David did, when he was an hungred, and they that were with him;

4 How he entered into the house of God, and did eat [z] the shewbread, which was not lawful for him to eat, neither for them which were with him, [a] but only for the priests?

5 Or have ye not read in the [a] law, how that on the sabbath days the priests in the temple profane the sabbath, and are blameless?

6 But I say unto you, That in this place is [c] one greater than the temple.

7 But if ye had known what this meaneth, [b] I will have mercy, and not sacrifice, ye would not have condemned the guiltless.

8 For the Son of man is Lord even of the sabbath day.

9 And [b] when he was departed thence, he went into their synagogue:

10 ¶ And, behold, there was a man which had his hand withered. And they asked him, saying, [i] Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath days? that they might accuse him.

11 And he said unto them, What man shall there be among you, that shall have one sheep, and [m] if it fall into a pit on the sabbath day, will he not lay hold on it, and lift it out?

12 How much then is a man better than a sheep? Wherefore it is lawful to do well on the sabbath days.

13 Then saith he to the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he stretched it forth; and it was restored whole, like as the other.

14 ¶ Then [p] the Pharisees went out, and [†] held a council against him, how they might destroy him.

15 But when Jesus knew it, [t] he withdrew himself from thence: [u] and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them all;

16 And charged them that they should not make him known:

17 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying,

18 Behold [c] my servant, whom I have chosen; my beloved, [d] in whom my soul is well pleased: I will put my spirit upon him, and he shall shew judgment to the Gentiles.

19 He shall not strive, nor cry; neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets.

20 A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench, till he send forth judgment unto victory.

21 And in his name shall the Gentiles trust.

22 ¶ Then [f] was brought unto him one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw.

23 And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this the son of David?

24 But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by [o] Beelzebub the prince of the devils.

25 And Jesus [m] knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand:

26 And if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand?

27 And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges.

28 But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then [r] the kingdom of God is come unto you.

29 Or [s] else how can one enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house.

30 He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.

31 ¶ Wherefore I say unto you, [u] All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: [w] but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men.

32 And whosoever [x] speaketh a word against the Son of man, [a] it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, [b] neither in this world, neither in the world to come.

33 Either make the tree good, and [c] his fruit good; or else make the tree corrupt, and his fruit corrupt: for the tree is known by his fruit.

34 O [d] generation of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.

35 A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things.

36 But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment.

37 For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.

38 ¶ Then [f] certain of the scribes and of the Pharisees answered, saying, Master, we would see a sign from thee.

39 But he answered and said unto them, An evil and [z] adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas:

40 For [b] as Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly: so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth.

41 The [c] men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and [f] shall condemn it: [g] because they repented at the preaching of Jonas; and, behold, a greater than Jonas is here.

42 The [h] queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here.

43 When [i] the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, [l] he walketh through dry places, seeking rest, and findeth none.

44 Then he saith, I will return into my house from whence I came out; and when he is come, he findeth it empty, swept, and garnished.

45 Then goeth he, and taketh with himself seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell there: [n] and the last state of that man is worse than the first. Even so shall it be also unto this wicked generation.

46 ¶ While he yet talked to the people, [o] behold, his mother and [p] his brethren stood without, desiring to speak with him.

47 Then one said unto him, Behold, thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to speak with thee.

48 But he answered and said unto him that told him, Who is my mother? and who are my brethren?

49 And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples, and said, Behold my mother and my brethren!

50 For [t] whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, [w] the same is my brother, and sister, and mother.

CHAP. XIII.

THE same day went Jesus out of the house, [x] and sat by the sea side.

2 And [y] great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so that he went into a ship, and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

3 And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow;

4 And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up:

5 Some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth:

6 And when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away.

7 And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them:

8 But other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some [a] an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold.

9 Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

10 And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables?

11 He answered and said unto them, Because [g] it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.

Digitized by Google

12 For [b] whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath.

13 Therefore speak I to them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand.

14 And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Esaias, which saith, [d] By hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive:

15 For this people's heart is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest at any time they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and should understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them.

16 But [i] blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear.

17 For verily I say unto you, [l] That many prophets and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

18 ¶ Hear ye therefore the parable of the sower.

19 When any one heareth the word [n] of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the way side.

20 But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon [r] with joy receiveth it;

21 Yet hath he not [t] root in himself, but dureth for a while: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by [u] he is offended.

22 He [p] also that received seed [x] among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful.

23 But he that received seed into the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty.

24 ¶ Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed [d] good seed in his field:

25 But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way.

26 But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

27 So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? [f] from whence then hath it tares?

28 He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, [h] Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?

29 But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them.

30 Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but [g] gather the wheat into my barn.

31 ¶ Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, [e] The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field:

32 Which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.

33 ¶ Another [e] parable spake he unto them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three [e] measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

34 All [g] these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables; and without a parable spake he not unto them:

35 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, [h] I will open my mouth in parables; [k] I will utter things which have been kept secret from the foundation of the world.

36 Then Jesus sent the multitude away, and went into the house: and his disciples came unto him, saying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field.

37 He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man;

38 The [m] field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are [o] the children of the wicked one;

39 The enemy that sowed them is the devil; [p] the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels.

40 As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world.

41 The Son of man shall send forth his angels, [s] and they shall gather out of his kingdom all [t] things that offend, and them which do iniquity;

42 And [u] shall cast them into a furnace of fire: [x] there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

43 Then [a] shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

44 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and [b] selleth all that he hath, and [c] buyeth that field.

45 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls:

46 Who, when he had found [e] one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

47 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and [f] gathered of every kind:

48 Which, when it was full, they drew to shore, and sat down, and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad away.

49 So shall it be at the end of the world: the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from among the just,

50 And shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

51 Jesus saith unto them, Have ye understood all these things? They say unto him, Yea, Lord.

52 Then said he unto them, Therefore every scribe which is instructed unto the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure things new and old.

53 ¶ And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these parables, he departed thence.

54 And [a] when he was come into his own country, he taught them in their synagogue, insomuch that they were astonished, and said, Whence hath this man this wisdom, and these mighty works?

55 Is [b] not this the carpenter's son? is not his mother called Mary? and [c] his brethren, [d] James, and Joses, and Simon, and Judas?

56 And his sisters, are they not all with us? Whence then hath this man all these things?

57 And they [e] were offended in him. But Jesus said unto them, [f] A prophet is not without honour, save in his own country, and in his own house.

58 And [g] he did not many mighty works there because of their unbelief.

CHAP. XIV.

AT that time [h] Herod the tetrarch heard of the fame of Jesus,

2 And said unto his servants, This is John the Baptist; he is risen from the dead; and therefore mighty works [i] do shew forth themselves in him.

3 ¶ For [k] Herod had laid hold on John, and bound him, and put him in prison for Herodias' sake, his brother Philip's wife.

4 For John said unto him, [l] It is not lawful for thee to have her.

5 And when he would have put him to death, he feared the multitude, [m] because they counted him as a prophet.

6 But when Herod's birthday was kept, the daughter of Herodias danced [n] before them, and pleased Herod.

7 Whereupon [o] he promised with an oath to give her whatsoever she would ask.

8 And she, being before instructed of her mother, said, [p] Give me here John Baptist's head in a charger.

9 And the king was sorry: [q] nevertheless for the oath's sake, and them which sat with him at meat, he commanded it to be given her.

10 And he sent, and beheaded John in the prison.

11 And his head was brought in a charger, and given to the damsel: and she brought it to her mother.

12 And his disciples came, and took up the body, and buried it, and went and told Jesus.

13 ¶ When [r] Jesus heard of it, he departed thence by ship into a desert place apart: and when the people had heard thereof, they followed him on foot out of the cities.

14 And Jesus went forth, and saw a great multitude, and [s] was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick.

15 ¶ And when it was evening, his disciples came to him, saying, This is a desert place, and the time is now past; send the multitude away, that they may go into the villages, and buy themselves victuals.

16 But Jesus said unto them, They need not depart; give ye them to eat.

17 And they say unto him, We have here but five loaves, and two fishes.

18 He said, Bring them hither to me.

19 And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the grass, and took the five loaves, and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, [u] he blessed, and brake, and gave the loaves to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.

20 And they did all eat, and were filled: and they took up of the fragments that remained twelve baskets full.

21 And they that had eaten were about five thousand men, beside women and children.

22 ¶ And straightway Jesus constrained his disciples to get into a ship, and to go before him unto the other side, while he sent the multitudes away.

23 And [t] when he had sent the multitudes away, he went up into a mountain apart to pray: [u] and when the evening was come, he was there alone.

24 But the ship was now [v] in the midst of the sea, tossed with waves: for the wind was contrary.

25 And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea.

26 And when the disciples saw him [w] walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit; and they cried out for fear.

27 But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; [x] it is I; be not afraid.

28 And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water.

29 And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus.

30 But when he saw the wind † boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord, save me.

31 And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, [y] wherefore didst thou doubt?

32 And when they were come into the ship, the wind ceased.

33 Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou [z] art the Son of God.

34 ¶ And [a] when they were gone over, they came into the land of Gennesaret.

35 And when the men of that place had knowledge of him, they sent out into all that country round about, and brought unto him all that were diseased;

36 And besought him that they might only touch the hem of his garment: and [b] as many as touched were made perfectly whole.

CHAP. XV.

THEN [c] came to Jesus scribes and Pharisees, which were of Jerusalem, saying,

2 Why [d] do thy disciples transgress [e] the tradition of the elders? for they wash not their hands when they eat bread.

3 But he answered and said unto them, Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God by your tradition?

4 For God commanded, saying, [f] Honour thy father and mother: and, [h] He that curseth father or mother, let him die the death.

5 But ye say, Whosoever shall say to his father or his mother, [i] It is a gift, by whatsoever thou mightest be profited by me;

6 And honour not his father or his mother, he shall be free. Thus have ye made the commandment of God of none effect by your tradition.

7 Ye [k] hypocrites, well did Esaias prophesy of you, saying,

8 This [l] people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips; but their heart is far from me.

9 But in vain they do worship me, [b] teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.
10 ¶ And [c] he called the multitude, and said unto them, Hear, and understand:
11 Not [d] that which goeth into the mouth defileth a man; but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man.
12 Then came his disciples, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Pharisees were offended, after they heard this saying?
13 But he answered and said, [b] Every plant, which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up.
14 Let them alone: [e] they be blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch.
15 Then [f] answered Peter and said unto him, Declare unto us this parable.
16 And Jesus said, [g] Are ye also yet without understanding?
17 Do not ye yet understand, that [m] whatsoever entereth in at the mouth goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught?
18 But [n] those things which proceed out of the mouth come forth from the heart; and they defile the man.
19 For [p] out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies:
20 These are the things which defile a man: but to eat with unwashen hands defileth not a man.
21 ¶ Then [q] Jesus went thence, and departed into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon.
22 And, behold, a woman of Canaan came out of the same coasts, and cried unto him, saying, Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou son of David; my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil.
23 But he answered her not a word. And his disciples came and besought him, saying, Send her away; for she crieth after us.
24 But he answered and said, [r] I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel.
25 Then came she and worshipped him, saying, Lord, help me.
26 But he answered and said, It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to [s] dogs.
27 And she said, Truth, Lord: [b] yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their masters' table.
28 Then Jesus answered and said unto her, O woman, [t] great is thy faith: be it unto thee even as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole from that very hour.
29 And [d] Jesus departed from thence, and came nigh [u] unto the sea of Galilee; and went up into a mountain, and sat down there.
30 And [f] great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them:
31 Insomuch that the multitude wondered, when they saw the dumb to speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to see: and they glorified the God of Israel.
32 ¶ Then [i] Jesus called his disciples unto him, and said, [k] I have compassion on the multitude, because they continue with me now three days, and have nothing to eat: and I will not send them away fasting, [v] lest they faint in the way.
33 And [e] his disciples say unto him, Whence should we have so much bread in the wilderness, as to fill so great a multitude?
34 And Jesus saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven, and a few little fishes.
35 And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground.
36 And [f] he took the seven loaves and the fishes, and [g] gave thanks, and brake them, and gave to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.
37 And they did all eat, and were filled: and they took up of the broken meat that was left seven baskets full.
38 And they that did eat were four thousand men, beside women and children.
39 And he sent away the multitude, and took ship, and came into the coasts of Magdala.

CHAP. XVI.

THE [a] Pharisees also with the Sadducees came, and tempting desired him that he would shew them a sign from heaven.
2 He answered and said unto them, When it is evening, ye say, It will be fair weather: for the sky is red.
3 And in the morning, It will be foul weather to day: for the sky is red and lowring. O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky; but can ye not [w] discern the signs of the times?
4 A [x] wicked and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given unto it, [m] but the sign of the prophet Jonas. And he left them, and departed.
5 And [y] when his disciples were come to the other side, they had forgotten to take bread.
6 ¶ Then Jesus said unto them, [z] Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees.
7 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is because we have taken no bread.
8 Which when Jesus perceived, he said unto them, O ye of little faith, why reason ye among yourselves, because ye have brought no bread?
9 Do [a] ye not yet understand, neither remember the five loaves of the five thousand, and how many baskets ye took up?
10 Neither the seven loaves of the four thousand, and how many baskets ye took up?
11 How is it that ye do not understand that I spake it not to you concerning bread, that ye should beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees?
12 Then understood they how that he bade them not beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees.
13 ¶ When Jesus came into the coasts of Cæsarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, [c] Whom do men say that I the Son of man am?
14 And they said, [b] Some say that thou art John the Baptist: some, Elias; and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets.
15 He saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am?
16 And Simon Peter answered and said, [f] Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.
17 And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-jona: [a] for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but [c] my Father which is in heaven.

18 And I say also unto thee, That [d] thou art Peter, [e] and upon this rock I will build my church; and [f] the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.

19 And [g] I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

20 Then charged he his disciples that they should tell no man that he was Jesus the Christ.

21 ¶ From that time forth began Jesus [m] to shew unto his disciples, how that he must go unto Jerusalem, and suffer many things of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and be raised again the third day.

22 Then Peter took him, and began to rebuke him, saying, [o] Be it far from thee, Lord: this shall not be unto thee.

23 But he turned, and said unto Peter, Get thee behind me, [o] Satan: [p] thou art an offence unto me: for thou savourest not the things that be of God, but those that be of men.

24 ¶ Then [r] said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.

25 For [s] whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it.

26 For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? or [u] what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

27 For [x] the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father [y] with his angels; [z] and then he shall reward every man according to his works.

28 Verily I say unto you, There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they [b] see the Son of man coming in his kingdom.

CHAP. XVII.

AND [c] after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart,

2 And was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light.

3 And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias talking with him.

4 Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

5 While [d] he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them: and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said, [e] This is my beloved Son, [f] in whom I am well pleased; [h] hear ye him.

6 And [i] when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid.

7 And Jesus came and [k] touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid.

8 And when they had lifted up their eyes, they saw no man, save Jesus only.

9 And as they came down from the mountain, [m] Jesus charged them, saying, Tell the vision to no man, until the Son of man be risen again from the dead.

10 And his disciples asked him, saying, [b] Why then say the scribes that Elias must first come?

11 And Jesus answered and said unto them, Elias truly shall first come, and [f] restore all things.

12 But I say unto you, That Elias is come already, [h] and they knew him not, but [j] have done unto him whatsoever they listed. Likewise [k] shall also the Son of man suffer of them.

13 Then [l] the disciples understood that he spake unto them of John the Baptist.

14 ¶ And [m] when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying,

15 Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is lunatick, and sore vexed: for oftimes he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water.

16 And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him.

17 Then Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me.

18 And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour.

19 Then came the disciples to Jesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out?

20 And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, [r] If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you.

21 Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting.

22 ¶ And [o] while they abode in Galilee, Jesus said unto them, The Son of man shall be betrayed into the hands of men:

23 And they shall kill him, and the third day he shall be raised again. And they were exceeding sorry.

24 ¶ And [o] when they were come to Capernaum, they that received † tribute money came to Peter, and said, Doth not your master pay tribute?

25 He saith, Yes. And when he was come into the house, Jesus prevented him, saying, What thinkest thou, Simon? of whom do the kings of the earth take custom or tribute? of their own children, or of strangers?

26 Peter saith unto him, Of strangers. Jesus saith unto him, Then are the children free.

27 Notwithstanding, lest we should offend them, go thou to the sea, and cast an hook, and take up the fish that first cometh up; and when thou hast opened his mouth, thou shalt find ‡ a piece of money: that take, and give unto them for me and thee.

CHAP. XVIII.

AT [s] the same time came the disciples unto Jesus, saying, Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?

2 And Jesus called a little child unto him, and set him in the midst of them,

3 And said, Verily I say unto you, [t] Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

4 Whosoever [u] therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

5 And [a] whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me.

6 But [b] whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea.

7 ¶ Woe unto the world because of offences! for [c] it must needs be that offences come; but [d] woe to that man by whom the offence cometh!

8 Wherefore [e] if thy hand or thy foot offend thee, cut them off, and cast them from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life halt or maimed, rather than having two hands or two feet to be cast into everlasting fire.

9 And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather than having two eyes to be cast into hell fire.

10 Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, That in heaven [g] their angels do always [h] behold the face of my Father which is in heaven.

11 For [k] the Son of man is come to save that which was lost.

12 How [l] think ye? if a man have an hundred sheep, and one of them be gone astray, doth he not leave the ninety and nine, and goeth into the mountains, and seeketh that which is gone astray?

13 And if so be that he find it, verily I say unto you, he rejoiceth more of that sheep, than of the ninety and nine which went not astray.

14 Even so it is not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish.

15 ¶ Moreover [m] if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, [n] thou hast gained thy brother.

16 But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in [o] the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established.

17 And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an [p] heathen man and a publican.

18 Verily I say unto you, [q] Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

19 Again [r] I say unto you, That if two of you shall agree on earth as touching any thing that they shall ask, [s] it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven.

20 For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.

21 [t] Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? [u] till seven times?

22 Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times: [v] but, Until seventy times seven.

23 ¶ Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain king, which would take account of his servants.

24 And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him, which owed him ten thousand [†] talents.

25 But forasmuch as he had not to pay, his lord commanded him [‡] to be sold, and his wife, and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made.

26 The servant therefore fell down, and worshipped him, saying, Lord, have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

27 Then the lord of that servant was moved with compassion, and loosed him, and forgave him the debt.

28 But the same servant went out, and found one of his fellowservants, which owed him an hundred [†] pence: and he laid hands on him, and took him by the throat, saying, Pay me that thou owest.

29 And his fellowservant fell down at his feet, and besought him, saying, Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

30 And he would not: but went and cast him into prison, till he should pay the debt.

31 So when his fellowservants saw what was done, they were very sorry, and came and told unto their lord all that was done.

32 Then his lord, after that he had called him, said unto him, O thou wicked servant, I forgave thee all that debt, because thou desiredst me:

33 Shouldest not thou also have had compassion on thy fellowservant, [i] even as I had pity on thee?

34 And his lord was wroth, and delivered him to the tormentors, till he should pay all that was due unto him.

35 So [m] likewise shall my heavenly Father do also unto you, if ye from your hearts forgive not every one his brother their trespasses.

CHAP. XIX.

AND it came to pass, [n] that when Jesus had finished these sayings, he departed from Galilee, and came into the coasts of Judæa beyond Jordan;

2 And [p] great multitudes followed him; and he healed them there.

3 ¶ The Pharisees also came unto him, tempting him, and saying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause?

4 And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, [q] that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female,

5 And said, [r] For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and [s] they twain shall be one flesh?

6 Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.

7 They say unto him, [t] Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away?

8 He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so.

9 And [u] I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery.

10 ¶ His disciples say unto him, [v] If the case of the man be so with his wife, it is not good to marry.

11 But he said unto them, [w] All men cannot receive this saying, save they to whom it is given.

12 For there are some eunuchs, which were so born from their mother's womb: and there are some eunuchs, which were made eunuchs of men: and [x] there be eunuchs, which have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven's sake. He that is able to receive it, let him receive it.

13 ¶ Then [a] were there brought unto him little children, that he should put his hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them.

14 But Jesus said, Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for [b] of such is the kingdom of heaven.

15 And he laid his hands on them, and departed thence.

16 ¶ And, behold, one came and said unto him, [c] Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?

17 And he said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments.

18 He saith unto him, Which? Jesus said, [d] Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, 19 Honour f thy father and thy mother: and, [e] Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

20 The young man saith unto him, All these things have I kept from my youth up: what lack I yet?

21 Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, [g] go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me.

22 But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions.

23 ¶ Then said Jesus unto his disciples, Verily I say unto you, That [i] a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven.

24 And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

25 When his disciples heard it, they were exceedingly amazed, saying, Who then can be saved?

26 But Jesus beheld them, and said unto them, With men this is impossible; but [k] with God all things are possible.

27 ¶ Then [l] answered Peter and said unto him, Behold, [m] we have forsaken all, and followed thee; what shall we have therefore?

28 And Jesus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, That ye which have followed me, in the regeneration when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of his glory, [n] ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

29 And every one that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name's sake, shall receive an hundredfold, and shall inherit everlasting life.

30 But [o] many that are first shall be last; and the last shall be first.

CHAP. XX.

FOR the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an housholder, which went out early in the morning to hire labourers into his vineyard.

2 And when he had agreed with the labourers for a †penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard.

3 And he went out about the third hour, and saw others f standing idle in the marketplace,

4 And said unto them; Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right I will give you. And they went their way.

5 Again he went out about the sixth and ninth hour, and did likewise.

6 And about the eleventh hour he went out, and found others standing idle, and saith unto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle?

7 They say unto him, [b] Because no man hath hired us. He saith unto them, Go ye also into the vineyard; and whatsoever is right, that shall ye receive.

8 So when even was come, the lord of the vineyard saith unto his steward, Call the labourers, and give them their hire, beginning from the last unto the first.

9 And when they came that were hired about the eleventh hour, they received every man a penny.

10 But when the first came, they supposed that they should have received more; and they likewise received every man a penny.

11 And when they had received it, they murmured against the goodman of the house,

12 Saying, These last [o] have wrought but one hour, and thou hast made them equal unto us, which have borne the burden and heat of the day.

13 But he answered one of them, and said, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didst not thou agree with me for a penny?

14 Take that thine is, and go thy way: I will give unto this last, even as unto thee.

15 Is [c] it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own? [b] Is thine eye evil, because I am good?

16 So [m] the last shall be first, and the first last: [n] for many be called, but few chosen.

17 ¶ And [e] Jesus going up to Jerusalem took the twelve disciples apart in the way, and said unto them,

18 Behold, [f] we go up to Jerusalem; and the Son of man shall be betrayed unto the chief priests and unto the scribes, and they shall condemn him to death,

19 And [r] shall deliver him to the Gentiles to mock, and to scourge, and to crucify him: and the third day he shall rise again.

20 ¶ Then came to him the mother of [p] Zebedee's children with her sons, worshipping him, and desiring a certain thing of him.

21 And he said unto her, What wilt thou? She saith unto him, Grant that these my two sons [q] may sit, the one on thy right hand, and the other on the left, in thy kingdom.

22 But Jesus answered and said, Ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink of [s] the cup that I shall drink of, and to be baptized with [t] the baptism that I am baptized with? They say unto him, We are able.

23 And he saith unto them, [s] Ye shall drink indeed of my cup, and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with: but to sit on my right hand, and on my left, is not mine to give, [d] but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared of my Father.

24 And [e] when the ten heard it, they were moved with indignation against the two brethren.

25 But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Ye know that the princes of the Gentiles exercise dominion over them, and they that are great exercise authority upon them.

26 But [a] it shall not be so among you: but whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister;

27 And [b] whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant:

28 Even [c] as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, [d] but to minister, and [e] to give his life a ransom [f] for many.

29 And [g] as they departed from Jericho, a great multitude followed him.

30 ¶ And, behold, [h] two blind men sitting by the way side, when they heard that Jesus passed by, cried out, saying, Have mercy on us, O Lord, thou son of David.

31 And the multitude rebuked them, because they should hold their peace: but they cried the more, saying, Have mercy on us, O Lord, thou son of David.

32 And Jesus stood still, and called them, and said, What will ye that I shall do unto you?

33 They say unto him, Lord, that our eyes may be opened.

34 So Jesus had compassion on them, and touched their eyes: and immediately their eyes received sight, and they followed him.

CHAP. XXI.

AND [r] when they drew nigh unto Jerusalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto [s] the mount of Olives, then sent Jesus two disciples,

2 Saying unto them, Go into the village over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them, and bring them unto me.

3 And if any man say ought unto you, ye shall say, The Lord hath need of them; [t] and straightway he will send them.

4 All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying,

5 Tell [u] ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass.

6 And [v] the disciples went, and did as Jesus commanded them,

7 And brought the ass, and the colt, and [w] put on them their clothes, and they set him thereon.

8 And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way; [x] others cut down branches from the trees, and strawed them in the way.

9 And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying, [y] Hosanna to the son of David: [z] Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest.

10 And [a] when he was come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, Who is this?

11 And the multitude said, This is Jesus the [b] prophet of Nazareth of Galilee.

12 ¶ And [c] Jesus went into the temple of God, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the [d] moneychangers, and the seats of them that sold doves, 13 And said unto them, It is written, [e] My house shall be called the house of prayer; [f] but ye have made it a den of thieves.

14 And the blind and the lame came to him in the temple; and he healed them.

and saying, Hosanna to the son of David; they were sore displeased,

16 And said unto him, Hearest thou what these say? And Jesus saith unto them, Yea; have ye never read, [a] Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise?

17 ¶ And he left them, and went out of the city into [b] Bethany; and he lodged there.

18 Now in the morning as he returned into the city, he hungered.

19 And when he saw [c] a fig tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon, but leaves only, and said unto it, Let no fruit grow on thee henceforward for ever. And presently the fig tree withered away.

20 And when the disciples saw it, they marvelled, saying, How soon is the fig tree withered away!

21 Jesus answered and said unto them, Verily I say unto you, [d] If ye have faith, and [e] doubt not, ye shall not only do this which is done to the fig tree, [f] but also if ye shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; it shall be done.

22 And [g] all things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer believing, ye shall receive.

23 ¶ And [h] when he was come into the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came unto him as he was teaching, and [i] said, By what authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority?

24 And Jesus answered and said unto them, [k] I also will ask you one thing, which if ye tell me, I in like wise will tell you by what authority I do these things.

25 The baptism of John, whence was it? from heaven, or of men? And they reasoned with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven; he will say unto us, [l] Why did ye not then believe him?

26 But if we shall say, Of men; we fear the people; [m] for all hold John as a prophet.

27 And they answered Jesus, and said, We cannot tell. And he said unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things.

28 ¶ But what think ye? A certain man had two sons; and he came to the first, and said, Son, go work to day in my vineyard.

29 He answered and said, I will not: but afterward he repented, and went.

30 And he came to the second, and said likewise. And he answered and said, I go, sir: and went not.

31 Whether of them twain did the will of his father? They say unto him, The first. Jesus saith unto them, Verily I say unto you, [n] That the publicans and the harlots go into the kingdom of God before you.

32 For [o] John came unto you in the way of righteousness, and ye believed him not: [p] but the publicans and the harlots believed him: and ye, when ye had seen it, repented not afterward, that ye might believe him.

33 ¶ Hear another parable: There was a certain householder, [q] which planted a vineyard, and hedged it round about, and digged a winepress in it, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and [r] went into a far country:

34 And when the time of the fruit drew near, he sent his servants to the husbandmen, [s] that they might receive the fruits of it.

35 And [t] the husbandmen took his servants, and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another.

36 Again, he sent other servants more than the first: and they did unto them likewise.

37 But last of all he sent unto them his son, saying, They will reverence my son.

38 But when the husbandmen saw the son, they said among themselves, [a] This is the heir; [b] come, let us kill him, and let us seize on his inheritance.

39 And [c] they caught him, and cast him out of the vineyard, and slew him.

40 When the lord therefore of the vineyard cometh, what will he do unto those husbandmen?

41 They [d] say unto him, [A] He will miserably destroy those wicked men, [e] and will let out his vineyard unto other husbandmen, which shall render him the fruits in their seasons.

42 Jesus saith unto them, [f] Did ye never read in the scriptures, The stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner: this is the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes?

43 Therefore say I unto you, The kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof.

44 And [m] whosoever shall fall on this stone shall be broken: but on whomsoever it shall fall, [n] it will grind him to powder.

45 And when the chief priests and Pharisees had heard his parables, they perceived that he spake of them.

46 But when they sought to lay hands on him, they feared the multitude, because [o] they took him for a prophet.

CHAP. XXII.

AND Jesus answered [p] and spake unto them again by parables, and said,

2 The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain king, which made a marriage for his son,

3 And sent forth his servants to call them that were bidden to the wedding: and they would not come.

4 Again, he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner: [q] my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage.

5 But [r] they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, another to his merchandise:

6 And the remnant took his servants, and entreated them spitefully, and slew them.

7 But when the king heard thereof, he was wroth: and he sent forth [s] his armies, and destroyed those murderers, and burned up their city.

8 Then saith he to his servants, The wedding is ready, but they which were bidden were not [t] worthy.

9 Go ye therefore into the highways, and as many as ye shall find, bid to the marriage.

10 So those servants went out into the highways, and [f] gathered together all as many as they found, both bad and good: and the wedding was furnished with guests.

11 ¶ And when the king came in to see the guests, he saw there a man [A] which had not on a wedding garment:

12 And he saith unto him, Friend, how camest thou in hither not having a wedding garment? And he was speechless.

13 Then said the king to the servants, Bind him hand and foot, and take him away, and cast him [a] into outer darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

14 For [b] many are called, but few are chosen.

15 ¶ Then [c] went the Pharisees, and took counsel how they might entangle him in his talk.

16 And they sent out unto him their disciples with the Herodians, saying, Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God in truth, neither carest thou for any man: for thou regardest not the person of men.

17 Tell us therefore, What thinkest thou? Is it lawful to give tribute unto Cæsar, or not?

18 But Jesus perceived their wickedness, and said, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites?

19 Shew me the tribute money. And they brought unto him a [e] penny.

20 And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and † superscription?

21 They say unto him, Cæsar's. Then saith he unto them, [f] Render therefore unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's; and unto God the things that are God's.

22 When they had heard these words, they marvelled, and left him, and went their way.

23 ¶ The [g] same day came to him the Sadducees, [h] which say that there is no resurrection, and asked him,

24 Saying, Master, [i] Moses said, If a man die, having no children, his brother shall marry his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

25 Now there were with us seven brethren: and the first, when he had married a wife, deceased, and, having no issue, left his wife unto his brother:

26 Likewise the second also, and the third, unto the ‡ seventh.

27 And last of all the woman died also.

28 Therefore in the resurrection whose wife shall she be of the seven? for they all had her.

29 Jesus answered and said unto them, Ye do err, [k] not knowing the scriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the resurrection they neither marry, nor are given in marriage, but [l] are as the angels of God in heaven.

31 But as touching the resurrection of the dead, have ye not read that which was spoken unto you by God, saying,

32 I [m] am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not the God of the dead, but of the living.

33 And when the multitude heard this, [n] they were astonished at his doctrine.

34 ¶ But [o] when the Pharisees had heard that he had put the Sadducees to silence, they were gathered together.

35 Then one of them, which was [p] a lawyer, asked him a question, tempting him, and saying,

36 Master, which is the great commandment in the law?

37 Jesus said unto him, [q] Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.

38 This is the first and great commandment.

39 And the second is like unto it, [r] Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

40 On [s] these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.

41 ¶ While [a] the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked them,

42 Saying, What think ye of Christ? whose son is he? They say unto him, The son of David.

43 He saith unto them, How then doth David in spirit call him Lord, saying,

44 The [b] LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool?

45 If David then call him Lord, how is he his son?

46 And [c] no man was able to answer him a word, neither durst any man from that day forth ask him any more questions.

CHAP. XXIII.

THEN spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

2 Saying, [d] The scribes and the Pharisees sit in Moses' seat:

3 All therefore whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do; but do not ye after their works: for [e] they say, and do not.

4 For [m] they bind heavy burdens and grievous to be borne, and lay them on men's shoulders; but they themselves will not move them with one of their fingers.

5 But [g] all their works they do for to be seen of men: [p] they make broad their phylacteries, and enlarge the borders of their garments,

6 And [r] love the uppermost rooms at feasts, and the chief seats in the synagogues,

7 And greetings in the markets, and to be called of men, Rabbi, Rabbi.

8 But [s] be not ye called Rabbi: for one is your Master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren.

9 And call no man your father upon the earth: [u] for one is your Father, which is in heaven.

10 Neither be ye called masters: for one is your Master, even Christ.

11 But [y] he that is greatest among you shall be your servant.

12 And [a] whosoever shall exalt himself shall be abased; and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted.

13 ¶ But [d] woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye shut up the kingdom of heaven against men: for ye neither go in yourselves, neither suffer ye them that are entering to go in.

14 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! [h] for ye devour widows' houses, and for a pretence make long prayer: therefore ye shall receive the greater damnation.

15 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte, and when he is made, ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves.

16 Woe unto you, [m] ye blind guides, which say, [n] Whosoever shall swear by the temple, it is nothing; but whosoever shall swear by the gold of the temple, he is a debtor!

17 Ye fools and blind: for whether is greater, the gold, [p] or the temple that sanctifieth the gold?

18 And, Whosoever shall swear by the altar, it is nothing; but whosoever sweareth by the gift that is upon it, he is [t] guilty.

19 Ye fools and blind: for whether is greater, the gift, or [s] the altar that sanctifieth the gift?

20 Whoso therefore shall swear by the altar, sweareth by it, and by all things thereon.

21 And whoso shall swear by the temple, sweareth by it, and by [t] him that dwelleth therein.

22 And he that shall swear by heaven, sweareth by [d] the throne of God, and by him that sitteth thereon.

23 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! [o] for ye pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin, and [f] have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.

24 Ye blind guides, which strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel.

25 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! [h] for ye make clean the outside of the cup and of the platter, but within they are full of extortion and excess.

26 Thou blind Pharisee, [k] cleanse first that which is within the cup and platter, that the outside of them may be clean also.

27 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! [w] for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness.

28 Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but within ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity.

29 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! because ye build the tombs of the prophets, and garnish the sepulchres of the righteous,

30 And say, If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets.

31 Wherefore ye be witnesses unto yourselves, that [z] ye are the children of them which killed the prophets.

32 Fill [a] ye up then the measure of your fathers.

33 Ye serpents, ye [b] generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?

34 ¶ Wherefore, [c] behold, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: and [d] some of them ye shall kill and crucify; and [e] some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute them from city to city:

35 That [f] upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth, from [g] the blood of righteous Abel unto [h] the blood of Zacharias son of Barachias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar.

36 Verily I say unto you, All these things shall come upon this generation.

37 O [i] Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would [k] I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens [l] under her wings, and ye would not!

38 Behold, your house is left unto you desolate.

39 For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, [m] Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

CHAP. XXIV.

AND [r] Jesus went out, and departed from the temple: and his disciples came to him for to shew him the buildings of the temple.

upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

3 ¶ And as he sat upon the mount of Olives, the disciples came unto him privately, saying, [b] Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the world?

4 And Jesus answered and said unto them, [c] Take heed that no man deceive you.

5 For [d] many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many.

6 And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet.

7 For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places.

8 All these are the beginning of sorrows.

9 Then [h] shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you: and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name's sake.

10 And then shall many [i] be offended, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another.

11 And [k] many false prophets shall rise, and [l] shall deceive many.

12 And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold.

13 But [m] he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved.

14 And this [n] gospel of the kingdom [o] shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come.

15 When ye therefore shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by [p] Daniel the prophet, stand in the holy place, (whoso readeth, let him understand:)

16 Then let them which be in Judæa flee into the mountains:

17 Let him which is on the housetop not come down to take any thing out of his house:

18 Neither let him which is in the field return back to take his clothes.

19 And [q] woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days!

20 But pray ye that your flight be not in the winter, neither on the sabbath day:

21 For [r] then shall be great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor ever shall be.

22 And except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved: but [s] for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened.

23 Then [t] if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there; believe it not.

24 For [u] there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; insomuch that, [v] if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect.

25 Behold, I have told you before.

26 Wherefore if they shall say unto you, Behold, he is in the desert; go not forth: behold, he is in the secret chambers; believe it not.

27 For [x] as the lightning cometh out of the east, and shineth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

28 For [y] wheresoever the carcase is, there will the eagles be gathered together.

29 ¶ Immediately after the tribulation of those days [z] shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken:

30 And [a] then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven: [b] and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and [c] they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory.

31 And [d] he shall send his angels with a [e] great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

32 Now learn [f] a parable of the fig tree; When his branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh:

33 So likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, know [g] that [†] it is near, even at the doors.

34 Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled.

35 Heaven [m] and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

36 ¶ But [n] of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, [p] but my Father only.

37 But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

38 For [q] as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark,

39 And knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

40 Then [r] shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

41 Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

42 ¶ Watch [s] therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come.

43 But [t] know this, that if the goodman of the house had known in what watch the thief would come, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken up.

44 Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh.

45 Who [u] then is a faithful and wise servant, whom his lord hath made ruler over his houshold, to give them meat in due season?

46 Blessed [v] is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing.

47 Verily I say unto you, That he shall make him ruler over all his goods.

48 But and if that evil servant shall say in his heart, My lord delayeth his coming;

49 And shall begin to smite his fellow-servants, and to eat and drink with the drunken;

50 The lord of that servant shall come in a day when he looketh not for him, and in an hour that he is not aware of,

51 And shall cut him [‡] asunder, and appoint him his portion with the hypocrites: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

CHAP. XXV.

3 They that were foolish took their lamps, and took no oil with them:

4 But the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps.

5 While the bridegroom tarried, [a] they all slumbered and slept.

6 And at midnight [b] there was a cry made, Behold, the bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet him.

7 Then all those virgins arose, and [d] trimmed their lamps.

8 And the foolish said unto the wise, Give us of your oil; for our lamps are [e] gone out.

9 But the wise answered, saying, Not so; lest there be not enough for us and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves.

10 And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage: and [i] the door was shut.

11 Afterward came also the other virgins, saying, [k] Lord, Lord, open to us.

12 But he answered and said, Verily I say unto you, [m] I know you not.

13 Watch [n] therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh.

14 ¶ For [o] the kingdom of heaven is [p] as a man travelling into a far country, who called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods.

15 And unto one he gave five [†] talents, to another two, and to another one; [s] to every man according to his several ability; and straightway took his journey.

16 Then he that had received the five talents went and traded with the same, and made them other five talents.

17 And likewise he that had received two, he also gained other two.

18 But he that had received one went and digged in the earth, and hid his lord's money.

19 After a long time the lord of those servants cometh, and reckoneth with them.

20 And so he that had received five talents came and brought other five talents, saying, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me five talents: behold, I have gained beside them five talents more.

21 His lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, [u] I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into [x] the joy of thy lord.

22 He also that had received two talents came and said, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me two talents: behold, I have gained two other talents beside them.

23 His lord said unto him, Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.

24 Then he which had received the one talent came and said, Lord, I knew thee that thou art an hard man, reaping where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou hast not strawed:

25 And I was afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that is thine.

26 His lord answered and said unto him, Thou wicked and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I have not strawed:

27 Thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the exchangers, and then at my coming I should have received mine own with usury.

28 Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents.

29 For [b] unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath.

30 And cast ye the unprofitable servant [c] into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

31 ¶ When [f] the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory:

32 And [g] before him shall be gathered all nations: and [h] he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats:

33 And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left.

34 Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, [l] inherit the kingdom [m] prepared for you from the foundation of the world:

35 For [p] I was an hungred, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: [r] I was a stranger, and ye took me in:

36 Naked, [s] and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: [t] I was in prison, and ye came unto me.

37 Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, and fed thee? or thirsty, and gave thee drink?

38 When saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? or naked, and clothed thee?

39 Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee?

40 And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, [y] Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.

41 Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, [z] Depart from me, ye cursed, [a] into everlasting fire, prepared for [b] the devil and his angels:

42 For I was an hungred, and ye gave me no meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink:

43 I was a stranger, and ye took me not in: naked, and ye clothed me not: sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not.

44 Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee?

45 Then shall he answer them, saying, Verily I say unto you, [c] Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me.

46 And [d] these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal.

CHAP. XXVI.

AND it came to pass, when Jesus had finished all these sayings, he said unto his disciples,

2 Ye [e] know that after two days is the feast of the passover, and the Son of man is betrayed to be crucified.

3 Then [h] assembled together the chief priests, and the scribes, and the elders of the people, unto the palace of the high priest, who was called Caiaphas,

4 And consulted that they might take
Jesus by subtilty, and kill him.
5 But they said, Not on the feast day,
lest there be an uproar among the people.
6 ¶ Now [e] when Jesus was in [d] Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, 7 There came unto him a woman having an alabaster box of very precious ointment, and poured it on his head, as he sat at meat.
8 But [f] when his disciples saw it, they had indignation, saying, To what purpose is this waste?
9 For this ointment might have been sold for much, and given to the poor.
10 When Jesus understood it, he said unto them, Why trouble ye the woman?
for she hath wrought a good work upon me.
11 For [h] ye have the poor always with you; but [i] me ye have not always.
12 For in that she hath poured this ointment on my body, she did it for my burial.
13 Verily I say unto you, Wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, there shall also this, that this woman hath done, be told for a memorial of her.
14 ¶ Then [m] one of the twelve, called [n] Judas Iscariot, went unto the chief priests,
15 And said unto them, [o] What will ye give me, and I will deliver him unto you?
And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver.
16 And from that time he sought opportunity to betray him.
17 ¶ Now [m] the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover?
18 And he said, Go into the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Master saith, My time is at hand; I will keep the passover at thy house with my disciples.
19 And the disciples did as Jesus had appointed them; and they made ready the passover.
20 Now [p] when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve.
21 And as they did eat, he said, Verily
I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me.
22 And they were exceeding sorrowful, and began every one of them to say unto him, Lord, is it I?
23 And he answered and said, [q] He that dippeth his hand with me in the dish, the same shall betray me.
24 The Son of man goeth [h] as it is written of him: but [r] woe unto that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! it had been good for that man if he had not been born.
25 Then Judas, which betrayed him, answered and said, Master, is it I? He said unto him, Thou hast said.
26 ¶ And [e] as they were eating, [f] Jesus took bread, and † blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take,
eat; [t] this is my body.
27 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, [i] Drink ye all of it;
28 For [k] this is my blood [l] of the new testament, which is shed [m] for many for the remission of sins.
29 But I say unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, [u] until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom.

30 And [d] when they had sung an [o] hymn,
they went out into the mount of Olives.
31 Then saith Jesus unto them, All ye shall [v] be offended because of me this night:
for it is written, [s] I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad.
32 But after I am risen again, [f] I will go before you into Galilee.
33 Peter answered and said unto him,
Though all men shall be offended because of thee, yet will I never be offended.
34 Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, That this night, before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.
35 Peter said unto him, Though I should die with thee, yet will I not deny thee.
Likewise also said all the disciples.
36 ¶ Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder.
37 And he took with him Peter and [h] the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy.
38 Then saith he unto them, [i] My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death:
tarry ye here, and watch with me.
39 And he went a little further, and fell on his face, and [p] prayed, saying, [r] O my Father, if it be possible, [t] let this cup pass from me: nevertheless [t] not as I will, but as thou wilt.
40 And he cometh unto the disciples, and findeth them asleep, and saith unto Peter, What, could ye not watch with me one hour?
41 Watch [o] and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: [o] the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.
42 He went away again the second time, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup may not pass away from me, except I drink it, thy will be done.
43 And he came and found them asleep again: for their eyes were heavy.
44 And he left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words.
45 Then cometh he to his disciples, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners.
46 Rise, let us be going: behold, he is at hand that doth betray me.
47 ¶ And [e] while he yet spake, lo, Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and elders of the people.
48 Now he that betrayed him gave them a sign, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is he: hold him fast.
49 And forthwith he came to Jesus, and said, Hail, master; [d] and kissed him.
50 And Jesus said unto him, [t] Friend, wherefore art thou come? Then came they,
and laid hands on Jesus, and took him.
51 And, behold, one of them which were with Jesus stretched out his hand, and drew his sword, and struck a servant of the high priest's, and smote off his ear.
52 Then said Jesus unto him, Put up again thy sword into his place: [o] for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword.
53 Thinkest thou that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he shall presently give me [p] more than twelve legions of angels?

54 But how then shall the scriptures be fulfilled, [b] that thus it must be?

55 In that same hour said Jesus to the multitudes, Are ye come out as against a thief with swords and staves for to take me? I sat daily with you teaching in the temple, and ye laid no hold on me.

56 But all this was done, that the [c] scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled. Then [d] all the disciples forsook him, and fled.

57 ¶ And [e] they that had laid hold on Jesus led him away to Caiaphas the high priest, where the scribes and the elders were assembled.

58 But Peter followed him afar off unto the high priest's palace, and went in, and sat with the servants, to see the end.

59 Now the chief priests, and elders, and all the council, sought false witness against Jesus, to put him to death;

60 But found none: yea, though [f] many false witnesses came, yet found they none. At the last came [m] two false witnesses,

61 And said, This fellow said, [n] I am able to destroy the temple of God, and to build it in three days.

62 And the high priest arose, and said unto him, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these witness against thee?

63 But [p] Jesus held his peace. And the high priest answered and said unto him, [r] I adjure thee by the living God, that thou tell us whether thou be the Christ, the Son of God.

64 Jesus saith unto him, Thou hast said: nevertheless I say unto you, [s] Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man [t] sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

65 Then [u] the high priest rent his clothes, saying, He hath spoken blasphemy; what further need have we of witnesses? behold, now ye have heard his blasphemy.

66 What think ye? They answered and said, [p] He is guilty of death.

67 Then [x] did they spit in his face, and buffeted him; and [y] others smote him with [†] the palms of their hands,

68 Saying, Prophesy unto us, thou Christ, Who is he that smote thee?

69 ¶ Now Peter sat without in the palace: and a damsel came unto him, saying, Thou also wast with Jesus of Galilee.

70 But he denied before them all, saying, I know not what thou sayest.

71 And when he was gone out into the porch, another maid saw him, and said unto them that were there, This fellow was also with Jesus of Nazareth.

72 And again he denied with an oath, I do not know the man.

73 And after a while came unto him they that stood by, and said to Peter, Surely thou also art one of them; for thy [z] speech bewrayeth thee.

74 Then [a] began he to curse and to swear, saying, I know not the man. And immediately the cock crew.

75 And Peter remembered the word of Jesus, which said unto him, [b] Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. And he went out, and wept bitterly.

CHAP. XXVII.

WHEN the morning was come, [c] all the chief priests and elders of the people took counsel against Jesus to put him to death:

2 And when they had [m] bound him, they led him away, and [d] delivered him to Pontius Pilate the governor.

3 ¶ Then [e] Judas, which had betrayed him, when he saw that he was condemned, [f] repented himself, and brought again the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders,

4 Saying, [g] I have sinned in that I have betrayed the [h] innocent blood. And they said, What is that to us? see thou to that.

5 And he cast down the pieces of silver in the temple, [i] and departed, and went and hanged himself.

6 And the chief priests took the silver pieces, and said, It is not lawful for to put them into the treasury, because it is the price of blood.

7 And they took counsel, and bought with them the potter's field, to bury strangers in.

8 Wherefore that field was called, The field of blood, unto this day.

9 Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jeremy the prophet, saying, [k] And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of him that was valued, [l] whom they of the children of Israel did value;

10 And gave them for the potter's field, as the Lord appointed me.

11 And Jesus stood before the governor: and the governor asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And Jesus said unto him, [s] Thou sayest.

12 And when he was accused of the chief priests and elders, [t] he answered nothing.

13 Then said Pilate unto him, Hearest thou not how many things they witness against thee?

14 And he answered him to never a word; insomuch that the governor marvelled greatly.

15 Now at that feast the governor was wont to release unto the people a prisoner, whom they would.

16 And they had then a notable prisoner, called Barabbas.

17 Therefore when they were gathered together, Pilate said unto them, Whom will ye that I release unto you? Barabbas, or Jesus which is called Christ?

18 For he knew that for [u] envy they had delivered him.

19 ¶ When he was set down on the judgment seat, his wife sent unto him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that [x] just man: for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of him.

20 But [y] the chief priests and elders persuaded the multitude that they should ask Barabbas, and destroy Jesus.

21 The governor answered and said unto them, Whether of the twain will ye that I release unto you? They said, Barabbas.

22 Pilate saith unto them, What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ? They all say unto him, Let him be crucified.

23 And the governor said, [z] Why, what evil hath he done? But they cried out the more, saying, Let him be crucified.

24 ¶ When Pilate saw that he could prevail nothing, but that rather a tumult was made, [a] he took water, and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just person: see ye to it.

25 Then answered all the people, and said, [b] His blood be on us, and on our children.

26 ¶ Then released he Barabbas unto them: and when [a] he had scourged Jesus, he delivered him to be crucified.

27 Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus into the [b] common hall, and gathered unto him the whole [c] band of soldiers.

28 And they stripped him, and put on him a scarlet robe.

29 ¶ And [d] when they had platted a crown of thorns, they put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand: and they bowed the knee before him, and mocked him, saying, Hail, king of the Jews!

30 And [e] they spit upon him, and took the reed, and smote him on the head.

31 And after that they had mocked him, they took the robe off from him, and put his own raiment on him, [f] and led him away to crucify him.

32 And [g] as they came out, they found a man of Cyrene, Simon by name: him they compelled to bear his cross.

33 And when they were come unto a place called Golgotha, that is to say, a place of a skull, 34 ¶ They [h] gave him vinegar to drink mingled with gall: and when he had tasted thereof, he would not drink.

35 And [i] they crucified him, and parted his garments, casting lots: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, [j] They parted my garments among them, and upon my vesture did they cast lots.

36 And [k] sitting down they watched him there;

37 And set up over his head his accusation written, THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

38 Then [l] were there two thieves crucified with him, one on the right hand, and another on the left.

39 ¶ And [m] they that passed by reviled him, wagging their heads,

40 And saying, [n] Thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save thyself. [o] If thou be the Son of God, come down from the cross.

41 Likewise also the chief priests mocking him, with the scribes and elders, said, 42 He saved others; himself he cannot save. If he be the [p] King of Israel, let him now come down from the cross, and we will believe him.

43 He trusted in God; let him deliver him now, if he will have him: for he said, I am the Son of God.

44 The thieves also, which were crucified with him, cast the same in his teeth.

45 Now [q] from the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land unto the ninth hour.

46 And about the ninth hour [r] Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani? that is to say, [s] My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

47 Some of them that stood there, when they heard that, said, This man calleth for Elias.

48 And straightway one of them ran, and took a spunge, and filled it with vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink.

49 The rest said, Let be, let us see whether Elias will come to save him.

50 ¶ Jesus, when he had cried again with a loud voice, [t] yielded up the ghost.

51 And, behold, [u] the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom; and the earth did quake, and the rocks rent;

52 And the graves were opened; [v] and many bodies of the saints which slept arose,

53 And came out of the graves after his resurrection, and went into [w] the holy city, and appeared unto many.

54 Now when the centurion, and they that were with him, watching Jesus, saw the earthquake, and those things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, [x] Truly this was the Son of God.

55 And many women were there beholding afar off, [y] which followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering unto him:

56 Among which was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Joses, and the mother of Zebedee's children.

57 When the even was come, there came a rich man of [z] Arimathæa, named Joseph, who also himself was Jesus' disciple:

58 He went to Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be delivered.

59 And when Joseph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, 60 And [a] laid it in his own new tomb, which he had hewn out in the rock: and he rolled a great stone to the door of the sepulchre, and departed.

61 And there was Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary, sitting over against the sepulchre.

62 ¶ Now the next day, that followed the day of the preparation, [b] the chief priests and Pharisees came together unto Pilate, 63 Saying, Sir, we remember that [c] that deceiver said, while he was yet alive, [d] After three days I will rise again.

64 Command therefore that the sepulchre be made sure until the third day, lest his disciples come by night, and steal him away, and say unto the people, He is risen from the dead: so the last error shall be worse than the first.

65 Pilate said unto them, Ye have a watch: go your way, [e] make it as sure as ye can.

66 So they went, and made the sepulchre sure, [f] sealing the stone, and setting a watch.

CHAP. XXVIII.

IN the [g] end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene [h] and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.

2 And, behold, there [i] was a great earthquake: for [j] the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

3 His [k] countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow:

4 And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men.

5 And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.

6 He is not here: for he is risen, [l] as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

7 And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; and, behold, [m] he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you.

8 And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy; and did run to bring his disciples word.

9 ¶ And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, [a] Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet, and worshipped him.

10 Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid: go tell [b] my brethren that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see me.

11 ¶ Now when they were going, behold, some of the watch came into the city, and shewed unto the chief priests all the things that were done.

12 And when they were assembled with the elders, and had taken counsel, they gave large money unto the soldiers, 13 Saying, Say ye, His disciples came by night, and stole him away while we slept.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CH. II. 1.—BETHLEHEM. Bethlehem, the birth-place of Christ, is about six miles south of Jerusalem. Its name signifies 'the house of bread,' perhaps from the prolific valleys and fields around it. It is situated on the brow of a steep hill, in the midst of hills and vales, and is of no great extent, containing only about 300 houses. It was also called Bethlehem-Ephratah, a word supposed to signify fertility, Gen. xxxv. 19; Ruth iv. 11; Ps. cxxxii. 6. It was designated as Bethlehem of Judea, to distinguish it from a town of the same name in Galilee, Josh. xix. 15. And it was known by the name of the city of David (Luke ii. 4), because it was the city of his nativity (1 Sam. xvi. 1, 18.) The present inhabitants of Bethlehem are all Christians; and are rated at 600 taxable men, indicating a population of more than 3000 souls. There was formerly a Mohammedan quarter, but after the rebellion in 1834, this was destroyed by order of Ibrahim Pacha. The town has gates at the entrance of some of the streets: the houses are solidly built, but not large. The plantations around are olive, fig orchards, and vineyards. It is believed that no doubt has ever been thrown upon the fact that the present Bethlehem stands on the same site as the ancient city. Its distance corresponds to the six Roman miles of antiquity. Tradition, moreover, has never lost sight of Bethlehem; and in almost every century, since the times of the New Testament, it has been visited and mentioned by writers and travellers. 'The cave of the nativity,' says Robinson, 'has been pointed out as the place where Jesus was born, by a tradition which reaches back at least to the middle of the second century.' But the circumstance of the Saviour's being born in a cave would certainly have not been less remarkable than his having been laid in a manger; and it is natural to suppose that the sacred writer would not have passed it over in silence, as the evangelist Luke does, who simply relates that the virgin brought forth her first-born son, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn. 'The grotto, moreover, was and is at some distance from the town; and although there may be still occasional instances in Judea where a cavern is occupied as a stable, yet this is not now, and never was, the usual practice, especially in towns and their environs. Taking into account all these circumstances, and also the early and general tendency to invent and propagate legends of a similar character, and the prevailing custom of representing the gospel history as having taken place in grottoes, it would hardly seem consistent with a love of simple historic truth to attach much credit to this tradition.' A superstitious writer, who has published a small work on Palestine, under the direction of the Society for promoting Christian knowledge, informs us, that upon entering this grotto, he sank instinctively upon his knees: so do all the popish devotees, and the priests thus profit by their credulity. Herschell, with more judgment, observes, 'It is certainly possible that this cave may have been a place for cattle, belonging to an ancient khan or inn; but it is equally so that it was fixed upon, in the days of Helena, as the most convenient spot to which they could attach the tradition, without any sufficient warrant for doing so. As the sepulchre of Moses was hidden from the Israelites, so it may be better for us that an air of uncertainty hangs over the precise spots connected both with the birth and the death of Christ; that we may be kept from the worship of the visible, and from attaching peculiar sanctity to anything material, which has a necessary tendency to weaken our faith in the universal presence of Christ with his members.' Robinson's feelings on entering Bethlehem itself were natural, and his expressions of his emotions and impressions are beautiful. 'Bethlehem is celebrated in the Old Testament as the birth-place and city of David; and in the New, as that of David's greater Son, the Christ, the Saviour of the world. What a mighty influence for good has gone forth from this little spot upon the human race, both for time and for eternity! It is impossible to approach the place without a feeling of deep emotion, springing out of those high and holy associations. The legends and puerilities of monastic tradition may safely be disregarded: it is enough to know that this is Bethlehem, where Jesus the Redeemer was born. Generation after generation has, indeed, since that time, passed away, and their places now know them no more. For eighteen hundred seasons the earth has now renewed her carpet of verdure, and seen it again decay. Yet the skies and the fields, the rocks and the hills, and the valleys around, remain unchanged, and are still the same as when the glory of the Lord shone round about the shepherds, and the song of a multitude of the heavenly host resounded among the hills, proclaiming, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill toward men."'

CH. XXVI. 20.—ANCIENT TABLE. The Hebrews anciently sat at table (Gen. xxvii. 19, xliii. 33), but afterwards imitated the Persians and Chaldeans, who reclined on table-beds while eating. Some of these tables formed an oblong, with an opening to admit the servants in attendance on the guests. There were two side tables, and one cross table at the top, all being joined together. They had couches or beds placed close behind, instead of benches or chairs; and on these they reclined, leaning on the left elbow, and leaving the right hand and arm free. The passage above named is rendered "sat down," but rather signifies 'reclined.' In circular or crescent-formed tables, of which we have given a specimen, the right extremity was the first place of honour, and the left extremity the second place of honour. With regard to the paschal supper to which the text alludes, the Israelites were at first commanded to eat it standing, with staves in their hands, like persons setting out on a journey. The custom of taking it reclining was justified by the Rabbins, as emblematical of having taken their rest in the land of Canaan.

CHAP. I.

THE beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, [a] the Son of God;

2 As it is written in the prophets, [b] Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

3 The [c] voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.

4 John [d] did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance [e] for the remission of sins.

5 And there went out unto him all the land of Judæa, and they of Jerusalem, and were all baptized of him in the river of Jordan, confessing their sins.

6 And John was clothed with camel's hair, and with a girdle of a skin about his loins; and he did eat [h] locusts and wild honey;

7 And preached, saying, [i] There cometh one mightier than I after me, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to stoop down and unloose.

8 I [k] indeed have baptized you with water: but he shall baptize you [l] with the Holy Ghost.

9 And [m] it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan.

10 And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens † opened, and the Spirit like a dove descending upon him:

11 And there came a voice from heaven, saying, [n] Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

12 And [p] immediately the spirit driveth him into the wilderness.

13 And he was there in the wilderness forty days, tempted of Satan; and was with the wild beasts; and the angels ministered unto him.

14 Now [r] after that John was put in prison, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God,

15 And saying, [s] The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the gospel.

16 Now [t] as he walked by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and Andrew his brother casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers.

17 And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.

18 And straightway [v] they forsook their nets, and followed him.

19 And when he had gone a little farther thence, he saw James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, who also were in the ship mending their nets.

20 And straightway he called them: and they [x] left their father Zebedee in the ship with the hired servants, and went after him.

21 And they went into Capernaum; and straightway on the sabbath day he entered into the synagogue, and taught.

22 And [h] they were astonished at his doctrine: for he taught them as one that had authority, and not as the scribes.

23 And [j] there was in their synagogue a man with an unclean spirit; and he cried out,

24 Saying, Let us alone; [k] what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth? art thou come to destroy us? I know thee who thou art, [l] the Holy One of God.

25 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him.

26 And when the unclean spirit [m] had torn him, and cried with a loud voice, he came out of him.

27 And they were all amazed, insomuch that they questioned among themselves, saying, What thing is this? what new doctrine is this? for with authority commandeth he even the unclean spirits, and they do obey him.

28 And immediately his fame spread abroad throughout all the region round about Galilee.

29 And [n] forthwith, when they were come out of the synagogue, they entered into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John.

30 But Simon's wife's mother lay sick of a fever, and anon they tell him of her.

31 And he came and took her by the hand, and lifted her up; and immediately the fever left her, and she ministered unto them.

32 And at even, when the sun did set, they brought unto him all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with devils.

33 And all the city was gathered together at the door.

34 And he healed many that were sick of divers diseases, and cast out many devils; and [o] suffered not the devils ‡ to speak, because they knew him.

35 And [r] in the morning, rising up a great while before day, he went out, and departed into a solitary place, and there prayed.

36 And Simon and they that were with him followed after him.

37 And when they had found him, they said unto him, [s] All men seek for thee.

38 And he said unto them, Let us go into the next towns, that I may preach there also: for [t] therefore came I forth.

39 And [v] he preached in their synagogues throughout all Galilee, and cast out devils.

40 And [x] there came a leper to him, beseeching him, and kneeling down to him, and saying unto him, [y] If thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

41 And Jesus, [z] moved with compassion, put forth his hand, and touched him, and saith unto him, [a] I will; be thou clean.

42 And as soon as he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from him, and he was cleansed.

43 And he straitly charged him, and forthwith sent him away;

44 And saith unto him, See thou say nothing to any man: but go thy way, shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing those things [b] which Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them.

45 But he went out, and [c] began to publish it much, and to blaze abroad the matter, insomuch that Jesus could no more openly enter into the city, but was without in desert places: [d] and they came to him from every quarter.

after some days; and it was noised that he was in the house.

2 And straightway many were gathered together, insomuch that there was no room to receive them, no, not so much as about the door: [b] and he preached the word unto them.

3 And they come unto him, bringing one sick of the palsy, which was borne of four.

4 And when they could not come nigh unto him for the press, they uncovered the roof where he was: and when they had broken it up, they let down the bed wherein the sick of the palsy lay.

5 When Jesus saw [c] their faith, he said unto the sick of the palsy, Son, thy sins be forgiven thee.

6 But there were certain of the scribes sitting there, [d] and reasoning in their hearts,

7 Why doth this man thus speak blasphemies? [e] who can forgive sins but God only?

8 And immediately [f] when Jesus perceived in his spirit that they so reasoned within themselves, he said unto them, Why [f] reason ye these things in your hearts?

9 Whether is it easier to say to the sick of the palsy, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and take up thy bed, and walk?

10 But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (he saith to the sick of the palsy,)

11 I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy bed, and go thy way into thine house.

12 And [g] immediately he arose, took up the bed, and went forth before them all; insomuch that they were all amazed, and glorified God, saying, We never saw it on this fashion.

13 And [h] he went forth again by the sea side; and all the multitude resorted unto him, and he taught them.

14 And [i] as he passed by, he saw Levi the son of Alphæus sitting [k] at the receipt of custom, and said unto him, Follow me. And he arose and followed him.

15 And it came to pass, that, as Jesus sat at meat in his house, many publicans and sinners sat also together with Jesus and his disciples: for there were many, and they followed him.

16 And when the scribes and Pharisees saw him eat with publicans and sinners, they said unto his disciples, How is it that he eateth and drinketh with publicans and sinners?

17 When Jesus heard it, he saith unto them, [l] They that are whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick: [m] I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

18 And the disciples of John and of the Pharisees used to fast: and they come and say unto him, Why do the disciples of John and of the Pharisees fast, but thy disciples fast not?

19 And Jesus said unto them, [n] Can the children of the bridechamber fast, while the bridegroom is with them? as long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast.

20 But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then shall they fast in those days.

21 No man also [o] seweth a piece of ‖ new cloth on an old garment: [p] else the new piece that filled it up taketh away from the old, and the rent is made worse.

22 And no man putteth new wine into old bottles: else the new wine doth burst, the bottles, and the wine is spilled, and the bottles will be marred: but new wine must be put into new bottles.

23 And [o] it came to pass, that he went through the corn fields on the sabbath day; and his disciples began, as they went, [r] to pluck the ears of corn.

24 And the Pharisees said unto him, Behold, why do they on the sabbath day that which is not lawful?

25 And he said unto them, Have ye never read [s] what David did, when he had need, and was an hungred, he, and they that were with him?

26 How he went into the house of God in the days of Abiathar the high priest, and did eat the shewbread, [t] which is not lawful to eat but for the priests, and gave also to them which were with him?

27 And he said unto them, The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath:

28 Therefore [u] the Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath.

CHAP. III.

AND [a] he entered again into the synagogue; and there was a man there which had a withered hand.

2 And they watched him, whether he would heal him on the sabbath day; that they might accuse him.

3 And he saith unto the man which had the withered hand, [b] Stand forth.

4 And he saith unto them, [c] Is it lawful to do good on the sabbath days, or to do evil? to save life, or to kill? But they held their peace.

5 And when he had looked round about on them with anger, being grieved for the † hardness of their hearts, he saith unto the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he stretched it out: and his hand was restored whole as the other.

6 And [d] the Pharisees went forth, and straightway took counsel with [e] the Herodians against him, how they might destroy him.

7 But Jesus withdrew himself with his disciples to the sea: and a great multitude from Galilee followed him, [f] and from Judæa,

8 And from Jerusalem, and from Idumæa, and from beyond Jordan; and they about Tyre and Sidon, a great multitude, when they had heard what great things he did, came unto him.

9 And he spake to his disciples, that a small ship should wait on him because of the multitude, lest they should throng him.

10 For he had healed many; insomuch that they § pressed upon him for to touch him, [g] as many as had plagues.

11 And [h] unclean spirits, when they saw him, fell down before him, and cried, saying, [i] Thou art the Son of God.

12 And [k] he straitly charged them that they should not make him known.

13 And [l] he goeth up into a mountain, and calleth unto him whom he would: and they came unto him.

14 And he [m] ordained twelve, that they should be with him, and that he might send them forth to preach,

15 And to have power to heal sicknesses, and to cast out devils:

16 And Simon [n] he surnamed Peter;

17 And James the son of Zebedee, and John the brother of James; and he surnamed them Boanerges, which is, [o] The sons of thunder:

18 And Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James the son of Alphæus, and Thaddæus, and Simon the Canaanite, 19 And Judas Iscariot, which also betrayed him: and they went [a] into an house.

20 And the multitude cometh together again, [b] so that they could not so much as eat bread.

21 And when his [†] friends heard of it, they went out to lay hold on him: [d] for they said, He is beside himself.

22 ¶ And the scribes which came down from Jerusalem said, [f] He hath Beelzebub, and by the prince of the devils casteth he out devils.

23 And [g] he called them unto him, and said unto them in parables, How can Satan cast out Satan?

24 And if a kingdom be divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand.

25 And if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot stand.

26 And if Satan rise up against himself, and be divided, he cannot stand, but hath an end.

27 No [i] man can enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he will first bind the strong man; and then he will spoil his house.

28 Verily I say unto you, [l] All sins shall be forgiven unto the sons of men, and blasphemies wherewith soever they shall blaspheme:

29 But [m] he that shall blaspheme against the Holy Ghost hath [n] never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal damnation:

30 Because they said, He hath an unclean spirit.

31 ¶ [o] There [p] came then his brethren and his mother, and, standing without, sent unto him, calling him.

32 And the multitude sat about him, and they said unto him, Behold, thy mother and thy brethren without seek for thee.

33 And he answered them, saying, [q] Who is my mother, or my brethren?

34 And he looked round about on them which sat about him, and said, [r] Behold my mother and my brethren!

35 For whosoever shall do the will of God, [s] the same is my brother, and my sister, and mother.

CHAP. IV.

AND [a] he began again to teach by the sea side: and there was gathered unto him a great multitude, so that he entered into a ship, and sat in the sea; and the whole multitude was by the sea on the land.

2 And he taught them many things [e] by parables, [d] and said unto them in his doctrine,

3 Hearken; Behold, [f] there went out a sower to sow:

4 And it came to pass, as he sowed, some fell by the way side, and the fowls of the air came and devoured it up.

5 And some fell on stony ground, where it had not much earth; and immediately it sprang up, because it had no depth of earth:

6 But when [g] the sun was up, it was scorched; and because it had [i] no root, it withered away.

7 And some fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up, and choked it, and it yielded no fruit.

8 And other fell on good ground, [l] and did yield fruit that sprang up and increased; and brought forth, some thirty, and some sixty, and some an hundred.

9 And he said unto them, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

10 And [d] when he was alone, they that were about him with the twelve asked of him the parable.

11 And he said unto them, Unto you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God: but unto [e] them that are without, all these things are done in parables:

12 That [e] seeing they may see, and not perceive; and hearing they may hear, and not understand; lest at any time they should be converted, and their sins should be forgiven them.

13 And he said unto them, Know ye not this parable? and how then will ye know all parables?

14 ¶ The [a] sower soweth the word.

15 And these are they by the way side, where the word is sown; but when they have heard, Satan cometh immediately, and taketh away the word that was sown in their hearts.

16 And these are they likewise which are sown on stony ground; who, when they have heard the word, immediately receive it with gladness;

17 And [h] have no root in themselves, and so endure but for a time: afterward, when affliction or persecution ariseth for the word's sake, immediately they are offended.

18 And these are they which are sown among thorns; such as hear the word,

19 And the cares of this world, [e] and the deceitfulness of riches, and the lusts of other things entering in, choke the word, and it becometh unfruitful.

20 And these are they [r] which are sown on good ground; such as hear the word, and receive it, and bring forth fruit, some thirtyfold, some sixty, and some an hundred.

21 ¶ And [t] he said unto them, Is a candle brought to be put under a ‡ bushel, or under a bed? and not to be set on a candlestick?

22 For [u] there is nothing hid, which shall not be manifested; neither was any thing kept secret, but that it should come abroad.

23 If [v] any man have ears to hear, let him hear.

24 And he said unto them, Take heed what ye hear: [d] with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you: and unto you that hear shall more be given.

25 For [b] he that hath, to him shall be given: and he that hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he hath.

26 ¶ And he said, [c] So is the kingdom of God, as if a man should cast seed into the ground;

27 And should sleep, and rise night and day, and the seed should spring and grow up, he knoweth not how.

28 For the earth bringeth forth fruit of herself; first the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear.

29 But when the fruit is § brought forth, immediately [k] he putteth in the sickle, because the harvest is come.

30 ¶ And he said, [k] Whereunto shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?

31 It is like a grain of mustard seed, which, when it is sown in the earth, is less than all the seeds that be in the earth:

A. D. 31.

32 But when it is sown, it groweth up, and becometh greater than all herbs, and shooteth out great branches; so that the fowls of the air may lodge under the shadow of it.

33 And [a] with many such parables spake he the word unto them, as they were able to hear it.

34 But without a parable spake he not unto them: and when they were alone, he expounded all things to his disciples.

35 And [d] the same day, when the even was come, he saith unto them, Let us pass over unto the other side.

36 And when they had sent away the multitude, they took him even as he was in the ship. And there were also with him other little ships.

37 And there arose a great storm of wind, [g] and the waves beat into the ship, so that it was now full.

38 And he was in the hinder part of the ship, [h] asleep on a pillow: and they awake him, and say unto him, Master, [i] carest thou not that we perish?

39 And he arose, [l] and rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, Peace, be still. And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm.

40 And he said unto them, [m] Why are ye so fearful? how is it that ye have no faith?

41 And they feared exceedingly, and said one to another, What manner of man is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?

CHAP. V.

AND [o] they came over unto the other side of the sea, into the country of the Gadarenes.

2 And when he was come out of the ship, immediately there met him out of the tombs a man with an unclean spirit,

3 Who had his dwelling among the tombs; and no man could bind him, no, not with chains:

4 Because that he had been often bound with fetters and chains, and the chains had been plucked asunder by him, and the fetters broken in pieces: neither could any man tame him.

5 And always, night and day, he was in the mountains, and in the tombs, crying, and cutting himself with stones.

6 But when he saw Jesus afar off, he ran and worshipped him,

7 And cried with a loud voice, and said, [s] What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of the most high God? I adjure thee by God, [n] that thou torment me not.

8 For he said unto him, [p] Come out of the man, thou unclean spirit.

9 And he asked him, What is thy name? And he answered, saying, My name is [r] Legion: for we are many.

10 And he besought him much that he would not send them away out of the country.

11 Now there was there nigh unto the mountains a great herd of [t] swine feeding.

12 And [u] all the devils besought him, saying, Send us into the swine, that we may enter into them.

13 And forthwith [x] Jesus gave them leave. And the unclean spirits went out, and entered into the swine: and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the sea, (they were about two thousand;) and were choked in the sea.

14 And they that fed the swine fled, and told it in the city, and in the country. And they went out to see what it was that was done.

15 And they come to Jesus, and see him that was possessed with the devil, and had the legion, sitting, and clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid.

16 And [b] they that saw it told them how it befell to him that was possessed with the devil, and also concerning the swine.

17 And [c] they began to pray him to depart out of their coasts.

18 And when he was come into the ship, [z] he that had been possessed with the devil prayed him that he might be with him.

19 Howbeit Jesus suffered him not, but saith unto him, [f] Go home to thy friends, and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee, and hath had compassion on thee.

20 And he departed, and began to publish in Decapolis how great things Jesus had done for him: and all men did marvel.

21 And [e] when Jesus was passed over again by ship unto the other side, much people gathered unto him: and he was nigh unto the sea.

22 And, behold, there cometh one of the rulers of the synagogue, Jairus by name; and when he saw him, he fell at his feet,

23 And [a] besought him greatly, saying, My little daughter lieth at the point of death: I pray thee, come and lay thy hands on her, that she may be healed; and she shall live.

24 And Jesus went with him; and much people followed him, and thronged him.

25 And a certain woman, [b] which had an issue of blood twelve years,

26 And had suffered many things of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and was nothing bettered, but rather grew worse,

27 When she had heard of Jesus, came in the press behind, and [c] touched his garment.

28 For she said, If I may touch but his clothes, I shall be whole.

29 And [f] straightway the fountain of her blood was dried up; and she felt in her body that she was healed of that plague.

30 And Jesus, immediately knowing in himself that [e] virtue had gone out of him, turned him about in the press, and said, Who touched my clothes?

31 And his disciples said unto him, Thou seest the multitude thronging thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?

32 And he looked round about to see her that had done this thing.

33 But the woman fearing and trembling, knowing what was done in her, came and fell down before him, and told him all the truth.

34 And he said unto her, Daughter, [g] thy faith hath made thee whole; [h] go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.

35 While [k] he yet spake, there came from the ruler of the synagogue's house certain which said, Thy daughter is dead: why troublest thou the Master any further?

36 As soon as Jesus heard the word that was spoken, he saith unto the ruler of the synagogue, Be not afraid, only believe.

37 And he suffered no man to follow him, [c] save Peter, and James, and John the brother of James.

38 And he cometh to the house of the ruler of the synagogue, and seeth the tumult, and them that wept and wailed greatly.

39 And when he was come in, he saith unto them, Why make ye this ado, and weep? the damsel is not dead, but [a] sleepeth.

40 And they laughed him to scorn. [b] But when he had put them all out, he taketh the father and the mother of the damsel, and them that were with him, and entereth in where the damsel was lying.

41 And he took the damsel by the hand, and said unto her, Talitha cumi; which is, being interpreted, Damsel, [c] I say unto thee, arise.

42 And straightway the damsel arose, and walked; for she was of the age of twelve years. And they were astonished with a great astonishment.

43 And [f] he charged them straitly that no man should know it; and commanded that something should be given her to eat.

CHAP. VI.

AND [h] he went out from thence, and came into his own country; and his disciples follow him.

2 And when the sabbath day was come, he began to teach in the synagogue: and many hearing him were astonished, saying, [k] From whence hath this man these things? and what wisdom is this which is given unto him, that even such mighty works are wrought by his hands?

3 Is not this the carpenter, the son of Mary, [m] the brother of James, and Joses, and of Juda, and Simon? and are not his sisters here with us? And they [n] were offended at him.

4 But Jesus said unto them, [o] A prophet is not without honour, but in his own country, and among his own kin, and in his own house.

5 And [p] he could there do no mighty work, save that he laid his hands upon a few sick folk, and healed them.

6 And [r] he marvelled because of their unbelief. [s] And he went round about the villages, teaching.

7 ¶ And [t] he called unto him the twelve, and began to send them forth by two and two; and gave them power over unclean spirits;

8 And commanded them that they should take nothing for their journey, save a staff only; no scrip, no bread, no ‖ money in their purse:

9 But [u] be shod with sandals; and not put on two coats.

10 And [x] he said unto them, In what place soever ye enter into an house, there abide till ye depart from that place.

11 And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear you, when ye depart thence, [y] shake off the dust under your feet for a testimony against them. Verily I say unto you, It shall be more tolerable for Sodom ‖ and Gomorrha in the day of judgment, than for that city.

12 And they went out, and preached that men should repent.

13 And they cast out many devils, [z] and anointed with oil many that were sick, and healed them.

14 And [a] king Herod heard of him; (for his name was spread abroad:) and he said, That John the Baptist was risen from the dead, and therefore mighty works do shew forth themselves in him.

15 Others said, That it is Elias. And others said, That it is a prophet, or as one of the prophets.

16 But [b] when Herod heard thereof, he said, It is John, whom I beheaded: he is risen from the dead.

17 For Herod himself had sent forth and laid hold upon John, and bound him in prison for Herodias' sake, his brother Philip's wife: for he had married her.

18 For John had said unto Herod, [c] It is not lawful for thee to have thy brother's wife.

19 Therefore Herodias had [d] a quarrel against him, and would have killed him; but she could not:

20 For Herod [e] feared John, knowing that he was a just man and an holy, and observed him; and when he heard him, he did many things, and heard him gladly.

21 And when a convenient day was come, that Herod [f] on his birthday made a supper to his lords, high captains, and chief estates of Galilee;

22 And when the daughter of the said Herodias came in, and danced, and pleased Herod and them that sat with him, the king said unto the damsel, Ask of me whatsoever thou wilt, and I will give it thee.

23 And he sware unto her, [i] Whatsoever thou shalt ask of me, I will give it thee, unto the half of my kingdom.

24 And she went forth, and said unto her mother, What shall I ask? And she said, The head of John the Baptist.

25 And she came in [l] straightway with haste unto the king, and asked, saying, I will that thou give me by and by in a charger the head of John the Baptist.

26 And the king was exceeding sorry; yet for his oath's sake, and for their sakes which sat with him, he would not reject her.

27 And immediately the king sent [m] an executioner, and commanded his head to be brought: and he went and beheaded him in the prison,

28 And brought his head in a charger, and gave it to the damsel: and the damsel gave it to her mother.

29 And when his disciples heard of it, [n] they came and took up his corpse, and laid it in a tomb.

30 And [o] the apostles gathered themselves together unto Jesus, and told him all things, both what they had done, and what they had taught.

31 And he said unto them, Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest a while: for [p] there were many coming and going, and they had no leisure so much as to eat.

32 And [q] they departed into a desert place by ship privately.

33 And the people saw them departing, and many knew him, and ran afoot thither out of all cities, and outwent them, and came together unto him.

34 And [r] Jesus, when he came out, saw much people, and was moved with compassion toward them, because they were as sheep not having a shepherd: and [s] he began to teach them many things.

35 And when the day was now far spent, his disciples came unto him, and said, This is a desert place, and now the time is far passed:

36 Send them away, that they may go into the country round about, and into the villages, and buy themselves bread: for they have nothing to eat.

37 He answered and said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they say unto him, [t] Shall we go and buy two hundred [u]pennyworth of bread, and give them to eat?

38 He saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? go and see. And when they knew, they say, [n]Five, and two fishes.

39 And he commanded them to make all sit down by companies upon the green grass.

40 And they sat down in ranks, by hundreds, and by fifties.

41 And when he had taken the five loaves and the two fishes, he looked up to heaven, [o]and blessed, and brake the loaves, and gave them to his disciples to set before them; and the two fishes divided he among them all.

42 And [p]they did all eat, and were filled.

43 And they took up twelve baskets full of the fragments, and of the fishes.

44 And they that did eat of the loaves were about five thousand men.

45 And [q] straightway he constrained his disciples to get into the ship, and to go to the other side before unto Bethsaida, while he sent away the people.

46 And when he had sent them away, he departed into a mountain to pray.

47 And when even was come, the ship was in the midst of the sea, and he alone on the land.

48 And he saw them [r]toiling in rowing; for the wind was contrary unto them: and about the fourth watch of the night [s] he cometh unto them, walking upon the sea, and [t] would have passed by them.

49 But when they saw him walking upon the sea, they supposed it had been a spirit, [u] and cried out:

50 For they all saw him, and were troubled. And immediately he talked with them, and saith unto them, [v] Be of good cheer: it is I; be not afraid.

51 And he went up unto them into the ship; and the wind ceased: and they were sore amazed in themselves beyond measure, and wondered.

52 For [w] they considered not the miracle of the loaves: for their [x] heart was hardened.

53 And [y] when they had passed over, they came into the land of Gennesaret, and drew to the shore.

54 And when they were come out of the ship, straightway they knew him,

55 And ran through that whole region round about, and began to carry about in beds those that were sick, where they heard he was.

56 And whithersoever he entered, into villages, or cities, or country, they laid the sick in the streets, and besought him that [z] they might touch if it were but the border of his garment: and as many as touched [§] him were made whole.

CHAP. VII.

THEN [a] came together unto him the Pharisees, and certain of the scribes, which came from Jerusalem.

2 And when they saw some of his disciples eat bread with [b] defiled, that is to say, with unwashen, hands, they found fault.

3 For the Pharisees, and all the Jews, except they wash their hands [†] oft, eat not, holding the tradition of the elders.

4 And when they come from the market, except they wash, they eat not. And many other things there be, which they have received to hold, as the washing of cups, and [‡] pots, brasen vessels, and of [§] tables.

5 Then the Pharisees and scribes asked him, Why walk not thy disciples according to the tradition of the elders, but eat bread with unwashen hands?

6 He answered and said unto them, Well hath Esaias prophesied of you hypocrites, as it is written, [b] This people honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me.

7 Howbeit [c]in vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

8 For laying aside the commandment of God, ye hold [d] the tradition of men, as the washing of pots and cups: and many other such like things ye do.

9 And he said unto them, Full well ye [e] reject the commandment of God, that ye may keep your own tradition.

10 For Moses said, [f] Honour thy father and thy mother; and, [g] Whoso curseth father or mother, let him die the death:

11 But ye say, If a man shall say to his father or mother, It is [h] Corban, that is to say, a gift, by whatsoever thou mightest be profited by me; he shall be free.

12 And ye suffer him no more to do ought for his father or his mother;

13 Making the word of God of none effect through your tradition, which ye have delivered: and many such like things do ye.

14 ¶ And [i] when he had called all the people unto him, he said unto them, Hearken unto me every one of you, and understand:

15 There is nothing from without a man, that entering into him can defile him: but the things which come out of him, those are they that defile the man.

16 If [k] any man have ears to hear, let him hear.

17 And when he was entered into the house from the people, his disciples asked him concerning the parable.

18 And he saith unto them, [l] Are ye so without understanding also? Do ye not perceive, that whatsoever thing from without entereth into the man, [m] cannot defile him;

19 Because it entereth not into his heart, but into the belly, and goeth out into the draught, purging all meats?

20 And he said, [n] That which cometh out of the man, that defileth the man.

21 For [o] from within, out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders,

22 Thefts, ‡ covetousness, wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, an evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness:

23 All these evil things come from within, [p] and defile the man.

24 ¶ And [q] from thence he arose, and went into the borders of Tyre and Sidon, and entered into an house, [r] and would have no man know it: but he could not be hid.

25 For a certain woman, whose young daughter had an unclean spirit, heard of him, and came and fell at his feet:

26 The woman was a [s] Greek, a Syrophenician by nation; and she besought him that he would cast forth the devil out of her daughter.

27 But Jesus said unto her, [t] Let the children first be filled: for it is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it unto the dogs.

28 And she answered and said unto him, Yes, Lord: yet the dogs under the table eat of the children's crumbs.

29 And he said unto her, For this saying go thy way; the devil is gone out of thy daughter.

30 And when she was come to her house, she found the devil gone out, and her daughter laid upon the bed.

31 ¶ And [h] again, departing from the coasts of Tyre and Sidon, he came unto the sea of Galilee, through the midst of the coasts of Decapolis.

32 And [c] they bring unto him one that was deaf, and had an impediment in his speech; and they beseech him to put his hand upon him.

33 And he took him aside from the multitude, and put his fingers into his ears, and [f] he spit, and touched his tongue;

34 And [g] looking up to heaven, [h] he sighed, and saith unto him, Ephphatha, that is, Be opened.

35 And [i] straightway his ears were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed, and he spake plain.

36 And [l] he charged them that they should tell no man: but the more he charged them, so much the more a great deal they published it;

37 And were beyond measure astonished, saying, [m] He hath done all things well: he maketh both the deaf to hear, and the dumb to speak.

CHAP. VIII.

IN those days [p] the multitude being very great, and having nothing to eat, Jesus called his disciples unto him, and saith unto them,

2 I [q] have compassion on the multitude, because they have now been with me three days, and have nothing to eat:

3 And if I send them away fasting to their own houses, they will faint by the way: for divers of them came from far.

4 And his disciples answered him, From whence can a man satisfy these men with bread here in the wilderness?

5 And [r] he asked them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven.

6 And he commanded the people to sit down on the ground: and he took the seven loaves, [s] and gave thanks, and brake, and gave to his disciples to set before them; and they did set them before the people.

7 And they had a few small fishes: and [t] he blessed, and commanded to set them also before them.

8 So they did eat, and were filled: [u] and they took up of the broken meat that was left seven baskets.

9 And they that had eaten were about four thousand: and he sent them away.

10 ¶ And [c] straightway he entered into a ship with his disciples, and came into the parts of Dalmanutha.

11 And [f] the Pharisees came forth, and began to question with him, seeking of him a sign from heaven, [k] tempting him.

12 And he sighed deeply in his spirit, and saith, Why doth this generation seek after a sign? verily I say unto you, There shall no sign be given unto this generation.

13 And [c] he left them, and entering into the ship again departed to the other side.

14 ¶ Now the disciples had forgotten to take bread, neither had they in the ship with them more than one loaf.

15 And he charged them, saying, Take heed, beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the leaven of Herod.

16 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is because we have no bread.

17 And when Jesus knew it, he saith unto them, Why reason ye, because ye have no bread? [x] perceive ye not yet, neither understand? have ye your heart yet hardened?

18 Having eyes, see ye not? and having ears, hear ye not? and do ye not remember?

19 When [d] I brake the five loaves among five thousand, how many baskets full of fragments took ye up? They say unto him, Twelve.

20 And [e] when the seven among four thousand, how many baskets full of fragments took ye up? And they said, Seven.

21 And he said unto them, How is it that [c] ye do not understand?

22 ¶ And he cometh to Bethsaida; and they bring a blind man unto him, and besought him to touch him.

23 And he took the blind man by the hand, and led him out of the town; and when [m] he had spit on his eyes, and put his hands upon him, he asked him if he saw ought.

24 And he looked up, and said, I see men as trees, walking.

25 After that he put his hands again upon his eyes, and made him look up: and he was restored, [a] and saw every man clearly.

26 And he sent him away to his house, saying, Neither go into the town, [f] nor tell it to any in the town.

27 ¶ And [r] Jesus went out, and his disciples, into the towns of Cæsarea Philippi: and by the way he asked his disciples, saying unto them, Whom do men say that I am?

28 And they answered, [t] John the Baptist: but some say, Elias; and others, One of the prophets.

29 And he saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Peter answereth and saith unto him, [w] Thou art the Christ.

30 And he charged them that they should tell no man of him.

31 And [g] he began to teach them, that the Son of man must suffer many things, and be [g] rejected of the elders, and of the chief priests, and scribes, and be killed, and after three days rise again.

32 And he spake that saying openly. And Peter took him, and began to rebuke him.

33 But when he had turned about and looked on his disciples, he rebuked Peter, saying, Get thee behind me, Satan: for thou savourest not the things that be of God, but the things that be of men.

34 ¶ And when he had called the people unto him with his disciples also, he said unto them, [d] Whosoever will come after me, [e] let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.

35 For [f] whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, the same shall save it.

36 For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?

37 Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

38 Whosoever [h] therefore shall [l] be ashamed of me and of my words in this adulterous and sinful generation; of him also shall the Son of man be ashamed, [m] when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the holy angels.

CHAP. IX.

AND he said unto them, [b] Verily I say unto you, That there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen [c] the kingdom of God come with power.

2 ¶ And [d] after six days Jesus taketh with him Peter, and James, and John, and leadeth them up into an high mountain apart by themselves: and he was transfigured before them.

3 And his raiment became shining, exceeding f white as snow; so as no fuller on earth can white them.

4 And [g] there appeared unto them Elias with Moses: and they were talking with Jesus.

5 And Peter answered and said to Jesus, Master, i it is good for us to be here: and let us make three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

6 For he wist not what to say; for they were sore afraid.

7 And there was a cloud that overshadowed them: and a voice came out of the cloud, saying, This is my beloved Son: hear him.

8 And suddenly, when they had looked round about, they saw no man any more, save Jesus only with themselves.

9 And as they came down from the mountain, he charged them that they should tell no man what things they had seen, till the Son of man were risen from the dead.

10 And they kept that saying with themselves, questioning one with another what the rising from the dead should mean.

11 ¶ And they asked him, saying, Why say the scribes [m] that Elias must first come?

12 And he answered and told them, Elias verily cometh first, and restoreth all things; and [n] how it is written of the Son of man, that he must suffer many things, and [p] be set at nought.

13 But I say unto you, That [q] Elias is indeed come, and they have done unto him whatsoever they listed, as it is written of him.

14 ¶ And [r] when he came to his disciples, he saw a great multitude about them, and the scribes questioning with them.

15 And straightway all the people, when they beheld him, were greatly amazed, and running to him saluted him.

16 And he asked the scribes, What question ye [s] with them?

17 And one of the multitude answered and said, Master, I have brought unto thee my son, which hath a dumb spirit;

18 And wheresoever he taketh him, he [t] teareth him: and he foameth, and gnasheth with his teeth, and pineth away: and I spake to thy disciples that they should cast him out; and they could not.

19 He answereth him, and saith, [u] O faithless generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him unto me.

20 And they brought him unto him: and [v] when he saw him, straightway the spirit tare him; and he fell on the ground, and wallowed foaming.

21 And he asked his father, How long is it ago since this came unto him? And he said, Of a child.

22 And oftimes it hath cast him into the fire, and into the waters, to destroy him: but if thou canst do any thing, have compassion on us, and help us.

23 Jesus said unto him, [w] If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth.

24 And straightway the father of the child cried out, and said with tears, Lord, I believe; [x] help thou mine unbelief.

25 When Jesus saw that the people came running together, he rebuked the foul spirit, saying unto him, Thou dumb and deaf spirit, I charge thee, come out of him, and enter no more into him.

26 And the spirit cried, and rent him sore, and came out of him: and he was as one dead; insomuch that many said, He is dead.

27 But Jesus took him by the hand, and lifted him up; and he arose.

28 And [y] when he was come into the house, his disciples asked him privately, Why could not we cast him out?

29 And he said unto them, This kind can come forth by nothing, but by prayer and fasting.

30 ¶ And they departed thence, and passed through Galilee; and he would not that any man should know it.

31 For he taught his disciples, and said unto them, The Son of man is delivered into the hands of men, and they shall kill him; and after that he is killed, he shall rise the third day.

32 But they understood not that saying, and were afraid to ask him.

33 ¶ And [z] he came to Capernaum: and being in the house he asked them, [a] What was it that ye disputed among yourselves by the way?

34 But they held their peace: for by the way they had disputed among themselves, who should be the greatest.

35 And he sat down, and called the twelve, and saith unto them, [b] If any man desire to be first, the same shall be last of all, and servant of all.

36 And [c] he took a child, and set him in the midst of them: and when he had taken him in his arms, he said unto them,

37 Whosoever shall receive one of such children in my name, receiveth me: and [d] whosoever shall receive me, receiveth not me, but him that sent me.

38 ¶ And [e] John answered him, saying, Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name, and he followeth not us: and we forbad him, because he followeth not us.

39 But Jesus said, Forbid him not: [f] for there is no man which shall do a miracle in my name, that can lightly speak evil of me.

40 For [g] he that is not against us is on our part.

41 For whosoever shall give you a cup of water to drink in my name, because ye belong to Christ, verily I say unto you, he shall not lose his reward.

42 And [h] whosoever shall offend one of these little ones that believe in me, it is better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were cast into the sea.

43 And [i] if thy hand † offend thee, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter into life maimed, than having two hands to go into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched:

44 Where [k] their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.

45 And if thy foot offend thee, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter halt into life, than having two feet to be cast into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched:

46 Where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.

47 And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out: it is better for thee to enter into the kingdom of God with one eye, than having two eyes to be cast into hell fire:

48 Where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.

49 For every one shall be salted with fire, [b] and every sacrifice shall be salted with salt.

50 Salt [c] is good: but if the salt have lost his saltness, wherewith will ye season it? [d] Have salt in yourselves, and [e] have peace one with another.

CHAP. X.

AND [f] he arose from thence, and cometh into the coasts of Judæa by the farther side of Jordan: and the people resort unto him again; and, as he was wont, he taught them again.

2 ¶ And the Pharisees came to him, and asked him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife? tempting him.

3 And he answered and said unto them, What did Moses command you?

4 And they said, [h] Moses suffered to write a bill of divorcement, and to put her away.

5 And Jesus answered and said unto them, For the hardness of your heart he wrote you this precept.

6 But from the beginning of the creation [m] God made them male and female.

7 For [n] this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife;

8 And they twain shall be one flesh: so then they are no more twain, but one flesh.

9 What [p] therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.

10 And in the house his disciples asked him again of the same matter.

11 And he saith unto them, [r] Whosoever shall put away his wife, and marry another, committeth adultery against her.

12 And if a woman shall put away her husband, and be married to another, she committeth adultery.

13 ¶ And [u] they brought young children to him, that he should touch them: and his disciples rebuked those that brought them.

14 But when Jesus saw it, he was much displeased, and said unto them, [y] Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for [a] of such is the kingdom of God.

15 Verily I say unto you, [c] Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein.

16 And he took them up in his arms, put his hands upon them, and blessed them.

17 ¶ And [d] when he was gone forth into the way, there came one running, and kneeled to him, and asked him, Good Master, [f] what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?

18 And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God.

19 Thou knowest the [h] commandments, Do not commit adultery, Do not kill, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Defraud not, Honour thy father and mother.

20 And he answered and said unto him, Master, all these have I observed from my youth.

21 Then Jesus beholding him loved him, and said unto him, One thing thou lackest: go thy way, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have [o] treasure in heaven: and come, take up the cross, and follow me.

22 And he was sad at that saying, and went away grieved: for he had great possessions.

23 ¶ And Jesus looked round about, and saith unto his disciples, How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!

24 And the disciples were astonished at his words. But Jesus answereth again, and saith unto them, Children, how hard is it for them [s] that trust in riches to enter into the kingdom of God!

25 It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 And they were astonished out of measure, saying among themselves, Who then can be saved?

27 And Jesus looking upon them saith, With men it is impossible, but not with God: for [k] with God all things are possible.

28 ¶ Then [l] Peter began to say unto him, Lo, we have left all, and have followed thee.

29 And Jesus answered and said, Verily I say unto you, There is no man that hath left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my sake, and the gospel's,

30 But [l] he shall receive an hundredfold now in this time, houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands, with persecutions; and in the world to come eternal life.

31 But [e] many that are first shall be last; and the last first.

32 ¶ And [t] they were in the way going up to Jerusalem; and Jesus went before them: and they were amazed; and as they followed, they were afraid. [e] And he took again the twelve, and began to tell them what things should happen unto him,

33 Saying, [t] Behold, we go up to Jerusalem; and the Son of man shall be delivered unto the chief priests, and unto the scribes; and [v] they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him to the Gentiles:

34 And they shall [e] mock him, and shall scourge him, and shall spit upon him, and shall kill him: and [f] the third day he shall rise again.

35 ¶ And [b] James and John, the sons of Zebedee, come unto him, saying, Master, [d] we would that thou shouldest do for us whatsoever we shall desire.

36 And he said unto them, What would ye that I should do for you?

37 They said unto him, Grant unto us that we may sit, one on thy right hand, and the other on thy left hand, in thy glory.

38 But Jesus said unto them, [f] Ye know not what ye ask: can ye drink of the cup that I drink of? and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with?

39 And they said unto him, [h] We can. And Jesus said unto them, [f] Ye shall indeed drink of the cup that I drink of; and with the baptism that I am baptized withal shall ye be baptized:

40 But to sit on my right hand and on my left hand is not mine to give; but it shall be given to them [f] for whom it is prepared.

41 And when the ten heard it, they began to be much displeased with James and John.

42 But Jesus called them to him, and saith unto them, [b] Ye know that they which [c] are accounted to rule over the Gentiles exercise lordship over them; and their great ones exercise authority upon them.

43 But [c] so shall it not be among you: but whosoever will be great among you, shall be your minister:

44 And whosoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all.

45 For even [f] the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and [g] to give his life a ransom for many.

46 ¶ And [h] they came to Jericho: and as he went out of Jericho with his disciples and a great number of people, blind Bartimæus, the son of Timæus, sat by the highway side begging.

47 And when he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to cry out, and say, Jesus, thou son of David, have mercy on me.

48 And many charged him that he should hold his peace: but he cried the more a great deal, Thou son of David, have mercy on me.

49 And Jesus stood still, and commanded him to be called. And they call the blind man, saying unto him, Be of good comfort, rise; he calleth thee.

50 And he, casting away his garment, rose, and came to Jesus.

51 And Jesus answered and said unto him, What wilt thou that I should do unto thee? The blind man said unto him, Lord, that I might receive my sight.

52 And Jesus said unto him, Go thy way: [m] thy faith hath made thee whole. And [n] immediately he received his sight, [o] and followed Jesus in the way.

CHAP. XI.

AND [p] when they came nigh to Jerusalem, unto Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount of Olives, he sendeth forth two of his disciples,

2 And saith unto them, Go your way into the village over against you: and as soon as ye be entered into it, ye shall find a colt tied, whereon never man sat; loose him, and bring him.

3 And if any man say unto you, Why do ye this? say ye that [q] the Lord [r] hath need of him; and straightway he will send him hither.

4 And they went their way, and found the colt tied by the door without in a place where two ways met; and they loose him.

5 And certain of them that stood there said unto them, What do ye, loosing the colt?

6 And they said unto them even as Jesus had commanded: and they let them go.

7 And they brought the colt to Jesus, and cast their garments on him; and he sat upon him.

8 And many spread their garments in the way: and others [s] cut down branches off the trees, and strawed them in the way.

9 And they that went before, and they that followed, cried, saying, [t] Hosanna; Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord:

10 Blessed be [u] the kingdom of our father David, that cometh in the name of the Lord: [x] Hosanna in the highest.

11 And [y] Jesus entered into Jerusalem, and into the temple: and when he had looked round about upon all things, and now the eventide was come, he went out unto Bethany with the twelve.

12 ¶ And [a] on the morrow, when they were come from Bethany, he was hungry:

13 And seeing a fig tree afar off having leaves, he came, if haply he might find any thing thereon: and when he came to it, he found nothing but leaves; for the time of figs was not yet.

14 And Jesus answered and said unto it, [d] No man eat fruit of thee hereafter for ever. And his disciples heard it.

15 ¶ And [e] they come to Jerusalem: and Jesus went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the moneychangers, and the seats of them that sold doves;

16 And would not suffer that any man should carry any vessel through the temple.

17 And he taught, saying unto them, Is it not written, [i] My house shall be called [†] of all nations the house of prayer? but [k] ye have made it a den of thieves.

18 And [l] the scribes and chief priests heard it, and sought how they might destroy him: for they feared him, because [m] all the people was astonished at his doctrine.

19 And when even was come, he went out of the city.

20 ¶ And in the morning, as they passed by, they saw the fig tree dried up from the roots.

21 And Peter calling to remembrance saith unto him, Master, behold, the fig tree which thou cursedst is withered away.

22 And Jesus answering saith unto them, [§] Have faith in God.

23 For [p] verily I say unto you, That whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he saith.

24 Therefore I say unto you, [q] What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them.

25 And when ye stand praying, [r] forgive, if ye have ought against any: that your Father also which is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses.

26 But [s] if ye do not forgive, neither will your Father which is in heaven forgive your trespasses.

27 ¶ And they come again to Jerusalem: [a] and as he was walking in the temple, there come to him the chief priests, and the scribes, and the elders,

28 And say unto him, By what authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority to do these things?

29 And Jesus answered and said unto them, I will also ask of you one [‖] question, and answer me, and I will tell you by what authority I do these things.

30 The baptism of John, was it from heaven, or of men? answer me.

31 And they reasoned with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven; he will say, Why then did ye not believe him?

32 But if we shall say, Of men; they feared the people: for [t] all men counted John, that he was a prophet indeed.

33 And they answered and said unto Jesus, We cannot tell. And Jesus answering saith unto them, Neither do I tell you by what authority I do these things.

CHAP. XII.

AND [a] he began to speak unto them by parables. A certain man [b] planted a vineyard, [c] and set an hedge about it, and digged a place for the winefat, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a far country.

2 And at the season he sent to the husbandmen [d] a servant, that he might receive from the husbandmen of the fruit of the vineyard.

3 And they caught him, and beat him, [e] and sent him away empty.

4 And again he sent unto them another servant; and at him they cast stones, and wounded him in the head, and sent him away shamefully handled.

5 And again he sent another; and him they killed, and many others; beating some, and killing some.

6 Having yet therefore [f] one son, his wellbeloved, he sent him also last unto them, saying, They will reverence my son.

7 But those husbandmen said among themselves, [m] This is the heir; come, let us kill him, and the inheritance shall be our's.

8 And they took him, and killed him, and [n] cast him out of the vineyard.

9 What shall therefore the lord of the vineyard do? he will come and destroy the husbandmen, and will give the vineyard unto others.

10 And have ye not read this scripture; [o] The stone which the builders rejected is become the head of the corner:

11 This was the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes?

12 And [p] they sought to lay hold on him, but feared the people: for they knew that he had spoken the parable against them: and they left him, and went their way.

13 ¶ And [q] they send unto him certain of the Pharisees and of the Herodians, to catch him in his words.

14 And when they were come, they say unto him, Master, we know that thou art true, and carest for no man; for thou regardest not the person of men, but teachest the way of God in truth: Is it lawful to give tribute to Cæsar, or not?

15 Shall we give, or shall we not give? But he, knowing their hypocrisy, said unto them, Why tempt ye me? bring me a [r] penny, that I may see it.

16 And they brought it. And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and superscription? And they said unto him, Cæsar's.

17 And Jesus answering said unto them, [s] Render to Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's, and to God the things that are God's. And they marvelled at him.

18 ¶ Then come unto him the Sadducees, [t] which say there is no resurrection; and they asked him, saying,

19 Master, [u] Moses wrote unto us, If a man's brother die, and leave his wife behind him, and leave no children, that his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

20 Now there were seven brethren: and the first took a wife, and dying left no seed.

21 And the second took her, and died, neither left he any seed: and the third likewise.

22 And the seven had her, and left no seed: last of all the woman died also.

23 In the resurrection therefore, when they shall rise, whose wife shall she be of them? for the seven had her to wife.

24 And Jesus answering said unto them, [x] Do ye not therefore err, because ye know not the scriptures, neither [y] the power of God?

25 For when they shall rise from the dead, they neither marry, nor are given in marriage; but [z] are as the angels which are in heaven.

26 And as touching the dead, that they rise: have ye not read in the book of Moses, how in the bush God spake unto him, saying, [a] I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob?

27 He is not the God of the dead, but the God of the living: ye therefore do greatly err.

28 ¶ And [b] one of the scribes came, and having heard them reasoning together, and perceiving that he had answered them well, asked him, Which is the first commandment of all?

29 And Jesus answered him, The first of all the commandments is, [c] Hear, O Israel; The Lord our God is one Lord:

30 And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment.

31 And the second is like, namely this, [d] Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these.

32 And the scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth: for there is one God; [e] and there is none other but he:

33 And to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbour as himself, [f] is more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices.

34 And when Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, he said unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God. [g] And no man after that durst ask him any question.

35 ¶ And [h] Jesus answered and said, while he taught in the temple, How say the scribes that Christ is the son of David?

36 For David himself said [i] by the Holy Ghost, [k] The LORD said to my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool.

37 David therefore himself calleth him Lord; and whence is he then his son? And the common people heard him gladly.

38 ¶ And [l] he said unto them in his doctrine, [m] Beware of the scribes, which love to go in long clothing, and [n] love salutations in the marketplaces,

39 And the chief seats in the synagogues, and the uppermost rooms at feasts:

40 Which devour widows' houses, and for a pretence make long prayers: these shall receive greater damnation.

41 ¶ And Jesus sat over against the treasury, and beheld how the people cast †money [o] into the treasury: and many that were rich cast in much.

42 And there came a certain poor widow, and she threw in two ‡mites, which make a farthing.

43 And he called unto him his disciples, and saith unto them, Verily I say unto you, That [p] this poor widow hath cast more in, than all they which have cast into the treasury:

44 For all they did cast in of their abundance; but she of her want did cast in all that she had, [o] even all her living.

CHAP. XIII.

AND [a] as he went out of the temple, one of his disciples saith unto him, Master, see what manner of stones and what buildings are here!

2 And Jesus answering said unto him, Seest thou these great buildings? [b] there shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

3 And as he sat upon the mount of Olives over against the temple, Peter and James and John and Andrew asked him privately,

4 Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign when all these things shall be fulfilled?

5 And Jesus answering them began to say, [c] Take heed lest any man deceive you:

6 For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many.

7 And when ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars, be ye not troubled: for such things must needs be; but the end shall not be yet.

8 For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be earthquakes in divers places, and there shall be famines and troubles: these are the beginnings of [o] sorrows.

9 ¶ But [d] take heed to yourselves: for they shall deliver you up to councils; and in the synagogues ye shall be beaten: and ye shall be brought before rulers and kings for my sake, for a testimony against them.

10 And the gospel must first be published among all nations.

11 But when they shall lead you, and deliver you up, take no thought beforehand what ye shall speak, neither do ye premeditate: but whatsoever shall be given you in that hour, that speak ye: for it is not ye that speak, [e] but the Holy Ghost.

12 Now [f] the brother shall betray the brother to death, and the father the son; and children shall rise up against their parents, and shall cause them to be put to death.

13 And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake: but [g] he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved.

14 ¶ But [h] when ye shall see the abomination of desolation, [i] spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing where it ought not, (let him that readeth understand,) then [k] let them that be in Judæa flee to the mountains:

15 And let him that is on the housetop not go down into the house, neither enter therein, to take any thing out of his house:

16 And let him that is in the field not turn back again for to take up his garment.

17 But [l] woe to them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days!

18 And pray ye that your flight be not in the winter.

19 For [m] in those days shall be affliction, such as was not from the beginning of the creation which God created unto this time, neither shall be.

20 And except that the Lord had shortened those days, no flesh should be saved: but for the elect's sake, whom he hath chosen, he hath shortened the days.

21 And f then if any man shall say to you, Lo, here is Christ; or, lo, he is there; believe him not:

22 For false Christs and false prophets shall rise, and shall shew signs and wonders, to seduce, if it were possible, even the elect.

23 But [b] take ye heed: behold, I have foretold you all things.

24 ¶ But [d] in those days, after that tribulation, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light,

25 And the stars of heaven shall fall, and the powers that are in heaven shall be shaken.

26 And [f] then shall they see the Son of man coming in the clouds with great power and glory.

27 And then shall he send his angels, and shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from the uttermost part of the earth to the uttermost part of heaven.

28 Now [g] learn a parable of the fig tree; When her branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is near:

29 So ye in like manner, when ye shall see these things come to pass, know that it is nigh, even at the doors.

30 Verily I say unto you, that this generation shall not pass, till all these things be done.

31 Heaven and earth shall pass away: but [i] my words shall not pass away.

32 ¶ But of that day and that hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels which are in heaven, neither the Son, but the Father.

33 Take [l] ye heed, watch and pray: for ye know not when the time is.

34 For the Son of man is as a man taking a far journey, who left his house, and gave authority to his servants, and to every man his work, and commanded the porter to watch.

35 Watch ye therefore: for ye know not when the master of the house cometh, at even, or at midnight, or at the cockcrowing, or in the morning:

36 Lest coming suddenly [m] he find you sleeping.

37 And what I say unto you I say unto all, Watch.

CHAP. XIV.

AFTER [p] two days was the feast of the passover, and of unleavened bread: and the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might take him by craft, and put him to death.

2 But they said, Not on the feast day, lest there be an uproar of the people.

3 ¶ And [u] being in Bethany in the house of Simon the leper, as he sat at meat, there came a woman having an alabaster box of ointment of † spikenard very precious; and she brake the box, and poured it on his head.

4 And [x] there were some that had indignation within themselves, and said, Why was this waste of the ointment made?

5 For it might have been sold for more than three hundred [z] pence, and have been given to the poor. [a] And they murmured against her.

6 And Jesus said, [b] Let her alone; why trouble ye her? she hath wrought [c] a good work on me.

7 For [d] ye have the poor with you always, [e] and whensoever ye will ye may do them good: but me ye have not always.

8 She hath done what she could: she is come aforehand to anoint my body to the burying.

9 Verily I say unto you, Wheresoever this gospel shall be preached throughout the whole world, this also that she hath done shall be spoken of for a memorial of her.

10 ¶ And [h] Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, went unto the chief priests, to betray him unto them.

11 And when they heard it, they were glad, and promised to give him money. And he sought how he might conveniently betray him.

12 ¶ And [d] the first day of unleavened bread, when they [o] killed the passover, his disciples said unto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare that thou mayest eat the passover?

13 And he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and saith unto them, Go ye into the city, and there shall meet you a man bearing a pitcher of water: follow him.

14 And wheresoever he shall go in, say ye to the goodman of the house, The Master saith, Where is the guestchamber, [i] where I shall eat the passover with my disciples?

15 And [l] he will shew you a large upper room furnished and prepared: there make ready for us.

16 And his disciples went forth, and came into the city, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover.

17 And [e] in the evening he cometh with the twelve.

18 And as they sat and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, [p] One of you which eateth with me shall betray me.

19 And they began to be sorrowful, and to say unto him one by one, Is it I? and another said, Is it I?

20 And he answered and said unto them, It is one of the twelve, that dippeth with me in the dish.

21 The Son of man indeed goeth, [m] as it is written of him: but [n] woe to that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! good were it for that man if he had never been born.

22 ¶ And [p] as they did eat, Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave to them, and said, Take, eat: this is my body.

23 And he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them: and they all drank of it.

24 And he said unto them, This is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many.

25 Verily I say unto you, I will drink no more of the fruit of the vine, until that day that I drink it new in the kingdom of God.

26 ¶ And [q] when they had sung an † hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives.

27 And Jesus saith unto them, All ye shall be offended because of me this night: for it is written, [r] I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered.

28 But [s] after that I am risen, I will go before you into Galilee.

29 But [t] Peter said unto him, Although all shall be offended, yet will not I.

30 And Jesus saith unto him, Verily I say unto thee, That this day, even in this night, before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice.

31 But [u] he spake the more vehemently, If I should die with thee, I will not deny thee in any wise. Likewise also said they all.

32 And [a] they came to a place which was named Gethsemane: and he saith to his disciples, Sit ye here, while I shall pray.

33 And he taketh with him Peter and James and John, and began to be sore amazed, and to be very heavy;

34 And saith unto them, [z] My soul is exceeding sorrowful unto death: tarry ye here, and watch.

35 And he went forward a little, and fell on the ground, and prayed that, if it were possible, the hour might pass from him.

36 And he said, [c] Abba, Father, [f] all things are possible unto thee; take away this cup from me: [g] nevertheless not what I will, but what thou wilt.

37 And he cometh, and findeth them sleeping, and saith unto Peter, Simon, sleepest thou? couldest not thou watch one hour?

38 Watch ye and pray, lest ye enter into temptation. [h] The spirit truly is ready, but the flesh is weak.

39 And again he went away, [c] and prayed, and spake the same words.

40 And when he returned, he found them asleep again, (for their eyes were heavy,) [m] neither wist they what to answer him.

41 And he cometh the third time, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: it is enough, [n] the hour is come; behold, the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners.

42 Rise up, let us go; lo, he that betrayeth me is at hand.

43 ¶ And [r] immediately, while he yet spake, cometh Judas, one of the twelve, and with him [a] a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and the scribes and the elders.

44 And he that betrayed him had given them a token, saying, [r] Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is he; take him, and lead him away safely.

45 And as soon as he was come, he goeth straightway to him, and saith, [x] Master, master; and kissed him.

46 ¶ And [a] they laid their hands on him, and took him.

47 And one of them that stood by drew a sword, and smote a servant of the high priest, and cut off his ear.

48 And Jesus answered and said unto them, Are ye come out, as against a thief, with swords and with staves to take me?

49 I was daily with you in the temple teaching, and ye took me not: but [a] the scriptures must be fulfilled.

50 And [b] they all forsook him, and fled.

51 And there followed him a certain young man, having a linen cloth cast about his naked body; and the young men laid hold on him:

52 And he left the linen cloth, and fled from them naked.

53 ¶ And [d] they led Jesus away to the high priest: and with him were assembled all the chief priests and the elders and the scribes.

54 And Peter followed him afar off, even into the palace of the high priest: and he sat with the servants, and warmed himself at the fire.

55 And the chief priests and all the council [k] sought for witness against Jesus to put him to death; [i] and found none.

56 For many bare false witness against him, but their witness agreed not together.

57 And there arose certain, and bare false witness against him, saying,

58 We heard him say, [a] I will destroy this temple that is made with hands, and within three days I will build another made without hands.

59 But neither so did their witness agree together.

60 And the high priest stood up in the midst, and asked Jesus, saying, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these witness against thee?

61 But he held his peace, and answered nothing. Again the high priest asked him, and said unto him, Art thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?

62 And Jesus said, I am: [c] and ye shall see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

63 Then the high priest rent his clothes, and saith, What need we any further witnesses?

64 Ye have heard the blasphemy: what think ye? And they all condemned him to be guilty of death.

65 And some began to spit on him, and to cover his face, and to buffet him, and to say unto him, Prophesy: and the servants did strike him with the palms of their hands.

66 ¶ And [i] as Peter was beneath in the palace, there cometh one of the maids of the high priest:

67 And when she saw Peter warming himself, she looked upon him, and said, And thou also wast with Jesus of Nazareth.

68 But he denied, saying, I know not, neither understand I what thou sayest. And he went out into the porch; and the cock crew.

69 And a maid saw him again, and began to say to them that stood by, This is one of them.

70 And he denied it again. And a little after, they that stood by said again to Peter, Surely thou art one of them: [o] for thou art a Galilæan, and thy speech agreeth thereto.

71 But he began to curse and to swear, saying, I know not this man of whom ye speak.

72 And [q] the second time the cock crew. And Peter called to mind the word that Jesus said unto him, Before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. And [s] when he thought thereon, [t] he wept.

CHAP. XV.

AND [u] straightway in the morning the chief priests held a consultation with the elders and scribes and the whole council, and bound Jesus, and carried him away, and delivered him to Pilate.

2 And Pilate asked him, Art thou the King of the Jews? And he answering said unto him, Thou sayest it.

3 And the chief priests accused him of many things: but he answered nothing.

4 And Pilate asked him again, saying, Answerest thou nothing? behold how many things they witness against thee.

5 But [z] Jesus yet answered nothing; so that Pilate marvelled.

6 Now [a] at that feast he released unto them one prisoner, whomsoever they desired.

7 And there was one named Barabbas, which lay bound with them that had made insurrection with him, who had committed murder in the insurrection.

8 And the multitude crying aloud began to desire him to do as he had ever done unto them.

9 But Pilate answered them, saying, [b] Will ye that I release unto you the king of the Jews?

10 For he knew that the chief priests had delivered him [c] for envy.

11 But [d] the chief priests moved the people, that he should rather release Barabbas unto them.

12 And Pilate answered and said again unto them, What will ye then that I shall do unto him whom ye call the King of the Jews?

13 And they cried out again, Crucify him.

14 Then Pilate said unto them, Why, what evil hath he done? And they cried out the more exceedingly, Crucify him.

15 ¶ And [e] so Pilate, [h] willing to content the people, released Barabbas unto them, and delivered Jesus, when he had scourged him, to be crucified.

16 And the soldiers led him away into the hall, called Prætorium; and they call together the whole band.

17 And they clothed him with purple, and platted a crown of thorns, and put it about his head, 18 And began to salute him, Hail, King of the Jews!

19 And [k] they smote him on the head with a reed, and did spit upon him, and bowing their knees worshipped him.

20 And when they had [l] mocked him, they took off the purple from him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucify him.

21 And [m] they compel one Simon a Cyrenian, who passed by, coming out of the country, the father of Alexander and [n] Rufus, to bear his cross.

22 And they bring him unto the place Golgotha, which is, being interpreted, The place of a skull.

23 And they gave him to drink wine mingled with myrrh: but he received it not.

24 And when they had [p] crucified him, [r] they parted his garments, casting lots upon them, what every man should take.

25 And [s] it was the third hour, and they crucified him.

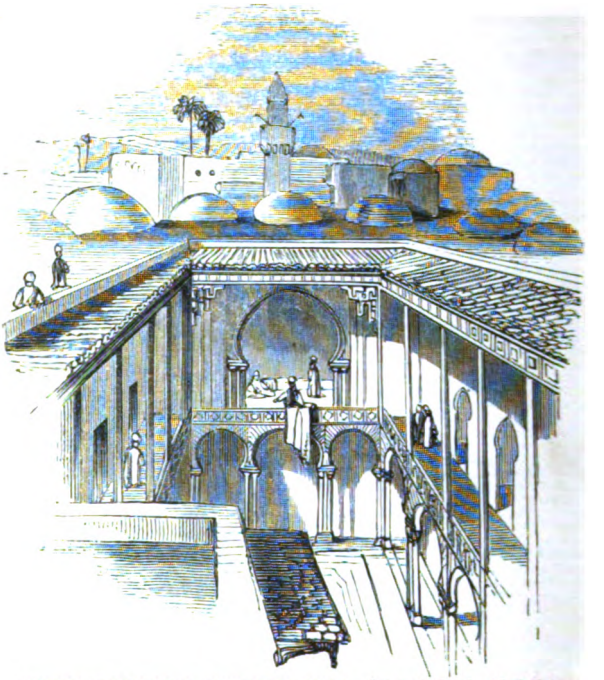
26 And the superscription of his accusation was written over, [t] THE KING OF THE JEWS.

27 And with him they crucify two thieves; the one on his right hand, and the other on his left.

28 And the scripture was fulfilled, which saith, [y] And he was numbered with the transgressors.

29 And [z] they that passed by railed on him, wagging their heads, and saying, Ah, [a] thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days,

30 Save thyself, and come down from the cross.



31 Likewise also the chief priests mocking said among themselves with the scribes, [b] He saved others; himself he cannot save.

32 Let Christ the King of Israel descend now from the cross, that we may see and believe. And [c] they that were crucified with him reviled him.

33 And when the sixth hour was come, [d] there was darkness over the whole land until the ninth hour.

34 And at the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, [a] Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani? which is, being interpreted, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

35 And some of them that stood by, when they heard it, said, Behold, he calleth Elias.

36 And one ran and filled a spunge full of vinegar, and put it on a reed, and [b] gave him to drink, saying, Let alone; let us see whether Elias will come to take him down.

37 And [c] Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost.

38 And the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom.

39 ¶ And when the centurion, which stood over against him, saw that he so cried out, and gave up the ghost, he said, Truly this man was the Son of God.

40 There were also women looking on [d] afar off: among whom was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James the less and of Joses, and Salome;

41 (Who also, when he was in Galilee, [e] followed him, and ministered unto him;) and many other women which came up with him unto Jerusalem.

42 ¶ And [f] now when the even was come, because it was the preparation, that is, the day before the sabbath,

43 Joseph of Arimathæa, an honourable counsellor, which also [g] waited for the kingdom of God, came, and went in boldly unto Pilate, and craved the body of Jesus.

44 And Pilate marvelled if he were already dead: and calling unto him the centurion, he asked him whether he had been any while dead.

45 And when he knew it of the centurion, he gave the body to Joseph.

46 And he bought fine linen, and took him down, and wrapped him in the linen, and laid him in a sepulchre which was hewn out of a rock, and rolled a stone unto the door of the sepulchre.

47 And Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of Joses beheld where he was laid.

CHAP. XVI.

AND [h] when the sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, [a] had bought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint him.

2 And very early in the morning the first day of the week, they came unto the sepulchre at the rising of the sun.

3 And they said among themselves, Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulchre?

4 And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away: for it was very great.

5 And entering into the sepulchre, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment; and they were affrighted.

6 And [c] he saith unto them, Be not affrighted: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: he is risen; he is not here: behold the place where they laid him.

7 But go your way, tell his disciples and Peter that he goeth before you into Galilee: there shall ye see him, [g] as he said unto you.

8 And they went out quickly, and fled from the sepulchre; for they trembled and were amazed: [f] neither said they any thing to any man; for they were afraid.

9 ¶ Now when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, [h] he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, [i] out of whom he had cast seven devils.

10 And she went and told them that had been with him, as they mourned and wept.

11 And they, when they had heard that he was alive, and had been seen of her, believed not.

12 ¶ After that he appeared in another form [m] unto two of them, as they walked, and went into the country.

13 And they went and told it unto the residue: neither believed they them.

14 ¶ Afterward he appeared unto the eleven as they sat [n] at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen him after he was risen.

15 And [p] he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, [r] and preach the gospel to every creature.

16 He [s] that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; [t] but he that believeth not shall be damned.

17 And these signs shall follow them that believe; [u] In my name shall they cast out devils; they [v] shall speak with new tongues;

18 They [w] shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; [x] they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover.

19 ¶ So then [b] after the Lord had spoken unto them, he was received up into heaven, and [c] sat on the right hand of God.

20 And they went forth, and preached every where, the Lord working with them, [d] and confirming the word with signs following. Amen.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CH. II. 4.—COVERED GALLERIES. Carefully observe the text. Scott says, 'The house it may be supposed was low, perhaps only one story high, and there was some way up on the outside; but though there might be also an opening in the roof, yet it seems not to have been wide enough to let the bed pass through. They, therefore, uncovered the roof, and even broke up what was in the way. Some think he was let down through the battlements on the outside of the house into the yard, but the language of the evangelists seems incapable of this meaning; and any injury done to the roof by breaking it up might be repaired at a small expense.' Dr. Jenks remarks, 'The explanation here given by Scott is unsatisfactory. Would four men, perhaps strangers, take so great a liberty as to unroof the house of another? Besides removing the earth, rafters, and other materials of the roof, would have endangered the crowd below. There is an easier solution. Over the court or yard of eastern houses was usually spread a large awning to screen from the sun. (See the adaptation of the roofs of the galleries for this, as shewn in the cut.) Roof here means covering or awning. The four men carried the paralytic up the private stairs on the outside to the top of the house, which was flat-roofed, uncovered the awning by loosing one or more of the fastenings, which were probably fixed to the parapet, and let him down, and, as it should be rendered, not through, but along the tiling. But it is said, "And when they had broken up," &c. These words may refer, not, as Scott and others suppose, to the roof, but to the bed. They brought him upon the bed or bedstead to the roof, then broke it up, or took it apart, and formed a couch of the sacking, which was easily let down into the yard. So in Luke v. 19, we read the men brought the sick of the palsy to the roof, in a bed, and let him down with his couch.'

CH. XI. 11.—BETHANY lies in a small ravine of mount Olivet. It is embosomed in fruit trees. It has about twenty inhabited houses; the rest are ruins.

The Gospel according to S. LUKE.

Probably written for Gentile Christians: and while omitting some things recorded by the other Evangelists, mentions some parables, discourses, miracles, and events not recorded in them.

CHAP. I.

FORASMUCH as many have taken in hand to set forth in order a declaration of those things which are most surely believed among us,

2 Even [a] as they delivered them unto us, which [b] from the beginning were eyewitnesses, and ministers of the word;

3 It [c] seemed good to me also, having had perfect understanding of all things from the very first, to write unto thee [d] in order, [f] most excellent Theophilus,

4 That [g] thou mightest know the certainty of those things, wherein thou hast been instructed.

5 ¶ [h] THERE was in the days of Herod, the king of Judæa, a certain priest named Zacharias, [i] of the course of Abia: and his wife was of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elisabeth.

6 And they were both [l] righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless.

7 And they had no child, because that Elisabeth was barren, and they both were now well stricken in years.

8 And it came to pass, that while he executed the priest's office before God [n] in the order of his course,

9 According to the custom of the priest's office, his [o] lot was to burn incense when he went into the temple of the Lord.

10 And [p] the whole multitude of the people were praying without at the time of incense.

11 And there appeared unto him an angel of the Lord standing on the right side of [q] the altar of incense.

12 And when Zacharias saw him, [r] he was troubled, and fear fell upon him.

13 But the angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias: for thy prayer is heard; and thy wife Elisabeth shall bear thee a son, and [s] thou shalt call his name John.

14 And thou shalt have joy and gladness; and many shall rejoice at his birth.

15 For he shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and [t] shall drink neither wine nor strong drink; and he shall be filled with the Holy Ghost, [u] even from his mother's womb.

16 And [f] many of the children of Israel shall he turn to the Lord their God.

17 And [g] he shall go before him in the spirit and power of Elias, to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient [†] to the wisdom of the just; to make ready a people prepared for the Lord.

18 And Zacharias said unto the angel, Whereby [i] shall I know this? for I am an old man, and my wife well stricken in years.

19 And the angel answering said unto him, I am [l] Gabriel, that stand in the presence of God; and am sent to speak unto thee, and to shew thee these glad tidings.

20 And, behold, [m] thou shalt be dumb, and not able to speak, until the day that these things shall be performed, because thou believest not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season.

21 And the people waited for Zacharias, and marvelled that he tarried so long in the temple.

22 And when he came out, he could not speak unto them: and they perceived that he had seen a vision in the temple: for he beckoned unto them, and remained speechless.

23 And it came to pass, that, as soon as [d] the days of his ministration were accomplished, he departed to his own house.

24 And after those days his wife Elisabeth conceived, and hid herself five months, saying,

25 Thus hath the Lord dealt with me in the days wherein he looked on me, to [i] take away my reproach among men.

26 And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth,

27 To a virgin [m] espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary.

28 And the angel came in unto her, and said, [n] Hail, thou that art [o] highly favoured, [p] the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women.

29 And when she saw him, [q] she was troubled at his saying, and cast in her mind what manner of salutation this should be.

30 And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God.

31 And, [r] behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name JESUS.

32 He shall be great, [s] and shall be called the Son of the Highest: and [t] the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David:

33 And [u] he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end.

34 Then said Mary unto the angel, How shall this be, seeing I know not a man?

35 And the angel answered and said unto her, [v] The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called [w] the Son of God.

36 And, behold, thy cousin Elisabeth, she hath also conceived a son in her old age: and this is the sixth month with her, who was called barren.

37 For [x] with God nothing shall be impossible.

38 And Mary said, Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word. And the angel departed from her.

39 And Mary arose in those days, and went into the hill country with haste, [y] into a city of Juda;

40 And entered into the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elisabeth.

41 And it came to pass, that, when Elisabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe leaped in her womb; and Elisabeth was filled with the Holy Ghost:

42 And she spake out with a loud voice, and said, [z] Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb.

43 And whence is this to me, that the mother of my Lord ſhould come to me?
44 For, lo, as ſoon as the voice of thy ſalutation ſounded in mine ears, the babe leaped in my womb for joy.
45 And bleſſed is ſhe [o] that believed: for there ſhall be a performance of thoſe things which were told her from the Lord.
46 And Mary ſaid, [d] My ſoul doth magnify the Lord,
47 And my ſpirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.
48 For [f] he hath regarded the low eſtate of his handmaiden: for, behold, from henceforth [g] all generations ſhall call me bleſſed.
49 For he that is mighty [h] hath done to me great things; and [i] holy is his name.
50 And [k] his mercy is on them that fear him from generation to generation.
51 He hath ſhewed ſtrength with his arm; [m] he hath ſcattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.
52 He [n] hath put down the mighty from their ſeats, and exalted them of low degree.
53 He [o] hath filled the hungry with good things; and the rich he hath ſent empty away.
54 He hath holpen his ſervant Iſrael, [r] in remembrance of his mercy;
55 As [s] he ſpake to our fathers, to Abraham, and to his ſeed for ever.
56 And Mary abode with her about three months, and returned to her own houſe.
57 Now Eliſabeth's full time came that ſhe ſhould be delivered; and ſhe brought forth a ſon.
58 And her neighbours and her couſins heard how the Lord had ſhewed great mercy upon her; and [t] they rejoiced with her.
59 And it came to paſs, that [y] on the eighth day they came to circumciſe the child; and they called him Zacharias, after the name of his father.
60 And his mother anſwered and ſaid, [e] Not ſo; but he ſhall be called John.
61 And they ſaid unto her, There is none of thy kindred that is called by this name.
62 And they made ſigns to his father, how he would have him called.
63 And he aſked for a writing table, and wrote, ſaying, His name is John. And they marvelled all.
64 And his mouth was opened immediately, and his tongue loosed, and he ſpake, and praiſed God.
65 And fear came on all that dwelt round about them: and all theſe [t] ſayings were noiſed abroad throughout all the hill country of Judæa.
66 And all they that heard them [e] laid them up in their hearts, ſaying, What manner of child ſhall this be! And [f] the hand of the Lord was with him.
67 And his father Zacharias [g] was filled with the Holy Ghoſt, and propheſied, ſaying,
68 Bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael; for he hath viſited and redeemed his people,
69 And hath raiſed up an horn of ſalvation for us in the houſe of his ſervant David;
70 As [m] he ſpake by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been ſince the world began:
71 That we ſhould be ſaved from our enemies, and from the hand of all that hate us;
72 To perform the mercy promiſed to our fathers, and to remember his holy covenant;
73 The [s] oath which he ſware to our father Abraham,
74 That he would grant unto us, that we being delivered out of the hand of our enemies might [h] ſerve him without fear,
75 In [i] holineſs and righteouſneſs before him, all the days of our life.
76 And thou, child, ſhalt be called the prophet of the Higheſt: for [z] thou ſhalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways;
77 To give knowledge of ſalvation unto his people [k] by the remiſſion of their ſins,
78 Through the [l] tender mercy of our God; whereby the [§] dayſpring from on high hath viſited us,
79 To [l] give light to them that ſit in darkneſs and in the ſhadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace.
80 And the child grew, and waxed ſtrong in ſpirit, and was in the deſerts till the day of his ſhewing unto Iſrael.

CHAP. II.

AND it came to paſs [p] in thoſe days, that there went out a decree from Cæſar Auguſtus, that all the world ſhould be [‖] taxed.
2 (And [t] this taxing was firſt made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)
3 And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.
4 And Joſeph alſo went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judæa, unto [u] the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; ([v] becauſe he was of the houſe and lineage of David:)
5 To be taxed with Mary his eſpouſed wife, being great with child.
6 And ſo it was, that, while they were there, the days were accompliſhed that ſhe ſhould be delivered.
7 And ſhe brought forth her firſtborn ſon, and wrapped him in ſwaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; becauſe there was no room for them in the inn.
8 And there were in the ſame country ſhepherds abiding in the field, keeping [o] watch over their flock by night.
9 And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord ſhone round about them: [z] and they were ſore afraid.
10 And the angel ſaid unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, [b] which ſhall be to all people.
11 For [c] unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, [d] which is Chriſt the Lord.
12 And this ſhall be a ſign unto you; Ye ſhall find the babe wrapped in ſwaddling clothes, lying in a manger.
13 And [A] ſuddenly there was with the angel [g] a multitude of the heavenly hoſt praiſing God, and ſaying,
14 Glory [i] to God in the higheſt, and on earth [k] peace, [l] good will toward men.
15 And it came to paſs, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the [‡] ſhepherds ſaid one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and ſee this thing which is come to paſs, which the Lord hath made known unto us.
16 And they came with haſte, and found Mary, and Joſeph, and the babe lying in a manger.
17 And when they had ſeen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

18 And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

19 But [e] Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

21 And [h] when eight days were accomplished for the circumcising of the child, his name was called [i] JESUS, which was so named of the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

22 And when [k] the days of her purification according to the law of Moses were accomplished, they brought him to Jerusalem, to present him to the Lord;

23 (As it is written in the law of the Lord, Every male that openeth the womb shall be called holy to the Lord;)

24 And to offer a sacrifice according to [l] that which is said in the law of the Lord, A pair of turtledoves, or two young pigeons.

25 And, behold, there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon; and the same man was just and devout, [m] waiting for the consolation of Israel: and the Holy Ghost was upon him.

26 And it was revealed unto him by the Holy Ghost, that he should not [n] see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ.

27 And he came [o] by the Spirit into the temple: and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him after the custom of the law,

28 Then took he him up in his arms, and blessed God, and said,

29 Lord, [p] now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word:

30 For mine eyes [q] have seen thy salvation,

31 Which thou hast prepared before the face of all people;

32 A [r] light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel.

33 And Joseph and his mother marvelled at those things which were spoken of him.

34 And Simeon blessed them, and said unto Mary his mother, Behold, this child is set for the [s] fall and rising again of many in Israel; and for [t] a sign which shall be spoken against;

35 (Yea, [u] a sword shall pierce through thy own soul also,) that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed.

36 And there was one Anna, a prophetess, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser: she was of a great age, and had lived with an husband seven years from her virginity;

37 And she was a widow of about fourscore and four years, which [v] departed not from the temple, but served God with fastings and prayers [w] night and day.

38 And she coming in that instant [x] gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of him to all them that [y] looked for redemption in † Jerusalem.

39 And when they had [z] performed all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, to their own city Nazareth.

40 And [a] the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom: and the grace of God was upon him.

41 Now his parents went to Jerusalem every [b] year at the feast of the passover.

42 And [c] when he was twelve years old, they went up to Jerusalem after the custom of the feast.

43 And when they had fulfilled the days, as they returned, the child Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem; and Joseph and his mother knew not of it.

44 But they, supposing him to have been in the company, went a day's journey; and they sought him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance.

45 And when they found him not, they turned back again to Jerusalem, seeking him.

46 And it came to pass, that after three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, both hearing them, and asking them questions.

47 And [d] all that heard him were astonished at his understanding and answers.

48 And when they saw him, they were amazed: and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? behold, thy father and I have sought thee sorrowing.

49 And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? wist ye not that I must be about [e] my Father's business?

50 And [f] they understood not the saying which he spake unto them.

51 And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject unto them: but his mother [g] kept all these sayings in her heart.

52 And Jesus [h] increased in wisdom and [i] stature, and in favour with God and man.

CHAP. III.

NOW in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Cæsar, Pontius Pilate being governor of Judæa, and Herod being tetrarch of Galilee, and his brother Philip tetrarch of Ituræa and of the region of Trachonitis, and Lysanias the tetrarch of Abilene,

2 [k] Annas and Caiaphas being the high priests, the word of God came unto John the son of Zacharias in the wilderness.

3 And [l] he came into all the country about Jordan, preaching the baptism of repentance [m] for the remission of sins;

4 As it is written in the book of the words of Esaias the prophet, saying, [n] The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.

5 Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low; and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough ways shall be made smooth;

6 And [o] all flesh shall see the salvation of God.

7 Then said he to the multitude that came forth to be baptized of him, [p] O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Bring forth therefore [q] fruits † worthy of repentance, and begin not to say within yourselves, [r] We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, That God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham.

9 And now also the axe is laid unto the root of the trees: [s] every tree therefore which bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

10 And the people asked him, saying, What [t] shall we do then?

11 He answereth and saith unto them, [u] He that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none; and he that hath meat, let him do likewise.

12 Then [a] came also publicans to be baptized, and said unto him, Master, what shall we do?

13 And he said unto them, [b] Exact no more than that which is appointed you.

14 And the soldiers likewise demanded of him, saying, And what shall we do? And he said unto them, [c] Do violence to no man, [d] neither accuse any falsely; and be content with your [†] wages.

15 And as the people were [‡] in expectation, and all men [§] mused in their hearts of John, whether he were the Christ, or not;

16 John answered, saying unto them all, [e] I indeed baptize you with water; but one mightier than I cometh, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose: [h] he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire:

17 Whose fan is in his hand, and he will throughly purge his floor, and [i] will gather the wheat into his garner; but the chaff he will burn with fire unquenchable.

18 And many other things in his exhortation preached he unto the people.

19 But [k] Herod the tetrarch, being reproved by him for Herodias his brother Philip's wife, and for all the evils which Herod had done, 20 Added yet this above all, that he shut up John in prison.

21 Now when all the people were baptized, [l] it came to pass, that Jesus also being baptized, and praying, the heaven was opened,

22 And the Holy Ghost descended in a bodily shape like a dove upon him, and a voice came from heaven, which said, Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased.

CHAP. IV.

AND [i] Jesus being full of the Holy Ghost returned from Jordan, and was led by the Spirit into the wilderness,

2 Being forty days tempted of the devil. And [m] in those days he did eat nothing: and when they were ended, [n] he afterward hungered.

3 And the devil said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, command this stone that it be made bread.

4 And Jesus answered him, saying, It is written, [p] That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God.

5 And the devil, taking him up into an high mountain, shewed unto him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time.

6 And the devil said unto him, [q] All this power will I give thee, and the glory of them: for [u] that is delivered unto me; and to whomsoever I will I give it.

7 If thou therefore wilt ‖ worship me, all shall be thine.

8 And Jesus answered and said unto him, Get thee behind me, Satan: for [v] it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.

9 And [x] he brought him to Jerusalem, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple, and said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down from hence:

10 For [y] it is written, He shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee:

11 And in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone.

12 And Jesus answering said unto him, [z] It is said, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.

13 And when the devil had ended all the temptation, he departed from him [a] for a season.

14 ¶ And [b] Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit into [c] Galilee: and there went out a fame of him through all the region round about.

15 And he taught in their synagogues, being glorified of all.

16 ¶ And he came to [d] Nazareth, where he had been brought up: and, as his custom was, [e] he went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and stood up for to read.

17 And there was delivered unto him the book of the prophet Esaias. And when he had opened the book, he found the place where it was written,

18 The [a] Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath [b] anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised,

19 To preach [f] the acceptable year of the Lord.

20 And he closed the book, and he gave it again to the minister, and sat down. And [g] the eyes of all them that were in the synagogue were fastened on him.

21 And he began to say unto them, This day [i] is this scripture fulfilled in your ears.

22 And all bare him witness, and [k] wondered at the gracious words which proceeded out of his mouth. And they said, Is [m] not this Joseph's son?

23 And he said unto them, Ye will surely say unto me this proverb, Physician, heal thyself: whatsoever we have heard done in [o] Capernaum, do also here [p] in thy country.

24 And he said, Verily I say unto you, No prophet [r] is accepted in his own country.

25 But I tell you of a truth, [s] many widows were in Israel in the days of Elias, when the heaven was shut up three years and six months, when great famine was throughout all the land;

26 But unto none of them was Elias sent, save unto Sarepta, a city of Sidon, unto a woman that was a widow.

27 And [v] many lepers were in Israel in the time of Eliseus the prophet; and none of them was cleansed, saving Naaman the Syrian.

28 And all they in the synagogue, when they heard these things, were filled with wrath,

29 And rose up, and thrust him out of the city, and led him unto the † brow of the hill whereon their city was built, that they might cast him down headlong.

30 But he [x] passing through the midst of them went his way,

31 And [b] came down to Capernaum, a city of Galilee, and taught them on the sabbath days.

32 And they were astonished at his doctrine: [c] for his word was with power.

33 ¶ And [d] in the synagogue there was a man, which had a spirit of an unclean devil, and cried out with a loud voice,

34 Saying, I Let us alone; what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth? art thou come to destroy us? I know thee who thou art; [f] the Holy One of God.

35 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him. And when the devil had thrown him in the midst, he came out of him, and hurt him not.

36 And they were all amazed, and spake among themselves, saying, [k] What a word is this! for with authority and power he commandeth the unclean spirits, and they come out.

37 And [h] the fame of him went out into every place of the country round about.

38 ¶ And [m] he arose out of the synagogue, and entered into Simon's house. And Simon's wife's mother was taken with a great fever; [n] and they besought him for her.

39 And he stood over her, and rebuked the fever; and it left her: and immediately she arose and ministered unto them.

40 ¶ Now [r] when the sun was setting, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him; and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them.

41 And [o] devils also came out of many, crying out, and saying, [d] Thou art Christ the Son of God. And [p] he rebuking them suffered them not [o] to speak: for they knew that he was Christ.

42 And when it was day, he departed and went into a desert place: and the people sought him, and came unto him, and stayed him, that he should not depart from them.

43 And he said unto them, [h] I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities also: for therefore am I sent.

44 And [t] he preached in the synagogues of Galilee.

CHAP. V.

AND [u] it came to pass, that, as the people pressed upon him to hear the word of God, he stood by the lake of Gennesaret,

2 And saw two ships standing by the lake: but the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets.

3 And he entered into one of the ships, which was Simon's, and prayed him that he would thrust out a little from the land. And he sat down, and taught the people out of the ship.

4 Now when he had left speaking, he said unto Simon, [x] Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets for a draught.

5 And Simon answering said unto him, Master, [y] we have toiled all the night, and have taken nothing: [z] nevertheless at thy word I will let down the net.

6 And when they had this done, [y] they inclosed a great multitude of fishes: and their net brake.

7 And they beckoned unto their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came, and filled both the ships, so that they began to sink.

8 When Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus' knees, saying, [a] Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O Lord.

9 For he was astonished, and all that were with him, at the draught of the fishes which they had taken:

10 And so was also James, and John, the sons of Zebedee, which were partners with Simon. And Jesus said unto Simon, Fear not; from henceforth thou shalt catch men.

11 And when they had brought their ships to land, [c] they forsook all, and followed him.

12 ¶ And [f] it came to pass, when he was in a certain city, behold a man full of leprosy: who seeing Jesus fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

13 And he put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, [i] I will: be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him.

14 And he charged him to tell no man: but go, and shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing, [l] according as Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them.

15 But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him: [o] and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities.

16 ¶ And [p] he withdrew himself into the wilderness, and prayed.

17 And it came to pass on a certain day, as he was teaching, that there were Pharisees and doctors of the law sitting by, which were come out of every town of Galilee, and Judæa, and Jerusalem: [a] and the power of the Lord was present to heal them.

18 ¶ And, [b] behold, men brought in a bed a man which was taken with a palsy: and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him.

19 And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in because of the multitude, they went upon the house-top, and let him down through the tiling with his couch into the midst before Jesus.

20 And [c] when he saw their faith, he said unto him, [d] Man, thy sins are forgiven thee.

21 And the scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying, Who is this which speaketh blasphemies? [e] Who can forgive sins, but God alone?

22 But [m] when Jesus perceived their thoughts, he answering said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts?

23 Whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up and walk?

24 But that ye may know that the Son of man [p] hath power upon earth to forgive sins, (he said unto the sick of the palsy,) I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy couch, and go unto thine house.

25 And immediately he rose up before them, and took up that whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, [q] glorifying God.

26 And they were all amazed, and they glorified God, and were filled with fear, saying, We have seen strange things to day.

27 ¶ And [r] after these things he went forth, and saw a publican, named Levi, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he said unto him, Follow me.

28 And he left all, rose up, and followed him.

29 And Levi made him a great feast in his own house: and [n] there was a great company of publicans and of others that sat down with them.

30 But their scribes and Pharisees murmured against his disciples, saying, Why do ye eat and drink with publicans and sinners?

31 And Jesus answering said unto them, They that are whole need not a physician; but they that are sick.

32 I [s] came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

33 ¶ And they said unto him, Why do the disciples of John fast often, and make prayers, and likewise the disciples of the Pharisees; but thine eat and drink?

34 And he said unto them, Can ye make the children of the bridechamber fast, while [t] the bridegroom is with them?

35 But [f] the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then shall they fast in those days.

36 ¶ And [f] he spake also a parable unto them; No man putteth a piece of a new garment upon an old; if otherwise, then both the new maketh a rent, and the piece that was taken out of the new [i] agreeth not with the old.

37 And no man putteth new wine into old [l] bottles; else the new wine will burst the bottles, and be spilled, and the bottles shall perish.

38 But new wine must be put into new bottles; and both are preserved.

39 No man also having drunk old wine straightway desireth new: for he saith, The old is better.

CHAP. VI.

AND [k] it came to pass on the second sabbath after the first that he went through the corn fields; [d] and his disciples plucked the ears of corn, and did eat, rubbing them in their hands.

2 And certain of the Pharisees said unto them, Why do ye that [e] which is not lawful to do on the sabbath days?

3 And Jesus answering them said, Have ye not read so much as this, [f] what David did, when himself was an hungred, and they which were with him;

4 How he went into the house of God, and did take and eat the shewbread, and gave also to them that were with him; [i] which it is not lawful to eat but for the priests alone?

5 And he said unto them, That [l] the Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath.

6 And [m] it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue and taught: and there was a man whose [o] right hand was withered.

7 And the scribes and Pharisees watched [r] him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day; that they might find an accusation against him.

8 But he knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up, and stand forth in the midst. And he arose and stood forth.

9 Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you one thing; Is it lawful on the sabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy it?

10 And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he did so: and his hand was restored whole as the other.

11 And [u] they were filled with madness; and communed one with another what they might do to Jesus.

12 And [s] it came to pass in those days, that he went out into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God.

13 ¶ And when it was day, he called unto him his disciples: [p] and of them he chose twelve, whom also he named apostles;

14 Simon, (to whom he also named Peter,) and Andrew his brother, James and John, Philip and Bartholomew,

15 Matthew and Thomas, James the son of Alphæus, and Simon called Zelotes,

16 And Judas [b] the brother of James, and Judas Iscariot, which also was the traitor.

17 ¶ And he came down with them, and stood in the plain, and the company of his disciples, [u] and a great multitude of people out of all Judæa and Jerusalem, and from the sea coast of Tyre and Sidon, which came to hear him, and to be healed of their diseases;

18 And they that were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed.

19 And the whole multitude [g] sought to touch him: for [h] there went virtue out of him, and healed them all.

20 ¶ And he lifted up his eyes on his disciples, and said, [k] Blessed be ye poor: for your's is the kingdom of God.

21 Blessed [m] are ye that hunger now: for ye shall be filled. [n] Blessed are ye that weep now: for ye shall laugh.

22 Blessed [o] are ye, when men shall hate you, and when they [p] shall separate you from their company, and shall repreach you, and cast out your name as evil, for the Son of man's sake.

23 Rejoice [a] ye in that day, and leap for joy: for, behold, your reward is great in heaven: for [b] in the like manner did their fathers unto the prophets.

24 But [c] woe unto you / that are rich! for [d] ye have received your consolation.

25 Woe [e] unto you that are full! for ye shall hunger. [f] Woe unto you that laugh now! for ye shall mourn and weep.

26 Woe [g] unto you, when all men shall speak well of you! for so did their fathers to the false prophets.

27 ¶ But [h] I say unto you which hear, Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you,

28 Bless them that curse you, and [i] pray for them which despitefully use you.

29 And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek offer also the other; [k] and him that taketh away thy cloke forbid not to take thy coat also.

30 Give [l] to every man that asketh of thee; and of him that taketh away thy goods ask them not again.

31 And [m] as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.

32 For if ye love them which love you, what thank have ye? for sinners also love those that love them.

33 And if ye do good to them which do good to you, what thank have ye? for sinners also do even the same.

34 And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank have ye? for sinners also lend to sinners, to receive as much again.

35 But love ye your enemies, and do good, and [n] lend, hoping for nothing again; and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be the children of the Highest: for he is kind unto the unthankful and to the evil.

36 Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful.

37 Judge[o] not, and ye shall not be judged: condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned: forgive, and ye shall be forgiven:

38 Give, [p] and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your [q] bosom. For / with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again.

39 And he spake a parable unto them, [r] Can the blind lead the blind? shall they not both fall into the ditch?

40 The [s] disciple is not above his master: but every one [t] that is perfect shall be as his master.

41 And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but perceivest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

42 Either how canst thou say to thy brother, Brother, let me pull out the mote that is in thine eye, when thou thyself beholdest not the beam that is in thine own eye? Thou hypocrite, [u] cast out first the beam out of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to pull out the mote that is in thy brother's eye.

43 For [v] a good tree bringeth not forth corrupt fruit; neither doth a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

44 For [w] every tree is known by his own fruit. For of thorns men do not gather figs, nor of a bramble bush gather they §grapes.

45 A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good; and an evil man out of the evil treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is evil: for of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh.

46 ¶ And [x] why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?

47 Whosoever [y] cometh to me, and heareth my sayings, and doeth them, I will shew you to whom he is like:

48 He is like a man which built an house, and digged deep, [z] and laid the foundation on a rock: and when the flood arose, [a] the stream beat vehemently upon that house, and [b] could not shake it: for it was founded upon a rock.

49 But he that heareth, and doeth not, is like a man that without a foundation built an house upon the earth; against which the stream did beat vehemently, and immediately it fell; and the ruin of that house was great.

CHAP. VII.

NOW when he had ended all his sayings in the audience of the people, [c] he entered into Capernaum.

2 And a certain centurion's servant, who [d] was dear unto him, was sick, and ready to die.

3 And when he heard of Jesus, he sent unto him the elders of the Jews, [e] beseeching him that he would come and heal his servant.

4 And when they came to Jesus, they besought him instantly, saying, That he was worthy for whom he should do this:

5 For [f] he loveth our nation, and he hath built us a synagogue.

6 Then Jesus went with them. And when he was now not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to him, saying unto him, Lord, trouble not thyself: [g] for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter under my roof:

7 Wherefore neither thought I myself worthy to come unto thee: but [h] say in a word, and my servant shall be healed.

8 For I also am a man set under authority, having under me soldiers, and I say unto [i] one, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.

9 When Jesus heard these things, he marvelled at him, and turned him about, and said unto the people that followed him, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel.

10 And they that were sent, returning to the house, found the servant whole that had been sick.

11 ¶ And it came to pass the day after, that he went into a city called Nain; and many of his disciples went with him, and much people.

12 Now when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow: and much people of the city was with her.

13 And when the Lord saw her, [k] he had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not.

14 And he came and touched the ‡bier: and they that bare him stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, [l] Arise.

15 And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And he delivered him to his mother.

16 And [m] there came a fear on all: and they glorified God, saying, [n] That a great prophet is risen up among us; and, [o] That God hath visited his people.

17 And this rumour of him went forth throughout all Judæa, and throughout all the region round about.

18 And [a] the disciples of John shewed him of all these things.

19 ¶ And John calling unto him two of his disciples sent them to Jesus, saying, Art thou [b] he that should come? or look we for another?

20 When the men were come unto him, they said, John Baptist hath sent us unto thee, saying, Art thou he that should come? or look we for another?

21 And in the same hour he cured many of their infirmities and plagues, and of evil spirits; and unto many that were blind he gave sight.

22 Then Jesus answering said unto them, Go your way, and tell John what things ye have seen and heard; [c] how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, [d] to the poor the gospel is preached.

23 And blessed is he, whosoever shall not be [e] offended in me.

24 ¶ And [f] when the messengers of John were departed, he began to speak unto the people concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness for to see? A reed shaken with the wind?

25 But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? Behold, they which are gorgeously apparelled, and live delicately, are in kings' courts.

26 But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? Yea, I say unto you, [g] and much more than a prophet.

27 This is he, of whom it is written, [h] Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

28 For I say unto you, Among those that are born of women there is not a greater prophet than John the Baptist: but he that is least in the kingdom of God is greater than he.

29 And all the people that heard him, and the publicans, justified God, [m] being baptized with the baptism of John.

30 But the Pharisees and lawyers [†] rejected [n] the counsel of God [‡] against themselves, being not baptized of him.

31 ¶ And the Lord said, [p] Whereunto then shall I liken the men of this generation? and to what are they like?

32 They are like unto children sitting in the marketplace, and calling one to another, and saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced; we have mourned to you, and ye have not wept.

33 For [s] John the Baptist came neither eating bread nor drinking wine; and ye say, He hath a devil.

34 The Son of man is come eating and drinking; and ye say, Behold a gluttonous man, and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners!

35 But [t] wisdom is justified of all her children.

36 ¶ And [u] one of the Pharisees desired him that he would eat with him. And he went into the Pharisee's house, and sat down to meat.

37 And, behold, a woman in the city, which [v] was a sinner, when she knew that Jesus sat at meat in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster box of ointment,

38 And stood at his feet behind him [w] weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment.

39 Now when the Pharisee which had bidden him saw it, [x] he spake within himself, saying, [y] This man, if he were a prophet, would have known who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth him: for she is a sinner.

40 And Jesus answering said unto him, Simon, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And he saith, Master, say on.

41 There was a certain creditor which had two debtors: [z] the one owed five hundred [a] pence, and the other fifty.

42 And when they had nothing to pay, [b] he frankly forgave them both. Tell me therefore, which of them will love him most?

43 Simon answered and said, [c] I suppose that he, to whom he forgave most. And he said unto him, Thou hast rightly judged.

44 And he turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no water for my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head.

45 Thou gavest me no kiss: but this woman since the time I came in hath not ceased to kiss my feet.

46 My [d] head with oil thou didst not anoint: but this woman hath anointed my feet with ointment.

47 Wherefore [e] I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much: but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little.

48 And he said unto her, [f] Thy sins are forgiven.

49 And they that sat at meat with him began to say within themselves, Who is this that forgiveth sins also?

50 And he said to the woman, [g] Thy faith hath saved thee; go in peace.

CHAP. VIII.

AND it came to pass afterward, that [h] he went throughout every city and village, preaching and shewing the glad tidings of the kingdom of God: and the twelve were with him,

2 And [i] certain women, which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary called Magdalene, [k] out of whom went seven devils,

3 And Joanna the wife of Chuza Herod's steward, and Susanna, and many others, which ministered unto him of their substance.

4 ¶ And [l] when much people were gathered together, and were come to him out of every city, he spake by a parable:

5 A sower went out to sow his seed: and as he sowed, some fell by the way side; and it was trodden down, and the fowls of the air devoured it.

6 And some fell upon [m] a rock; and as soon as it was sprung up, it withered away, because it lacked moisture.

7 And some fell among [n] thorns; and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it.

8 And other fell on [o] good ground, and sprang up, [p] and bare fruit an hundredfold. And when he had said these things, he cried, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

9 And [q] his disciples asked him, saying, What might this parable be?

10 And he said, [r] Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God: but to others in parables; [s] that seeing they might not see, and hearing they might not understand.

11 Now [a] the parable is this: The seed is the word of God.

12 Those by the way side are they that hear; [b] then cometh the devil, and taketh away the word out of their hearts, [c] lest they should believe and be saved.

13 They on the rock are they, which, when they hear, [d] receive the word with joy; and these have no root, which for a while believe, and in time of temptation fall [e] away.

14 And that which fell among thorns are they, which, when they have heard, go forth, [f] and are choked with cares and riches and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection.

15 But that on the good ground are they, which in an honest and good heart, having heard the word, keep it, [h] and bring forth fruit with patience.

16 ¶ No [i] man, when he hath lighted a candle, covereth it with a vessel, or putteth it under a bed; but setteth it on a candlestick, that they which enter in may see the light.

17 For [m] nothing is secret, that shall not be made manifest; neither any thing hid, that shall not be known and come abroad.

18 Take heed therefore how ye hear: for [o] whosoever hath, to him shall be given; and whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he [p] seemeth to have.

19 ¶ Then [r] came to him his mother and his brethren, and could not come at him for the press.

20 And it was told him by certain which said, Thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to see thee.

21 And he answered and said unto them, My mother and my brethren are these which hear the word of God, and do it.

22 ¶ Now [u] it came to pass on a certain day, that he went into a ship with his disciples: and he said unto them, Let us go over unto the other side of the lake. And they launched forth.

23 But as they sailed he fell asleep: and there came down a storm of wind on the lake; and they were filled with water, and were in jeopardy.

24 And they came to him, and awoke him, saying, Master, master, we perish. Then he arose, and rebuked the wind and the raging of the water: and they ceased, and there was a calm.

25 And he said unto them, Where is your faith? And they being afraid wondered, saying one to another, [y] What manner of man is this! for he commandeth even the winds and water, and they obey him.

26 ¶ And [z] they arrived at the country of the Gadarenes which is over against Galilee.

27 And when he went forth to land, there met him out of the city a certain man, which had devils long time, and ware no clothes, neither abode in any house, but in the tombs.

28 When he saw Jesus, he cried out, and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God most high? I beseech thee, [c] torment me not.

29 (For he had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. For oftentimes it had caught him: and he was kept bound with chains and in fetters; and he brake the bands, and was driven of the devil into the wilderness.)

30 And Jesus asked him, saying, What is thy name? And he said, Legion: because many devils were entered into him.

31 And they besought him that he would not command them to go out into the deep.

32 And there was there an herd of many swine feeding on the mountain: and they besought him that he would suffer them to enter into them. And he suffered them.

33 Then went the devils out of the man, and entered into the swine: and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the lake, and were choked.

34 When they that fed them saw what was done, they fled, and went and told it in the city and in the country.

35 Then they went out to see what was done; and came to Jesus, and found the man, out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed, [c] and in his right mind: and they were afraid.

36 They also which saw it told them by what means he that was possessed of the devils was healed.

37 ¶ Then [f] the whole multitude of the country of the Gadarenes round about [g] besought him to depart from them; for they were taken with great fear: and he went up into the ship and returned back again.

38 Now [p] the man out of whom the devils were departed besought him that he might be with him: but Jesus sent him away, saying,

39 Return to thine own house, and shew how great things God hath done unto thee. And he went his way, [q] and published throughout the whole city how great things Jesus had done unto him.

40 And it came to pass, that, when Jesus was returned, the people gladly received him: [t] for they were all waiting for him.

41 ¶ And, [v] behold, there came a man named Jairus, and he was a ruler of the synagogue: and he fell down at Jesus' feet, and besought him that he would come into his house:

42 For he had one only daughter, about twelve years of age, and she lay a dying. But as he went the people thronged him.

43 ¶ And [x] a woman having an issue of blood twelve years, which had spent all her living upon physicians, neither could be healed of any,

44 Came behind him, and touched the border of his garment: and immediately her issue of blood stanched.

45 And Jesus said, Who touched me? When all denied, Peter and they that were with him said, Master, the multitude throng thee and press thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?

46 And Jesus said, Somebody hath touched me: for I perceive that [a] virtue is gone out of me.

47 And [b] when the woman saw that she was not hid, [c] she came trembling, and falling down before him, she declared unto him before all the people for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediately.

48 And he said unto her, [d] Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace.

49 ¶ While [f] he yet spake, there cometh one from the ruler of the synagogue's house, saying to him, Thy daughter is dead; [g] trouble not the Master.

50 But when Jesus heard it, he answered him, saying, Fear not: [a] believe only, and she shall be made whole.

51 And when he came into the house, he [a] suffered no man to go in, save Peter, and James, and John, and the father and the mother of the maiden.

52 And all wept, and bewailed her: but he said, Weep not; she is not dead, [c] but sleepeth.

53 And [f] they laughed him to scorn, knowing that she was dead.

54 And he put them all out, and took her by the hand, and called, saying, Maid, [h] arise.

55 And her spirit came again, and she arose straightway: and he commanded to give her meat.

56 And her parents were astonished: but [i] he charged them that they should tell no man what was done.

CHAP. IX.

THEN [m] he called his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases.

2 And [o] he sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick.

3 And [p] he said unto them, Take nothing for your journey, neither staves, nor scrip, neither bread, neither money; neither have two coats apiece.

4 And whatsoever house ye enter into, there abide, and thence depart.

5 And whosoever will not receive you, when ye go out of that city, [s] shake off the very dust from your feet for a testimony against them.

6 And they departed, and went through the towns, preaching the gospel, and healing every where.

7 ¶ Now [v] Herod the tetrarch heard of all that was done by him: and he was perplexed, because that it was said of some, that John was risen from the dead;

8 And of some, that Elias had appeared; and of others, that one of the old prophets was risen again.

9 And Herod said, John have I beheaded: but who is this, of whom I hear such things? [y] And he desired to see him.

10 ¶ And [z] the apostles, when they were returned, told him all that they had done. [a] And he took them, and went aside privately into a desert place belonging to the city called Bethsaida.

11 And the people, when they knew it, followed him: [c] and he received them, and spake unto them of the kingdom of God, and [d] healed them that had need of healing.

12 And [f] when the day began to wear away, then came the twelve, and said unto him, Send the multitude away, that they may go into the towns and country round about, and lodge, and get victuals: for we are here in a desert place.

13 But he said unto them, [g] Give ye them to eat. And they said, We have no more but five loaves and two fishes; except we should go and buy meat for all this people.

14 For they were about five thousand men. And he said to his disciples, Make them sit down by fifties in a company.

15 And they did so, and made them all sit down.

16 Then he took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he blessed them, and brake, and gave to the disciples to set before the multitude.

17 And they did eat, and were all filled:

and there was taken up of fragments that remained to them twelve baskets.

18 ¶ And [k] it came to pass, as he was alone praying, his disciples were with him: and he asked them, saying, Whom say the people that I am?

19 They answering said, [l] John the Baptist; but some say, Elias; and others say, that one of the old prophets is risen again.

20 He said unto them, But whom say ye that I am? Peter answering said, [g] The Christ of God.

21 And he straitly charged them, and commanded them to tell no man that thing;

22 Saying, [i] The Son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be slain, and be raised the third day.

23 ¶ And [k] he said to them all, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me.

24 For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it.

25 For [n] what is a man advantaged, if he gain the whole world, and lose himself, or be cast away?

26 For [r] whosoever shall be ashamed of me and of my words, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he shall come in his own glory, and in his Father's, and of the holy angels.

27 But I tell you of a truth, there be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the kingdom of God.

28 ¶ And [t] it came to pass about an eight days after these [u] sayings, he took Peter and John and James, [w] and went up into a mountain to pray.

29 And as he prayed, the fashion of his countenance was altered, and his raiment was white and glistering.

30 And, behold, there talked with him two men, which were Moses and Elias:

31 Who appeared in glory, and spake of his decease which he should accomplish at Jerusalem.

32 But Peter and they that were with him [x] were heavy with sleep: and when they were awake, they saw his glory, and the two men that stood with him.

33 And it came to pass, as they departed from him, Peter said unto Jesus, Master, [b] it is good for us to be here: and let us make three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias: not knowing what he said.

34 While he thus spake, [d] there came a cloud, and overshadowed them: [e] and they feared as they entered into the cloud.

35 And there came a voice out of the cloud, saying, [h] This is my beloved Son: [i] hear him.

36 And when the voice was past, Jesus was found alone. [k] And they kept it close, and told no man in those days any of those things which they had seen.

37 ¶ And [m] it came to pass, that on the next day, when they were come down from the hill, much people met him.

38 And, behold, a man of the company cried out, saying, Master, I beseech thee, look upon my son: for he is mine only child.

39 And, lo, a spirit taketh him, and he suddenly crieth out; and it teareth him that he foameth again, and bruising him hardly departeth from him.

40 And I besought thy disciples to cast him out; and they could not.

41 And Jesus answering said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you, and suffer you? Bring thy son hither.

42 And as he was yet a coming, the devil threw him down, and tare him. And Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and healed the child, and delivered him again to his father.

43 ¶ And they were all amazed at the mighty power of God. But while they wondered every one at all things which Jesus did, he said unto his disciples, 44 Let / these sayings sink down into your ears: for the Son of man shall be delivered into the hands of men.

45 But [h] they understood not this saying, and it was hid from them, that they perceived it not: and [h] they feared to ask him of that saying.

46 ¶ Then there arose a reasoning among them, [i] which of them should be greatest.

47 And Jesus, perceiving the thought of their heart, took a child, and set him by him,

48 And said unto them, [k] Whosoever shall receive this child in my name receiveth me: and whosoever shall receive me receiveth him that sent me: [l] for he that is least among you all, the same shall be great.

49 ¶ And [m] John answered and said, Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name; and we forbad him, because he followeth not with us.

50 And Jesus said unto him, Forbid him not: for [n] he that is not against us is for us.

51 ¶ And it came to pass, when the time was come that [o] he should be received up, he stedfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem, 52 And sent messengers before his face: and they went, and entered into a village of the Samaritans, to make ready for him.

53 And [p] they did not receive him, because his face was as though he would go to Jerusalem.

54 And when his disciples James and John saw this, [q] they said, Lord, wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them, even as [r] Elias did?

55 But he turned, [s] and rebuked them, and said, [t] Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of.

56 For [u] the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them. And they went to another village.

57 ¶ And it came to pass, that, as they went in the way, a certain man said unto him, Lord, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest.

58 And Jesus said unto him, Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head.

59 And he said unto another, Follow me. But he said, Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father.

60 Jesus said unto him, [x] Let the dead bury their dead: but go thou and preach the kingdom of God.

61 And another also said, Lord, [y] I will follow thee; but let me first go bid them farewell, which are at home at my house.

62 And Jesus said unto him, No man, having put his hand to the plough, [z] and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God.

place, whither he himself would come.

2 Therefore said he unto them, [a] The harvest truly is great, but the labourers are few: [b] pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers into his harvest.

3 Go your ways: [c] behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves.

4 Carry [d] neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes: and [e] salute no man by the way.

5 And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house.

6 And [f] if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon it: if not, it shall turn to you again.

7 And in the same house remain, [g] eating and drinking such things as they give: for [i] the labourer is worthy of his hire. Go not from house to house.

8 And into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you, eat such things as are set before you:

9 And [m] heal the sick that are therein, and say unto them, [n] The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

10 But into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you not, go your ways out into the streets of the same, and say,

11 Even [r] the very dust of your city, which cleaveth on us, we do wipe off against you: notwithstanding be ye sure of this, that the kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

12 But I say unto you, that it shall be more tolerable in that day for Sodom, than for that city.

13 Woe [u] unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida! [x] for if the mighty works had been done in Tyre and Sidon, which have been done in you, they had a great while ago repented, sitting in sackcloth and ashes.

14 But it shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon at the judgment, than for you.

15 And thou, Capernaum, which art [y] exalted to heaven, [z] shalt be thrust down to hell.

16 He [a] that heareth you heareth me; and [b] he that despiseth you despiseth me; and he that / despiseth me despiseth him that sent me.

17 ¶ And the seventy returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through thy name.

18 And he said unto them, [c] I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven.

19 Behold, [d] I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall by any means hurt you.

20 Notwithstanding in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rather rejoice, because [e] your names are written in heaven.

21 ¶ In [f] that hour Jesus rejoiced in spirit, and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes: even so, Father; for so it seemed good in thy sight.

22 [g] All [r] things are delivered to me of my Father: and [i] no man knoweth who the Son is, but the Father; and who the Father is, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him.

23 ¶ And he turned him unto his disciples, and said privately, Blessed are the eyes which see the things that ye see:

24 For I tell you, [y] that many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

25 ¶ And, behold, a certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, [c] Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

26 He said unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou?

27 And he answering said, [d]Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and [e] thy neighbour as thyself.

28 And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and [f]thou shalt live.

29 But he, willing to [g] justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbour?

30 And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead.

31 And by chance there came down a certain priest that way: and when he saw him, [h] he passed by on the other side.

32 And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side.

33 But a certain [i] Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him,

34 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.

35 And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two [k] pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee.

36 Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves?

37 And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise.

38 ¶ Now it came to pass, as they went, that he entered into a certain village: and a certain woman named [l] Martha received him into her house.

39 And she had a sister called Mary, which also [m]sat at Jesus' feet, and heard his word.

40 But Martha was cumbered about much serving, and came to him, and said, Lord, dost thou not care that my sister hath left me to serve alone? bid her therefore that she help me.

41 And Jesus answered and said unto her, Martha, Martha, thou art careful and troubled about many things:

42 But [n] one thing is needful: and Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her.

CHAP. XI.

AND it came to pass, that, as he was praying in a certain place, when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples.

2 And he said unto them, When ye pray, say, [o]Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so in earth.

3 Give us [p] day by day our daily bread.

4 And forgive us our sins; for we also forgive every one that is indebted to us. And lead us not into [q]temptation; but deliver us from evil.

12 Or if he shall ask an egg, will he [h] offer him a scorpion?

13 If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children: how much more shall your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him?

14 ¶ And [k] he was casting out a devil, and it was dumb. And it came to pass, when the devil was gone out, the dumb spake; and the people wondered.

15 But some of them said, He casteth out devils through [l] Beelzebub the chief of the devils.

16 And others, tempting him, [t] sought of him a sign from heaven.

17 But [u] he, knowing their thoughts, said unto them, [v] Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and a house divided against a house falleth.

18 If Satan also be divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand? because ye say that I cast out devils through Beelzebub.

19 And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your sons cast them out? therefore [p] shall they be your judges.

20 But if I [r] with the finger of God cast out devils, no doubt [s] the kingdom of God is come upon you.

21 When a strong man armed keepeth his palace, his goods are in peace:

22 But [w] when a stronger than he shall come upon him and overcome him, he taketh from him all his armour wherein he trusted, and divideth his spoils.

23 He [x] that is not with me is against me: and he that gathereth not with me scattereth.

24 When [y] the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest; [z] and finding none, he saith, I will return unto my house whence I came out.

25 And when he cometh, he findeth it swept and garnished.

26 Then goeth he, and taketh to him seven other spirits more wicked than himself; and they enter in, and dwell there: and [b] the last state of that man is worse than the first.

27 ¶ And it came to pass, as he spake these things, a certain woman of the company lifted up her voice, and said unto him, [c] Blessed is the womb that bare thee, and the paps which thou hast sucked.

28 But he said, Yea [a] rather, blessed are they that hear the word of God, and keep it.

29 ¶ And [b] when the people were gathered thick together, he began to say, [c] This is an evil generation: they seek a sign; and there shall no sign be given it, but the sign of Jonas the prophet.

30 For [as] Jonas was a sign unto the Ninevites, so shall also the Son of man be to this generation.

31 The [d] queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with the men of this generation, and condemn them: for she came from the utmost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here.

32 The men of Nineve shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for they [e] repented at the preaching of Jonas; and, behold, a greater than Jonas is here.

33 No [f] man, when he hath lighted a candle, putteth it in a secret place, neither under a [g]bushel, but on a candlestick, that they which come in may see the light.

34 The light of the body is the eye: therefore when thine eye is single, thy whole body also is full of light; [h] but when thine eye is evil, thy body also is full of darkness.

35 Take heed therefore that the light which is in thee be not darkness.

36 If thy whole body therefore be full of light, having no part dark, the whole shall be full of light, as when [i] the bright shining of a candle doth give thee light.

37 ¶ And as he spake, a certain Pharisee besought him to dine with him: and he went in, and sat down to meat.

38 And [r] when the Pharisee saw it, he marvelled that he had not first washed before dinner.

39 And the Lord said unto him, Now do ye Pharisees make clean the outside of the cup and the platter; but [s] your inward part is full of ravening and wickedness.

40 Ye fools, did not he that made that which is without make that which is within also?

41 But [t] rather give alms [§] of such things as ye have; and, behold, [u] all things are clean unto you.

42 But [v] woe unto you, Pharisees! for ye tithe mint and rue and all manner of herbs, [w] and pass over judgment and the love of God: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.

43 Woe [x] unto you, Pharisees! for ye love the uppermost seats in the synagogues, and greetings in the markets.

44 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! [y] for ye are as graves which appear not, and the men that walk over them are not aware of them.

45 ¶ Then answered one of the lawyers, and said unto him, Master, thus saying thou reproachest us also.

46 And he said, Woe unto you also, ye lawyers! for ye lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers.

47 Woe unto you! for ye build the sepulchres of the prophets, and your fathers killed them.

48 Truly [z] ye bear witness that ye allow the deeds of your fathers: for they indeed killed them, and ye build their sepulchres.

49 Therefore also said [a] the wisdom of God, I will send them prophets and apostles, and some of them they shall slay and persecute:

50 That the blood of all the prophets, which was shed from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation;

51 From [d] the blood of Abel unto [e] the blood of Zacharias, which perished between the altar and the temple: verily I say unto you, It shall be required of this generation.

52 Woe unto you, lawyers! for ye have taken away the key of knowledge: ye entered not in yourselves, and them that were entering in ye [f] hindered.

53 And as he said these things unto them, the scribes and the Pharisees began to urge him vehemently, and to provoke him to speak of many things:

54 Laying wait for him, and [i] seeking to catch something out of his mouth, that they might accuse him.

CHAP. XII.

IN [k] the mean time, when there were gathered together an innumerable multitude of people, insomuch that they trode one upon another, he began to say unto his disciples first of all, Beware ye of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy.

2 For [m] there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known.

3 Therefore whatsoever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light; and that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the housetops.

4 And [o] I say unto you [p] my friends, Be not afraid of them that kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do.

5 But I will forewarn you whom ye shall fear: Fear him, which after he hath killed hath power to cast into hell; yea, I say unto you, Fear him.

6 Are not five sparrows sold for two [§] farthings, and not one of them is forgotten before God?

7 But even the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not therefore: [r] ye are of more value than many sparrows.

8 Also [s] I say unto you, Whosoever shall confess me before men, him shall the Son of man also confess before the angels of God:

9 But he that denieth me before men shall be denied before the angels of God.

10 And [t] whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but unto him that blasphemeth against the Holy Ghost it shall not be forgiven.

11 And [d] when they bring you unto the synagogues, and unto magistrates, and powers, take ye no thought how or what thing ye shall answer, or what ye shall say:

12 For the Holy Ghost shall teach you in the same hour what ye ought to say.

13 ¶ And one of the company said unto him, Master, speak to my brother, that he divide the inheritance with me.

14 And he said unto him, [v] Man, who made me a judge or a divider over you?

15 And he said unto them, Take heed, and beware of covetousness: for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth.

16 And he spake a parable unto them, saying, The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully:

17 And he thought within himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have no room where to bestow my fruits?

18 And he said, This will I do: I will pull down my barns, and build greater; and there will I bestow all my fruits and my goods.

19 And I will say to my soul, [e] Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.

20 But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night [o] thy [d] soul shall be required of thee: [p] then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?

21 So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, [f] and is not rich toward God.

22 ¶ And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, [g] Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what ye shall put on.

23 The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment.

24 Consider the ravens: for they neither sow nor reap; which neither have storehouse nor barn; and [h] God feedeth them: how much more are ye better than the fowls?

25 And [i] which of you with taking thought can add to his stature one cubit?

26 If ye then be not able to do that thing which is least, [m] why take ye thought for the rest?

27 Consider the lilies how they grow: they toil not, they spin not; and yet I say unto you, that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

28 If then God so clothe the grass, which [n] is to day in the field, and to morrow is cast into the oven; how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith?

29 And seek not ye what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink, [§] neither be ye of doubtful mind.

30 For all these things do the nations of the world seek after: and your Father knoweth that ye have need of these things.

31 ¶ But rather seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you.

32 Fear not, little flock; for [r] it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom.

33 Sell [s] that ye have, and give alms; [u] provide yourselves bags which wax not old, a treasure in the heavens that faileth not, where no thief approacheth, neither moth corrupteth.

34 For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

35 Let [x] your loins be girded about, and your [y] lights burning;

36 And ye yourselves like unto men that wait for their lord, when he will return from the wedding; that when he cometh and knocketh, they may open unto him immediately.

37 Blessed [z] are those servants, whom the lord when he cometh shall find watching: verily I say unto you, that he shall gird himself, and make them to sit down to meat, and will come forth and serve them.

38 And if he shall come in the second watch, or come in the third watch, and find them so, blessed are those servants.

39 And [a] this know, that if the goodman of the house had known what hour the thief would come, he would have watched, and not have suffered his house to be broken through.

40 Be [c] ye therefore ready also: for the Son of man cometh at an hour when ye think not.

41 ¶ Then Peter said unto him, Lord, speakest thou this parable unto us, or even to all?

42 And the Lord said, [b] Who then is that faithful and wise steward, whom his lord shall make ruler over his houshold, to give them their portion of meat in due season?

43 Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing.

44 Of a truth I say unto you, that he will make him ruler over all that he hath.

45 But and if that servant say in his heart, My lord delayeth his coming; and shall begin to beat the menservants and maidens, and to eat and drink, and to be drunken;

46 The lord of that servant will come in a day when he looketh not for him, and at an hour when he is not aware, and will † cut him in sunder, and will appoint him his portion with the unbelievers.

47 And [i] that servant, which knew his lord's will, and prepared not himself, neither did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes.

48 But [l] he that knew not, and did commit things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few stripes. For unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required: and to whom men have committed much, of him they will ask the more.

49 ¶ I am come to send fire on the earth; and what will I, if it be already kindled?

50 But [t] I have a baptism to be baptized with; and how am I ‡ straitened till it be accomplished!

51 Suppose [v] ye that I am come to give peace on earth? I tell you, Nay; [w] but rather division:

52 For from henceforth there shall be five in one house divided, three against two, and two against three.

53 The father shall be divided against the son, and the son against the father; the mother against the daughter, and the daughter against the mother; the mother in law against her daughter in law, and the daughter in law against her mother in law.

54 ¶ And he said also to the people, [v] When ye see a cloud rise out of the west, straightway ye say, There cometh a shower; and so it is.

55 And when ye see the south wind blow, ye say, There will be heat; and it cometh to pass.

56 Ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky and of the earth; [z] but how is it that ye do not discern this time?

57 Yea, [a] and why even of yourselves judge ye not what is right?

58 ¶ When [b] thou goest with thine adversary to the magistrate, [c] as thou art in the way, give diligence that thou mayest be delivered from him; lest he hale thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and the officer cast thee into prison.

59 I tell thee, thou shalt not depart thence, till thou hast paid the very last ‖ mite.

THERE were present at that season some that told him of the Galilæans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices.

[a] Suppose ye that these Galilæans were sinners above all the Galilæans, because they suffered such things?

3 I tell you, Nay: [d] but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.

4 Or those eighteen, upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, and slew them, think ye that they were [e] sinners above all men that dwelt in Jerusalem?

5 I tell you, Nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.

6 ¶ He spake also this parable; [h] A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard; [i] and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none.

7 Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, [f] Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and find none: [m]cut it down; why cumbereth it the ground?

8 And he answering said unto him, Lord, [e] let it alone this year also, till I shall dig about it, and dung it:

9 And if it bear fruit, well: and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down.

10 And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath.

11 ¶ And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself.

12 And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity.

13 And [r] he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.

14 And the ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus had healed on the sabbath day, and said unto the people, [s] There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and [v] not on the sabbath day.

15 The Lord then answered him, and said, Thou hypocrite, [p] doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering?

16 And ought not this woman, [q] being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the sabbath day?

17 And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: and all the people rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him.

18 ¶ Then [t] said he, Unto what is the kingdom of God like? and whereunto shall I resemble it?

19 It is like a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and cast into his garden; and it grew, and waxed a great tree; and the fowls of the air lodged in the branches of it.

20 And again he said, Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God?

21 It is like leaven, which a woman took and hid in three [t] measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

22 And [s] he went through the cities and villages, teaching, and journeying toward Jerusalem.

23 Then said one unto him, Lord, are there few that be saved? And he said unto them, 24 ¶ Strive [i] to enter in at the strait gate: for [k] many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able.

26 Then shall ye begin to say, We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets.

30 And, [n] behold, there are last which shall be first, and there are first which shall be last.

31 ¶ The same day there came certain of the Pharisees, saying unto him, Get thee out, and depart hence: for Herod will kill thee.

32 And he said unto them, Go ye, and tell that fox, Behold, I cast out devils, and I do cures to day and to morrow, and the third day [p] I shall be perfected.

33 Nevertheless I must walk to day, and to morrow, and the day following: for it cannot be that a prophet perish out of Jerusalem.

CHAP. XIV.

AND it came to pass, as he went into the house of one of the chief Pharisees to eat bread on the sabbath day, that [x] they watched him.

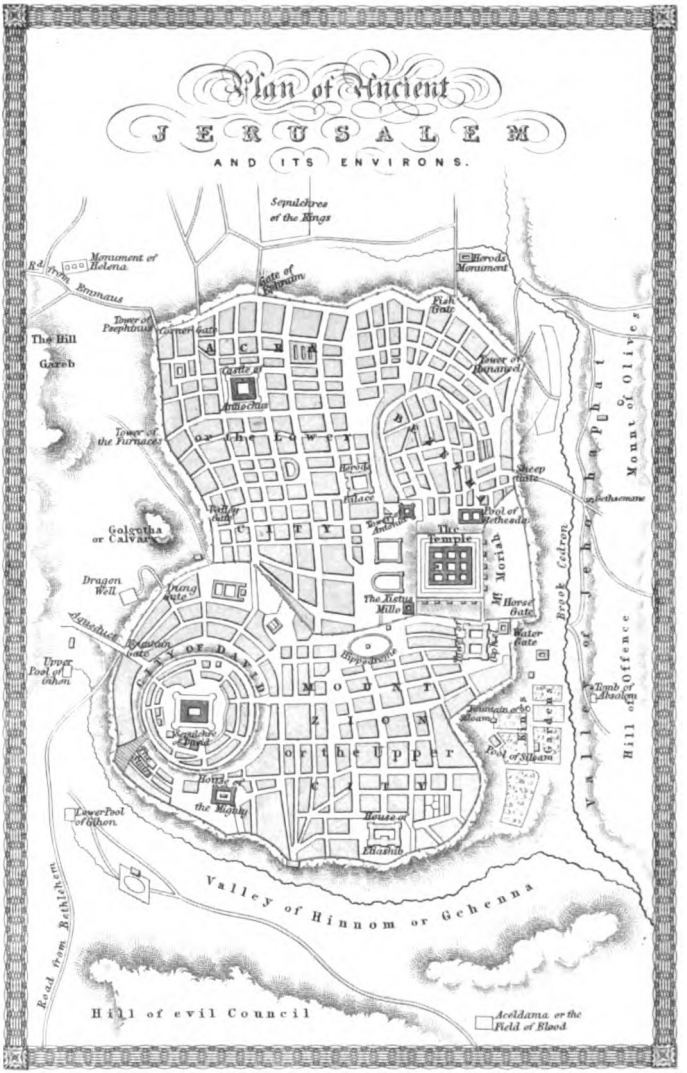
2 And, behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropsy.

3 And Jesus answering spake unto the lawyers and Pharisees, saying, [a] Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath day?

4 And they held their peace. And he took him, and healed him, and let him go;

5 And answered them, saying, [d] Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fallen into a pit, and will not straightway pull him out on the sabbath day?

6 And [e] they could not answer him again to these things.



7 ¶ And he put forth a parable to those which were bidden, [f] when he marked how they chose out the chief rooms; saying unto them,

8 When thou art bidden of any man to a wedding, sit not down in the highest room; lest a more honourable man than thou be bidden of him;

9 And he that bade thee and him come and say to thee, Give this man place; [g] and thou begin with shame to take the lowest room.

10 But [f] when thou art bidden, go and sit down in the lowest room; that when he that bade thee cometh, he may say unto thee, Friend, go up higher: [a] then shalt thou have worship in the presence of them that sit at meat with thee.

11 For [b] whosoever exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

12 ¶ Then said he also to him that bade him, When thou makest a dinner or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor thy rich neighbours; lest they also bid thee again, and a recompence be made thee.

13 But when thou makest a feast, [c] call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind:

14 And thou shalt be blessed; for they cannot recompense thee: for thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just.

15 ¶ And when one of them that sat at meat with him heard these things, he said unto him, [d] Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the kingdom of God.

16 Then [e] said he unto him, A certain man made a great supper, and bade many:

17 And [f] sent his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come; for all things are now ready.

18 And [m] they all with one consent began to make excuse. The first said unto him, I have bought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and see it: I pray thee have me excused.

19 And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them: I pray thee have me excused.

20 And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come.

21 So that servant came, and shewed his lord these things. Then the master of the house being angry said to his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind.

22 And the servant said, Lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and yet there is room.

23 And the lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled.

24 For I say unto you, [g] That none of those men which were bidden shall taste of my supper.

25 ¶ And there went great multitudes with him: and he turned, and said unto them,

26 If [r] any man come to me, [s] and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, [t] yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple.

27 And [u] whosoever doth not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple.

28 For [v] which of you, intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it?

29 Lest haply, after he hath laid the foundation, and is not able to finish it, all that behold it begin to mock him,

30 Saying, This man began to build, and was not able to finish.

31 Or what king, going to make war against another king, sitteth not down first, and consulteth whether he be able with ten thousand to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand?

32 Or else, while the other is yet a great way off, he sendeth an ambassage, and desireth conditions of peace.

33 So likewise, whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple.

34 ¶ Salt [b] is good: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be seasoned?

35 It is neither fit for the land, nor yet for the dunghill; but men cast it out. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

CHAP. XV.

THEN [d] drew near unto him all the publicans and sinners for to hear him.

2 And the Pharisees and scribes murmured, saying, This man receiveth sinners, [f] and eateth with them.

3 ¶ And he spake this parable unto them, saying,

4 What [g] man of you, having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it?

5 And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing.

6 And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and neighbours, saying unto them, Rejoice with me; for I have found my sheep [m] which was lost.

7 I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, [n] more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance.

8 ¶ Either what woman having ten [o] pieces of silver, if she lose one piece, doth not light a candle, and sweep the house, and seek diligently till she find it?

9 And when she hath found it, she calleth her friends and her neighbours together, saying, Rejoice with me; for I have found the piece which I had lost.

10 Likewise, I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over [p] one sinner that repenteth.

11 ¶ And he said, A certain man had two sons:

12 And the younger of them said to his father, [r] Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me. And he divided unto them [s] his living.

13 And not many days after the younger son gathered all together, [u] and took his journey into a far country, and there [v] wasted his substance with riotous living.

14 And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want.

15 And [w] he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country; and he sent him into his fields [b] to feed swine.

16 And [d] he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat: and no man gave unto him.

17 And [f] when he came to himself, he said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger!

18 I [g] will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee,

19 And am no more worthy to be called thy son: [h] make me as one of thy hired servants.

20 And he arose, and came to his father. But [i] when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him.

21 And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, [k] and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son.

22 But the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet:

23 And bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it; and let us eat, and be merry:

24 For [e] this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found. And they began to be merry.

25 Now his elder son was in the field: and as he came and drew nigh to the house, he heard musick and dancing.

26 And he called one of the servants, and asked what these things meant.

27 And he said unto him, Thy brother is come; and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe and sound.

28 And [f] he was angry, and would not go in: therefore came his father out, and intreated him.

29 And he answering said to his father, Lo, these many years do I serve thee, [f] neither transgressed I at any time thy commandment: and yet thou never gavest me a kid, that I might make merry with my friends:

30 But as soon as this thy son was come, which hath devoured thy living with harlots, thou hast killed for him the fatted calf.

31 And he said unto him, Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine.

32 It was meet that we should make merry, and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again; and was lost, and is found.

CHAP. XVI.

AND he said also unto his disciples, There was a certain rich man, which had a steward; and the same was accused unto him that he had wasted his goods.

2 And he called him, and said unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee? give an account of thy stewardship; for thou mayest be no longer steward.

3 Then the steward said within himself, What shall I do? for my lord taketh away from me the stewardship: I cannot dig; to beg I am ashamed.

4 I am resolved what to do, that, when I am put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses.

5 So he called every one of his lord's debtors unto him, and said unto the first, How much owest thou unto my lord?

6 And he said, An hundred [g] measures of oil. And he said unto him, [r] Take thy bill, and sit down quickly, and write fifty.

7 Then said he to another, And how much owest thou? And he said, An hundred [t] measures of wheat. And he said unto him, Take thy bill, and write fourscore.

8 And the lord commended the unjust steward, because he had done wisely: for the children of this world are in their generation wiser than [u] the children of light.

9 And I say unto you, [v] Make to yourselves friends of the [w] mammon of unrighteousness; that, when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations.

10 He [x] that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much: and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much.

11 If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous [y] mammon, who will commit to your trust the true riches?

12 And if ye have not been faithful in that which is another man's, who shall give you that which is your own?

13 ¶ No [z] servant can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

14 And the Pharisees also, [a] who were covetous, heard all these things: and they derided him.

15 And he said unto them, Ye are they which [b] justify yourselves before men; but [c] God knoweth your hearts: for [d] that which is highly esteemed among men is abomination in the sight of God.

16 The [e] law and the prophets were until John: since that time the kingdom of God is preached, and every man presseth into it.

17 [f] And it is easier for heaven and earth to pass, than one tittle of the law to fail.

18 Whosoever [g] putteth away his wife, and marrieth another, committeth adultery: and whosoever marrieth her that is put away from her husband committeth adultery.

19 ¶ There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day:

20 And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate, full of sores,

21 And desiring to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table: moreover the dogs came and licked his sores.

22 And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom: the rich man also died, and was buried;

23 And [h] in hell he lift up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.

24 And he cried and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and [i] cool my tongue; for I [k] am tormented in this flame.

25 But Abraham said, Son, [l] remember that thou in thy lifetime receivedst thy good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things: but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented.

26 And beside all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed: so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us, that would come from thence.

27 Then he said, [r] I pray thee therefore, father, that thou wouldest send him to my father's house:

28 For I have five brethren; that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment.

29 Abraham saith unto him, [s] They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear them.

30 And he said, Nay, father Abraham: but if one went unto them from the dead, they will repent.

31 And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, [t] neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead.

CHAP. XVII.

THEN said he unto the disciples, [a] It is impossible but that offences will come: but woe unto him, through whom they come!

2 It were better for [b] him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he cast into the sea, than that he should offend one of these little ones.

3 [c] Take heed to yourselves: [d] If thy brother trespass against thee, [e] rebuke him; and if he repent, forgive him.

4 And if he trespass against thee seven times in a day, and seven times in a day turn again to thee, saying, I repent; thou shalt forgive him.

5 And the apostles said unto the Lord, Increase our faith.

6 And the Lord said, [a] If ye had faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye might say unto this sycamine tree, Be thou plucked up by the root, and be thou planted in the sea; and it should obey you.

7 But which of you, having a servant plowing or feeding cattle, will say unto him by and by, when he is come from the field, Go and sit down to meat?

8 And will not rather say unto him, Make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thyself, [f] and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken; and afterward thou shalt eat and drink?

9 Doth he thank that servant because he did the things that were commanded him? I trow not.

10 So likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We [g] are unprofitable servants: we have done that which was our duty to do.

11 ¶ And it came to pass, [h] as he went to Jerusalem, that he passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee.

12 And as he entered into a certain village, there met him ten men that were lepers, [m] which stood afar off:

13 And they lifted up their voices, and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us.

14 And when he saw them, he said unto them, [n] Go shew yourselves unto the priests. And it came to pass, that, as they went, they were cleansed.

15 And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God,

16 And fell down on his face at his feet, giving him thanks: and he was a Samaritan.

17 And Jesus answering said, Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?

18 There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this stranger.

19 And [p] he said unto him, Arise, go thy way: thy faith hath made thee whole.

20 ¶ And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come, he answered them and said, The kingdom of God cometh not with ‡ observation:

21 Neither shall they say, [r] Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, the [s] kingdom of God is ‖ within you.

22 And he said unto the disciples, [t] The days will come, when ye shall desire to see one of the days of the Son of man, and ye shall not see it.

23 And [u] they shall say to you, See here; or, see there: go not after them, nor follow them.

24 For as the lightning, that lighteneth out of the one part under heaven, shineth unto the other part under heaven; so shall also the Son of man be in his day.

25 But [x] first must he suffer many things, and be rejected of this generation.

26 And [a] as it was in the days of Noe, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man.

27 They did eat, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark, and the flood came, and destroyed them all.

28 Likewise [b] also as it was in the days of Lot; they did eat, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they builded;

29 But the same day that Lot went out of Sodom it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all.

30 Even thus shall it be in the day when the Son of man [b] is revealed.

31 In that day, he which shall be upon the housetop, and his stuff in the house, let him not come down to take it away: and he that is in the field, let him likewise not return back.

32 Remember [d] Lot's wife.

33 Whosoever [e] shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it.

34 I [f] tell you, in that night there shall be two men in one bed; the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left.

35 Two women shall be grinding together; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

36 [g] Two men shall be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

37 And they answered and said unto him, [h] Where, Lord? And he said unto them, Wheresoever the body is, thither will the eagles be gathered together.

CHAP. XVIII.

AND he spake a parable unto them to this end, that men ought [i] always to pray, and not to faint;

2 Saying, There was [†] in a city a judge, which feared not God, neither regarded man:

3 And there was a widow in that city; and she came unto him, saying, Avenge me of mine adversary.

4 And he would not for a while: but afterward he said within himself, Though I fear not God, nor regard man;

5 Yet [o] because this widow troubleth me, I will avenge her, lest by her continual coming she weary me.

6 And the Lord said, Hear what the unjust judge saith.

7 And [p] shall not God avenge his own elect, which cry day and night unto him, though he bear long with them?

8 I tell you [r] that he will avenge them speedily. Nevertheless when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?

9 And he spake this parable unto certain [t] which trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and despised others:

10 Two men went up into the temple to pray; the one a Pharisee, and the other a publican.

11 The Pharisee [u] stood and prayed thus with himself, [x] God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this publican.

12 I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I possess.

13 And the publican, standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote upon his breast, saying, God be merciful to me a sinner.

14 I tell you, this man went down to his house justified rather than the other: [b] for every one that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

15 And [c] they brought unto him also infants, that he would touch them: but when his disciples saw it, they rebuked them.

16 But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for [f] of such is the kingdom of God.

17 Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein.

18 And [a] a certain ruler asked him, saying, Good Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

19 And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? none is good, save one, that is, God.

20 Thou knowest the commandments, [b] Do not commit adultery, Do not kill, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, [d] Honour thy father and thy mother.

21 And he said, All these have I kept from my youth up.

22 Now when Jesus heard these things, he said unto him, Yet lackest thou one thing: [f] sell all that thou hast, and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, follow me.

23 And when he heard this, he was very sorrowful: for he was very rich.

24 And when Jesus saw that he was very sorrowful, he said, [g] How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!

25 For it is easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 And they that heard it said, Who then can be saved?

27 And he said, [m] The things which are impossible with men are possible with God.

28 Then Peter said, Lo, we have left all, and followed thee.

29 And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, [r] There is no man that hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children, for the kingdom of God's sake,

30 Who [t] shall not receive manifold more in this present time, and in the world to come life everlasting.

31 ¶ Then [u] he took unto him the twelve, and said unto them, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and all things [x] that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of man shall be accomplished.

32 For [z] he shall be delivered unto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked, and spitefully entreated, and spitted on:

33 And they shall scourge him, and put him to death: and the third day he shall rise again.

34 And [a] they understood none of these things: and this saying was hid from them, neither knew they the things which were spoken.

35 ¶ And [b] it came to pass, that as he was come nigh unto Jericho, a certain blind man sat by the way side begging:

36 And hearing the multitude pass by, he asked what it meant.

37 And they told him, that Jesus of Nazareth passeth by.

38 And he cried, saying, Jesus, [c] thou son of David, [e] have mercy on me.

39 And they which went before rebuked him, that he should hold his peace: but he cried so much the more, Thou son of David, have mercy on me.

40 And Jesus stood, and commanded him to be brought unto him: and when he was come near, he asked him, 41 Saying, What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may receive my sight.

42 And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight: [f] thy faith hath saved thee.

43 And immediately he [h] received his sight, and followed him, [i] glorifying God:

CHAP. XIX.

AND Jesus entered and passed through Jericho.

2 And, behold, there was a man named Zacchæus, which was the chief among the publicans, [b] and he was rich.

3 And he sought to see Jesus who he was; and could not for the press, because he was little of stature.

4 And he ran before, and climbed up into a sycomore tree to see him: for he was to pass that way.

5 And when Jesus came to the place, [c] he looked up, and saw him, and said unto him, Zacchæus, make haste, and come down; for to day I must abide at thy house.

6 And he made haste, and came down, and [g] received him joyfully.

7 And when they saw it, they all murmured, saying, [k] That he was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner.

8 And Zacchæus stood, and said unto the Lord; Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken any thing from any man by [k] false accusation, [l] I restore him fourfold.

9 And Jesus said unto him, This day is salvation come to this house, forsomuch as [n] he also is [o] a son of Abraham.

10 For [p] the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.

11 And as they heard these things, he added and spake a parable, because he was nigh to Jerusalem, and because [s] they thought that the kingdom of God should immediately appear.

12 He [u] said therefore, A certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return.

13 And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten [z] pounds, and said unto them, Occupy till I come.

14 But [y] his citizens hated him, and sent a message after him, saying, We will not have this man to reign over us.

15 And it came to pass, that when he was returned, having received the kingdom, then he commanded these servants to be called unto him, to whom he had given the† money, that he might know how much every man had gained by trading.

16 Then came the first, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained ten pounds.

17 And he said unto him, Well, thou good servant: because thou hast been [g] faithful in a very little, have thou authority over ten cities.

18 And the second came, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained five pounds.

19 And he said likewise to him, Be thou also over five cities.

20 And another came, saying, Lord, behold, here is thy pound, which I have kept laid up in a napkin:

21 For I feared thee, because thou art an austere man: thou takest up that thou layedst not down, and reapest that thou didst not sow.

22 And he saith unto him, [f] Out of thine own mouth will I judge thee, thou wicked servant. Thou knewest that I was an austere man, taking up that I laid not down, and reaping that I did not sow:

23 Wherefore then gavest not thou my money into the bank, that at my coming I might have required mine own with usury?

24 And he said unto them that stood by,

Take from him the pound, and give it to him that hath ten pounds.

25 (And they said unto him, Lord, he hath ten pounds.)

26 For I say unto you, [b] That unto every one which hath shall be given; and from him that hath not, [c] even that he hath shall be taken away from him.

27 But those mine enemies, which would not that I should reign over them, bring hither, and slay them before me.

28 ¶ And when he had thus spoken, [d] he went before, ascending up to Jerusalem.

29 And [e] it came to pass, when he was come nigh to Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount called [f] the mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples,

30 Saying, Go ye into the village over against you; in the which at your entering ye shall find a colt tied, whereon yet never man sat: loose him, and bring him hither.

31 And if any man ask you, Why do ye loose him? thus shall ye say unto him, Because the Lord [g] hath need of him.

32 And they that were sent went their way, and found even as he had said unto them.

33 And as they were loosing the colt, the owners thereof said unto them, Why loose ye the colt?

34 And they said, The Lord hath need of him.

35 And they brought him to Jesus: and [h] they cast their garments upon the colt, and they set Jesus thereon.

36 And as he went, they spread their clothes in the way.

37 And when he was come nigh, even now at the descent of the mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoice and praise God with a loud voice for all the mighty works that they had seen:

38 Saying, [i] Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord: [k] peace in heaven, and glory in the highest.

39 And some of the Pharisees from among the multitude said unto him, Master, rebuke thy disciples.

40 And he answered and said unto them, I tell you that, if these should hold their peace, [l] the stones would immediately cry out.

41 ¶ And when he was come near, he beheld the city, and [m] wept over it,

42 Saying, If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes.

43 For the days shall come upon thee, that thine enemies shall [n] cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and keep thee in on every side, 44 And [o] shall lay thee even with the ground, and thy children within thee; and [p] they shall not leave in thee one stone upon another; [q] because thou knewest not the time of thy visitation.

45 And [r] he went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold therein, and them that bought;

46 Saying unto them, [s] It is written, My house is the house of prayer: but [t] ye have made it a den of thieves.

47 And he taught daily in the temple. But [u] the chief priests and the scribes and the chief of the people sought to destroy him, 48 And could not find what they might do: for all the people [x] were very attentive to hear him.

CHAP. XX.

AND [a] it came to pass, that on one of those days, as he taught the people in the temple, and preached the gospel, the chief priests and the scribes came upon him with the elders,

2 And spake unto him, saying, [b] Tell us, by what authority doest thou these things? or who is he that gave thee this authority?

3 And he answered and said unto them, [c] I will also ask you one thing; and answer me:

4 The baptism of John, was it from heaven, or of men?

5 And they reasoned with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven; he will say, Why then believed ye him not?

6 But and if we say, Of men; all the people will stone us: for they be persuaded that [d] John was a prophet.

7 And they answered, [e] that they could not tell whence it was.

8 And Jesus said unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things.

9 Then began he to speak to the people this parable; [m] A certain man planted a vineyard, and let it forth to husbandmen, and went into a far country for a long time.

10 And at the season he sent a servant to the husbandmen, that they should give him of the fruit of the vineyard: [n] but the husbandmen beat him and sent him away empty.

11 And again he sent another servant: and they beat him also, and entreated him shamefully, and sent him away empty.

12 And again he sent a third: and they wounded him also, and cast him out.

13 Then said the lord of the vineyard, What shall I do? I will send my beloved son: it may be they will reverence him when they see him.

14 But when the husbandmen saw him, they reasoned among themselves, saying, [f] This is the heir: come, [g] let us kill him, that the inheritance may be our's.

15 So they cast him out of the vineyard, and killed him. What therefore shall the lord of the vineyard do unto them?

16 He [o] shall come and destroy these husbandmen, and shall give the vineyard to others. And when they heard it, they said, God forbid.

17 And he beheld them, and said, What is this then that is written, [p] The stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner?

18 Whosoever [q] shall fall upon that stone shall be broken; but [r] on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder.

19 ¶ And the chief priests and the scribes the same hour sought to lay hands on him; and they feared the people: for they perceived that he had spoken this parable against them.

20 And [s] they watched him, and sent forth spies, which should feign themselves just men, that they might take hold of his words, that so they might deliver him unto the power and authority of the governor.

21 And they asked him, saying, [t] Master, we know that thou sayest and teachest rightly, neither acceptest thou the person of any, but teachest the way of God [u] truly:

22 Is it lawful for us to give tribute unto Cæsar, or no?

23 But [x] he perceived their craftiness, and said unto them, Why tempt ye me?

24 Shew me a [y] penny. Whose image and superscription hath it? They answered and said, Cæsar's.

25 And he said unto them, [a] Render therefore unto Cæsar the things which be Cæsar's, and unto God the things which be God's.

26 And they could not take hold of his words before the people: and they marvelled at his answer, and held their peace.

27 ¶ Then [b] came to him certain of the Sadducees, [c] which deny that there is any resurrection; and they asked him,

28 Saying, Master, [d] Moses wrote unto us, If any man's brother die, having a wife, and he die without children, that his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

29 There were therefore seven brethren: and the first took a wife, and died without children.

30 And the second took her to wife, and he died childless.

31 And the third took her; and in like manner the seven also: and they left no children, and died.

32 Last [e] of all the woman died also.

33 Therefore in the resurrection whose wife of them is she? for seven had her to wife.

34 And Jesus answering said unto them, The children of this world marry, and are given in marriage:

35 But they which shall be [m] accounted worthy to obtain that world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry, nor are given in marriage:

36 Neither can they die any more: for [n] they are equal unto the angels; and are the children of God, [o] being the children of the resurrection.

37 Now that the dead are raised, [p] even Moses shewed at the bush, when he calleth the Lord the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.

38 For he is not a God of the dead, but of the living: for [q] all live unto him.

39 ¶ Then certain of the scribes answering said, Master, thou hast well said.

40 And [r] after that they durst not ask him any question at all.

41 And he said unto them, [s] How say they that Christ is David's son?

42 And David himself saith in the book of Psalms, [t] The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, 43 Till I make thine enemies thy footstool.

44 David therefore calleth him Lord, how is he then his son?

45 ¶ Then [u] in the audience of all the people he said unto his disciples,

46 Beware of the scribes, which desire to walk in long robes, and [v] love greetings in the markets, and the highest seats in the synagogues, and the chief rooms at feasts;

47 Which devour widows' houses, [w] and for a shew make long prayers: the same shall receive greater damnation.

CHAP. XXI.

AND he looked up, [x] and saw the rich men casting their gifts into the treasury.

2 And he saw also a certain poor widow casting in thither two [y] mites.

3 And he said, Of a truth I say unto you, [z] that this poor widow hath cast in more than they all:

4 For all these have of their abundance cast in unto the offerings of God: but she of her penury hath cast in [m] all the living that she had.

5 ¶ And [n] as some spake of the temple, how it was adorned with goodly stones and gifts, he said,

6 As for these things which ye behold, the days will come, in the which [o] there shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

7 And they asked him, saying, Master, but when shall these things be? and what sign will there be when these things shall come to pass?

8 And he said, [p] Take heed that ye be not deceived: for many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; [q] and the time draweth near: go ye not therefore after them.

9 But when ye shall hear of wars and commotions, be not terrified: for these things must first come to pass; but the end is not by and by.

10 Then said he unto them, Nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom:

11 And great earthquakes shall be in divers places, and famines, and pestilences; and fearful sights and great signs shall there be from heaven.

12 But [r] before all these, they shall lay their hands on you, and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues, and [s] into prisons, [t] being brought before kings and rulers [u] for my name's sake.

13 And [v] it shall turn to you for a testimony.

14 Settle [w] it therefore in your hearts, not to meditate before what ye shall answer:

15 For I will give you a mouth and wisdom, [x] which all your adversaries shall not be able to gainsay nor resist.

16 And [y] ye shall be betrayed both by parents, and brethren, and kinsfolks, and friends; and [z] some of you shall they cause to be put to death.

17 And ye shall be hated of all [a] men for my name's sake.

18 But there shall not an hair of your head perish.

19 In your patience possess ye your souls.

20 And [b] when ye shall see Jerusalem compassed with armies, then know that the desolation thereof is nigh.

21 Then let them which are in Judæa flee to the mountains; and let them which are in the midst of it depart out; and let not them that are in the countries enter thereinto.

22 For these be the days of vengeance, that [c] all things which are written may be fulfilled.

23 But woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck, in those days! for there shall be great distress in the land, and wrath upon this people.

24 And they shall fall by the edge of the sword, and shall be led away captive into all nations: and Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles, [d] until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled.

25 ¶ And [e] there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring;

26 Men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth: for the powers of heaven shall be shaken.

27 And then shall they see the Son of man [f] coming in a cloud with power and great glory.

28 And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for [g] your redemption draweth nigh.

29 And [a] he spake to them a parable; Behold the fig tree, and all the trees;

30 When they now shoot forth, ye see and know of your own selves that summer is now nigh at hand.

31 So likewise ye, when ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand.

32 Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass away, till all be fulfilled.

33 Heaven and earth shall pass away: but my words shall not pass away.

34 ¶ And [b] take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting, and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares.

35 For [c] as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth.

36 Watch [d] ye therefore, and [e] pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to [m] stand before the Son of man.

37 And [n] in the day time he was teaching in the temple; and [o] at night he went out, and abode in the mount that is called the mount of Olives.

38 And all the people came [p] early in the morning to him in the temple, for to hear him.

CHAP. XXII.

NOW [q] the feast of unleavened bread drew nigh, which is called the passover.

2 And [r] the chief priests and scribes sought how they might kill him; for they feared the people.

3 ¶ Then [s] entered Satan into Judas surnamed Iscariot, being of the number of the twelve.

4 And he went his way, and communed with the chief priests and captains, how he might betray him unto them.

5 And they were glad, and [t] covenanted to give him money.

6 And he promised, and sought opportunity to betray him unto them [u] in the absence of the multitude.

7 ¶ Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the passover must be killed.

8 And he sent Peter and John, saying, Go and prepare us the passover, that we may eat.

9 And they said unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare?

10 And he said unto them, Behold, when ye are entered into the city, there shall a man meet you, bearing a pitcher of water; follow him into the house where he entereth in.

11 And ye shall say unto the goodman of the house, The Master saith unto thee, Where is the guestchamber, [v] where I shall eat the passover with my disciples?

12 And [x] he shall shew you a large upper room furnished: there make ready.

13 And they went, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover.

14 And [w] when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve apostles with him.

15 And he said unto them, [†] With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer:

16 For I say unto you, I will not any more eat thereof, [y] until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.

17 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, Take this, and divide it among yourselves:

18 For I say unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God shall come.

19 ¶ And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: [h] this do in remembrance of me.

20 Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, [i] This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you.

21 ¶ But, [d] behold, the hand of him that betrayeth me is with me on the table.

22 And truly the Son of man goeth, [f] as it was determined: but woe unto that man by whom he is betrayed!

23 And they began to enquire among themselves, which of them it was that should do this thing.

24 ¶ And [k] there was also a strife among them, which of them should be accounted the greatest.

25 And [l] he said unto them, The kings of the Gentiles exercise lordship over them; and they that exercise authority upon them are called benefactors.

26 But [p] ye shall not be so: [r] but he that is greatest among you, let him be as the younger; and he that is chief, as he that doth serve.

27 For [s] whether is greater, he that sitteth at meat, or he that serveth? is not he that sitteth at meat? but [m] I am among you as he that serveth.

28 Ye are they which have continued with me in [y] my temptations.

29 And [z] I appoint unto you a kingdom, as my Father hath appointed unto me;

30 That [b] ye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, [c] and sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

31 ¶ And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, [d] Satan hath desired to have you, that he may [e] sift you as wheat:

32 But [f] I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren.

33 And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both into prison, and to death.

34 And he said, I tell thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day, before that thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest me.

35 And he said unto them, When I sent you without purse, and scrip, and shoes, lacked ye any thing? And they said, Nothing.

36 Then said he unto them, But now, he that hath a purse, let him take it, and likewise his scrip: and he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment, and buy one.

37 For I say unto you, that this that is written must yet be accomplished in me, [g] And he was reckoned among the transgressors: for the things concerning me have an end.

38 And they said, Lord, behold, here are two swords. And he said unto them, It is enough.

39 ¶ And [l] he came out, and went, [m] as he was wont, to the mount of Olives; and his disciples also followed him.

40 And [o] when he was at the place, he said unto them, Pray that ye enter not into temptation.

41 And he was withdrawn from them about a stone's cast, and kneeled down, and prayed, 42 Saying, Father, if thou be [‡] willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless not my will, but thine, be done.

43 And there appeared [a] an angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him.

44 And [b] being in an agony he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground.

45 And when he rose up from prayer, and was come to his disciples, he found them sleeping for sorrow, 46 And said unto them, Why sleep ye? rise and pray, lest ye enter into temptation.

47 ¶ And while he yet spake, [c] behold a multitude, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them, [d] and drew near unto Jesus to kiss him.

48 But Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of man with a kiss?

49 When they which were about him saw what would follow, they said unto him, Lord, shall we smite with the sword?

50 ¶ And [m] one of them smote the servant of the high priest, and cut off his right ear.

51 And Jesus answered and said, Suffer ye thus far. [n] And he touched his ear, and healed him.

52 Then Jesus said unto the chief priests, and captains of the temple, and the elders, which were come to him, Be ye come out, as against a thief, with swords and staves?

53 When I was daily with you in the temple, ye stretched forth no hands against me: [p] but this is your hour, and the power of darkness.

54 ¶ Then took they him, and led him, and brought him into the high priest's house. [q] And Peter followed afar off.

55 And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the hall, and were set down together, [r] Peter sat down among them.

56 But a certain maid beheld him as he sat by the fire, and earnestly looked upon him, and said, This man was also with him.

57 And [s] he denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not.

58 And after a little while another saw him, and said, Thou art also of them. And Peter said, Man, I am not.

59 And about the space of one hour after another confidently affirmed, saying, Of a truth this fellow also was with him: for he is a Galilæan.

60 And Peter said, Man, I know not what thou sayest. And immediately, while he yet spake, the cock crew.

61 And the Lord turned, [t] and looked upon Peter. And Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said unto him, [u] Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.

62 And Peter went out, [v] and wept bitterly.

63 ¶ And the men that held Jesus mocked him, and smote him.

64 And when they had blindfolded him, they struck him on the face, and asked him, saying, Prophesy, who is it that smote thee?

65 And many other things blasphemously spake they against him.

66 ¶ And as soon as it was day, [x] the elders of the people and the chief priests and the scribes came together, and led him into their council, saying,

67 Art thou the Christ? tell us. And he said unto them, If I tell you, ye will not believe:

68 And if I also ask you, ye will not answer me, nor let me go.

69 Hereafter [h] shall the Son of man sit on the right hand of the power of God.

CHAP. XXIII.

AND [a] the whole multitude of them arose, and led him unto Pilate.

2 And they began to accuse him, saying, We found this fellow [b] perverting the nation, and [c] forbidding to give tribute to Cæsar, saying [d] that he himself is Christ a King.

3 And Pilate asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? [e] And he answered him and said, Thou sayest it.

4 Then said Pilate to the chief priests and to the people, [f] I find no fault in this man.

5 And [g] they were the more fierce, saying, He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all Jewry, beginning from Galilee to this place.

6 When Pilate heard of Galilee, he asked whether the man were a Galilæan.

7 And as soon as he knew that he belonged unto Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him to Herod, who himself also was at Jerusalem at that time.

8 ¶ And when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceeding glad: for [h] he was desirous to see him of a long season, because he had heard many things of him; [i] and he hoped to have seen some miracle done by him.

9 Then he questioned with him in many words; [k] but he answered him nothing.

10 And the chief priests and scribes stood and vehemently accused him.

11 And [l] Herod with his men of war set him at nought, and mocked him, and arrayed him in a gorgeous robe, and sent him again to Pilate.

12 ¶ And the same day [m] Pilate and Herod were made friends together: for before they were at enmity between themselves.

13 ¶ And [n] Pilate, when he had called together the chief priests and the rulers and the people,

14 Said unto them, [o] Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverteth the people: and, behold, I, having examined him before you, [p] have found no fault in this man touching those things whereof ye accuse him:

15 No, nor yet Herod: for I sent you to him; and, lo, nothing worthy of death is done unto him.

16 I [q] will therefore chastise him, and release him.

17 (For of necessity he must release one unto them at the feast.)

18 And [r] they cried out all at once, saying, Away with this man, and release unto us Barabbas:

19 (Who for a certain sedition made in the city, and for murder, was cast into prison.)

20 Pilate therefore, willing to release Jesus, spake again to them.

21 But they cried, saying, Crucify him, crucify him.

22 And he said unto them the third time, Why, what evil hath he done? I have found no cause of death in him: I will therefore chastise him, and let him go.

23 And they were instant with loud voices, requiring that he might be crucified. And the voices of them and of the chief priests prevailed.

24 And [s] Pilate [t] gave sentence that it should be as they required.

25 And he released unto them him that for sedition and murder was cast into prison, whom they had desired; but he delivered Jesus to their will.

26 And [c] as they led him away, they laid hold upon one Simon, a Cyrenian, coming out of the country, and on him they laid the cross, that he might bear it after Jesus.

27 ¶ And there followed him a great company of people, and of women, which also bewailed and lamented him.

28 But Jesus turning unto them said, Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children.

29 For, [f] behold, the days are coming, in the which they shall say, Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bare, and the paps which never gave suck.

30 Then [h] shall they begin to say to the mountains, Fall on us; and to the hills, Cover us.

31 For [i] if they do these things in a green tree, what shall be done in the dry?

32 And [m] there were also two other, malefactors, led with him to be put to death.

33 And [o] when they were come to the place, which is called [o] Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left.

34 ¶ Then said Jesus, Father, [p] forgive them; for they know not what they do. And they parted his raiment, and cast lots.

35 And [q] the people stood beholding. And the rulers also with them derided him, saying, He saved others; let him save himself, if he be Christ, the chosen of God.

36 And the soldiers also mocked him, coming to him, and offering him vinegar, 37 And saying, If thou be the king of the Jews, save thyself.

38 And a superscription also was written over him in letters of Greek, and Latin, and Hebrew, THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

39 ¶ And one of the malefactors which were hanged railed on him, saying, If thou be Christ, save thyself and us.

40 But the other answering [x] rebuked him, saying, Dost not thou fear God, [y] seeing thou art in the same condemnation?

41 And we indeed justly; [z] for we receive the due reward of our deeds: but this man hath done nothing amiss.

42 And he said unto Jesus, [b] Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom.

43 And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, To day shalt thou be with me in paradise.

44 And [c] it was about the sixth hour, and there was a darkness over all the ‡ earth until the ninth hour.

45 And the sun was darkened, and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst.

46 ¶ And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice, he said, [f] Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit: and having said thus, he gave up the ghost.

47 Now when the centurion saw what was done, he glorified God, saying, Certainly this was a righteous man.

48 And all the people that came together to that sight, beholding the things which were done, smote their breasts, and returned.

49 And [k] all his acquaintance, and the women that followed him from Galilee, stood afar off, beholding these things.

50 ¶ And, behold, there was a man named Joseph, a counsellor; and he was a good man, and a just:

51 (The same had not consented to the counsel and deed of them;) he was of Arimathæa, a city of the Jews: [l] who also himself waited for the kingdom of God.

52 This man went unto Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus.

53 And he took it down, and wrapped it in linen, [e] and laid it in a sepulchre that was hewn in stone, wherein never man before was laid.

54 And that day was [d] the preparation, and the sabbath drew on.

55 And the women also, [r] which came with him from Galilee, followed after, and [s] beheld the sepulchre, and how his body was laid.

56 And they returned, and prepared spices and ointments; and rested the sabbath day [t] according to the commandment.

CHAP. XXIV.

NOW [l] upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, [n] bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them.

2 And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre.

3 And [r] they entered in, and found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

4 And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, [g] behold, two men stood by them in shining garments:

5 And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye † the living among the dead?

6 He is not here, but is risen: [u] remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee,

7 Saying, The Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.

8 And [g] they remembered his words,

9 And returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto the eleven, and to all the rest.

10 It was Mary Magdalene, and [s] Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women that were with them, which told these things unto the apostles.

11 And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not.

12 Then arose Peter, and ran unto the sepulchre; and stooping down, he beheld the linen clothes laid by themselves, and departed, wondering in himself at that which was come to pass.

13 ¶ And, [d] behold, two of them went that same day to a village called Emmaus, which was from Jerusalem about threescore furlongs.

14 And [s] they talked together of all these things which had happened.

15 And it came to pass, that, while they communed together and reasoned, [s] Jesus himself drew near, and went with them.

16 But [h] their eyes were holden that they should not know him.

17 And he said unto them, What manner of communications are these that ye have one to another, as ye walk, and are sad?

18 And the one of them, [t] whose name was Cleopas, answering said unto him, Art thou only a stranger in Jerusalem, and hast not known the things which are come to pass there in these days?

19 And he said unto them, What things?

And they said unto him, Concerning Jesus of Nazareth, [c] which was a prophet [b] mighty in deed and word before God and all the people:

20 And [d] how the chief priests and our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him.

21 But we trusted [e] that it had been he which should have redeemed Israel: and beside all this, to day is the third day since these things were done.

22 Yea, and certain women also of our company made us astonished, which were early at the sepulchre;

23 And when they found not his body, they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of angels, which said that he was alive.

24 And [h] certain of them which were with us went to the sepulchre, and found it even so as the women had said: but him they saw not.

25 Then he said unto them, O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken:

26 Ought not [i] Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory?

27 And beginning at [m] Moses and [n] all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself.

28 And they drew nigh unto the village, whither they went: and [p] he made as though he would have gone further.

29 But [q] they constrained him, saying, Abide with us: for it is toward evening, and the day is far spent. And he went in to tarry with them.

30 And it came to pass, as he sat at meat with them, [r] he took bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave to them.

31 And their eyes were opened, and they knew him; and he [s] vanished out of their sight.

32 And they said one to another, Did not our heart burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and while he opened to us the scriptures?

33 And they rose up the same hour, and returned to Jerusalem, and found the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them, 34 Saying, The Lord is risen indeed, and [p] hath appeared to Simon.

35 And they told what things were done in the way, and how he was known [u] of them in breaking of bread.

36 ¶ And [x] as they thus spake, Jesus himself stood in the midst of them, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

37 But they were terrified and affrighted, and supposed that they had seen [y] a spirit.

38 And he said unto them, Why are ye troubled? and why do thoughts arise in your hearts?

39 Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself: handle me, and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have.

40 And when he had thus spoken, he shewed them his hands and his feet.

41 And while they yet believed not [z] for joy, and wondered, he said unto them, Have [a] ye here any meat?

42 And they gave him a piece of a broiled fish, and of an honeycomb.

44 And he said unto them, [b] These are the words which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the psalms, concerning me.

45 Then [c] opened he their understanding, that they might understand the scriptures,

46 And said unto them, [r] Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day:

47 And that repentance and [t] remission of sins should be preached in his name [w] among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem.

48 And ye are witnesses of these things.

49 ¶ And, [x] behold, I send the promise of my Father upon you: but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, until ye be endued with power from on high.

50 ¶ And he led them out [y] as far as to Bethany, and he lifted up his hands, and blessed them.

51 And [z] it came to pass, while he blessed them, he was parted from them, and carried up into heaven.

52 And they worshipped him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy:

53 And were continually [a] in the temple, praising and blessing God. Amen.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CH. VII. 11.—NAIN. This was a small city or town not far from Capernaum, celebrated chiefly for the miracle which our Lord performed at its gate, of restoring the widow's son to life. The Nain of the New Testament is now called Nein. Eusebius and Jerome describe it as not far from Endor. The crusaders recognised it; and it has since been mentioned by most travellers to the present day. It has now dwindled to a small hamlet, occupied at most by a few families. Ever memorable be this spot, as itself a monument to the honour of Him "who went about doing good." It has been well said, 'They who weep most tragically at the sight of a tragedy live coldly to themselves, indifferent to the real miseries around them.' Not so with Jesus. True greatness is combined with tenderness, and the Lord of Glory, the Prince of Life, was moved with compassion when he saw this mourning widow, and shewed the reality of his compassion, by giving him back to life again.

CH. XXI. 37.—MOUNT OF OLIVES. 'The mount of Olives,' says an esteemed authority, 'will seem to many of our readers as the most interesting locality in the world. The marks and boundaries of Jerusalem itself have been so altered in the course of ages, that it would be difficult to fix upon any spot which may be supposed to present even nearly the same appearance which it did in the time of Christ. But respecting the mount of Olives there is no doubt or question. In all the changes of time and of possessors, it has continued to retain its name, and to exhibit the perennial green of the tree from which that name was derived. There is much reason to conclude that even in its surface it is now little different from what it was in the day when king David went up its ascent, "weeping and barefoot;" or that later day when the Son of man was wont to resort thither. The sides of the mount of Olives are still sprinkled with olive trees, though not thickly, as was probably the case in his day; and a few other trees are occasionally seen. But that any of the olive trees now found there should have existed in the time of Christ, can scarcely be expected. The monks, however, never to be fully credited, shew eight trees of a vast age, growing on the lower slope of the mountain towards the brook Kidron, to which the credulous look with high veneration. It has been objected that these trees cannot be so old as they profess, and that the Romans cut down all the wood around Jerusalem. It is, however, pleaded that the growth of the olive is slower than that of any other tree, that the girth of the largest tree being twenty-four feet is a proof of its prodigious age; and that there is nothing unnatural in assigning the age of nineteen centuries to these patriarchs of the vegetable kingdom. Moreover, it has been observed, that the Romans had no temptation to cut down the olives; that they were then young and slender, and of little value in any way for constructing military machines.

The Gospel according to S. JOHN.

John was the brother of that James whom Herod beheaded, Acts xii. 2. He wrote about A. D. 97, having chiefly in view 'to record such miracles and discourses as most clearly displayed the character, office, and Divine nature of the Saviour.' His gospel supplies what the other Evangelists had omitted.

CHAP. I.

IN the beginning [a] was the Word, and the Word was with God, [c] and the Word was God.

2 The [c] same was in the beginning with God.

3 All [f] things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made.

4 In [h] him was life; and the life was the light of men.

5 And the light shineth in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not.

6 ¶ There [i] was a man sent from God, whose name was John.

7 The [m] same came for a witness, to bear witness of the Light, that all men through him might believe.

8 He was not that Light, but was sent to bear witness of that Light.

9 That [p] was the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world.

10 He was in the world, and [r] the world was made by him, and the world knew him not.

11 He came unto his own, and his own received him not.

12 But [t] as many as received him, to them gave he [u] power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name:

13 Which [w] were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God.

14 And the Word [x] was made [z] flesh, and dwelt among us, (and [y] we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) [a] full of grace and truth.

15 ¶ John bare witness of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I spake, [c] He that cometh after me is preferred before me: for he was before me.

16 And of his [b] fulness have all we received, and grace for grace.

17 For [e] the law was given by Moses, but grace [d] and truth came by Jesus Christ.

18 No man hath seen God at any time; the [e] only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him.

19 ¶ And this is the record of John, when the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem to ask him, Who art thou?

20 And he confessed, and denied not; but confessed, I am not the Christ.

21 And they asked him, What then? Art thou Elias? And he saith, I am not. Art thou [e] that [h] prophet? And he answered, No.

22 Then said they unto him, Who art thou? that we may give an answer to them that sent us. What sayest thou of thyself?

23 He [i] said, I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord, as [i] said the prophet Esaias.

24 And they which were sent were of the Pharisees.

25 And they asked him, and said unto him, Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not that Christ, nor Elias, neither that prophet?

26 John answered them, saying, I baptize with water: [k] but there standeth one among you, whom ye know not;

27 He [d] it is, who coming after me is preferred before me, whose shoe's latchet I am not worthy to unloose.

28 These things were done [g] in Bethabara beyond Jordan, where John was baptizing.

29 ¶ The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold [l] the Lamb of God, [k] which [o] taketh away the sin of the world.

30 This is he of whom I said, After me cometh a man which is preferred before me: for he was before me.

31 And I knew him not: but that he should be made manifest to Israel, [n] therefore am I come baptizing with water.

32 And [s] John bare record, saying, I saw the Spirit descending from heaven like a dove, and it abode upon him.

33 And I knew him not: but he that sent me to baptize with water, the same said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending, and remaining on him, [t] the same is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghost.

34 And I saw, and bare record that this is the Son of God.

35 ¶ Again the next day after John stood, and two of his disciples;

36 And looking upon Jesus as he walked, he saith, Behold the Lamb of God!

37 And the two disciples heard him speak, and they followed Jesus.

38 Then Jesus turned, and saw them following, and saith unto them, What seek ye? They said unto him, Rabbi, (which is to say, being interpreted, Master,) where ‡ dwellest thou?

39 He saith unto them, Come and see. They came and saw where he dwelt, and abode with him that day: for it was about § the tenth hour.

40 One of the two which heard John speak, and followed him, was [f] Andrew, Simon Peter's brother.

41 He first findeth his own brother Simon, and saith unto him, We have found the Messias, which is, being interpreted, ‖ the Christ.

42 And he brought him to Jesus. And when Jesus beheld him, he said, Thou art Simon the son of Jona: [g] thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, † A stone.

43 ¶ The day following Jesus would go forth into Galilee, and findeth Philip, and saith unto him, Follow me.

44 Now [k] Philip was of Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter.

45 Philip findeth [m] Nathanael, and saith unto him, We have found him, of whom [n] Moses in the law, and the [o] prophets, did write, Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph.

46 And Nathanael said unto him, [p] Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip saith unto him, Come and see.

47 Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him, and saith of him, Behold [a] an Israelite indeed, in whom is no guile!

48 Nathanael saith unto him, Whence knowest thou me? Jesus answered and said unto him, Before that Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig tree, I saw thee.

49 Nathanael answered and saith unto him, Rabbi, [d] thou art the Son of God; thou art [f] the King of Israel.

50 Jesus answered and said unto him, Because I said unto thee, I saw thee under the fig tree, believest thou? thou shalt see greater things than these.

51 And he saith unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto you, [g] Hereafter ye shall see heaven open, and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of man.

CHAP. II.

AND the third day there was a marriage in [i] Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was there:

2 And both Jesus was called, and his disciples, to the marriage.

3 And when they wanted wine, the mother of Jesus saith unto him, They have no wine.

4 Jesus saith unto her, [l] Woman, [m] what have I to do with thee? [n] mine hour is not yet come.

5 His mother saith unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it.

6 And there were set there six waterpots of stone, [r] after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three firkins apiece.

7 Jesus saith unto them, Fill the waterpots with water. And they filled them up to the brim.

8 And he saith unto them, Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feast. And they bare it.

9 When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was made wine, and knew not whence it was: (but the servants which drew the water knew;) the governor of the feast called the bridegroom,

10 And saith unto him, Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse: but thou hast kept the good wine until now.

11 This beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana of Galilee, [s] and manifested forth his glory; and his disciples believed on him.

12 ¶ After this he went down to Capernaum, he, and his mother, and [y] his brethren, and his disciples: and they continued there not many days.

13 ¶ And [z] the Jews' passover was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem,

14 And [a] found in the temple those that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting:

15 And when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured out the changers' money, and overthrew the tables;

16 And said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence; make not [c] my Father's house an house of merchandise.

17 And his disciples remembered that it was written, [d] The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up.

18 ¶ Then answered the Jews and said unto him, [e] What sign shewest thou unto us, seeing that thou doest these things?

19 Jesus answered and said unto them, [b] Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up.

20 Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days?

21 But he spake [c] of the temple of his body.

22 When therefore he was risen from the dead, [d] his disciples remembered that he had said this unto them; and they believed the scripture, and the word which Jesus had said.

23 ¶ Now when he was in Jerusalem at the passover, in the feast day, many believed in his name, when they saw the miracles which he did.

24 But Jesus did not commit himself unto them, because he knew all men,

25 And needed not that any should testify of man: for [h] he knew what was in man.

CHAP. III.

THERE was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews:

2 The same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for [k] no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except [l] God be with him.

3 Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, [p] Except a man be born [o] again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.

4 Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?

5 Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, [t] Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

6 That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit.

7 Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again.

8 The [t] wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit.

9 Nicodemus answered and said unto him, [u] How can these things be?

10 Jesus answered and said unto him, Art thou a master of Israel, and knowest not these things?

11 Verily, [v] verily, I say unto thee, We speak that we do know, and testify that we have seen; and ye receive not our witness.

12 If I have told you earthly things, and ye believe not, how shall ye believe, if I tell you of heavenly things?

13 And [x] no man hath ascended up to heaven, but he that came down from heaven, even the Son of man which is in heaven.

14 ¶ And [c] as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so [d] must the Son of man be lifted up:

15 That whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but [e] have eternal life.

16 ¶ For [f] God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

17 For [i] God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved.

18 ¶ He [l] that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, [a] because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.

Digitized by Google

19 And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.

20 For [b] every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be [c] reproved.

21 But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God.

22 ¶ After these things came Jesus and his disciples into the land of Judæa; and there he tarried with them, [d] and baptized.

23 ¶ And John also was baptizing in Ænon near to [e] Salim, because there was much water there: [f] and they came, and were baptized.

24 For John was not yet cast into prison.

25 ¶ Then there arose a question between some of John's disciples and the Jews about purifying.

26 And they came unto John, and said unto him, Rabbi, he that was with thee beyond Jordan, [h] to whom thou barest witness, behold, the same baptizeth, and all men come to him.

27 John answered and said, [m] A man can † receive nothing, except it be given him from heaven.

28 Ye yourselves bear me witness, that I said, [o] I am not the Christ, but [p] that I am sent before him.

29 He [r] that hath the bride is the bridegroom: but [s] the friend of the bridegroom, which standeth and heareth him, rejoiceth greatly because of the bridegroom's voice: this my joy therefore is fulfilled.

30 He must increase, but I must decrease.

31 He [u] that cometh from above [v] is above all: [x] he that is of the earth is earthly, and speaketh of the earth: [y] he that cometh from heaven is above all.

32 And what he hath seen and heard, that he testifieth; and no man receiveth his testimony.

33 He that hath received his testimony hath [z] set to his seal that God is true.

34 For he whom God hath sent speaketh the words of God: for God giveth not the Spirit [a] by measure unto him.

35 The [b] Father loveth the Son, and hath given all things into his hand.

36 He [c] that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but [d] the wrath of God abideth on him.

CHAP. IV.

WHEN therefore the Lord knew how the Pharisees had heard that Jesus made and [e] baptized more disciples than John,

2 (Though Jesus himself baptized not, but his disciples,)

3 He left Judæa, and departed again into Galilee.

4 And he must needs go through Samaria.

5 Then cometh he to a city of Samaria, which is called Sychar, near to the parcel of ground [f] that Jacob gave to his son Joseph.

6 Now Jacob's well was there. Jesus therefore, being wearied with his journey, sat thus on the well: and it was about the sixth hour.

7 There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water: Jesus saith unto her, Give me to drink.

8 (For his disciples were gone away unto the city to buy meat.)

9 Then saith the woman of Samaria unto him, How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria? for [g] the Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans.

10 Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee [h] living water.

11 The woman saith unto him, Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: from whence then hast thou that living water?

12 Art thou greater than our father Jacob, which gave us the well, and drank thereof himself, and his children, and his cattle?

13 Jesus answered and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again:

14 But [i] whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him [l] shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life.

15 The [m] woman saith unto him, Sir, give me this water, that I thirst not, neither come hither to draw.

16 Jesus saith unto her, Go, call thy husband, and come hither.

17 The woman answered and said, I have no husband. Jesus said unto her, Thou hast well said, I have no husband:

18 For thou hast had five husbands; and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband: in that saidst thou truly.

19 The woman saith unto him, Sir, [r] I perceive that thou art a prophet.

20 Our fathers worshipped in [s] this mountain; and ye say, that in [t] Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship.

21 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, believe me, the hour cometh, [u] when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet at Jerusalem, worship the Father.

22 Ye worship [x] ye know not what: we know what we worship: for [y] salvation is of the Jews.

23 But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in [z] spirit [a] and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship him.

24 God [b] is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.

25 The woman saith unto him, I know that Messias cometh, which is called Christ: when he is come, he will tell us all things.

26 Jesus saith unto her, [c] I that speak unto thee am he.

27 ¶ And upon this came his disciples, and marvelled that he talked with the woman: yet no man said, What seekest thou? or, Why talkest thou with her?

28 The woman then left her waterpot, and went her way into the city, and saith to the men,

29 Come, see a man, [d] which told me all things that ever I did: is not this the Christ?

30 Then [e] they went out of the city, and came unto him.

31 ¶ In the mean while his disciples prayed him, saying, Master, eat.

32 But he said unto them, [a] I have meat to eat that ye know not of.

33 Therefore said the disciples one to another, Hath any man brought him ought to eat?

34 Jesus saith unto them, [b] My meat is to do the will of him that sent me, and to [c] finish his work.

35 Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh harvest? behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; [d] for they are white already to harvest.

36 And [e] he that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal: that both he that soweth and he that reapeth may rejoice together.

37 And herein is that saying true, One soweth, and another reapeth.

38 I sent you to reap that whereon ye bestowed no labour: other men laboured, and ye are entered into their labours.

39 ¶ And [f] many of the Samaritans of that city believed on him [g] for the saying of the woman, which testified, He told me all that ever I did.

40 So when the Samaritans were come unto him, they besought him that he would tarry with them: and he abode there two days.

41 And [h] many more believed because of his own word;

42 And said unto the woman, Now we believe, not because of thy saying: [i] for we have heard him ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Saviour of the world.

43 ¶ Now after two days he departed thence, and went into Galilee.

44 For [k] Jesus himself testified, that a prophet hath no honour in his own country.

45 Then when he was come into Galilee, the Galilæans received him, [l] having seen all the things that he did at Jerusalem at the feast: [m] for they also went unto the feast.

46 So Jesus came again into Cana of Galilee, [n] where he made the water wine. And there was a certain [t] nobleman, whose son was sick at Capernaum.

47 When he heard that Jesus was come out of Judæa into Galilee, he went unto him, and besought him that he would come down, and heal his son: for he was at the point of death.

48 Then said Jesus unto him, [p] Except ye see signs and wonders, ye will not believe.

49 The nobleman saith unto him, Sir, come [q] down ere my child die.

50 Jesus saith unto him, [r] Go thy way; thy son liveth. And the man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and he went his way.

51 And as he was now going down, his servants met him, and told him, saying, Thy son liveth.

52 Then enquired he of them the hour when he began to amend. And they said unto him, Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him.

53 So the father knew that it was at the same hour, in the which Jesus said unto him, Thy son liveth: and himself believed, and his whole house.

54 This is again the second miracle that Jesus did, when he was come out of Judæa into Galilee.

2 Now there is at Jerusalem [h] by the sheep market a pool, which is called in the Hebrew tongue Bethesda, having five porches.

3 In these lay a great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, waiting for the moving of the water.

4 For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool, and troubled the water: whosoever then first after the troubling of the water stepped in was made whole of whatsoever disease he had.

5 And a certain man was there, which had an infirmity thirty and eight years.

6 When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he had been now a long time in that case, he saith unto him, Wilt thou be made whole?

7 The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me.

8 Jesus saith unto him, [i] Rise, take up thy bed, and walk.

9 And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and [k] on the same day was the sabbath.

10 ¶ The Jews therefore said unto him that was cured, It is the sabbath day: [l] it is not lawful for thee to carry thy bed.

11 He answered them, He that made me whole, the same said unto me, Take up thy bed, and walk.

12 Then asked they him, What man is that which said unto thee, Take up thy bed, and walk?

13 And he that was healed wist not who it was: for Jesus had conveyed himself away, [t] a multitude being in that place.

14 Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: [p] sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee.

15 The man departed, and told the Jews that it was Jesus, which had made him whole.

16 And therefore did the Jews persecute Jesus, and sought to slay him, because he had done these things on the sabbath day.

17 ¶ But Jesus answered them, [u] My Father worketh hitherto, and I work.

18 Therefore the Jews [x] sought the more to kill him, because he not only had broken the sabbath, but said also that God was his Father, [z] making himself equal with God.

19 Then answered Jesus and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, [a] The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise.

20 For [c] the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and he will shew him greater works than these, that ye may marvel.

21 For as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; [d] even so the Son quickeneth whom he will.

22 For the Father judgeth no man, but [e] hath committed all judgment unto the Son:

23 That all men should honour the Son, even as they honour the Father. [f] He that honoureth not the Son honoureth not the Father which hath sent him.

24 Verily, verily, I say unto you, [g] He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; [i] but is passed from death unto life.

25 Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when [a] the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God: and they that hear shall live.

26 For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself;

27 And [c] hath given him authority to execute judgment also, [d] because he is the Son of man.

28 Marvel not at this: for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice,

29 And shall come forth; [e] they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation.

30 I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just; because [h] I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me.

31 If [i] I bear witness of myself, my witness is not true.

32 [k] There [l] is another that beareth witness of me; and I know that the witness which he witnesseth of me is true.

33 Ye sent unto John, [l] and he bare witness unto the truth.

34 But I receive not testimony from man: but these things I say, that ye might be saved.

35 He was a burning and [m] a shining light: and [n] ye were willing for a season to rejoice in his light.

36 ¶ But [p] I have greater witness than that of John: for [r] the works which the Father hath given me to finish, the same works that I do, bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me.

37 And the Father himself, which hath sent me, [t] hath borne witness of me. Ye have neither heard his voice at any time, nor [u] seen his shape.

38 And ye have not his word abiding in you: for whom he hath sent, him ye believe not.

39 ¶ Search [w] the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and [x] they are they which testify of me.

40 And [y] ye will not come to me, that ye might have life.

41 I [z] receive not honour from men.

42 But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you.

43 I am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him ye will receive.

44 How can ye believe, [b] which receive honour one of another, and seek not the honour that cometh from God only?

45 Do not think that I will accuse you to the Father: [c] there is one that accuseth you, even Moses, in whom ye trust.

46 For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: [d] for he wrote of me.

47 But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?

CHAP. VI.

AFTER [e] these things Jesus went over the sea of Galilee, which is the sea of Tiberias.

2 And a great multitude followed him, because they saw his miracles which he did on them that were diseased.

3 And Jesus went up into a mountain, and there he sat with his disciples.

4 And [f] the passover, a feast of the Jews, was nigh.

5 ¶ When Jesus then lifted up his eyes, and saw a great company come unto him, he saith unto Philip, Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat?

6 And this he said to prove him: for he himself knew what he would do.

7 Philip answered him, [k] Two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little.

8 One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, saith unto him,

9 There is a lad here, which hath five barley loaves, and two small fishes: [l] but what are they among so many?

10 And Jesus said, Make the men sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand.

11 And Jesus took the loaves; and when he had given thanks, he distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set down; and likewise of the fishes as much as they would.

12 When they were filled, he said unto his disciples, Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost.

13 Therefore they gathered them together, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley loaves, which remained over and above unto them that had eaten.

14 Then those men, when they had seen the miracle that Jesus did, said, This is of a truth [o] that prophet that should come into the world.

15 ¶ When Jesus therefore perceived that they would come and take him by force, to make him a king, he departed again into a mountain himself alone.

16 And [s] when even was now come, his disciples went down unto the sea,

17 And entered into a ship, and went over the sea toward Capernaum. And it was now dark, and Jesus was not come to them.

18 And the sea arose by reason of a great wind that blew.

19 So when they had rowed about five and twenty or thirty furlongs, they see Jesus walking on the sea, and drawing nigh unto the ship: and they were afraid.

20 But he saith unto them, [s] It is I; be not afraid.

21 Then they willingly received him into the ship: and immediately the ship was at the land whither they went.

22 ¶ The day following, when the people which stood on the other side of the sea saw that there was none other boat there, save that one whereinto his disciples were entered, and that Jesus went not with his disciples into the boat, but that his disciples were gone away alone;

23 (Howbeit there came other boats from Tiberias nigh unto the place where they did eat bread, after that the Lord had given thanks:)

24 When the people therefore saw that Jesus was not there, neither his disciples, they also took shipping, and came to Capernaum, seeking for Jesus.

25 And when they had found him on the other side of the sea, they said unto him, Rabbi, when camest thou hither?

26 Jesus answered them and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaves, and were filled.

Son of man shall give unto you: [a] for him hath God the Father sealed.

28 Then said they unto him, What shall we do, that we might work the works of God?

29 Jesus answered and said unto them, This [d] is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent.

30 They said therefore unto him, [e] What sign shewest thou then, that we may see, and believe thee? what dost thou work?

31 Our [f] fathers did eat manna in the desert; as it is written, [g] He gave them bread from heaven to eat.

32 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Moses gave you not that bread from heaven; but my Father giveth you the true bread from heaven.

33 For the bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world.

34 Then [i] said they unto him, Lord, evermore give us this bread.

35 And Jesus said unto them, [k] I am the bread of life: [m] he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.

36 But [n] I said unto you, That ye also have seen me, and believe not.

37 All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; and [r] him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out.

38 For I came down from heaven, [s] not to do mine own will, [t] but the will of him that sent me.

39 And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, [v] that of all which he hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day.

40 And this is the will of him that sent me, [y] that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day.

41 The Jews then murmured at him, because he said, I am the bread which came down from heaven.

42 And they said, [a] Is not this Jesus, the son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? how is it then that he saith, I came down from heaven?

43 Jesus therefore answered and said unto them, Murmur not among yourselves.

44 No [c] man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me draw him: and I will raise him up at the last day.

45 It [f] is written in the prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me.

46 Not [h] that any man hath seen the Father, [k] save he which is of God, he hath seen the Father.

47 Verily, verily, I say unto you, [m] He that believeth on me hath everlasting life.

48 I am that bread of life.

49 Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead.

50 This is the bread which cometh down from heaven, that a man may eat thereof, and not die.

51 I am the living bread [o] which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and [r] the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world.

52 The Jews therefore [u] strove among themselves, saying, [v] How can this man give us his flesh to eat?

53 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except [b] ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you.

54 Whoso [e] eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life; and I will raise him up at the last day.

55 For my flesh is meat indeed, and my blood is drink indeed.

56 He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, [f] dwelleth in me, and I in him.

57 As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

58 This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread shall live for ever.

59 These things said he in the synagogue, as he taught in Capernaum.

60 Many [h] therefore of his disciples, when they had heard this, said, This is an hard saying; who can hear it?

61 When Jesus knew in himself that his disciples murmured at it, he said unto them, Doth this offend you?

62 What [o] and if ye shall see the Son of man ascend up where he was before?

63 It [p] is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life.

64 But there are some of you that believe not. For [u] Jesus knew from the beginning who they were that believed not, and who should betray him.

65 And he said, Therefore [x] said I unto you, that no man can come unto me, except it were given unto him of my Father.

66 ¶ From that time many of his disciples went back, and walked no more with him.

67 Then said Jesus unto the twelve, Will ye also go away?

68 Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the [c] words of eternal life.

69 And [b] we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God.

70 Jesus answered them, [d] Have not I chosen you twelve, [d] and one of you is a devil?

71 He spake of Judas Iscariot the son of Simon: for he it was that should betray him, being one of the twelve.

CHAP. VII.

AFTER these things Jesus walked in Galilee: for he would not walk in Jewry, because the [g] Jews sought to kill him.

2 Now [i] the Jews' feast of tabernacles was at hand.

3 His [l] brethren therefore said unto him, Depart hence, and go into Judæa, that thy disciples also may see the works that thou doest.

4 For there is no man that doeth any thing in secret, and he himself seeketh to be known openly. If thou do these things, shew thyself to the world.

5 For [m] neither did his brethren believe in him.

6 Then Jesus said unto them, [p] My time is not yet come: but your time is alway ready.

7 The [s] world cannot hate you; but me it hateth, [t] because I testify of it, that the works thereof are evil.

8 Go ye up unto this feast: I go not up yet unto this feast; for my time is not yet full come.

9 When he had said these words unto them, he abode still in Galilee.

10 ¶ But when his brethren were gone up, then went he also up unto the feast, not openly, but as it were in secret.

11 Then [b] the Jews sought him at the feast, and said, Where is he?

12 And [d] there was much murmuring among the people concerning him: for some said, [f] He is a good man: others said, Nay; but he deceiveth the people.

13 Howbeit no man spake openly of him for fear of the Jews.

14 ¶ Now about the midst of the feast Jesus went up into the temple, and taught.

15 And [i] the Jews marvelled, saying, How knoweth this man † letters, having never learned?

16 Jesus answered them, and said, [l] My doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me.

17 If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself.

18 He [p] that speaketh of himself seeketh his own glory: but he that seeketh his glory that sent him, the same is true, and no unrighteousness is in him.

19 Did [t] not Moses give you the law, and yet none of you keepeth the law? Why go ye about to kill me?

20 The people answered and said, Thou hast a devil: who goeth about to kill thee?

21 Jesus answered and said unto them, I have done one work, and ye all marvel.

22 Moses [x] therefore gave unto you circumcision; (not because it is of Moses, [z] but of the fathers;) and ye on the sabbath day circumcise a man.

23 If a man on the sabbath day receive circumcision, ‡ that the law of Moses should not be broken; are ye angry at me, because I have made a man every whit whole on the sabbath day?

24 Judge [b] not according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment.

25 Then said some of them of Jerusalem, Is not this he, whom they seek to kill?

26 But, lo, he speaketh boldly, and they say nothing unto him. Do the rulers know indeed that this is the very Christ?

27 Howbeit we know this man whence he is: but when Christ cometh, no man knoweth whence he is.

28 Then cried Jesus in the temple as he taught, saying, [f] Ye both know me, and ye know whence I am: and I am not come of myself, but he that sent me [§] is true, [h] whom ye know not.

29 But [i] I know him: for I am from him, and he hath sent me.

30 Then [k] they sought to take him: but no [l] man laid hands on him, because his hour was not yet come.

31 And [m] many of the people believed on him, and said, When Christ cometh, will he do more miracles than these which this man hath done?

32 ¶ The Pharisees heard that the people murmured such things concerning him; and the Pharisees and the chief priests sent officers to take him.

33 Then said Jesus unto them, [o] Yet a little while am I with you, and then I go unto him that sent me.

34 Ye [p] shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither ye cannot come.

35 Then said the Jews among themselves, Whither will he go, that we shall not find him? will he go unto [q] the dispersed among the [q] Gentiles, and teach the Gentiles?

36 What manner of saying is this that he said, Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither ye cannot come?

37 In [r] the last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, [r] If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink.

38 He that believeth on me, as the scripture hath said, [s] out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water.

39 (But [t] this spake he of the Spirit, which they that believe on him should receive: for the Holy Ghost was not yet given; because that Jesus was not yet [t] glorified.)

40 ¶ Many of the people therefore, when they heard this saying, said, Of a truth this is [u] the Prophet.

41 Others said, [v] This is the Christ. But some said, Shall Christ come [v] out of Galilee?

42 Hath not the scripture said, [w] That Christ cometh of the seed of David, and out of the town of Bethlehem, [x] where David was?

43 So [y] there was a division among the people because of him.

44 And some of them would have taken him; but no man laid hands on him.

45 ¶ Then came the officers to the chief priests and Pharisees; and they said unto them, Why have ye not brought him?

46 The officers answered, [z] Never man spake like this man.

47 Then answered them the Pharisees, Are ye also deceived?

48 Have [a] any of the rulers or of the Pharisees believed on him?

49 But this people who knoweth not the law are cursed.

50 Nicodemus saith unto them, (he that came [§] to Jesus by night, being one of them,)

51 Doth [d] our law judge any man, before it hear him, and know what he doeth?

52 They answered and said unto him, Art thou also of Galilee? Search, and look: for [c] out of Galilee ariseth no prophet.

53 And every man went unto his own house.

CHAP. VIII.

JESUS went unto the mount of Olives.

2 And early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him; and he sat down, and taught them.

3 And the scribes and Pharisees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery; and when they had set her in the midst,

4 They say unto him, Master, this woman was taken in adultery, in the very act.

5 Now [b] Moses in the law commanded us, that such should be stoned: but what sayest thou?

6 This they said, tempting him, that they might have to accuse him. But Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground, as though he heard them not.

7 So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, [c] He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her.

8 And again he stooped down, and wrote on the ground.

9 And they which heard it, [a] being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even unto the last: and Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst.

10 When Jesus had lifted up himself, and saw none but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee?

11 She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, [c] Neither do I condemn thee: go, and [d] sin no more.

12 ¶ Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, [e] I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.

13 The Pharisees therefore said unto him, [f] Thou bearest record of thyself; thy record is not true.

14 Jesus answered and said unto them, Though I bear record of myself, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go; but [g] ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go.

15 Ye judge after the flesh; [h] I judge no man.

16 And yet if I judge, my judgment is true: for [i] I am not alone, but I and the Father that sent me.

17 It [k] is also written in your law, that the testimony of two men is true.

18 I am one that bear witness of myself, and [l] the Father that sent me beareth witness of me.

19 Then said they unto him, Where is thy Father? Jesus answered, [m] Ye neither know me, nor my Father: [n] if ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also.

20 These words spake Jesus in [o] the treasury, as he taught in the temple: and no man laid hands on him; for his hour was not yet come.

21 Then said Jesus again unto them, I go my way, and [p] ye shall seek me, and shall die in your sins: whither I go, ye cannot come.

22 Then said the Jews, Will he kill himself? because he saith, Whither I go, ye cannot come.

23 And he said unto them, [q] Ye are from beneath; I am from above: [r] ye are of this world; I am not of this world.

24 I said therefore unto you, that ye shall die in your sins: [s] for if ye believe not that I am he, ye shall die in your sins.

25 Then said they unto him, Who art thou? And Jesus saith unto them, Even the same that I said unto you from the beginning.

26 I have many things to say and to judge of you: but he that sent me is true; and [t] I speak to the world those things which I have heard of him.

27 They understood not that he spake to them of the Father.

28 Then said Jesus unto them, When ye have [u] lifted up the Son of man, [v] then shall ye know that I am he, and [w] that I do nothing of myself; but [x] as my Father hath taught me, I speak these things.

29 And [y] he that sent me is with me: the Father hath not left me alone; [z] for I do always those things that please him.

30 As he spake these words, [a] many believed on him.

31 Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed;

32 And ye shall know the truth, and the [b] truth shall make you free.

33 ¶ They answered him, [c] We be Abraham's seed, and were never in bondage to any man: how sayest thou, Ye shall be made free?

34 Jesus answered them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, [d] Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin.

35 And [e] the servant abideth not in the house for ever: but the Son abideth ever.

36 If [f] the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed.

37 I know that ye are Abraham's seed; but ye seek to kill me, because my word hath no place in you.

38 I [g] speak that which I have seen with my Father: and ye do that which ye have seen with your father.

39 They answered and said unto him, Abraham is our father. Jesus saith unto them, [h] If ye were Abraham's children, ye would do the works of Abraham.

40 But now ye seek to kill me, a man that hath told you the truth, [i] which I have heard of God: this did not Abraham.

41 Ye do the deeds of your father. Then said they to him, We be not born of fornication; [k] we have one Father, even God.

42 Jesus said unto them, [l] If God were your Father, ye would love me: [m] for I proceeded forth and came from God; [n] neither came I of myself, but he sent me.

43 Why do ye not understand my speech? even because ye cannot hear my word.

44 Ye [o] are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and [p] abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it.

45 And because I tell you the truth, ye believe me not.

46 Which of you convinceth me of sin? And if I say the truth, why do ye not believe me?

47 He [q] that is of God heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God.

48 Then answered the Jews, and said unto him, Say we not well that thou art a Samaritan, and [r] hast a devil?

49 Jesus answered, I have not a devil; but I honour my Father, and ye do dishonour me.

50 And I seek not mine own glory: there is one that seeketh and judgeth.

51 Verily, verily, I say unto you, If a man [s] keep my saying, he shall never see death.

52 Then said the Jews unto him, Now we know that thou hast a devil. [t] Abraham is dead, and the prophets; and thou sayest, If a man keep my saying, he shall never taste of death.

53 Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead? and the prophets are dead: whom makest thou thyself?

54 Jesus answered, [u] If I honour myself, my honour is nothing: [x] it is my Father that honoureth me; of whom ye say, that he is your God:

55 Yet ye have not known him; but I know him: and if I should say, I know him not, I shall be a liar like unto you: but I know him, and keep his saying.

56 Your father Abraham [y] rejoiced to see my day: [z] and he saw it, and was glad.

art not yet fifty years old, and hast thou seen Abraham?

58 Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Before Abraham was, [e] I am.

59 Then [d] took they up stones to cast at him: but Jesus hid himself, and went out of the temple, [e] going through the midst of them, and so passed by.

CHAP. IX.

AND as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth.

2 And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, [h] who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind?

3 Jesus answered, Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents: [i] but that the works of God should be made manifest in him.

4 I [k] must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work.

5 As long as I am in the world, [l] I am the light of the world.

6 When he had thus spoken, [m] he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and he [n] anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay,

7 And said unto him, Go, wash [p] in the pool of Siloam, (which is by interpretation, Sent.) [r] He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing.

8 [q] The neighbours therefore, and they which before had seen him that he was blind, said, Is not this he that sat and begged?

9 Some said, This is he: others said, He is like him: but he said, I am he.

10 Therefore said they unto him, How were thine eyes opened?

11 He answered and said, A man that is called Jesus made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to the pool of Siloam, and wash: and I went and washed, and I received sight.

12 Then said they unto him, Where is he? He said, I know not.

13 [t] They brought to the Pharisees him that aforetime was blind.

14 And [v] it was the sabbath day when Jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes.

15 Then again the Pharisees also asked him how he had received his sight. He said unto them, He put clay upon mine eyes, and I washed, and do see.

16 Therefore said some of the Pharisees, This man is not of God, because he keepeth not the sabbath day. Others said, How can a [w] man that is a sinner do such miracles? And [x] there was a division among them.

17 They say unto the blind man again, What sayest thou of him, that he hath opened thine eyes? He said, [y] He is a prophet.

18 But [z] the Jews did not believe concerning him, that he had been blind, and received his sight, until they called the parents of him that had received his sight.

19 And they asked them, saying, Is this your son, who ye say was born blind? how then doth he now see?

20 His parents answered them and said, We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind:

21 But by what means he now seeth, we know not; or who hath opened his eyes, we know not: he is of age; ask him: he shall speak for himself.

22 These words spake his parents, because [e] they feared the Jews: for the Jews had agreed already, that if any man did confess that he was Christ, he [b] should be put out of the synagogue.

23 Therefore said his parents, He is of age; ask him.

24 Then again called they the man that was blind, and said unto him, [f] Give God the praise: [g] we know that this man is a sinner.

25 He answered and said, Whether he be a sinner or no, I know not: one thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see.

26 Then said they to him again, What did he to thee? how opened he thine eyes?

27 He answered them, I have told you already, and ye did not hear: wherefore would ye hear it again? will ye also be his disciples?

28 Then they reviled him, and said, Thou art his disciple; but we are Moses' disciples.

29 We know that God spake unto Moses: as for this fellow, we [m] know not from whence he is.

30 The man answered and said unto them, [n] Why herein is a marvellous thing, that ye know not from whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes.

31 Now we know that [o] God heareth not sinners: but if any man be a worshipper of God, and doeth his will, him he heareth.

32 Since the world began was it not heard that any man opened the eyes of one that was born blind.

33 If this man were not of God, he could do nothing.

34 They answered and said unto him, [t] Thou wast altogether born in sins, and dost thou teach us? And they [v] cast him out.

35 Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and when he had found him, he said unto him, Dost thou believe on [w] the Son of God?

36 He answered and said, Who is he, Lord, that I might believe on him?

37 And Jesus said unto him, Thou hast both seen him, and [x] it is he that talketh with thee.

38 And he said, Lord, I believe. And he worshipped him.

39 [y] And Jesus said, [z] For judgment I am come into this world, [a] that they which see not might see; and that they which see might be made blind.

40 And some of the Pharisees which were with him heard these words, [b] and said unto him, Are we blind also?

41 Jesus said unto them, [d] If ye were blind, ye should have no sin: but now ye say, We see; therefore your sin remaineth.

CHAP. X.

VERILY, verily, I say unto you, [f] He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber.

2 But [h] he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep.

3 To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out.

4 And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep [i] follow him: for they know his voice.

5 And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers.

A. D. 32.

6 This parable spake Jesus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them.

7 Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep.

8 All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them.

9 I f am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture.

10 The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

11 I f am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep.

13 But he that is an hireling, and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and [m] leaveth the sheep, and fleeth: and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep.

13 The hireling fleeth, because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep.

14 I am the good shepherd, and [r] know my sheep, and am known of mine.

15 As [t] the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father: [u] and I lay down my life for the sheep.

16 And [x] other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; [y] and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd.

17 Therefore doth my Father love me, [z] because I lay down my life, that I might take it again.

18 No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I [a] have power to take it again. [b] This commandment have I received of my Father.

19 ¶ There f was a division therefore again among the Jews for these sayings.

20 And many of them said, [c] He hath a devil, and is mad; why hear ye him?

21 Others said, These are not the words of him that hath a devil. [d] Can a devil open [e] the eyes of the blind?

22 ¶ And it was at Jerusalem the feast of the dedication, and it was winter.

23 And Jesus walked in the temple [g] in Solomon's porch.

24 Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou [h] make us to doubt? If thou be the Christ, tell us plainly.

25 Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believed not: [r] the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me.

26 But [i] ye believe not, because ye are not of my sheep, as I said unto you.

27 My [k] sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me:

28 And I give unto them eternal life; and [l] they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand.

29 My [t] Father, [p] which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand.

30 I [r] and my Father are one.

31 Then [s] the Jews took up stones again to stone him.

32 Jesus answered them, Many good works have I shewed you from my Father; for which of those works do ye stone me?

33 The Jews answered him, saying, For a good work we stone thee not; but for blasphemy; and because that thou, being a man, [u] makest thyself God.

34 Jesus answered them, [b] Is it not written in your law, I said, Ye are gods?

35 If he called them gods, [c] unto whom the word of God came, and the scripture cannot be broken;

36 Say ye of him, [d] whom the Father hath sanctified, and [e] sent into the world, Thou blasphemest; because I said, I am the [f] Son of God?

37 If [g] I do not the works of my Father, believe me not.

38 But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe [i] the works: that ye may know, and believe, [k] that the Father is in me, and I in him.

39 Therefore [m] they sought again to take him: but he escaped out of their hand,

40 And went away again beyond Jordan into the place [n] where John at first baptized; and there he abode.

41 And many resorted unto him, and said, John did no miracle: [p] but all things that John spake of this man were true.

42 And [q] many believed on him there.

CHAP. XI.

NOW a certain man was sick, named Lazarus, of Bethany, the town of [r] Mary and her sister Martha.

2 (It [s] was that Mary which anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whose brother Lazarus was sick.)

3 Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick.

4 When Jesus heard that, he said, This sickness is not unto death, [t] but for the glory of God, [u] that the Son of God might be glorified thereby.

5 Now Jesus [x] loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus.

6 When he had heard therefore that he was sick, [i] he abode two days still in the same place where he was.

7 Then after that saith he to his disciples, Let us go into Judæa again.

8 His disciples say unto him, Master, the [m] Jews of late sought to stone thee; and goest thou thither again?

9 Jesus answered, Are there not twelve hours in the day? [r] If any man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world.

10 But [p] if a man walk in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in him.

11 These things said he: and after that he saith unto them, Our friend Lazarus [z] sleepeth; but I go, that I may awake him out of sleep.

12 Then said his disciples, Lord, if he sleep, he shall do well.

13 Howbeit Jesus spake of his death: but they thought that he had spoken [a] of taking of rest in sleep.

14 Then said Jesus unto them plainly, Lazarus is dead.

15 And I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the intent ye may believe; nevertheless let us go unto him.

16 Then said Thomas, which is called Didymus, unto his fellowdisciples, Let us also go, [b] that we may die with him.

17 Then when Jesus came, he found that he had lain in the grave four days already.

18 Now Bethany was nigh unto Jerusalem, [e] about fifteen furlongs off:

19 And many of the Jews came to Martha and Mary, to comfort them concerning their brother.

20 Then Martha, as soon as she heard that Jesus was coming, went and met him: but Mary sat still in the house.

21 Then said Martha unto Jesus, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.

22 But I know, that even now, [f] whatsoever thou wilt ask of God, God will give it thee.

23 Jesus saith unto her, Thy brother shall rise again.

24 Martha saith unto him, [g] I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day.

25 Jesus said unto her, I am [h] the resurrection, and [i] the life: [m] he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live:

26 And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. Believest thou this?

27 She saith unto him, Yea, Lord: [r] I believe that thou art the Christ, the Son of God, which should come into the world.

28 And when she had so said, she went her way, [t] and called Mary her sister secretly, saying, The Master is come, and calleth for thee.

29 As [u] soon as she heard that, she arose quickly, and came unto him.

30 Now Jesus was not yet come into the town, but was in that place where Martha met him.

31 The [y] Jews then which were with her in the house, and comforted her, when they saw Mary, that she rose up hastily and went out, followed her, saying, She goeth unto the grave to weep there.

32 Then when Mary was come where Jesus was, and saw him, she fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.

33 When Jesus therefore saw her weeping, and the Jews also weeping which came with her, [x] he groaned in the spirit, and [†] was troubled,

34 And said, Where have ye laid him? They said unto him, Lord, come and see.

35 Jesus [z] wept.

36 Then said the Jews, Behold how he loved him!

37 And some of them said, Could not this man, [a] which opened the eyes of the blind, have caused that even this man should not have died?

38 Jesus therefore again groaning in himself cometh to the grave. It was a cave, and a stone lay upon it.

39 Jesus said, Take ye away the stone. Martha, the sister of him that was dead, saith unto him, Lord, by this time he stinketh: for he hath been dead four days.

40 Jesus saith unto her, Said I not unto thee, that, if thou wouldest believe, thou shouldest [b] see the glory of God?

41 Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lifted up his eyes, and said, [c] Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me.

42 And I knew that thou hearest me always: but [m] because of the people which stand by I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me.

43 And when he thus had spoken, he cried with a loud voice, [n] Lazarus, come forth.

44 And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes: and [o] his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go.

45 Then many of the Jews which came to Mary, [c] and had seen the things which Jesus did, believed on him.

46 But [d] some of them went their ways to the Pharisees, and told them what things Jesus had done.

47 ¶ Then [f] gathered the chief priests and the Pharisees a council, and said, [g] What do we? for this man doeth many miracles.

48 If we let him thus alone, all men will believe on him: and [i] the Romans shall come and take away both our place and nation.

49 And one of them, named [m] Caiaphas, being the high priest that same year, said unto them, [q] Ye know nothing at all,

50 Nor consider [p] that it is expedient for us, that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not.

51 And this spake he not of himself: but being high priest that year, [s] he prophesied that Jesus should die for that nation;

52 And [u] not for that nation only, [v] but that also he should gather together in one the children of God that were scattered abroad.

53 Then from that day forth they took counsel together for to put him to death.

54 Jesus [x] therefore walked no more openly among the Jews; but went thence unto a country near to the wilderness, into a city called [o] Ephraim, and there continued with his disciples.

55 ¶ And [b] the Jews' passover was nigh at hand: and many went out of the country up to Jerusalem before the passover, to purify themselves.

56 Then [c] sought they for Jesus, and spake among themselves, as they stood in the temple, What think ye, that he will not come to the feast?

57 Now both the chief priests and the Pharisees had given a commandment, that, if any man knew where he were, he should shew it, that they might take him.

CHAP. XII.

THEN Jesus six days before the passover came to Bethany, [f] where Lazarus was which had been dead, whom he raised from the dead.

2 There [h] they made him a supper; and Martha served: but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table with him.

3 Then took [i] Mary a pound of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair: and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment.

4 Then saith one of his disciples, Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, which should betray him,

5 Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor?

6 This he said, not that he cared for the poor; but because he was a thief, and [m] had the bag, and bare what was put therein.

7 Then said Jesus, Let her alone:

against the day of my burying hath she kept this.

8 For the poor always ye have with you; but me ye have not always.

9 Much people of the Jews therefore knew that he was there: and they came not for Jesus' sake only, but that they might see Lazarus also, [d] whom he had raised from the dead.

10 ¶ But [e] the chief priests consulted that they might put Lazarus also to death;

11 Because that by reason of him many of the Jews went away, and believed on Jesus.

12 ¶ On [h] the next day much people that were come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem, 13 Took branches of palm trees, and went forth to meet him, and cried, [i] Hosanna: Blessed is the King of Israel that cometh in the name of the Lord.

14 And [m] Jesus, when he had found a young ass, sat thereon; as it is written,

15 Fear [k] not, daughter of Sion: behold, thy King cometh, sitting on an ass's colt.

16 These things [p] understood not his disciples at the first: [r] but when Jesus was glorified, then remembered they that these things were written of him, and that they had done these things unto him.

17 The people therefore that was with him when he called Lazarus out of his grave, and raised him from the dead, bare record.

18 For this cause the people also met him, for that they heard that he had done this miracle.

19 The Pharisees therefore said among themselves, [s] Perceive ye how ye prevail nothing? behold, the world is gone after him.

20 ¶ And there [t] were certain Greeks among them [h] that came up to worship at the feast:

21 The same came therefore to Philip, which [u] was of Bethsaida of Galilee, and desired him, saying, Sir, we would see Jesus.

22 Philip cometh and telleth Andrew: and again Andrew and Philip tell Jesus.

23 ¶ And Jesus answered them, saying, The hour is come, that the Son of man should be glorified.

24 Verily, verily, I say unto you, [k] Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone: but [k] if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit.

25 He [m] that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal.

26 If any man serve me, let him follow me; and [s] where I am, there shall also my servant be: if any man serve me, him will my Father honour.

27 Now [p] is my soul troubled; and what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour: [r] but for this cause came I unto this hour.

28 Father, glorify thy name. [w] Then came there a voice from heaven, saying, I have both glorified it, and will glorify it again.

29 The people therefore, that stood by, and heard it, said that it thundered: others said, An angel spake to him.

30 Jesus answered and said, [x] This voice came not because of me, but for your sakes.

31 Now is the judgment of this world: now shall [a] the prince of this world be cast out.

32 And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw [c] all men unto me.

33 This [b] he said, signifying what death he should die.

34 The people answered him, [c] We have heard out of the law that Christ abideth for ever: and how sayest thou, The Son of man must be lifted up? who is this Son of man?

35 Then Jesus said unto them, Yet a little while is the light with you. [f] Walk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you: for [g] he that walketh in darkness knoweth not whither he goeth.

36 While ye have light, believe in the light, that ye may be [i] the children of light. These things spake Jesus, and departed, and [k] did hide himself from them.

37 ¶ But though he had done so many miracles before them, yet they believed not on him:

38 That the saying of Esaias the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake, [l] Lord, who hath believed our report? and to whom hath the arm of the Lord been revealed?

39 Therefore they could not believe, because that Esaias said again,

40 He [i] hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart; that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and be converted, and I should heal them.

41 These [m] things said Esaias, when he saw his glory, and spake of him.

42 [r] Nevertheless among the chief rulers also many believed on him; but [n] because of the Pharisees they did not confess him, lest they should be put out of the synagogue:

43 For [y] they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God.

44 ¶ Jesus cried and said, [a] He that believeth on me, believeth not on me, but on him that sent me.

45 And [e] he that seeth me seeth him that sent me.

46 I [o] am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in darkness.

47 And if any man hear my words, and believe not, [f] I judge him not: for [g] I came not to judge the world, but to save the world.

48 He [i] that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: [i] the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day.

49 For [n] I have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak.

50 And I know that his commandment is life everlasting: whatsoever I speak therefore, even as the Father said unto me so I speak.

CHAP. XIII.

NOW [c] before the feast of the passover, when Jesus knew that [i] his hour was come that he should depart out of this world unto the Father, having loved his own which were in the world, he loved them unto the end.

2 And supper being ended, [r] the devil having now put into the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray him;

3 Jesus knowing [y] that the Father had given all things into his hands, and [a] that he was come from God, and went to God;

4 He [b] riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments; and took a towel, and girded himself.

5 After that he poureth water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded.

6 Then cometh he to Simon Peter: and c Peter saith unto him, Lord, d dost thou wash my feet?

7 Jesus answered and said unto him, What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter.

8 Peter saith unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If f I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me.

9 Simon Peter saith unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head.

10 Jesus saith to him, He that is washed needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit: and h ye are clean, but not all.

11 For h he knew who should betray him; therefore said he, Ye are not all clean.

12 So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you?

13 Ye m call me Master and Lord: and ye say well; for so I am.

14 If n I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; o ye also ought to wash one another's feet.

15 For p I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you.

16 Verily, verily, I say unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord; neither he that is sent greater than he that sent him.

17 If q ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them.

18 ¶ I speak not of you all: I know whom I have chosen: but that the scripture may be fulfilled, He r that eateth bread with me hath lifted up his heel against me.

19 † Now s I tell you before it come, that, when it is come to pass, ye may believe that I am he.

20 Verily, t verily, I say unto you, He that receiveth whomsoever I send receiveth me; and he that receiveth me receiveth him that sent me.

21 When Jesus had thus said, f he was troubled in spirit, and testified, and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, that u one of you shall betray me.

22 Then the disciples looked one on another, doubting of whom he spake.

23 Now there was leaning on Jesus' bosom one of his disciples, whom Jesus loved.

24 Simon Peter therefore beckoned to him, that he should ask who it should be of whom he spake.

25 He then lying on Jesus' breast saith unto him, Lord, who is it?

26 Jesus answered, He it is, to whom I shall give a ‡ sop, when I have dipped it. And when he had dipped the sop, he gave it to Judas Iscariot, the son of Simon.

27 And m after the sop Satan entered into him. Then said Jesus unto him, That thou doest, do quickly.

28 Now no man at the table knew for what intent he spake this unto him.

29 For some of them thought, because Judas v had the bag, that Jesus had said unto him, Buy those things that we have need of against the feast; or, that he should give something to the poor.

30 He then having received the sop went immediately out: and it was night.

31 ¶ Therefore, when he was gone out, Jesus said, w Now is the Son of man glorified, and b God is glorified in him.

32 If d God be glorified in him, God shall also glorify him in himself, and shall straightway glorify him.

33 Little children, yet a little while I am with you. Ye shall seek me: x and as I said unto the Jews, Whither I go, ye cannot come; so now I say to you.

34 A y new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.

35 By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.

36 ¶ Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, whither goest thou? Jesus answered him, Whither I go, thou canst not follow me now; but i thou shalt follow me afterwards.

37 Peter said unto him, Lord, why cannot I follow thee now? I will z lay down my life for thy sake.

38 Jesus answered him, Wilt thou lay down thy life for my sake? Verily, verily, I say unto thee, The cock shall not crow, till thou hast denied me thrice.

CHAP. XIV.

LET a not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me.

2 In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. b I go to prepare a place for you.

3 And if I go and prepare a place for you, c I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that d where I am, there ye may be also.

4 And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know.

5 Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?

6 Jesus saith unto him, I am e the way, and e the truth, and b the life: c no man cometh unto the Father, but by me.

7 If e ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also: and from henceforth ye know him, and have seen him.

8 Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us.

9 Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? h he that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father?

10 Believest thou not that i I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I speak unto you I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works.

11 Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: k or else believe me for the very works' sake.

12 Verily, l verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father.

13 And m whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son.

14 If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it.

15 ¶ If n ye love me, keep my commandments.

A. D. 33.

16 And I will pray the Father, and [a] he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever;

17 Even [d] the Spirit of truth; [e] whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and [f] shall be in you.

18 I [g] will not leave you [*] comfortless: I will come to you.

19 Yet a little while, and the world seeth me no more; but ye see me: [h] because I live, ye shall live also.

20 At that day ye shall know that I am in my Father, and ye in me, and I in you.

21 He [m] that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him.

22 Judas [n] saith unto him, not Iscariot, Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thyself unto us, and not unto the world?

23 Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, [i] and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him.

24 He that loveth me not keepeth not my sayings: and [m] the word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's which sent me.

25 These things have I spoken unto you, being yet present with you.

26 But [p] the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, [q] he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you.

27 Peace [h] I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.

28 Ye have heard how I said unto you, I go away, and come again unto you. If ye loved me, ye would rejoice, because I said, [f] I go unto the Father: for [t] my Father is greater than I.

29 And [h] now I have told you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye might believe.

30 Hereafter I will not talk much with you: [i] for the prince of this world cometh, and hath nothing in me.

31 But that the world may know that I love the Father; and [m] as the Father gave me commandment, even so I do. Arise, let us go hence.

CHAP. XV.

I AM the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman.

2 Every [p] branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.

3 Now [r] ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you.

4 Abide [s] in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me.

5 I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, [z] the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing.

6 If a man abide not in me, [b] he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned.

7 If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, [b] ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.

8 Herein [c] is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples.

9 As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love.

10 If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.

11 These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and [c] that your joy might be full.

12 This [f] is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you.

13 Greater [f] love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

14 Ye [n] are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.

15 Henceforth I call you not servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth: but I have called you friends; [p] for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you.

16 Ye [r] have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and [s] ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain: that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you.

17 These things I command you, that ye love one another.

18 If [v] the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you.

19 If [p] ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but [z] because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.

20 Remember the word that I said unto you, [r] The servant is not greater than his lord. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you; [d] if they have kept my saying, they will keep your's also.

21 But [v] all these things will they do unto you for my name's sake, because they know not him that sent me.

22 If I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had sin: [i] but now they have no [†] cloke for their sin.

23 He [b] that hateth me hateth my Father also.

24 If I had not done among them the works which none other man did, they had not had sin: but now have they both seen and hated both me and my Father.

25 But this cometh to pass, that the word might be fulfilled that is written in their law, [n] They hated me without a cause.

26 But [v] when the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, [p] he shall testify of me:

27 And [s] ye also shall bear witness, because [n] ye have been with me from the beginning.

CHAP. XVI.

THESE things have I spoken unto you, that ye should not be offended.

2 They [w] shall put you out of the synagogues: yea, the time cometh, [p] that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God service.

3 And [a] these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father, nor me.

4 But these things have I told you, that when the time shall come, ye may remember that I told you of them. And [c] these things I said not unto you at the beginning, because I was with you.

5 But now I go my way to him that sent me; and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou?

6 But because I have said these things unto you, [c] sorrow hath filled your heart.

7 Nevertheless I tell you the truth; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, [e] the Comforter will not come unto you; but [f] if I depart, I will send him unto you.

8 And when he is come, he will † reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment:

9 Of [g] sin, because they believe not on me;

10 Of righteousness, [h] because I go to my Father, and ye see me no more;

11 Of [i] judgment, because [j] the prince of this world is judged.

12 I have yet many things to say unto you, [m] but ye cannot bear them now.

13 Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, [n] he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come.

14 He shall glorify me: for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

15 All [r] things that the Father hath are mine: therefore said I, that he shall take of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

16 A [u] little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me, [v] because I go to the Father.

17 Then said some of his disciples among themselves, What is this that he saith unto us, A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me; and, Because I go to the Father?

18 They said therefore, What is this that he saith, A little while? we cannot tell what he saith.

19 Now Jesus knew that they were desirous to ask him, and said unto them, Do ye enquire among yourselves of that I said, A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me?

20 Verily, verily, I say unto you, That ye shall weep and lament, but the world shall rejoice: and ye shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy.

21 A [b] woman when she is in travail hath sorrow, because her hour is come: but as soon as she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world.

22 And ye now therefore have sorrow: but I will see you again, and [c] your heart shall rejoice, and your joy no man taketh from you.

23 And in that day ye shall ask me nothing. [h] Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you.

24 Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name: ask, and ye shall receive, [m] that your joy may be full.

25 These things have I spoken unto you in § proverbs: but the time cometh, when I shall no more speak unto you in § proverbs, but I shall shew you plainly of the Father.

26 At that day ye shall ask in my name: and I say not unto you, that I will pray the Father for you:

27 For [p] the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and [q] have believed that I came out from God.

28 I [b] came forth from the Father, and am come into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.

29 His disciples said unto him, Lo, now speakest thou plainly, and speakest no * proverb.

30 Now are we sure that [d] thou knowest all things, and needest not that any man should ask thee: by this we believe that thou camest forth from God.

31 Jesus answered them, Do ye now believe?

32 Behold, the hour cometh, yea, is now come, that ye shall be scattered, every man to ‡ his own, and shall leave me alone: and yet I am not alone, because the Father is with me.

33 These things I have spoken unto you, that [t] in me ye might have peace. [l] In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; [n] I have overcome the world.

CHAP. XVII.

THESE words spake Jesus, and lifted up his eyes to heaven, and said, Father, the hour is come; glorify thy Son, that thy Son also may glorify thee:

2 As [p] thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should give eternal life to as many as thou hast given him.

3 And this is life eternal, [s] that they might know thee [t] the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent.

4 I have glorified thee on the earth: I have finished the work [u] which thou gavest me to do.

5 And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own self with the glory [v] which I had with thee before the world was.

6 I [s] have manifested thy name unto the men which thou gavest me out of the world: thine they were, and thou gavest them me; and they have kept thy word.

7 Now they have known that all things whatsoever thou hast given me are of thee.

8 For I have given unto them the words which thou gavest me; and they have received them, and have known surely that I came out from thee, and they have believed that thou didst send me.

9 I pray for them: [x] I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me; for they are thine.

10 And all mine are thine, and thine are mine; and I am glorified in them.

11 And [c] now I am no more in the world, but these are in the world, and I come to thee. Holy Father, [d] keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, [f] as we are.

12 While I was with them in the world, [g] I kept them in thy name: those that thou gavest me I have kept, and [i] none of them is lost, [k] but the son of perdition; that [l] the scripture might be fulfilled.

13 And now come I to thee; and these things I speak in the world, that they might have my joy fulfilled in themselves.

14 I have given them thy word; [n] and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.

15 I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world, but [o] that thou shouldest keep them from the evil.

16 They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.

17 Sanctify [a] them through thy truth: thy [b] word is truth.

18 As thou hast sent me into the world, even so have I also sent them into the world.

19 And [c] for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also might be [†] sanctified through the truth.

20 Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word;

21 That they all may be one; as [d] thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou hast sent me.

22 And the glory which thou gavest me I have given them; [e] that they may be one, even as we are one:

23 I in them, and thou in me, [f] that they may be made perfect in one; and that the world may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loved them, as thou hast loved me.

24 Father, [g] I will that they also, whom thou hast given me, be with me where I am; that they may behold my glory, which thou hast given me: [m] for thou lovedst me before the foundation of the world.

25 O righteous Father, [n] the world hath not known thee: but I have known thee, and [o] these have known that thou hast sent me.

26 And [p] I have declared unto them thy name, and will declare it: that the love [q] wherewith thou hast loved me may be in them, and I in them.

CHAP. XVIII.

WHEN Jesus had spoken these words, he went forth with his disciples over [r] the brook Cedron, where was a garden, into the which he entered, and his disciples.

2 And Judas also, which betrayed him, knew the place: [s] for Jesus oftimes resorted thither with his disciples.

3 Judas [t] then, having received a band of men and officers from the chief priests and Pharisees, cometh thither with lanterns and torches and weapons.

4 Jesus therefore, knowing all things that should come upon him, [u] went forth, and said unto them, Whom seek ye?

5 They answered him, Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus saith unto them, I am he. And Judas also, which betrayed him, stood [v] with them.

6 As soon then as he had said unto them, I am he, they went backward, and fell to the ground.

7 Then asked he them again, Whom seek ye? And they said, Jesus of Nazareth.

8 Jesus answered, I have told you that I am he: if therefore ye seek me, [w] let these go their way:

9 That the saying might be fulfilled, which he spake, [x] Of them which thou gavest me have I lost none.

10 Then Simon Peter having a sword drew it, and smote the high priest's servant, and cut off his right ear. The servant's name was Malchus.

11 Then said Jesus unto Peter, Put up thy sword into the sheath: [y] the cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?

12 Then the band and the captain and officers of the Jews took Jesus, and bound him,

13 And [z] led him away to [a] Annas first; for he was father in law to Caiaphas, which was the high priest that same year. [b]

14 Now [c] Caiaphas was he, which gave counsel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man should die for the people.

15 ¶ And Simon Peter followed Jesus, and so did another disciple: that disciple was known unto the high priest, and went in with Jesus into the palace of the high priest.

16 But [d] Peter stood at the door without. Then went out that other disciple, which was known unto the high priest, and spake unto her that kept the door, and brought in Peter.

17 Then saith the damsel that kept the door unto Peter, Art not thou also one of this man's disciples? He saith, I am not.

18 And the servants and officers stood there, who had made a fire of coals; for it was cold: and they warmed themselves: [e] and Peter stood with them, and warmed himself.

19 ¶ The high priest then asked Jesus of his disciples, and of his doctrine.

20 Jesus answered him, [f] I spake openly to the world; I ever taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, whither the Jews always resort, and in secret have I said nothing.

21 Why askest thou me? ask them which heard me, what I have said unto them: behold, they know what I said.

22 And when he had thus spoken, one of the officers which stood by [g] struck Jesus [†] with the palm of his hand, saying, Answerest thou the high priest so?

23 Jesus answered him, If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil: but if well, why smitest thou me?

24 Now Annas had sent him bound unto Caiaphas the high priest.

25 And Simon Peter stood and warmed himself. They said therefore unto him, Art not thou also one of his disciples? He denied it, and said, I am not.

26 One of the servants of the high priest, being his kinsman whose ear Peter cut off, saith, Did not I see thee in the garden with him?

27 Peter then denied again: and [h] immediately the cock crew.

28 ¶ Then [i] led they Jesus from Caiaphas unto [§] the hall of judgment: and it was early; [k] and they themselves went not into the judgment hall, lest they should be defiled; but that they might eat the passover.

29 Pilate then went out unto them, and said, What accusation bring ye against this man?

30 They answered and said unto him, If he were not a malefactor, we would not have delivered him up unto thee.

31 Then said Pilate unto them, Take ye him, and judge him according to your law. The Jews therefore said unto him, [l] It is not lawful for us to put any man to death:

32 That [‡] the saying of Jesus might be fulfilled, which he spake, signifying what death he should die.

33 Then Pilate entered into the judgment hall again, and called Jesus, and said unto him, Art thou the King of the Jews?

34 Jesus answered him, Sayest thou this thing of thyself, or did others tell it thee of me?

35 Pilate answered, Am I a Jew? [l] Thine own nation and the chief priests have delivered thee unto me: what hast thou done?

36 Jesus [b] answered, [c] My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence.

37 Pilate therefore said unto him, Art thou a king then? Jesus answered, Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Every one that [d] is of the truth heareth my voice.

38 Pilate saith unto him, What is truth? And when he had said this, he went out again unto the Jews, and saith unto them, [e] I find in him no fault at all.

39 But [f] ye have a custom, that I should release unto you one at the passover: will ye therefore that I release unto you the King of the Jews?

40 Then [g] cried they all again, saying, Not this man, but Barabbas. [h] Now Barabbas was a robber.

CHAP. XIX.

THEN [i] Pilate therefore took Jesus, and scourged him.

2 And the soldiers platted a crown of thorns, and put it on his head, and they put on him a purple robe,

3 And said, Hail, King of the Jews! and they smote him with their hands.

4 Pilate therefore went forth again, and saith unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, [k] that ye may know that I find no fault in him.

5 Then came Jesus forth, wearing the crown of thorns, and the purple robe. And Pilate saith unto them, [l] Behold the man!

6 When [m] the chief priests therefore and officers saw him, they cried out, saying, Crucify him, crucify him. Pilate saith unto them, Take ye him, and crucify him: for I find no fault in him.

7 The Jews answered him, [n] We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, because [o] he made himself the Son of God.

8 ¶ When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he was the more afraid;

9 And went again into the judgment hall, and saith unto Jesus, Whence art thou? [p] But Jesus gave him no answer.

10 Then saith Pilate unto him, Speakest thou not unto me? knowest thou not that I have power to crucify thee, and have power to release thee?

11 Jesus answered, [q] Thou couldest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: [r] therefore he that delivered me unto thee hath the greater sin.

12 And from thenceforth Pilate sought to release him: but the Jews cried out, saying, [s] If thou let this man go, thou art not Cæsar's friend: [t] whosoever maketh himself a king speaketh against Cæsar.

13 ¶ When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he brought Jesus forth, and sat down in the judgment seat in a place that is called the Pavement, but in the Hebrew, Gabbatha.

14 And [u] it was the preparation of the passover, and about the sixth hour: and he saith unto the Jews, Behold your King!

15 But they cried out, Away with him, away with him, crucify him. Pilate saith unto them, Shall I crucify your King? The chief priests answered, [x] We have no king but Cæsar.

16 Then [y] delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified. And they took Jesus, and led him away.

17 And he bearing his cross [z] went forth into a place called the place of a skull, which is called in the Hebrew Golgotha:

18 Where they crucified him, and two other with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst.

19 ¶ And [a] Pilate wrote a title, and put it on the cross. And the writing was, JESUS OF NAZARETH THE KING OF THE JEWS.

20 This title then read many of the Jews: for the place where Jesus was crucified was nigh to the city: and it was written in Hebrew, and Greek, and Latin.

21 Then said the chief priests of the Jews to Pilate, Write not, The King of the Jews; but that he said, I am King of the Jews.

22 Pilate answered, What I have written I have written.

23 ¶ Then the soldiers, when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments, and made four parts, to every soldier a part; and also his coat: now the coat was without seam, [b] woven from the top throughout.

24 They said therefore among themselves, Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be: that the scripture might be fulfilled, which saith, [c] They parted my raiment among them, and for my vesture they did cast lots. These things therefore the soldiers did.

25 ¶ Now [d] there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of † Cleophas, [e] and Mary Magdalene.

26 When Jesus therefore saw his mother, and [f] the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, [g] Woman, behold thy son!

27 Then saith he to the disciple, Behold thy mother! And from that hour that disciple took her [h] unto his own home.

28 ¶ After this, Jesus knowing that all things were now accomplished, [i] that the scripture might be fulfilled, saith, I thirst.

29 Now there was set a vessel full of vinegar: and [k] they filled a spunge with vinegar, and put it upon hyssop, and put it to his mouth.

30 When Jesus therefore had received the vinegar, he said, [l] It is finished: and he bowed his head, and gave up the ghost.

31 The Jews therefore, [m] because it was the preparation, [n] that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the sabbath day, (for that sabbath day was an high day,) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away.

32 Then came the soldiers, and brake the legs of the first, and of the other which was crucified with him.

33 But when they came to Jesus, and saw that he was dead already, they brake not his legs:

34 But one of the soldiers with a spear pierced his side, and forthwith [o] came thereout blood and water.

35 And [p] he that saw it bare record, and his record is true: and he knoweth that he saith true, that ye might believe.

36 For these things were done, [q] that the scripture should be fulfilled, A bone of him shall not be broken.

37 And again another scripture saith, [c] They shall look on him whom they pierced.

38 ¶ And [d] after this Joseph of Arimathæa, being a disciple of Jesus, but secretly [e] for fear of the Jews, besought Pilate that he might take away the body of Jesus: and Pilate gave him leave. He came therefore, and took the body of Jesus.

39 And there came also [f] Nicodemus, which at the first came to Jesus by night, and brought a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about an hundred pound weight.

40 Then took they the body of Jesus, and [l] wound it in linen clothes with the spices, as the manner of the Jews is to bury.

41 Now in the place where he was crucified there was a garden; and in the garden [g] a new sepulchre, wherein was never man yet laid.

42 There [h] laid they Jesus therefore because of the Jews' preparation day; for the sepulchre was nigh at hand.

CHAP. XX.

THE [p] first day of the week [r] cometh Mary Magdalene early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and seeth the stone taken away from the sepulchre.

2 Then she runneth, and cometh to Simon Peter, and to the [n] other disciple, whom Jesus loved, and saith unto them, They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him.

3 Peter [p] therefore went forth, and that other disciple, and came to the sepulchre.

4 So they ran both together: and the other disciple [s] did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre.

5 And he stooping down, and looking in, saw [t] the linen clothes lying; yet went he not in.

6 Then cometh Simon Peter following him, and went into the sepulchre, and seeth the linen clothes lie,

7 And [d] the napkin, that was about his head, not lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by itself.

8 Then went in also that other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw, and believed.

9 For as yet they knew not the[f] scripture, that he must rise again from the dead.

10 Then the disciples went away again unto their own home.

11 ¶ But [i] Mary stood without at the sepulchre weeping: and as she wept, she stooped down, and looked into the sepulchre,

12 And seeth two angels in white sitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain.

13 And they say unto her, Woman, [m] why weepest thou? She saith unto them, Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

14 And when she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw Jesus standing, and [p] knew not that it was Jesus.

15 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? whom seekest thou? She, supposing him to be the gardener, saith unto him, Sir, if thou have borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away.

16 Jesus saith unto her, Mary. She turned herself, and saith unto him, Rabboni; which is to say, Master.

17 Jesus saith unto her, Touch me not; for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but go to [b] my brethren, and say unto them, [d] I ascend unto my Father, and [e] your Father; and to [f] my God, and your God.

18 Mary [h] Magdalene came and told the disciples that she had seen the Lord, and that he had spoken these things unto her.

19 ¶ Then [k] the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

20 And when he had so said, he shewed unto them his hands and his side. [m]Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord.

21 Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: [e] as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you.

22 And when he had said this, he breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the Holy Ghost:

23 Whose [o] soever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained.

24 ¶ But Thomas, one of the twelve, [c] called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came.

25 The other disciples therefore said unto him, [p] We have seen the Lord. But he said unto them, [q] Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe.

26 ¶ And after eight days again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them: then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, [k] Peace be unto you.

27 Then saith he to Thomas, Reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach [o] hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side: and be not faithless, but believing.

28 And Thomas answered and said unto him, [c] My Lord and my God.

29 Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed: [f] blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.

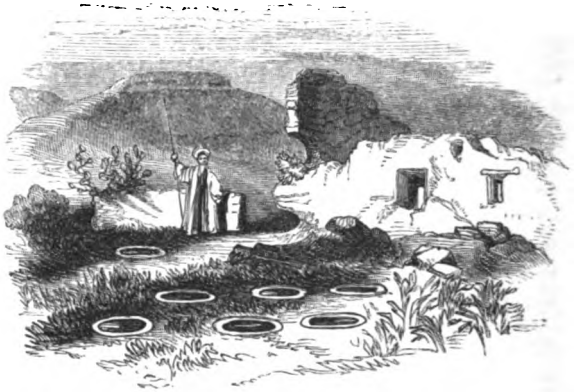
30 ¶ And [h] many other signs truly did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book:

31 But [b] these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; [i] and that believing ye might have life through his name.

CHAP. XXI.

AFTER these things Jesus shewed himself again to the disciples at the sea of Tiberias; and on this wise shewed he himself.

2 There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus, and [n] Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and [o] the sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples.



3 Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entered into a ship immediately; and that night they caught nothing.

4 But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus.

5 Then [a] Jesus saith unto them, [b] Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No.

6 And he said unto them, [c] Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes.

7 Therefore [d] that disciple whom Jesus loved saith unto Peter, It is the Lord. Now when Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, [e] he girt his fisher's coat unto him, (for he was naked,) and did cast himself into the sea.

8 And the other disciples came in a little ship; (for they were not far from land, but as it were two hundred cubits,) dragging the net with fishes.

9 As soon then as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread.

10 Jesus saith unto them, Bring of the fish which ye have now caught.

11 Simon Peter went up, and drew the net to land full of great fishes, an hundred and fifty and three: and for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken.

12 Jesus saith unto them, [m] Come and dine. And [n] none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? knowing that it was the Lord.

13 Jesus then cometh, and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish likewise.

14 This is now [p] the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead.

15 [q] So when they had dined, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, Simon, son of Jonas, [r] lovest thou me more than these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, [s] Feed my lambs.

16 He saith to him again the second time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. [t] He saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

17 He saith unto him the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter [u] was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, [v] thou knowest all things; [w] thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

18 Verily, [x] verily, I say unto thee, When thou wast young, thou girdedst thyself, and walkedst whither thou wouldest: but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thy hands, and another shall gird thee, and carry thee whither thou wouldest not.

19 This spake he, signifying [z] by what death he should glorify God. And when he had spoken this, he saith unto him, Follow me.

20 Then Peter, turning about, seeth the disciple [a] whom Jesus loved following; which also leaned on his breast at supper, and said, Lord, which is he that betrayeth thee?

21 Peter seeing him saith to Jesus, Lord, and what shall this man do?

22 Jesus saith unto him, If I will that he tarry [b] till I come, what is that to thee? follow thou me.

23 Then went this saying abroad among the brethren, that that disciple should not die: yet Jesus said not unto him, He shall not die; but, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee?

24 This is the disciple which testifieth of these things, and wrote these things: and we [c] know that his testimony is true.

25 And [d] there are also many other things which Jesus did, the which, if they should be written every one, [e] I suppose that even the world itself could not contain the books that should be written. Amen.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CA. II. 6.—CANA AND WATER-POTS. Kefr Kanna is generally supposed to be the Cana of Galilee, where Jesus made the water wine. But the researches of Professor Robinson have rather shaken the faith of well-informed persons in the traditional claims of this place, and transferred its honours to Kanna-el-Jelil, a ruined village eight miles north of Nazareth; whereas Kefr Kanna is a small place, only about four miles north-east from Nazareth, on one of the roads to Tiberias. The modern monks make their claim to accuracy, and the ancient monks split the difference about distance, planting a spot six miles from Nazareth, but evidently Kanna-el-Jelil. Five or six centuries ago the place was professedly shewn where the six water-pots had stood, and also the trickling where the feast was held; but the whole was in a crypt or cavern underground, like the grotto of the annunciation and of the nativity. The tradition, however, shews that a different site was then given to the Cana of Scripture, throws a doubt at least over the generally received spot, and is one of the arguments by which Professor Robinson supports his opinion that Kanna-el-Jelil was the spot where Christ worked his miracle. The tradition of the pots might be supported in both cases, for water-pots are still seen and used in both these parts, which is not to be wondered at, as they are near each other. But the superstitious and interested have so encumbered many of these places with their legends and lying wonders, that they can hardly be credited, even when they tell the truth. St. Willibald, in the eighth century, founded here a large church, in which was shewn one of the six water-pots. But Antoninus Martyr surpasses him, and seems to say that he filled one of them with water, and brought forth from it wine! In the neighbourhood of the Cana, Dr. Clarke remarked among the ruins large massy stone water-pots, answering to the description given of the ancient vessels of the country, John ii. 6; not preserved or exhibited as relics, but lying about, disregarded by the present inhabitants as antiquities with whose original use they were unacquainted. From their appearance, and the number of them, it was quite evident that a practice of keeping water in large stone pots, each holding from eighteen to twenty-seven gallons, was once common in the country.

CA. V. 2.—POOL OF BETHESDA. The spirit of inquiry which has recently been abroad, and the facilities afforded for aiding that spirit, have thrown new light upon some obscure things relating to eastern matters, and have consigned some hitherto prominent objects to the shades. Bethesda was taken as such upon trust, and the dimensions reckoned by former travellers have received great corrections, especially from the pen of Professor Robinson. That which is now and has long been pointed out as the pool of Bethesda is a dry basin or reservoir, outside the northern wall of the enclosure around the temple mount, of which wall its southern side may be said to form a part. The east end of it is close to the present gate of St. Stephen. Robinson, who had a better opportunity of examining the spot, gives another view of its dimensions than that given by Maundrell. He says, 'The pool measures 360 English feet in length, 130 feet in breadth, and 75 feet in depth to the bottom, besides the rubbish which has been accumulating in it for ages. It was once evidently used as a reservoir, for the sides internally have been cased with small stones, and these again covered with plaster; but the workmanship of these additions is coarse, and bears no special marks of antiquity. Dr. Robinson considers this excavation as forming the deep trench which separated the fortress from the adjacent hill, so that we are still left to seek the pool of Bethesda, if, indeed, any trace of it now remains. Bethesda signifies the house of mercy, being an infirmary.

The ACTS of the APOSTLES.

Contains an account of the ascension of Christ, the descent of the Spirit, and the first propagation of the gospel. It is ascribed to Luke, being addressed to the same person as the Gospel of that Evangelist. Its history extends during thirty years, and reaches to about A. D. 63.

CHAP. I.

THE former treatise have I made, O [a] Theophilus, of all that Jesus began both to do and teach,

2 Until [b] the day in which he was taken up, after that he through the Holy Ghost [c] had given commandments unto the apostles whom he had chosen:

3 To [d] whom also he shewed himself alive after his passion by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God:

4 And, [e] being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith he, ye have heard of me.

5 For John truly baptized with water; but [m] ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence.

6 When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time [f] restore again the kingdom to Israel?

7 And he said unto them, [r] It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power.

8 But ye shall receive ‡ power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judæa, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

9 And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight.

10 And while they looked stedfastly toward heaven as he went up, behold, two men stood by them [s] in white apparel;

11 Which also said, [x] Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, [y] shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven.

12 Then returned they unto Jerusalem from the mount called Olivet, which is from Jerusalem a sabbath day's journey.

13 And when they were come in, they went up into an upper room, where abode both [c] Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James the son of Alphæus, and [d] Simon Zelotes, and [e] Judas the brother of James.

14 These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication, with the women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and with [f] his brethren.

15 [g] And in those days Peter stood up in the midst of the disciples, and said, (the number [g] of the names together were about an hundred and twenty,)

16 Men and brethren, this scripture must needs have been fulfilled, [h] which the Holy Ghost by the mouth of David spake before concerning Judas, which was guide to them that took Jesus.

17 For [a] he was numbered with us, and had obtained part of [b] this ministry.

18 Now [d] this man purchased a field with [z] the reward of iniquity; and falling headlong, he burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out.

19 And it was known unto all the dwellers at Jerusalem; insomuch as that field is called in their proper tongue, Aceldama, that is to say, The field of blood.

20 For it is written in the book of Psalms, [i] Let his habitation be desolate, and let no man dwell therein: and [k] his † bishoprick let another take.

21 Wherefore of these men which have companied with us all the time that the Lord Jesus went in and out among us,

22 Beginning [l] from the baptism of John, unto that same day that he was taken up from us, must one be ordained [m] to be a witness with us of his resurrection.

23 And they appointed two, Joseph called [c] Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, and Matthias.

24 And they prayed, and said, Thou, Lord, [o] which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two thou hast chosen,

25 That he may take part of this ministry and apostleship, from which Judas by transgression fell, that he might go to his own place.

26 And they gave forth their lots; and the lot fell upon Matthias; and he was numbered with the eleven apostles.

CHAP. II.

AND when [a] the day of Pentecost was fully come, [n] they were all with one accord in one place.

2 And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and [y] it filled all the house where they were sitting.

3 And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them.

4 And [o] they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began [b] to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.

5 And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven.

6 Now when § this was noised abroad, the multitude came together, and were || confounded, because that every man heard them speak in his own language.

7 And they were all amazed and marvelled, saying one to another, Behold, are not all these which speak Galilæans?

8 And how hear we every man in our own tongue, wherein we were born?

and in the parts of Libya about Cyrene, and strangers of Rome, Jews and proselytes, 11 Cretes and Arabians, we do hear them speak in our tongues the wonderful works of God.

12 And they were all amazed, and were in doubt, saying one to another, What meaneth this?

13 Others mocking said, These men are full [d] of new wine.

14 ¶ But Peter, standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice, and said unto them, Ye men of Judæa, and all ye that dwell at Jerusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words:

15 For these are not drunken, as ye suppose, [f] seeing it is but the third hour of the day.

16 But this is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel;

17 And [g] it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, [i] I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams:

18 And on my servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my Spirit; [l] and they shall prophesy:

19 And I will shew wonders in heaven above, and signs in the earth beneath; blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke:

20 The [m] sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that great and notable day of the Lord come:

21 And it shall come to pass, that [o] whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved.

22 Ye men of Israel, hear these words; Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you [p] by miracles and wonders and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know:

23 Him, [r] being delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, [s] ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain:

24 Whom [t] God hath raised up, having loosed the pains of death: because it was not possible that he should be holden of it.

25 For David speaketh concerning him, I [u] foresaw the Lord always before my face, for he is on my right hand, that I should not be moved:

26 Therefore did my heart rejoice, and my tongue was glad; moreover also my flesh shall rest in hope:

27 Because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption.

28 Thou hast made known to me the ways of life; thou shalt make me full of joy with thy countenance.

29 Men and brethren, † let me freely speak unto you [x] of the patriarch David, that he is both dead and buried, and his sepulchre is with us unto this day.

30 Therefore being a prophet, [z] and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loins, according to the flesh, he would raise up Christ to sit on his throne;

31 He seeing this before spake of the resurrection of Christ, [a] that his soul was not left in hell, neither his flesh did see corruption.

32 This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we all are witnesses.

33 Therefore [b] being by the right hand

35 Until I make thy foes thy footstool.

36 Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ.

37 ¶ Now when they heard this, [f] they were pricked in their heart, and said unto Peter and to the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do?

38 Then Peter said unto them, [g] Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and [h] ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

39 For the promise is unto you, and [i] to your children, and to all that [k] are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.

40 And with many other words did he testify and exhort, saying, Save yourselves from this untoward generation.

41 ¶ Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls.

42 And [n] they continued stedfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers.

43 And fear came upon every soul: and many wonders and signs were done by the apostles.

44 And all that believed were together, and [p] had all things common;

45 And sold their possessions and goods and [r] parted them to all men, as every man had need.

46 And [s] they, continuing daily with one accord in the temple, and [u] breaking bread [x] from house to house, did eat their meat with gladness and singleness of heart, 47 Praising God, and [y] having favour with all the people. And [z] the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved.

CHAP. III.

NOW Peter and John went up together [b] into the temple at the hour of prayer, being [c] the ninth hour.

2 And [d] a certain man lame from his mother's womb was carried, whom they laid daily at the gate of the temple which is called Beautiful, [e] to ask alms of them that entered into the temple;

3 Who seeing Peter and John about [f] to go into the temple asked an alms.

4 And Peter, fastening his eyes upon him with John, said, Look on us.

5 And he gave heed unto them, expecting to receive something of them.

6 Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: [h] In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk.

7 And he took him by the right hand, and lifted him up: and immediately his feet and ancle bones received strength.

8 And he leaping up stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking, [k] and leaping, and praising God.

9 And all the people saw him walking and praising God:

10 And they knew that it was he which [a] sat for alms at the Beautiful gate of the temple: and they were filled with wonder and amazement at that which had happened unto him.

11 And as the lame man which was healed [d] held Peter and John, all the people ran together unto them in the porch [f] that is called Solomon's, greatly wondering.

12 ¶ And when Peter saw it, he answered unto the people, Ye men of Israel, why marvel ye at this? or why look ye so earnestly on us, as though by our own power or holiness we had made this man to walk?

13 The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Jacob, the God of our fathers, [i] hath glorified his Son Jesus; whom ye delivered up, and [k] denied him in the presence of Pilate, when he was determined to let him go.

14 But ye denied [l] the Holy One and the Just, and desired a murderer to be granted unto you;

15 And killed the [o] Prince of life, whom God hath raised from the dead; whereof we are witnesses.

16 And his name through faith in his name hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know: yea, the faith which is by him hath given him this perfect soundness in the presence of you all.

17 And now, brethren, I wot [r] that through ignorance ye did it, as did also your rulers.

18 But [s] those things, which God before had shewed [u] by the mouth of all his prophets, that Christ should suffer, he hath so fulfilled.

19 ¶ Repent [v] ye therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out, when the times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord;

20 And he shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you:

21 Whom [x] the heaven must receive until the times of [z] restitution of all things, [a] which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began.

22 For Moses truly said unto the fathers, [b] A prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, like unto me; him shall ye hear in all things whatsoever he shall say unto you.

23 And it shall come to pass, that every soul, which will not hear that prophet, shall be destroyed from among the people.

24 Yea, and all the prophets from Samuel and those that follow after, as many as have spoken, have likewise foretold of these days.

25 Ye [h] are the children of the prophets, and of the covenant which God made with our fathers, saying unto Abraham, [i] And in thy seed shall all the kindreds of the earth be blessed.

26 Unto [m] you first God, having raised up his Son Jesus, sent him to bless you, [n] in turning away every one of you from his iniquities.

CHAP. IV.

AND as they spake unto the people, the priests, and the [t] captain of the temple, and the Sadducees, came upon them,

2 Being [p] grieved that they taught the people, [r] and preached through Jesus the resurrection from the dead.

3 And they laid hands on them, and put them in hold unto the next day: for it was now eventide.

4 Howbeit [s] many of them which heard the word believed; and [v] the number of the men was about five thousand.

5 ¶ And it came to pass on the morrow, that their rulers, and elders, and scribes,

6 And [x] Annas the high priest, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the kindred of the high priest, were gathered together at Jerusalem.

7 And when they had set them in the midst, they asked, [z] By what power, or by what name, have ye done this?

8 Then [h] Peter, filled with the Holy Ghost, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel,

9 If we this day be examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, by what means he is made whole;

10 Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, [m] that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, [n] whom God raised from the dead, even by him doth this man stand here before you whole.

11 This [o] is the stone which was set at nought of you builders, which is become the head of the corner.

12 Neither [p] is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved.

13 ¶ Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, [r] and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus.

14 And beholding the man which was healed standing with them, they could say nothing against it.

15 But when they had commanded them to go aside out of the council, they conferred among themselves,

16 Saying, [s] What shall we do to these men? for that indeed a notable miracle hath been done by them [u] is manifest to all them that dwell in Jerusalem; and we cannot deny it.

17 But that it spread no further among the people, let us straitly threaten them, that they speak henceforth to no man in this name.

18 And [d] they called them, and commanded them not to speak at all nor teach in the name of Jesus.

19 But Peter and John answered and said unto them, [e] Whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than unto God, judge ye.

20 For [f] we cannot but speak the things which [g] we have seen and heard.

21 So when they had further threatened them, they let them go, finding nothing how they might punish them, [h] because of the people: for all men glorified God for [i] that which was done.

22 For the man was above forty years old, on whom this miracle of healing was shewed.

23 ¶ And being let go, [e] they went to their own company, and reported all that the chief priests and elders had said unto them.

24 And when they heard that, they lifted up their voice to God with one accord, and said, Lord, [t] thou art God, which hast made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and all that in them is:

25 Who by the mouth of thy servant David hast said, [a] Why did the heathen rage, and the people imagine vain things?

26 The kings of the earth stood up, and the rulers were gathered together against the Lord, and against his Christ.

27 For [b] of a truth against [c] thy holy child Jesus, [d] whom thou hast anointed, both Herod, and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles, and the people of Israel, were gathered together, 28 For [f] to do whatsoever thy hand and thy counsel determined before to be done.

29 And now, Lord, behold their threatenings: and grant unto thy servants, [i] that with all boldness they may speak thy word,

30 By stretching forth thine hand to heal; and [m] that signs and wonders may be done by [n] the name of thy holy child Jesus.

31 ¶ And when they had prayed, [o] the place was shaken where they were assembled together; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spake the word of God with boldness.

32 And the multitude of them that believed [r] were of one heart and of one soul: [s] neither said any of them that ought of the things which he possessed was his own; but they had all things common.

33 And with [u] great power gave the apostles [x] witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus: and great grace was upon them all.

34 Neither was there any among them that lacked: for as many as were possessors of lands or houses sold them, and brought the prices of the things that were sold,

35 And [a] laid them down at the apostles' feet: [b] and distribution was made unto every man according as he had need.

36 And Joses, who by the apostles was surnamed Barnabas, (which is, being interpreted, The son of consolation,) a Levite, and of the country of Cyprus, 37 Having land, sold it, and brought the money, and laid it at the apostles' feet.

CHAP. V.

BUT a certain man named Ananias, with Sapphira his wife, sold a possession,

2 And kept back part of the price, his wife also being privy to it, [e] and brought a certain part, and laid it at the apostles' feet.

3 But [f] Peter said, Ananias, why hath Satan [g] filled thine heart to lie to the Holy Ghost, and to keep back part of the price of the land?

4 Whiles it remained, was it not thine own? and after it was sold, was it not in thine own power? why hast thou conceived this thing in thine heart? thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God.

5 And Ananias hearing these words fell down, and gave up the ghost: and great fear came on all them that heard these things.

6 And the young men arose, [i] wound him up, and carried him out, and buried him.

7 And it was about the space of three hours after, when his wife, not knowing what was done, came in.

8 And Peter answered unto her, Tell me whether ye sold the land for so much? And she said, Yea, for so much.

9 Then Peter said unto her, How is it that ye have agreed together [k] to tempt the Spirit of the Lord? behold, the feet of them which have buried thy husband are at the door, and shall carry thee out.

10 Then fell she down straightway at his feet, and yielded up the ghost: and the young men came in, and found her dead, and, carrying her forth, buried her by her husband.

11 And [c] great fear came upon all the church, and upon as many as heard these things.

12 ¶ And [g] by the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people; (h and they were all with one accord in Solomon's porch.

13 And [k] of the rest durst no man join himself to them: [l] but the people magnified them.

14 And believers were the more added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women.)

15 Insomuch that they brought forth the sick [o] into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches, [p] that at the least the shadow of Peter passing by might overshadow some of them.

16 There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing [t] sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed every one.

17 ¶ Then [v] the high priest rose up, and all they that were with him, (which is the sect of the Sadducees,) and were filled with † indignation,

18 And [y] laid their hands on the apostles, and put them in the common prison.

19 But [a] the angel of the Lord by night opened the prison doors, and brought them forth, and said, 20 Go, stand and speak in the temple to the people [c] all the words of this life.

21 And when they heard that, they entered into the temple early in the morning, and taught. [d] But the high priest came, and they that were with him, and called the council together, and all the senate of the children of Israel, and sent to the prison to have them brought.

22 But when the officers came, and found them not in the prison, they returned, and told,

23 Saying, The prison truly found we shut with all safety, and the keepers standing without before the doors: but when we had opened, we found no man within.

24 Now when the high priest and the captain of the temple and the chief priests heard these things, they doubted of them whereunto this would grow.

25 Then came one and told them, saying, Behold, the men whom ye put in prison are standing in the temple, and teaching the people.

26 Then went the captain with the officers, and brought them without violence: for [h] they feared the people, lest they should have been stoned.

27 And when they had brought them, they set them before the council: and the high priest asked them,

28 Saying, [k] Did not we straitly command you that ye should not teach in this name? and, behold, ye have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine, and intend to bring this man's [l] blood upon us.

29 ¶ Then Peter and the other apostles answered and said, We ought to obey God rather than men.

30 The [m] God of our fathers raised up

Jesus, whom ye slew and [a] hanged on a tree.

31 Him [b] hath God exalted with his right hand to be a Prince and [c] a Saviour, [d] for to give repentance to Israel, and forgiveness of sins.

32 And [e] we are his witnesses of these things; and so is also the Holy Ghost, whom God hath given to them that obey him.

33 ¶ When they heard that, they were cut to the heart, and took counsel to slay them.

34 Then stood there up one in the council, a Pharisee, named [h] Gamaliel, a doctor of the law, had in reputation among all the people, and commanded to put the apostles forth a little space;

35 And said unto them, Ye men of Israel, take heed to yourselves what ye intend to do as touching these men.

36 For [*] before these days rose up Theudas, boasting himself to be somebody; to whom a number of men, about four hundred, joined themselves: who was slain; and all, as many as [i] obeyed him, were scattered, and brought to nought.

37 After this man rose up Judas of Galilee in the days of the taxing, and drew away much people after him: he also perished; and all, even as many as obeyed him, were dispersed.

38 And now I say unto you, Refrain from these men, and let them alone: [m] for if this counsel or this work be of men, it will come to nought:

39 But [n] if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found even [o] to fight against God.

40 And to him they agreed: and when they had [p] called the apostles, [q] and beaten them, they commanded that they should not speak in the name of Jesus, and let them go.

41 ¶ And they departed from the presence of the council, [r] rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for his name.

42 And daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus Christ.

CHAP. VI.

AND in those days, when the number of the disciples was multiplied, there arose a murmuring of the [s] Grecians against the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected in [t] the daily ministration.

2 Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, [u] It is not reason that we should leave the word of God, and serve tables.

3 Wherefore, brethren, [v] look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business.

4 But we [w] will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word.

5 ¶ And the saying pleased the whole multitude: and they chose Stephen, [x] a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and [y] Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicolas a proselyte of Antioch:

6 Whom they set before the apostles: and [z] when they had prayed, [a] they laid their hands on them.

7 And the word of God increased; and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem greatly; and a great company [b] of the priests were obedient to the faith.

8 And Stephen, full of faith and power, did great wonders and miracles among the people.

9 ¶ Then there arose certain of the synagogue, which is called the synagogue of the Libertines, and Cyrenians, and Alexandrians, and of them of Cilicia and of Asia, disputing with Stephen.

10 And [f] they were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit by which he spake.

11 Then [g] they suborned men, which said, We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses, and against God.

12 And they stirred up the people, and the elders, and the scribes, and came upon him, and caught him, and brought him to the council,

13 And set up false witnesses, which said, This man ceaseth not to speak blasphemous words against this holy place, and the law:

14 For [i] we have heard him say, that this Jesus of Nazareth shall [k] destroy this place, and shall change the † customs which Moses delivered us.

15 And all that sat in the council, looking stedfastly on him, saw his face as it had been the face of an angel.

CHAP. VII.

THEN said the high priest, Are these things so?

2 And he said, [l] Men, brethren, and fathers, hearken; The God of glory appeared unto our father Abraham, when he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran,

3 And said unto him, [m] Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and come into the land which I shall shew thee.

4 Then [n] came he out of the land of the Chaldæans, and dwelt in Charran: and from thence, when his father was dead, he removed him into this land, wherein ye now dwell.

5 And he gave him none inheritance in it, no, not so much as to set his foot on: [o] yet he promised that he would give it to him for a possession, and to his seed after him, when as yet he had no child.

6 And God spake on this wise. That his seed should sojourn in a strange land; and that they should bring them into bondage, and entreat them evil [p] four hundred years.

7 And the nation to whom they shall be in bondage will I judge, said God: and after that shall they come forth, and [q] serve me in this place.

8 And [r] he gave him the covenant of circumcision: [s] and so Abraham begat Isaac, and circumcised him the eighth day; [t] and Isaac begat Jacob; and Jacob begat [u] the twelve patriarchs.

9 And [i] the patriarchs, moved with envy, sold Joseph into Egypt: [k] but God was with him,

10 And delivered him out of all his afflictions, [w] and gave him favour and wisdom in the sight of Pharaoh king of Egypt; and he made him governor over Egypt and all his house.

11 Now [x] there came a dearth over all the land of Egypt and Chanaan, and great affliction: and our fathers found no sustenance.

12 But when Jacob heard that there was corn in Egypt, he sent out our fathers first.

13 And [a] at the second time Joseph was made known to his brethren; and Joseph's kindred was made known unto Pharaoh.

14 Then sent Joseph, and called his father Jacob to him, and [d] all his kindred, threescore and fifteen souls.

15 So [f] Jacob went down into Egypt, and died, [g] he, and our fathers,

16 And [h] were carried over into Sychem, and laid in [i] the sepulchre that Abraham bought for a sum of money of the sons of Emmor the father of Sychem.

17 But when [m] the time of the promise drew nigh, which God had sworn to Abraham, [n] the people grew and multiplied in Egypt, 18 Till another king arose, which knew not Joseph.

19 The same dealt subtilly with our kindred, and evil entreated our fathers, [r] so that they cast out their young children, to the end they might not live.

20 In [s] which time Moses was born, and [m] was [t] exceeding fair, and nourished up in his father's house three months:

21 And [y] when he was cast out, Pharaoh's daughter took him up, and nourished him for her own son.

22 And Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty [z] in words and in deeds.

23 And [a] when he was full forty years old, it came into his heart to visit his brethren the children of Israel.

24 And seeing one of them suffer wrong, he defended him, and avenged him that was oppressed, and smote the Egyptian:

25 ¶ For he supposed his brethren would have understood how that God by his hand would deliver them: but they understood not.

26 And the next day he shewed himself unto them as they strove, and would have set them at one again, saying, Sirs, ye are brethren; why do ye wrong one to another?

27 But he that did his neighbour wrong thrust him away, saying, [b] Who made thee a ruler and a judge over us?

28 Wilt thou kill me, as thou diddest the Egyptian yesterday?

29 Then [c] fled Moses at this saying, and was a stranger in the land of Madian, where he begat two sons.

30 And [m] when forty years were expired, there appeared to him in the wilderness of mount Sina an angel of the Lord in a flame of fire in a bush.

31 When Moses saw it, he wondered at the sight: and as he drew near to behold it, the voice of the Lord came unto him, 32 Saying, [r] I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Then Moses trembled, and durst not behold.

33 Then [e] said the Lord to him, Put off thy shoes from thy feet: for the place where thou standest is holy ground.

34 I have seen, I have seen the affliction of my people which is in Egypt, and I have heard their groaning, and am come down to deliver them. And now come, I will send thee into Egypt.

35 This Moses whom they refused, saying, Who made thee a ruler and a judge? the same did God send to be a ruler and a deliverer by the hand of the angel which appeared to him in the bush.

36 He brought them out, after that he had [z] shewed wonders and signs in the land of Egypt, and in the Red sea, [k] and in the wilderness forty years.

37 ¶ This is that Moses, which said unto the children of Israel, [e] A prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, [e] like unto me; [e] him shall ye hear.

38 This is he, that was in the church in the wilderness with [t] the angel which spake to him in the mount Sina, and with our fathers: [k] who received the lively [t] oracles to give unto us:

39 To whom our fathers would not obey, but thrust him from them, and in their hearts turned back again into Egypt,

40 Saying [g] unto Aaron, Make us gods to go before us: for as for this Moses, which brought us out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.

41 And [p] they made a calf in those days, and offered sacrifice unto the idol, and rejoiced in the works of their own hands.

42 Then [t] God turned, and gave them up to worship [v] the host of heaven; as it is written in the book of the prophets, [x] O ye house of Israel, have ye offered to me slain beasts and sacrifices by the space of forty years in the wilderness?

43 Yea, ye took up the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of your god Remphan, figures which ye made to worship them: and I will carry you away beyond Babylon.

44 Our fathers had the tabernacle of witness in the wilderness, as he had appointed, [t] speaking unto Moses, [k] that he should make it according to the fashion that he had seen.

45 Which [k] also our fathers [k] that came after brought in with Jesus into the possession of the Gentiles, [d] whom God drave out before the face of our fathers, unto the days of David;

46 Who [c] found favour before God, and [f] desired to find a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.

47 But [g] Solomon built him an house.

48 Howbeit [t] the most High dwelleth not in temples made with hands; as saith the prophet,

49 Heaven [k] is my throne, and earth is my footstool: what house will ye build me? saith the Lord: or what is the place of my rest?

50 Hath not my hand made all these things?

51 ¶ Ye [w] stiffnecked and [w] uncircumcised in heart and ears, ye do always resist the Holy Ghost: as your fathers did, so do ye.

52 Which [p] of the prophets have not your fathers persecuted? and they have slain them which shewed before of the coming of the Just One; of whom ye have been now the betrayers and murderers:

53 Who [e] have received the law by the disposition of angels, and have not kept it.

54 ¶ When they heard these things, they were cut to the heart, and they gnashed on him with their teeth.

55 But he, being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up stedfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God, 56 And said, Behold, [m] I see the heavens opened, and the [y] Son of man standing on the right hand of God.

57 Then they cried out with a loud voice, and stopped their ears, and ran upon him with one accord,

58 And [y] cast him out of the city, [a] and stoned him: and [a] the witnesses laid down their clothes at a young man's feet, whose name was Saul.

59 And they stoned Stephen, [b] calling upon God, and saying, Lord Jesus, [c] receive my spirit.

60 And he kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, [d] Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this, he fell asleep.

CHAP. VIII.

AND [e] Saul was consenting unto his death. And at that time there was a great persecution against the church which was at Jerusalem; and [f] they were all scattered abroad throughout the regions of Judæa and Samaria, except the apostles.

2 And devout men carried Stephen to his burial, and [g] made great lamentation over him.

3 As for Saul, [h] he made havock of the church, entering into every house, and haling men and women committed them to prison.

4 Therefore [i] they that were scattered abroad went every where preaching the word.

5 Then [k] Philip went down to the city of Samaria, and preached Christ unto them.

6 And the people with one accord gave heed unto those things which Philip spake, hearing and seeing the miracles which he did.

7 For [l] unclean spirits, crying with loud voice, came out of many that were possessed with them: and many taken with palsies, and that were lame, were healed.

8 And there was great joy in that city.

9 But there was a certain man, called Simon, which beforetime in the same city [m] used sorcery, and bewitched the people of Samaria, [n] giving out that himself was some great one:

10 To [o] whom they all gave heed, from the least to the greatest, saying, This man is the great power of God.

11 And to him they had regard, [p] because that of long time he had bewitched them with sorceries.

12 But when they believed Philip preaching the things [q] concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women.

13 Then Simon himself believed also: and when he was baptized, he continued with Philip, and wondered, beholding the [r] miracles and signs which were done.

14 Now when the apostles which were at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John:

15 Who, when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Ghost:

16 (For [s] as yet he was fallen upon none of them: only [t] they were baptized in [u] the name of the Lord Jesus.)

17 Then [x] laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost.

18 And when Simon saw that through laying on of the apostles' hands the Holy Ghost was given, he offered them money,

19 Saying, Give me also this power, that on whomsoever I lay hands, he may receive the Holy Ghost.

20 But Peter said unto him, Thy money perish with thee, because [y] thou hast thought that [z] the gift of God may be purchased with money.

21 Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter: for thy heart is not right in the sight of God.

22 Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray God, [a] if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee.

23 For I perceive that thou art in [b] the gall of bitterness, and [c] in the bond of iniquity.

24 Then answered Simon, and said, [d] Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of these things which ye have spoken come upon me.

25 And they, when they had [e] testified and preached the word of the Lord, returned to Jerusalem, and preached the gospel in many villages of the Samaritans.

26 And [f] the angel of the Lord spake unto Philip, saying, Arise, and go toward the south unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is desert.

27 And he arose and went: and, behold, [g] a man of Ethiopia, an eunuch of great authority under Candace queen of the Ethiopians, who had the charge of all her treasure, and [h] had come to Jerusalem for to worship, 28 Was returning, [i] and sitting in his chariot read Esaias the prophet.

29 Then the Spirit said unto Philip, Go near, and join thyself to this chariot.

30 And Philip ran thither to him, and heard him read the prophet Esaias, and said, [k] Understandest thou what thou readest?

31 And he said, How can I, except some man should guide me? And he desired Philip that he would come up and sit with him.

32 The place of the scripture which he read was this, [l] He was led as a sheep to the slaughter; and like a lamb dumb before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth:

33 In his humiliation his judgment was taken away: and who shall declare his generation? for his life is taken from the earth.

34 And the eunuch answered Philip, and said, I pray thee, of whom speaketh the prophet this? of himself, or of some other man?

35 Then Philip opened his mouth, [m] and began at the same scripture, and preached unto him Jesus.

36 And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water: and the eunuch said, See, here is water; [n] what doth hinder me to be baptized?

37 And Philip said, [o] If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, [p] I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God.

38 And he commanded the chariot to stand still: and they went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he baptized him.

39 And when they were come up out of the water, [q] the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip, that the eunuch saw him no more: and he went on his way rejoicing.

40 But Philip was found at Azotus: and passing through he preached in all the cities, till he came to Cæsarea.

any [a] of this way, whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem.

3 And [a] as he journeyed, he came near Damascus: and suddenly there shined round about him a light from heaven:

4 And he fell to the earth, and heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, [d] why persecutest thou me?

5 And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest: [f] it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

6 And he trembling and astonished said, Lord, [h] what wilt thou have me to do? And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do.

7 And [k] the men which journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing a voice, but seeing no man.

8 And Saul arose from the earth; and when his eyes were opened, he saw no man: but they led him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus.

9 And he was three days without sight, and neither did eat nor drink.

10 ¶ And there was a certain disciple at Damascus, [o] named Ananias; and to him said the Lord in a vision, Ananias. And he said, Behold, I am here, Lord.

11 And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the street which is called Straight, and enquire in the house of Judas for one called Saul, [r] of Tarsus: for, behold, [s] he prayeth, 12 And hath seen in a vision a man named Ananias coming in, and putting his hand on him, that he might receive his sight.

13 Then Ananias answered, Lord, I have heard by many of this man, [u] how much evil he hath done to thy saints at Jerusalem:

14 And here he hath authority from the chief priests to bind all [x] that call on thy name.

15 But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for [a] he is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear my name before [b] the Gentiles, and [c] kings, and the children of Israel:

16 For [e] I will shew him how great things he must suffer for my name's sake.

17 And [f] Ananias went his way, and entered into the house; and [k] putting his hands on him said, Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be [i] filled with the Holy Ghost.

18 And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales: and he received sight forthwith, and arose, and was baptized.

19 And when he had received meat, he was strengthened. [k] Then was Saul certain days with the disciples which were at Damascus.

20 And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, [o] that he is the Son of God.

21 But all that heard him were amazed, and said; [p] Is not this he that destroyed them which called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hither for that intent, that he might bring them bound unto the chief priests?

22 But Saul increased the more in strength, [t] and confounded the Jews which dwelt at Damascus, proving that this is very Christ.

23 ¶ And after that many days were fulfilled, [b] the Jews took counsel to kill him:

24 But [c] their laying await was known of Saul. And they watched the gates day and night to kill him.

25 Then the disciples took him by night, and [e] let him down by the wall in a basket.

26 And [f] when Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assayed to join himself to the disciples: but they were all afraid of him, and believed not that he was a disciple.

27 But [i] Barnabas took him, and brought him to the apostles, and declared unto them how he had seen the Lord in the way, and that he had spoken to him, and how he had preached boldly at Damascus in the name of Jesus.

28 And [l] he was with them coming in and going out at Jerusalem.

29 And he spake boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus, and disputed against the [m] Grecians: [n] but they went about to slay him.

30 Which when the brethren knew, they brought him down to Cæsarea, and sent him forth to Tarsus.

31 Then [p] had the churches rest throughout all Judæa and Galilee and Samaria, and were edified; and walking in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the Holy Ghost, were multiplied.

32 ¶ And it came to pass, as Peter passed [t] throughout all quarters, he came down also to the saints which dwelt at Lydda.

33 And there he found a certain man named Æneas, which had kept his bed eight years, and was sick of the palsy.

34 And Peter said unto him, Æneas, [y] Jesus Christ maketh thee whole: arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately.

35 And all that dwelt at Lydda [y] and Saron saw him, and [z] turned to the Lord.

36 ¶ Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called † Dorcas: this woman was full [d] of good works and almsdeeds which she did.

37 And it came to pass in those days, that she was sick, and died: whom when they had washed, they laid her in [f] an upper chamber.

38 And forasmuch as Lydda was nigh to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring him that he would not [i] delay to come to them.

39 Then Peter arose and went with them. When he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber: and all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made, while she was with them.

40 But Peter [i] put them all forth, and [m] kneeled down, and prayed; and turning him to the body [n] said, Tabitha, arise. And she opened her eyes: and when she saw Peter, she sat up.

41 And he gave her his hand, and lifted her up, and when he had called the saints and widows, presented her alive.

42 And it was known throughout all Joppa; [r] and many believed in the Lord.

43 And it came to pass, that he tarried many days in Joppa with one [s] Simon a tanner.

CHAP. X.

THERE was a certain man in Cæsarea called Cornelius, a centurion of the band called the Italian band,

2 A [a] devout man, and one that [b] feared God with all his house, which gave much alms to the people, [c] and prayed to God alway.

3 He [d] saw in a vision evidently about the ninth hour of the day an angel of God coming in to him, and saying unto him, Cornelius.

4 And when he looked on him, he was afraid, and said, What is it, Lord? And he said unto him, Thy prayers and thine alms [e] are come up for a memorial before God.

5 And now send men to Joppa, and call for one Simon, whose surname is Peter:

6 He lodgeth with one [f] Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea side: [g] he shall tell thee what thou oughtest to do.

7 And when the angel which spake unto Cornelius was departed, he called two of his household servants, and a devout soldier of them that waited on him continually;

8 And when he had declared all these things unto them, [h] he sent them to Joppa.

9 ¶ On the morrow, as they went on their journey, and drew nigh unto the city, [i] Peter went up upon the housetop to pray about the sixth hour:

10 And he became very hungry, and would have eaten: but while they made ready, he fell into a trance,

11 And [k] saw heaven opened, and a certain vessel descending unto him, as it had been a great sheet knit at the four corners, and let down to the earth:

12 Wherein were all manner of four-footed beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air.

13 And there came a voice to him, Rise, Peter; kill, and eat.

14 But Peter said, Not so, Lord; [l] for I have never eaten any thing that is common or unclean.

15 And the voice spake unto him again the second time, [m] What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common.

16 This was done thrice: and the vessel was received up again into heaven.

17 Now while Peter doubted in himself what this vision which he had seen should mean, behold, the men which were sent from Cornelius had made enquiry for Simon's house, and stood before the gate,

18 And called, and asked whether Simon, which was surnamed Peter, were lodged there.

19 ¶ While Peter thought on the vision, [n] the Spirit said unto him, Behold, three men seek thee.

20 Arise [o] therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, doubting nothing: for I have sent them.

21 Then Peter went down to the men which were sent unto him from Cornelius; and said, Behold, I am he whom ye seek: what is the cause wherefore ye are come?

22 And they said, Cornelius the centurion, a just man, and one that feareth God, and [p] of good report among all the nation of the Jews, was warned from God by an holy angel to send for thee into his house, and to hear words of thee

23 Then called he them in, and lodged them. And on the morrow Peter went away with them, and certain brethren from Joppa accompanied him.

24 And the morrow after they entered into Cæsarea. And Cornelius waited for them, and had called together his kinsmen and near friends.

25 And as Peter was coming in, Cornelius met him, and fell down at his feet, and worshipped him.

26 But Peter took him up, saying, [d] Stand up; I myself also am a man.

27 And as he talked with him, he went in, and found many that were come together.

28 And he said unto them, Ye know how [f] that it is an unlawful thing for a man that is a Jew to keep company, or come unto one of another nation; but [h] God hath shewed me that I should not call any man common or unclean.

29 Therefore came I unto you without gainsaying, as soon as I was sent for: I ask therefore for what intent ye have sent for me?

30 And Cornelius said, Four days ago I was fasting until this hour; and at the ninth hour I prayed in my house, and, behold, [i] a man stood before me in bright clothing,

31 And said, Cornelius, [n] thy prayer is heard, [o] and thine alms are had in remembrance in the sight of God.

32 Send therefore to Joppa, and call hither Simon, whose surname is Peter; he is lodged in the house of one Simon a tanner by the sea side: who, when he cometh, shall speak unto thee.

33 Immediately therefore I sent to thee; and thou hast well done that thou art come. Now therefore are we all here present before God, to hear all things that are commanded thee of God.

34 ¶ Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, [p] Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons:

35 But [s] in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him.

36 The word which God sent unto the children of Israel, [u] preaching peace by Jesus Christ: (he is Lord of all:)

37 That word, I say, ye know, which was published throughout all Judæa, and began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached;

38 How [z] God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil; [a] for God was with him.

39 And we are witnesses of all things which he did both in the land of the Jews, and in Jerusalem; whom they slew and hanged on a tree:

40 Him God raised up the third day, and shewed him openly;

41 Not [d] to all the people, but unto witnesses chosen before of God, even to us, [e] who did eat and drink with him after he rose from the dead.

42 And [f] he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testify that it is he which was ordained of God to be the Judge [g] of quick and dead.

43 To [i] him give all the prophets witness, that through his name [k] whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins.

44 ¶ While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word.

45 And they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on [a] the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost.

46 For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter, 47 Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we?

48 And [f] he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days.

CHAP. XI.

AND the apostles and brethren that were in Judæa heard that the Gentiles had also received the word of God.

2 And when Peter was come up to Jerusalem, [f] they that were of the circumcision contended with him,

3 Saying, [m] Thou wentest in to men uncircumcised, [n] and didst eat with them.

4 But Peter rehearsed the matter from the beginning, and expounded it [o] by order unto them, saying,

5 I [p] was in the city of Joppa praying: and in a trance I saw a vision, A certain vessel descend, as it had been a great sheet, let down from heaven by four corners; and it came even to me:

6 Upon the which when I had fastened mine eyes, I considered, and saw fourfooted beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air.

7 And I heard a voice saying unto me, Arise, Peter; slay and eat.

8 But I said, Not so, Lord: for nothing common or unclean hath at any time entered into my mouth.

9 But the voice answered me again from heaven, What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common.

10 And this was done three times: and all were drawn up again into heaven.

11 And, behold, immediately there were three men already come unto the house where I was, sent from Cæsarea unto me.

12 And [s] the spirit bade me go with them, nothing doubting. Moreover [a] these six brethren accompanied me, and we entered into the man's house:

13 And [b] he shewed us how he had seen an angel in his house, which stood and said unto him, Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter;

14 Who shall tell thee words, whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved.

15 And as I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them, [a] as on us at the beginning.

16 Then remembered I the word of the Lord, how that he said, [c] John indeed baptized with water; but [f] ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost.

17 Forasmuch [g] then as God gave them the like gift as he did unto us, who believed on the Lord Jesus Christ; [h] what was I, that I could withstand God?

18 When they heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, [i] Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life.

19 ¶ Now [j] they which were scattered abroad upon the persecution that arose about Stephen travelled as far as Phenice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, preaching the word to none but unto the Jews only.

20 And some of them were men of Cyprus and Cyrene, which, when they were come to Antioch, spake unto [b] the Grecians, preaching the Lord Jesus.

21 And [c] the hand of the Lord was with them: and a great number believed, and [d] turned unto the Lord.

22 ¶ Then tidings of these things came unto the ears of the church which was in Jerusalem: and they sent forth [e] Barnabas, that he should go as far as Antioch.

23 Who, when he came, and had seen the grace of God, was glad, and [f] exhorted them all, that with purpose of heart they would cleave unto the Lord.

24 For he was a good man, and [h] full of the Holy Ghost and of faith: [i] and much people was added unto the Lord.

25 Then departed Barnabas to [k] Tarsus, for to seek Saul:

26 And when he had found him, he brought him unto Antioch. And it came to pass, that a whole year they assembled themselves [o] with the church, and taught much people. And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch.

27 ¶ And in these days came [p] prophets from Jerusalem unto Antioch.

28 And there stood up one of them named [q] Agabus, and signified by the spirit that there should be great dearth throughout all the world: which came to pass in the days of Claudius Cæsar.

29 Then the disciples, every man according to his ability, determined to send [r] relief unto the brethren which dwelt in Judæa:

30 Which [s] also they did, and sent it to the elders by the hands of Barnabas and Saul.

CHAP. XII.

NOW about that time Herod the king † stretched forth his hands to vex certain of the church.

2 And he killed James [v] the brother of John with the sword.

3 And because he saw it pleased the Jews, he proceeded further to take Peter also. (Then were [w] the days of unleavened bread.)

4 And [x] when he had apprehended him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to four quaternions of soldiers to keep him; intending after Easter to bring him forth to the people.

5 Peter therefore was kept in prison: but ‡ prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him.

6 And when Herod would have brought him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains: and the keepers before the door kept the prison.

7 And, behold, [d] the angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light shined in the prison: and he smote Peter on the side, and raised him up, saying, Arise up quickly. And his chains fell off from his hands.

8 And the angel said unto him, Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals. And so he did. And he saith unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me.

9 And he went out, and followed him; and [k] wist not that it was true which was done by the angel; but thought [m] he saw a vision.

10 When they were past the first and the second ward, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city; [n] which opened to them of his own accord: and they went out, and passed on through one street; and forthwith the angel departed from him.

11 And when Peter was come to himself, he said, Now I know of a surety, that [b] the Lord hath sent his angel, and hath [c] delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews.

12 And when he had considered the thing, [d] he came to the house of Mary the mother of [e] John, whose surname was Mark; where many were gathered together [f] praying.

13 And as Peter knocked at the door of the gate, a damsel came to [o] hearken, named Rhoda.

14 And when she knew Peter's voice, she opened not the gate for gladness, but ran in, and told how Peter stood before the gate.

15 And they said unto her, Thou art mad. But she constantly affirmed that it was even so. Then said they, [h] It is his angel.

16 But Peter continued knocking: and when they had opened the door, and saw him, they were astonished.

17 But he, [p] beckoning unto them with the hand to hold their peace, declared unto them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison. And he said, Go shew these things unto James, and to the brethren. And he departed, and went into another place.

18 Now as soon as it was day, there was no small stir among the soldiers, what was become of Peter.

19 And when Herod had sought for him, and found him not, he examined the keepers, and commanded that they should be put to death. And he went down from Judæa to Cæsarea, and there abode.

20 [q] And Herod [r] was highly displeased with them of Tyre and Sidon: but they came with one accord to him, and, having made Blastus [s] the king's chamberlain their friend, desired peace; because [t] their country was nourished by the king's country.

21 And upon a set day Herod, arrayed in royal apparel, sat upon his throne, and made an oration unto them.

22 And the people gave a shout, saying, It is the voice of a god, and not of a man.

23 And immediately the angel of the Lord [x] smote him, because he gave not God the glory: and he was eaten of worms, and gave up the ghost.

24 [q] But [z] the word of God grew and multiplied.

25 And Barnabas and Saul returned from Jerusalem, when they had fulfilled their [k] ministry, and took with them John, whose surname was Mark.

CHAP. XIII.

NOW there were [a] in the church that was at Antioch certain prophets and teachers; as [c] Barnabas, and Simeon that was called Niger, and [d] Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaen, [e] which had been brought up with Herod the tetrarch, and Saul.

2 As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, [h] Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work [i] whereunto I have called them.

3 And [k] when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away.

4 [q] So they, being sent forth by the Holy Ghost, departed unto Seleucia; and from thence they sailed to [a] Cyprus.

5 And when they were at Salamis, they preached the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews: and they had also [d] John to their minister.

6 And when they had gone through the isle unto Paphos, they found [e] a certain sorcerer, a false prophet, a Jew, whose name was Bar-jesus:

7 Which was with the deputy of the country, Sergius Paulus, a prudent man; who called for Barnabas and Saul, and desired to hear the word of God.

8 But [f] Elymas the sorcerer (for so is his name by interpretation) withstood them, seeking to turn away the deputy from the faith.

9 Then Saul, (who also is called Paul,) [f] filled with the Holy Ghost, set his eyes on him,

10 And said, O full of all subtilty and all mischief, [f] thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?

11 And now, behold, [m] the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun for a season. And immediately there fell on him a mist and a darkness; and he went about seeking some to lead him by the hand.

12 Then the deputy, when he saw what was done, believed, being astonished at the doctrine of the Lord.

13 Now when Paul and his company loosed from Paphos, they came to Perga in Pamphylia: and [o] John departing from them returned to Jerusalem.

14 [q] But when they departed from Perga, they came to Antioch in Pisidia, and went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and sat down.

15 And [p] after the reading of the law and the prophets the rulers of the synagogue sent unto them, saying, Ye men and brethren, if ye have [r] any word of exhortation for the people, say on.

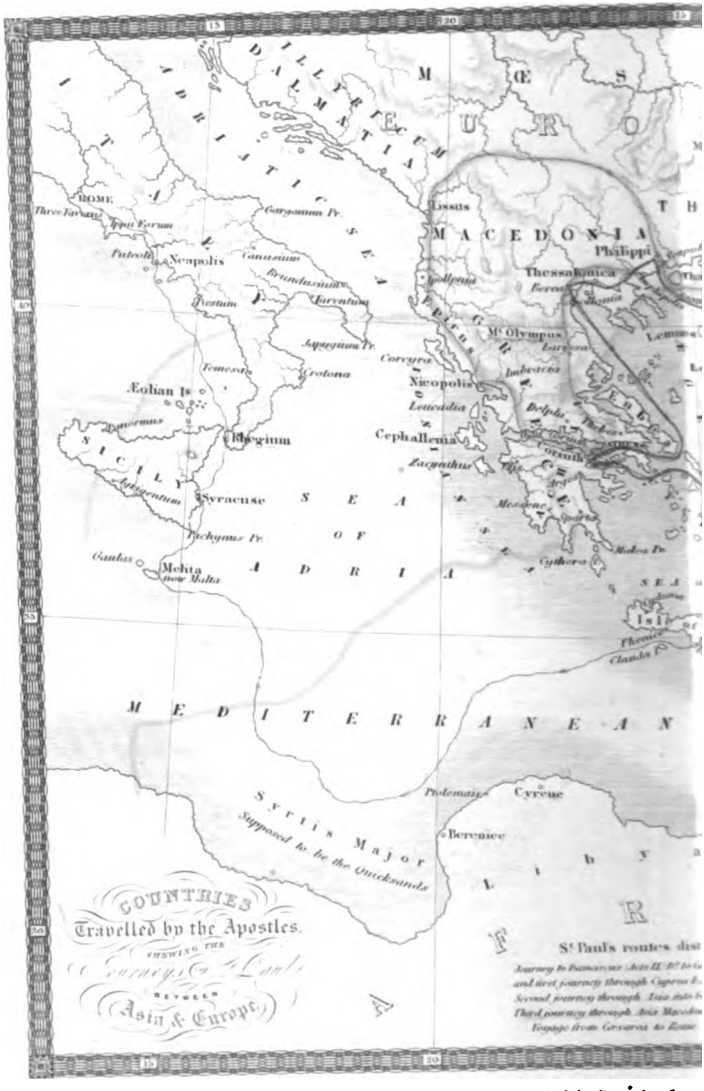
16 Then Paul stood up, and [t] beckoning with his hand said, Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, give audience.

17 The God of this people of Israel [u] chose our fathers, and exalted the people [v] when they dwelt as strangers in the land of Egypt, and with an high arm brought he them out of it.

18 And [y] about the time of forty years [§] suffered he their manners in the wilderness.

19 And when [a] he had destroyed seven nations in the land of Chanaan, [b] he divided their land to them by lot.

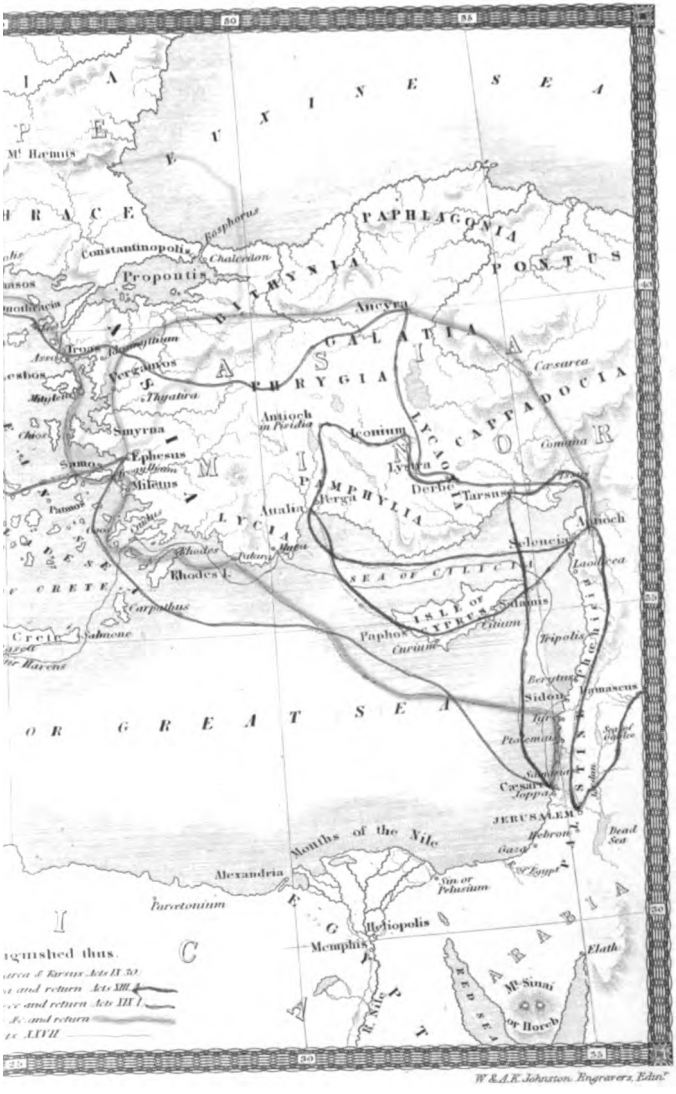
20 And after that he gave unto them judges about the space of four hundred and fifty years, until Samuel the prophet.



21 And [c] afterward they desired a king: and God gave unto them Saul the son of Cis, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, by the space of forty years.

22 And when he had removed him, [f] he raised up unto them David to be their king; to whom also he gave testimony, and said, I have found David the son of Jesse, a man after mine own heart, which shall fulfil all my will.

23 Of [j] this man's seed hath God according to his promise raised unto Israel [k] a Saviour, Jesus:



24 When John had first preached before his coming the baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel.

25 And as John fulfilled his course, he said, [b] Whom think ye that I am? I am not he. But, behold, there cometh one after me, whose shoes of his feet I am not worthy to loose.

26 Men and brethren, children of the stock of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, [c] to you is the word of this salvation sent.

27 For they that dwell at Jerusalem, and their rulers, [d] because they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets which are read every sabbath day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him.

28 And though they found no cause of death in him, yet desired they Pilate that he should be slain.

29 And when they had fulfilled all that was written of him, they took him down from the tree, and laid him in a sepulchre.

30 But [e] God raised him from the dead:

31 And [m] he was seen many days of them which came up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, who are his witnesses unto the people.

32 And we declare unto you glad tidings, how that [n] the promise which was made unto the fathers,

33 God hath fulfilled the same unto us their children, in that he hath raised up Jesus again; as it is also written in the second psalm, [o] Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee.

34 And as concerning that he raised him up from the dead, now no more to return to corruption, he said on this wise, [p] I will give you the sure [q] mercies of David.

35 Wherefore he saith also in another psalm, [r] Thou shalt not suffer thine Holy One to see corruption.

36 For David, after he had † served his own generation by the will of God, fell on sleep, and was laid unto his fathers, and saw corruption:

37 But he, whom God raised again, saw no corruption.

38 ¶ Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that [s] through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins:

39 And [t] by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses.

40 Beware therefore, lest that come upon you, which is spoken of in [b] the prophets;

41 Behold, ye despisers, and wonder, and perish: for I work a work in your days, a work which ye shall in no wise believe, though a man declare it unto you.

42 And when the Jews were gone out of the synagogue, the Gentiles besought that these words might be preached to them ‡ the next sabbath.

43 Now when the congregation was broken up, many of the Jews and religious proselytes followed Paul and Barnabas: who, speaking to them, persuaded them to continue in the grace of God.

44 ¶ And the next sabbath day came almost the whole city together to hear the word of God.

45 But when the Jews saw the multitudes, they were filled with envy, and spake [h] against those things which were spoken by Paul, contradicting and blaspheming.

46 Then Paul and Barnabas waxed bold, and said, [i] It was necessary that the word of God should first have been spoken to you: but [u] seeing ye put it from you, and judge yourselves unworthy of everlasting life, lo, [x] we turn to the Gentiles.

47 For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, [d] I have set thee to be a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldest be for salvation unto the ends of the earth.

48 And when the Gentiles heard this, they were glad, and glorified the word of the Lord: [f] and as many as were ordained to eternal life believed.

49 And the word of the Lord was published throughout all the region.

50 But the Jews stirred up the devout and honourable women, and the chief men of the city, and [k] raised persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them out of their coasts.

51 But [l] they shook off the dust of their feet against them, and came unto Iconium.

52 And the disciples [l] were filled with joy, and with the Holy Ghost.

CHAP. XIV.

AND it came to pass in Iconium, that they went both together into the synagogue of the Jews, and so spake, that a great multitude both of the Jews and also of the Greeks believed.

2 But the unbelieving Jews stirred up the Gentiles, and made their minds evil affected against the brethren.

3 Long time therefore abode they speaking boldly in the Lord, [y] which gave testimony unto the word of his grace, and granted signs and wonders to be done by their hands.

4 But the multitude of the city was divided: and part held with the Jews, and part with the [z] apostles.

5 And when there was an assault made both of the Gentiles, and also of the Jews with their rulers, [a] to use them despitefully, and to stone them,

6 They were ware of it, and [a] fled unto Lystra and Derbe, cities of Lycaonia, and unto the region that lieth round about:

7 And there they preached the gospel.

8 ¶ And [y] there sat a certain man at Lystra, impotent in his feet, being a cripple from his mother's womb, who never had walked:

9 The same heard Paul speak: who stedfastly beholding him, and [a] perceiving that he had faith to be healed,

10 Said with a loud voice, Stand upright on thy feet. And he leaped and walked.

11 And when the people saw what Paul had done, they lifted up their voices, saying in the speech of Lycaonia, [d] The gods are come down to us in the likeness of men.

12 And they called Barnabas, Jupiter; and Paul, Mercurius, because he was the chief speaker.

13 Then the priest of Jupiter, which was before their city, brought oxen and garlands unto the gates, and [c] would have done sacrifice with the people.

14 Which when the apostles, Barnabas and Paul, heard of, they rent their clothes, and ran in among the people, crying out,

15 And saying, Sirs, why do ye these things? [d] We also are men of like passions with you, and preach unto you that ye should turn from [f] these vanities J unto the living God, [g] which made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and all things that are therein:

16 Who [m] in times past suffered all nations to walk in their own ways.

17 Nevertheless [a] he left not himself without witness, in that he did good, and [b] gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness.

18 And with these sayings scarce restrained they the people, that they had not done sacrifice unto them.

19 ¶ And [c] there came thither certain Jews from Antioch and Iconium, who persuaded the people, [d] and, having stoned Paul, drew him out of the city, supposing he had been dead.

20 Howbeit, as the disciples stood round about him, he rose up and came into the city: and the next day he departed with Barnabas to Derbe.

21 And when they had preached the gospel to that city, and had [e] taught many, they returned again to Lystra, and to Iconium, and Antioch,

22 Confirming the souls of the disciples, and [f] exhorting them to continue in the faith, and that [g] we must through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of God.

23 And when they had [h] ordained them elders in every church, and had prayed with fasting, they commended them to the Lord, on whom they believed.

24 And after they had passed throughout Pisidia, they came to Pamphylia.

25 And when they had preached the word in Perga, they went down into Attalia:

26 And thence sailed to Antioch, [i] from whence they had been [j] recommended to the grace of God for the work which they fulfilled.

27 And when they were come, and had gathered the church together, they rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how he had [k] opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles.

28 And there they abode long time with the disciples.

CHAP. XV.

AND [a] certain men which came down from Judæa taught the brethren, and said, [b] Except ye be circumcised [c] after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved.

2 When therefore Paul and Barnabas had no small dissension and disputation with them, they determined that [d] Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, should go up to Jerusalem unto the apostles and elders about this question.

3 And [e] being brought on their way by the church, they passed through Phenice and Samaria, [f] declaring the conversion of the Gentiles: and they caused great joy unto all the brethren.

4 And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were received of the church, and of the apostles and elders, and [g] they declared all things that God had done with them.

5 But there [h] rose up certain of the sect of the Pharisees which believed, saying, That [i] it was needful to circumcise them, and to command them to keep the law of Moses.

6 [k] And the apostles and elders came together for to consider of this matter.

7 And when there had been much disputing, Peter rose up, and said unto them, [l] Men and brethren, ye know how that a good while ago God made choice among us, that the Gentiles by my mouth should hear the word of the gospel, and believe.

8 And God, which knoweth the hearts, bare them witness, [m] giving them the Holy Ghost, even as he did unto us;

9 And [n] put no difference between us and them, [o] purifying their hearts by faith.

10 Now therefore why tempt ye God, [p] to put a yoke upon the neck of the disciples, which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear?

11 But [q] we believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved, even as they.

12 ¶ Then all the multitude kept silence, and gave audience to Barnabas and Paul, declaring what miracles and wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles by them.

13 ¶ And after they had held their peace, [r] James answered, saying, Men and brethren, hearken unto me:

14 Simeon hath declared how God at the first did visit the Gentiles, to take out of them a people for his name.

15 And to this agree the words of the prophets; as it is written,

16 After [s] this I will return, and will build again the tabernacle of David, which is fallen down; and I will build again the ruins thereof, and I will set it up:

17 That the residue of men might seek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles, upon whom my name is called, saith the Lord, who doeth all these things.

18 Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world.

19 Wherefore [t] my sentence is, that we trouble not them, which from among the Gentiles [u] are turned to God:

20 But that we write unto them, that they abstain [v] from pollutions of idols, and [w] from fornication, and from things strangled, [x] and from blood.

21 For Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him, [y] being read in the synagogues every sabbath day.

22 Then pleased it the apostles and elders, with the whole church, to send chosen men of their own company to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas; namely, Judas surnamed [z] Barsabas, and [a] Silas, chief men among the brethren:

23 And they wrote letters by them after this manner; The apostles and elders and brethren send greeting unto the brethren which are of the Gentiles in Antioch and Syria and Cilicia:

24 Forasmuch as we have heard, that [b] certain which went out from us have troubled you with words, subverting your souls, saying, Ye must be circumcised, and keep the law: to whom we gave no such commandment:

25 It seemed good unto us, being assembled with one accord, to send chosen men unto you with our beloved Barnabas and Paul,

26 Men [c] that have hazarded their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

27 We have sent therefore Judas and Silas, who shall also tell you the same things by [d] mouth.

28 For it seemed good to the Holy Ghost, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things;

29 That [e] ye abstain from meats offered to idols, and [f] from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication: from which if ye keep yourselves, ye shall do well. Fare ye well.

30 So when they were dismissed, they came to Antioch: and when they had gathered the multitude together, they delivered the epistle:

31 Which when they had read, they rejoiced for the † consolation.

32 And Judas and Silas, being prophets also themselves, [g] exhorted the brethren with many words, and confirmed them.

33 And after they had tarried there a space, they were let [r] go in peace from the brethren unto the apostles.

34 Notwithstanding it pleased Silas to abide there still.

35 Paul [s] also and Barnabas continued in Antioch, teaching and preaching the word of the Lord, with many others also.

36 ¶ And some days after Paul said unto Barnabas, Let us go again and visit our brethren in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they do.

37 And Barnabas determined to take with them [t] John, whose surname was Mark.

38 But Paul thought not good to take him with them, [u] who departed from them from Pamphylia, and went not with them to the work.

39 And the contention was so sharp between them, that they departed asunder one from the other: and so Barnabas took Mark, and sailed unto Cyprus;

40 And Paul chose Silas, and departed, [x] being recommended by the brethren unto the grace of God.

41 And he went through Syria and Cilicia, [y] confirming the churches.

CHAP. XVI.

THEN came he to [z] Derbe and Lystra: and, behold, a certain disciple was there, [a] named Timotheus, [b] the son of a certain woman, which was a Jewess, and believed; but his father was a Greek:

2 Which [c] was well reported of by the brethren that were at Lystra and Iconium.

3 Him would Paul have to go forth with him; and [d] took and circumcised him because of the Jews which were in those quarters: for they knew all that his father was a Greek.

4 And [e] as they went through the cities, they delivered them the decrees for to keep, [f] that were ordained of the apostles and elders which were at Jerusalem.

5 And [g] so were the churches established in the faith, and increased in number daily.

6 Now when they had gone throughout Phrygia and the region of Galatia, and [h] were forbidden of the Holy Ghost to preach the word in Asia,

7 After they were come to Mysia, they assayed to go into Bithynia: but the Spirit suffered them not.

8 And they passing by Mysia [i] came down to Troas.

9 And a vision appeared to Paul in the night; There stood a [k] man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying, Come over into Macedonia, and help us.

10 And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavoured to go [l] into Macedonia, assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us for to preach the gospel unto them.

11 Therefore loosing from Troas, we came with a straight course to Samothracia, and the next day to Neapolis;

12 And from thence to [m] Philippi, which is [n] the chief city of that part of Macedonia, and a colony: and we were in that city abiding certain days.

Lydia and the jailor converted.

13 And on the ‡ sabbath we went out of the city by a river side, where prayer was wont to be made; and we sat down, [h] and spake unto the women which resorted thither.

14 ¶ And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira, which worshipped God, heard us: [r] whose [d] heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things which were spoken of Paul.

15 And when she was baptized, and her household, she besought us, saying, If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into my house, and abide there. And [f] she constrained us.

16 ¶ And it came to pass, as we went to prayer, a certain damsel [g] possessed with a spirit § of divination met us, which brought her masters [i] much gain by soothsaying:

17 The same followed Paul and us, and cried, saying, These men are the servants of the most high God, which shew unto us the way of salvation.

18 And this did she many days. But Paul, [t] being grieved, turned and said to the spirit, I command thee in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her. [m] And he came out the same hour.

19 And [e] when her masters saw that the hope of their gains was gone, [p] they caught Paul and Silas, and [q] drew them into the ‖ marketplace unto the rulers,

20 And brought them to the magistrates, saying, These men, being Jews, [s] do exceedingly trouble our city,

21 And teach customs, which are not lawful for us to receive, neither to observe, being Romans.

22 And the multitude rose up together against them: and the magistrates rent off their clothes, [u] and commanded to beat them.

23 And when they had laid many stripes upon them, they cast them into prison, charging the jailor to keep them safely:

24 Who, having received such a charge, thrust them into the inner prison, and made their feet fast in the stocks.

25 ¶ And at midnight Paul and Silas [x] prayed, and sang praises unto God: and the prisoners heard them.

26 And [y] suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken: and immediately [z] all the doors were opened, and every one's bands were loosed.

27 And the keeper of the prison awaking out of his sleep, and seeing the prison doors open, he drew out his sword, and would have killed himself, supposing that the prisoners had been fled.

28 But Paul [a] cried with a loud voice, saying, Do thyself no harm: for we are all here.

29 Then he called for a light, and sprang in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas, 30 And brought them out, and said, [m] Sirs, what must I do to be saved?

31 And they said, [n] Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house.

32 And they spake unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house.

33 And he took them the same hour of the night, and washed their stripes; and was baptized, he and all his, straightway.

34 And when he had brought them into his house, [b] he set meat before them, and [c] rejoiced, believing in God with all his house.

35 And when it was day, the magistrates sent the serjeants, saying, Let those men go.

36 And the keeper of the prison told this saying to Paul, The magistrates have sent to let you go: now therefore depart, and go in peace.

37 But Paul said unto them, They have beaten us openly uncondemned, being Romans, and have cast us into prison; and now do they thrust us out privily? nay verily; but let them come themselves and fetch us out.

38 And the serjeants told these words unto the magistrates: and they feared, when they heard that they were Romans.

39 And they came and besought them, and brought them out, and [g] desired them to depart out of the city.

40 And they went out of the prison, and [h] entered into the house of Lydia: and when they had seen the brethren, they comforted them, and departed.

CHAP. XVII.

NOW when they had passed through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a synagogue of the Jews:

2 And Paul, [a] as his manner was, [i] went in unto them, and three sabbath days reasoned with them out of the scriptures,

3 Opening and alledging, [k] that Christ must needs have suffered, and risen again from the dead; and that this Jesus, [l] whom I preach unto you, is Christ.

4 And [i] some of them believed, and consorted with Paul and [m] Silas; and of the devout Greeks a great multitude, and of the chief women not a few.

5 ¶ But the Jews which believed not, moved with envy, took unto them certain lewd fellows of the baser sort, and gathered a company, and set all the city on an uproar, and assaulted the house of [r] Jason, and sought to bring them out to the people.

6 And when they found them not, they drew Jason and certain brethren unto the rulers of the city, crying, [n] These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also;

7 Whom Jason hath received: and these all do contrary to the decrees of Cæsar, [s] saying that there is another king, one Jesus.

8 And they troubled the people and the rulers of the city when they heard these things.

9 And when they had taken security of Jason, and of the other, they let them go.

10 ¶ And [b] the brethren immediately sent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea: who coming thither went into the synagogue of the Jews.

11 These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and [t] searched [f] the scriptures daily, whether those things were so.

12 Therefore many of them believed; also of honourable women which were Greeks, and of men, not a few.

13 But when the Jews of Thessalonica had knowledge that the word of God was preached of Paul at Berea, they came thither also, and stirred up the people.

14 And [u] then immediately the brethren sent away Paul to go as it were to the sea: but Silas and Timotheus abode there still.

15 And they that conducted Paul brought him unto Athens: and receiving a commandment [d] unto Silas and Timotheus for to come to him with all speed, they departed.

16 ¶ Now while Paul waited for them at Athens, [e] his spirit was stirred in him, when he saw the city [o] wholly given to idolatry.

17 Therefore disputed he in the synagogue with the Jews, and with the devout persons, and in the market daily with them that met with him.

18 Then certain philosophers of the Epicureans, and of the Stoicks, encountered him. And some said, What will this [†] babbler say? other some, He seemeth to be a setter forth of strange gods: because he preached unto them Jesus, and the resurrection.

19 And they took him, and brought him unto [‡] Areopagus, saying, May we know what this new doctrine, whereof thou speakest, is?

20 For thou bringest certain strange things to our ears: we would know therefore what these things mean.

21 (For all the Athenians and strangers which were there spent their time in nothing else, but either to tell, or to hear some new thing.)

22 ¶ Then Paul stood in the midst of [§] Mars' hill, and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious.

23 For as I passed by, and beheld your [p] devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you.

24 God [x] that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is [y] Lord of heaven and earth, [z] dwelleth not in temples made with hands;

25 Neither is worshipped with men's hands, [a] as though he needed any thing, seeing [b] he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things;

26 And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and [c] the bounds of their habitation;

27 That [d] they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from every one of us:

28 For [e] in him we live, and move, and have our being; [f] as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring.

29 Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, [g] we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device.

30 And [h] the times of this ignorance God winked at; but [i] now commandeth all men every where to repent:

31 Because [k] he hath appointed a day, in the which [l] he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained; [m] whereof he hath [†] given assurance unto all men, in that [n] he hath raised him from the dead.

32 ¶ And when they heard of the resurrection of the dead, some mocked: and others said, We will hear thee again of this matter.

33 So Paul departed from among them.

34 Howbeit certain men clave unto him, and believed: among the which was Dionysius the Areopagite, and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

CHAP. XVIII.

AFTER these things Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinth;

2 And found a certain Jew named [a] Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy, with his wife Priscilla; (because that Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome:) and came unto them.

3 And because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, [b] and wrought: for by their occupation they were tentmakers.

4 And [c] he reasoned in the synagogue every sabbath, and persuaded the Jews and the Greeks.

5 And [d] when Silas and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paul was [m]pressed in the spirit, and testified to the Jews that Jesus [e] was Christ.

6 And [n] when they opposed themselves, and blasphemed, [f] he shook his raiment, and said unto them, [g] Your blood be upon your own heads; [h] I am clean: [i] from henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles.

7 ¶ And he departed thence, and entered into a certain man's house, named Justus, one that worshipped God, whose house joined hard to the synagogue.

8 And [o] Crispus, the chief ruler of the synagogue, believed on the Lord with all his house; and many of the Corinthians hearing believed, and were baptized.

9 Then [p] spake the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision, Be not afraid, but speak, and hold not thy peace:

10 For [q] I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to hurt thee: for I have much people in this city.

11 And he [r] continued there a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them.

12 ¶ And when Gallio was the deputy of Achaia, the Jews made insurrection with one accord against Paul, and brought him to the judgment seat, 13 Saying, This fellow persuadeth men to worship God contrary to the law.

14 And when Paul was now about to open his mouth, Gallio said unto the Jews, [s] If it were a matter of wrong or wicked lewdness, O ye Jews, reason would that I should bear with you:

15 But if it be a question of words and names, and of your law, look ye to it; [t] for I will be no judge of such matters.

16 And he drave them from the judgment seat.

17 Then all the Greeks took [u] Sosthenes, the chief ruler of the synagogue, and beat him before the judgment seat. And [v] Gallio cared for none of those things.

18 ¶ And Paul after this tarried there yet a good while, and then took his leave of the brethren, and sailed thence into Syria, and with him Priscilla and Aquila; having [w] shorn his head in [x] Cenchrea: for he had a vow.

19 And he came to Ephesus, and left them there: but he himself entered into the synagogue, and reasoned with the Jews.

20 When they desired him to tarry longer time with them, he consented not;

21 But bade them farewell, saying, [k] I must by all means keep this feast that cometh in Jerusalem: but I will return again unto you, [l] if God will. And he sailed from Ephesus.

22 And when he had landed at Cæsarea, and gone up, and saluted the church, he went down to Antioch.

23 And after he had spent some time there, he departed, and went over all the country of [m] Galatia and Phrygia in order, [n] strengthening all the disciples.

24 ¶ And [o] a certain Jew named Apollos, born at Alexandria, an eloquent man, and mighty in the scriptures, came to Ephesus.

25 This man was instructed in the way of the Lord; and being [p] fervent in the spirit, he spake and taught diligently the things of the Lord, knowing only the baptism of John.

26 And he began to speak boldly in the synagogue: whom when Aquila and Priscilla had heard, they took him unto them, [q] and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly.

27 And when he was disposed to pass into Achaia, the brethren wrote, exhorting the disciples to receive him: who, when he was come, [r] helped them much which had believed through grace:

28 For he mightily convinced the Jews, and that publickly, [s] shewing by the scriptures that Jesus [t] was Christ.

CHAP. XIX.

AND it came to pass, that, while [a] Apollos was at Corinth, Paul having passed through the upper coasts came to Ephesus: and finding certain disciples,

2 He said unto them, Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed? And they said unto him, [b] We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost.

3 And he said unto them, Unto what then were ye baptized? And they said, [c] Unto John's baptism.

4 Then said Paul, [d] John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people, that they should believe on him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus.

5 When they heard this, they were baptized [e] in the name of the Lord Jesus.

6 And when Paul had [f] laid his hands upon them, the Holy Ghost came on them; and [g] they spake with tongues, and prophesied.

7 And all the men were about twelve.

8 And [h] he went into the synagogue, and spake boldly for the space of three months, disputing and persuading the things [i] concerning the kingdom of God.

9 But [k] when divers were hardened, and believed not, but spake evil [m] of that way before the multitude, he departed from them, and separated the disciples, disputing daily in the school of one Tyrannus.

10 And [n] this continued by the space of two years; so that all they which dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks.

11 And [o] God wrought special miracles by the hands of Paul:

12 So [p] that from his body were brought unto the sick handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diseases departed from them, and the evil spirits went out of them.

13 ¶ Then [q] certain of the vagabond Jews, exorcists, took upon them to call over them which had evil spirits the name of the Lord Jesus, saying, We adjure you by Jesus whom Paul preacheth.

14 And there were seven sons of one Sceva, a Jew, and chief of the priests, which did so.

15 And the evil spirit answered and said, Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are ye?

16 And the man in whom the evil spirit was leaped on them, and overcame them, and prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded.

17 And this was known to all the Jews and Greeks also dwelling at Ephesus; and [b] fear fell on them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified.

18 And many that believed came, and [c] confessed, and shewed their deeds.

19 Many of them also which used curious arts brought their books together, and burned them before all men: and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver.

20 So [d] mightily grew the word of God and prevailed.

21 [e] [†] After [g] these things were ended, Paul [‡] purposed in the spirit, when he had passed through Macedonia and Achaia, to go to Jerusalem, saying, After I have been there, [h] I must also see Rome.

22 So he sent into Macedonia two of them [i] that ministered unto him, Timotheus and [k] Erastus; but he himself stayed in Asia for a season.

23 And [l] the same time there arose no small stir about [m] that way.

24 For a certain man named Demetrius, a silversmith, which made silver shrines for Diana, brought [n] no small gain unto the craftsmen;

25 Whom he called together with the workmen of like occupation, and said, [o] Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our wealth.

26 Moreover ye see and hear, that not alone at Ephesus, but almost throughout all Asia, this Paul hath persuaded and turned away much people, saying that [p] they be no gods, which are made with hands:

27 So that not only this our craft is in danger to be set at nought; but also that the temple of the great goddess Diana should be despised, and her magnificence should be destroyed, whom all Asia and [q] the world worshippeth.

28 And when they heard these sayings, they were full of wrath, and cried out, saying, Great is Diana of the Ephesians.

29 And the whole city was filled with confusion: and having caught [r] Gaius and [s] Aristarchus, men of Macedonia, Paul's companions in travel, they rushed with one accord into the theatre.

30 And when Paul would have entered in unto the people, the disciples suffered him not.

31 And certain of the chief of Asia, which were his friends, sent unto him, desiring him that he would not adventure himself into the theatre.

32 Some therefore cried one thing, and some another: for the assembly was confused; and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together.

33 And they drew Alexander out of the multitude, the Jews putting him forward. And [t] Alexander beckoned with the hand, and would have made his defence unto the people.

35 And when the townclerk had appeased the people, he said, [a] Ye men of Ephesus, what man is there that knoweth not how that the city of the Ephesians is [a] worshipper of the great goddess Diana, and of the image which fell down from Jupiter?

36 Seeing then that these things cannot be spoken against, [b] ye ought to be quiet, and to do nothing rashly.

40 For we are in danger to be called in question for this day's uproar, there being no cause whereby we may give an account of this concourse.

41 And [b] when he had thus spoken, he dismissed the assembly.

CHAP. XX.

AND after the uproar was ceased, Paul called unto him the disciples, and embraced them, and [a] departed for to go into Macedonia.

2 And when he had gone over those parts, and had given them much exhortation, he came into Greece,

3 And there abode three months. And [b] when the Jews laid wait for him, as he was about to sail into Syria, he purposed to return through Macedonia.

4 And there accompanied him into Asia Sopater of Berea; and of the Thessalonians, [c] Aristarchus and Secundus; and [d] Gaius of Derbe, and [e] Timotheus; and of Asia, [f] Tychicus and [g] Trophimus.

5 These going before tarried for us at Troas.

6 And we sailed away from Philippi after [h] the days of unleavened bread, and came unto them [i] to Troas in five days; where we abode seven days.

7 And upon [k] the first day of the week, when the disciples came together [l] to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow; [d] and continued his speech until midnight.

8 And there were many lights [f] in the upper chamber, where they were gathered together.

9 And there sat in a window a certain young man named Eutychus, being fallen into a deep sleep: and as Paul was long preaching, he sunk down with sleep, and fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead.

10 And Paul went down, and [k] fell on him, and embracing him said, [i] Trouble not yourselves; for his life is in him.

11 When he therefore was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, and talked a long while, even till break of day, so he departed.

12 And they brought the young man alive, and were not a little comforted.

13 [†] And we went before to ship, and sailed unto Assos, there intending to take in Paul: for so had he appointed, minding himself to go afoot.

14 And when he met with us at Assos, we took him in, and came to Mitylene.

15 And we sailed thence, and came the next day over against Chios; and the next day we arrived at Samos, and tarried at Trogyllium; and the next day we came to Miletus.

16 For Paul had determined to sail by Ephesus, because he would not spend the time in Asia: for [o] he hasted, if it were possible for him, [d] to be at Jerusalem the [i] day of Pentecost.

17 ¶ And from Miletus he sent to Ephesus, and called the elders of the church.

18 And when they were come to him, he said unto them, Ye know, from the first day that I came into Asia, after what manner I have been with you at all seasons,

19 Serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears, and temptations, which befell me by the lying in wait of the Jews:

20 And how I kept back nothing that was profitable unto you, but have shewed you, and have taught you publickly, and from house to house,

21 Testifying [k] both to the Jews, and also to the Greeks, [l] repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ.

22 And now, behold, [k] I go bound in the spirit unto Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me there:

23 Save that [t] the Holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions [*] abide me.

24 But [u] none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, [v] so that I might finish my course with joy, [p] and the ministry, [q] which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God.

25 And now, behold, [w] I know that ye all, among whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, shall see my face no more.

26 Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am [x] pure from the blood of all men.

27 For I have not shunned to declare unto you all [z] the counsel of God.

28 ¶ Take [a] heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, over the which the Holy Ghost hath [b] made you overseers, to feed the church of God, [c] which he hath purchased [d] with his own blood.

29 For I know this, that after my departing [e] shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock.

30 Also [f] of your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw away disciples after them.

31 Therefore watch, and remember, that [g] by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one night and day with tears.

32 And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and [l] to the word of his grace, which is able [m] to build you up, and to give you [n] an inheritance among all them which are sanctified.

33 I [o] have coveted no man's silver, or gold, or apparel.

34 Yea, ye yourselves know, [p] that these hands have ministered unto my necessities, and to them that were with me.

35 I have shewed you all things, [r] how that so labouring ye ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive.

36 ¶ And when he had thus spoken, he [s] kneeled down, and prayed with them all.

37 And they all wept sore, and [b] fell on Paul's neck, and kissed him,

38 Sorrowing most of all for the words which he spake, that they should see his face no more. And they accompanied him unto the ship.

CHAP. XXI.

AND it came to pass, that after we were gotten from them, and had launched, we came with a straight course unto Coos, and the day following unto Rhodes, and from thence unto Patara:

2 And finding a ship sailing over unto Phenicia, we went aboard, and set forth.

3 Now when we had discovered Cyprus, we left it on the left hand, and sailed into Syria, and landed at Tyre: for there the ship was to unlade her burden.

4 And finding disciples, we tarried there seven days: [t] who said to Paul through the Spirit, that he should not go up to Jerusalem.

5 And when we had accomplished those days, we departed and went our way; and they all brought us on our way, with wives and children, till we were out of the city: and we kneeled down on the shore, and prayed.

6 And when we had taken our leave one of another, we took ship; and they returned [m] home again.

7 And when we had finished our course from Tyre, we came to Ptolemais, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one day.

8 And the next day we that were of Paul's company departed, and came unto Cæsarea: and we entered into the house of Philip [r] the evangelist, [t] which was one of the seven; and abode with him.

9 And the same man had four daughters, virgins, [v] which did prophesy.

10 And as we tarried there many days, there came down from Judæa a certain prophet, named [y] Agabus.

11 And when he was come unto us, he took Paul's girdle, and bound his own hands and feet, and said, Thus saith the Holy Ghost, So shall the Jews at Jerusalem bind the man that owneth this girdle, and shall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles.

12 And when we heard these things both we, and they of that place, besought him not to go up to Jerusalem.

13 Then Paul answered, [r] What mean ye to weep and to break mine heart? [s] for I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus.

14 And when he would not be persuaded, we ceased, saying, [t] The will of the Lord be done.

15 And after those days we took up our carriages, and went up to Jerusalem.

16 There went with us also certain of the disciples of Cæsarea, and brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus, an old disciple, with whom we should lodge.

17 And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren received us gladly.

18 And the day following Paul went in with us unto [r] James; and all the elders were present.

19 And when he had saluted them, [a] he declared particularly what things God had wrought among the Gentiles [b] by his ministry.

20 And when they heard it, they glorified the Lord, and said unto him, Thou seest, brother, how many thousands of Jews there are which believe; and they are all [c] zealous of the law:

21 And they are informed of thee, that thou [d] teachest all the Jews which are among the Gentiles to forsake Moses, saying that they ought not to circumcise their children, neither to walk after the customs.

22 What is it therefore? the multitude must needs come together: for they will hear that thou art come.

23 Do therefore this that we say to thee: We have four men which have a vow on them;

24 Them take, and purify thyself with them, and be at charges with them, that they may [e] shave their heads: and all may know that those things, whereof they were informed concerning thee, are nothing; but that thou thyself also walkest orderly, and keepest the law.

25 As touching the Gentiles which believe, [f] we have written and concluded that they observe no such thing, save only that they keep themselves from things offered to idols, and from blood, and from strangled, and from fornication.

26 Then Paul took the men, and the next day purifying himself with them [g] entered into the temple, [h] to signify the accomplishment of the days of purification, until that an offering should be offered for every one of them.

27 And when the seven days were almost ended, the Jews which were of Asia, when they saw him in the temple, [i] stirred up all the people, and [j] laid hands on him,

28 Crying out, Men of Israel, help: This is the man, [k] that teacheth all men every where against the people, and the law, and this place: and further brought Greeks also into the temple, [l] and hath polluted this holy place.

29 (For they had seen before with him in the city [m] Trophimus an Ephesian, whom they supposed that Paul had brought into the temple.)

30 And [n] all the city was moved, and the people ran together: and they took Paul, and drew him out of the temple: and forthwith the doors were shut.

31 And [o] as they went about to kill him, tidings came unto the chief captain of the band, that all Jerusalem was in an uproar.

32 Who [p] immediately took soldiers and centurions, and ran down unto them: and when they saw the chief captain and the soldiers, they left [q] beating of Paul.

33 Then the chief captain came near, and took him, and [r] commanded him to be bound with two chains; and demanded who he was, and what he had done.

34 And some cried one thing, some another, among the multitude: and when he could not know the certainty for the tumult, he commanded him to be carried into the castle.

35 And when he came upon the stairs, so it was, that he was borne of the soldiers for [s] the violence of the people.

36 For the multitude of the people followed after, crying, [t] Away with him.

37 And as Paul was to be led into the castle, he said unto the chief captain, May I speak unto thee? Who said, Canst thou speak Greek?

38 Art [u] not thou that [v] Egyptian, which before these days madest an uproar, and leddest out into the wilderness four thousand men that were murderers?

39 But Paul said, [w] I am a man which am a Jew of Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, a citizen of no mean city: and, I beseech thee, suffer me to speak unto the people.

40 And when he had given him license, Paul stood on the stairs, and [x] beckoned with the hand unto the people. And when there was made a great silence, he spake unto them in the Hebrew tongue, saying,

CHAP. XXII.

MEN, [a] brethren, and fathers, hear ye my defence which I make now unto you.

2 (And when they heard that he spake in the Hebrew tongue to them, they kept the more silence: and he saith,)

3 I [b] am verily a man which am a Jew, born in Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, yet brought up in this city [c] at the feet of [m] Gamaliel, and taught according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers, and [n] was zealous toward God, [o] as ye all are this day.

4 And [p] I persecuted this way unto the death, binding and delivering into prisons both men and women.

5 As also the high priest doth bear me witness, and [q] all the estate of the elders: [r] from whom also I received letters unto the brethren, and went to Damascus, to bring them which were there bound unto Jerusalem, for to be punished.

6 And it came to pass, that, as I made my journey, and was come nigh unto Damascus about noon, suddenly there shone from heaven a great light round about me.

7 And I fell unto the ground, and heard a voice saying unto me, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?

8 And I answered, Who art thou, Lord? And he said unto me, I am Jesus of Nazareth, [s] whom thou persecutest.

9 And [t] they that were with me saw indeed the light, and were afraid; but they heard not the voice of him that spake to me.

10 And I said, What shall I do, Lord? And the Lord said unto me, Arise, and go into Damascus; and there it shall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do.

11 And when I could not see for the glory of that light, being led by the hand of them that were with me, I came into Damascus.

12 And one Ananias, a devout man according to the law, [u] having a good report of all the [v] Jews which dwelt there, 13 Came unto me, and stood, and said unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy sight. And the same hour I looked up upon him.

14 And he said, [w] The God of our fathers [x] hath chosen thee, that thou shouldest know his will, and [y] see that [z] Just One, and [a] shouldest hear the voice of his mouth.

15 For [b] thou shalt be his witness unto all men of [c] what thou hast seen and heard.

16 And now why tarriest thou? arise, and [d] be baptized, and wash away thy sins, [e] calling on the name of the Lord.

17 And [f] it came to pass, that, when I was come again to Jerusalem, even while I prayed in the temple, I was in a trance;

18 And saw him saying unto me, [g] Make haste, and get thee quickly out of Jerusalem: for they will not receive thy testimony concerning me.

19 And I said, Lord, [b] they know that I imprisoned and [d] beat in every synagogue them that believed on thee:

20 And [f] when the blood of thy martyr Stephen was shed, I also was standing by, and [g] consenting unto his death, and kept the raiment of them that slew him.

21 And he said unto me, Depart: [h] for I will send thee far hence unto the Gentiles.

22 And they gave him audience unto this word, and then lifted up their voices, and said, [i] Away with such a fellow from the earth: for it is not fit that [j] he should live.

23 And as they cried out, [m] and cast off their clothes, and threw dust into the air,

24 The chief captain commanded him to be brought into the castle, and bade that he should be examined by [p] scourging; that he might know wherefore they cried so against him.

25 And as they bound him with thongs, Paul said unto the centurion that stood by, [m] Is it lawful for you to scourge a man that is a Roman, and uncondemned?

26 When the centurion heard that, he went and told the chief captain, saying, Take heed what thou doest: for this man is a Roman.

27 Then the chief captain came, and said unto him, Tell me, art thou a Roman? He said, Yea.

28 And the chief captain answered, With a great sum obtained I this freedom. And Paul said, But I was free born.

29 Then straightway they departed from him which should have † examined him: and the chief captain also was afraid, after he knew that he was a Roman, and because he had bound him.

30 On the morrow, because he would have known the certainty wherefore he was accused of the Jews, he loosed him from his bands, and commanded the chief priests and all their council to appear, and brought Paul down, [s] and set him before them.

CHAP. XXIII.

AND Paul, earnestly beholding the council, said, Men and brethren, [b] I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day.

2 And the high priest Ananias commanded them that stood by him [t] to smite him on the mouth.

3 Then said Paul unto him, God shall smite thee, thou whited wall: for sittest thou to judge me after the law, and [u] commandest me to be smitten contrary to the law?

4 And they that stood by said, Revilest thou God's high priest?

5 Then said Paul, [f] I wist not, brethren, that he was the high priest: for it is written, [g] Thou shalt not speak evil of the ruler of thy people.

6 But when Paul perceived that the one part were Sadducees, and the other Pharisees, he cried out in the council, Men and brethren, [h] I am a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee: [i] of the hope and resurrection of the dead I am called in question.

7 And when he had so said, there arose a dissension between the Pharisees and the Sadducees: and the multitude was divided.

8 For [k] the Sadducees say that there is no resurrection, neither angel, nor spirit: but the Pharisees confess both.

9 And there arose a great cry: and the scribes that were of the Pharisees' part arose, and strove, saying, [a] We find no evil in this man: but [c] if a spirit or an angel hath spoken to him, [c] let us not fight against God.

10 And when there arose a great dissension, the chief captain, fearing lest Paul should have been pulled in pieces of them, commanded the soldiers to go down, and to take him by force from among them, and to bring him into the castle.

11 And [c] the night following the Lord stood by him, and said, Be of good cheer, Paul: for as thou hast testified of me in Jerusalem, so must thou bear witness also at Rome.

12 And when it was day, [a] certain of the Jews banded together, [o] and bound themselves [o] under a curse, saying that [p] they would neither eat nor drink till they had killed Paul.

13 And [a] they were more than forty which had made this conspiracy.

14 And they came to [l] the chief priests and elders, and said, We have bound ourselves under a great curse, that we will eat nothing until we have slain Paul.

15 Now therefore ye with the council signify to the chief captain that he bring him down unto you to morrow, as though ye would enquire something more perfectly concerning him: and we, or ever he come near, [s] are ready to kill him.

16 And [s] when Paul's sister's son heard of their lying in wait, he went and entered into the castle, and told Paul.

17 Then Paul called one of the centurions unto him, and said, Bring this young man unto the chief captain: for he hath a certain thing to tell him.

18 So he took him, and brought him to the chief captain, and said, Paul [p] the prisoner called me unto him, and prayed me to bring this young man unto thee, who hath something to say unto thee.

19 Then the chief captain took him by the hand, and went with him aside privately, and asked him, What is that thou hast to tell me?

20 And he said, [a] The Jews have agreed to desire thee that thou wouldest bring down Paul to morrow into the council, as though they would enquire somewhat of him more perfectly.

21 But do not thou yield unto them: [d] for there lie in wait for him of them more than forty men, which have bound themselves with an oath, that they will neither eat nor drink till they have killed him: and now are they ready, looking for a promise from thee.

22 So the chief captain then let the young man depart, and charged him, See thou tell no man that thou hast shewed these things to me.

23 And he called unto him two centurions, saying, Make ready two hundred soldiers to go to Cæsarea, and horsemen threescore and ten, and spearmen two hundred, at the third hour of the night;

24 And provide them beasts, that they may set Paul on, and bring him safe unto Felix the governor.

25 And he wrote a letter after this manner:

26 Claudius Lysias unto the most excellent governor Felix sendeth greeting.

27 This [l] man was taken of the Jews, and should have been killed of them: then came I with an army, and rescued him, having understood that he was a Roman.

28 And [a] when I would have known the cause wherefore they accused him, I brought him forth into their council:

29 Whom I perceived to be accused f of questions of their law, [b] but to have nothing laid to his charge worthy of death or of bonds.

30 And when it was told me how that the Jews laid wait for the man, I sent straightway to thee, and [c] gave commandment to his accusers also to say before thee what they had against him. Farewell.

31 Then the soldiers, as it was commanded them, took Paul, and brought him by night to Antipatris.

32 On the morrow they left the horsemen to go with him, and returned to the castle:

33 Who, when they came to Cæsarea, and delivered the epistle to the governor, presented Paul also before him.

34 And when the governor had read the letter, he asked of what province he was. And when he understood that he was of [d] Cilicia;

35 I [e] will hear thee, said he, when thine accusers are also come. And he commanded him to be kept in [f] Herod's judgment hall.

CHAP. XXIV.

AND after five days [g] Ananias the high priest descended with the elders, and with a certain orator named Tertullus, [h] who informed the governor against Paul.

2 And when he was called forth, Tertullus began to accuse him, saying, [i] Seeing that by thee we enjoy great quietness, and that very worthy deeds are done unto this nation by thy providence,

3 We accept it always, and in all places, most noble Felix, with all thankfulness.

4 Notwithstanding, that I be not further tedious unto thee, I pray thee that thou wouldest hear us of thy clemency a few words.

5 For [k] we have found this man a pestilent fellow, and a mover of sedition among all the Jews throughout the world, and a ringleader of the sect of the Nazarenes:

6 Who [l] also hath gone about to profane the temple: whom we took, and would [m] have judged according to our law.

7 But [n] the chief captain Lysias came upon us, and with great violence took him away out of our hands,

8 Commanding [o] his accusers to come unto thee: by examining of whom thyself mayest take knowledge of all these things, whereof we accuse him.

9 And the Jews also [p] assented, saying that these things were so.

10 Then Paul, after that the governor had beckoned unto him to speak, answered, Forasmuch as I know that thou hast been of [q] many years a judge unto this nation, I do the more cheerfully answer for myself:

11 Because that thou mayest understand, that there are yet but twelve days since I went up to Jerusalem [r] for to worship.

12 And [s] they neither found me in the temple disputing with any man, neither raising up the people, neither in the synagogues, nor in the city:

13 Neither can they prove the things whereof they now accuse me.

14 But this I confess unto thee, that after [t] the way which they call heresy, so worship I the [u] God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in [v] the law and in the prophets:

15 And [w] have hope toward God, which they themselves also allow, [x] that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and unjust.

16 And [y] herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offence toward God, and toward men.

17 Now after many years [z] I came to bring alms to my nation, and offerings.

18 Whereupon [a] certain Jews from Asia found me purified in the temple, neither with multitude, nor with tumult.

19 Who ought to have been here before thee, and object, if they had ought against me.

20 Or else let these same here say, if they have found any evil doing in me, while I stood before the council,

21 Except it be for this one voice, that I cried standing among them, [b] Touching the resurrection of the dead I am called in question by you this day.

22 And when Felix heard these things, having more perfect knowledge of that way, he deferred them, and said, When [c] Lysias the chief captain shall come down, I will know the uttermost of your matter.

23 And he commanded a centurion to keep Paul, and to let him have liberty, and [d] that he should forbid none of his acquaintance to minister or come unto him.

24 And after certain days, when Felix came with his wife Drusilla, which was a Jewess, he sent for Paul, and heard him concerning [e] the faith in Christ.

25 And as he reasoned of [f] righteousness, temperance, and [g] judgment to come, Felix [h] trembled, and answered, Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient season, I will call for thee.

26 He hoped also that money should have been given him of Paul, that he might loose him: wherefore he sent for him the oftener, and communed with him.

27 But after two years Porcius Festus came into Felix' room: and Felix, i willing to shew the Jews a pleasure, left Paul bound.

CHAP. XXV.

NOW when Festus was come into the province, after three days he ascended from Cæsarea to Jerusalem.

2 Then [k] the high priest and the chief of the Jews informed him against Paul, and besought him,

3 And desired favour against him, that he would send for him to Jerusalem, laying [l] wait in the way to kill him.

4 But Festus answered, that Paul should be kept at Cæsarea, and that he himself would depart shortly thither.

5 Let them therefore, said he, which among you are able, go down with me, and accuse this man, [m] if there be any wickedness in him.

6 And when he had tarried among them [n] more than ten days, he went down unto Cæsarea; and the next day sitting on the judgment seat commanded Paul to be brought.

7 And when he was come, the Jews which came down from Jerusalem stood round about, [o] and laid many and grievous complaints against Paul, which they could not prove.

8 While he answered for himself, [a] Neither against the law of the Jews, neither against the temple, nor yet against Cæsar, have I offended any thing at all.

9 But Festus, [b] willing to do the Jews a pleasure, answered Paul, and said, [c] Wilt thou go up to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these things before me?

10 Then said Paul, I stand at Cæsar's judgment seat, where I ought to be judged: to the Jews have I done no wrong, as thou very well knowest.

11 For [f] if I be an offender, or have committed any thing worthy of death, I refuse not to die: but if there be none of these things whereof these accuse me, no man may deliver me unto them. [g] I appeal unto Cæsar.

12 Then Festus, when he had conferred with the council, answered, Hast thou appealed unto Cæsar? [h] unto Cæsar shalt thou go.

13 And after certain days king Agrippa and Bernice came unto Cæsarea to salute Festus.

14 And when they had been there many days, Festus declared Paul's cause unto the king, saying, [i] There is a certain man left in bonds by Felix:

15 About whom, when I was at Jerusalem, the chief priests and the elders of the Jews informed me, desiring to have judgment against him.

16 To whom I answered, It is not the manner of the Romans to deliver any man to die, before that he which is accused have the accusers face to face, and have licence to answer for himself concerning the crime laid against him.

17 Therefore, when they were come hither, without any delay on the morrow I sat on the judgment seat, and commanded the man to be brought forth.

18 Against whom when the accusers stood up, they brought none accusation of such things as I supposed:

19 But [m] had certain questions against him of their own superstition, and of one Jesus, which [n] was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive.

20 And because † I doubted of such manner of questions, I asked him whether he would go to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these matters.

21 But when Paul had appealed to be reserved unto the ‡ hearing of Augustus, I commanded him to be kept till I might send him to Cæsar.

22 Then [p] Agrippa said unto Festus, I would also hear the man myself. To morrow, said he, thou shalt hear him.

23 And on the morrow, when Agrippa was come, and Bernice, [r] with great pomp, and was entered into the place of hearing, with the chief captains, and principal men of the city, at Festus' commandment Paul was brought forth.

24 And Festus said, King Agrippa, and all men which are here present with us, ye see this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jews have dealt with me, both at Jerusalem, and also here, crying that he ought [s] not to live any longer.

25 But when I found that [t] he had committed nothing worthy of death, [u] and that he himself hath appealed to Augustus, I have determined to send him.

26 Of whom I have no certain thing to write unto my lord. Wherefore I have brought him forth before you, and specially before thee, O king Agrippa, that, after examination had, I might have somewhat to write.

27 For it seemeth to me unreasonable to send a prisoner, [x] and not withal to signify the crimes laid against him.

CHAP. XXVI.

THEN Agrippa said unto Paul, [a] Thou art permitted to speak for thyself. Then Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for himself:

2 I think myself happy, king Agrippa, because I shall answer for myself this day before thee touching all the things whereof I am accused of the Jews:

3 Especially because I know thee to be expert in all customs and questions which are among the Jews: wherefore I beseech thee to hear me patiently.

4 My manner of life from my youth, which was at the first among mine own nation at Jerusalem, know all the Jews;

5 Which knew me from the beginning, if they would testify, that after [c] the most straitest sect of our religion I lived a Pharisee.

6 And [d] now I stand and am judged for the hope of [m] the promise made of God unto our fathers:

7 Unto which promise our [n] twelve tribes, instantly serving God [o] day [o] and night, [p] hope to come. For which hope's sake, king Agrippa, I am accused of the Jews.

8 Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you, that God should raise the dead?

9 I [r] verily thought with myself, that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth.

10 Which [s] thing I also did in Jerusalem: and many of the saints did I shut up in prison, having received authority [t] from the chief priests; and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them.

11 And [v] I punished them oft in every synagogue, and compelled them to blaspheme; and being exceedingly mad against them, I persecuted them even unto strange cities.

12 Whereupon [x] as I went to Damascus with authority and commission from the chief priests,

13 At midday, O king, I saw in the way a light from heaven, above the brightness of the sun, shining round about me and them which journeyed with me.

14 And when we were all fallen to the earth, I heard a voice speaking unto me, and saying in the Hebrew tongue, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? [z] it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

15 And I said, Who art thou, Lord? And he said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest.

16 But rise, and stand upon thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, [a] to make thee a minister and a witness both of these things which thou hast seen, and of those things in the which I will appear unto thee;

17 Delivering thee from the people, and from the Gentiles, [c] unto whom now I send thee,

18 To [f] open their eyes, and [g] to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, [h] that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and inheritance among them which [a] are sanctified by faith that is in me.

19 Whereupon, O king Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision:

20 But [b] shewed first unto them of Damascus, and at Jerusalem, and throughout all the coasts of Judæa, and then to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God, and do [c] works meet for repentance.

21 For these causes [d] the Jews caught me in the temple, and went about to kill me.

22 Having therefore obtained help of God, I continue unto this day, witnessing both to small and great, saying none other things than those [e] which the prophets and [f] Moses did say should come:

23 That [g] Christ should suffer, and [h] that he should be the first that should rise from the dead, and [i] should shew light unto the people, and to the Gentiles.

24 And as he thus spake for himself, Festus said with a loud voice, Paul, [k] thou art beside thyself; much learning doth make thee mad.

25 But he said, I am not mad, most noble Festus; but speak forth the words of truth and soberness.

26 For the king knoweth of these things, before whom also I speak freely: for I am persuaded that none of these things are hidden from him; for this thing was not done in a corner.

27 King Agrippa, believest thou the prophets? I know that thou believest.

28 Then Agrippa said unto Paul, Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian.

29 And Paul said, [l] I would to God, that not only thou, but also all that hear me this day, were both almost, and altogether such as I am, except these bonds.

30 And when he had thus spoken, the king rose up, and the governor, and Bernice, and they that sat with them:

31 And when they were gone aside, they talked between themselves, saying, [m] This man doeth nothing worthy of death or of bonds.

32 Then said Agrippa unto Festus, This man might have been set at liberty, if he had not appealed unto Cæsar.

CHAP. XXVII.

AND when [n] it was determined that we should sail into Italy, they delivered Paul and certain other prisoners unto one named Julius, a centurion of Augustus' band.

2 And entering into a ship of Adramyttium, we launched, meaning to sail by the coasts of Asia; one [o] Aristarchus, a Macedonian of Thessalonica, being with us.

3 And the next [p] day we touched at Sidon. And Julius [q] courteously entreated Paul, and gave him liberty to go unto his friends to refresh himself.

4 And when we had launched from thence, we sailed under Cyprus, because [r] the winds were contrary.

5 And when we had sailed over the sea of Cilicia and Pamphylia, we came to Myra, a city of Lycia.

6 And there the centurion found a ship of Alexandria sailing into Italy; and he put us therein.

7 And when we had sailed slowly many days, and scarce were come over against Cnidus, the wind not suffering us, we sailed under [s] Crete, over against Salmone:

8 And, hardly passing it, came unto a place which is called The fair havens; nigh whereunto was the city of Lasea.

9 Now when much time was spent, and when sailing was now dangerous, [*] because the fast was now already past, Paul admonished them,

10 And said unto them, Sirs, [x] I perceive that this voyage will be with [y] hurt and much damage, not only of the lading and ship, but also of our lives.

11 Nevertheless the centurion [z] believed the master and the owner of the ship, more than those things which were spoken by Paul.

12 And because the haven was not commodious to winter in, the more part advised to depart thence also, if by any means they might attain to Phenice, and there to winter; which is an haven of Crete, and lieth toward the south west and north west.

13 And when [a] the south wind blew softly, supposing that they had obtained their purpose, loosing thence, they sailed close by Crete.

14 But not long after there [b] arose against it [c] a tempestuous wind, called Euroclydon.

15 And when the ship was caught, and could not bear up into the wind, [d] we let her drive.

16 And running under a certain island which is called Clauda, we had much work to come by the boat:

17 Which when they had taken up, they used helps, undergirding the ship; and, fearing least they should fall into the quicksands, strake sail, and so were driven.

18 And we being exceedingly tossed with a tempest, the next day they lightened the ship;

19 And the third day [e] we cast out with our own hands the tackling of the ship.

20 And when [f] neither sun nor stars in many days appeared, and no small tempest lay on us, [g] all hope that we should be saved was then taken away.

21 But after long abstinence Paul stood forth in the midst of them, and said, Sirs, ye should have hearkened unto me, and not have loosed from Crete, and to have gained this harm and loss.

22 And now [h] I exhort you to be of good cheer: for there shall be no loss of any man's life among you, but of the ship.

23 For [i] there stood by me this night the angel of God, whose I am, and [k] whom I serve,

24 Saying, Fear not, Paul; thou must be brought before Cæsar: and, lo, [l] God hath given thee all them that sail with thee.

25 Wherefore, sirs, be of good cheer: [m] for I believe God, that it shall be even as it was told me.

26 Howbeit [n] we must be cast upon a certain island.

27 But when the fourteenth night was come, as we were driven up and down in Adria, about midnight the shipmen deemed that they drew near to some country;

28 And sounded, and found it twenty fathoms: and when they had gone a little further, they sounded again, and found it fifteen fathoms.

29 Then fearing lest they should have fallen upon rocks, they cast four anchors out of the stern, [o] and wished for the day.

30 And as the shipmen were about to flee out of the ship, when they had let down the boat into the sea, under colour as though they would have cast anchors out of the foreship,

31 Paul said to the centurion and to the soldiers, Except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be saved.

32 Then the soldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let her fall off.

33 And while the day was coming on, Paul besought them all to take meat, saying, This day is the fourteenth day that ye have tarried and continued fasting, having taken nothing.

34 Wherefore I pray you to take some meat: for this is for your health: for [e] there shall not an hair fall from the head of any of you.

35 And when he had thus spoken, he took bread, and [f] gave thanks to God in presence of them all: and when he had broken it, he began to eat.

36 Then were they all of good cheer, and they also took some meat.

37 And we were in all in the ship two hundred threescore and sixteen [g] souls.

38 And when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship, and cast out the wheat into the sea.

39 And when it was day, they knew not the land: but they discovered a certain creek with a shore, into the which they were minded, if it were possible, to thrust in the ship.

40 And when they had [o] taken up the anchors, they committed themselves unto the sea, and loosed the rudder bands, and hoised up the mainsail to the wind, and made toward shore.

41 And falling into a place where two seas met, [l] they ran the ship aground; and the forepart stuck fast, and remained unmoveable, but the hinder part was [m] broken with the violence of the waves.

42 And the soldiers' counsel was [n] to kill the prisoners, lest any of them should swim out, and escape.

43 But the centurion, [p] willing to save Paul, kept them from their purpose; and commanded that they which could swim should cast themselves first into the sea, and get to land:

44 And the rest, some on boards, and some on broken pieces of the ship. And so it came to pass, [u] that they escaped all safe to land.

CHAP. XXVIII.

AND when they were escaped, then they knew that [v] the island was called Melita.

2 And the [s] barbarous people shewed us no little kindness: for they kindled a fire, and received us every one, because of the present rain, and because of the cold.

3 And when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and fastened on his hand.

4 And when the barbarians saw the venomous beast hang on his hand, they said among themselves, No doubt this man is a murderer, whom, though he hath escaped the sea, yet vengeance suffereth not to live.

5 And he shook off the beast into the fire, and [d] felt no harm.

6 Howbeit they looked when he should have swollen, or fallen down dead suddenly: but after they had looked a great while, and saw no harm come to him, they changed their minds, and said [f] that he was a god.

7 In the same quarters were possessions of the chief man of the island, whose name was Publius; who received us, and lodged us three days courteously.

8 And it came to pass, that the father of Publius lay sick of a fever and of a bloody flux: to whom Paul entered in, and [c] prayed, and [b] laid his hands on him, and healed him.

9 So when this was done, others also, which had diseases in the island, came, and were healed:

10 Who also honoured us with many [e] honours; and when we departed, [d] they laded us with such things as were necessary.

11 And after three months we departed in a ship of Alexandria, which had wintered in the isle, whose sign was Castor and Pollux.

12 And landing at Syracuse, we tarried there three days.

13 And from thence we fetched a compass, and came to Rhegium: and after one day the south wind blew, and we came the next day to Puteoli:

14 Where [k] we found brethren, and were desired to tarry with them seven days: and so we went toward Rome.

15 And from thence, when the brethren heard of us, they came to meet us as far as Appii forum, and The three taverns: whom when Paul saw, he thanked God, [i] and took courage.

16 And when we came to Rome, the centurion delivered the prisoners to the captain of the guard: but [k] Paul was suffered to dwell by himself with a soldier that kept him.

17 And it came to pass, that after three days Paul called the chief of the Jews together: and when they were come together, he said unto them, Men and brethren, [a]though I have committed nothing against the people, or customs of our fathers, yet [r] was I delivered prisoner from Jerusalem into the hands of the Romans.

18 Who, [t] when they had examined me, would have let me go, because there was no cause of death in me.

19 But when the Jews spake against it, [r] I was constrained to appeal unto Cæsar; not that I had ought to accuse my nation of.

20 For this cause therefore have I called for you, to see you, and to speak with you: because that [x] for the hope of Israel I am bound with [y] this chain.

21 And they said unto him, We neither received letters out of Judæa concerning thee, neither any of the brethren that came shewed or spake any harm of thee.

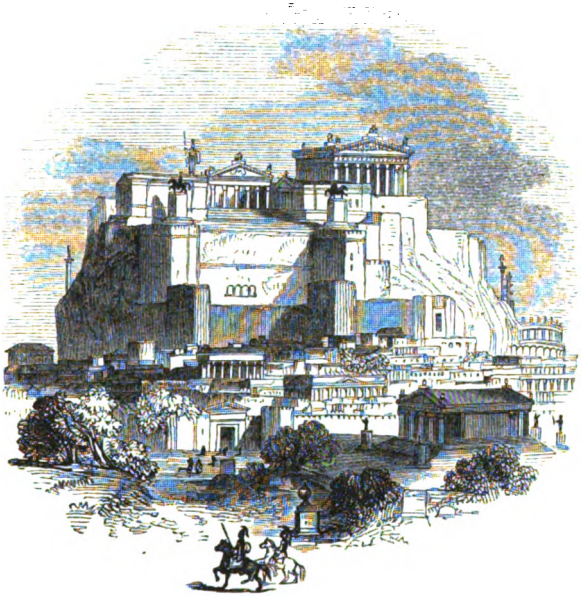
EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

Ch. XVII. 15.—ATHENS. Athens rose into being about 1600 years prior to the incarnation. For science, for wealth, for architectural grandeur, and for unnatural bared conquests, its inhabitants were anciently famous through Europe and the East. Not less than forty colonies owned Athens as their prolific parent. For near 900 years she was ruled by kings of the family of Cecrops, her original founder, and a native of Egypt. About 600 years before Christ Athens became a republic. Athens produced those most renowned philosophers, Solon, Socrates, and Aristides; and those equally renowned military commanders, Miltiades, Cimon, Themistocles, and Phocion. Here, too, Demosthenes was born, and poured forth his powerful eloquence. Athens is situated in that district of Greece formerly known by the name of Attica, and was the most celebrated city of antiquity. It has again struggled into eminence, and become the capital of the infant kingdom of Otho, bidding fair to rival its ancient glories. All Greece was given to idolatry; its deities amounted to 30,000: and Athens was stupified with idolatry, admitting readily every idol that was recommended for adoration.

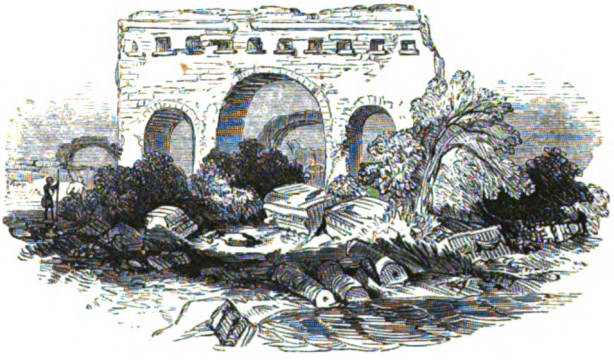
Ch. XX. 6.—TROAS. This name denotes both a country lying west of Mysia, and the principal city of that country. This city was a sea-port, and lay near the site of ancient Troy. It was built by Lysimachus, one of the generals of Alexander. Under Augustus it was made a Roman colony, and rose to considerable importance. It has, however, long gone to decay, and its ruins serve the Turks for a quarry.

Ch. XX. 17.—MILETUS, or Miletum. A city and sea-port of Ionia. This city was once powerful and illustrious. It was the first settled in Ionia, and claimed to be the mother of not fewer than seventy-five cities in Pontus, Egypt, and various other parts. The whole Euxine Sea was frequented by its ships. It was styled the head and metropolis of Ionia, the bulwark of Asia. It withstood Darius, and refused to admit Alexander. Hecateus and Thales were among its citizens. At present it is a very mean place; the only relic of its former magnificence is the ruins of a theatre; and its whole site is to a great extent overspread with rubbish, and overgrown with thickets.



Ch. XXI. 1.—RHODES. Takes its name from the Greek rhodon, 'a rose,' because the island abounded much with these flowers. This island stands in the Archipelago, and is about 120 miles in circumference. The Rhodians were governed by kings, but afterwards formed themselves into a republic. At length they fell a prey to the Romans. Subsequently it was possessed by the Saracens, and then by the Greeks. In 1293 it was taken by the Turks. In 1308 it fell into the hands of the knights of Jerusalem, and in 1522 the Ottoman Turks gained possession, and still hold it. Savary found the capital inhabited chiefly by Turks, and five towns and forty-one villages inhabited by Greeks. There are also some Jews resident in the capital. In ancient times Rhodes was distinguished for the beauty and magnificence of its port, streets, walls, and public edifices, and works of art, both in painting and sculpture. Rhodes is chiefly famous for its brazen Colossus, which was 105 feet high, made by Charus of Lyndus; it continued perfect only fifty-six years, being thrown down by an earthquake. This statue was erected in honour of Apollo, on account of a victory gained over the Macedonians. When the island was conquered by the Saracens, in A.D. 684, the fallen and broken statue was beaten to pieces, and sold to a Jew merchant, who loaded about 900 camels with its spoils. The legs of this enormous figure strided over the entrance of the harbour, the feet being placed on two rocks. The vessels that entered the harbour passed through the legs of this renowned wonder of the world.

Ch. XXI. 7.—PTOLEMAIS. Ptolemais in the New Testament is the same as Accho in the Old, of which mention is made in Judges i. 31. It is called Ptolemais in the New Testament from one of the Ptolemeys who enlarged and beautified it. It has subsequently been called by the crusaders St. Jean d'Acre, from a magnificent church which was built within its walls, and dedicated to St. John. The Turks call it Akka. The town is situated on the coast of the Mediterranean Sea, on the north angle of a bay which extends in a semi-circle of three leagues, as far as the point of mount Carmel. Its present population is estimated at about 20,000.



Ch. XXII. 3.—TARSUS. In the Old Testament this place is called Tarshish. It was the capital of Cilicia, of which city Paul was a native, Acts ix. 11; xxi. 39. Its situation is south-east of Asia Minor, and on the northern coast of the Mediterranean. Standing on a plain on the banks of the river Cydnus, this city was well situated for trade and commerce, and hence all merchant and trading vessels came to be called "ships of Tarshish." It was both populous and wealthy. This since proud capital retains its ancient name, pronounced Tersoos, but scarcely a vestige remains of its former magnificence. The modern town does not occupy a fourth part of the area of the Roman city. Its houses seldom exceed one story in height; they are flat-roofed, and the greater part are constructed with hewn stone, furnished by the more ancient edifices. The population is still considerable, amounting to about 30,000 souls. There is an appearance of much business in the bazaars. The inhabitants consist of Armenians, Turks, Turcomans, and some Greeks. This place was deemed of so much consequence during the Roman empire, that it was peculiarly honoured with the privileges of a Roman colony. Some think that these privileges were granted for its firm adherence to Julius Cæsar, who made the inhabitants citizens of Rome. Thence Paul was free of Rome, by being born in Tarsus. Others believe that Tarsus, though a free city, was not a Roman colony in the time of Paul; and that the privilege of being a citizen of Rome belonged to the apostle, not as a denizen of Tarsus, but by some personal right derived from his father or ancestors. Tarsus was a seat of learning as well as commerce, and rivalled the most celebrated schools.

Ch. XXVIII. 13.—PUTEOLI. This is a city of Campania in Italy, about eight miles from Naples, and one hundred south of Rome. It is supposed to have derived its name from its warm baths, of which it contains a considerable number. The Romans, sensible of the utility of this port, took great pains to improve its natural advantages; but now nothing remains of their works but a line of piers, vulgarly called the bridge of Caligula. The ruins of its ancient edifices are widely spread along the adjacent hills and shores. Puteoli in its best days carried on a considerable trade with Alexandria in Egypt. The modern name of Puteoli is Pozzuolo. Here Paul took shelter a day, Acts xxviii. 13. Among the advantages which Puteoli formerly enjoyed, it was a municipium or town corporate, and invested with the privileges and liberties of Rome. 'It is easy to conceive,' remarks Prot. Henry Horne, 'what the animation and splendour of Puteoli must have been at the time when the riches of the East were poured into its bosom, and when its climate, baths, and beauty, allured the most opulent Romans to its vicinity. Commerce, however, has long since forsaken it: the port which once engrossed the traffic of the East, and was accustomed to behold the Roman navy riding on its bosom, is all solitude and silence—not one sail is spread, not even a boat is seen to ply on its forsaken waters. Sic transit gloria mundi.—So the fashion of this world passeth away; but a solemn lesson is written on its remaining fragments of grandeur—"Vanity of vanities, all is vanity!" only "he who doeth the will of God abideth for ever."

ORIENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS TO MATTHEW.

Ch. I.—1. The book of the generation of Jesus Christ the Son of David, the Son of Abraham. This method of proving descents was practised by the Arabians. Niebuhr says, 'The Arabians have contrived a compendious mode of verifying their lines of descents. From among their later ancestors they select some illustrious man from whom they are universally allowed to be descended. This great man, again, is as universally allowed to be descended from some other man; and thus they proceed backwards to the founder of the family.'

Ch. II.—1. In Bethlehem of Judæa. Situated about six miles from Jerusalem. From the east. This country might either be Persia, where the principal residence of the magi was, or else Arabia, to which ancient authors say they did, and undoubtedly they easily might, extend themselves; which, it is well known, abounded in the valuable things of which their present consisted, and concerning which Psalm lxxii. speaking of the Messiah, says, "the kings of Arabia and Saba (or Sabea, an adjoining region,) shall bring gifts;" and again, "unto him shall be given of the gold of Sheba." 11. They presented unto him gifts. Some bring the silver anklets, others the bracelets, or ear-rings, or silver cord for the loins. Others, however, take gold, and a variety of needful articles. The wise men did not make presents as a matter of charity, but to show their affection and respect. When the infant son of a king is shown, the people make their obeisance to him. Gold, and frankincense, and myrrh. These were the natural productions of that country, from which the wise men are supposed to have come, Arabia or Sabea. 22. Archelaus did reign. He was afraid. Archelaus was a son of Herod, who rivalled the cruelties of his father, massacring three thousand Jews in the Temple, near the beginning of his government. 23. A city called Nazareth. Nazareth is beautifully situated; but though it is called a city in the sacred volume, it is now an inconsiderable village, and the houses are as much marked by poverty as the inhabitants. The vale in which it lies resembles a circular basin encompassed by mountains: it seems as if fifteen mountains met to form an inclosure for this delightful spot; they rise around it like the walls of a shell to guard it from intrusion. It abounds in fig trees, small gardens, and hedges of the prickly pear; and the dense rich grass affords an abundant pasture. The village stands on the west side of the valley. The houses are small, flat-roofed, and built of a light porous stone. The bazaars are small square rooms, having only a door way; and a gutter runs through the middle of the streets. The present population of Nazareth is estimated at from fifteen hundred to two thousand, six hundred of whom are called Christians. —Finden's Illustrations by Horne, extracted from Rae Wilson, Dr. Richardson, Dr. Clarke's Travels, and Madox's Excursions in the Holy Land. Lord Lindsay gives a less flattering view of Nazareth and says, 'The vale of Nazareth is not remarkable for the beauty ascribed to it by travellers; its hills are barren and uncultivated, and the grove of fig-trees we passed through descending to the village was very scanty.'

Ch. III.—3. The voice of one crying,—Prepare ye the way, &c. Diodorus Siculus says of Semiramis, that in her march to Ecbatana, she came to the Sarcean mountain, which, extending many furlongs, and being full of craggy precipices and deep hollows, could not be passed without making a great compass about. Being, therefore, desirous of leaving an everlasting memorial of herself, as well as of shortening the way, she ordered the precipices to be digged down, and the hollows to be filled up; and, as a great expense was made in a shorter and more expeditious road, which, to this day, is called the road of Semiramis. 4. And the same John had his raiment of camel's hair. His raiment was not made of the fine hair of that animal, whereof an elegant kind of cloth is made, which is thence called camlet, (in imitation of which, though made of wool, is the English camlet,) but of the long and shaggy hair of camels, which is in the East manufactured into a coarse stuff, anciently worn by monks and anchorites. It is in only when understood in this way, that the words suit the description here given of John's manner of life. His meat was locusts. These were allowed as food by the Mosaic law, and are eaten by the poorer Arabs to this day. And wild honey. This is deposited by the wild bees in the woods of Judæa in great abundance. 11. Whose shoes I am not worthy to bear. Among the Arabs sandals still consist in wooden soles. They are fastened to the sole of the foot by means of two straps, one of which passes between the great and the second toe, the other goes round the heel, and then across the foot, where it is tied to the other. But those sandals are only worn in walking out of doors. On returning home, or entering the house of another to visit him, they are pulled off at the door. The tying and untying of sandals was, from remote ages, the business of slaves; and the servant, newly purchased, had to commence his duties by untying his master's sandals, and carrying them after him for a certain distance. 12. Whose fan. A winnowing shovel, by which the corn being thrown upwards against the wind, the chaff was separated from it thereby.

Ch. IV.—13. Capernaum. As Capernaum is not once mentioned in the Old Testament, it is probable that it is one of the towns built by the Jews at their return from the Babylonish captivity, "upon the sea coast," that is, upon the coast of the Sea of Galilee, "in the borders of Zabulon and Nephthalim," and consequently towards the upper part of this sea coast. It probably took its name from an adjoining spring of great repute, which, as Josephus informs us, bore the name of Capernaum. It is now so decayed as to consist of only a very few fishermen's cottages. 15. Galilee of the Gentiles. The northern part of Galilee was so called from being inhabited by many Gentiles. 18. Sea of Galilee. So called from the provinces of Galilee, called also "the sea of Tiberias" from a town of that name on its western shore; and "the lake of Gennesareth," from the tract of Galilee called Gennesareth, which bounded it all along on the western side. This fresh-water sea, or lake, is called "the sea of Chinnereth" in the Old Testament. (See Num. xxxiv. 11; Josh. xiii. 27.) 23. Teaching in their synagogues. Places of assembly for public worship, which probably did not exist before the Babylonish captivity. The Jews erected synagogues not only in towns and villages, but also in the country where there was a sufficient congregation, especially near rivers, for the purposes of purification. Service was daily performed in them, consisting of prayers, reading the Scriptures, and preaching or expounding. A council of persons well versed in the law, superintended all matters belonging to the synagogues and its service. Prophets and leaders of new sects were also allowed to offer their opinions. (See note and cut end of Nehemiah.) 24. They brought unto him all sick people—and he healed them. The news that a foreign hakeem or doctor was passing through the country very soon was spread abroad; and at every halt our camp was thronged with the sick, not only of the village near to which we were encamped, but of all the surrounding villages. Many came several days' journey to consult our doctor, and were brought to him in spite of every difficulty and inconvenience; some came on asses, bolstered up with cushions and supported by their relations; others on camels, whose motion must be torture to any one in sickness. It may be conceived what a misfortune sickness must be in a country where there is no medical relief, nor even a wheeled conveyance to seek relief when it is at hand.—Morier.

Ch. V.—1. And when he was set. It was customary among the Jews for the teacher to sit, and for his pupils to stand or sit in a semicircle around him. 13. Ye are the salt of the earth. Salt in the land of Judea was so necessary a thing, that without it meat could not be preserved sweet, even for a short time; hence the frequent allusion made to salt and its uses. If the salt have lost his savour. Maundrell says, 'that in the valley of salt near Yebul, he broke a piece that had been exposed to the sun, rain, and air, though it had the sparkling of salt, yet it had perfectly lost its savour; but the inner part which had not been exposed still retained its savour. 25. Agree quickly. Among the Romans, a person aggrieved could compel the other party to go with him before the prætor, unless he agreed by the way to adjust the matter. 41. Compel thee to go a mile. This sort of compulsion was used by the officers of the public magistrates, especially by such as were couriers, who, for expedition, seized and made use of the horses, carriages, and sometimes the persons of those with whom they met.

Ch. VII.—27. And the rain descended. The rains, and floods, and winds of the eastern monsoon give a striking illustration of the above passage. When people in those regions speak of the strength of a house, it is not by saying it will last so many years, but 'It will outstand the rains; it will not be injured by the floods.' Houses built of the best materials and having deep foundations, in a few years often yield to the rains of a monsoon. At first, a small crack appears in some angle which gradually becomes larger, till the whole building tumbles to the ground. And who can wonder at this, when he considers the state of the earth? For several months there is not a drop of rain, and the burning sun has loosened the ground; when at once the torrents descend, the chapped earth suddenly swells, and the foundations are moved by the change. The house founded upon a rock can alone stand the rains and floods of a wet monsoon.—Roberts. Ward mentions the destruction of the fishermen's huts by the heavy rains, as an apt illustration of this parable. 'Built in a dry season, in one night the overwhelming torrents pour down from the mountains, when north-west winds prevail, sweeps away every refuge—not a fragment remains.'

Ch. VIII.—24. Insomuch that the ship was covered with the waves. A strong current is caused in the Lake of Gennesareth, by the river Jordan passing through the midst of it: and when this is opposed by contrary winds, which blow here with the force of a hurricane from the south-east, sweeping from the mountains into the lake, a boisterous sea is instantly raised, which the small vessels of the country are ill-qualified to resist.—Dr. E. D. Clarke. 28. Coming out of the tombs. Along the borders of the Lake of Gennesareth may still be seen the remains of those ancient tombs, hewn by the earliest inhabitants of Galilee, in the rocks which face the water. Their existence at the present day, although not noticed by travellers in general, offers strong internal evidence of the accuracy of the Evangelist, who has recorded the transaction of the demoniacs as dwelling among the tombs.—Dr. E. D. Clarke. 'As we were returning (from the tombs of the kings,) we found a poor lunatic woman, whose dwelling was among the tombs, sitting on some fragments of stone. We were informed that there were two others, in like manner inhabiting the recesses of death and decay; but we saw only this one. She was a melancholy object. It is a common thing, as in our Lord's time, for helpless lunatics thus to flee from the ordinary habitations of men, and to dwell in a restless secluded manner among the tombs.'—Fisk.

Ch. IX.—9. Sitting at the receipt of custom. The publicans had houses or booths built for them at the foot of bridges, at the mouth of rivers, and by the seashore, where they took toll of passengers that went to and fro. Hence we read of the tickets or seals of the publicans, which when a man had paid toll on one side of a river, were given him by the publican to show to him that sat on the other side, that it might appear he had paid. 17. Old bottles. Made of goat skins, which, when much worn, were apt to break with new wine. 23. Minstrels. These were pipers who commenced the lament, and were followed by the professional mourning women. The introduction of mourning instruments, and performers, was borrowed from the heathen.

Ch. XII.—1. And began to pluck the ears of corn. The whole tract was almost covered with fine fields of wheat, belonging to persons in Hebron who rent the land of the government. Watchmen were stationed in various parts to prevent cattle and flocks from trespassing on the grain. The wheat was now ripening, and we had here a beautiful illustration of scripture. Our Arabs "were an hungered," and going into the fields, they plucked the ears of corn, and did eat, rubbing them in their hands. On being questioned, they said this was an old custom, and no one would speak against it, they were supposed to be hungry and it was allowed as a charity. We saw this afterwards in repeated instances.—Dr. Robinson.

Ch. XIII.—25. But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat. Strange as it may appear, this is still literally done in the East. See that lurking villain, watching for the time when his neighbour shall plough his field; he carefully marks the period when the work has been finished, and goes in the night following, and casts in what the natives call the pandimellu, i. e. pig paddy; this being of rapid growth, springs up before the good seed, and scatters itself before the other can be reaped; so that the poor owner will be for years before he can get rid of this troublesome weed. 31. Mustard seed. The mustard seed which with us produces only a small plant, grows in the East to such a height, and to so considerable a size, that it affords a shade.—Beaucours. 32. The birds lodge in the branches. Pinkerton, who travelled in Chili, says, 'I have travelled many leagues through groves of mustard seed, which were taller than horse and man; and the birds build their nests in them.'

Mustard Seed.

44. Treasure hid in a field. No practice was more common than that of hiding treasures in a field or garden, because the people had not any place of safety in which to deposit their riches, and because their rapacious rulers were sure to find some pretext for accusation against them, in order to get their money. Hence men of great property affected poverty, and walked about in mean apparel, in order to deceive their neighbours, and hence came the practice of hiding their treasures in the earth. 52. Things new and old. As the Orientals never change their fashions, they are remarkable for hoarding large stocks of raiment, as well as provisions.

Ch. XIV.—1. Tetrarch. Herod the tetrarch was the son of Herod the Great, but was heir to a fourth part of his father's dominions, hence he derived his name of office. He, however, reigned over Galilee as a king. 8. A charger. This means a large dish. This is comformable to what frequently occurs at this day under some Eastern governments, as those of Turkey and Persia, where, when a warrant is issued for the execution of any person, an officer, called a capidgee, immediately takes it to him, puts him to death, and cutting off his head carries it to his master, in proof of his having executed his commission.—Chardin. 11. His head was brought in a charger. Some time since the grand Signor having received the heads of some of his officers who had been decapitated by his orders, commanded that they should be exposed in large silver dishes, or chargers, at the entrance of his Porte.

Ch. XV.—27. The dogs eat of the crumbs. Homer represents persons of the highest rank, as allowing their faithful dogs to wait round their festive board and gather up the fragments of their meals.

Ch. XVI.—13. Cesarea Philippi. This town was situated to the north of the sea of Galilee, at the distance of thirty miles from it, near the spring-head of Jordan. Its former name was Paneas, but this was changed into Cesarea, by Philip the tetrarch who repaired and beautified it, in honour of Tiberius Cesar; and in order to distinguish it from another Cesarea, mentioned frequently in the Acts, lying on the Mediterranean Sea, it was called "Cesarea Philippi."

Ch. XVIII.—6. Better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck. It was a favourite punishment in ancient times, to tie a large stone round the neck of a criminal, and then to cast him into the sea or deep waters. The millstones in the East are much more than twenty inches in diameter, and three inches thick, so that there would not be that difficulty which some have supposed in thus despatching criminals. 23. His lord commanded him to be sold. This was the custom, not only among the Jews, but also among the heathen in Asia, at Athens, and at Rome. 26. The servant—fell down, and worshipped him. The form of lowly submission from the servant to his master, which is here described, is still practised in the East among the Arabs, where inferiors, in paying respectful deference to their superiors, fall down before them, and kiss their feet, their knees, or their garments.—Dr. Shaw. 34. Tormentors. These persons examined prisoners by torture, which was often assigned to jailors. It was also common to load such prisoners with chains of iron and heavy yokes of wood, and to visit them with frequent scourging to aggravate their punishment, and the cruel jailors often even exceeded the rigour of the law.

Ch. XX.—22. The cup. In ancient times the master of a family used to distribute to his children and servants a certain separate allowance of meat and drink for each by himself, differing in quantity and quality according to their desert. The same custom was also observed in entertaining guests. (Gen. xliii. 34.) In allusion to this custom, the word "cup" is used for the dispensations of Providence. Almighty God, as one common master and father, appointing to every one his respective share of good and evil.

Ch. XXII.—9. Go ye therefore into the highways, and as many as ye shall find, bid to the marriage. It is as common in the East, for a rich man to give a feast to the poor, and the maimed, and the blind, as it is in England for a nobleman to entertain men of his own degree. Thus, does he wish to gain some temporal or spiritual blessing, he orders his head servant to prepare a feast for one or two hundred poor guests. Messengers are then dispatched into the streets and lanes to inform the indigent, that on such a day rice and curry will be given to all who are there at the appointed time. 11. A wedding garment. The following extract will show the importance of having a suitable garment for a marriage feast, and the offence taken against those who refuse it when presented as a gift. 'The next day, Dec. 2, the king sent to invite the ambassadors to dine with him once more. The meherrander told us that it was the custom that they should wear over their own clothes the best of those garments which the king had sent them. The ambassadors at first made some scruple of that compliance; but when they were told that it was a custom observed by all nations, and that no doubt the king would take it very ill at their hands if they presented themselves before him without the marks of his liberality, they at last resolved to do it, and after their example, all the rest of the retinue.'—Ambassador's Travels, p. 126.

Ch. XXIII.—5. Phylacteries. These were four sections of the law, written on parchments, folded up in the skin of a clean beast, and tied to the head and hands. These sections were, Exod. xiii. 1—10; 11—16; Deut. vi. 4—9; and xi. 13—21. 23. Cummin. A medicinal plant cultivated by the Jews. 24. Strain at a gnat—or strain out a gnat. This insect is troublesome in hot countries, and when it fell into liquor it was most annoying, sometimes breeding in it. Hence both Gentiles and Jews strained their wine. The former from cleanliness, the latter from cleanliness mixed with religious scruples; the 'gnat' being unclean.—So Bloomfield. 27. Like unto white sepulchres. Shaw observes: 'If we except a few persons who are buried within the precincts of some sanctuary, the rest are carried out at a small distance from their cities and villages, where a great extent of ground is allotted for that purpose. Each family has its square portion, which is walled in like a garden, where the bones of their ancestors have remained undisturbed for many generations; for in these inclosures the graves are all distinct and separate, having each of them a stone placed upright, both at the head and feet, inscribed with the name of the person who lieth there interred, whilst the intermediate space is either planted with flowers, bordered round with stone, or paved over with tiles. The graves of the principal citizens are further distinguished by some square chambers or cupolas that are built over them. (Mark. v. 3.) Now, as all these different sorts of tombs and sepulchres, with the very walls likewise of the enclosures, are constantly kept clean, whitewashed, and beautified, they continue to this day to be an excellent comment upon this expression of our Saviour's.

Ch. XXIV.—2. One stone upon another. Josephus states that some of the stones of the Temple were forty-five cubits long, five high, and six broad: yet these stones were not only broken and dislodged, but the very ground on which they were erected was dug up, and afterwards ploughed by one Turnus Rufus. 17. Let him which is on the housetop not come down. The houses in Judea are all flat-roofed and communicate with each other; so that a person might proceed to the city walls and escape into the country without coming down into the street.—Williams's Travels. (See note and cut on Prov. xxi. 9.) 28. Wheresoever the carcase is, there will the eagles be gathered together. The sight and scent of birds of prey in the East are keener than those of the same species in England. Any garbage thrown from the kitchen, or in the wilderness, will soon attract these winged scavengers. Should there be a dead elephant or any other beast in the jungle, vast numbers of ravenous birds and animals hasten to the spot. The eagles, kites, and crows, begin to tear at the carcass and attack each other, and the jackals snap at their feathered rivals; thus, though there is enough for all, each try to hinder the other from eating. There can be no doubt that birds of prey are very useful in the East, as they carry off the putrid matter which would otherwise infect the air. 41. Two women shall be grinding at the mill. (See note and cut end of Deut.) 51. Shall cut him asunder. There are many instances in ancient writers of this method of executing criminals, and it is still practised by some nations, particularly by the western Moors in Barbary, as we are assured by Dr. Shaw. Calmet says, this punishment was not unknown among the Hebrews. It came originally from the Persians or the Chaldeans. It is still in use among the Switzers, and they practised it not many years ago upon one of their surgeons, guilty of a great crime, in the plain of Grenelles, near Paris. They put him into a kind of coffin, and sawed him at length, as a piece of wood is sawn.

Ch. XXV.—6. And at midnight there was a cry made, Behold, the bridegroom cometh, &c. An Eastern wedding is always celebrated in the night. When the bridegroom goes forth to the house of the bride, or when he returns to his own habitation or to that of his father, he is always accompanied by numerous friends and dependants, who carry lamps and torches. When he approaches either house the inmates rush out to meet him, and greet him with their best wishes and congratulations. 10. And the door was shut. And, in the Vedas of the Hindoos, mention a marriage procession which he witnessed: the bridegroom came from a distance; his arrival was announced almost in the words of Scripture, "Behold the bridegroom cometh." The persons employed lighted their lamps, some lamps had failed and could not join the procession to the bride's house; when the bridegroom himself had entered and joined the company, there was no further admission, the door was shut and none could now obtain an entrance.

Ch. XXVI.—20. He sat down, or lay down, as the word signifies; for the posture of the Jews, at the Passover table especially, was not properly sitting but reclining, or lying along on couches on their left side. 23. He that dippeth his hand with me in the dish. To this day the people of the East, in general, make use neither of knives, forks, nor often of spoons; but only of their fingers and hands, even in eating pottage, or what we call spoon-meat; when their food is of the latter kind they break their bread or cakes into little bits, and dip their hands and their morsels together therein.—Shaw. 36. Gethsemane. The garden of Gethsemane is a deeply interesting spot, situated between the foot of the mount of Olives and the brook Kedron. This garden is surrounded by a coarse low wall of a few feet in height, and about the third part of an acre in extent. It is planted with olive, almond, and figtrees. Eight of the olive-trees are so large that they are said to have been in existence since the time of Jesus Christ. If Titus cut down the ancient trees, it is supposed that these may have arisen from their roots, because the olive is very long lived, and possesses the peculiar property of shooting up again, how frequently soever it may be cut down.—Finden's Illustrations by Horne. 67. Then did they spit in his face. This instance of contempt and reproach offered to Christ was at the same time an expression of malice, and is compliance with custom. The practice has descended to later generations, for in the year 1744, when a rebel prisoner was brought before Nadir Shah's general, 'the soldiers were ordered to spit in his face, an indignity of great antiquity in the East.'—Hanway.

Ch. XXVII.—34. Vinegar to drink mingled with gall. The vinegar so called, was probably a sour wine. This mixture, or something like it, is said to have been given to criminals to deaden the sense of pain, which might be the reason why our Lord refused to drink it. 48. With vinegar—or sour wine, the drink of the common people. The method of giving it on a sponge to quench the thirst, appears to be still practised in Egypt. It is said that the thirst occasioned by crucifixion is the greatest of all torments. 61. Mary—sitting over against the sepulchre. Among the Greeks as well as the Jews, women were accustomed to sit at the graves of their deceased friends.

ORIENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS TO MARK.

Ch. I.—13. And was with the wild beasts. Along the banks of the Jordan and in the desert of Judah, were close thickets which afforded ample shelter for lions and other wild beasts. Our Saviour's exposure to these, together with the diabolical influence, must have rendered the scene horrid.

Ch. II.—4. They uncovered the roof. There have been various conjectures and explanations of this passage. Dr. Shaw suggests the following:—'The houses being low and flat-roofed, consisting generally of a ground floor only, or one upper story, are built round a paved court, into which the entrance from the street is through a gateway; the stairs which lead to the roof are usually in this gateway. It is customary to fix cords from the parapet walls (Deut. xxii. 8) of the flat roofs across this court, and upon them to expand a wall or covering as a shelter from the heat. Perhaps it was in this area that our Saviour taught; the paralytic was brought to the roof by making a way through the crowd to the stairs in the gateway, or by the terraces of the adjoining houses; they then rolled back the wall or covering, and let the sick man down over the parapet of the roof into the area or court of the house where Jesus was.' (See cut Pro. xxi. 9.)

Ch. V.—1. Country of the Gadarenes. Seetzen thinks that there is reason to suppose that the modern town of M'kess is the ancient Gadara. This town is situated on the southern bank of a river called the Shariat Manadra, which falls into the river Jordan below the lake of Tiberias. It was formerly a large and opulent town, proofs of which are still visible in remnants of marble columns, and of large buildings, in great numbers of sarcophagi, ornamented with bas-reliefs, with carved work, and garlands, which are still tolerably perfect. Many beautiful, vast, and very remarkable caverns are seen hereabouts, which serve as places of retreat for five or six families of Arabs. The country about M'kess bears the name of Al-jedur, which is probably derived from Jadar, or Gadara.

Ch. IX.—41. Shall give you a cup of water to drink in my name. Harmer observes that in our temperate climate we scarcely understand the full force of this expression of our Saviour; but in the Eastern climates, a cup of cold water is often a very essential relief and refreshment. In some parts of the East, considerable pains and expense have been bestowed on contrivances to supply travellers with water, and these are always considered as works of peculiar benevolence. It is remarkable, that it is mentioned of the Hindoos in some parts of India, that they sometimes go a considerable distance to fetch water and bring it to the road side, where travellers are likely to pass, and offer it to them 'in honour of the gods. It is possible that this charitable work may have been practised by the more pious and humane Jews; which would give peculiar meaning to the expression, that, if they offered it in his name they should not lose their reward.

Ch. XI.—13. A figtree—having leaves. The fig-tree in climates favourable to it, produces generally fruit thrice a year. In Judea, the early fig is ripe about June, the second regular crop is seldom ripe before August: besides this there appears also sometimes a third crop, or the winter fig, which hangs to ripen on the tree after the leaves are shed: and if the winter proves mild is gathered in the spring. The time at which this transaction took place was in the month Nisan, three days before the Passover, answering to our March or April. As the fruit of this tree precedes the leaves, it appears that our Saviour on seeing this in full vigour and covered with leaves, might justly look for fruit; either a few ripe figs of the early crop, some weeks before the proper season, or else some winter figs remaining on the tree.—Dr. Shaw.

Ch. XIV.—3. She brake the box. It is probably meant, that she brake the cement with which the box was closed up. It is still usual in the East to send wines, rose-water, &c., to great distances in bottles stopped with cotton and closed with wax. 51. A linen cloth cast about his naked body. Bp. Pococke, describing the dresses of the people in Egypt, relates that the Arabs in some parts wore nothing but a large blanket or sheet, wrapped round them, especially young persons of the poorer sort. And other travellers remark the same of parts of Palestine. The young man here mentioned is described as being clothed in this manner.

ORIENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS TO LUKE.

Ch. II.—7. The inn. The Eastern inns, commonly called caravansaries, are very large buildings with domes, and a fountain in the centre, for the use of caravans, the benefits of which are allowed to all travellers, but afford only a lodging-place for themselves and cattle, without either food or bedding; but it is probable that these caravanseries are not of so high antiquity as the birth of Christ. The inn or 'house allotted to strangers,' as belonging to a small country town, was probably of an humble character, and affording room for but few families, was soon filled by the first comers; and others, as Joseph and Mary, were obliged to take shelter in the out-buildings, intended for the cattle of travellers. Tradition says that this stable was a natural cave.—T. Williams. 8. Keeping watch over their flock by night. Almost all the nomade tribes of the East confine their flocks during the night in pens.

Ch. IV.—29. Led him unto the brow of the hill. Hasselquist says, 'We went out to see the hill from which the inhabitants of Nazareth were for throwing down Christ when he preached to them. This is a high, stony mountain, situated some gun-shots from Nazareth, consisting of the limestone common here, and full of fine plants. On its top, towards the south, is a steep rock, which is said to be the spot for which the hill is famous; it is terrible to behold, and proper enough to take away the life of a person thrown from it.' Some doubts have, however, been entertained whether, from its distance, the Jews would have gone so far to accomplish an object which might have been done nearer, as there are several precipices near the village suitable for such a purpose.

Ch. V.—5. We have toiled all the night and have taken nothing. In general the fishermen of the East prefer the night to any other time for fishing. Before the sun has gone down they push off their canoes, each carrying a lighted torch, and in the course of a few hours may be seen out at sea or on the rivers, like an illuminated city. They swing the lights about over the sides of the boat, which the fish no sooner see than they come to the place, and then the men cast in the hook or the spear, as circumstances may require.

Ch. VII.—38. Kissed his feet. This was often practised as a mark of affection and reverence. Sir R. K. Porter says in his Travels in Persia, 'During my travels I was in the custom of having a lancet always about me, in case of accidents, and when I took this out of my pocket-book, put it into his hands, and told him it was for himself, he looked at me, and at it, with his mouth open, as if he hardly comprehended the possibility of my parting with such a jewel; but when I repeated the words, it is yours, he threw himself on the ground, kissed my knees and my feet, and wept with a joy that stifled any expression of thanks.'

Ch. X.—4. Salute no man by the way. This direction evidently implies haste, not that they were to renounce the courtesies of civil life; but the Eastern salutations were formal, and often accompanied with impertinent enquiries, which, leading to what we call gossipping, occasioned great hindrances. Niebuhr, Hornem, and other travellers, particularly complain of this among the Arabs. 5. Peace be to this house. When a Persian enters an assembly, having left his shoes without, he makes the usual salutation—'Peace be unto you!' which is addressed to the whole assembly, as it were, saluting the house. 30. And fell among thieves. From the testimony of Josephus it appears, that not only was Judea at that time miserably infested with robbers, but that this road in particular was deplorably harassed by this banditti, as it lay through wild and dreary solitudes. Buckingham says, 'The whole of this road from Jerusalem to Jericho is held to be the most dangerous about Palestine; and, indeed, in this portion of it, the very aspect of the scenery is sufficient on the one hand to tempt to robbery and murder, and on the other to occasion a dread of it in those who pass that way. It was partly to prevent any accident happening to us at this early stage of our journey, and partly, perhaps, to calm our fears on that score, that a messenger had been despatched by our guides to an encampment of their tribe near, desiring them to send an escort to meet us at this place. We were met accordingly by a band of about twenty persons on foot, all armed with matchlocks, and presenting the most ferocious and robber-like appearance that could be imagined. The effect of this was to be joined by ten others while in the act forth from hill to hill, and which were re-echoed through all the valleys; while the bold projecting crags of rock, and the dark shadows in which every thing was buried below, the towering height of the cliffs above, and the forbidding desolation which every where reigned around, presented a picture that was quite in harmony through all its parts. It made us feel most forcibly the propriety of its being chosen as the scene of the doubtful tale of compassion which we had before so often admired for its doctrine, independently of its local beauty. In these gloomy solitudes, pillage, wounds, and death would be accompanied with double terror from the frightful aspect of every thing around.' Sir F. Henniker was wounded, stripped, and left naked on this spot by the Arabs in 1820, and several other like cases are on record. 34. Pouring in oil and wine. Both these were in common use as medicaments among the ancient surgeons. The oil was taken for the purpose of anointing the limbs, since, in the hot countries of the East, it is found particularly comfortable and refreshing.

Ch. XI.—5. Go unto him at midnight. The Eastern journeys are often performed at midnight. Lend me three loaves. It was usual with the Jews to borrow bread one of another; and certain rules are laid down when, and upon what condition this is to be done. 7. My children are with me in bed. It is usual for a whole family to sleep in the same room, especially those in lower life, laying their mattresses on the ground.—Sir J. Chardin. 12. Offer him a scorpion? Bochart says, 'The body of a scorpion is like an egg, especially if it be a white scorpion; and such are reckoned to be the first species of them, by Nicander, Ælian, Avicenna, and others: nor does a scorpion differ much in size from an egg in Judea, if it be true that, as is asserted by the monks in Mesopotamia, there are large scorpions about Jerusalem and throughout all Syria.' 37. To dine The Jews made but two meals in the day. The reference here is to the first eating, which may be called their breakfast or dinner, because it was both, and was but a slight meal. 'The hour for this, on the sabbath,' says Josephus, 'was soon, that is, the sixth hour.' Their chief meal was their supper, after the heat of the day was over; and the same was the principal meal among the Greeks and Romans.

Ch. XIV.—8. Sit not down in the highest room: or place. Morier informs us, that when a Persian enters a mejlis, or assembly, after having left his shoes without, he makes the usual salutation of Selemaleikum, 'Peace be unto you,' which is addressed to the whole assembly, as it were saluting the house (Matt. x. 12), and then, measuring with his eye the degree of rank to which he holds himself entitled, he straightway weighs himself into the line of guests, without offering any apology for the general disturbance which he produces. It may be conceived, that among a vain people, the disputes that arise in matters of precedence are numerous; and it was easy to observe, by the countenances of those present, when any one had taken a higher seat than that to which he was entitled. Mollahs, the Persian scribes, are remarkable for their arrogance in this respect, and will bring to mind the caution that our Saviour gave to the Jews against their scribes, whom, among other things, he characterizes as loving the uppermost places at feasts (Mark xii. 39). The master of the entertainment has, however, the privilege of placing any one as high in the ranks of mejlis as he may choose; and we saw an instance of it on this occasion; for when the assembly was nearly full, the governor of Kashan, a man of humble mien, although of considerable rank, came in and had seated himself at the lowest place, when the Ameeud-Dowlah, after having testified his particular attentions to him by numerous expressions of welcome, pointed with his hand to an upper seat in the assembly, to which he desired him to move, and which he accordingly did.' 13. Call the poor. Dr. Pococke mentions, that in the East they sometimes admit the poor to their tables. In his account of an entertainment made by an Egyptian magistrate, each, when he had done eating, retired, and others in succession came, till at last the poor came, and 'ate up all.' The Arabs also, when they kill a sheep, dress the whole, and call in their neighbours and the poor, till all is consumed, for they never set by meat that has been brought to table. Thus the sequel of the parable is quite in harmony with Oriental manners. 19. I go to prove them. It was not unusual in ancient times to sell horses and oxen on the condition of allowing a certain time for trying them.—Wetstein. Much ceremony is still used in some parts of the East when cattle are purchased; friends and neighbours are called to give their opinions, and to witness their qualifications in ploughing, &c.

Ch. XVII.—6. Be thou plucked up by the root. Dr. Shaw says of the sycamine or sycamore tree, that it is 'one of the common timber trees of the Holy Land; and that from having a large and more extensive root than other trees, it is alluded to as the most difficult to be rooted up.' The sycamore and sycamine tree have been confounded by many writers, both ancient and modern, although, by some, the former is considered a species of fig-tree, and the latter, which is probably referred to here, the mulberry-tree. (See note and cut, to Amos, end of Mal.)

Ch. XXIII.—51. Arimathea. This was anciently called Ramah, and was distinguished as the birth-place of the prophet Samuel. It is a pleasant town, in a fertile plain, about thirty-five miles distant from the metropolis of Palestine. It was once in great splendour, and abounded in all the luxuries of the East. Its modern population is five or six thousand.—Dr. Clarke's Travels. (See note and cut end of 1 Sam.)

Ch. II.—4. Waterpots of stone—containing two or three firkins apiece. While Mr. Rae Wilson was sitting upon the shattered wall which enclosed 'the well of Cana, six females, having their faces veiled, came down to the well, each carrying on her head a pot for the purpose of being filled with water.' These vessels are formed of clay, hardened by the heat of the sun, and are of a globular shape and large at the mouth, not unlike the bottles used in our country for holding vitriol, but not so large. Many of them have handles attached to the sides: and it was a wonderful coincidence with Scripture, that the vessels appeared to contain much about the same quantity as those which the evangelist informs us, were employed on occasion of the celebration of the marriage which was honoured by the Saviour's presence; that is three firkins, or about twelve gallons each.

Ch. IV.—6. Jacob's well. 'We ascended the height for the purpose of exploring the remains, and in our way met many of the Samaritan women coming down with their water jars gracefully borne upon their heads, to a fountain which flows below. Jacob's well still retains its name, not from Popish tradition, but it has been called Bir Yacoob, the Well of Jacob, by the Arabs, time out of mind. St. John speaks of it as being deep. There are other wells, but not in the direct road for our Lord to take, and the well in question seems to be the only one answering to the description.—deep. Mr. Calhoun, a recent European traveller, ascertained its depth at seventy-five feet, with about twelve feet of water; while the other wells are so shallow that the water may be easily reached with the hand. On account of its great depth, and the consequent coolness of its water at all seasons, it has no doubt been highly esteemed from the beginning; and this may be alleged a reason why the woman of Samaria should come so far from Sychar to draw water, when other wells were at her door. The vicinity of Sychar abounded with rich streams.'—Fisk. As for the quantity of water in the well, travellers give various statements which differ exceedingly, but this is to be accounted for from seeing it in different states at various times of the year. When Robinson visited it, he said, 'The well was now dry and deserted; it was said usually to contain living water, and not merely to be filled by the rains. We had no line with us at the moment to measure the depth; but by dropping in stones we could perceive that it was deep.' Buckingham also found 'the well dry.' Maundrell's description is, 'It is dug in a firm rock, and contains about three yards in diameter, and thirty-five in depth; for we found full of water.' Mr. Hibbard and Mr. Holmes, found the depth to be one hundred and five feet. Dr. Wilson, in his 'Lands of the Bible,' gives a statement shewing with what accuracy he had an opportunity of measuring the well, and found it exactly to correspond with the statements of Mr. Calhoun, the American missionary, seventy-five feet: he also adds, its diameter is about nine feet. It is entirely hewn out of the solid rock, and is a work of great labour. It bears marks about it of the greatest antiquity. The well is in decay. The description given of it by the woman of Samaria to our Lord. It still, as now noticed, has the same character, although, to a considerable extent, it is perhaps filled with the stones which are thrown into it to sound it by travellers and pilgrims. The Rev. A. Bonar, of the Scottish Mission of Inquiry, in the act of descending to get a sight of the well, lost his bible from his breast-pocket, which was soon heard plunging in the water far below. The guide made very significant signs that it could not be recovered, 'for the well is deep.' Three years after this Dr. Wilson visited the well, and offered a reward to a Jew to venture to be suspended by a rope, so as to visit the bottom and see if the volume was recoverable. The Jew, after fears and prayers, accomplished his task, but the cover only remained, the leaves had become a pulp. Jacob gained a sovereign by his enterprise, with which he was much pleased. 9. The Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans. Samaria was the metropolis of Israel. When the Assyrians under Shalmaneser carried away the ten tribes into captivity, colonies of the heathen were sent to supply the deficiencies of inhabitants, and heathen from all parts mixing with the poorer inhabitants of Israel, formed a mixed worship of idols and the true God. On the return of the Jews from captivity, the Samaritans wished to unite with them and claimed their temple privileges. The Jews refused, hence a hatred arose between them which was never obliterated. Dr. Robinson informs us, that the Samaritans are now reduced to a very small community, there being only thirty men who pay taxes, and few, if any, who are exempt, so that their whole number cannot be reckoned at over one hundred and fifty souls. One only is in affluent and the rest are in middling circumstances. Their physiognomy is not Jewish. They keep the Saturday as their Sabbath With great strictness, allowing no labour nor trading, not even cooking nor lighting a fire, but resting from their employments the whole day. On Friday evening they pray in their houses, and on Saturday have public prayers in their synagogue at morning, noon, and evening. They meet also in the synagogue on the great festivals, and on the new moons, but not every day. The law is read in public not every Sabbath-day, but only upon the same festivals. Four times a year they go up to Mount Gerizim in solemn procession to worship; and then they begin reading the law as they set off, and finish it above. These seasons are, the Feast of the Passover, when they pitch their tents upon the mountain all night, and sacrifice seven lambs at sunset; the Day of Pentecost; the Feast of Tabernacles, when they sojourn here in booths built of branches of the arbutes; and lastly, the great Day of Atonement in autumn. They still maintain their hatred against the Jews; because them of departing from the law in not sacrificing the Passover, and in various other points, as well as corrupting the ancient text; and scrupulously avoid all connexion with them. If of old "the Jews had no dealings with the Samaritans," the latter at the present day reciprocate the feeling; and neither eat, nor drink, nor marry, nor associate with the Jews, best only trade with them.

Ch. VI.—1. Sea of Tiberias—or sea of Galilee. It receives its name from the contiguous town of Tiberias, which was one of the principal cities of Galilee, erected by the tetrarch, Herod Antipas, who gave it this appellation in honour of the emperor Tiberius. The lake is from twelve to fifteen miles in length, and from six to nine miles in breadth; it varies in depth, and in some places is sixty feet. The water is perfectly fresh and is used for culinary purposes. The waters of the northern part abound with delicious fish. This lake has been compared to Loch Lomond in Scotland. A strong current marks the passage of the Jordan through this lake; and when this is opposed by contrary winds, which blow here with the force of a hurricane from the south-east, a boisterous sea is immediately produced, which the utmost skill of sailors is unable to resist. Such a tempest is described in Matt. viii. 24—26.—Fluden's Illustrations by Horne.

Ch. XI.—1. Bethany. A mean village containing about twenty families, but is deeply interesting from having been the abode of those whom Jesus loved, and the place to which he often resorted to enjoy the sympathy and friendship of a pious family. Bethany is a lovely spot, though but a scene of ruin and poverty. It is inhabited by a few families of Mahometan Arabs, who gain a scanty subsistence from their flocks, and small cultivation round about. Though occupying an elevated site, it is overshadowed on the north and west by the mount of Olives; and, looking towards the south-east, presents a view of parts of the palsies of Jordan and the Dead Sea. (See cut end of Mark.)

Ch. XIX.—2. A crown of thorns. Probably of the nabk or nepka of the Arabians, which grows very common in the East and was well fit for their purpose, having many sharp spines well adapted to give pain. The branches are pliant, and the deep green leaves much resemble those of the ivy.—Greenfield. 3. They smote him with their hands. When the Arab would come to blows, they always strike with the palms of their hands, as the soldiers struck our Saviour, never with the fist.—Lord Lindsay. 23. The coat was without seam, woven from the top throughout. The dress of the Arabs, in this part of the world, and indeed throughout all Syria, is ample and uniform; it consists of a blue shirt, descending below the knees, the legs and feet being exposed, or the latter sometimes covered with the ancient cothurnus, or buskin. A cloak is also worn of very coarse and heavy camel's hair cloth, almost universally decorated with broad black and white stripes, passing vertically down the back; this is of one square piece, with holes for the arms; it has a seam down the back; made without this seam, it is considered of greater value. Hence, then, we perhaps behold the form and materials of our Saviour's garment, for which the soldiers cast lots, being "without seam, woven from the top throughout." It was the most ancient dress of the inhabitants of this country.—Clarke's Travels. 29. I thirst. It is said that the thirst occasioned by crucifixion is the greatest of its torments, a circumstance common to persons who bleed much.

Ch. I.—13. They went up into an upper room. 'At ten o'clock, according to agreement, we met in Mr. Young's house, where divine service was at that time conducted. It was an upper room, that being generally the situation of the largest and most airy apartments in the East, and also farthest removed from the noise and bustle of the street. Here was gathered together a little assembly of fourteen or fifteen souls, to worship God according to the Scriptures. How different from the time when in the same city "the number of the men that believed was about five thousand."'—First Sabbath in Jerusalem; Scottish Mission.

Ch. III.—2. Called Beautiful. This gate, which was added by Herod to the court of the Gentiles, was thirty cubits high and fifteen broad. It is said to have been of Corinthian brass, more costly in its workmanship and splendour than those which were covered with silver and gold.

Ch. IV.—36. Cyprus. This is the largest island in the Mediterranean connected with Greece, except Candia, or Crete; it lies about thirty miles west of Syria, almost at an equal distance from Europe and Africa. It is about one hundred and ten miles in length, seventy-one in breadth, and is capable of containing a million of inhabitants. The island was most probably originally peopled by the Phœnicians. At present it contains about 60,000 inhabitants, 30,000 of whom are Greeks, and the rest are Turks. The island is said to derive its name from the cypress tree, which grows in it in great abundance.

Ch. IX.—36. Joppa. (See note and cut end of 2 Chron.) Dr. Wilson says in his 'Lands of the Bible,' 'Neither the houses nor the walls of the place are by any means so despicable as they are often represented to be.' A great profusion of fruit is sold in the bazaar, the produce of the neighbourhood. There is a harbour close to the town, but it is surrounded by rocks, and is quite inadequate to afford shelter to vessels of any considerable size. Carne says, that 'Jaffa is a place of commerce rather than of strength. The streets are steep, for the hill on which they stand rises abruptly from the sea.' He describes the town as gloomy, inclosed by a strong wall; but the environs as a pleasant contrast, shaded by the palm, the large fig-tree, and the cypress, beautified by the prickly pear, with its yellow flowers, by the pomegranate and the vine. Gardens are bordered by luxuriant hedges, and there is a freshness of verdure on every side. From the nature of the harbour, no ships anchor within a mile of the town. The present number of inhabitants amounts to four or five thousand. This most ancient sea-port is sufficiently renowned in Bible history. Here Jonah embarked for Tarshish; here Peter raised Tabitha; and here resided Simon the tanner, in whose house Peter lodged. Jaffa also bears a conspicuous part in modern history.

Ch. X.—1. Italian band. A Roman band or cohort was a company of soldiers commanded by a tribune consisting of about 1000 men. It might have been called the Italian cohort because most of the soldiers belonging to it were Italians. It was, perhaps, the life guards of the Roman governors, who generally resided in this celebrated city, and called 'Italian' or 'Roman' to distinguish the men from the Syrian troops.

Ch. XI.—19. Phœnice. A port of Crete. 26. Antioch, in Syria. 'This was formerly,' says Carne, 'the great mart of the East, when Syria occupied her fairs with purple and broidered work and fine linen, and Judah and Israel were her merchants; and her walls shook at the noise of the horsemen and the chariots which entered her gates.' The remains of those gates and walls are on the sides of the hill, and on the bank of the stream. About a century since, this wall on the hill, which was built by Seleucus, one of Alexander's successors, had not the least breach in it, nor a sign of any; and from this we may judge how beautiful all the walls must have been. It was at least sixty feet high, and was built along the heights, which, to the south, are very steep, and are here divided by a ravine. On these walls there were no battlements, but there was a walk on the top, on which the circuit of the city might be made with the greatest ease, along the steep precipices (where all is now in ruins) down to the plain, and along the river's side. But though built on a rock, and with the utmost art, they could not withstand the shocks of so many earthquakes that have happened. However, on the west side of the western hill, the wall has resisted both time and earthquake; it is exceedingly strong, and well built of stone, with beautiful square towers about seventy paces apart.—Syria, the Holy Land, Asia Minor, &c.

Ch. XII.—6. Sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains. It was the Roman custom to fasten the prisoner with a small and light chain to some soldier who was appointed to guard him; one end of which chain was fastened to the right hand of the prisoner, and the other end of it to the left hand of the soldier. Seneca, Pliny, and Lucian allude to the custom.

21. Herod, arrayed in royal apparel. 'In the third year of Herod's being king of all Judea, he exhibited shows to the people in honour of the emperor, and he appeared in the theatre at Cesarea, dressed in a robe made all of silver tissue of admirable workmanship. As the sun was then rising, the rays of it coming on his robe, made it shine so bright, that the people cried out, "Forgive us, if we have hitherto reverenced you only as a man, but from this time we shall acknowledge you to be something superior to what is mortal." The king did not reprove them, nor reject this blasphemous flattery, and before he went out of the theatre, he was seized with pains in his bowels, so as to cry out, "I, whom you called your god, am now going to die!" From thence he was carried to his palace immediately; in the space of five days he died of those pains which he first felt in the theatre, in the fifty-fourth year of his age, after he had reigned four years over Iturea and Abilene, and three more over all Judea.'—Josephus.

Ch. XIII.—4. Seleucia. A city founded by Seleucus on the river Orontes, situated fifteen miles N. W. of Antioch, and five miles from the place of egress of the Orontes into the Mediterranean.

Ch. XIV.—11. Saying in the speech of Lycaonia, The gods are come down. The language of the common people of Lycaonia is not known, but that generally spoken was Greek. It appears from numberless passages in the heathen writers, that they suppose the visits of the gods often happened; and Elsner has shown that this notion particularly prevailed with respect to Jupiter and Mercury. Mr. Harrington observes, that this persuasion might gain the more easily on the minds of the Lycaonians on account of the well-known fable of Jupiter and Mercury, who were said to have descended from heaven in human shape (see Ovid), and to have been entertained by Lycaon, from whom the Lycaonians received their name. 13. Brought oxen and garlands. When the gods are taken out in procession in India, their necks are adorned with garlands; the priests also wear them at the same time.

Ch. XVI.—14. Purple—Thyatira. Some remains which have escaped the destroying hand of time, make mention of the 'dyers;' and at the present time this place is celebrated for dyeing; and the cloths which are here dyed scarlet are deemed superior to any others furnished by Asia Minor, considerable quantity being sent every week to Smyrna, for the purpose of commerce. (See note and cut end of Rev.) 22. The magistrates rent off their clothes. The Roman magistrates used to order the lictors to rend open the clothes of the criminal. No care was taken of the garments, but they were suddenly and violently rent open. 24. Stocks. It is generally supposed that these were clippi or large pieces of wood used among the Romans, which not only loaded the legs of the prisoners, but sometimes distended them in a very painful manner. 37. They have beaten us openly—being Romans. The Valerian law forbad any Roman citizen to be bound. The Porcian law forbad any to be beaten with rods. By the same law the liberty of a Roman citizen was never put in the power of a lictor. It was a transgression of the law to bind a Roman citizen; and deemed wickedness to scourge him. The illegality of the proceeding of the magistrate against the apostle Paul was farther evident in their condemning and punishing him unheard. This was a gross violation of a common maxim in the Roman law.

Ch. XVII.—1. Amphipolis was a city of Macedonia, built on an island of the river Strymon. The Turks now call it Emboli. Apollonia, a town of Macedonia. 16. Wholly given to idolatry. Pausanias says of Athens, that there was no place where so many idols were to be seen; and it was said that it was more easy to find a god than a man. 19. Areopagus. A court held on Mars' Hill, situated on an insulated precipitous rock nearly in the centre of Athens. This court took cognizance of matters of religion, and hence Paul was accused before it of being "a setter forth of strange gods, because he preached Jesus and the resurrection."

Ch. XIX.—24. Shrines for Diana. These little silver models of the temple were bought by strangers for curiosity or devotion. Diana's effigy was worshipped with singular fervency by even the most remote and barbarous nations, and they dedicated temples to her; for she presided not only over hunting, but the compounding of poisons or drugs, and was therefore worshipped by those who cultivated the magic arts. She was also regarded as the author and distributer of health and sickness.

Effigy of Diana.—Sir J. Soane's Museum.

35. Townclerk. Wetstein has shown from classical illustrations that this officer was president of the senate, and united the offices of recorder, chancellor, and secretary of state. Among other duties was that of publicly reading aloud letters and state papers. Which fell down from Jupiter. The notion of certain statues having descended on earth from the clouds, to represent particular divinities, and to inspire devotion in their temples, was very common in the heathen world.

Ch. XX.—9. Sat in a window. The Greek plainly signifies an open window, which had a sort of wooden casement or little door, which was set open that the room might not be overheated with so much company and so many lamps. It is well known the ancients had not yet glass in their windows, though the manner of making it was invented long before. Windows in the East are now of the like construction, extending down to the floor, latticed on three sides, with a cushioned floor some feet higher than the room. 13. Assos. A maritime city of Asia Minor. 14. Mitylene. One of the principal cities of the island Lesbos. This island is about seven miles from the mainland of Troas, and is one of the largest in the Archipelago. Mitylene has a commodious harbour. 15. Chios, now called Scio. An island of the Archipelago. Its inhabitants were barbarously extirpated by the Turks in the year 1822. Samos, another island of the Archipelago, about five miles from the Asiatic continent. Trogyllium, a cape and town of the same name, a little below Ephesus.

Ch. XXI.—1. Coos. An island of the Archipelago, near the south-west part of the lesser Asia. Patara. A seaport of Syria formerly possessing a good harbour and many temples. The city still preserves its ancient name and many traces of its former grandeur. 2. Phenicia. Was reckoned a part of Syria. 38. Four thousand men that were murderers. Josephus says, that about this time the country of Judea, and particularly Jerusalem, was infested with a set of villains called Sicarii, who murdered people in the day time, and in the midst of the city, which they filled, they had concealed under their garments. 40. Beckoned with the hand. Addressing a crowd, an Oriental would not bawl out 'silence' to affront them, but lifts up his hand to its extreme height, and moves it backward and forward; and they say to each other puzzha.—Roberts.

Ch. XXII.—23. Cast off their clothes, and threw dust into the air. So in Persia aggrieved peasants carry their complaints of their governors to some palace of several hundreds or thousands, to their prince's gate, where they set themselves to make the most horrid cries, tearing their garments and throwing dust in the air, at the same time demanding justice.—Burder's Illustrations. 28. Free born. Lardner shows that Tarsus having been a municipium, that is, a place where the natives were free by birth, and thinks it probable that Paul was born free by virtue of his father, or some of his ancestors, having been rewarded with the honours of Roman citizenship for some military service.

Ch. XXIII.—3. Thou whited wall. Here is an allusion to the beautiful outside of some walls which are full of rubbish and dirt within. To this day, in Eastern countries, they sometimes build their walls with clay or unburnt bricks, and then plaster them over. 24. Beasts, that they may set Paul on. The cavalry used often to take each a led horse, by which means they travelled long distances without stopping.—Blomfield. 31. Antipatris. A city of Samaria, about forty miles from Jerusalem on the road to Cesarea.

Ch. XXIV.—1. With a certain orator named Tertullus. The Jews being subjected to the Roman Empire, were obliged to transact their law affairs after the Roman manner; but being little conversant with the Roman laws and the forms of the Jurists, it was necessary for them in pleading a cause before a Roman magistrate to employ the assistance of some Roman lawyer and advocate, as this Tertullus, who was well versed in Greek and Latin.

Ch. XXVII.—5. Myra, a city of Lycia. Lycia a province in which commences the range of mountains called Taurus. Myra was the metropolis of the province. 6. Alexandria. The chief maritime city, and long the metropolis of lower Egypt. It is situated on the Mediterranean, twelve miles from one of the mouths of the Nile. It was founded by Alexander the Great, B.C. 332. For a long period it was the greatest of known cities, for Nineveh and Babylon was fallen, and Rome had not yet risen to pre-eminence. And when Rome took the lead, it bore the name of the queen of the East. 7. Cnidus. A city and promontory in the Chersoneses, or peninsula of Caria. 27. Adria. The Adriatic Sea.

Ch. XXVIII.—1. Melita. Supposed generally to mean Malta, an island now well known, but some consider it to refer to a small island in the Adriatic Sea, now called Meleda, where the inhabitants were barbarous, and the marshy soil favourable to reptiles and fevers. 12. Syracuse. The metropolis of the island of Sicily. In its most flourishing state, it comprised about 1,200,000 inhabitants, and extended upwards of twenty-two English miles. A traveller may spend three days in visiting its ruins. The modern city is about twenty-two miles in circumference, having narrow streets and a sickly population of about 15,000. Rhegium. The modern Reggio, a city of Calabria.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the ROMANS.

Written about A. D. 57 or 58, and while the Apostle was at Corinth the second time. It chiefly treats on the doctrine of justification by faith.

CHAP. I.

PAUL, a servant of Jesus Christ,[a] called to be an apostle, [b] separated unto the gospel of God,

2 (Which he had promised afore by his prophets in the holy scriptures,)

3 Concerning his Son Jesus Christ our Lord, [c] which was made of the seed of David according to the flesh;

4 And [d] declared to be the Son of God with power, according [f] to the spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead:

5 By whom we have received grace and apostleship, † for [g] obedience to the faith among all nations, for his name:

6 Among whom are ye also the called of Jesus Christ:

7 To all that be in Rome, beloved of God, [h] called to be saints: Grace to you and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

8 First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for you all, that [i] your faith is spoken of throughout the whole world.

9 For God is my witness, whom I serve § with my spirit in the gospel of his Son, that without ceasing I make mention of you always in my prayers;

10 Making request, if by any means now at length I might have a prosperous journey [k] by the will of God to come unto you.

11 For I long to see you, that [l] I may impart unto you some spiritual gift, to the end ye may be established;

12 That is, that I may be comforted together † with you by [t] the mutual faith both of you and me.

13 Now I would not have you ignorant, brethren, that oftentimes I purposed to come unto you, (but [m] was let hitherto,) that I might have some [n] fruit † among you also, even as among other Gentiles.

14 I [o] am debtor both to the Greeks, and to the Barbarians; both to the wise, and to the unwise.

15 So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are at Rome also.

16 For [p] I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for [q] it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; [s] to the Jew first, and also to the Greek.

17 For [t] therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith: as it is written, [u] The just shall live by faith.

18 For [v] the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the truth in unrighteousness;

19 Because that which may be known of God is manifest † in them; for [x] God hath shewed it unto them.

20 For [y] the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; [z] so that they are without excuse:

21 Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but [a] became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened.

22 Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools,

23 And changed the glory of the uncorruptible [b] God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and fourfooted beasts, and creeping things.

24 Wherefore [c] God also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own hearts, [h] to dishonour their own bodies between themselves:

25 Who changed [k] the truth of God into [l] a lie, and worshipped and served the creature † more than the Creator, who is blessed for ever. Amen.

26 For this cause God gave them up unto [m] vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature:

27 And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompence of their error which was meet.

28 And even as they did not like || to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to [o] a reprobate mind, to do those things [r] which are not convenient;

29 Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers,

30 Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents,

31 Without understanding, covenantbreakers, ‡ without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful:

32 Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but § have pleasure in them that do them.

CHAP. II.

THEREFORE thou art inexcusable, O man, whosoever thou art that judgest: [a] for wherein thou judgest another, thou condemnest thyself; for thou that judgest doest the same things.

2 But we are sure that the judgment of God is according to truth against them which commit such things.

3 And thinkest thou this, O man, that judgest them which do such things, and doest the same, that thou shalt escape the judgment of God?

4 Or despisest thou the riches of his goodness and forbearance and longsuffering; [f] not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance?

5 But after thy hardness and impenitent heart [t] treasurest up unto thyself wrath against the day of wrath and revelation of the righteous judgment of God;

6 Who [a] will render to every man according to his deeds:
7 To them who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory and honour and immortality, eternal life:
8 But unto them that are contentious, and [c] do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness, indignation and wrath,
9 Tribulation and anguish, upon every soul of man that doeth evil, of the Jew [h] first, and also of the [o] Gentile;
10 But [i] glory, honour, and peace, to every man that worketh good, to the Jew first, and also to the [o] Gentile:
11 For [l] there is no respect of persons with God.
12 For as many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law: and as many as have sinned in the law shall be judged by the law;
13 (For [m] not the hearers of the law are just before God, but the doers of the law shall be justified.
14 For when the Gentiles, which have not the law, do by nature the things contained in the law, these, having not the law, are a law unto themselves:
15 Which shew the work of the law written in their hearts, [†] their conscience also bearing witness, and their thoughts [‡] the mean while accusing or else excusing one another;)
16 In [r] the day when God shall judge the secrets of men [s] by Jesus Christ [u] according to my gospel.
17 Behold, [x] thou art called a Jew, and restest in the law, and makest thy boast of God,
18 And [y] knowest his will, and [b] approvest [b] the things that are more excellent, being instructed out of the law;
19 And [b] art confident that thou thyself art a guide of the blind, a light of them which are in darkness,
20 An instructor of the foolish, a teacher of babes, which hast the form of knowledge and of the truth in the law.
21 Thou therefore which teachest another, teachest thou not thyself? thou that preachest a man should not steal, dost thou steal?
22 Thou that sayest a man should not commit adultery, dost thou commit adultery? thou that abhorrest idols, [f] dost thou commit sacrilege?
23 Thou that makest thy boast of the law, through breaking the law dishonourest thou God?
24 For the name of God is blasphemed among the Gentiles through you, as it [i] is written.
25 For [n] circumcision verily profiteth, if thou keep the law: but if thou be a breaker of the law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision.
26 Therefore [r] if the uncircumcision keep the righteousness of the law, shall not his uncircumcision be counted for circumcision?
27 And shall not uncircumcision which is by nature, if it fulfil the law, [u] judge thee, who by the letter and circumcision dost transgress the law?
28 For [x] he is not a Jew, which is one outwardly; neither is that circumcision, which is outward in the flesh:
29 But he is a Jew, [c] which is one inwardly; and [b] circumcision is that of the heart, in the spirit, and not in the letter; whose praise is not of men, but of God.

CHAP. III.

WHAT advantage then hath the Jew? or what profit is there of circumcision?
2 Much every way: chiefly, because that [b] unto them were committed the oracles of God.
3 For what if [d] some did not believe? [e] shall their unbelief make the faith of God without effect?
4 God [f] forbid: yea, let [g] God be true, but every man a liar; as it is written, [h] That thou mightest be justified in thy sayings, and mightest overcome when thou art judged.
5 But if our unrighteousness commend the righteousness of God, what shall we say? Is God unrighteous who taketh vengeance? (I speak as a man)
6 God forbid: for then [m] how shall God judge the world?
7 For if the truth of God hath more abounded through my lie unto his glory: why yet am I also judged as a sinner?
8 And not rather, (as we be slanderously reported, and as some affirm that we say,) [o] Let us do evil, that good may come? whose damnation is just.
9 What then? are we better than they? [p] No, in no wise: for we have before [§] proved both Jews and Gentiles, that [p] they are all under sin;
10 As it is written, [r] There is none righteous, no, not one:
11 There is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God.
12 They are all gone out of the way, they are together become unprofitable; there is none that doeth good, no, not one.
13 Their [s] throat is an open sepulchre; with their tongues they have used deceit; the poison of asps is under their lips:
14 Whose [t] mouth is full of cursing and bitterness:
15 Their [u] feet are swift to shed blood:
16 Destruction and misery are in their ways:
17 And the way of peace have they not known:
18 There [d] is no fear of God before their eyes.
19 Now we know that what things soever [e] the law saith, it saith to them who are under the law: that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become [o] guilty before God.
20 Therefore [g] by the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be justified in his sight: for [h] by the law is the knowledge of sin.
21 But now [i] the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, [k] being witnessed by the law [m] and the prophets;
22 Even the righteousness of God which is [o] by faith of Jesus Christ unto all and upon all them that believe: for [p] there is no difference:
23 For [q] all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God;
24 Being justified freely [r] by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus:
25 Whom God hath [†] set forth [s] to be a propitiation through faith [u] in his blood, to declare his righteousness [x] for the [‡] remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God;
26 To declare, I say, at this time his righteousness: that he might be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus.
27 Where is boasting then? It is excluded. By what law? of works? Nay: but by the law of faith.

28 Therefore we conclude [a] that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law.

29 Is he the God of the Jews only? is he not also of the Gentiles? Yes, of the Gentiles also:

30 Seeing it is one God, which shall justify the circumcision by faith, and uncircumcision through faith.

31 Do we then make void the law through faith? God forbid: yea, we establish the law.

CHAP. IV.

WHAT shall we then say that [c] Abraham, our father as pertaining to the flesh, hath found?

2 For if Abraham were [d] justified by works, he hath whereof to glory; but not before God.

3 For what saith the scripture? [f] Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness.

4 Now [g] to him that worketh is the reward not reckoned of grace, but of debt.

5 But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth [h] the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness.

6 Even as David also describeth the blessedness of the man, unto whom God imputeth righteousness without works,

7 Saying, [i] Blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered.

8 Blessed is the man to whom the Lord will not impute sin.

9 Cometh this blessedness then upon the circumcision only, or upon the uncircumcision also? for we say that faith was reckoned to Abraham for righteousness.

10 How was it then reckoned? when he was in circumcision, or in uncircumcision? Not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision.

11 And [m] he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had yet being uncircumcised: that [n] he might be the father of all them that believe, though they be not circumcised; that righteousness might be imputed unto them also:

12 And the father of circumcision to them who are not of the circumcision only, but who also walk in the steps of that faith of our father Abraham, which he had being yet uncircumcised.

13 For the promise, that he should be the [b] heir of the world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith.

14 For [d] if they which are of the law be heirs, faith is made void, and the promise made of none effect:

15 Because [f] the law worketh wrath: for where no law is, there is no transgression.

16 Therefore it is of faith, that it might be by grace; [s] to the end the promise might be sure to all the seed; not to that only which is of the law, but to that also which is of the faith of Abraham; [k] who is the father of us all,

17 (As it is written, [i] I have made thee a father of many nations,) [t] before him whom he believed, even God, [l] who quickeneth the dead, and calleth those [m] things which be not as though they were.

18 Who against hope believed in hope, that he might become the father of many nations, according to that which was spoken, [i] So shall thy seed be.

19 And being not weak in faith, [c] he considered not his own body now dead, when he was about an hundred years old, neither yet the deadness of Sarah's womb:

20 He staggered not at the promise of God through unbelief; but was strong in faith, giving glory to God;

21 And being fully persuaded that, what he had promised, he [d] was able also to perform.

22 And therefore it was imputed to him for righteousness.

23 Now [f] it was not written for his sake alone, that it was imputed to him;

24 But for us also, to whom it shall be imputed, if we believe [g] on him that raised up Jesus our Lord from the dead;

25 Who [i] was delivered for our offences, and [k] was raised again for our justification.

CHAP. V.

THEREFORE [m] being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ:

2 By [o] whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God.

3 And not only so, but [p] we glory in tribulations also: [q] knowing that tribulation worketh patience;

4 And patience, experience; and experience, hope:

5 And [t] hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God [u] is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us.

6 For when we were yet without strength, [v] in due time Christ died for the ungodly.

7 For scarcely for a righteous man will one die: yet peradventure for a good man some would even dare to die.

8 But [x] God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.

9 Much more then, being now justified [y] by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him.

10 For if, when we were enemies, [z] we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved [a] by his life.

11 And not only so, but we also joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the [b] atonement.

12 Wherefore, as [c] by one man sin entered into the world, and [d] death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, [e] for that all have sinned:

13 (For until the law sin was in the world: but [f] sin is not imputed when there is no law.

14 Nevertheless death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over them that had not sinned after the similitude of Adam's transgression, who is the figure of him that was to come.

15 But not as the offence, so also is the free gift. For if through the offence of one many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man, Jesus Christ, hath abounded [k] unto many.

16 And not as it was by one that sinned, so is the gift: for the judgment was by one to condemnation, but the free gift is of many offences unto justification.

Digitized by Google

17 For if [o] by one man's offence death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ.)

18 Therefore as [p] by the offence of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even so [†] by the righteousness of one the free gift came [q] upon all men unto justification of life.

19 For as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous.

20 Moreover [r] the law entered, that the offence might abound. But where sin abounded, grace did much [s] more abound:

21 That as sin hath reigned unto death, even so might grace reign through righteousness unto eternal life by Jesus Christ our Lord.

CHAP. VI.

WHAT shall we say then? Shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound?

2 God forbid. How shall we, that are [t] dead to sin, live any longer therein?

3 Know ye not, that so many of us as [§] were baptized into Jesus Christ [u] were baptized into his death?

4 Therefore we are [v] buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, [w] even so we also should walk in newness of life.

5 For [x] if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection:

6 Knowing this, that [y] our old man is crucified with him, that [z] the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin.

7 For [a] he that is dead is [b] freed from sin.

8 Now [c] if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him:

9 Knowing that [d] Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him.

10 For in that he died, [e] he died unto sin once: but in that he liveth, [f] he liveth unto God.

11 Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but [g] alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord.

12 Let [h] not sin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof.

13 Neither yield ye your [i] members as [§] instruments of unrighteousness unto sin: but [j] yield yourselves unto God, as those that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness unto God.

14 For [k] sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the law, but under grace.

15 What then? shall we sin, [l] because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid.

16 Know ye not, that [m] to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?

17 But God be thanked, that ye were the servants of sin, but ye have obeyed from the heart [n] that form of doctrine [o] which was delivered you.

18 Being then [p] made free from sin, ye became the servants of righteousness.

19 I speak after the manner of men

Believers dead to the law.

because of the infirmity of your flesh: for as ye have yielded your members servants to uncleanness and to iniquity unto iniquity; even so now yield your members servants to righteousness unto holiness.

20 For when ye were [q] the servants of sin, ye were free [r] from righteousness.

21 What [s] fruit had ye then in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? for [t] the end of those things is death.

22 But now [‖] being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life.

23 For [u] the wages of sin is death; but the [v] gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

CHAP. VII.

KNOW ye not, brethren, (for I speak to them that know the law,) how that the law hath dominion over a man as long as he liveth?

2 For [x] the woman which hath an husband is bound by the law to her husband so long as he liveth; but if the husband be dead, she is loosed from the law of her husband.

3 So then [y] if, while her husband liveth, she be married to another man, she shall be called an adulteress: but if her husband be dead, she is free from that law; so that she is no adulteress, though she be married to another man.

4 Wherefore, my brethren, ye also are become [z] dead to the law by the body of Christ; that ye should be married to another, even to him who is raised from the dead, that we should [a] bring forth fruit unto God.

5 For when we were in the flesh, the [§] motions of sins, which were by the law, did work in our members [b] to bring forth fruit unto death.

6 But now we are delivered from the law, [†] that being dead wherein we were held; that we should serve [c] in newness of spirit, and not [d] in the oldness of the letter.

7 What shall we say then? Is the law sin? God forbid. Nay, [e] I had not known sin, but by the law: for I had not known lust, except the law had said, [f] Thou shalt not covet.

8 But sin, taking occasion [g] by the commandment, wrought in me all manner of concupiscence. For [h] without the law sin was dead.

9 For I was alive without the law once: but when the commandment came, sin revived, and I died.

10 And the commandment, [i] which was ordained to life, I found to be unto death.

11 For sin, taking occasion by the commandment, deceived me, and by it slew me.

12 Wherefore [k] the law is holy, and the commandment holy, and just, and good.

13 Was then that which is good made death unto me? God forbid. But sin, that it might appear sin, working death in me by that which is good; that sin [l] by the commandment might become exceeding sinful.

14 For we know that the law is spiritual: but I am carnal, [m] sold under sin.

15 For that which I do I allow not: [n] for what I would, that do I not; but what I hate, that do I.

16 If then I do that which I would not, I consent unto the law that it is good.

17 Now then it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me.

Digitized by Google

18 For I know that [a] in me (that is, in my flesh,) dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me; but how to perform that which is good I find not.

19 For the good that I would I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do.

20 Now if I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me.

21 I find then a law, that, when I would do good, evil is present with me.

22 For I [c] delight in the law of God after [f] the inward man:

23 But [g] I see another law in [h] my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members.

24 O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from [†] the body of this death?

25 I [k] thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord. So then with the mind I myself serve the law of God; but with the flesh the law of sin.

CHAP. VIII.

THERE is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who [o] walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

2 For the law of [p] the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law [q] of sin and death.

3 For [r] what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, [s] God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and [‡] for sin, condemned sin in the flesh:

4 That the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

5 For [t] they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit [u] the things of the Spirit.

6 For [‖] to [d] be carnally minded is death; but [v] to be spiritually minded is life and peace.

7 Because [‖] the [f] carnal mind is enmity against God: for it is not subject to the law of God, [h] neither indeed can be.

8 So then they that are in the flesh cannot please God.

9 But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not [k] the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his.

10 And if Christ be in you, the body is dead because of sin; but the Spirit is life because of righteousness.

11 But if the Spirit of [m] him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, [n] he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies [†] by his Spirit that dwelleth in you.

12 Therefore, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh.

13 For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live.

14 For [o] as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God.

15 For ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the [u] Spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father.

16 The [v] Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God:

17 And if children, then heirs; [x] heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together.

18 For I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us.

19 For [b] the earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the [‖] manifestation of the sons of God.

20 For [d] the creature was made subject to vanity, not willingly, but by reason of him who hath subjected the same in hope,

21 Because the creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God.

22 For we know that [e] the whole creation [i] groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now.

23 And not only they, but ourselves also, which have [f] the firstfruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption, to wit, the [m] redemption of our body.

24 For we are saved by hope: but [n] hope that is seen is not hope: for what a man seeth, why doth he yet hope for?

25 But if we hope for that we see not, then do we with patience wait for it.

26 Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities: for [r] we know not what we should pray for as we ought: but [t] the Spirit itself maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered.

27 And he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the mind of the Spirit, [§] because he maketh intercession for the saints [x] according to the will of God.

28 And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them [y] who are the called according to his purpose.

29 For whom [b] he did foreknow, he also did predestinate [z] to be conformed to the image of his Son, [c] that he might be the firstborn among many brethren.

30 Moreover whom he did predestinate, them he also called: and whom he called, them he also [g] justified: and whom he justified, them he also [i] glorified.

31 What shall we then say to these things? If God be for us, who can be against us?

32 He that spared not his own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how shall he not with him also freely give us all things?

33 Who shall lay any thing to the charge of God's elect? [1] It is God that justifieth.

34 Who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that died, yea rather, that is risen again, [a] who is even at the right hand of God, [b] who also maketh intercession for us.

35 Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword?

36 As it is written, [c] For thy sake we are killed all the day long; we are accounted as sheep for the slaughter.

37 Nay, [d] in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us.

38 For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come,

39 Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

CHAP. IX.

I SAY the truth in Christ, I lie not, my conscience also bearing me witness in the Holy Ghost,

2 That [a] I have great heaviness and continual sorrow in my heart.

3 For [b] I could wish that myself were [c] accursed from Christ for my brethren, my kinsmen according to the flesh:

4 Who are Israelites; [d] to whom pertaineth the adoption, and [e] the glory, and [f] the [†] covenants, and [g] the giving of the law, and the service of God, and [h] the promises;

5 Whose are the fathers, and [i] of whom as concerning the flesh Christ came, [k] who is over all, God blessed for ever. Amen.

6 Not [l] as though the word of God hath taken none effect. For [m] they are not all Israel, which are of Israel:

7 Neither, because they are the seed of Abraham, are they all children: but, In [n] Isaac shall thy seed be called.

8 That is, They which are the children of the flesh, these are not the children of God: but [o] the children of the promise are counted for the seed.

9 For this is the word of promise, [p] At this time will I come, and Sarah shall have a son.

10 And not only this; but when [q] Rebecca also had conceived by one, even by our father Isaac;

11 (For the children being not yet born, neither having done any good or evil, that the purpose of God according to election might stand, not of works, but of [r] him that calleth;)

12 It was said unto her, [s] The [‖] elder shall serve the [t] younger.

13 As it is written, [u] Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated.

14 What shall we say then? Is there unrighteousness with God? God forbid.

15 For he saith to Moses, [w] I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy, and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion.

16 So then it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but of God that sheweth mercy.

17 For [x] the scripture saith unto Pharaoh, [y] Even for this same purpose have I raised thee up, that I might shew my power in thee, and that my name might be declared throughout all the earth.

18 Therefore hath he mercy on whom he will have mercy, and whom he will he hardeneth.

19 Thou wilt say then unto me, Why doth he yet find fault? For who hath resisted his will?

20 Nay but, O man, who art thou that [z] repliest against God? Shall the thing formed say to him that formed it, Why hast thou made me thus?

21 Hath not the [a] potter power over the clay, of the same lump to make [b] one vessel unto honour, and another unto dishonour?

22 What if God, willing to shew his wrath, and to make his power known, endured with much longsuffering [c] the vessels of wrath [‡] fitted [d] to destruction:

23 And that he might make known the riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy, which he had afore prepared unto glory,

24 Even us, whom he hath called, [e] not of the Jews only, but also of the Gentiles?

25 As he saith also in Osee, [f] I will call them my people, which were not my people; and her beloved, which was not beloved.

26 And [g] it shall come to pass, that in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people; there shall they be called the children of the living God.

27 Esaias also crieth concerning Israel, [h] Though the number of the children of Israel be as the sand of the sea, [i] a remnant shall be saved:

28 For he will finish the [†] work, and cut it short in righteousness: [k] because a short work will the Lord make upon the earth.

29 And as Esaias said before, [l] Except the Lord of Sabaoth had left us a seed, [m] we had been as Sodoma, and been made like unto Gomorrha.

30 What shall we say then? [n] That the Gentiles, which followed not after righteousness, have attained to righteousness, [o] even the righteousness which is of faith.

31 But Israel, [p] which followed after the law of righteousness, [q] hath not attained to the law of righteousness.

32 Wherefore? Because they sought it not by faith, but as it were by the works of the law. For [r] they stumbled at that stumblingstone;

33 As it is written, [s] Behold, I lay in Sion a stumblingstone and rock of offence: and [t] whosoever believeth on him shall not be [§] ashamed.

CHAP. X.

BRETHREN, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved.

2 For I bear them record that [a] they have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge.

3 For they being ignorant of [b] God's righteousness, and going about to establish their own [c] righteousness, have not submitted themselves unto the righteousness of God.

4 For [d] Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth.

5 For Moses describeth the righteousness which is of the law, [e] That the man which doeth those things shall live by them.

6 But the righteousness which is of faith speaketh on this wise, [f] Say not in thine heart, Who shall ascend into heaven? (that is, to bring Christ down from above:)

7 Or, Who shall descend into the deep? (that is, to bring up Christ again from the dead.)

8 But what saith it? The word is nigh thee, [g] even in thy mouth, and in thy heart: that is, the word of faith, which we preach;

9 That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved.

10 For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.

11 For the scripture saith, [h] Whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed.

12 For [i] there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him.

13 For [k] whosoever shall call [l] upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

14 How then shall they call on him [m] in whom they have not believed? and how [n] shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear [a] without a preacher?

15 And how shall they preach, except they be sent? as it is written, [b] How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!

16 But they have not all obeyed the gospel. For Esaias saith, [d] Lord, who hath believed [e] our [†] report?

17 So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.

18 But I say, Have they not heard? Yes verily, [g] their sound went into all the earth, [i] and their words unto the ends of the world.

19 But I say, Did not Israel know? First Moses saith, [k] I will provoke you to jealousy by them that are no people, and by a foolish nation I will anger you.

20 But Esaias is very bold, and saith, [m] I was found of them that sought me not; I was made manifest unto them that asked not after me.

21 But to Isrnel he saith, All day long I have stretched forth my hands unto a disobedient and gainsaying people.

CHAP. XI.

I SAY then, [r] Hath God cast away his people? God forbid. [s] I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin.

2 God hath not cast away his people which [u] he foreknew. Wot ye not what the scripture saith [§] of Elias? how he maketh intercession to God against Israel, saying,

3 Lord, [y] they have killed thy prophets, and digged down thine altars; and I am left alone, and they seek my life.

4 But what saith the answer of God unto him? [z] I have reserved to myself seven thousand men, who have not bowed the knee to the image of Baal.

5 Even [b] so then at this present time also there is a remnant according to the election of grace.

6 And [d] if by grace, then is it no more of works: otherwise grace is no more grace. But if it be of works, then is it no more grace: otherwise work is no more work.

7 What then? [f] Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for; but the election hath obtained it, and the rest were [g] blinded

8 (According as it is written, [i] God hath given them the spirit of [‡] slumber, [k] eyes that they should not see, and ears that they should not hear;) unto this day.

9 And David saith, [l] Let their table be made a snare, and a trap, and a stumbling-block, and a recompence unto them:

10 Let their eyes be darkened, that they may not see, and bow down their back alway.

11 I say then, Have they stumbled that they should fall? God forbid: but rather through their fall salvation is come unto the Gentiles, for to provoke them to jealousy.

12 Now if the fall of them be the riches of the world, and the [‖] diminishing of them the riches of the Gentiles; how much more their fulness?

13 For I speak to you Gentiles, inasmuch as I [*] am the apostle of the Gentiles, I magnify mine office:

14 If by any means I may provoke to emulation them which are my flesh, and might save some of them.

15 For if the casting away of them be the reconciling of the world, what shall the receiving of them be, but life from the dead?

16 For if [*] the firstfruit be holy, the lump is also holy: and if the root be holy, so are the branches.

17 And if [] some of the branches be broken off, [] and thou, being a wild olive tree, wert grafted in [‡] among them, and with them partakest of the root and fatness of the olive tree;

18 Boast [*] not against the branches. But if thou boast, thou bearest not the root, but the root thee.

19 Thou wilt say then, The branches were broken off, that I might be grafted in.

20 Well; because of unbelief they were broken off, and thou standest by faith. [*] Be not highminded, but [m] fear:

21 For if God spared not the natural branches, take heed lest he also spare not thee.

22 Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God: on them which fell, severity; but toward thee, goodness, [*] if thou continue in his goodness: otherwise [*] thou also shalt be cut off.

23 And they also, [*] if they abide not in unbelief, shall be grafted in: for God is able to graff them in again.

24 For if thou wert cut out of the olive tree which is wild by nature, and wert graffed contrary to nature into a good olive tree: how much more shall these, which be the natural branches, be grafted into their own olive tree?

25 For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery, lest ye should be [] wise in your own conceits; that [‖] blindness [] in part is happened to Israel, [*] until the fulness of the Gentiles be come in.

26 And so all Israel shall be saved: as it is written, [*] There shall come out of Sion the Deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob:

27 For [*] this is my covenant unto them when I shall take away their sins.

28 As concerning the gospel, they are enemies for your sakes: but as touching the election, they are beloved for the fathers' sakes.

29 For the gifts and calling of God are [*] without repentance.

30 For as ye [*] in times past have not [†] believed God, yet have now obtained mercy through their unbelief:

31 Even so have these also now not [†] believed, that through your mercy they also may obtain mercy.

32 For [m] God hath [§] concluded them all in unbelief, that he might have mercy upon all.

33 O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! [n] how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out!

34 For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or [o] who hath been his counseller?

35 Or who hath first given to him, and it shall be recompensed unto him again?

36 For [p] of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: [r] to [*] whom be glory for ever. Amen.

CHAP. XII.

I BESEECH you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, [*] that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service.

2 And [a] be not conformed to this world: but [b] be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may [c] prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God.

3 For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think [d] soberly, according as God hath dealt [e] to every man the measure of faith.

4 For [f] as we have many members in one body, and all members have not the same office:

5 So [h] we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another.

6 Having [i] then gifts differing according to the grace that is given to us, whether [m] prophecy, let us prophesy according to the proportion of faith;

7 Or ministry, let us wait on our ministering: or he that teacheth, on teaching;

8 Or [n] he that exhorteth, on exhortation: he that [†] giveth, let him do it [‡] with simplicity; he that ruleth, with diligence; he that sheweth mercy, [r] with cheerfulness.

9 Let love be without dissimulation. [s] Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good.

10 Be [t] kindly affectioned one to another [§] with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another;

11 Not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord;

12 Rejoicing [u] in hope; patient in tribulation; [x] continuing instant in prayer;

13 Distributing [y] to the necessity of saints; [z] given to hospitality.

14 Bless [a] them which persecute you: bless, and curse not.

15 Rejoice [b] with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep.

16 Be of the same mind one toward another. [c] Mind not high things, but [‖] condescend to men of low estate. Be not wise in your own conceits.

17 Recompense [d] to no man evil for evil. [m] Provide things honest in the sight of all men.

18 If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men.

19 Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, [e] Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.

20 Therefore [f] if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head.

21 Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

CHAP. XIII.

LET every soul [g] be subject unto the higher powers. For [h] there is no power but of God: the powers that be are [‖] ordained of God.

2 Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation.

3 For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? [i] do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same:

4 For he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the sword in vain: for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil.

5 Wherefore [k] ye must needs be subject, not only for wrath, but also for conscience sake.

6 For for this cause pay ye tribute also: for they are God's ministers, attending continually upon this very thing.

7 Render [l] therefore to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honour to whom honour.

8 Owe no man any thing, but to love one another: for [m] he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law.

9 For this, [n] Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not covet; and if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, namely, Thou shalt love [o] thy neighbour as thyself.

10 Love worketh no ill to his neighbour: therefore [p] love is the fulfilling of the law.

11 And that, knowing the time, that now it is high time [q] to awake out of sleep: for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed.

12 The night is far spent, the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and [r] let us put on the armour of light.

13 Let us walk [s] honestly, as in the day; [x] not in rioting and drunkenness, [y] not in chambering and wantonness, [z] not in strife and envying.

14 But [a] put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make not provision for the flesh, to fulfil the lusts thereof.

CHAP. XIV.

HIM that [b] is weak in the faith receive ye, but [c] not to doubtful disputations.

2 For one believeth that he [d] may eat all things: another, who is weak, eateth herbs.

3 Let not him that eateth despise him that eateth not; and [e] let not him which eateth not judge him that eateth: for God hath received him.

4 Who [f] art thou that judgest another man's servant? to his own master he standeth or falleth. Yea, he shall be holden up: for God is able to make him stand.

5 One [g] man esteemeth one day above another: another esteemeth every day alike. Let every man be fully [‖] persuaded in his own mind.

6 He that [§] regardeth the day, regardeth it unto the Lord; and he that regardeth not the day, to the Lord he doth not regard it. He that eateth, eateth to the Lord, for he giveth God thanks; and he that eateth not, to the Lord he eateth not, and giveth God thanks.

7 For [h] none of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself.

8 For whether we live, we live unto the Lord; and whether we die, we die unto the Lord: whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lord's.

9 For [i] to this end Christ both died, and rose, and revived, that he might be Lord both of the dead and living.

10 But why dost thou judge thy brother? or why dost thou set at nought thy brother? for [a] we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ.

11 For it is written, [b] As I live, saith the Lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God.

12 So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God.

13 Let us not therefore judge one another any more: but judge this rather, that [c] no man put a stumblingblock or an occasion to fall in his brother's way.

14 I know, and am persuaded by the Lord Jesus, that f there is nothing [g] unclean of itself: but to him that esteemeth any thing to be [g] unclean, to him it is unclean.

15 But if thy brother be grieved with thy meat, now walkest thou not [†] charitably. [i] Destroy not him with thy meat, for whom Christ died.

16 Let [k] not then your good be evil spoken of:

17 For [m] the kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost.

18 For he that in these things serveth Christ [n] is acceptable to God, and approved of men.

19 Let [r] us therefore follow after the things which make for peace, and things wherewith [s] one may edify another.

20 For meat destroy not the work of God. All [t] things indeed are pure; [v] but it is evil for that man who eateth with offence.

21 It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak.

22 Hast thou faith? have it to thyself before God. [y] Happy is he that condemneth not himself in that thing which he alloweth.

23 And he that [‖] doubteth is damned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith: for [b] whatsoever is not of faith is sin.

CHAP. XV.

WE [c] then that are strong ought to bear the [d] infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves.

2 Let [f] every one of us please his neighbour for his good to edification.

3 For [h] even Christ pleased not himself; but, as it is written, [i] The reproaches of them that reproached thee fell on me.

4 For [k] whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope.

5 Now the God of patience and consolation grant you to be [m] likeminded one toward another [†] according to Christ Jesus:

6 That ye may [o] with one mind and one mouth glorify God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

7 Wherefore receive ye one another, [p] as Christ also received us to the glory of God.

8 Now I say that [r] Jesus Christ was a minister of the circumcision for the truth of God, [s] to confirm the promises made unto the fathers:

9 And [v] that the Gentiles might glorify God for his mercy; as it is written, [x] For this cause I will confess to thee among the Gentiles, and sing unto thy name.

10 And again he saith, [y] Rejoice, ye Gentiles, with his people.

11 And again, [b] Praise the Lord, all ye Gentiles; and laud him, all ye people.

12 And again, Esaias saith, [b] There shall be a root of Jesse, and he that shall rise to reign over the Gentiles; in him shall the Gentiles trust.

13 Now the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, that ye may abound in hope, through the power of the Holy Ghost.

14 And [d] I myself also am persuaded of you, my brethren, that ye also are full of goodness, filled with all knowledge, able also to admonish one another.

15 Nevertheless, brethren, I have written the more boldly unto you in some sort, as putting you in mind, because of the [d] grace that is given to me of God,

16 That [h] I should be the minister of Jesus Christ to the Gentiles, ministering the gospel of God, that the [†] offering [k] up of the Gentiles might be acceptable, being sanctified by the Holy Ghost.

17 I have therefore wherewof I may glory through Jesus Christ [m] in those things which pertain to God.

18 For I will not dare to speak of any of those things [o] which Christ hath not wrought by me, to make the Gentiles obedient, by word and deed,

19 Through [r] mighty signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God; so that from Jerusalem, and round about unto Illyricum, I have fully preached the gospel of Christ.

20 Yea, so have I strived to preach the gospel, not where Christ was named, lest I should build upon another man's foundation:

21 But as it is written, [x] To whom he was not spoken of, they shall see: and they that have not heard shall understand.

22 For which cause also [y] I have been [§] much hindered from coming to you.

23 But now having no more place in these parts, and [z] having a great desire these many years to come unto you;

24 Whensoever I take my journey into Spain, I will come to you: for I trust to see you in my journey, and to be brought on my way thitherward by you, if first I be somewhat filled [e] with your company.

25 But now [f] I go unto Jerusalem to minister unto the saints.

26 For [g] it hath pleased them of Macedonia and Achaia to make a certain contribution for the poor saints which are at Jerusalem.

27 It hath pleased them verily; and their debtors they are. For [i] if the Gentiles have been made partakers of their spiritual things, their duty is also to minister unto them in carnal things.

28 When therefore I have performed this, and have sealed to them [u] this fruit, I will come by you into Spain.

29 And I am sure that, when I come unto you, I shall come in the fulness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ.

30 Now I beseech you, brethren, for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake, and [t] for the love of the Spirit, [t] that ye strive together with me in your prayers to God for me;

31 That I may be delivered from them that do not believe in Judæa; and that my service which I have for Jerusalem may be accepted of the saints;

32 That [y] I may come unto you with joy [e] by the will of God, and may with you be refreshed.

33 Now [e] the God of peace be with you all. Amen.

CHAP. XVI.

I COMMEND unto you Phebe our sister, which is a servant of the church which is at Cenchrea:

2 That [b] ye receive her in the Lord, as becometh saints, and that ye assist her in whatsoever business she hath need of you: for she hath been a succourer of many, and of myself also.

3 Greet [f] Priscilla and Aquila my helpers in Christ Jesus:

4 Who have for my life laid down their own necks: unto whom not only I give thanks, but also all the churches of the Gentiles.

5 Likewise greet [i] the church that is in their house. Salute my wellbeloved Epenetus, who is [i] the firstfruits of Achaia unto Christ.

6 Greet Mary, who bestowed much labour on us.

7 Salute Andronicus and Junia, my kinsmen, and my fellowprisoners, who are of note among the apostles, who also [m] were in Christ before me.

8 Greet Amplias my beloved in the Lord.

9 Salute Urbane, our helper in Christ, and Stachys my beloved.

10 Salute Apelles approved in Christ. Salute them which are of Aristobulus' [z] household.

11 Salute Herodion my kinsman. Greet them that be of the [t] household of Narcissus, which are in the Lord.

12 Salute Tryphena and Tryphosa, who labour in the Lord. Salute the beloved Persis, which laboured much in the Lord.

13 Salute Rufus [o] chosen in the Lord, and his mother and mine.

14 Salute Asyncritus, Phlegon, Hermas, Patrobas, Hermes, and the brethren which are with them.

15 Salute Philologus, and Julia, Nereus, and his sister, and Olympas, and all the saints which are with them.

16 Salute [p] one another with an holy kiss. The churches of Christ salute you.

17 Now I beseech you, brethren, mark them [q] which cause divisions and offences contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned; and [q] avoid them.

18 For they that are such serve not our Lord Jesus Christ, but [r] their own belly; and [s] by good words and fair speeches deceive the hearts of the simple.

19 For [t] your obedience is come abroad unto all men. I am glad therefore on your behalf: but yet I would have you [u] wise unto that which is good, and [v] simple concerning evil.

20 And the God of peace [f] shall [w] bruise Satan under your feet shortly. [x] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

21 Timotheus [m] my workfellow, and Lucius, and Jason, and Sosipater, my kinsmen, salute you.

22 I Tertius, who wrote this epistle, salute you in the Lord.

23 Gaius mine host, and of the whole church, saluteth you. Erastus the chamberlain of the city saluteth you, and Quartus a brother.

24 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

25 Now [y] to him that is of power to stablish you [P] according to my gospel, and the preaching of Jesus Christ, [r] according to the revelation of the mystery, [z] which was kept secret since the world began,

26 But now is made manifest, and [a] by the scriptures of the prophets, according to the commandment of the everlasting God, made known to all nations for [b] the obedience of faith:

27 To [c] God only wise, be glory through Jesus Christ for ever. Amen.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CH. VII. 24.—BINDING THE LIVING TO THE DEAD. It is not certain that the binding of the living to the dead was a Roman punishment. We, however, avail ourselves of this article to glance generally at the Roman modes of punishment, which will enable the reader the better to understand various statements and allusions in the apostolical narratives and epistles. In the time of the free state there was an open trial, and a long process. But when there were sovereigns, the people had no part in deciding any cases, as the monarchs themselves were the sole judges. The usual Roman punishments were by pecuniary mulct or fine; also by imprisonment and fetters. Punishment was likewise inflicted by stripes. There was, further, the Talio,—a punishment by which the guilty person suffered exactly after the same manner as he had offended. Here the criminal was allowed the liberty of compounding. Another punishment was inflicted, simply by the prætor's edict, or by an order of the censor. This exposed the criminal party to public shame, and took away the privilege of bearing any office, and almost all other liberties of a Roman citizen. Exiling the party had several degrees. Sale of the person by auction was a punishment, but this rarely happened to the citizens. Putting to death was by beheading, throwing the criminal headlong from a part of the prison, or from the Tarpeian mountain; and crucifying, as in the case of our Divine Lord, who, in suffering it, suffered a punishment inflicted on slaves or the meanest persons. A parricide, after being whipped, was sewn up in a sack and thrown into the sea, or into a lake or river. In later ages, sometimes convicted persons, especially slaves, were obliged to engage with the wild beasts in the amphitheatre: or to perform the part of gladiators, by killing one another. Many were condemned to work in the mines. This punishment was particularly inflicted on Christians in the times of persecution. The most despicable of malefactors were thrown to wild beasts. This punishment was also suffered by the primitive Christians. Finally, there was another punishment for incendiaries, and that was the wrapping up the criminal in a sort of coat daubed over with pitch, and then setting it on fire. Thus, when Nero had burnt Rome, to satisfy his cruelty with the prospect, he contrived to lay the odium on the Christians, as a sort of men generally detested, and ordered them to be lighted up in this manner, to serve for tapers in the dark. We see here illustrations of many passages. Though binding the living to the dead is not mentioned among Roman punishments, it is certain that one tyrant was renowned for practising this cruel punishment; and the apostle Paul was doubtless acquainted with the fact. Mezentius, a king of the Tyrrhenians, was remarkable for his cruelties, and put his subjects to death by slow tortures, or sometimes tied a man to a dead corpse face to face, and suffered him to die in that condition. Virgil paints the cruel punishment in strong colours, strikingly exhibited in the Translation of Dryden:

> 'What words can paint those execrable times;
> The subject's sufferings and the tyrant's crimes?
> The living and the dead at his command,
> Were coupled face to face, and hand to hand;
> Till choak'd with stench in loath'd embraces tied,
> The lingering wretched pin'd away and died.'

Doddridge considers this as a most forcible and expressive image of the case represented.

CH. XV. 19.—ILLYRICUM, called also Illyria, and Illyris, a country bordering on the Adriatic Sea, opposite Italy. It was made a Roman province, and now forms part of Croatia, Bosnia, and Sclavonia.

The First Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the CORINTHIANS.

Intended to answer certain inquiries, and to correct certain schisms and disorders, about A. D. 57.

CHAP. I.

PAUL, [a] called to be an apostle of Jesus Christ through the will of God, and [b] Sosthenes our brother,

2 Unto the church of God which is at Corinth, to them that [c] are sanctified in Christ Jesus, [d] called to be saints, with all that in every place call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord, [e] both their's and our's:

3 Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 I thank my God always on your behalf, for the grace of God which is given you by Jesus Christ;

5 That in every thing ye are enriched by him, [f] in all utterance, and in all knowledge;

6 Even as the testimony of Christ was confirmed in you:

7 So that ye come behind in no gift; waiting [m] for the [n] coming of our Lord Jesus Christ:

8 Who shall also confirm you unto the end, [o] that ye may be blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 God [p] is faithful, by whom ye were called unto [q] the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

10 Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no † divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment.

11 For it hath been declared unto me of you, my brethren, by them which are of the house of Chloe, that there are contentions among you.

12 Now this I say, [a] that every one of you saith, I am of Paul; and I of Apollos; and I of [b] Cephas; and I of Christ.

13 Is [d] Christ divided? was Paul crucified for you? or were ye baptized in the name of Paul?

14 I thank God that I baptized none of you, but Crispus and Gaius;

15 Lest any should say that I had baptized in mine own name.

16 And I baptized also the housbold of Stephanas: besides, I know not whether I baptized any other.

17 For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the gospel: [g] not with wisdom of ‖ words, lest the cross of Christ should be made of none effect.

18 For the preaching of the cross is to [h] them that perish [i] foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the [k] power of God.

19 For it is written, [l] I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will bring to nothing the understanding of the prudent.

20 Where [r] is the wise? where is the scribe? where is the disputer of this world? [s] hath not God made foolish the wisdom of this world?

21 For [t] after that in the wisdom of God, the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe.

22 For the [y] Jews require a sign, and the Greeks seek after wisdom:

23 But we preach Christ crucified, [h] unto the Jews a stumblingblock, and unto the Greeks foolishness;

24 But unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ [d] the power of God, and the wisdom of God.

25 Because the foolishness of God is wiser than men; and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

26 For ye see your calling, brethren, how that [h] not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called:

27 But [i] God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise; and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty;

28 And base things of the world, and things which are despised, hath God chosen, yea, and things [i] which are not, to bring to nought things that are:

29 That [u] no flesh should glory in his presence.

30 But of him are ye in Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us [y] wisdom, and [r] righteousness, and [s] sanctification, and [u] redemption:

31 That, according as it is written, [x] He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord.

CHAP. II.

AND I, brethren, when I came to you, came not with excellency of speech or of wisdom, declaring unto you the testimony of God.

2 For I determined not to know any thing among you, [y] save Jesus Christ, and him crucified.

3 And I was with you [a] in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling.

4 And my speech and my preaching [c] was not with † enticing words of man's wisdom, [e] but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power:

5 That your faith should not § stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God.

6 Howbeit we speak wisdom among them [f] that are perfect: yet not the wisdom of this world, nor of the princes of this world, that come to nought:

7 But we speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, even the hidden wisdom, which God ordained before the world unto our glory:

8 Which [h] none of the princes of this world knew: for [i] had they known it, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory.

9 But as it is written, [m] Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him.

10 But [p] God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God.

11 For what man knoweth the things of a man, [t] save the spirit of man which is in him? [v] even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God.

12 Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but [v] the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God.

Digitized by Google

13 Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual.

14 But [a] the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned.

15 But [d] he that is spiritual [e]judgeth all things, yet he himself is [†]judged of no man.

16 For [f] who hath known the mind of the Lord, that he [‡]may instruct him? [g] But we have the mind of Christ.

CHAP. III.

AND I, brethren, could not speak unto you as unto spiritual, but as unto carnal, even as unto babes in Christ.

2 I have fed you with [i] milk, and not with meat: [k] for hitherto ye were not able to bear it, neither yet now are ye able.

3 For ye are yet carnal: for [m] whereas there is among you envying, and strife, and ‖divisions, are ye not carnal, and walk [n] as men?

4 For while one saith, I am of Paul; and another, I am of Apollos; are ye not carnal?

5 Who then is Paul, and who is Apollos, but ministers by whom ye believed, [o] even as the Lord gave to every man?

6 I [p] have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase.

7 So then [q] neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth; but God that giveth the increase.

8 Now he that planteth and he that watereth are one: and [r] every man shall receive his own reward according to his own labour.

9 For [s] we are labourers together with God: ye are God's §husbandry, ye are [t] God's building.

10 According to the grace of God which is given unto me, as a wise masterbuilder, I have laid the foundation, and another buildeth thereon. But [u] let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon.

11 For other foundation can no man lay than [x] that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.

12 Now if any man build upon this foundation gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble;

13 Every man's work shall be made manifest: for the day [a] shall declare it, because [b] it [c] shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is.

14 If any man's work abide which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a reward.

15 If any man's work shall be burned, [d] he shall suffer loss: but he himself shall be saved; [e] yet so as by fire.

16 Know [f] ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?

17 If any man [g]defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are.

18 Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise.

19 For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written, [r] He taketh the wise in their own craftiness.

20 And again, [s] The Lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they are vain.

21 Therefore let no man glory in men. For [a] all things are your's;

22 Whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are your's;

23 And [c] ye are Christ's; and Christ is God's.

CHAP. IV.

LET a man so account of us, as of the ministers of Christ, [d] and stewards of the mysteries of God.

2 Moreover it is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful.

3 But with me it is a very small thing that I should be judged of you, or of man's §judgment: yea, I judge not mine own self.

4 For I know nothing by myself; [h] yet am I not hereby justified: but he that judgeth me is the Lord.

5 Therefore [i] judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts: and [k] then shall every man have praise of God.

6 And these things, brethren, I have in a figure transferred to myself and to Apollos for your sakes; that ye might learn in us not to think of men above that which is written, that no one of you be puffed up for one against another.

7 For who [l] maketh thee to differ from another? and [m] what hast thou that thou didst not receive? now if thou didst receive it, why dost thou glory, as if thou hadst not received it?

8 Now ye are full, [n] now ye are rich, ye have reigned as kings without us: and I would to God ye did reign, that we also might reign with you.

9 For I think that God hath set forth [o] us the apostles last, [p] as it were appointed to death: for [q] we are made a spectacle unto the world, and to angels, and to men.

10 We are [r] fools for Christ's sake, but ye are wise in Christ; [s] we are weak, but ye are strong; ye are honourable, but we are despised.

11 Even unto this present hour we both hunger, and thirst, and are naked, and [t] are buffeted, and have no certain dwellingplace;

12 And [u] labour, working with our own hands: [x] being reviled, we bless; being persecuted, we suffer it:

13 Being defamed, we intreat: we are made as the filth of the world, and are the offscouring of all things unto this day.

14 I write not these things to shame you, but as my beloved sons I warn you.

15 For though ye have ten thousand instructers in Christ, yet have ye not many fathers: for [a] in Christ Jesus I have begotten you through the gospel.

16 Wherefore I beseech you, [b] be ye followers of me.

17 For this cause have I sent unto you [c] Timotheus, who is my beloved son, and faithful in the Lord, who shall bring you into remembrance of my ways [d] which be in Christ, as I teach every where in every church.

18 Now some are puffed up, as though I would not come to you.

19 But [e] I will come to you shortly, if the Lord will, and will know, not the speech of them which are puffed up, but the power.

20 For [f] the kingdom of God is not in word, but in power.

21 What will ye? shall I come unto you with a rod, or in love, and in the spirit of meekness?

CHAP. V.

IT is reported commonly that there is fornication among you, and such fornication as is not so much as [c] named among the Gentiles, [d] that one should have his father's wife.

2 And [e] ye are puffed up, and have not rather [f] mourned, that he that hath done this deed might be taken away from among you.

3 For [g] I verily, as absent in body, but present in spirit, have [o] judged already, as though I were present, concerning him that hath so done this deed,

4 In the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, when ye are gathered together, and my spirit, [h] with the power of our Lord Jesus Christ,

5 To [i] deliver such an one unto Satan for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus.

6 Your [j] glorying is not good. Know ye not that [k] a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump?

7 Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even [l] Christ our passover is sacrificed for us:

8 Therefore [m] let us keep [§] the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.

9 I wrote unto you in an epistle [n] not to company with fornicators:

10 Yet not altogether with the fornicators of this world, or with the covetous, or extortioners, or with idolaters; for then must ye needs go [o] out of the world.

11 But now I have written unto you not to keep company, [p] if any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such an one no not to eat.

12 For what have I to do to judge [q] them also that are without? do not ye judge them that are within?

13 But them that are without God judgeth. Therefore put away from among yourselves that wicked person.

CHAP. VI.

DARE any of you, having a matter against another, go to law before the unjust, and not before the saints?

2 Do ye not know that [r] the saints shall judge the world? and if the world shall be judged by you, are ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters?

3 Know ye not that we shall [s] judge angels? how much more things that pertain to this life?

4 If then ye have judgments of things pertaining to this life, set them to judge who are least esteemed in the church.

5 I speak to your shame. Is it so, that there is not [t] a wise man among you? no, not one that shall be able to judge between his brethren?

6 But brother goeth to law with brother, and that before the unbelievers.

7 Now therefore there is utterly [u] a fault among you, because ye go to law one with another. [v] Why do ye not rather take wrong? why do ye not rather suffer yourselves to be defrauded?

8 Nay, ye do wrong, and defraud, [v] and that your brethren.

9 Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: [w] neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind,

10 Nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God.

11 And such were [x] some of you: [y] but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God.

12 All things are lawful unto me, but all things are not † expedient: all things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any.

13 Meats for the belly, and the belly for meats: but God shall destroy both it and them. Now the body is not for fornication, but [z] for the Lord; [a] and the Lord for the body.

14 And [b] God hath both raised up the Lord, and will also raise up us [c] by his own power.

15 Know ye not that [d] your bodies are the members of Christ? shall I then take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid.

16 What? know ye not that he which is joined to an harlot is one body? for [e] two, saith he, shall be one flesh.

17 But [f] he that is joined unto the Lord is one spirit.

18 Flee [g] fornication. Every sin that a man doeth is without the body; but he that committeth fornication sinneth [h] against his own body.

19 What? [i] know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, [k] and ye are not your own?

20 For [l] ye are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's.

CHAP. VII.

NOW concerning the things whereof ye wrote unto me: It is good for a man not to touch a woman.

2 Nevertheless, to avoid fornication, let every man have his own wife, and let every woman have her own husband.

3 Let [a] the husband render unto the wife due benevolence: and likewise also the wife unto the husband.

4 The wife hath not power of her own body, but the husband: and likewise also the husband hath not power of his own body, but the wife.

5 Defraud [b] ye not one the other, except it be with consent for a time, that ye may give yourselves to fasting and prayer; and come together again, that [c] Satan tempt you not for your incontinency.

6 But I speak this by permission, [d] and not of commandment.

7 For [e] I would that all men were [f] even as I myself. But [g] every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, and another after that.

8 I say therefore to the unmarried and widows, It is good for them if they abide even as I.

9 But [h] if they cannot contain, let them marry: for it is better to marry than to burn.

10 And unto the married I command, yet not I, but the Lord, [i] Let not the wife depart from her husband:

Digitized by Google

A. D. 59.

11 But and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband: and let not the husband put away his wife.

12 But to the rest speak I, not the Lord: If any brother hath a wife that believeth not, and she be pleased to dwell with him, let him not put her away.

13 And the woman which hath an husband that believeth not, and if he be pleased to dwell with her, let her not leave him.

14 For the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified by the husband: else [m] were your children unclean; but now are they holy.

15 But if the unbelieving depart, let him depart. A brother or a sister is not under bondage in such cases: but God hath called us [n] to [o] peace.

16 For what knowest thou, O wife, whether thou shalt [p] save thy husband? or [†] how knowest thou, O man, whether thou shalt save thy wife?

17 But as God hath distributed to every man, as the Lord hath called every one, so let him walk. And [q] so ordain I in all churches.

18 Is any man called being circumcised? let him not become uncircumcised. Is any called in uncircumcision? [r] let him not be circumcised.

19 Circumcision [t] is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing, but [u] the keeping of the commandments of God.

20 Let every man abide in the same calling wherein he was called.

21 Art thou called being a servant? care not for it: but if thou mayest be made free, use it rather.

22 For he that is called in the Lord, being a servant, is [x] the Lord's freeman: likewise also he that is called, being free, is [y] Christ's servant.

23 Ye [z] are bought with a price; be not ye the servants of men.

24 Brethren, let every man, wherein he is called, therein abide with God.

25 Now concerning virgins I have no commandment of the Lord: yet I give my judgment, as one [a] that hath obtained mercy of the Lord to be [b] faithful.

26 I suppose therefore that this is good for the present [‖] distress, I say, that it is good for a man so to be.

27 Art thou bound unto a wife? seek not to be loosed. Art thou loosed from a wife? seek not a wife.

28 But and if thou marry, thou hast not sinned; and if a virgin marry, she hath not sinned. Nevertheless such shall have trouble in the flesh: but I spare you.

29 But [c] this I say, brethren, the time is short: it remaineth, that both they that have wives be as though they had none;

30 And they that weep, as though they wept not; and they that rejoice, as though they rejoiced not; and they that buy, as though they possessed not;

31 And they that use this world, as not abusing it: for [d] the fashion of this world passeth away.

32 But I would have you without carefulness. [e] He that is unmarried careth for the things [‖] that belong to the Lord, how he may please the Lord:

33 But he that is married careth for the things that are of the world, how he may please his wife.

34 There is difference also between a wife and a virgin. The unmarried [m] woman careth for the things of the Lord, that she may be holy both in body and in spirit: but she that is married careth for the things of the world, how she may please her husband.

35 And this I speak for your own profit; not that I may cast a snare upon you, but for that which is comely, and that ye may attend upon the Lord without distraction.

36 But if any man think that he behaveth himself uncomely toward his virgin, if she pass the flower of her age, and need so require, let him do what he will, he sinneth not: let them marry.

37 Nevertheless he that standeth stedfast in his heart, having no necessity, but hath power over his own will, and hath so decreed in his heart that he will keep his virgin, doeth well.

38 So [e] then he that giveth her in marriage doeth well; but he that giveth her not in marriage doeth better.

39 The [x] wife is bound by the law as long as her husband liveth; but if her husband be dead, she is at liberty to be married to whom she will; only in the Lord.

40 But she is happier if she so abide, after my judgment: and [h] I think also that I have the Spirit of God.

CHAP. VIII.

NOW [h] as touching things offered unto idols, we know that we all have knowledge. [n] Knowledge puffeth up, but charity edifieth.

2 And [o] if any man think that he knoweth any thing, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know.

3 But if any man love God, [p] the same is known of him.

4 As concerning therefore the eating of those things that are offered in sacrifice unto idols, we know that [q] an idol is nothing in the world, [n] and that there is none other God but one.

5 For though there be that are [r] called gods, whether in heaven or in earth, (as there be gods many, and lords many,)

6 But [s] to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we [§] in him; and [n] one Lord Jesus Christ, [s] by whom are all things, and we by him.

7 Howbeit there is not in every man that knowledge: for some [d] with conscience of the idol unto this hour eat it as a thing offered unto an idol; and their conscience being weak is defiled.

8 But meat commendeth us not to God: for neither, if we eat, [e] are we the better; neither, if we eat not, [†] are we the worse.

9 But [t] take heed lest by any means this [‡] liberty of yours become a stumblingblock to them that are weak.

10 For if any man see thee which hast knowledge sit at meat in the idol's temple, shall not the conscience of him which is weak be [§] emboldened to eat those things which are offered to idols;

11 And through thy knowledge shall the weak brother perish, for whom Christ died?

12 But [u] when ye sin so against the brethren, and wound their weak conscience, ye sin against Christ.

13 Wherefore, [k] if meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no flesh while the world standeth, lest I make my brother to offend.

2 If I be not an apostle unto others, yet doubtless I am to you: for [a] the seal of mine apostleship are ye in the Lord.

3 Mine answer to them that do examine me is this,

4 Have we not power to eat and to drink?

5 Have we not power to lead about a sister, a [e] wife, as well as other apostles, and as [d] the brethren of the Lord, and [e] Cephas?

6 Or I only and Barnabas, have [f] not we power to forbear working?

7 Who goeth a warfare any time at his own charges? who [h] planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? or who [i] feedeth a flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock?

8 Say I these things as a man? or saith not the law the same also?

9 For it is written in the law of Moses, [m] Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn. Doth God take care for oxen?

10 Or saith he it altogether for our sakes? For our sakes, no doubt, this is written: that [p] he that ploweth should plow in hope; and that he that thresheth in hope should be partaker of his hope.

11 If [q] we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we shall reap your carnal things?

12 If others be partakers of this power over you, are not we rather? Nevertheless we have not used this power; but suffer all things, [r] lest we should hinder the gospel of Christ.

13 Do [s] ye not know that they which minister about holy things ‖ live of the things of the temple? and they which wait at the altar are partakers with the altar?

14 Even so hath the Lord ordained that [t] they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel.

15 But [u] I have used none of these things: neither have I written these things, that it should be so done unto me: for it were better for me to die, than that any man should make my glorying void.

16 For though I preach the gospel, I have nothing to glory of: for [x] necessity is laid upon me; yea, woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel!

17 For if I do this thing willingly, [y] I have a reward: but if against my will, [z] a dispensation of the gospel is committed unto me.

18 What is my reward then? Verily that, when I preach the gospel, I may make the gospel of Christ without charge, that I abuse not my power in the gospel.

19 For though I be free from all men, yet have I made myself servant unto all, that [a] I might gain the more.

20 And unto the Jews I became as a Jew, that I might gain the Jews; to them that are under the law, as under the law, that I might gain them that are under the law;

21 To [b] them that are without law, as without law, (not being not without law to God, but under the law to Christ,) that I might gain them that are without law.

22 To [c] the weak became I as weak, that I might gain the weak: I am made all things to all men, that I might by all means save some.

23 And this I do for the gospel's sake, that I might be partaker thereof with you.

24 Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? So run, that ye may obtain.

25 And every man that [d] striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things. Now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown; but we [e] an incorruptible.

26 I therefore so run, not as uncertainly; so fight I, not as one that beateth the air:

27 But I keep under my body, and bring it into subjection: lest that by any means, when I have preached to others, I myself should be [f] a castaway.

CHAP. X.

MOREOVER, brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that all our fathers were under [h] the cloud, and all passed through [i] the sea;

2 And were all baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea;

3 And did all eat the same [k] spiritual meat;

4 And did all drink the same [l] spiritual drink: for they drank of that spiritual Rock that [m] followed them: and that Rock was Christ.

5 But with many of them God was not well pleased: for they [n] were overthrown in the wilderness.

6 Now these things were our † examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as [o] they also lusted.

7 Neither be ye idolaters, as were some of them; as it is written, [p] The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.

8 Neither [q] let us commit fornication, as some of them committed, and [r] fell in one day three and twenty thousand.

9 Neither let us tempt Christ, as [s] some of them also tempted, and were destroyed of serpents.

10 Neither murmur ye, as [t] some of them also murmured, and were destroyed of [u] the destroyer.

11 Now all these things happened unto them for ‖ ensamples: and they are written for our admonition, [x] upon whom the ends of the world are come.

12 Wherefore [y] let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.

13 There hath no temptation taken you but [z] such as is common to man: but God is faithful, [a] who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also [b] make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it.

14 Wherefore, my dearly beloved, flee from idolatry.

15 I speak as to wise men; judge ye what I say.

16 The [c] cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ?

17 For [d] we being many are one bread, and one body: for we are all partakers of that one bread.

18 Behold [e] Israel after the flesh: [f] are not they which eat of the sacrifices partakers of the altar?

19 What say I then? [g] that the idol is any thing, or that which is offered in sacrifice to idols is any thing?

20 But I say, that the things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to devils, and not to God: and I would not that ye should have fellowship with devils.

21 Ye [h] cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and [i] the cup of devils: ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and of the table of devils.

22 Do we provoke the Lord to jealousy? [m] are we stronger than he?

23 All [b] things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but all things edify not.

24 Let [d] no man seek his own, but every man another's wealth.

25 Whatsoever [f] is sold in the shambles, that eat, asking no question for conscience sake:

26 For f the earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof.

27 If any of them that believe not bid you to a feast, and ye be disposed to go; [f] whatsoever is set before you, eat, asking no question for conscience sake.

28 But if any man say unto you, This is offered in sacrifice unto idols, eat not f for his sake that shewed it, and for conscience sake: for [m] the earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof:

29 Conscience, I say, not thine own, but of the other: for why is my liberty judged of another man's conscience?

30 For if I by [§] grace be a partaker, why am I evil spoken of for that [f] for which I give thanks?

31 Whether [f] therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God.

32 Give [t] none offence, neither to the Jews, nor to the [†] Gentiles, nor to [u] the church of God:

33 Even as I please all men in all things, not seeking mine own profit, but the profit of many, that they may be saved.

CHAP. XI.

BE [v] ye followers of me, even as I also am of Christ.

2 Now I praise you, brethren, that ye remember me in all things, and keep the [‖] ordinances, as I delivered them to you.

3 But I would have you know, that the [z] head of every man is Christ; and the [a] head of the woman is the man; and the [b] head of Christ is God.

4 Every man praying or prophesying, having his head covered, dishonoureth his head.

5 But [d] every woman that prayeth or prophesieth with her head uncovered dishonoureth her head: for that is even all one as if she were [e] shaven.

6 For if the woman be not covered, let her also be shorn: but if it be a shame for a woman to be shorn or shaven, let her be covered.

7 For a man indeed ought not to cover his head, forasmuch as [h] he is the image and glory of God: but the woman is the glory of the man.

8 For the man is not of the woman; but the woman of the man.

9 Neither was the man created for the woman; but the woman for the man.

10 For this cause ought the woman [k] to have [‡] power on her head because of the angels.

11 Nevertheless [m] neither is the man without the woman, neither the woman without the man, in the Lord.

12 For as the woman is of the man, even so is the man also by the woman; [f] but all things of God.

13 Judge in yourselves: is it comely that a woman pray unto God uncovered?

14 Doth not even nature itself teach you, that, if a man have long hair, it is a shame unto him?

15 But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her: for her hair is given her for a [‡] covering.

16 But [c] if any man seem to be contentious, we have no such custom, neither the churches of God.

17 Now in this that I declare unto you I praise you not, that ye come together not for the better, but for the worse.

18 For first of all, when ye come together in the church, [c] I hear that there be [†] divisions among you; and I partly believe it.

19 For [h] there must be also [‡] heresies among you, [i] that they which are approved may be made manifest among you.

20 When ye come together therefore into one place, [§] this is not to eat the Lord's supper.

21 For in eating every one taketh before other his own supper: and one is hungry, and [e] another is drunken.

22 What? have ye not houses to eat and to drink in? or despise ye [e] the church of God, and [f] shame them that [e] have not? What shall I say to you? shall I praise you in this? I praise you not.

23 For I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, [e] That the Lord Jesus the same night in which he was betrayed took bread:

24 And when he had given thanks, he brake it, and said, Take, eat: this is my body, which is broken for you: this do [‖] in remembrance of me.

25 After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood: this do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me.

26 For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, [§] ye do shew the Lord's death [v] till he come.

27 Wherefore [y] whosoever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord, unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord.

28 But [c] let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup.

29 For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh [*] damnation to himself, not discerning the Lord's body.

30 For this cause many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep.

31 For f if we would judge ourselves, we should not be judged.

32 But when we are judged, [t] we are chastened of the Lord, that we should not be condemned with the world.

33 Wherefore, my brethren, when ye come together to eat, tarry one for another.

34 And if any man hunger, let him eat at home; that ye come not together unto [†] condemnation. And the rest [c] will I set in order when I come.

CHAP. XII.

NOW [i] concerning spiritual gifts, brethren, I would not have you ignorant.

2 Ye know that ye were Gentiles, carried away unto these [e] dumb idols, even as ye were led.

3 Wherefore I give you to understand, [r] that no man speaking by the Spirit of God calleth Jesus [§] accursed: and [e] that no man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost.

4 Now [a] there are diversities of gifts, but [b] the same Spirit.

5 And [c] there are differences of [†] administrations, but the same Lord.

6 And there are diversities of operations, but it is the same God [d] which worketh all in all.

7 But [e] the manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal.

8 For to one is given by the Spirit [f] the word of wisdom; to another [h] the word of knowledge by the same Spirit;

9 To [i] another faith by the same Spirit; to another [l] the gifts of healing by the same Spirit;

10 To [m] another the working of miracles; to another prophecy; [n] to another discerning of spirits; to another [p] divers kinds of tongues; to another the interpretation of tongues:

11 But all these worketh that one and the selfsame Spirit, [q] dividing to every man severally as he will.

12 For [r] as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of that one body, being many, are one body: [s] so also is Christ.

13 For [t] by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or ‖ Gentiles, whether we be bond or free; and [u] have been all made to drink into one Spirit.

14 For the body is not one member, but many.

15 If the foot shall say, Because I am not the hand, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?

16 And if the ear shall say, Because I am not the eye, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?

17 If the whole body were an eye, where were the hearing? If the whole were hearing, where were the smelling?

18 But now hath God set the members every one of them in the body, as it hath pleased him.

19 And if they were all one member, where were the body?

20 But now are they many members, yet but one body.

21 And the eye cannot say unto the hand, I have no need of thee: nor again the head to the feet, I have no need of you.

22 Nay, much more those members of the body, which seem to be more feeble, are necessary:

23 And those members of the body, which we think to be less honourable, upon these we [‡] bestow more abundant honour; and our uncomely parts have more abundant comeliness.

24 For our comely parts have no need: but God hath tempered the body together, having given more abundant honour to that part which lacked:

25 That there should be no ‖ schism in the body; but that the members should have the same care one for another.

26 And whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it; or one member be honoured, all the members rejoice with it.

27 Now [l] ye are the body of Christ, and [m] members in particular.

28 And God hath set some in the church, first [n] apostles, secondarily [p] prophets, thirdly teachers, after that [r] miracles, then [s] gifts of healings, [t] helps, [u] governments, [v] diversities of tongues.

29 Are all apostles? are all prophets? are all teachers? are all [v] workers of miracles?

30 Have all the gifts of healing? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret?

31 But [d] covet earnestly the best gifts: and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way.

CHAP. XIII.

THOUGH I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal.

2 And though I have the gift of [k] prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, [a] so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing.

3 And [r] though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing.

4 Charity [t] suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity [‡] vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up,

5 Doth not behave itself unseemly, [v] seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil;

6 Rejoiceth [a] not in iniquity, but [a] rejoiceth [§] in the truth;

7 Beareth [b] all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

8 Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away.

9 For [d] we know in part, and we prophesy in part.

10 But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away.

11 When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I [e] thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things.

12 For [e] now we see through a glass, [†] darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known.

13 And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.

CHAP. XIV.

FOLLOW after charity, and [f] desire spiritual gifts, [h] but rather that ye may prophesy.

2 For he that [i] speaketh in an unknown tongue speaketh not unto men, but unto God: for no man [§] understandeth him; howbeit in the spirit he speaketh mysteries.

3 But he that prophesieth speaketh unto men to [k] edification, and exhortation, and comfort.

4 He that speaketh in an unknown tongue edifieth himself; but he that prophesieth edifieth the church.

5 I would that ye all spake with tongues, but rather that ye prophesied: for greater is he that prophesieth than he that speaketh with tongues, except he interpret, that the church may receive edifying.

6 Now, brethren, if I come unto you speaking with tongues, what shall I profit you, except I shall speak to you either by [a] revelation, or by knowledge, or by prophesying, or by doctrine?

7 And even things without life giving sound, whether pipe or harp, except they give a distinction in the [†] sounds, how shall it be known what is piped or harped?

8 For [a] if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?

9 So likewise ye, except ye utter by the tongue words [b] easy to be understood, how shall it be known what is spoken? for ye shall speak into the air.

10 There are, it may be, so many kinds of voices in the world, and none of them is without signification.

11 Therefore if I know not the meaning of the voice, I shall be unto him that speaketh a barbarian, and he that speaketh shall be a barbarian unto me.

12 Even so ye, forasmuch as ye are zealous of [‡] spiritual gifts, seek that ye may excel to the edifying of the church.

13 Wherefore let him that speaketh in an unknown tongue pray that he may interpret.

14 For if I pray in an unknown tongue, my spirit prayeth, but my understanding is unfruitful.

15 What is it then? I will pray with the spirit, and I will pray with the understanding also: [c] I will sing with the spirit, and I will sing [d] with the understanding also.

16 Else when thou shalt bless with the spirit, how shall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned say Amen [e] at thy giving of thanks, seeing he understandeth not what thou sayest?

17 For thou verily givest thanks well, but the other is not edified.

18 I thank my God, I speak with tongues more than ye all:

19 Yet in the church I had rather speak five words with my understanding, that by my voice I might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue.

20 Brethren, [f] be not children in understanding: howbeit in malice [g] be ye children, but in understanding be [h] men.

21 In the law it is [i] written, With men of other tongues and other lips will I speak unto this people; and yet for all that will they not hear me, saith the Lord.

22 Wherefore tongues are for a sign, not to them that believe, but to them that believe not: but prophesying serveth not for them that believe not, but for them which believe.

23 If therefore the whole church be come together into one place, and all speak with tongues, and there come in those that are unlearned, or unbelievers, [k] will they not say that ye are mad?

24 But if all prophesy, and there come in one that believeth not, or one unlearned, he is convinced of all, he is judged of all:

25 And thus are the secrets of his heart made manifest; and so falling down on his face he will worship God, and report that [l] God is in you of a truth.

26 How is it then, brethren? when ye come together, every one of you hath a psalm, [m] hath a doctrine, hath a tongue, hath a revelation, hath an interpretation. [n] Let all things be done unto edifying.

27 If any man speak in an unknown tongue, let it be by two, or at the most by three, and that by course; and let one interpret.

28 But if there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the church; and let him speak to himself, and to God.

29 Let the prophets speak two or three, and let the other judge.

[k] Ac. 2. 24, 32. 4. 10, 33. 13. 30.

30 If any thing be revealed to another that sitteth by, [i] let the first hold his peace.

31 For ye may all prophesy one by one, that all may learn, and all may be comforted.

32 And [k] the spirits of the prophets are subject to the prophets.

33 For God is not the author of † confusion, but of peace, [l] as in all churches of the saints.

34 Let [m] your women keep silence in the churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak; but [n] they are commanded to be under obedience, as also saith the [o] law.

35 And if they will learn any thing, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is a shame for women to speak in the church.

36 What? came the word of God out from you? or came it unto you only?

37 If [p] any man think himself to be a prophet, or spiritual, let him acknowledge that the things that I write unto you are the commandments of the Lord.

38 But if any man be ignorant, let him be ignorant.

39 Wherefore, brethren, [q] covet to prophesy, and forbid not to speak with tongues.

40 Let [r] all things be done decently and in order.

CHAP. XV.

MOREOVER, brethren, I declare unto you the gospel which I preached unto you, which also ye have received, and [s] wherein ye stand;

2 By which also ye are saved, if ye § keep in memory what I preached unto you, unless [t] ye have believed in vain.

3 For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins [u] according to the scriptures;

4 And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day [v] according to the scriptures:

5 And [w] that he was seen of Cephas, then [x] of the twelve:

6 After that, he was seen of above five hundred brethren at once; of whom the greater part remain unto this present, but some are fallen asleep.

7 After that, he was seen of James; then [y] of all the apostles.

8 And [z] last of all he was seen of me also, as of † one born out of due time.

9 For I am [a] the least of the apostles, that am not meet to be called an apostle, because [b] I persecuted the church of God.

10 But by the grace of God I am what I am: and his grace which was bestowed upon me was not in vain; but I laboured more abundantly than they all: [c] yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me.

11 Therefore whether it were I or they, so we preach, and so ye believed.

12 Now if Christ be preached that he rose from the dead, how say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead?

13 But if there be no resurrection of the dead, [d] then is Christ not risen:

14 And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain.

15 Yea, and we are found false witnesses of God; because [e] we have testified of God that he raised up Christ: whom he raised not up, if so be that the dead rise not.

16 For if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised:

Digitized by Google

17 And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; [a] ye are yet in your sins.

18 Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished.

19 If [b] in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable.

20 But now [c] is Christ risen from the dead, and become [d] the firstfruits of them that slept.

21 For [e] since by man came death, [f] by man came also the resurrection of the dead.

22 For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.

23 But every [g] man in his own order: Christ the firstfruits; afterward they that are Christ's at his coming.

24 Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up [r] the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have put down all rule and all authority and power.

25 For he must reign, [i] till he hath put all enemies under his feet.

26 The [k] last enemy that shall be destroyed is death.

27 For he [l] hath put all things under his feet. But when he saith, All things are put under him, it is manifest that he is excepted, which did put all things under him.

28 And [m] when all things shall be subdued unto him, then [n] shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all.

29 Else what shall they do which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? why are they then baptized for the dead?

30 And why stand we in jeopardy every hour?

31 I protest by † your rejoicing which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord, [o] I die daily.

32 If † after the manner of men [p] I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me, if the dead rise not? [q] let us eat and drink; for to morrow we die.

33 Be not deceived: [r] evil communications corrupt good manners.

34 Awake to righteousness, and sin not; for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame.

35 But some man will say, [s] How are the dead raised up? and with what body do they come?

36 Thou fool, [t] that which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die:

37 And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat, or of some other grain:

38 But God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body.

39 All flesh is not the same flesh: but there is one kind of flesh of men, another flesh of beasts, another of fishes, and another of birds.

40 There are also celestial bodies, and bodies terrestrial: but the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestrial is another.

41 There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars: for one star differeth from another star in glory.

42 So [u] also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption:

43 It is sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness; it is raised in power:

44 It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body.

45 And so it is written, The first man Adam [u] was made a living soul; [x] the last Adam was made [y] a quickening spirit.

46 Howbeit that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; and afterward that which is spiritual.

47 The [z] first man is of the earth, earthy: the second man is [a] the Lord from heaven.

48 As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy: [b] and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly.

49 And [c] as we have borne the image of the earthy, [d] we shall also bear the image of the heavenly.

50 Now this I say, brethren, that [e] flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.

51 Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, [f] but we shall all be changed, 52 In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: [g] for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.

53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and [h] this mortal must put on immortality.

54 So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, [i] Death is swallowed up in victory.

55 O [k] death, where is thy sting? O [l] grave, where is thy victory?

56 The sting of death is sin; and [m] the strength of sin is the law.

57 But [n] thanks be to God, which giveth us [o] the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

58 Therefore, [p] my beloved brethren, be ye stedfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know [q] that your labour is not in vain in the Lord.

CHAP. XVI.

NOW concerning [r] the collection for the saints, as I have given order to the churches of Galatia, even so do ye.

2 Upon [s] the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come.

3 And when I come, [t] whomsoever ye shall approve by your letters, them will I send to bring your § liberality unto Jerusalem.

4 And if it be meet that I go also, they shall go with me.

5 Now I will come unto you, [u] when I shall pass through Macedonia: for I do pass through Macedonia.

6 And it may be that I will abide, yea, and winter with you, that ye may bring me on my journey whithersoever I go.

7 For I will not see you now by the way; but I trust to tarry a while with you, if the Lord permit.

8 But I will tarry at Ephesus until Pentecost.

9 For a great door and effectual is opened unto me, and there are many adversaries.

10 Now if Timotheus come, see that he may be with you without fear: [w] for he worketh the work of the Lord, as I also do.

11 Let [a] no man therefore despise him: but conduct him forth [b] in peace, that he may come unto me: for I look for him with the brethren.

12 As touching our brother Apollos, I greatly desired him to come unto you with the brethren: but his will was not at all to come at this time; but he will come when he shall have convenient time.

13 Watch [c] ye, [f] stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, [g] be strong.

14 Let all your things be done with charity.

15 I beseech you, brethren, (ye know the house of Stephanas, that it is the firstfruits of Achaia, and that they have addicted themselves to the ministry of the saints,)

¶ The first epistle to the Corinthians was written from Philippi by Stephanas, and Fortunatus, and Achaicus, and Timotheus.

The Second Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the CORINTHIANS.

Written to confirm the Christians at Corinth, and vindicate his own character.

CHAP. I.

PAUL, [a] an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, and Timothy our brother, unto the church of God which is at Corinth, with all the saints which are in all Achaia:

2 Grace [d] be to you and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 Blessed [f] be God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies, and the God of all comfort;

4 Who comforteth us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort them which are in any trouble by the comfort, wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God.

5 For as [i] the sufferings of Christ abound in us, so our consolation also aboundeth by Christ.

6 And whether we be afflicted, [l] it is for your consolation and salvation, which is effectual in the enduring of the same sufferings which we also suffer: or whether we be comforted, it is for your consolation and salvation.

7 And our hope of you is stedfast, knowing, that [s] as ye are partakers of the sufferings, so shall ye be also of the consolation.

8 For we would not, brethren, have you ignorant of [t] our trouble which came to us in Asia, that we were pressed out of measure, above strength, insomuch that we despaired even of life:

9 But we had the [u] sentence of death in ourselves, that we should [v] not trust in ourselves, but in God which raiseth the dead:

10 Who [y] delivered us from so great a death, and doth deliver: in whom we trust that he will yet deliver us;

11 Ye also [z] helping together by prayer for us, that for the gift bestowed upon us by the means of many persons thanks may be given by many on our behalf.

12 For our rejoicing is this, the testimony of our conscience, that in simplicity and [a] godly sincerity, [d] not with fleshly wisdom, but by the grace of God, we have had our conversation in the world, and more abundantly to you-ward.

13 For we write none other things unto you, than what ye read or acknowledge; and I trust ye shall acknowledge even to the end;

14 As also ye have acknowledged us in part, [b] that we are your rejoicing, even as [c] ye also are our's in the day of the Lord Jesus.

15 And in this confidence [e] I was minded to come unto you before, that ye might have [f] a second [g] benefit;

16 And to pass by you into Macedonia, and [h] to come again out of Macedonia unto you, and of you to be brought on my way toward Judæa.

17 When I therefore was thus minded, did I use lightness? or the things that I purpose, do I purpose [k] according to the flesh, that with me there should be yea yea, and nay nay?

18 But as God is true, our [t] word toward you was not yea and nay.

19 For the Son of God, Jesus Christ, who was preached among you by us, even by me and Silvanus and Timotheus, was not yea and nay, [m] but in him was yea.

20 For [n] all the promises of God in him are yea, and in him Amen, unto the glory of God by us.

21 Now he which stablisheth us with you in Christ, and [r] hath anointed us, is God;

22 Who [s] hath also sealed us, and given [t] the earnest of the Spirit in our hearts.

23 Moreover I call God for a record upon my soul, [u] that to spare you I came not as yet unto Corinth.

24 Not for [x] that we have dominion over your faith, but are helpers of your joy: for [y] by faith ye stand.

CHAP. II.

BUT I determined this with myself, [b] that I would not come again to you in heaviness.

2 For if I make you sorry, who is he then that maketh me glad, but the same which is made sorry by me?

3 And I wrote this same unto you, lest, when I came, I should have sorrow from them of whom I ought to rejoice; [c] having confidence in you all, that my joy is the joy of you all.

A. D. 60.

4 For out of much affliction and anguish of heart I wrote unto you with many tears; [a] not that ye should be grieved, but that ye might know the love which I have more abundantly unto you.

5 But [b] if any have caused grief, he hath not [c] grieved me, but in part: that I may not overcharge you all.

6 Sufficient to such a man is this [†]punishment, which was inflicted [d] of many.

7 So I that contrariwise ye ought rather to forgive him, and comfort him, lest perhaps such a one should be swallowed up with overmuch sorrow.

8 Wherefore I beseech you that ye would confirm your love toward him.

9 For to this end also did I write, that I might know the proof of you, whether ye be [e] obedient in all things.

10 To whom ye forgive any thing, I forgive also: for if I forgave any thing, to whom I forgave it, for your sakes forgave I it in the [‡]person of Christ;

11 Lest Satan should get an advantage of us: for we are not ignorant of his devices.

12 Furthermore, [m] when I came to Troas to preach Christ's gospel, and [n] a door was opened unto me of the Lord,

13 I had no rest in my spirit, because I found not Titus my brother: but taking my leave of them, I went from thence into Macedonia.

14 Now thanks be unto God, which always causeth us to triumph in Christ, and maketh manifest [p] the savour of his knowledge by us in every place.

15 For we are unto God a sweet savour of Christ, [r] in them that are saved, and in them that perish:

16 To [s] the one we are the savour of death unto death; and to the other the savour of life unto life. And [t] who is sufficient for these things?

17 For we are not as many, which [u] corrupt [v] the word of God: but as of sincerity, but as of God, in the sight of God speak we [†] in Christ.

CHAP. III.

DO we begin again to commend ourselves? or need we, as some others, [a] epistles of commendation to you, or letters of commendation from you?

2 Ye [d] are our epistle written in our hearts, known and read of all men:

3 Forasmuch as ye are manifestly declared to be the epistle of Christ [e] ministered by us, written not with ink, but with the Spirit of the living God; not in tables of stone, but [h] in fleshy tables of the heart.

4 And such trust have we through Christ to God-ward:

5 Not [i] that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but [m] our sufficiency is of God;

6 Who also hath made us able ministers of [n] the new testament; not [p] of the letter, but of the spirit: for [r] the letter killeth, but [s] the spirit ‖ giveth life.

7 But if the ministration of death, [u] written and engraven in stones, was glorious, [v] so that the children of Israel could not stedfastly behold the face of Moses for the glory of his countenance; which glory was to be done away:

8 How shall not the ministration of the spirit be rather glorious?

9 For [y] if the ministration of condemnation be glory, much more doth the ministration of righteousness exceed in glory.

10 For even that which was made glorious had no glory in this respect, by reason of the glory that excelleth.

11 For if that which is done away was glorious, much more that which remaineth is glorious.

12 Seeing then that we have such hope, we use great [*] plainness of speech:

13 And not as Moses, which put a vail over his face, that the children of Israel could not stedfastly look to [a] the end of that which is abolished:

14 But [b] their minds were blinded: for until this day remaineth the same vail untaken away in the reading of the old testament; which vail is done away in Christ.

15 But even unto this day, when Moses is read, the vail is upon their heart.

16 Nevertheless [c] when it shall turn to the Lord, [d] the vail shall be taken away.

17 Now the Lord is that Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.

18 But we all, with open face beholding [f] as in a glass the glory of the Lord, [m] are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as [§] by the Spirit of the Lord.

CHAP. IV.

THEREFORE seeing we have this ministry, as we have received mercy, we faint not;

2 But have renounced the hidden things of [‖] dishonesty, not walking in craftiness, nor handling the word of God deceitfully; but by manifestation of the truth commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God.

3 But if our gospel be hid, [r] it is hid to them that are lost:

4 In whom [t] the god of this world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, [x] who is the image of God, should shine unto them.

5 For we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord; and ourselves your servants for Jesus' sake.

6 For God, [z] who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, [a] hath [b] shined in our hearts, to give [b] the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

7 But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, [c] that the excellency of the power may be of God, and not of us.

8 We are [f] troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not [§] in despair;

9 Persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed;

10 Always [i] bearing about in the body the dying of the Lord Jesus, [k] that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our body.

11 For we which live [m] are alway delivered unto death for Jesus' sake, that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our mortal flesh.

12 So then [t] death worketh in us, but life in you.

13 We having the same spirit of faith, according as it is written, [x] I believed, and therefore have I spoken; we also believe, and therefore speak;

14 Knowing that [y] he which raised up the Lord Jesus shall raise up us also by Jesus, and shall present us with you.

15 For all things are for your sakes, that [z] the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God.

16 For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet [b] the inward man is renewed day by day.

17 For [c] our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory;

18 While [d] we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal.

CHAP. V.

FOR we know that if [e] our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

2 For in this [f] we groan, earnestly desiring to be clothed upon with our house which is from heaven:

3 If so be that [g] being clothed we shall not be found naked.

4 For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but [h] clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life.

5 Now [i] he that hath wrought us for the selfsame thing is God, who also [k] hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit.

6 Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord:

7 (For [l] we walk by faith, not by sight:)

8 We are confident, I say, and [m] willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord.

9 Wherefore we [n] labour, that, whether present or absent, we may be accepted of him.

10 For [o] we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; [p] that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad.

11 Knowing therefore [q] the terror of the Lord, we persuade men; but we are made manifest unto God; and I trust also are made manifest in your consciences.

12 For we commend not ourselves again unto you, but give you occasion to glory on our behalf, that ye may have somewhat to answer them which glory ‖ in appearance, and not in heart.

13 For whether we be beside ourselves, it is to God: or whether we be sober, it is for your cause.

14 For the love of Christ constraineth us; because we thus judge, that [s] if one died for all, then were all dead:

15 And that he died for all, [t] that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto him which died for them, and rose again.

16 Wherefore [u] henceforth know we no man after the flesh: yea, though we have known Christ after the flesh, [v] yet now henceforth know we him no more.

17 Therefore if any man be in Christ, [w] he is [x] a new creature: [y] old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.

18 And all things are of God, [z] who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation;

19 To wit, that [a] God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them; and hath [b] committed unto us the word of reconciliation.

21 For [d] he hath made him to be sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made [f] the righteousness of God in him.

CHAP. VI.

WE then, as workers together with him, beseech you also [g] that ye receive not the grace of God in vain.

2 (For he saith, [h] I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succoured thee: behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.)

3 Giving no offence in any thing, that the ministry be not blamed:

4 But in all things [i] approving ourselves as the ministers of God, in much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses,

5 In [k] stripes, in imprisonments, [l] in tumults, in labours, in watchings, in fastings;

6 By pureness, by knowledge, by long-suffering, by kindness, by the Holy Ghost, by love unfeigned,

7 By the word of truth, by the [m] power of God, by [n] the armour of righteousness on the right hand and on the left,

8 By honour and dishonour, by evil report and good report: as deceivers, and yet true;

9 As unknown, and yet well known; [o] as dying, and, behold, we live; [p] as chastened, and not killed;

10 As sorrowful, yet alway rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things.

11 O ye Corinthians, our mouth is open unto you, [q] our heart is enlarged.

12 Ye are not straitened in us, but [r] ye are straitened in your own bowels.

13 Now for a recompence in the same, (I speak as unto my children,) be ye also enlarged.

14 Be [s] ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for [t] what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?

15 And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel?

16 And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for [u] ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, [v] I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

17 Wherefore [x] come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you,

18 And [y] will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty.

CHAP. VII.

HAVING [z] therefore these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God.

2 Receive us; we have wronged no man, we have corrupted no man, [a] we have defrauded no man.

3 I speak not this to condemn you: for [b] I have said before, that ye are in our hearts to die and live with you.

4 Great is my boldness of speech toward you, great is my glorying of you: I am filled with comfort, [h] I am exceeding joyful in all our tribulation.

5 For, when we were come into Macedonia, our flesh had no rest, but we were troubled on every side; [c] without were fightings, within were fears.

6 Nevertheless God, that comforteth those that are cast down, comforted us by [d] the coming of Titus;

7 And not by his coming only, but by the consolation wherewith he was comforted in you, when he told us your earnest desire, your mourning, your fervent mind toward me; so that I rejoiced the more.

8 For though I made you sorry with a letter, I do not repent, [h] though I did repent: for I perceive that the same epistle hath made you sorry, though it were but for a season.

9 Now I rejoice, not that ye were made sorry, but that ye sorrowed to repentance: for ye were made sorry † after a godly manner, that ye might receive damage by us in nothing.

10 For [m] godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of: but [n] the sorrow of the world worketh death.

11 For behold this selfsame thing, [p] that ye sorrowed after a godly sort, what [r] carefulness it wrought in you, yea, what [s] clearing of yourselves, yea, what [t] indignation, yea, what [u] fear, yea, what [v] vehement desire, yea, what [w] zeal, yea, what [x] revenge! In all things ye have approved yourselves to be clear in this matter.

12 Wherefore, though I wrote unto you, I did it not for his cause that had done the wrong, nor for his cause that suffered wrong, [y] but that our care for you in the sight of God might appear unto you.

13 Therefore we were comforted in your comfort: yea, and exceedingly the more joyed we for the joy of Titus, because his spirit was refreshed by you all.

14 For if I have boasted any thing to him of you, I am not ashamed; but as we spake all things to you in truth, even so our boasting, which I made before Titus, is found a truth.

15 And his ‖ inward affection is more abundant toward you, whilst he remembereth † the obedience of you all, how with fear and trembling ye received him.

16 I rejoice therefore that [h] I have confidence in you in all things.

CHAP. VIII.

MOREOVER, brethren, we do you to wit of the grace of God bestowed on the churches of Macedonia;

2 How that in a great trial of affliction the abundance of their joy and [m] their deep poverty abounded unto the riches of their [b] liberality.

3 For to their power, I bear record, yea, and beyond their power they were willing of themselves;

4 Praying us with much intreaty that we would receive the gift, and take upon us [r] the fellowship of the ministering to the saints.

5 And this they did, not as we hoped, but first [n] gave their own selves to the Lord, and unto us by the will of God.

6 Insomuch that [v] we desired Titus, that as he had begun, so he would also ‖ finish in you the same † grace also.

7 Therefore, as [a] ye abound in every thing, in faith, and utterance, and knowledge, and in all diligence, and in your love to us, see [a] that ye abound in this grace also.

8 I [d] speak not by commandment, but by occasion of the forwardness of others, and to prove the sincerity of your love.

9 For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, f that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich.

10 And herein [h] I give my advice: for [i] this is expedient for you, who have begun before, not only to do, but also to be [k] forward j a year ago.

11 Now therefore perform the doing of it; that as there was a readiness to will, so there may be a performance also out of that which ye have.

12 For [l] if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not.

13 For I mean not [m] that other men be eased, and ye burdened:

14 But by an equality, that now at this time your abundance may be a supply for their want, that their abundance also may be a supply for your want: that there may be equality:

15 As it is written, [o] He that had gathered much had nothing over; and he that had gathered little had no lack.

16 But [w] thanks be to God, which put the same earnest care into the heart of Titus for you.

17 For indeed he accepted [e] the exhortation; but being more forward, of his own accord he went unto you.

18 And we have sent with him [b] the brother, whose praise is in the gospel throughout all the churches;

19 And not that only, but who was also [d] chosen of the churches to travel with us with this † grace, which is administered by us [f] to the glory of the same Lord, and declaration of your ready mind:

20 Avoiding this, [g] that no man should blame us in this abundance which is administered by us:

21 Providing [h] for honest things, not only in the sight of the Lord, but also in the sight of men.

22 And we have sent with them our brother, whom we have oftentimes proved diligent in many things, but now much more diligent, upon the great confidence which I have in you.

23 Whether any do enquire of Titus, he is my partner and fellowhelper concerning you: or our brethren be enquired of, they are [l] the messengers of the churches, and the glory of Christ.

24 Wherefore shew ye to them, and before the churches, the proof of your love, and of our [n] boasting on your behalf.

CHAP. IX.

FOR as touching [o] the ministering to the saints, it is superfluous for me to write to you:

2 For I know [p] the forwardness of your mind, [q] for which I boast of you to them of Macedonia, that [r] Achaia was ready a year ago; and your zeal hath provoked very many.

3 Yet have I sent the brethren, lest our boasting of you should be in vain in this behalf; that, as I said, ye may be ready:

4 Lest haply if they of Macedonia come

Digitized by Google

with me, and find you unprepared, we (that we say not, ye) should be ashamed in this same confident boasting.

5 Therefore I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren, that they would go before unto you, and make up beforehand your † bounty, ‡ whereof ye had notice before, that the same might be ready, as a matter of bounty, and not as of covetousness.

6 But [d] I say, He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully.

7 Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; [e] not grudgingly, or of necessity: for [f] God loveth a cheerful giver.

8 And [g] God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work:

9 (As it is written, [h] He hath dispersed abroad; he hath given to the poor: his righteousness remaineth for ever.

10 Now he that [i] ministereth seed to the sower both minister bread for your food, and multiply your seed sown, and increase the fruits of your righteousness;)

11 Being enriched in every thing to all ‡ bountifulness, [l] which causeth through us thanksgiving to God.

12 For the administration of this service not only supplieth the want of the saints, but is abundant also by many thanksgivings unto God;

13 Whiles by the experiment of this ministration they [m] glorify God for your professed subjection unto the gospel of Christ, and for your liberal [n] distribution unto them, and unto all men;

14 And by their prayer for you, which long after you for the exceeding [o] grace of God in you.

15 Thanks be unto God [p] for his unspeakable gift.

CHAP. X.

NOW [a] I Paul myself beseech you by the meekness and gentleness of Christ, who in ‖ presence am base among you, but being absent am bold toward you:

2 But I beseech you, that I may not be bold when I am present with that confidence, wherewith I think to be bold against some, which † think of us as if we walked according to the flesh.

3 For though we walk in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh:

4 (For [f] the weapons [g] of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty † through God [h] to the pulling down of strong holds;)

5 Casting [i] down §imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ;

6 And [l] having in a readiness to revenge all disobedience, when your obedience is fulfilled.

7 Do [m] ye look on things after the outward appearance? If [n] any man trust to himself that he is Christ's, let him of himself think this again, that, as he is Christ's, even so are [r] we Christ's.

8 For though I should boast somewhat more of our authority, which the Lord hath given us for edification, and not for your destruction, I should not be ashamed:

9 That I may not seem as if I would terrify you by letters.

WOULD to God ye could bear with me a little in my folly: and indeed § bear with me.

2 For I am [s] jealous over you with godly jealousy: for [t] I have espoused you to one husband, [u] that I may present you [v] as a chaste virgin to Christ.

3 But I fear, lest by any means, as [x] the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtilty, so your minds [y] should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ.

4 For if he that cometh preacheth another Jesus, whom we have not preached, or if ye receive another spirit, which ye have not received, or [z] another gospel, which ye have not accepted, ye might well bear with [a] him.

5 For I suppose [d] I was not a whit behind the very chiefest apostles.

6 But though I be rude in speech, yet not [e] in knowledge; but we have been throughly made manifest among you in all things.

7 Have I committed an offence [i] in abasing myself that ye might be exalted, because I have preached to you the gospel of God freely?

8 I robbed other churches, taking wages of them, to do you service.

9 And when I was present with you, and wanted, [m] I was chargeable to no man: for that which was lacking to me [e] the brethren which came from Macedonia supplied: and in all things I have kept myself from being burdensome unto you, and so will I keep myself.

10 As [e] the truth of Christ is in me, no man shall stop me of this boasting in the regions of Achaia.

11 Wherefore? because I love you not? God knoweth.

12 But what I do, that I will do, that I may cut off occasion from them which desire occasion: that wherein they glory, they may be found even as we.

13 For such [a] are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ.

14 And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into [c] an angel of light.

15 Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as [c] the ministers of righteousness; [f] whose end shall be according to their works.

16 I [h] say again, Let no man think me a fool; if otherwise, yet as a fool [i] receive me, that I may boast myself a little.

17 That which I speak, [k] I speak it not after the Lord, but as it were foolishly, in this confidence of boasting.

18 Seeing [l] that many glory after the flesh, I will glory also.

19 For ye suffer fools gladly, [m] seeing ye yourselves are wise.

20 For ye suffer, [n] if a man bring you into bondage, if a man devour you, if a man take of you, if a man exalt himself, if a man smite you on the face.

21 I speak as concerning reproach, [r] as though we had been weak. Howbeit [s] whereinsoever any is bold, (I speak foolishly,) I am bold also.

22 Are they Hebrews? [t] so am I. Are they Israelites? so am I. Are they the seed of Abraham? so am I.

23 Are they ministers of Christ? (I speak as a fool) I am more; [x] in labours more abundant, in stripes above measure, in prisons more frequent, [y] in deaths oft.

24 Of the Jews five times received I [z] forty stripes save one.

25 Thrice was I [a] beaten with rods, [b] once was I stoned, thrice I [c] suffered shipwreck, a night and a day I have been in the deep;

26 In journeyings often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, [d] in perils by mine own countrymen, [e] in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren;

27 In weariness and painfulness, [m] in watchings often, [n] in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness.

28 Beside those things that are without, that which cometh upon me daily, [o] the care of all the churches.

29 Who [p] is weak, and I am not weak? who is offended, and I burn not?

30 If I must needs glory, [r] I will glory of the things which concern mine infirmities.

31 The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, [s] which is blessed for evermore, knoweth that I lie not.

32 In [t] Damascus the governor under Aretas the king kept the city of the Damascenes with a garrison, desirous to apprehend me:

33 And through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall, and escaped his hands.

CHAP. XII.

IT is not expedient for me doubtless to glory. § I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord.

2 I knew a man [a] in Christ above fourteen years ago, (whether in the body, I cannot tell; or whether out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;) such an one [b] caught up to the third heaven.

3 And I [d] knew such a man, (whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;)

4 How that he was caught up into [a] paradise, and heard unspeakable words, which it is not [b] lawful for a man to utter.

5 Of such an one will I glory: [d] yet of myself I will not glory, but in mine infirmities.

6 For [g] though I would desire to glory, I shall not be a fool; for I will say the truth: but now I forbear, lest any man should think of me above that which he seeth me to be, or that he heareth of me.

7 And lest I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a [i] thorn in the flesh, [m] the messenger of Satan to buffet me, lest I should be exalted above measure.

8 For [p] this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me.

9 And he said unto me, [q] My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore [r] will I rather glory in my infirmities, [s] that the power of Christ may rest upon me.

10 Therefore [w] I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ's sake: for when I am weak, then am I strong.

11 I am become a fool in glorying; ye have compelled me: for I ought to have been commended of you: for [t] in nothing am I behind the very chiefest apostles, though [k] I be nothing.

12 Truly [l] the signs of an apostle were wrought among you in all patience, in signs, and wonders, and mighty deeds.

13 For [g] what is it wherein you were inferior to other churches, except it be that I myself was not burdensome to you? forgive me this wrong.

14 Behold, [z] the third time I am ready to come to you; and I will not be burdensome to you: for [t] I seek not yours, but you: [u] for the children ought not to lay up for the parents, but the parents for the children.

15 And [p] I will very gladly spend and be spent [r] for you; though the more abundantly I love you, the less I be loved.

16 But be it so, [s] I did not burden you: nevertheless, being crafty, I caught you with guile.

17 Did I make a gain of you by any of them whom I sent unto you?

18 I desired Titus, and with him I sent a brother. Did Titus make a gain of you? walked we not in the same spirit? walked we not in the same steps?

19 Again, think ye that we excuse ourselves unto you? [r] we speak before God in Christ: [s] but we do all things, dearly beloved, for your edifying.

20 For I fear, lest, when I come, I shall not find you such as I would, and that [b] I shall be found unto you such as ye would not: lest there be debates, envyings, wraths, strifes, backbitings, whisperings, swellings, tumults:

21 And lest, when I come again, my God will humble me among you, and that I shall bewail many [d] which have sinned already, and have not repented of the uncleanness and [f] fornication and lasciviousness which they have committed.

CHAP. XIII.

THIS is the third time I am coming to you. [a] In the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word be established.

2 I [b] told you before, and foretell you, as if I were present, the second time; and being absent now I write to them which heretofore have sinned, and to all other, that, if I come again, I will not spare:

3 Since ye seek a proof of Christ [c] speaking in me, which to you-ward is not weak, but is mighty [d] in you.

4 For [e] though he was crucified through weakness, yet [f] he liveth by the power of God. For [g] we also are weak [h] in him, but we shall live with him by the power of God toward you.

5 Examine [i] yourselves, whether ye be in the faith; prove your own selves. Know ye not your own selves, [k] how that Jesus Christ is in you, except ye be [l] reprobates?

6 But I trust that ye shall know that we are not reprobates.

7 Now I pray to God that ye do no evil; not that we should appear approved, but

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

1 Cor. XV. 32.—COMBATS WITH WILD ANIMALS. It was common among the Romans and the ancients generally to expose criminals to fight with wild beasts in the amphitheatre, for the amusement of the populace. In such cases it was but another form of dooming them to certain death, since there was no human possibility of escape. That this custom prevailed in the East is apparent from the following extract from Rosenmuller: 'and there is no improbability,' says Barnes, 'in the supposition that Paul was exposed to this.' 'The barbarous custom of making men combat with wild beasts has prevailed in the East down to the most modern times. Jurgen Andersen, who visited the states of the great mogul in 1646, gives an account in his travels of such a combat with animals, which he witnessed at Agra, the residence of the great mogul. His description affords a lively image of those bloody spectacles in which ancient Rome took so much pleasure, and to which the words of the apostle refer, 1 Cor. xv. 32. Alamardanchan, the governor of Cashmire, who sat among the chans, stood up and exclaimed, "It is the will and desire of the great mogul, Schah Choram, that if there be any valiant heroes who will shew their bravery by combating with wild beasts, armed with shield and sword, let them come forward: if they conquer, the mogul will load them with great favour, and clothe their countenance with gladness." Upon this three persons advanced, and offered to undertake the combat. Alamardan-chan again cried aloud, "None should have any other weapon than a shield and a sword; and whosoever has any breastplate under his clothes should lay it aside, and fight honourably." Hereupon a powerful lion was let into the garden, and one of the three men above mentioned advanced against him. The lion, on seeing his enemy, ran violently up to him; the man, however, defended himself bravely, and kept off the lion for a good while, till his arms grew tired. The lion then seized the shield with one paw, and with the other the antagonist's right arm, so that he was not able to use his weapon; the latter, seeing his life in danger, took with his left hand his Indian dagger, which he had sticking in his girdle, and thrust it as far as possible into the lion's mouth: the lion then let him go. The man, however, was not idle, but cut the lion almost through with one stroke, and after that entirely to pieces. Upon this victory the common people began to shout, and call out, "Thank God, he has conquered." But the mogul said, smiling, to the conquerer, "Thou art a brave warrior, and hast fought admirably. But did I not command to fight honourable only with shield and sword? But, like a thief, thou hast stolen the life of the lion with thy dagger." And immediately he ordered two men to rip up his belly, and to place him upon an elephant, and, as an example to others, to lead him about, which was done on the spot. Soon after a tiger was set loose; against which a tall, powerful man advanced, with an air of defiance, as if he would cut the tiger up. The tiger, however, was far too sagacious and active; for, in the first attack, he seized the combatant by the neck, tore his throat, and then his whole body, in pieces. This enraged another good fellow, but little, and of mean appearance, from whom one would not have expected it: he rushed forward like one mad; and the tiger on his part undauntedly flew at his enemy; but the man, at the first attack, cut off his two fore paws, so that he fell; and the man cut his body to pieces. Upon this the king cried, "What is your name?" He answered, "My name is Geyby." Soon after, one of the king's servants came and brought him a piece of gruel broadcie, and said, "Geyby, receive the robe of honour with which the mogul presents you." He took the garment with great reverence, kissed it three times, pressing it each time to his eyes and breast; then held it up, and in silence put up a prayer for the health of the mogul; and when he concluded it he cried, "May God let him become as great as Tamerlane, from whom he is descended. May he live seven hundred years, and his house continue to eternity:" Upon this he was summoned by a chamberlain to go from the garden up to the king; and when he came to the entrance, he was received by two chans, who conducted him between them to kiss the mogul's hand; and when he was going to retire, the king said to him, "Praised be thou, Geyby-chan, for thy valiant deeds, and this name shalt thou keep to eternity. I am your gracious master, and thou art my slave." From the state of things at Ephesus when Paul was there (Acts xix.), Barnes considers it not the least improbable that Paul would be subjected to such a trial; and from his expression in 2 Cor. xi. 23, that he was in deaths oft, he thinks the supposition is supported, that in Ephesus he may have been exposed to death in some cruel manner, and that, but for the interposition of God, he would have died.

1 Cor. I. 1; 2 Cor. I. 1.—PORT OF CORINTH. This city was the capital of Achaia, and stood near the middle of the isthmus, which in the narrowest part was about six miles wide. It had two ports, Lechæum, on the gulf of Corinth, now Lepanto, and Cenchræa, on the gulf of Ægina. Hence it commanded the merchandise of Italy and Sicily on the west, and Asia on the east, and, in consequence, became one of the richest and most prosperous cities of Greece. It was also celebrated for its isthmian games, and for the magnificence of its public buildings. In the second century before Christ, Corinth was pillaged and burnt by the Romans. Julius Cæsar built a new city, and established a Roman colony, peopling it with freed-men from Rome; and again it soon became great and wealthy, and it was notorious for its impure morals. This was the Corinth of the time of the apostles. The city has sustained many reverses, and is now in the possession of the Greeks.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the GALATIANS.

Treats on justification by faith, in opposition to some Jewish zealots, who enforced circumcision on the Galatians.

CHAP. I.

PAUL, an apostle, (not of men, neither by man, but [a] by Jesus Christ, and God the Father, who raised him from the dead;)

2 And all the brethren which are with me, unto the churches of Galatia:

3 Grace [b] be to you and peace from God the Father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ,

4 Who [c] gave himself for our sins, that he might deliver us [d] from this present evil world, according to the will of God and our Father:

5 To whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

6 I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel:

7 Which [e] is not another; but there be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ.

8 But though [f] we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed.

9 As we said before, so say I now again, If any man preach any other gospel unto you [g] than that ye have received, let him be accursed.

10 For [h] do I now persuade men, or God? or [i] do I seek to please men? for if I yet pleased men, I should not be the servant of Christ.

11 But I certify you, brethren, that the gospel which was preached of me is not after man.

12 For [k] I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but [l] by the revelation of Jesus Christ.

13 For ye have heard of my conversation in time past in the Jews' religion, how that beyond measure I persecuted the church of God, and [m] wasted it:

14 And profited in the Jews' religion above many my [†] equals in mine own nation, [n] being more exceedingly zealous of [o] the traditions of my fathers.

15 But when it pleased God, [p] who separated me from my mother's womb, and called me by his grace,

16 To [q] reveal his Son in me, that [r] I might preach him among the heathen; immediately I conferred not with [s] flesh and blood:

17 Neither went I up to Jerusalem to them which were apostles before me; but I went into Arabia, and returned again unto Damascus.

18 Then after three years [t] I went up to Jerusalem to see Peter, and abode with him fifteen days.

19 But [u] other of the apostles saw I none, save [w] James the Lord's brother.

20 Now the things which I write unto you, behold, before God, I lie not.

21 Afterwards [x] I came into the regions of Syria and Cilicia;

22 And was unknown by face unto the churches of Judæa which were in Christ:

CHAP. II.

THEN fourteen years after [a] I went up again to Jerusalem with Barnabas, and took Titus with me also.

2 And I went up by revelation, and communicated unto them that gospel which I preach among the Gentiles, but [b] privately to them which were of reputation, lest by any means [c] I should run, or had run, in vain.

3 But neither Titus, who was with me, being a Greek, was compelled to be circumcised:

4 And that because of [d] false brethren unawares brought in, who came in privily to spy out our [e] liberty which we have in Christ Jesus, [f] that they might bring us into bondage:

5 To whom we gave place by subjection, no, not for an hour; that the truth of the gospel might continue with you.

6 But of those [g] who seemed to be somewhat, whatsoever they were, it maketh no matter to me: [h] God accepteth no man's person: for they who seemed to be somewhat in conference added nothing to me:

7 But contrariwise, [i] when they saw that the gospel of the uncircumcision [k] was committed unto me, as the gospel of the circumcision was unto Peter;

8 (For he that wrought effectually in Peter to the apostleship of the circumcision, [l] the same was mighty in me toward the Gentiles:)

9 And when James, Cephas, and John, who seemed to be [m] pillars, perceived the grace that was given unto me, they gave to me and Barnabas the right hands of fellowship; that we should go unto the heathen, and they unto the circumcision.

10 Only they would that we should remember the poor; [n] the same which I also was forward to do.

11 But [o] when Peter was come to Antioch, I withstood him to the face, because he was to be blamed.

12 For before that certain came from James, [p] he did eat with the Gentiles: but when they were come, he withdrew and separated himself, fearing them which were of the circumcision.

13 And the other Jews dissembled likewise with him; insomuch that Barnabas also was carried away with their dissimulation.

14 But when I saw that they walked not uprightly according to the truth of the gospel, I said unto Peter [q] before them all, [r] If thou, being a Jew, livest after the manner of Gentiles, and not as do the Jews, why compellest thou the Gentiles to live as do the Jews?

15 We who are Jews by nature, and not [s] sinners of the Gentiles,

16 Knowing [a] that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but [b] by the faith of Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ, and not by the works of the law: for [c] by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified.

17 But if, while we seek to be justified by Christ, we ourselves also are found [d] sinners, is therefore Christ the minister of sin? God forbid.

18 For if I build again the things which I destroyed, I make myself a transgressor.

19 For I [e] through the law [f] am dead to the law, that I might [g] live unto God.

20 I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the flesh I live [h] by the faith of the Son of God, [i] who loved me, and gave himself for me.

21 I do not frustrate the grace of God: for [k] if righteousness come by the law then Christ is dead in vain.

CHAP. III.

O FOOLISH Galatians, who hath bewitched you, that ye should not obey the truth, before whose eyes Jesus Christ hath been evidently set forth, crucified among you?

2 This only would I learn of you, Received ye [l] the Spirit by the works of the law, [m] or by the hearing of faith?

3 Are ye so foolish? having begun in the Spirit, are ye now made perfect by [n] the flesh?

4 Have ye suffered so [o] many things in vain? if it be yet in vain.

5 He therefore [p] that ministereth to you the Spirit, and worketh miracles among you, doeth he it by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith?

6 Even as [q] Abraham believed God, and it was [r] accounted to him for righteousness.

7 Know ye therefore that [s] they which are of faith, the same are the children of Abraham.

8 And the scripture, foreseeing that God would justify the heathen through faith, preached before the gospel unto Abraham, saying, [t] In thee shall all nations be blessed.

9 So then they which be of faith are blessed with faithful Abraham.

10 For as many as are of the works of the law are under the curse: for it is written, [u] Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the law to do them.

11 But that no man is justified by the law in the sight of God, it is evident: for, [x] The just shall live by faith.

12 And the law is not of faith: but, [y] The man that doeth them shall live in them.

13 Christ [z] hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us: for it is written, [a] Cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree:

14 That the blessing of Abraham might come on the Gentiles through Jesus Christ; that we might receive [b] the promise of the Spirit through faith.

15 Brethren, I speak after the manner of men; [c] Though it be but a man's [d] covenant, yet if it be confirmed, no man disannulleth, or addeth thereto.

16 Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to thy seed, which is Christ.

17 And this I say, that the covenant, that was confirmed before of God in Christ, the law, [e] which was four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disannul, that it should make the promise of none effect.

18 For if the inheritance be of the law, it is no more of promise: but God gave it to Abraham by promise.

19 Wherefore then serveth the law? [f] It was added because of transgressions, till the seed should come to whom the promise was made; and it was [g] ordained by angels in the hand [f] of a mediator.

20 Now a mediator is not [h] a mediator of one, [i] but God is one.

21 Is the law then against the promises of God? God forbid: for if there had been a law given which could have given life, verily righteousness should have been by the law.

22 But the scripture hath concluded [k] all under sin, that the promise by faith of Jesus Christ might be given to them that believe.

23 But before faith came, we were kept under the law, shut up unto the faith which should afterwards be revealed.

24 Wherefore [l] the law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith.

25 But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster.

26 For ye [m] are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus.

27 For [n] as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ.

28 There [o] is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all [p] one in Christ Jesus.

29 And [q] if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and [r] heirs according to the promise.

CHAP. IV.

NOW I say, That the heir, as long as he is a child, differeth nothing from a servant, though he be lord of all;

2 But is under tutors and governors until the time appointed of the father.

3 Even so we, when we were children, [s] were in bondage under the [t] elements of the world:

4 But [u] when the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son, made [x] of a woman, made under the law,

5 To [y] redeem them that were under the law, [z] that we might receive the adoption of sons.

6 And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth [a] the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father.

7 Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ.

8 Howbeit then, when ye knew not God, ye did service unto them which by nature are no gods.

9 But now, after that ye have known God, or rather are known of God, [b] how turn ye again to the weak and beggarly [t] elements, whereunto ye desire again to be in bondage?

10 Ye observe days, and months, and times, and years.

11 I am afraid of you, lest I have bestowed upon you labour in vain.

12 Brethren, I beseech you, be as I am; for I am as ye are: ye have not injured me at all.

13 Ye know how [b] through infirmity of the flesh I preached the gospel unto you at the first.

14 And my temptation which was in my flesh ye despised not, nor rejected; but received me [c] as an angel of God, f even as Christ Jesus.

15 † Where is then the blessedness ye spake of? for I bear you record, that, if it had been possible, ye would have plucked out your own eyes, and have given them to me.

16 Am I therefore become your enemy, because I tell you the truth?

17 They [g] zealously affect you, but not well; yea, they would exclude ‡ you, that ye might affect them.

18 But it is good to be zealously affected always in a good thing, and not only when I am present with you.

19 My [i] little children, of whom I travail in birth again until Christ be formed in you,

20 I desire to be present with you now, and to change my voice; for § I stand in doubt of you.

21 Tell me, ye that desire to be under the law, do ye not hear the law?

22 For it is written, that Abraham had two sons, [r] the one by a bondmaid, [s] the other by a freewoman.

23 But he who was of the bondwoman [t] was born after the flesh; [u] but he of the freewoman was by promise.

24 Which things are an allegory: for these are the two [v] covenants; the one from the mount † Sinai, which gendereth to bondage, which is Agar.

25 For this Agar is mount Sinai in Arabia, and ‡ answereth to Jerusalem which now is, and is in bondage with her children.

26 But [x] Jerusalem which is above is free, which is the mother of us all.

27 For it is written, [y] Rejoice, thou barren that bearest not; break forth and cry, thou that travailest not: for the desolate hath many more children than she which hath an husband.

28 Now we, brethren, as Isaac was, are [z] the children of promise.

29 But as then [a] he that was born after the flesh persecuted him that was born after the Spirit, even so it is now.

30 Nevertheless what saith the [b] scripture? [c] Cast out the bondwoman and her son: for [d] the son of the bondwoman shall not be heir with the son of the freewoman.

31 So then, brethren, we are not children of the bondwoman, [e] but of the free.

CHAP. V.

STAND fast therefore in [a] the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again [b] with the yoke of bondage.

2 Behold, I Paul say unto you, that [c] if ye be circumcised, Christ shall profit you nothing.

3 For I testify again to every man that is circumcised, [d] that he is a debtor to do the whole law.

4 Christ [f] is become of no effect unto you, whosoever of you are justified by the law; ye are fallen from grace.

5 For we through the Spirit [g] wait for the hope of righteousness by faith.

6 For [h] in Jesus Christ neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision; but [i] faith which worketh by love.

7 Ye [k] did run well; who did [l] hinder you that ye should not obey the truth?

8 This persuasion cometh not of him that calleth you.

9 A [m] little leaven leaveneth the whole lump.

10 I have confidence in you through the Lord, that ye will be none otherwise minded: but he that troubleth you [n] shall bear his judgment, whosoever he be.

11 And I, brethren, if I yet preach circumcision, why do I yet suffer persecution? then is [o] the offence of the cross ceased.

12 I would they were even cut off which trouble you.

13 For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only [p] use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another.

14 For [q] all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this; [r] Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

15 But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another.

16 This I say then, [s] Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh.

17 For [t] the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would.

18 But if ye be led of the Spirit, ye are not under the law.

19 Now [v] the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these; Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness,

20 Idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies,

21 Envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like: of the which I tell you before, as I have also told you in time past, that [x] they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God.

22 But [y] the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, [z] faith,

23 Meekness, temperance: [a] against such there is no law.

24 And they that are Christ's f have crucified the flesh with the § affections and lusts.

25 If [b] we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit.

26 Let us not be desirous of vain glory, provoking one another, envying one another.

CHAP. VI.

BRETHREN, ‖ if [m] a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one [n] in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, [p] lest thou also be tempted.

2 Bear [q] ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil [r] the law of Christ.

3 For if a man think himself to be something, when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself.

4 But [s] let every man prove his own work, and then shall he have rejoicing in himself alone, and not in another.

5 For [t] every man shall bear his own burden.

6 Let him that is taught in the word communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things.

7 Be not deceived; God [a] is not mocked: for [b] whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.

8 For [c] he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.

9 And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, [d] if we faint not.

10 As we have therefore opportunity, let [e] us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the houshold of faith.

11 Ye see how large a letter I have written unto you with mine own hand.

12 As many as desire to make a fair shew in the flesh, [f] they constrain you to be circumcised; only lest they should suffer persecution for the cross of Christ.

13 For neither they themselves who are circumcised keep the law; but desire to have you circumcised, that they may glory in your flesh.

14 But [g] God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, [h] by whom the world is [i] crucified unto me, and I unto the world.

15 For [j] in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but [k] a new creature.

16 And [l] as many as walk according to this rule, peace be on them, and mercy, and upon [m] the Israel of God.

17 From henceforth let no man trouble me: for [n] I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus.

18 Brethren, the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. Amen.

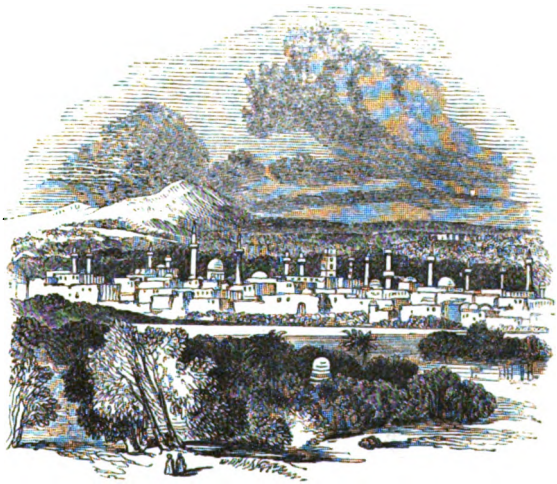
EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.



CH. I. 2.—ANCYRA, the capital of Galatia. Galatia was a province in Asia Minor, having the river Halys east, Bithynia and Paphlagonia north, Cappadocia and Phrygia south, and Mysia and Lydia west. Its southern border was about 180 miles from Tarsus, and 260 from Antioch. The Gauls having invaded Asia Minor in several bodies, conquered this country, settled in it, and called it Galatia, which in Greek signifies Gaul. These Gauls are said not only to have preserved their own language, but even to have made it the common language of the country. And such was the case even to the time of Jerome; for in the preface to his Commentary on the Epistle to the Churches of Galatia, he tells us that it was a language very much resembling that of the people of Treves, in the European Gaul. Galatia was in general a very fruitful and populous country. The religion of the ancient Galatæ was blended with gross superstitions. Like other Celtic nations, they offered human sacrifices, devoting to this purpose their prisoners of war. Although a barbarous people, they appear to have cultivated eloquence, and to have been fond of music. They were a tall and valiant race. They generally fought almost naked, their principal weapons being a sword and buckler; and their attack was so impetuous, that they were commonly victorious. The principal cities of Galatia were Ancyra, Tavium, and Pessinus. Angora, the ancient Ancyra, is on an elevated plain, and contains a large population. Some fine remains of antiquity are preserved. The inhabitants are now chiefly Armenians. The apostle Paul preached several times in Galatia, and formed considerable churches there. It is probable that he was the first who preached there to the Gentiles, but from the superscription to the first epistle of Peter, Peter had preached there to the Jews; for the Jews were drawn to this province in considerable numbers. A record of the liberties they were permitted to enjoy was deposited in the temple of Augustus at Ancyra, by Augustus, twenty-six years before Christ. Galatia was reduced to a Roman province under a propretor. It has long been under the Turkish government.

CH. I. 17.—DAMASCUS. Damascus is a celebrated city of Syria, which was long the capital of a kingdom of Damascus, or Syria of Damascus. It is now the capital of a pashalic of the Ottoman empire. This city is upon the river Barada, in an extensive plain open on the south and east, but on the west and north shut in by mountains, which send forth so many streams, as to render the district of Damascus the best watered and most pleasant of all Syria. The Arabs term it one of the four paradises of the East. It may be called the Florence of Turkey, and the flower of the Levant. It is two miles in length, from north-east to south-west; but its breadth is not in proportion, being extremely narrow, as well as its streets. It is divided into twenty-three districts. The houses are mud-houses: few have wooden floors, or are provided with windows. The roofs are flat, like a terrace, and are spread over with a kind of plaster made firm with a roller. Many of them are surrounded with mud walls or battlements, four feet in height, to prevent accidents. The better classes of houses are spacious and elegant; the entrances to all, indeed, are bad, the doors of most being so small and low as to oblige the person entering to stoop. Within there is generally a quadrangular well-paved court, containing a stone or marble tank for water, and sometimes ornamented with plants and fountains of water. During great heats a kind of awning or veil is spread over the top of these courts. Damascus is still a city of great commerce. Its bazaars contain some of the finest manufactures, but they are not exhibited unless they are inquired after. Here all trades are busy. The working jewellers are all established in some large buildings with wooden roofs, at one end of the town, divided by partitions into different allays, where the goldsmiths and silversmiths are seen seated with fire, bellows, anvils, hammers, pincers, drawers, &c., and there is an immoderate tinkering and clattering on all sides. Here people are constantly coming in with rings, bracelets, silver filagree baskets, and various kinds of jewellery to be repaired, or to serve as patterns for artisans to be made to order. Then the visitor will pass through a shoe bazaar, amid piles of red and yellow slippers and ladies boots, and an overpowering smell of leather. Swords are no longer made at Damascus, for the conqueror Timor Beg transported the skilful artizans to Khorassan, which is now the celebrated place for blades. The great Khan is a fine building, erected within the last forty years. Here assemble the merchants and traders of Damascus, to meet and confer with those of other lands, to inspect the merchandize, the goods, the precious things which have travelled long and wearily during weeks, and even months, across the desert. Here come to lodge for a few or many days, till necessary business is completed, camel-loads sold, and his purchases made, the Persian, the Egyptian, the Bedouin Arab, the Mussulman of Hindostan, and the Druse. In some parts may be seen piles of goods covering the stone floor, the thoughtful owner sitting by the side; a group seated in another part cross-legged, and dictating to a scribe the accounts of their sales or concerns; or an audience listening to some one informing or amusing them. The views around Damascus is beautiful in the highest degree. The rich scenery around Damascus in the summer, universal admiration. There are shady groves and rich fruit trees of all kinds, with the most luxuriant foliage. Damascus is held by some to be the most ancient city in the world. It is mentioned Gen. xiv. 15. The street called Straight (Acts ix. 11) is half a mile in length, and very narrow, but it forms the principal thoroughfare of the city. See further interesting particulars of this ancient and renowned city, respecting its history, appearance, population, &c., given with another view, in Gen. xv.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the EPHESIANS.

Written to confirm them in the faith and practice of the gospel.

CHAP. I.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, to the saints which are at Ephesus, and to the faithful in Christ Jesus:

2 Grace be to you, and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 Blessed [b] be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly [c] places in Christ:

4 According as [d] he hath chosen us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should [e] be holy and without blame before him in love:

5 Having predestinated us unto [f] the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to himself, [g] according to the good pleasure of his will,

6 To the praise of the glory of his grace, [m] wherein he hath made us accepted in [n] the beloved.

7 In [o] whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of his grace;

8 Wherein he hath abounded toward us in all wisdom and prudence;

9 Having [t] made known unto us the mystery of his will, according to his good pleasure [t] which he hath purposed in himself:

10 That in the dispensation of the fulness of times he might gather together in one [p] all things in Christ, both which are in [§] heaven, and which are on earth; even in him:

11 In whom also we have obtained an inheritance, being predestinated according to [r] the purpose of him who worketh all things after the counsel of his own will:

12 That [s] we should be to the praise of his glory, [h] who first [‖] trusted in Christ.

13 In whom ye also trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation: in whom also after that ye believed, [v] ye were sealed with that holy Spirit of promise, 14 Which is the earnest of our inheritance [i] until the redemption of the purchased possession, [k] unto the praise of his glory.

15 Wherefore I also, after I heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus, and love unto all the saints,

16 Cease not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers;

17 That [l] the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give unto you the spirit of wisdom and revelation [†] in the knowledge of him:

18 The [u] eyes of your understanding being enlightened; that ye may know what is [u] the hope of his calling, and what the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the saints,

19 And what is the exceeding greatness of his power to us-ward who believe, according to the working of [‡] his mighty power,

20 Which he wrought in Christ, when he raised him from the dead, and [x] set him at his own right hand in the heavenly places,

21 Far above all principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this world, but also in that which is to come:

22 And [y] hath put all things under his feet, and gave him [z] to be the head over all things to the church,

23 Which [a] is his body, the fulness of him that filleth all in all.

CHAP. II.

AND you hath he quickened, [b] who were dead in trespasses and sins;

2 Wherein in time past ye walked according to the course of this world, according to [c] the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now worketh in [d] the children of disobedience:

3 Among whom also we all had our conversation in times past in [e] the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling [f] the desires of the flesh and of the mind; and [g] were by nature the children of wrath, even as others.

4 But God, who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us,

5 Even when we were dead in sins, hath [m] quickened us together with Christ, (by grace ye are saved;)

6 And hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus:

7 That in the ages to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his grace in his kindness toward us through Christ Jesus.

8 For by grace are ye saved [h] through faith; and that not of yourselves: [i] it is the gift of God:

9 Not [k] of works, lest any man should boast.

10 For we are his [l] workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before [o] ordained that we should walk in them.

11 Wherefore remember, that ye being in time past Gentiles in the flesh, who are called Uncircumcision by that which is called [h] the Circumcision in the flesh made by hands;

12 That at that time ye were without Christ, [i] being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, [l] and without God in the world:

13 But [m] now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were [n] far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ.

14 For [p] he is our peace, [r] who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us;

15 Having abolished in his flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments contained in ordinances; for to make in himself of twain one new man, so making peace;

16 And that he might reconcile both unto God in one body by the cross, having slain the enmity [o] thereby:

17 And came and [h] preached peace to you which were afar off, and to [c] them that were nigh.

18 For [e] through him we both have access [f] by one Spirit unto the Father.

19 Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but [g] fellow-citizens with the saints, and of the household of God;

20 And are [h] built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being [i] the chief corner stone;

21 In whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord:

22 In [m] whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit.

CHAP. III.

FOR this cause I Paul, [n] the prisoner of Jesus Christ for you Gentiles,

2 (If ye have heard of the dispensation of the grace of God [o] which is given me to you-ward:

3 How that [a] by revelation he made known unto me the mystery; ([a] as I wrote [b] afore in few words,

4 Whereby, when ye read, ye may understand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ)

5 Which [d] in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, as it is now revealed unto his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit;

6 That the Gentiles [f] should be fellow-heirs, and of the same body, and [h] partakers of his promise in Christ by the gospel:

7 Whereof I was made a minister, according to the gift of the grace of God given unto me by the effectual working of his power.

8 Unto me, [k] who am less than the least of all saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ;

9 And to make all men see what is the fellowship of the mystery, [n] which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God, [o] who created all things by Jesus Christ:

10 To the intent that now unto the principalities and powers in heavenly places [r] might be known by the church the manifold wisdom of God,

11 According to the eternal purpose which he purposed in Christ Jesus our Lord:

12 In whom we have boldness and access [t] with confidence by the faith of him.

13 Wherefore I desire that ye faint not at my tribulations for you, [u] which is your glory.

14 For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,

15 Of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named,

16 That he would grant you, according to the riches of his glory, [y] to be strengthened with might by his Spirit in [z] the inner man;

17 That [a] Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, [b] being rooted and grounded in love,

18 May be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height;

19 And to know the love of Christ,

CHAP. IV.

I THEREFORE, [i] the prisoner [t] of the Lord,) beseech you that ye [k] walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called,

2 With all lowliness and meekness, with longsuffering, forbearing one another in love;

3 Endeavouring to keep the unity of the Spirit [n] in the bond of peace.

4 There [o] is one body, and [p] one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling;

5 One [q] Lord, [r] one faith, [s] one baptism,

6 One God and Father of all, who is above all, and [t] through all, and in you all.

7 But [y] unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ.

8 Wherefore he saith, [b] When he ascended up on high, he led [§] captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men.

9 (Now [c] that he ascended, what is it but that he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth?

10 He that descended is the same also [e] that ascended up far above all heavens, [f] that he might [‖] fill all things.)

11 And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers;

12 For [i] the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ:

13 Till we all come [e] in the unity of the faith, [i] and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto [k] a perfect man, unto the measure of the [i] stature of the fulness of Christ:

14 That we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive;

15 But [‡] speaking [p] the truth in love, [r] may grow up into him in all things, which is the head, even Christ:

16 From whom the whole body fitly joined together and compacted by that which every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body unto the edifying of itself in love.

17 This I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk, [s] in the vanity of their mind,

18 Having [x] the understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the [§] blindness of their heart:

19 Who being past feeling have given themselves over unto lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness.

20 But ye have not so learned Christ:

21 If so be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jesus:

22 That ye put off concerning [c] the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts.

23 And [a] be renewed in the spirit of your mind;
24 And that ye [b] put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and [c] true holiness.
25 Wherefore putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbour: for [d] we are members one of another.
26 Be ye angry, and sin not: let not the sun go down upon your wrath:
27 Neither [e] give place to the devil.
28 Let him that stole steal no more: but rather let him labour, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have [†] to give to him that needeth.
29 Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but [‡] that which is good [‡] to the use of edifying, [‡] that it may minister grace unto the hearers.
30 And [g] grieve not the holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption.
31 Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil-speaking, be put away from you, [g] with all malice:
32 And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, [h] forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.

CHAP. V.

BE [a] ye therefore followers of God, as dear children;
2 And [f] walk in love, [f] as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given himself for us an offering and a sacrifice to God [k] for a sweetsmelling savour.
3 But fornication, and all uncleanness, or covetousness, let it not be once named among you, as becometh saints;
4 Neither [l] filthiness, nor foolish talking, nor jesting, which are not convenient: but rather giving of thanks.
5 For this ye know, that no whoremonger, nor unclean person, nor covetous man, who is an idolater, hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God.
6 Let [c] no man deceive you with vain words: for because of these things cometh the wrath of God upon the children of [§] disobedience.
7 Be not ye therefore partakers with them.
8 For [i] ye were sometimes darkness, but now [k] are ye light in the Lord: walk as children of light:
9 (For [k] the fruit of the Spirit is in all goodness and righteousness and truth;)
10 Proving [m] what is acceptable unto the Lord.
11 And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather [n] reprove them.
12 For it is a shame even to speak of those things which are done of them in secret.
13 But [p] all things that are ‖ reproved are made manifest by the light: for whatsoever doth make manifest is light.
14 Wherefore [‡] he saith, [q] Awake thou that sleepest, and [r] arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light.
15 See [s] then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise,
16 Redeeming the time, [t] because the days are evil.
17 Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is.
18 And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit;
19 Speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord;
20 Giving [c] thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ;
21 Submitting yourselves one to another in the fear of God.
22 Wives, [u] submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as unto the Lord.
23 For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church: and he is the saviour of [k] the body.
24 Therefore as the church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in every thing.
25 Husbands, [k] love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and [m] gave himself for it;
26 That he might sanctify and cleanse it [v] with the washing of water [p] by the word,
27 That he might present it to himself a glorious church, [r] not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish.
28 So ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. He that loveth his wife loveth himself.
29 For no man ever yet hated his own flesh; but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord the church:
30 For we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones.
31 For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh.
32 This is a great mystery: but I speak concerning Christ and the church.
33 Nevertheless [s] let every one of you in particular so love his wife even as himself; and the wife see that she reverence her husband.

CHAP. VI.

CHILDREN, [a] obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right.
2 Honour [d] thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise;
3 That it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth.
4 And, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but [f] bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.
5 Servants, [t] be obedient to them that are your masters according to the flesh, with fear and trembling, [f] in singleness of your heart, as unto Christ;
6 Not with eyeservice, as menpleasers; but as the servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart;
7 With good will doing service, as to the Lord, and not to men:
8 Knowing [x] that whatsoever good thing any man doeth, the same shall he receive of the Lord, whether he be bond or free.
9 And, ye masters, do the same things unto them, [a] forbearing [r] threatening: knowing that † your Master also is in heaven; [t] neither is there respect of persons with him.
10 Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might.
11 Put [r] on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil.
12 For we wrestle not against § flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against [z] the rulers of the darkness of this world, against ‖ spiritual wickedness in [•] high places.

13 Wherefore [a] take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having [a] done all, to stand.

14 Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and [d] having on the breastplate of righteousness;

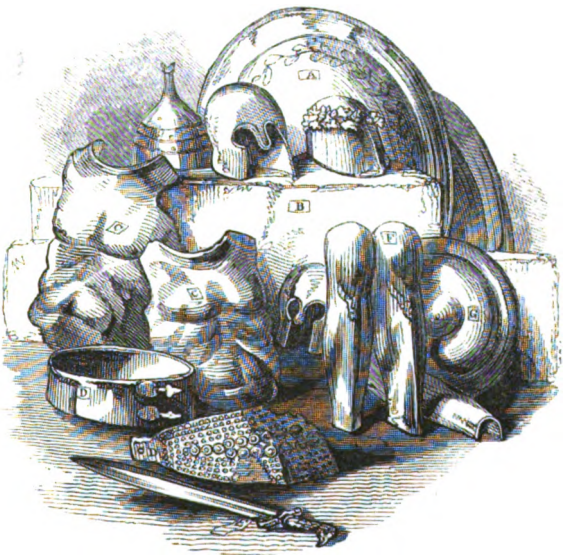
EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.



CH. I.—EPHESUS. This celebrated city of Asia Minor, or rather its site, is about thirty-five miles south of Smyrna, lying on the river Cayster, which runs into the sea at a distance of five miles. It was considered a maritime city. It was one of the most considerable of the Greek cities; but while, about the epoch of the introduction of Christianity, the other cities declined, Ephesus rose more and more. It had splendid wharfs and docks, and became an emporium for the surrounding parts. But it was chiefly famous for its temple of Diana, the magnificence of which attracted a great concourse of strangers. Its length was 425 feet, breadth 220; and it had 127 pillars, 60 feet high, presented by as many kings. All the provinces of Asia contributed to the expenses of the building, and 200 years were employed on it. The ancients placed it among the seven wonders of the world. There had been a previous temple, which was burnt down on the night in which Alexander was born, by an obscure person of the name of Eratostratus, who thus sought to transmit his name to posterity. The new temple was built of cedar, cypress, white marble, and refined gold, with which it glittered. In this temple Diana was worshipped under the name of Artemis. She must not be confounded with Diana of the bow and quiver, the sister of Apollo. Costly and magnificent offerings of various kinds were made to the goddess, and treasured in the temple, such as paintings and statues, the value of which almost exceeded computation. The fame of the temple, of the goddess, and of the city itself, was spread not only through Asia, but the world—a celebrity which was enhanced and diffused the more readily, because sacred games were practised there, which called competitors and spectators from every country. The silversmiths of Ephesus enriched themselves by making silver shrines for Diana. These were either purchased by foreigners, who either could not perform their devotions at the temple itself, or who, after having done so, carried them away as memorials, or for purposes of worship. This temple seven times set on fire, and it was finally burnt by the Goths, in the reign of Gallienus. The Ephesians were addicted to the study of curious arts, to magic, sorcery, and judicial astrology. Dr. Chandler gives an accurate description of the state of Ephesus in 1774. He says: "The inhabitants are a few Greek peasants, living in extreme wretchedness, dependance, and insensibility; the representatives of an illustrious people, and inhabiting the wreck of their greatness; some in the substructions of the glorious edifices which they raised; some beneath the vaults of the stadium, once the crowded scene of their diversions; and some by the abrupt precipice, in the sepulchres which received their ashes. Its streets are obscured and overgrown. A herd of goats was driven to it for shelter from the sun at noon, and a noisy flight of crows from the quarries seemed to insult its silence. We heard the partridge call in the area of the theatre and of the stadium. The glorious pomp of its heathen worship is no longer remembered, and Christianity, which was here nursed by apostles, &c., until it increased to fulness of stature, barely lingers on in an existence hardly visible." So early as the time of John religion began to decline in the church existing in this city, for which the Divine Master denounced against it that he would come quickly, and remove its candlesticks out of its place. This denunciation has been accomplished; and a fate similar to that which visited the church has befallen the city. The plough has passed over the site, and green corn may be seen growing amidst the forsaken ruins.

CH. VI. 13, &c.—GREEK AND ROMAN BREASTPLATES, &c. See cut. A. Greek shield. Shield and buckler are synonymous terms, but the buckler was larger than the shield, and guarded the whole body. It was also hollow and oblong. They were often adorned with birds, beasts, &c. The shield was of various shapes, but often round, and sometimes had knobs projecting from its centre. These were sometimes made of wood, but more generally of hides. They often had several coats of hide, and covered them with brass. The shield was fastened by straps to the left arm. B. Greek helmet. The helmets were made of the skins of beasts with the hair attached to them, and of metals, generally brass. The helmet was usually crowned with a plume or crest as an ornament. C. Roman breastplate. This was probably the cuirass, so the word signifies used by the apostle in ch. vi. 14. It covered the body from the neck to the thighs, and consisted of two parts, one defending the front, the other the back. It was generally made of rings, but sometimes of small brass plates, overlaying each other, like the scales of a fish. D. Roman girdles. Girdles were curious, and often expensive, and were used to confine the flowing robes in use. But the soldier's girdle seems sometimes to have been a cincture of iron and steel, and designed to keep every part of the armour in its place, where they carried their money, their sword, their pipe, their writing instruments, &c. E. Roman sword. An offensive weapon worn at the side, and adapted either to cut or stab. The Roman sword was a strong broad blade, cutting on both edges, and in general was more of a dagger than a sword. F. Greek greaves. These were made either of brass, copper, or other metals, to defend the legs. G. Light shield. The light shield was a small light buckler in the shape of a half-moon. In this chapter vi. the apostle describes the Christian soldier as armed cap-a-pe. He compares truth to the girdle, which would brace up the man against the assaults of the adversary. Righteousness he calls the breastplate; integrity, holiness, sincerity. The feet shod with spikes to stand firm, and greaves to guard the legs, he considers as emblematical of that Gospel by which they would be enabled to stand in battle. But above all he valued the shield of faith, for this protected all the other armour. The helmet of salvation was also a material part. As that defended the head, so the hope of salvation will defend the soul from the blows of the enemy. Last of all, the sword of the Spirit is essential to the Christian. By this Christ resisted the tempter, and by this we may resist him now. The word of God is a mighty weapon.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the PHILIPPIANS.

Written as a testimony of love for their kindness, and to console them in affliction.

CHAP. I.

PAUL and Timotheus, the servants of Jesus Christ, to all the saints in Christ Jesus which are at Philippi, with the bishops and deacons:

2 Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 I [a] thank my God upon every [*] remembrance of you,

4 Always in every prayer of mine for you all making request with joy,

5 For your fellowship in the gospel from the first day until now;

6 Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun [d] a good work in you will [†] perform it until the day of Jesus Christ:

7 Even as it is meet for me to think this of you all, because [‡] I have you [‖] in my heart; inasmuch as both in my bonds, and in the defence and confirmation of the gospel, ye all are partakers [§] of my grace.

8 For God is my record, how greatly I long after you all in the bowels of Jesus Christ.

9 And this I pray, [P] that your love may abound yet more and more in knowledge and in all [‖] judgment;

10 That [r] ye may [*] approve things that [†] are excellent; [s] that ye may be sincere and without offence till the day of Christ;

11 Being filled with the fruits of righteousness, [t] which are by Jesus Christ, [u] unto the glory and praise of God.

12 But I would ye should understand, brethren, that the things which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the gospel;

13 So that my bonds [‡] in Christ are manifest [y] in all [§] the palace, and [‖] in all other places;

14 And many of the brethren in the Lord, waxing confident by my bonds, are much more bold to speak the word without fear.

15 Some indeed preach Christ even of envy and strife; and some also of good will:

16 The one preach Christ of contention, not sincerely, supposing to add affliction to my bonds:

17 But the other of love, knowing that I am set for the defence of the gospel.

18 What then? notwithstanding, every way, whether in pretence, or in truth, Christ is preached; and I therein do rejoice, yea, and will rejoice.

19 For I know that this shall turn to my salvation [f] through your prayer, and the supply of [f] the Spirit of Jesus Christ,

20 According to [m] my earnest expectation and my hope, that [n] in nothing I shall be ashamed, but that [*] with all boldness, as always, so now also Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life, or by death.

21 For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain.

22 But if I live in the flesh, this is the fruit of my labour: yet what I shall choose I wot not.

23 For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ; which is far better:

24 Nevertheless to abide in the flesh is more needful for you.

25 And having this confidence, I know that I shall abide and continue with you all for your furtherance and joy of faith;

26 That [b] your rejoicing may be more abundant in Jesus Christ for me by my coming to you again.

27 Only [c] let your conversation be as it becometh the gospel of Christ: that whether I come and see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your affairs, that ye stand fast in one spirit, [*] with one mind [f] striving together for the faith of the gospel;

28 And in nothing terrified by your adversaries: [g] which is to them an evident token of perdition, [‡] but to you of salvation, and that of God.

29 For unto you [h] it is given in the behalf of Christ, [‡] not only to believe on him, but also [§] to suffer for his sake;

30 Having [§] the same conflict [‖] which ye saw in me, and now hear to be in me.

CHAP. II.

IF there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any bowels and mercies,

2 Fulfil [r] ye my joy, that ye be likeminded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind.

3 Let [s] nothing be done through strife or vainglory; but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves.

4 Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others.

5 Let [t] this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus:

6 Who, [u] being in the form of God, [‖] thought it not robbery to be equal with God:

7 But [v] made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form [d] of a servant, and [v] was made in the [*] likeness of men:

8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and [‡] became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross.

9 Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and [g] given him a name which is above every name:

10 That [k] at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth;

11 And [k] that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

12 Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with [P] fear and trembling.

13 For [r] it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure.

14 Do all things without murmurings and disputings:

15 That ye may be blameless and [†] harmless, [c] the sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of [b] a crooked and perverse nation, among whom [c] ye [c] shine as lights in the world;

16 Holding forth the word of life; that [c] I may rejoice in the day of Christ, that I have not run in vain, neither laboured in vain.

17 Yea, and if [d] I be † offered upon the sacrifice and service of your faith, [A] I joy, and rejoice with you all.

18 For the same cause also do ye joy, and rejoice with me.

19 ‡ But I trust in the Lord Jesus to send Timotheus shortly unto you, that I also may be of good comfort, when I know your state.

20 For I have no man § likeminded, who will naturally care for your state.

21 For all [e] seek their own, not the things which are Jesus Christ's.

22 But ye know the proof of him, that, as a son with the father, he hath served with me in the gospel.

23 Him therefore I hope to send presently, so soon as I shall see how it will go with me.

24 But I trust in the Lord that I also myself shall come shortly.

25 Yet I supposed it necessary to send to you Epaphroditus, my brother, and companion in labour, and [e] fellowsoldier, [f] but your messenger, and he that ministered to my wants.

26 For he longed after you all, and was full of heaviness, because that ye had heard that he had been sick.

27 For indeed he was sick nigh unto death: but God had mercy on him; and not on him only, but on me also, lest I should have sorrow upon sorrow.

28 I sent him therefore the more carefully, that, when ye see him again, ye may rejoice, and that I may be the less sorrowful.

29 Receive him therefore in the Lord with all gladness; and [l] hold such in reputation:

30 Because for the work of Christ he was nigh unto death, not regarding his life, to supply your lack of service toward me.

CHAP. III.

FINALLY, my brethren, [b] rejoice in the Lord. To write the same things to you, to me indeed is not grievous, but for you it is safe.

2 Beware of dogs, beware of [c] evil workers, / beware of the concision.

3 For we are [g] the circumcision, which worship God in the spirit, and rejoice in Christ Jesus, and have no confidence in the flesh.

4 Though [f] I might also have confidence in the flesh. If any other man thinketh that he hath whereof he might trust in the flesh, I more:

5 Circumcised [m] the eighth day, of the stock of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, an Hebrew of the Hebrews; as touching the law, [P] a Pharisee;

6 Concerning [r] zeal, persecuting the church; [s] touching the righteousness which is in the law, [m] blameless.

7 But what things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ.

8 Yea doubtless, and I count all things but loss [t] for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord: for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Christ,

9 And be found in him, not having mine own righteousness, which is of the law, but [d] that which is through the faith of Christ, the righteousness which is of God by faith:

10 That I may know him, and the power of his resurrection, and / the fellowship of his sufferings, being made conformable unto his death;

11 If by any means I might attain unto the resurrection of the dead.

12 Not as though I had already [t] attained, either were already [b] perfect: but I follow after, if that I may apprehend that for which also I am apprehended of Christ Jesus.

13 Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, [m] forgetting those things which are behind, and [n] reaching forth unto those things which are before,

14 I [o] press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

15 Let us therefore, as many as be [P] perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you.

16 Nevertheless, whereto we have already attained, let us walk [r] by the same rule, let us mind the same thing.

17 Brethren, be followers together of me, and mark them which walk so as ye have us for an ensample.

18 (For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ:

19 Whose [u] end is destruction, whose God is their belly, and [v] whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things.)

20 For [w] our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ:

21 Who [y] shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, [z] according to the working whereby he is able [a] even to subdue all things unto himself.

CHAP. IV.

THEREFORE, my brethren dearly beloved and [c] longed for, my joy and crown, so [d] stand fast in the Lord, my dearly beloved.

2 I beseech Euodias, and beseech Syntyche, that they be of the same mind in the Lord.

3 And I intreat thee also, true yokefellow, help those women which laboured with me in the gospel, with Clement also, and with other my fellowlabourers, whose names are in [b] the book of life.

4 Rejoice / in the Lord alway: and again I say, Rejoice.

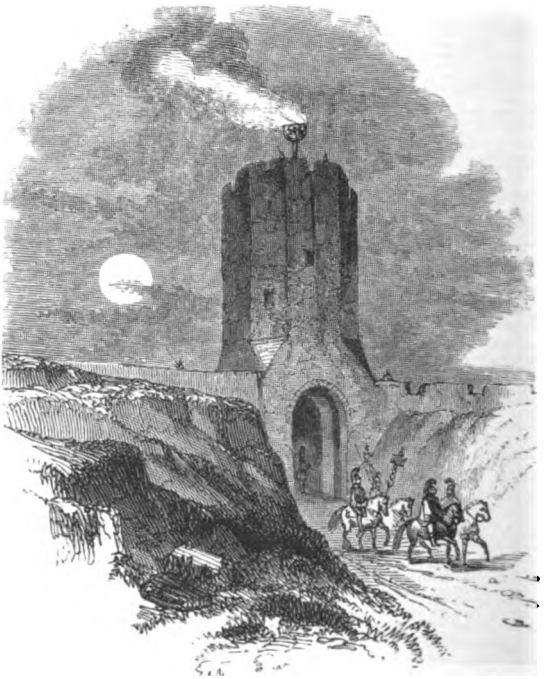
5 Let your moderation be known unto all men. [m] The Lord is at hand.

6 Be [e] careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God.



7 And [f] the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.

8 Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are [v] honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.

9 Those things, which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do: and [d] the God of peace shall be with you.

10 But I rejoiced in the Lord greatly, that now at the last your care of me [†] hath flourished again; wherein ye were also careful, [e] but ye lacked opportunity.

11 Not that I speak in respect of want: for I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, [f] therewith to be content.

12 I know both how to be abased, and I know how to abound: every where and in all things I am instructed both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to suffer need.

13 I can do all things [g] through Christ which strengtheneth me.

14 Notwithstanding ye have well done, that [h] ye did communicate with my affliction.

15 Now ye Philippians know also, that in the beginning of the gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no [P] church communicated with me as concerning giving and receiving, but ye only.

16 For even in Thessalonica ye sent once and again unto my necessity.

17 Not because I desire a gift: but I desire [§] fruit that may abound to your account.

18 But [*] I have all, and abound: I am full, having received [‡] of Epaphroditus the things which were sent from you, [a] an odour of a sweet smell, [b] a sacrifice acceptable, wellpleasing to God.

19 But my God [A] shall supply all your need [c] according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus.

20 Now [k] unto God and our Father be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

21 Salute every saint in Christ Jesus. The brethren which are with me greet you.

22 All the saints salute you, [m] chiefly they that are of Cæsar's household.

23 The [*] grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CH. I. 7.—THE MAMERTINE PRISON. Rome has always been persecuting. Paganism had no mercy on Christians, and apostles of Christianity were not likely to escape. Nor, indeed, has it improved under corrupted Christianity, for to this moment the ecclesiastical powers are the most bitter foes of the religion of the Bible, and the dungeons of Rome are equally ready to receive the victims of the demon Popery. Rome is a city wonderful for its antiquity, and many of the magnificent ruins of its former greatness still remain. The antiquarian, the artist, the gentleman traveller, the superstitious, are all attracted to Rome. Here, in the dungeons of ecclesiastical tyrants, many a noble spirit has borne testimony to the truth unseen by the world, and many a martyr has fallen under the despots of former ages, and the later dispots of the inquisition. While this is writing, an illustrious Italian hero of the cause of Christ is in durance vile in the castle of St. Angelo, uncertain of his fate from the enemies of all righteousness. St. Angelo is a prison generally used for political prisoners, but in popish countries the civil and ecclesiastical authorities conveniently play into each other's hands, and the ghostly executioners, ashamed that their tyranny should be exposed, take shelter under the civil authorities. The castle of St. Angelo, being more accessible, is not so terrible as some other places of confinement. During the late revolt at Rome, the dungeons of the Inquisition being laid open, discovered some horridly revolting scenes, and skelotons, some of females, with part of the flesh and of the hair adhering to them. They might have died under torturing, or been starved to death. Unfortunately for human nature, this horrid dungeon was only exposed, but not destroyed, and yet remains to immure other unfortunate so-called heretics. But the most celebrated is the Mamertine prison, which claims particular notice, as being the oldest building in the city. It was founded by Ancus Martius, the fourth king of Rome. Servius Tullius, the sixth king of Rome, is said to have added a lower cell, which was called the Tullianum, though Sir William Gell throws a doubt on this statement. 'This unquestionable monument of ancient Rome is situated behind the arch of Septimius Severus, and on the declivity of the Capitoline hill, not far from the church of St. Nicola in Carcere. By the aid of torches the visitor descends under the little church of St. Giuseppe de Falegnami, built in 1539, by some modern steps, to the upper compartment, which is now formed into an oratory.' It is constructed of large masses of Peperine stone, probably so called from the town of Piperno, the ancient Privernum, where it is found in great abundance, or from the black spots on it resembling pepper. These stones are put together without cement. The upper cell is about twenty-seven feet by nineteen feet and a half, and nearly fourteen feet in height, and has been hewn out of the solid rock. Descending by a few steps more, we arrive at the lower cell, delineated in our view, which is only about six feet and a half in height, and nineteen feet by nine. Sir William Gell considers it to be the more ancient because it supports the superstructure. It is formed, according to his statement, 'by three courses of approaching stones laid horizontally, and not on the principle of an arch.' 'They are strangely united by cramps of iron, so that they are together as one flat stone, lightened by a slight curvature below, and perhaps in a great measure depending for support on the weight of the walls of the upper structure.' Through the circular aperture communicating with the upper chamber, it appears that prisoners, who were condemned to be strangled or to die of hunger, were thrust down into the lower cell. Here Jugurtha, and also other prisoners of note, perished. Jugurtha was suffered to die of hunger. Numbers of devotees are continually kneeling before the lower prison, where tradition states that the apostles Peter and Paul were confined by order of Nero.

CH. II. 15, 16.—ROMAN PHAROS, or LIGHT-TOWER. Pharos was a small island in the bay of Alexandria, about seven furlongs distant from the continent. It was joined to the Egyptian shore with a causeway, by Deniphanes, in the year before Christ 284; and upon it was built a celebrated tower, in the reign of Ptolemy Soter, and Philadelphos, by Sostratus, the son of Desiphanes. This tower, which was called the tower of Pharos, and which passed for one of the seven wonders of the world, was built with white marble, and could be seen at the distance of a hundred miles. On the top, fires were constantly kept, to direct sailors in the bay, which was dangerous and difficult of access. The building of this tower cost the Egyptian monarch 800 talents, which were equivalent to above 165,000 pounds English, if Attic talents, but if Alexandrian talents, double that sum. There was this inscription upon it, 'King Ptolemy to the gods, the saviours, for the benefit of sailors;' but Sostratus, the architect, wishing to claim all the glory, engraved his own name upon the stones, and afterwards filled the hollow with mortar, and wrote the above-mentioned inscription. When the mortar had decayed by time, Ptolemy's name disappeared, and the following inscription then became visible: 'Sostratus the Cnidian, son of Desiphanes, to the gods the saviours, for the benefit of sailors.' The emperor Claudius also ordered a tower to be built at the entrance of the port of Ostra, for the benefit of sailors, and it likewise bore the name of Pharos, an appellation afterwards given to every edifice which was raised to direct the course of sailors, either with lights or by signals. To these lights the apostle is generally supposed to refer in the passage here illustrated. Some, indeed, think there is an allusion to the lights of nature—the sun and the moon—but the other opinion is that which is now generally adopted.

CHAP. I.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, and Timotheus our brother,

2 To the saints [a] and faithful brethren in Christ which are at Colosse: Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 We [b] give thanks to God and the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying always for you,

4 Since we heard of your faith in Christ Jesus, and of [c] the love which ye have to all the saints,

5 For the hope [d] which is laid up for you in heaven, whereof ye heard before in the word of the truth of the gospel;

6 Which is come unto you, as it is in all the world; and [e] bringeth forth fruit, as it doth also in you, since the day ye heard of it, and knew the grace of God in truth:

7 As ye also learned of Epaphras our dear fellowservant, who is for you a faithful minister of Christ;

8 Who also declared unto us your [f] love in the Spirit.

9 For [g] this cause we also, since the day we heard it, do not cease to pray for you, and to desire that ye might be filled with [h] the knowledge of his will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding;

10 That [i] ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, [j] being fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of God;

11 Strengthened [k] with all might, according to his glorious power, unto all patience and longsuffering with joyfulness;

12 Giving [l] thanks unto the Father, which hath made us meet to be partakers of [m] the inheritance of the saints in light:

13 Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of ‖ his dear Son:

14 In whom we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins:

15 Who is [n] the image of the invisible God, [o] the firstborn of every creature:

16 For [p] by him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by him, and for him:

17 And [q] he is before all things, and by him all things consist.

18 And [r] he is the head of the body, the church: who is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead; that [s] in all things he might have the preeminence.

19 For it pleased the Father that [t] in him should all fulness dwell;

20 And, having made peace through the blood [u] of his cross, by him to reconcile all things unto himself; by him, I say, whether they be things in earth, or things in heaven.

21 And you, [v] that were sometime alienated and enemies ‡ in your mind ‖ by wicked works, yet now hath he reconciled

22 In the body of his flesh through death, [w] to present you holy and unblameable and unreproveable in his sight:

23 If ye continue in the faith grounded and settled, and be not moved away from the hope of the gospel, which ye have heard, and which was preached to every creature which is under heaven; whereof I Paul am made a minister;

24 Who [x] now rejoice in my sufferings for you, and fill up that which is behind of the afflictions of Christ in my flesh for [y] his body's sake, which is the church:

25 Whereof I am made a minister, according to the dispensation of God which is given to me for you, [z] to fulfil the word of God;

26 Even [a] the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, [b] but now is made manifest to his saints:

27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ † in you, [c] the hope of glory:

28 Whom we preach, warning every man, and teaching every man in all wisdom; [d] that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus:

29 Whereunto I also labour, striving according to his working, which worketh in me mightily.

CHAP. II.

FOR I would that ye knew what great conflict I have for you, and for them at Laodicea, and for as many as have not seen my face in the flesh;

2 That their hearts might be comforted, being knit together in love, and unto all riches of the full assurance of understanding, [e] to the acknowledgement of the mystery of God, and of the Father, and of Christ;

3 § In [f] whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.

4 And this I say, lest any man should beguile you with enticing words.

5 For though I be absent in the flesh, yet am I with you in the spirit, joying and beholding your order, and the [g] stedfastness of your faith in Christ.

6 As [h] ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in him:

7 Rooted [i] and built up in him, and stablished in the faith, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving.

8 Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after / the tradition of men, after the [k] rudiments of the world, and not after Christ.

9 For [l] in him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily.

10 And [m] ye are complete in him, [n] which is the head of all principality and power:

11 In whom also ye are [o] circumcised with the circumcision made without hands, in [p] putting off the body of the sins of the flesh by the circumcision of Christ:

12 Buried [q] with him in baptism, wherein also ye are risen with him through the faith of the operation of God, who hath raised him from the dead.

13 And [r] you, being dead in your sins and the uncircumcision of your flesh, hath he quickened together with him, having forgiven you all trespasses;

14 Blotting [a] out the handwriting of ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to his cross;

15 And [d] having spoiled principalities and powers, he made a shew of them openly, triumphing over them in [e] it.

16 Let no man therefore judge you [f] in meat, or in drink, or [g] in respect of an holyday, or of the new moon, or of the sabbath days:

17 Which [h] are a shadow of things to come; but the body is of Christ.

18 Let no man [i] beguile you of your reward [k] in a voluntary humility and worshipping of angels, intruding into those things [m] which he hath not seen, vainly puffed up by his fleshly mind,

19 And not holding [n] the Head, from which all the body by joints and bands having nourishment ministered, and knit together, increaseth with the increase of God.

20 Wherefore if ye be [r] dead with Christ from the [o] rudiments of the world, why, as though living in the world, are ye subject to ordinances,

21 (Touch [s] not; taste not; handle not;

22 Which all are to perish with the using;) [u] after the commandments and doctrines of men?

23 Which [w] things have indeed a shew of wisdom in will worship, and humility, and [x] neglecting of the body; not in any honour to the satisfying of the flesh.

CHAP. III.

IF ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where [a] Christ sitteth on the right hand of God.

2 Set your [b] affection on things above, not on things on the earth.

3 For [c] ye are dead, [d] and your life is hid with Christ in God.

4 When [e] Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory.

5 Mortify [h] therefore your members which are upon the earth; fornication, uncleanness, inordinate affection, evil concupiscence, and covetousness, [i] which is idolatry:

6 For [m] which things' sake the wrath of God cometh on the children of disobedience:

7 In the which ye also walked some time, when ye lived in them.

8 But [o] now ye also put off all these; anger, wrath, malice, blasphemy, filthy communication out of your mouth.

9 Lie [r] not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds;

10 And have put on the new man, which [s] is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that [t] created him:

11 Where there is neither Greek nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free: [u] but Christ is all, and in all.

12 Put on therefore, [v] as the elect of God, holy and beloved, [x] bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, longsuffering;

13 Forbearing [y] one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a [z] quarrel against any: even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye.

16 Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another [c] in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord.

17 And [f] whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, [g] giving thanks to God and the Father by him.

18 Wives, [i] submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as it is fit in the Lord.

19 Husbands, [k] love your wives, and be not bitter against them.

20 Children, [l] obey your parents in all things: for this is well pleasing unto the Lord.

21 Fathers, [o] provoke not your children to anger, lest they be discouraged.

22 Servants, [p] obey in all things your masters according to the flesh; not with eyeservice, as menpleasers; but in singleness of heart, fearing God:

23 And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men;

24 Knowing that of the Lord ye shall receive the reward of the inheritance: [r] for ye serve the Lord Christ.

25 But he that doeth wrong shall receive for the wrong which he hath done: and [s] there is no respect of persons.

CHAP. IV.

MASTERS, give unto your servants that which is just and equal; knowing that ye also have a Master in heaven.

2 Continue [y] in prayer, and watch in the same with thanksgiving;

3 Withal praying also for us, that God would open unto us a door of utterance, to speak [a] the mystery of Christ, [b] for which I am also in bonds:

4 That I may make it manifest, as I ought to speak.

5 Walk [f] in wisdom toward them that are without, [g] redeeming the time.

6 Let your speech be alway with grace, [i] seasoned with salt, [k] that ye may know how ye ought to answer every man.

7 All my state shall [m] Tychicus declare unto you, who is a beloved brother, and a faithful minister and fellowservant in the Lord:

8 Whom I have sent unto you for the same purpose, that he might know your estate, and comfort your hearts;

9 With [p] Onesimus, a faithful and beloved brother, who is one of you. They shall make known unto you all things which are done here.

10 Aristarchus my fellowprisoner saluteth you, and Marcus, sister's son to Barnabas, (touching whom ye received commandments: if he come unto you, receive him;)

11 And Jesus, which is called Justus, who are of the circumcision. These only are my fellowworkers unto the kingdom of God, which have been a comfort unto me.

12 Epaphras, who is one of you, a servant of Christ, saluteth you, always [z] labouring [a] fervently for you in prayers, that ye may stand [a] perfect and [a] complete in all the will of God.

13 For I bear him record, that he hath a great zeal for you, and them that are in Laodicea, and them in Hierapolis.

14 Luke, [a] the beloved physician, and Demas, greet you.

15 Salute the brethren which are in Laodicea, and Nymphas, and the church which is in his house.

16 And when [c] this epistle is read among you, cause that it be read also in the church of the Laodiceans; and that ye likewise read the epistle from Laodicea.

17 And say to Archippus, Take heed to the [f] ministry which thou hast received in the Lord, that thou fulfil it.

18 The salutation by the hand of me Paul. [g] Remember my bonds. [h] Grace be with you. Amen.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CH. I. 2.—VARIOUS COSTUMES OF PHRYGIA. Phrygia, a country in Asia Minor. Phrygia was divided into Phrygia Major, of which Laodicea, Hierapolis, and Colosse, were cities; and Phrygia Minor, in which was Troy, the siege of which is celebrated in Homer. The Phrygians claimed to be the most ancient people of the world, and it is said that this claim was admitted by the Egyptians, who, though boastful of their own antiquity, were content to regard themselves as second to the Phrygians. Like other parts of Asia Minor which were distinguished provinces under the Roman empire, Phrygia is first historically known as a kingdom, and continued such until it was made a province of the Lydian monarchy. It remained a province of that monarchy until Crœsus, king of Lydia, was conquered by Cyrus of Persia, who added the Lydian kingdom to his empire. After that, Phrygia, like the rest of Asia Minor, became successively subject to the Greeks, the Romans, and the Turks. Phrygia was anciently celebrated for its fertility; but, under the Moslem yoke, a great part of the country lies uncultivated. Phrygia was divided by Constantine into two districts, called Phrygia Salutaris, and Phrygia Pacatiana. The country was mostly level, with a rich soil, which accounts for its fertility, and produced many choice commodities for exportation. They carried on a considerable commerce, having a safe coast and convenient harbours. They were idolaters, and, it is said, were the first inventors of divination by birds. Their characters are described as superstitious, voluptuous, and effeminate, without any pruriency or forecast, and of such a servile temper, that nothing but stripes and illusage could make them comply with their duty. Such were the people inhabiting the country of the Colossians. What a change must then have passed on those whom the apostle addresses as "saints and faithful brethren in Christ!" Respecting their various costumes the cut speaks for itself, which is collected from the antique.

CH. I. 2.—COLOSSÆ, or, as it is in many manuscripts, Colassæ. As before stated above, Colosse was a city in the province of Phrygia Magna, in Asia Minor. It was situated on a hill near the junction of the rivers Lycus and Meander, and not far from the cities of Hierapolis and Laodicea. Herodotus, the Greek historian, informs us that it was a great city of Phrygia, standing where the river Lycus, running under ground, disappears; but, rising up again above ground, at the distance of about five stadia or furlongs, empties itself into the river Meander. Lying in the southern part of the province, it was nearly directly east of Ephesus, north of Laodicea, and nearly west of Antioch in Pisidia. Xenophon mentions the city of Colosse as being 'a city well inhabited, pleasant, and large.'—Expedit. Cyr. In the time of Strabo, however, it seems to have been much diminished in size, as it is mentioned by him among the smaller towns. On the authority of Pliny, we learn that in the latter part of the reign of Nero, and not long after the epistle to the Colossians was written, Colosse, Laodicea, and Hierapolis, were at the same time overwhelmed by an earthquake.—Plin. Hist. Nat. lib v., c. 41. Colosse recovered, however, from the shock, and is mentioned by the Byzantine writers as among the most opulent cities. The government of this city was originally democratical, and its first ruler called Archon. The ancient town is now extinct, but its site is occupied by a village called Chonos, or Khonas. The village is described by Arundel as being situated most picturesquely under the immense range of mount Cadmus, which rises to a very lofty and perpendicular height behind the village. In some part clothed with pines, in others bare of soil, with vast chasms and caverns. The immense perpendicular chasm seen in the view affords an outlet to a mountain torrent, the bed of which is dry in summer. The approach to the village is as wild as the village itself is beautiful, abounding in tall trees, from which vines of the most luxuriant growth are suspended. In the immediate neighbourhood are several vestiges of an ancient city, consisting of arches, vaults, and squared stones, while the ground is strewed with broken pottery, which so generally and so remarkably indicates the site of ancient towns in the East. That these ruins are all that now remain of Colosse there seems no reason to doubt. It is evident that a Christian church was planted at Colosse before it was destroyed by the earthquake, A.D. 65: see ch. I. 2 Although the apostle Paul had twice visited the northern parts of Phrygia, it does not positively appear that he ever was at Colosse itself; but as the Gospel was first preached in Phrygia by Paul and Silas, accompanied also by Timothy, Acts xv. 40, 41; xvi. 1—5, 6; and as it is said that they went throughout Phrygia, visiting Iconium, Antioch, that they went to the principal cities and towns, the inference is natural that Colosse was favoured with his preaching. Besides, in Acts xviii. 23, it is said that Paul visited Phrygia again, after he had been to Philippi, Athens, Jerusalem, and Antioch. He "went over all the country of Galatia and Phrygia in order, strengthening all the disciples." It is not, indeed, expressly said of Paul and Silas that they went to Colosse, but as this was one of the principal cities of Phrygia, there is every reason to suppose that they preached the Gospel there. It has been inferred, from the apostle's expression, "as many as have not seen my face in the flesh," that he was neither at Colosse nor Laodicea; but it may be interpreted as only speaking of individuals who had not seen the apostle when at Colosse, but this did not imply that many others might not have seen him. And it may be fairly understood from the apostle's language, ch. I. 21—29, that he had himself, as a messenger of Christ, dispensed the Gospel to these Colossians.

CH. II. 1.—LAODICEA. It formerly rose to the rank of one of the largest cities in Phrygia. Its earlier name was Diospolis, but Antiochus II. of Syria, enlarged it, and called it after his consort Laodice. It traded much in fine wools produced by its flocks. It was frequently exposed to earthquakes. There was once a flourishing church there, but it went to decay. The glory departed when religion declined. Its temples are now desolate, and the stately edifices of ancient Laodicea are peopled by wolves, and jackals, and foxes.

The First Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the THESSALONIANS.

Written the first of the Epistles, and designed to confirm them in the faith and excite them to a holy conversation, A. D. 53.

CHAP. I.

PAUL, and Silvanus, and Timotheus, unto the church of the Thessalonians which is in God the Father and in the Lord Jesus Christ: [a] Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

2 We [d] give thanks to God always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers;

3 Remembering without ceasing [e] your work of faith, [f] and labour of love, and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, in the sight of God and our Father;

4 Knowing, brethren [g] beloved, [h] your election of God.

5 For [k] our gospel came not unto you in word only, but also in power, and in the Holy Ghost, [l] and in much assurance; as ye know what manner of men we were among you for your sake.

6 And ye became followers of us, and of the Lord, having received the word in much affliction, [m] with joy of the Holy Ghost:

7 So that ye were ensamples to all that believe in Macedonia and Achaia.

8 For from you sounded out the word of the Lord not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but also in every place your faith to God-ward is spread abroad; so that we need not to speak any thing.

9 For they themselves shew of us what manner of entering in we had unto you, [o] and how ye turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God;

10 And to wait for his Son from heaven, [t] whom he raised from the dead, even Jesus, which delivered us [u] from the wrath to come.

CHAP. II.

FOR yourselves, brethren, know our entrance in unto you, that it was not in vain:

2 But even after that we had suffered before, and were shamefully entreated, as ye know, at [x] Philippi, we were bold in our God to speak unto you the gospel of God with much contention.

3 For our exhortation was not of deceit, nor of uncleanness, nor in guile:

4 But as we were allowed of God [z] to be put in trust with the gospel, even so we speak; [a] not as pleasing men, but God, [b] which trieth our hearts.

5 For neither at any time used we flattering words, as ye know, nor a cloke of covetousness; [c] God is witness:

6 Nor [k] of men sought we glory, neither of you, nor yet of others, when we might have [§] been burdensome, [l] as the apostles of Christ.

7 But [m] we were gentle among you, even as a nurse cherisheth her children:

8 So being affectionately desirous of you, we were willing to have imparted unto you, not the gospel of God only, but also [p] our own souls, because ye were dear unto us.

9 For ye remember, brethren, our labour and travail: for [q] labouring night and day, [r] because we would not be chargeable unto any of you, we preached unto you the gospel of God.

10 Ye are witnesses, and God also, [s] how holily and justly and unblameably we behaved ourselves among you that believe:

11 As ye know how we exhorted and comforted and charged every one of you, as a father doth his children,

12 That ye would walk worthy of God, [t] who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory.

13 For this cause also thank we God without ceasing, because, when ye received the word of God which ye heard of us, ye received it [u] not as the word of men, but as it is in truth, the word of God, which [v] effectually worketh also in you that believe.

14 For ye, brethren, became followers of the churches of God which in Judæa are in Christ Jesus: for [w] ye also have suffered like things of your own countrymen, even as they have of the Jews:

15 Who both killed the Lord Jesus, and [x] their own prophets, and have [y] persecuted us; and they please not God, and are contrary to all men:

16 Forbidding [z] us to speak to the Gentiles that they might be saved, [a] to fill up their sins alway: for the wrath is come upon them to the uttermost.

17 But we, brethren, being taken from you for a short time in presence, not in heart, endeavoured the more abundantly to see your face with great desire.

18 Wherefore we would have come unto you, even I Paul, once and again; but [b] Satan hindered us.

19 For what is our hope, or joy, or [c] crown of [‡] rejoicing? Are not even ye in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ [d] at his coming?

20 For ye are our glory and joy.

CHAP. III.

WHEREFORE when we could no longer forbear, [e] we thought it good to be left at Athens alone;

2 And sent [f] Timotheus, our brother, and minister of God, and our fellow-labourer in the gospel of Christ, to establish you, and to comfort you concerning your faith:

3 That [g] no man should be moved by these afflictions: for yourselves know that [h] we are appointed thereunto.

4 For [i] verily, when we were with you, we told you before that we should suffer tribulation; even as it came to pass, and ye know.

5 For this cause, when I could no longer forbear, I sent to know your faith, [k] lest by some means the tempter have tempted you, and our labour be in vain.

6 But [l] now when Timotheus came from you unto us, and brought us good tidings of your faith and charity, and that ye have good remembrance of us always, desiring greatly to see us, [m] as we also to see you:

7 Therefore, brethren, we were comforted over you in all our affliction and distress by your faith:

8 For now we live, if ye [b] stand fast in the Lord.

9 For what thanks can we render to God again for you, for all the joy wherewith we joy for your sakes before our God;

10 Night and day [c] praying exceedingly that we might see your face, [d] and might perfect that which is lacking in your faith?

11 Now God himself and our Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ, † direct our way unto you.

12 And the Lord [g] make you to increase and abound in love one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you:

13 To the end he may [h] stablish your hearts unblameable in holiness before God, even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ [i] with all his saints.

CHAP. IV.

FURTHERMORE then we ‡ beseech you, brethren, and § exhort you by the Lord Jesus, [k] that as ye have received of us how ye ought to walk and to please God, so ye would abound more and more.

2 For ye know what commandments we gave you by the Lord Jesus.

3 For this is [l] the will of God, even [m] your sanctification, that ye should abstain from fornication:

4 That [n] every one of you should know how to possess his vessel in sanctification and honour;

5 Not in the lust of concupiscence, [o] even as the Gentiles which know not God:

6 That [p] no man go beyond and [q] defraud his brother in † any matter: because that the Lord [r] is the avenger of all such, as we also have forewarned you and testified.

7 For God hath not called us unto uncleanness, [s] but unto holiness.

8 He therefore that [t] despiseth, despiseth not man, but God, [u] who hath also given unto us his holy Spirit.

9 But as touching brotherly love ye need not that I write unto you: for ye yourselves are taught of God [x] to love one another.

10 And indeed ye do it toward all the brethren which are in all Macedonia: but we beseech you, brethren, that ye increase more and more;

11 And that ye study to be quiet, and to do your own business, and [a] to work with your own hands, as we commanded you;

12 That [b] ye may walk honestly toward them that are without, and that ye may have lack of [c] nothing.

13 But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, [d] even as others which have no hope.

14 For [e] if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so [f] them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him.

15 For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, that [g] we which are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not prevent them which are asleep.

16 For [h] the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first:

17 Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so [i] shall we ever be with the Lord.

18 Wherefore [k] comfort one another with these words.

CHAP. V.

BUT of the times and the seasons, brethren, ye have no need that I write unto you.

2 For yourselves know perfectly that [l] the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night.

3 For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape.

4 But [m] ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief.

5 Ye are all [n] the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness.

6 Therefore let us not sleep, as do others; but [o] let us watch and be sober.

7 For [p] they that sleep sleep in the night; and they that be drunken are drunken in the night.

8 But let us, who are of the day, be sober, [r] putting on the breastplate of faith and love; and for an helmet, the hope of salvation.

9 For [s] God hath not appointed us to wrath, [t] but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ,

10 Who died for us, that, whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him.

11 Wherefore ‖ comfort yourselves together, and edify one another, even as also ye do.

12 And we beseech you, brethren, [x] to know them which labour among you, and are over you in the Lord, and admonish you;

13 And to esteem them very highly in love for their work's sake. [y] And be at peace among yourselves.

14 Now we § exhort you, brethren, [a] warn them that are ‖ unruly, [b] comfort the feebleminded, [c] support the weak, [d] be patient toward all men.

15 See [e] that none render evil for evil unto any man; but ever follow that which is good, both among yourselves, and to all men.

16 Rejoice [f] evermore.

17 Pray [g] without ceasing.

18 In [h] every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you.

19 Quench [i] not the Spirit.

20 Despise not prophesyings.

21 Prove [k] all things; [l] hold fast that which is good.

22 Abstain from all appearance of evil.

23 And [m] the very God of peace [n] sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.

24 Faithful [o] is he that calleth you, who also will do it.

25 Brethren, pray for us.

26 Greet all the brethren with an holy kiss.

27 I † charge you by the Lord that this epistle be read unto all the holy brethren.

28 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

The Second Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the THESSALONIANS.

Written to correct an erroneous notion of Christ's speedily coming to judgment, and to encourage them under persecution.

CHAP. I.

PAUL, and [a] Silvanus, and Timotheus, unto the church of the Thessalonians in God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ:

2 Grace [b] unto you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 We [c] are bound to thank God always for you, brethren, as it is meet, because that your faith groweth exceedingly, and the charity of every one of you all toward each other aboundeth;

4 So that we ourselves glory in you in the churches of God for your patience and faith in all your persecutions and tribulations that ye endure:

5 Which is [d] a manifest token of the righteous judgment of God, that ye may be counted worthy of the kingdom of God, for which ye also suffer:

6 Seeing [e] it is a righteous thing with God to recompense tribulation to them that trouble you;

7 And to you who are troubled [f] rest with us, when [g] the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with [h] his mighty angels,

8 In [i] flaming fire †taking vengeance on them [k] that know not God, and [l] that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ:

9 Who [m] shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power;

10 When he shall come to be glorified in his saints, and to be admired in all them that believe (because our testimony among you was believed) in that day.

11 Wherefore also we pray always for you, that our God would ‡count you worthy of this calling, and fulfil all the good pleasure of his goodness, [n] and the work of faith with power:

12 That [o] the name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and ye in him, according to the grace of our God and the Lord Jesus Christ.

CHAP. II.

NOW we beseech you, brethren, [p] by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our gathering together unto him,

2 That ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand.

3 Let [q] no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, [r] except there come a falling away first, and [s] that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition;

4 Who opposeth and exalteth himself [t] above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God.

5 Remember ye not, that, when I was yet with you, I told you these things?

6 And now ye know what ‡withholdeth that he might be revealed in his time.

7 For [u] the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way.

8 And then shall that Wicked be revealed, [k] whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy [l] with the brightness of his coming:

9 Even him, whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and [m] signs and lying wonders,

10 And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

11 And [n] for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, [o] that they should believe a lie:

12 That they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but [p] had pleasure in unrighteousness.

13 But we are bound to give thanks alway to God for you, brethren beloved of the Lord, because God hath [q] from the beginning chosen you to salvation [r] through sanctification of the Spirit and belief of the truth:

14 Whereunto he called you by our gospel, to [s] the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

15 Therefore, brethren, [t] stand fast, and hold the traditions which ye have been taught, whether by word, or our epistle.

16 Now our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God, even our Father, [u] which hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting consolation and [v] good hope through grace, 17 Comfort your hearts, [w] and stablish you in every good word and work.

CHAP. III.

FINALLY, brethren, [x] pray for us, that the word of the Lord § may have free course, and be glorified, even as it is with you:

2 And that we may be delivered from ‖ unreasonable and wicked men: [y] for all men have not faith.

3 But the Lord is faithful, who shall stablish you, and [z] keep you from evil.

4 And we have confidence in the Lord touching you, that ye both do and will do the things which we command you.

5 And [a] the Lord direct your hearts into the love of God, and into the • patient waiting for Christ.

6 Now we command you, brethren, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, [b] that ye withdraw yourselves [c] from every brother that walketh disorderly, and not after the tradition which he received of us.

7 For yourselves know how ye ought to follow us: for [d] we behaved not ourselves disorderly among you;

8 Neither did we eat any man's bread for nought; but [e] wrought with labour and travail night and day, that we might not be chargeable to any of you:

9 Not [f] because we have not power, but to make ourselves an ensample unto you to follow us.

10 For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat.

11 For we hear that there are some which walk among you disorderly, working not at all, but are busybodies.

12 Now them that are such we command and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, [d] that with quietness they work, and eat their own bread.

13 But ye, brethren, [e] be [e] not weary in well doing.

14 And if any man obey not our word [f] by this epistle, note that man, and have no company with him, that he may be ashamed.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

1 & 2 Thes.—THESSALONICA. Thessalonica was a city and sea-port of Macedonia. It was also its metropolis, a considerable mart, and hence the most populous city of the country. It was at the head of the bay Thermaicus, or the gulf of Thessalonica, and was, therefore, favourably situated for commerce. It was also on the great Ægean way, was possessed of an excellent harbour, and had great advantages for commerce through the Hellespont, and with Asia Minor and the adjacent countries. It was south-west of Philippi and Amphipolis, and a short distance north-east of Berea. Macedonia was an independent country until it was subdued by the Romans. The occasion of the wars which led to its conquest by the Romans was an alliance which was formed by Philip the Second with Carthage, during the second Punic war. The Romans delayed their revenge for a season; but Philip having laid siege to Athens, the Athenians called the Romans to their aid, and they declared war against the Macedonians. Philip was compelled to sue for peace, to surrender his vessels, to reduce his army to 500 men, and to defray the expenses of the war. Perseus, the successor of Philip, took up arms against the Romans, and was totally defeated at Pydna by Paulus Æmilius, and the Romans took possession of the country. Indignant at their oppression, the Macedonian nobility, and the whole nation, rebelled under Andriscus; but, after a long struggle, they were overcome by Quintus Cæcilius, surnamed, from his conquest, Macedonius, and the country became a Roman province, B.C. 148. It was divided into four districts, and the city of Thessalonica was made the capital of the second division, and was the station of a Roman governor and questor. At the time, therefore, that the Gospel was preached there, this whole country was subject to Roman authority. The city called, when Paul visited it, Thessalonica, was anciently called Therme, and by this name was known in the times of Herodotus, Thucydides, and Æschines. We are informed by Strabo, that Cassander named the name of Therme to Thessalonica in honour of his wife, who was a daughter of Philip. Others have said that the name was given to it by Philip himself, in memory of a victory which he obtained over the armies of Thessaly. In the time of Brutus and Cassius it was a city of so much importance, that the promise of being permitted to plunder the city, as the reward of victory, infused new courage into their armies. The city was inhabited by Greeks, Romans, and Jews. It adored many gods, but particularly Jupiter, as the father of Hercules, the alleged founder of its ancient royal family. It had a celebrated amphitheatre, where gladiatorial shows were exhibited for the amusement of the citizens, and a circus for public games. The Roman, and the population was, of course, introduced after the conquest, and it is impossible now to estimate the relative number of the Greeks and the Romans in the time when the Gospel was preached there. In common with most of the other cities of Greece, a considerable number of Jews resided there, who had a synagogue at the time when the city was visited by Paul, Acts xvii. 1. Little is known of the morals of the place, but there is reason to believe that it was somewhat distinguished for dissoluteness of manners. An ancient classic author says, 'The females, particularly, could claim little credit on the score of modest, retiring demeanour; for this virtue was in so low estimation in the city, that the place was selected as the scene of the wanton fancies of the satirist. The name of the place now is Salonica. It is a Turkish commercial town, and contains 70,000 inhabitants. Its situation and appearance are thus described by Dr. Clarke: 'The walls of Salonica give a very remarkable appearance to the town, and cause it to be seen at a great distance, being whitewashed; and what is still more extraordinary, they are painted. They extend in a semicircular manner from the sea, enclosing the whole of the buildings within a peninsula, whose circuit is five or six miles; but a great part of the space within the walls is void. It is one of the few remaining cities which has preserved the ancient form of its fortifications, the mural turrets yet standing, and the walls that support them being entire. The antiquity is perhaps unknown; for though they have been ascribed to the Greek emperors, it is very evident they were constructed in two distinct periods of time, the old Cyclopean masonry remaining in the lower parts of them, surmounted by an upper structure of brick-work. Like all the ancient and modern cities of Greece, its wretched aspect within is forcibly contrasted with the beauty of its external appearance. The houses are generally built of unburned bricks, and, for the most part, they are no better than so many hovels. It is, however, a flourishing commercial town, from which is exported the corn, cotton, wool, tobacco, bees-wax, and silk of Macedonia. It is the seat of a pasha, and the still burning its population a considerable proportion of Jews. Rabbi Benjamin of Tudela, who visited it in A.D. 1160, describes it under the name of Saloniki, and says that it was built by Seleucus, one of the four Greek nobles who acted after Alexander; and that when he visited it, it was "a large city containing about 500 Jewish inhabitants." "The Jews," says he, "are much oppressed in this place, and live by the exercise of handicrafts." He describes it as having at that time more Jewish inhabitants than any other town in Greece. Thebes alone excepted. It is said at present to contain about 20,000 Jewish inhabitants. Its favourable situation for commerce is probably the cause of the numerous assemblage of the Jews there. The Gospel was first preached in Thessalonica by Paul and Silas. After their release from imprisonment at Philippi, they passed through Amphipolis and Apollonia, and came to Thessalonica.' This was the more important place, and they were probably attracted there because there were many Jews. Paul's custom in every place was to preach the Gospel first to them, and as there was a synagogue in Thessalonica, he entered it, and for three sabbath days reasoned respecting the Messiah. From this place they were driven by the opposition of the Jews. Nevertheless, here was an excellent church of Christ, consisting of Jews, Greeks, females of rank, and converted idolaters, Acts xvii. 4; 1 Thes. i. 9. For this interesting and laborious article the Editor is indebted to a popular commentator.

1 Thes. i. 7.—ACHAIA. Achaia, in its largest sense, comprehended the whole region of Greece. Achaia Proper was, however, a province of Greece, of which Corinth was the capital, and embracing the whole, if not, a considerable part, of the Peloponnesus. The Romans divided all the parts into two provinces, Macedonia and Achaia. It is worthy of remark, that Luke speaks of Gallio as being deputy or proconsul of Achaia at the time that Paul preached there (Acts xviii. 12); which was indeed the title borne by the superior officer in Achaia at that time, but which did not long continue, nor had it long been so at the time he wrote. The meaning of the apostle in the text must be taken extensively, signifying that the pious influence of the converted Thessalonians was felt in all the parts of Greece; that their piety was spoken of, and the effect of their conversion had been felt in all those places.

The First Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to TIMOTHY.

Giving him counsel how to conduct himself among the Ephesians, when Paul himself was driven from them by persecution; and written from Macedonia. See Acts xx. 1.

CHAP. 1.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ [a] by the commandment of God our Saviour, and Lord Jesus Christ, [b] which is our hope;

2 Unto Timothy, [c] my own son in the faith: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God our Father and Jesus Christ our Lord.

3 As I besought thee to abide still at Ephesus, [d] when I went into Macedonia, that thou mightest charge some [e] that they teach no other doctrine,

4 Neither give heed to fables and endless genealogies, [f] which minister questions, rather than godly edifying which is in faith: so do.

5 Now [g] the end of the commandment is charity out of a pure heart, and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned:

6 From which some [§] having swerved have turned aside unto vain jangling;

7 Desiring to be teachers of the law; understanding neither what they say, nor whereof they affirm.

8 But we know that [e] the law is good, if a man use it lawfully;

9 Knowing [h] this, that the law is not made for a righteous man, but for the lawless and disobedient, for the ungodly and for sinners, for unholy and profane, for murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for manslayers,

10 For whoremongers, for them that defile themselves with mankind, for menstealers, for liars, for perjured persons, and if there be any other thing that is contrary to sound doctrine;

11 According to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, [i] which was committed to my trust.

12 And I thank Christ Jesus our Lord, [k] who hath enabled me, for that he counted me faithful, [l] putting me into the ministry;

13 Who was before a blasphemer, [m] and a persecutor, and injurious: but I obtained mercy, because [n] I did it ignorantly in unbelief.

14 And [o] the grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant with faith and love which is in Christ Jesus.

15 This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that [p] Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.

16 Howbeit for this cause I obtained mercy, that in me first Jesus Christ might shew forth all longsuffering, for a pattern to them which should hereafter believe on him to life everlasting.

17 Now unto [q] the King eternal, [r] immortal, [s] invisible, [t] the only wise God, be honour and glory for ever and ever. Amen.

18 This charge I commit unto thee, son Timothy, according to the prophecies which went before on thee, that thou by them mightest war a good warfare;

19 Holding faith, and a good conscience; which some having put away concerning faith have made shipwreck:

20 Of whom is Hymenæus and Alexander; whom I have delivered unto Satan, that they may learn not to blaspheme.

CHAP. II.

I [a] EXHORT therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men;

2 For [d] kings, and [e] for all that are in † authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty.

3 For this is [f] good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour;

4 Who [i] will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth.

5 For there is one God, and [l] one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus;

6 Who [n] gave himself a ransom for all, ‡ to be testified in due time.

7 Whereunto I am ordained a preacher, and an apostle, (I speak the truth in Christ, and lie not;) [p] a teacher of the Gentiles in faith and verity.

8 I will therefore that men pray [r] every where, lifting up holy hands, without wrath and doubting.

9 In like manner also, that [t] women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefacedness and sobriety; not with ‖ broidered hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly array;

10 But (which becometh women professing godliness) with good works.

11 Let the woman learn in silence with all subjection.

12 But [v] I suffer not a woman to teach, [x] nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence.

13 For [y] Adam was first formed, then Eve.

14 And [e] Adam was not deceived, but the woman being deceived was in the transgression.

15 Notwithstanding she shall be saved in childbearing, if they continue in faith and charity and holiness with sobriety.

CHAP. III.

THIS is a true saying, If a man desire the office of a [g] bishop, he desireth a good work.

2 A [h] bishop then must be blameless, the husband of one wife, vigilant, sober, * of good behaviour, given to hospitality, apt to teach;

3 † Not given to wine, no striker, [k] not greedy of filthy lucre; but patient, not a brawler, not covetous;

4 One that ruleth well his own house, having his children in subjection with all gravity;

5 (For if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?)

6 Not ‡ a novice, lest being lifted up with pride he fall into the condemnation of the devil.

7 Moreover he must have a good report of them which are without; lest he fall into reproach and the snare of the devil.

8 Likewise must [p] the deacons be grave, not doubletongued, not given to much wine, not greedy of filthy lucre;

Digitized by Google

9 Holding [a] the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience.

10 And let these also first be proved; then let them use the office of a deacon, being found blameless.

11 Even [c] so must their wives be grave, not slanderers, sober, faithful in all things.

12 Let the deacons be the husbands of one wife, ruling their children and their own houses well.

13 For [f] they that have [o] used the office of a deacon well purchase to themselves a good degree, and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus.

14 These things write I unto thee, hoping to come unto thee shortly:

15 But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself [b] in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth.

16 And without controversy great is the mystery of godliness: [m] God was [t] manifest in the flesh, [n] justified in the Spirit, [o] seen of angels, [p] preached unto the Gentiles, [q] believed on in the world, [r] received up into glory.

CHAP. IV.

NOW the Spirit [p] speaketh expressly, that [s] in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed [p] to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils;

2 Speaking [t] lies in hypocrisy; [u] having their conscience seared with a hot iron;

3 Forbidding [v] to marry, [d] and commanding to abstain from meats, which God hath created to be received [c] with thanksgiving of them which believe and know the truth.

4 For [f] every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving:

5 For it is sanctified by the word of God and prayer.

6 If thou put the brethren in remembrance of these things, thou shalt be a good minister of Jesus Christ, [h] nourished up in the words of faith and of good doctrine, whereunto thou hast attained.

7 But refuse profane and old wives' fables, and [i] exercise thyself rather unto godliness.

8 For [f] bodily exercise profiteth § little: [w]but godliness is profitable unto all things, [x] having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come.

9 This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation.

10 For therefore we both labour and suffer reproach, because we trust in the living God, [r] who is the saviour of all men, especially of those that believe.

11 These things command and teach.

12 Let no man despise thy youth; but [y] be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity.

13 Till I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine.

14 Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee [p] by prophecy, [z] with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery.

15 Meditate upon these things; give thyself wholly to them; that thy profiting may appear [†] to all.

16 Take [b] heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both [b] save thyself, and [g] them that hear thee.

CHAP. V.

REBUKE [d] not an elder, but intreat him as a father; and the younger men as brethren;

2 The elder women as mothers; the younger as sisters, with all purity.

3 Honour widows that are widows indeed.

4 But if any widow have children or nephews, let them learn first to shew [†] piety at home, and [g] to requite their parents: for that is good and acceptable before God.

5 Now she that is a widow indeed, and desolate, trusteth in God, and [h] continueth in supplications and prayers [i] night and day.

6 But [l] she that liveth § in pleasure is dead while she liveth.

7 And these things give in charge, that they may be blameless.

8 But if any provide not for his own, [r] and specially for those of his own [u]house, he hath denied the faith, [v] and is worse than an infidel.

9 Let not a widow be [†] taken into the number under threescore years old, having been the wife of one man,

10 Well reported of for good works: if she have brought up children, if she have [z] lodged strangers, if she have washed the saints' feet, if she have relieved the afflicted, if she have diligently followed every good work.

11 But the younger widows refuse: for when they have begun to wax wanton against Christ, they will marry;

12 Having damnation, because they have cast off their first faith.

13 And [g] withal they learn [a] to be idle, wandering about from house to houses; and not only idle, but tattlers also and busybodies, speaking things which they ought not.

14 I will therefore that the younger women marry, bear children, guide the house, [i] give none occasion to the adversary to speak reproachfully.

15 For some are already turned aside after Satan.

16 If any man or woman that believeth have widows, let them relieve them, and let not the church be charged; that it may relieve them that are widows indeed.

17 Let [o] the elders that rule well be counted worthy of double honour, especially they who labour in the word and doctrine.

18 For the scripture saith, [p] Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn. And, [q] The labourer is worthy of his reward.

19 Against an elder receive not an accusation, but [l] before [s]two or three witnesses.

20 Them that sin rebuke before all, that others also may fear.

21 I charge thee before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, and the elect angels, that thou observe these things without [o] preferring one before another, doing nothing by partiality.

22 Lay [b] hands suddenly on no man, [g] neither be partaker of other men's sins: keep thyself pure.

23 Drink no longer water, but use a little wine [a] for thy stomach's sake and thine often infirmities.

24 Some [c] men's sins are open beforehand, going before to judgment; and some men they follow after.

Digitized by Google

25 Likewise also the good works of some are manifest beforehand; and they that are otherwise cannot be hid.

CHAP. VI.

LET as many [a] servants as are under the yoke count their own masters worthy of all honour, that the name of God and his doctrine be not blasphemed.

2 And they that have believing masters, let them not despise them, [g] because they are brethren; but rather do them service, because they are [†] faithful and beloved, partakers of the benefit. These things teach and exhort.

3 If any man teach otherwise, and consent not to wholesome words, even the words of our Lord Jesus Christ, [‡] and to the doctrine which is according to godliness;

4 He is [‡] proud, [i] knowing nothing, but [§] doting about questions and strifes of words, whereof cometh envy, strife, railings, evil surmisings,

5 [k] Perverse disputings of men of corrupt minds, and destitute of the truth, [m] supposing that gain is godliness: [n] from such withdraw thyself.

6 But [o] godliness with contentment is great gain.

7 For [p] we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out.

8 And having food and raiment let us be therewith content.

9 But [q] they that will be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition.

10 For [r] the love of money is the root of all evil: which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows.

13 I give thee charge in the sight of God, [d] who quickeneth all things, and before Christ Jesus, [f] who before Pontius Pilate witnessed a good [e] confession;

14 That thou keep this commandment without spot, unrebukeable, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ:

15 Which in his times he shall shew, who is the blessed and only Potentate, [h] the King of kings, and Lord of lords;

16 Who only hath immortality, dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto; [i] whom no man hath seen, nor can see: to whom be honour and power everlasting. Amen.

17 Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not highminded, [m] nor trust in [‡] uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy;

18 That they do good, that [n] they be rich in good works, [o] ready to distribute, [†] willing to [l] communicate;

19 Laying [m] up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may lay hold on eternal life.

20 O Timothy, keep that which is committed to thy trust, avoiding profane and vain babblings, and oppositions of science falsely so called:

21 Which some professing have erred concerning the faith. Grace be with thee. Amen.

¶ The first to Timothy was written from Laodicea, which is the chiefest city of Phrygia Pacatiana.

The Second Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to TIMOTHY.

CHAP. I.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, according to [a] the promise of life which is in Christ Jesus,

2 To Timothy, my dearly beloved son: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

3 I thank God, [b] whom I serve from my forefathers with pure conscience, that [c] without ceasing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day;

4 Greatly desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy tears, that I may be filled with joy;

5 When I call to remembrance [d] the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and [m] thy mother Eunice; and I am persuaded that in thee also.

6 Wherefore I put thee in remembrance that thou stir up the gift of God, which is in thee by the putting on of my hands.

7 For [e] God hath not given us the spirit of fear; [f] but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind.

8 Be not thou therefore ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, nor of me [g] his prisoner: [p] but be thou partaker of the afflictions of the gospel according to the power of God; of Onesiphorus; for he oft refreshed me, and was not ashamed of my chain:

17 But when he was in Rome, he sought me out very diligently, and found me.

18 The Lord grant unto him [e] that he may find mercy of the Lord in that day: and in how many things he ministered unto me at Ephesus, thou knowest very well.

CHAP. II.

THOU therefore, my son, [d] be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus.

2 And the things that thou hast heard of me [§] among many witnesses, [f] the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be [g] able to teach others also.

3 Thou therefore endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

4 No [i] man that warreth entangleth himself with the affairs of this life; that he may please him who hath chosen him to be a soldier.

5 And if a man also strive for masteries, yet is he not crowned, except he strive lawfully.

6 [k] The [l] husbandman that laboureth must be first partaker of the fruits.

7 Consider what I say; and the Lord give thee understanding in all things.

8 Remember that Jesus Christ [m] of the seed of David [n] was raised from the dead according to my gospel:

9 Wherein I suffer trouble, as an evil doer, [o] even unto bonds; but [p] the word of God is not bound.

10 Therefore I endure all things for the elect's sakes, that they may also obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory.

11 It is a faithful saying: For [q] if we be dead with him, we shall also live with him:

12 If [r] we suffer, we shall also reign with him: if [s] we deny him, he also will deny us:

13 If [t] we believe not, yet he abideth faithful: [u] he cannot deny himself.

14 Of these things put them in remembrance, charging them before the Lord that they strive not about words to no profit, but to the subverting of the hearers.

15 Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.

16 But shun profane and vain babblings: for they will increase unto more ungodliness.

17 And their word will eat as doth a [‡] canker: of whom is Hymenæus and Philetus;

18 Who concerning the truth have erred, saying that the resurrection is past already; and overthrow the faith of some.

19 Nevertheless [w] the foundation of God standeth [§] sure, having this seal, The Lord [x] knoweth them that are his. And, Let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity.

20 But in a great house there are not only vessels of gold and of silver, but also of wood and of earth; [y] and some to honour, and some to dishonour.

21 If [z] a man therefore purge himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto honour, sanctified, and meet for the master's use, and prepared unto every good work.

22 Flee [a] also youthful lusts: but follow righteousness, faith, charity, peace, with them that call on the Lord out of a pure heart.

23 But foolish and unlearned questions avoid, knowing that they do gender strifes.

CHAP. III.

THIS know also, that [e] in the last days perilous times shall come.

2 For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, [f] disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy,

3 Without natural affection, trucebreakers, [§] false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good,

4 Traitors, heady, highminded, [g] lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God;

5 Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away.

6 For [h] of this sort are they which creep into houses, and lead captive silly [i] women laden with sins, led away with divers lusts,

7 Ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth.

8 Now [k] as Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses, so do these also resist the truth: men of corrupt minds, [l] reprobate [m] concerning the faith.

9 But they shall proceed no further: for their folly shall be manifest unto all men, [n] as their's also was.

10 But thou [o] hast fully known my doctrine, manner of life, purpose, faith, longsuffering, charity, patience,

11 Persecutions, afflictions, which came unto me [p] at Antioch, [q] at Iconium, [r] at Lystra; what persecutions I endured: but [s] out of them all the Lord delivered me.

12 Yea, and [t] all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution.

13 But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived.

14 But [u] continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them;

15 And that from a child thou hast known [v] the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus.

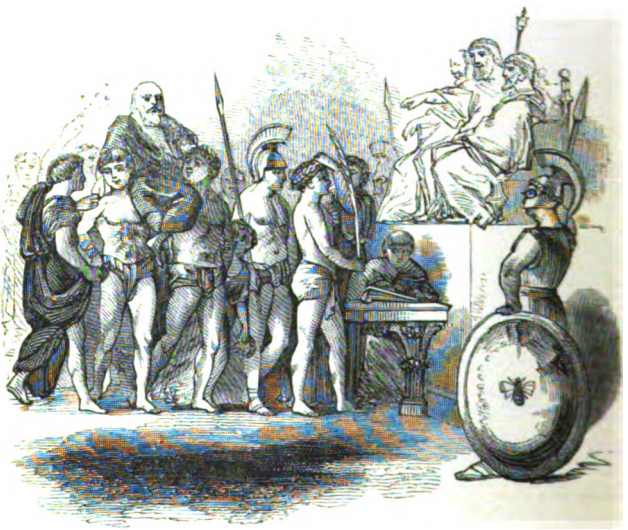
16 All [w] scripture is given by inspiration of God, [x] and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness:

17 That [y] the man of God may be perfect, [z] throughly furnished unto all good works.

CHAP. IV.

I CHARGE thee therefore before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, [a] who shall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and his kingdom;

2 Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, [b] rebuke, [c] exhort with all longsuffering and doctrine.



3 For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears;

4 And they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

2 Tim. III. 11.—ICONIUM, modern name Konieh. Iconium is now called Cogni. It was formerly the capital of Lycaonia, as it is now of Caramania, in Asia Minor. But the modern city, though it has an imposing appearance, is crumbling into ruins, mixed with small huts of sun-burnt bricks, and wretched thatched hovels.

Ch. IV. 7, 8.—VICTOR IN THE RACE RECEIVING THE CROWN. The illustrations in this article are chiefly from the valuable lectures of Paxton. Games and combats were instituted by the ancients in honour of their gods, and were celebrated with that view by the most polished and enlightened nations of antiquity. The most renowned heroes, legislators, and statesmen, did not think it unbecoming their character and dignity to mingle with the combatants, or contend in the race; they even reckoned it glorious to share in the exercises, and meritorious to carry away the prize. The victors were crowned with a wreath of laurel in presence of their country; they were celebrated in the rapturous effusions of their poets; they were admired and almost adored by the innumerable multitudes which flocked to the games, from every part of Greece, and many of the adjacent countries. They returned to their homes in a triumphal chariot, and made their entrance into their native city, not through the gates which admitted the vulgar throng, but through a breach in the walls, which were broken down to give them admission, and, at the same time, to express the persuasion of their fellow-citizens, that walls are of small use to a city defended by men of such tried courage and ability. Hence the surprising ardour which animated all the states of Greece to imitate the ancient heroes, and encircle their brows with wreaths, which rendered them still more the objects of admiration or envy to succeeding times, than the victories they had gained, or laws they had enacted. But the institutors of those games and combats had higher and nobler objects in view than veneration for the mighty dead, or the gratification of ambition or vanity; it was their design to prepare the youth for the profession of arms; to confirm their health, to improve their strength, their vigour, and activity; to inure them to fatigue; and to render them intrepid in close fight, where, in the infancy of the art of war, muscular force commonly decided the victory. This statement accounts for the striking allusions which the apostle Paul makes in his epistles to these celebrated exercises. Such references were calculated to touch the heart of a Greek, and of every one familiarly acquainted with them, in the liveliest manner, as well as to place before the eye of his mind the most glowing and correct images of spiritual and Divine things. No passages in the nervous and eloquent epistles from the pen of Paul have been more admired by critics and expositors, even in modern times, than those into which some allusion to these agonistic exercises is introduced; and perhaps none are calculated to leave a deeper impression on the Christian mind, or excite a stronger and more salutary influence on his actions. Certain persons were appointed to take care that all things were done according to custom, to decide controversies that happened among the antagonists, and to adjudge the prize to the victor. Some eminent writers are of opinion that Christ is called "the Author and finisher of faith," in allusion to these judges. Those who were designed for the profession of athletæ, or combatants, were trained up at the public expense, and had to exercise much self-denial in regard to their appetites and passions. The athletæ disencumbered themselves of every troublesome article of clothing, and the racers of whatever would impede them in their course. The combats were severe and dangerous, and the boxers were allowed to have in their hands balls of stone or lead. Those were branded with disgrace who gave up without contending to the last. The apostle alludes to these combats, so critics read his words in Timothy, "I have combated a good combat." The foot-race was another athletic game, to which the apostle here alludes, "I have finished my course." The Olympic games generally opened with races. The course was about 600 feet. At the extremity of the stadium was a goal, where the footraces ended. It was run only once. When the victor had received his reward, a herald, preceded by a trumpet, conducted him through the stadium, and proclaimed aloud his name and country; while the delighted multitudes, at the sight of him, redoubled their acclamations and applauses. The crown in the Olympic games was of wild olive, in the Pythian of laurel, in the Isthmian or Corinthian of pine tree, and in the Nemæan of smallage or parsley. These were most of them withering evergreens, hence the force and beauty of the contrast of an "incorruptible crown." The Christian is called to fight the good fight of faith, and lay hold of eternal life.

The Epistle of PAUL to TITUS.

Titus was a converted Greek, left at Crete, a large island in the Mediterranean, to preside over the churches there; and this epistle contains advice for the performance of his sacred duties.

CHAP. I.

PAUL, a servant of God, and an apostle of Jesus Christ, according to the faith of God's elect, and the acknowledging of the truth [a] which is after godliness;

2 † In [b] hope of eternal life, which God, [c] that cannot lie, promised [d] before the world began;

3 But hath in due times manifested his word through preaching, [e] which is committed unto me according to the commandment of God our Saviour;

4 To [f] Titus, mine own son after [g] the common faith: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ our Saviour.

5 For this cause left I thee in Crete, that thou shouldest [m] set in order the things that are § wanting, and [n] ordain elders in every city, as I had appointed thee:

6 If any be blameless, the husband of one wife, having faithful children, not accused of riot, or unruly.

7 For a bishop must be blameless, as [o] the steward of God; not self-willed, not soon angry, [p] not given to wine, no striker, [q] not given to filthy lucre;

8 But a lover of hospitality, a lover of good [r] men, sober, just, holy, temperate;

9 Holding fast [s] the faithful word † as he hath been taught, that he may be able by sound doctrine both to exhort and to convince the gainsayers.

10 For there are many unruly and vain talkers and deceivers, [t] specially they of the circumcision:

11 Whose mouths must be stopped, who subvert whole houses, teaching things which they ought not, for filthy lucre's sake.

12 One [u] of themselves, even a prophet of their own, said, The Cretians are always liars, evil beasts, slow bellies.

13 This witness is true. Wherefore rebuke them sharply, that they may be sound in the faith;

14 Not giving heed to Jewish fables, and commandments of men, that turn from the truth.

15 Unto [x] the pure all things are pure: but [y] unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure; but even their mind and conscience is defiled.

16 They profess that they know God; but [z] in works they deny him, being abominable, and disobedient, [a] and unto every good work ‖ reprobate.

CHAP. II.

BUT speak thou the things which become sound doctrine:

2 That the aged men be [b] sober, grave, temperate, sound in faith, in charity, in patience.

3 The aged [c] women likewise, that they be in behaviour as becometh † holiness, not ‡ false accusers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things;

4 That they may teach the young women to be § sober, to love their husbands, to love their children,

5 To be discreet, chaste, keepers at home, good, [d] obedient to their own husbands, [e] that the word of God be not blasphemed.

A. D. 65.

6 Young men likewise exhort to be [f] sober minded.

7 In all things shewing thyself a pattern of good works: in doctrine shewing uncorruptness, gravity, sincerity,

8 Sound speech, that cannot be condemned; [g] that he that is of the contrary part may be ashamed, having no evil thing to say of you.

9 Exhort [h] servants to be obedient unto their own masters, and to please them well in all things; not † answering again;

10 Not purloining, but shewing all good fidelity; that they may adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things.

11 For [i] the grace of God that bringeth salvation ‖ hath [k] appeared to all men,

12 Teaching us [l] that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly, in this present world;

13 Looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious [m] appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ;

14 Who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself [n] a peculiar people, zealous of good works.

15 These things speak, and exhort, and rebuke with all authority. Let no man despise thee.

CHAP. III.

PUT them in mind [a] to be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates, to be ready to every good work,

2 To [b] speak evil of no man, to be no brawlers, but [c] gentle, shewing all meekness unto all men.

3 For [d] we ourselves also were sometimes foolish, disobedient, deceived, serving divers lusts and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful, and hating one another.

4 But after that the kindness and † love of [e] God our Saviour toward man appeared,

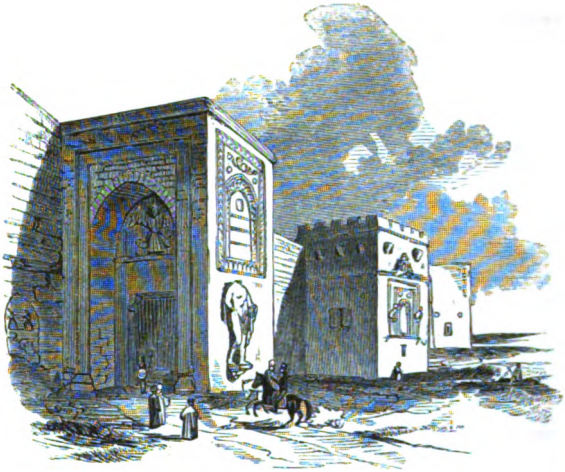
5 Not [f] by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by [g] the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost;

6 Which [h] he shed on us § abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour;

7 That [i] being justified by his grace, [k] we should be made heirs according to the hope of eternal life.

8 This is a faithful saying, and these things I will that thou affirm constantly, that they which have believed in God might be careful [l] to maintain good works. These things are good and profitable unto men.

9 But avoid foolish questions, and genealogies, and contentions, and strivings about the law; for they are unprofitable and vain.



10 A man that is an heretick after the first and second admonition [m] reject;

11 Knowing that he that is such is sub-

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CH. I. 12.—CRETE. Crete is one of the largest islands in the Mediterranean Sea, now called Candia. Its length is one hundred and sixty miles, but its width varies from thirty-five to six miles. The chief glory of this island lay in having produced the great legislator Minos, whose institutions did wonders in softening the manners of a barbarous people, and extended their beneficial influence throughout Greece. The Cretans were excellent sailors, and their vessels visited all the neighbouring coasts. Their great population in time past may be imagined from their having had a hundred considerable towns or cities. The idolatrous inhabitants were remarkably given to lying, in consequence of which an impudent lie was proverbially called a Cretian lie. The apostle confirms this character by referring to an expression of a poet or prophet of their own, said to be Epimenides, who was of Creta.

The Epistle of PAUL to PHILEMON.

Onesimus, a slave, ran away from his master, Philemon, went to Rome, heard Paul there, and was converted. This Epistle was sent by him to Philemon, on Onesimus' returning to his service, urging him to receive him, both as a servant and a Christian.

A. D. 64.

PAUL, [a] a prisoner of Jesus Christ, and Timothy our brother, unto Philemon our dearly beloved, and fellowlabourer,

2 And to our beloved Apphia, and [c] Archippus [d] our fellowsoldier, and to [f] the church in thy house:

3 Grace [g] to you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 I [h] thank my God, making mention of thee always in my prayers,

5 Hearing [i] of thy love and faith, which thou hast toward the Lord Jesus, and toward all saints;

6 That the communication of thy faith may become effectual [m] by the acknowledging of every good thing which is in you in Christ Jesus.

7 For we have great joy and consolation in thy love, because the bowels of the saints [o] are refreshed by thee, brother.

8 Wherefore, [p] though I might be much bold in Christ to injoin thee that which is convenient,

9 Yet for love's sake I rather beseech thee, being such an one as Paul the aged, and now also a prisoner of Jesus Christ.

10 I beseech thee for my son [r] Onesimus, [s] whom I have begotten in my bonds:

11 Which in time past was to thee unprofitable, but now profitable to thee and to me:

12 Whom I have sent again: thou therefore receive him, that is, mine own bowels:

13 Whom I would have retained with me, [t] that in thy stead he might have ministered unto me in the bonds of the gospel:

14 But without thy mind would I do nothing; [u] that thy benefit should not be as it were of necessity, but willingly.

15 For [x] perhaps he therefore departed for a season, that thou shouldest receive him for ever;

16 Not now as a servant, but above a servant, a [y] brother beloved, specially to me, but how much more unto thee, [z] both in the flesh, and in the Lord?

17 If thou count me therefore [a] a partner, receive him as myself.

18 If he hath wronged thee, or oweth thee ought, put that on mine account;

19 I Paul have written it with mine own hand, I will repay it: albeit I do not say to thee how thou owest unto me even thine own self besides.

20 Yea, brother, let me have joy of thee in the Lord: refresh my bowels in the Lord.

21 Having [e] confidence in thy obedience I wrote unto thee, knowing that thou wilt also do more than I say.

22 But withal prepare me also a lodging: for [b] I trust that [c] through your prayers I shall be given unto you.

23 There salute thee [d] Epaphras, my fellowprisoner in Christ Jesus;

25 The [i] grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. Amen.

¶ Written from Rome to Philemon, by Onesimus a servant.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

Postcript.—COLOSSEUM, the subject for Philemon, is a prominent object at Rome, whence the epistle was sent. The runaway servant of Philemon, a converted Gentile at Colosse, fled to Rome, heard Paul preach, was converted, and sent back with every kindly feeling to his master. Paul was still "a prisoner of Jesus Christ" at Rome. Two of the most prominent relics of ancient Rome are the Pantheon and Colosseum. The Colosseum was erected under the auspices of Vespasian and Titus. It is a stupendous monument of fallen greatness, and has been thought to exceed the pyramids of Egypt and all the wonders of the ancient world. Embosomed in the heart of the city, it towered above every other object. Its circumference measured 1770 feet, including an area of about four acres and a half of land. Its extreme height was 164 feet. There were seats in the interior for 87,000 people, and the galleries, &c., held about 30,000 more. For upwards of three centuries human blood flowed in the Colosseum; and here many of the primitive martyrs suffered, killed by wild beasts.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the HEBREWS.

The style and mode of argument, in connexion with other circumstances, prove this Epistle to have been written by the Apostle Paul. The design of it was to confirm the Hebrews in the faith of the gospel. A. D. 65.

CHAP. I.

GOD, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets,

2 Hath in these last days [b]spoken unto us by his Son, [c] whom he hath appointed heir of all things, [d] by whom also he made the worlds;

3 Who [e] being the brightness of his glory, and the express image of his person, and [f] upholding all things by the word of his power, [g] when he had by himself purged our sins, [h] sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high;

4 Being made so much better than the angels, as he hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent name than they.

5 For unto which of the angels said he at any time, [m] Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee? And again, [n] I will be to him a Father, and he shall be to me a Son?

6 ‡And again, when he bringeth in [p] the firstbegotten into the world, he saith, [r] And let all the angels of God worship him.

7 And [q] of the angels he saith, [r] Who maketh his angels spirits, and his ministers a flame of fire.

8 But unto the Son he saith, [s] Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: a sceptre of [t]righteousness is the sceptre of thy kingdom.

9 Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity; therefore God, even thy God, [u] hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows.

10 And, [v] Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the works of thine hands:

11 They shall perish; but thou remainest; and they all shall wax old as doth a garment;

12 And as a vesture shalt thou fold them up, and they shall be changed: but thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail.

13 But to which of the angels said he at any time, [c] Sit on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool?

14 Are [f] they not all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be heirs of salvation?

CHAP. II.

THEREFORE we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should [†]let them slip.

2 For if the word [g] spoken by angels was stedfast, and [i] every transgression and disobedience received a just recompence of reward;

3 How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation; which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him;

4 God also bearing them witness, [l] both with signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and [§] gifts of the Holy Ghost, according to his own will?

5 For unto the angels hath he not put in subjection the world to come, whereof we speak.

6 But one in a certain place testified, saying, [a] What is man, that thou art mindful of him? or the son of man, that thou visitest him?

7 Thou madest him [e]a little lower than the angels; thou crownedst him with glory and honour, and didst set him over the works of thy hands:

8 Thou [k] hast put all things in subjection under his feet. For in that he put all in subjection under him, he left nothing that is not put under him. But now [k] we see not yet all things put under him.

9 But we see Jesus, [l] who was made a little lower than the angels [†] for the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honour; that he by the grace of God should taste death [l] for every man.

10 For it became him, [‡] for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the captain of their salvation [‡] perfect through sufferings.

11 For both he that sanctifieth and they who are sanctified are all of one: for which cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren,

12 Saying, [y] I will declare thy name unto my brethren, in the midst of the church will I sing praise unto thee.

13 And again, [z] I will put my trust in him. And again, [a] Behold I and the children which God hath given me.

14 Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same; [b] that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil;

15 And deliver them who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage.

16 For verily he [c] took not on him the nature of angels; but he took on him the seed of Abraham.

17 Wherefore in all things it behoved him [d] to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be [e] a merciful and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people.

18 For in that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succour them that are tempted.

CHAP. III.

WHEREFORE, holy brethren, partakers of [h] the heavenly calling, consider the Apostle and High Priest of our profession, Christ Jesus;

2 Who was faithful to him that [‡]appointed him, as also [k] Moses was faithful in all his house.

3 For this man was counted worthy of more glory than Moses, inasmuch as [m] he who hath builded the house hath more honour than the house.

4 For every house is builded by some man; but [n] he that built all things is God.

5 And Moses verily was faithful in all his house, as [a] a servant, for a testimony of those things which were to be spoken after;

6 But Christ as [a] a son over his own house; [b] whose house are we, if we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end.

7 Wherefore (as the Holy Ghost saith, [b] To day if ye will hear his voice,

8 Harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, in the day of temptation in the wilderness:

9 When your fathers tempted me, proved me, and saw my works forty years.

10 Wherefore I was grieved with that generation, and said, They do alway err in their heart; and they have not known my ways.

11 So I sware in my wrath, [†]They shall not enter into my rest.)

12 Take heed, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God.

13 But exhort one another daily, while it is called To day; lest any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin.

14 For we are made partakers of Christ, if we hold the beginning of our confidence stedfast unto the end;

15 While it is said, To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation.

16 For [r] some, when they had heard, did provoke: howbeit not all that came out of Egypt by Moses.

17 But with whom was he grieved forty years? was it not with them that had sinned, [t] whose carcases fell in the wilderness?

18 And to whom sware he that they should not enter into his rest, but to them that believed not?

19 So [r] we see that they could not enter in because of unbelief.

CHAP. IV.

LET [a] us therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it.

2 For unto us was the gospel preached, as well as unto them: but [§] the word preached did not profit them, [c] not being mixed with faith in them that heard it.

3 For [d] we which have believed do enter into rest, as he said, f As I have sworn in my wrath, if they shall enter into my rest: although the works were finished from the foundation of the world.

4 For he spake in a certain place of the seventh day on this wise, [g] And God did rest the seventh day from all his works.

5 And in this place again, If they shall enter into my rest.

6 Seeing therefore it remaineth that some must enter therein, and they to whom [†] it was first preached entered not in because of unbelief:

7 (Again, he limiteth a certain day, saying in David, To day, after so long a time; as it is said, [b] To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts.

8 For if [§] Jesus had given them rest, then would he not afterward have spoken of another day.

9 There remaineth therefore a [†] rest to the people of God.

10 For he that is entered into his rest, he also hath ceased from his own works, as God did from his.)

11 Let us labour therefore to enter into that rest, lest any man fall after the same example of [c] unbelief.

12 For the word of God is [k] quick, and powerful, and [d] sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is [e] a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart.

13 Neither [f] is there any creature that is not manifest in his sight: but all things are [k] naked and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do.

14 Seeing then that we have a great high priest, [l] that is passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us hold fast our profession.

15 For [m] we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but [n] was in all points tempted like as we are, yet [o] without sin.

16 Let [p] us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need.

CHAP. V.

FOR every high priest taken from among men is ordained for men in things pertaining to God, that he may offer both gifts and sacrifices for sins:

2 Who can [‡] have compassion on the ignorant, and on them that are out of the way; for that he himself also is compassed with infirmity.

3 And [r] by reason hereof he ought, as for the people, so also for himself, to offer for sins.

4 And no man taketh this honour unto himself, but he that is called of God, as [s] was Aaron.

5 So [t] also Christ glorified not himself to be made an high priest; but he that said unto him, [u] Thou art my Son, to day have I begotten thee.

6 As he saith also in another place, [x] Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec.

7 Who in the days of his flesh, when he had [b] offered up prayers and supplications with strong crying and tears unto him that was able to save him from death, and was heard [‖] in [c] that he feared;

8 Though he were a Son, yet learned he [d] obedience by the things which he suffered;

9 And being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him;

10 Called of God an high priest after the order of Melchisedec.

11 Of whom we have many things to say, and hard to be uttered, seeing ye are [k] dull of hearing.

12 For when for the time ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you again which be the first principles of the oracles of God; and are become such as have need of [‡] milk, and not of strong meat.

13 For every one that useth milk [‡] is unskilful in the word of righteousness: for he is a babe.

14 But strong meat belongeth to them that are [‖] of full age, even those who by reason [e] of use have their senses exercised to discern both good and evil.

CHAP. VI.

THEREFORE [l] leaving the [‡] principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto perfection; not laying again the foundation of repentance from [a] dead works, and of faith toward God,

Digitized by Google

2 Of [b] the doctrine of baptisms, [c] and of laying on of hands, [d] and of resurrection of the dead, [e] and of eternal judgment.

3 And this will we do, if God permit.

4 For [f] it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of [g] the heavenly gift, and [h] were made partakers of the Holy Ghost,

5 And have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come,

6 If they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; [i] seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame.

7 For the earth which drinketh in the rain that cometh oft upon it, and bringeth forth herbs meet for them [†] by whom it is dressed, [k] receiveth blessing from God:

8 But [l] that which beareth thorns and briers is rejected, and is nigh unto cursing; whose end is to be burned.

9 But, beloved, we are persuaded better things of you, and things that accompany salvation, though we thus speak.

10 For [m] God is not unrighteous to forget [n] your work and labour of love, which ye have shewed toward his name, in that ye have [o] ministered to the saints, and do minister.

11 And we desire that every one of you do shew the same diligence [p] to the full assurance of hope unto the end:

12 That ye be not slothful, but followers of them who through faith and patience [q] inherit the promises.

13 For when God made promise to Abraham, because he could swear by no greater, [r] he sware by himself,

14 Saying, Surely blessing I will bless thee, and multiplying I will multiply thee.

15 And so, after he had patiently endured, he obtained the promise.

16 For men verily swear by the greater: and [s] an oath for confirmation is to them an end of all strife.

17 Wherein God, willing more abundantly to shew unto [t] the heirs of promise the immutability of his counsel, [§] confirmed it by an oath:

18 That by two immutable things, in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope [u] set before us:

19 Which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and stedfast, [x] and which entereth into that within the veil;

20 Whither [y] the forerunner is for us entered, even Jesus, [z] made an high priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec.

CHAP. VII.

FOR this [a] Melchisedec, king of Salem, priest of the most high God, who met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings, and blessed him;

2 To whom also Abraham gave a tenth part of all; first being by interpretation King of righteousness, and after that also King of Salem, which is, King of peace;

3 Without father, without mother, without [b] descent, having neither beginning of days, nor end of life; but made like unto the Son of God; abideth a priest continually.

4 Now consider how great this man was, unto whom even the patriarch Abraham gave the tenth of the spoils.

5 And verily [c] they that are of the sons of Levi, who receive the office of the priesthood, have a commandment to take tithes of the people according to the law, that is, of their brethren, though they come out of the loins of Abraham:

6 But he whose [d] descent is not counted from them received tithes of Abraham, and blessed [e] him that had the promises.

7 And without all contradiction the less is blessed of the better.

8 And here men that die receive tithes; but there he receiveth them, [m] of whom it is witnessed that he liveth.

9 And as I may so say, Levi also, who receiveth tithes, payed tithes in Abraham.

10 For he was yet in the loins of his father, when Melchisedec met him.

11 If [f] therefore perfection were by the Levitical priesthood, (for under it the people received the law,) what further need was there that another priest should rise after the order of Melchisedec, and not be called after the order of Aaron?

12 For the priesthood being changed, there is made of necessity a change also of the law.

13 For he of whom these things are spoken pertaineth to another tribe, of which no man gave attendance at the altar.

14 For it is evident that [g] our Lord sprang out of Juda; of which tribe Moses spake nothing concerning priesthood.

15 And it is yet far more evident: for that after the similitude of Melchisedec there ariseth another priest, 16 Who is made, not after the law of a carnal commandment, but after the power of an endless life.

17 For he testifieth, [h] Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec.

18 For there is verily a disannulling of the commandment going before for [i] the weakness and unprofitableness thereof.

19 For [k] the law made nothing perfect, [l] but the bringing in of a better hope did; by the which [m] we draw nigh unto God.

20 And inasmuch as not without an oath he was made priest:

21 (For those priests were made without [n] an oath; but this with an oath by him that said unto him, The Lord sware and will not repent, Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec:)

22 By so much was Jesus made a surety of a better testament.

23 And they truly were many priests, because they were not suffered to continue by reason of death:

24 But this man, because he continueth ever, hath [o] an unchangeable priesthood.

25 Wherefore he is able also to save them [†] to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth [p] to make intercession for them.

26 For such an high priest became us, [q] who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, [r] and made higher than the heavens;

27 Who needeth not daily, as those high priests, to offer up sacrifice, [s] first for his own sins, [t] and then for the people's: for [u] this he did once, when he offered up himself.

28 For the law maketh men high priests which have infirmity; but the word of the oath, which was since the law, maketh the Son, who is [§] consecrated for evermore.

CHAP. VIII.

NOW of the things which we have spoken this is the sum: We have such an high priest, [b] who is set on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens;

2 A minister of [c] the sanctuary, and of [d] the true tabernacle, which the Lord pitched, and not man.

3 For every high priest is ordained to offer gifts and sacrifices: wherefore [e] it is of necessity that this man have somewhat also to offer.

4 For if he were on earth, he should not be a priest, seeing that [f] there are priests that offer gifts according to the law:

5 Who serve unto the example and [h] shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was admonished of God when he was about to make the tabernacle: for, [i] See, saith he, that thou make all things according to the pattern shewed to thee in the mount.

6 But now [k] hath he obtained a more excellent ministry, by how much also he is the mediator of a better [§] covenant, which was established upon better promises.

7 For [l] if that first covenant had been faultless, then should no place have been sought for the second.

8 For finding fault with them, he saith, [m] Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah:

9 Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day when I took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt; because they continued not in my covenant, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord.

10 For [n] this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, saith the Lord; I will [o] put my laws into their mind, and write them [p] in their hearts: and [q] I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people:

11 And [r] they shall not teach every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for all shall know me, from the least to the greatest.

12 For I will be merciful to their unrighteousness, [s] and their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more.

13 In [t] that he saith, A new covenant, he hath made the first old. Now that which decayeth and waxeth old is ready to vanish away.

CHAP. IX.

THEN verily the first covenant had also [u] ordinances of divine service, and [v] a worldly sanctuary.

2 For [h] there was a tabernacle made; the first, wherein was [i] the candlestick, and [k] the table, and the shewbread; which is called [†] the sanctuary.

3 And [l] after the second veil, the tabernacle which is called the Holiest of all;

4 Which had the golden censer, and the [m] ark of the covenant overlaid round about with gold, wherein was [n] the golden pot that had manna, and [p] Aaron's rod that budded, and [q] the tables of the covenant;

5 And [r] over it the cherubims of glory shadowing the mercyseat; of which we cannot now speak particularly.

6 Now when these things were thus ordained, [s] the priests went always into the first tabernacle, accomplishing the service of God.

7 But into the second went the high priest alone [a] once every year, not without blood, which he offered for himself, and for the errors of the people:

8 The Holy Ghost this signifying, that [e] the way into the holiest of all was not yet made manifest, while as the first tabernacle was yet standing:

9 Which was a figure for the time then present, in which were offered both gifts and sacrifices, [f] that could not make him that did the service perfect, as pertaining to the conscience;

10 Which stood only in meats and drinks, and divers washings, [g] and carnal [†] ordinances, imposed on them until the time of reformation.

11 But Christ being come [i] an high priest of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building;

12 Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but [l] by his own blood he entered in [m] once into the holy place, [n] having obtained eternal redemption for us.

13 For if the blood of bulls and of goats, and the ashes of an heifer sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh:

14 How much more shall the blood of Christ, [r] who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without [‖] spot to God, [s] purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?

15 And for this cause [t] he is the mediator of the new testament, that by means of death, for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first testament, they which are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance.

16 For where a testament is, there must also of necessity [†] be the death of the testator.

17 For [u] a testament is of force after men are dead: otherwise it is of no strength at all while the testator liveth.

18 Whereupon neither the first testament was [§] dedicated without blood.

19 For when Moses had spoken every precept to all the people according to the law, [x] he took the blood of calves and of goats, [k] with water, and [‖] scarlet wool, and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book, and all the people,

20 Saying, [z] This is the blood of the testament which God hath injoined unto you.

21 Moreover [a] he sprinkled with blood both the tabernacle, and all the vessels of the ministry.

22 And almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and [b] without shedding of blood is no remission.

23 It was therefore necessary that the patterns of things in the heavens should be purified with these; but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these.

24 For [m] Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true; but into heaven itself, now [r] to appear in the presence of God for us:

25 Nor yet that he should offer himself often, as the high priest entereth into the holy place every year with blood of others;

26 For then must he often have suffered since the foundation of the world: but now once [n] in the end of the world hath he appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself.

27 And [a] as it is appointed unto men once to die, [b] but after this the judgment:

28 So Christ was once offered to bear the sins [c] of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation.

CHAP. X.

FOR the law having [d] a shadow of good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices which they offered year by year continually make the comers thereunto [f] perfect.

2 For then [g] would they not have ceased to be offered? because that the worshippers once purged should have had no more conscience of sins.

3 But in those sacrifices there is a remembrance again made of sins every year.

4 For [m] it is not possible that the blood of bulls and of goats should take away sins.

5 Wherefore when he cometh into the world, he saith, [n] Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not, but a body [†] hast thou prepared me:

6 In burnt offerings and sacrifices for sin thou hast had no pleasure.

7 Then said I, Lo, I come (in the volume of the book it is written of me,) to do thy will, O God.

8 Above when he said, Sacrifice and offering and burnt offerings and offering for sin thou wouldest not, neither hadst pleasure therein; which are offered by the law;

9 Then said he, Lo, I come to do thy will, O God. He taketh away the first, that he may establish the second.

10 By [o] the which will we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.

11 And every priest standeth [p] daily ministering and offering oftentimes the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins:

12 But [q] this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins, for ever sat down on the right hand of God;

13 From henceforth expecting [r] till his enemies be made his footstool.

14 For by one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified.

15 Whereof the Holy Ghost also is a witness to us: for after that he had said before,

16 This is [s] the covenant that I will make with them after those days, saith the Lord, I will put my laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them;

17 ‖ And their sins and iniquities will I remember no more.

18 Now where remission of these is, there is no more offering for sin.

19 Having therefore, brethren, [t] boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus,

20 By [u] a new and living way, which he hath [†] consecrated for us, through the veil, that is to say, his flesh;

21 And having [v] an high priest over [w] the house of God;

22 Let us draw near with a true heart [x] in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, and [y] our bodies washed with pure water.

23 Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; (for [z] he is faithful that promised;)

24 And let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works:

25 Not [b] forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and [d] so much the more, as ye see [f] the day approaching.

26 For [g] if we sin wilfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins,

27 But a certain fearful looking for of judgment and [i] fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries.

28 He [k] that despised Moses' law died without mercy under two or three witnesses:

29 Of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, [n] and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace?

30 For we know him that hath said, [p] Vengeance belongeth unto me, I will recompense, saith the Lord. And again, [r] The Lord shall judge his people.

31 It [s] is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.

32 But [t] call to remembrance the former days, in which, after ye were illuminated, ye endured a great fight of afflictions;

33 Partly, whilst ye were made a gazingstock both by reproaches and afflictions; and partly, whilst [u] ye became companions of them that were so used.

34 For ye had compassion of me in my bonds, and [v] took joyfully the spoiling of your goods, knowing [‡] in yourselves that ye have in heaven a better and an enduring substance.

35 Cast not away therefore your confidence, [y] which hath great recompence of reward.

36 For [a] ye have need of patience, that, after ye have done the will of God, [b] ye might receive the promise.

37 For [d] yet a little while, and [e] he that shall come will come, and will not tarry.

38 Now [f] the just shall live by faith: but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him.

39 But we are not of them who draw back unto perdition; but of them that believe to the saving of the soul.

CHAP. XI.

NOW faith is the [§] substance of things hoped for, the evidence [i] of things not seen.

2 For by it the elders obtained a good report.

3 Through faith we understand that [k] the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear.

4 By faith [l] Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, by which he obtained witness that he was righteous, God testifying of his gifts: and by it he being dead [‡] yet [n] speaketh.

5 By faith [o] Enoch was translated that he should not see death; and was not found, because God had translated him: for before his translation he had this testimony, that he pleased God.

6 But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.

7 By faith [p] Noah, being warned of God of things not seen as yet, [a] moved with fear, prepared an ark to the saving of his house; by the which he condemned the world, and became heir of [b] the righteousness which is by faith.

8 By faith [c] Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went.

9 By faith he sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob, [d] the heirs with him of the same promise:

10 For he looked for [e] a city which hath foundations, [f] whose builder and maker is God.

11 Through faith also Sara herself received strength to conceive seed, and was delivered of a child when she was past age, because she judged him faithful who had promised.

12 Therefore sprang there even of one, and him as good as dead, [g] so many as the stars of the sky in multitude, and as the sand which is by the sea shore innumerable.

13 These all died [h] in faith, not having received the promises, but [i] having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and [k] confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth.

14 For they that say such things declare plainly that they seek a country.

15 And truly, if they had been mindful of that country from whence they came out, they might have had opportunity to have returned.

16 But now they desire a better country, that is, an heavenly: wherefore God is not ashamed [l] to be called their God: for he hath prepared for them a city.

17 By faith Abraham, when he was tried, offered up Isaac: and he that had received the promises [m] offered up his only begotten son,

18 [n] Of whom it was said, [o] That in Isaac shall thy seed be called:

19 Accounting that God was able to raise him up, even from the dead; from whence also he received him in a figure.

20 By faith [p] Isaac blessed Jacob and Esau concerning things to come.

21 By faith Jacob, when he was a dying, [q] blessed both the sons of Joseph; and worshipped, leaning upon the top of his staff.

22 By faith [r] Joseph, when he died, [s] made mention of the departing of the children of Israel; and gave commandment concerning his bones.

23 By faith [t] Moses, when he was born, was hid three months of his parents, because they saw he was a proper child; and they were not afraid of the king's commandment.

24 By faith Moses, when he was come to years, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter;

25 Choosing [u] rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season;

26 Esteeming [v] the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures in Egypt: for he had respect unto the recompence of the reward.

27 By faith [w] he forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king: for he endured, as seeing him who is invisible.

28 Through faith [x] he kept the passover, and the sprinkling of blood, lest he that destroyed the firstborn should touch them.

31 By faith [c] the harlot Rahab perished not with them that [d] believed not, when she had received the spies with peace.

32 And what shall I more say? for the time would fail me to tell of [e] Gedeon, and of [f] Barak, and of [g] Samson, and of [h] Jephthae; of [i] David also, and [k] Samuel, and of the prophets:

33 Who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, [l] stopped the mouths of lions,

34 Quenched [m] the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, [n] out of weakness were made strong, waxed valiant in fight, turned to flight the armies of the aliens.

35 Women [o] received their dead raised to life again: and others were [p] tortured, not accepting deliverance; that they might obtain a better resurrection:

36 And others had trial of cruel mockings and scourgings, yea, moreover [q] of bonds and imprisonment:

37 They [r] were stoned, they were sawn asunder, were tempted, were slain with the sword: they wandered about in sheepskins and goatskins; being destitute, afflicted, tormented;

38 (Of whom the world was not worthy:) they wandered in deserts, and in mountains, and in dens and caves of the earth.

39 And these all, having obtained a good report through faith, received not the promise:

40 God having [s] provided some better thing for us, that they without us should not be [t] made perfect.

CHAP. XII.

WHEREFORE seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, [f] let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and [g] let us run with patience the race that is set before us,

2 Looking unto Jesus the [a] author and finisher of our faith; [b] who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and [c] is set down at the right hand of the throne of God.

3 For consider him that endured such contradiction of sinners against himself, [d] lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds.

4 Ye [e] have not yet resisted unto blood, striving against sin.

5 And ye have forgotten the exhortation which speaketh unto you as unto children, [f] My son, despise not thou the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him:

6 For [g] whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth.

7 If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons; for what son is he whom the father chasteneth not?

8 But if ye be without chastisement, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons.

9 Furthermore we have had fathers of our flesh which corrected us, and we gave them reverence: shall we not much rather be in subjection unto [h] the Father of spirits, and live?

Digitized by Google

10 For they verily for a few days chastened us [o] after their own pleasure; but he for our profit, [c] that we might be partakers of his holiness.

11 Now no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous: nevertheless afterward it yieldeth [c] the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby.

12 Wherefore [e] lift up the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees;

13 And make [†] straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way; [h] but let it rather be healed.

14 Follow [i] peace with all men, and holiness, [k] without which no man shall see the Lord:

15 Looking diligently lest any man [§] fail of the grace of God; [l] lest any root of bitterness springing up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled;

16 Lest there be any fornicator, or profane person, as Esau, [m] who for one morsel of meat sold his birthright.

17 For ye know how that afterward, when he would have inherited the blessing, he was rejected: for he found no [‖] place of repentance, though he sought it carefully with tears.

18 For ye are not come unto [n] the mount that might be touched, and that burned with fire, nor unto blackness, and darkness, and tempest,

19 And the sound of a trumpet, and the voice of words; which voice they that heard [o] intreated that the word should not be spoken to them any more:

20 (For they could not endure that which was commanded, And if so much as a beast touch the mountain, it shall be stoned, or thrust through with a dart:

21 And [a] so terrible was the sight, that Moses said, I exceedingly fear and quake:)

22 But ye are come [b] unto mount Sion, and unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, [d] and to an innumerable company of angels,

23 To the general assembly and church of [f] the firstborn, [g] which are [‡] written in heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the spirits of just men made perfect,

24 And to Jesus [h] the mediator of the new [§] covenant, and to [i] the blood of sprinkling, that speaketh better things [a] than that of Abel.

25 See that ye refuse not him that speaketh. For if they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven:

26 Whose voice then shook the earth: but now he hath promised, saying, [k] Yet once more I shake not the earth only, but also heaven.

27 And this word, Yet once more, signifieth [l] the removing of those things that [†] are shaken, as of things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain.

28 Wherefore we receiving a kingdom which cannot be moved, let us [*] have grace, whereby we may serve God acceptably with reverence and godly fear:

29 For [x] our God is a consuming fire.

3 Remember them that are in bonds, as bound with them; and them which suffer adversity, as being yourselves also in the body.

4 Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled: [b] but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge.

5 Let your conversation be without covetousness; and [c] be content with such things as ye have: for he hath said, [f] I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.

6 So that we may boldly say, [g] The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me.

7 Remember them which [h] have the rule over you, who have spoken unto you the word of God: whose faith follow, considering the end of their conversation:

8 Jesus Christ [m] the same yesterday, and to day, and for ever.

9 Be not carried about with divers and strange doctrines. For it is a good thing that the heart be established with grace; [r] not with meats, which have not profited them that have been occupied therein.

10 We [p] have an altar, whereof they have no right to eat which serve the tabernacle.

11 For [r] the bodies of those beasts, whose blood is brought into the sanctuary by the high priest for sin, are burned without the camp.

12 Wherefore Jesus also, that he might sanctify the people with his own blood, [s] suffered without the gate.

13 Let us go forth therefore unto him without the camp, bearing his reproach.

14 For [o] here have we no continuing city, but we seek one to come.

15 By [w] him therefore let us offer [y] the sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is, [a] the fruit of our lips [o] giving thanks to his name.

16 But to do good and to communicate forget not: for [t] with such sacrifices God is well pleased.

17 Obey them that [†] have the rule over you, and submit yourselves: for [r] they watch for your souls, as they that must give account, that they may do it with joy, and not with grief: for that is unprofitable for you.

18 Pray [k] for us: for we trust we have [l] a good conscience, in all things willing to live honestly.

19 But I beseech you the rather to do this, that I may be restored to you the sooner.

20 Now [n] the God of peace, [o] that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, [p] that great Shepherd of the sheep, [r] through the blood of the everlasting [‖] covenant,

21 Make [s] you perfect in every good work to do his will, [o] working [w] in you that which is wellpleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

22 And I beseech you, brethren, suffer the word of exhortation: for I have written a letter unto you in few words.

23 Know ye that our brother Timothy is set at liberty; with whom, if he come shortly, I will see you.

24 Salute all them that have the rule over you, and all the saints. They of Italy salute you.

25 Grace be with you all. Amen.

Ch. VII. 1.—SALEM, the city of which Melchisedec was king, is thought to have been founded by him about the year 2023, who gave it its name, signifying Peace. About a century after its foundation, it was captured by the Jebusites, who extended the walls, and constructed a castle or citadel on mount Zion. By them it was called Jebus. In the conquest of Canaan, Joshua put to death its king (Josh. x. 23, xiii. 10), and obtained possession of the town, which was jointly inhabited by Jews and Jebusites till the reign of David, who expelled the latter, and made it the capital of his kingdom, under the name of Jebus-Salem, or, for the sake of euphony, Jerusalem. It maintained its eminence for a period of 477 years, when it was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar. During the 170 years' captivity it lay in ruins, after which it was restored by Zerubbabel and his associates, and continued 562 years, when it was finally destroyed by Titus. The city of Jerusalem was built on four hills, called Zion, Acra, Moriah, and Bezetha; indeed the whole foundation was a high rock, formerly called Moriah, or vision. Gen. xxii. 3—4. When the city of Jerusalem became the capital of the kingdom, and the chosen place of Jehovah's worship, every means was used to render it impregnable, by high walls, massy gates, and towers of observation and annoyance; and, during the time that elapsed between the days of Nehemiah and the destruction of the city by Titus, several important alterations were made in its fortifications. Latterly, it was enclosed by three walls, on those sides that were not encompassed with impassable valleys. The reader is here presented with Mr. Buckingham's spirited sketch of modern Jerusalem: 'Reposing beneath the shade of an olive tree upon the brow of this hill, looking to the mount of Olives, we enjoyed from hence a fine prospect of Jerusalem on the opposite one. This city occupies an irregular square of about two miles and a half in circumference. Its shortest apparent side is that which faces the east, and in this lies supposed gate of the ancient temple, now closed up. The southern side is exceedingly irregular, taking quite a zig-zag direction, the south-west extreme being terminated by the mosque built over the supposed sepulchre of David, on the summit of mount Zion. The form and exact direction of the western and southern walls are not distinctly seen from hence; but every part of this appears to be a modern work, and executed at the same time. The walls are flanked at irregular distances by square towers, and have battlements running all around on their summits, with loop-holes for arrows or musketry close to the top. The walls appear to be about fifty feet in height, but are not surrounded by a ditch. The northern wall runs over slightly-declining ground: the eastern brow runs straight along the brow of mount Moriah, with the deep valley of Jehoshaphat below; the southern wall runs over the summit of the hill assumed as mount Zion, with the vale of Hinnom at its feet; and the western wall runs along on more level ground, near the summit of the high and stony mountains over which we had first approached the town. As the city is thus seated on the brow of one large hill, divided by name into several smaller hills, and the whole of these slope gently down towards the east, this view from the mount of Olives, a position of greater height than that on which the highest part of the city stands, commands nearly the whole of it at once. On the north it is bounded by a level and apparently fertile space, now covered with olive trees, particularly near the north-east angle. On the south, the steep side of mount Zion, and the valley of Hinnom, both shew patches of cultivation and little gardens and vineyards. To the west, the sterile summits of the hills there barely lift their outlines above the dwellings, and, on the east, the deep valley of Jehoshaphat, now at our feet, has some partial spots relieved by trees, though as forbidding in its general aspect as the vale of death could ever be desired to be by those who have chosen it for their place of interment. Within the walls of the city are seen crowded dwellings, remarkable in no respect except being terraced by flat roofs, and generally built of stone. On the south are some gardens and vineyards, with the long red mosque of Al Sakhara, having two tiers of windows, a sloping roof, and a dark dome at one end; and the mosque of Zion and the sepulchre of David in the same quarter. On the west is seen the high square castle and palace of the same monarch, near the Bethlehem gate. In the centre rise the two cupolas, of unequal form and size—the one blue, and the other white—covering the church of the Holy sepulchre. Around in different directions are seen the minarets of eight or ten mosques, and an assemblage of about 2000 dwellings; and on the east is seated the great mosque of Al Haverm, or, as called by Christians, the mosque of Solomon, from being supposed, with that of Al Sakhara near it, to occupy the site of the ancient temple of that splendid and luxurious king.'

Ch. XII. 23.—MOUNT ZION. This and the prior subject are so nearly allied that they cannot be well separated and it naturally comes to be described after the city, the whole of which was anciently enclosed within the wall, and about one-half of which is within the modern city wall. David took the stronghold of Zion, the same is the city of David; so David dwelt in the fort, and called it the city of David, 2 Sam. v. 9. This continued the royal residence, and became also the burial place of the kings; but that which gave it a sacred character, and made it afterwards like Jerusalem, used to signify the church and nation of Israel, was the ark of God placed there by David. When we consider that the ark was made by the express command of God, and that he gave the most minute directions respecting it, we cannot but wonder at the entire oblivion into which it seems to have fallen for so long a period. For upwards of ninety years from the death of Samuel the ark appears to have been in a state of disuse. But at length David made him houses in the city of David, and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent. And David and all Israel brought up the ark with shouting and great joy, "and set it in its place, in the midst of the tabernacle that David had pitched for it." 2 Sam. vi. 17. From this time until the building of the temple, Zion was the holy place or sanctuary of the Lord, and the name continued ever after to be used by prophets and holy men to designate the whole of Jerusalem, including the temple. What now remains of the glory of mount Zion? Nothing. Its regal splendour, its sacredness, are gone. "Therefore shall Zion for your sake be plowed as a field," was the word of the inspired prophet to "the heads of the house of Jacob, and princes of the house of Israel," Mic. iii. 9. 12; and there is now, says Herschell, a field of barley growing on Zion, as a testimony that the word of the Lord standeth sure.

Ch. IX. 2.—SHEWBREAD, literally signifies 'bread of the face,' or, 'of the presence;' this bread being served up hot every sabbath day by the priest of the week in the presence of the Lord, and at the same time he took away the stale bread, which had been exposed for the whole of the week, and which was eaten then by the priests alone. About six pints of flour were used for each loaf. The loaves were twelve in number, and were placed on the golden table in the most holy place. The number was according to the tribes of Israel, and these cakes were a special acknowledgment of Jehovah's providential bounty towards his people, and of their perpetual dependence on his paternal blessings.

Ch. IX. 2.—TEMPLE ARTICLES FROM THE ARCH OF TITUS. After the triumph over Jerusalem by Vespasian and Titus, an arch was erected at Rome to commemorate the triumph, and still exists. This contains a most important page of Jewish history. Books and coins may be both fabricated and perish, but this, written by the conquerors, remains still a picture of facts, and a durable history. It is a chapter furnishing us not only with an account of the end of the Jewish state, but also of the sacred articles used in the Jewish temple, a confirming record of the Bible sacred history. Prominent object in the is the golden candlestick. This costly ornament was placed on the south side of the holy place, and served to illuminate the altar of incense and the table of shewbread, both of which stood in that part of the tabernacle. The table for the shewbread is another prominent object in the cut. The original table, as described in Exodus, had a golden crown around the top, and was overlaid with pure gold; hence it was called the golden table. Other objects here represented are the silver trumpets. The Lord commanded Moses to make two trumpets of beaten silver, for the purpose of calling the people together when they were to decamp, Num. x. They chiefly used these trumpets, however, to proclaim the beginning of the civil year, the beginning of the sabbatical year, and the beginning of the jubilee, Lev. xxiii. 24; xxv. 9, 10; Num. xxix. 1. Josephus says they were about a cubit long, their thickness that of a common flute, and their ends small, and shaped like a modern trumpet.

Ch. IX. 4.—CENSERS. These were vessels in which fire and incense were carried in Hebrew worship. The censers given in engravings are such as were used in heathen worship, and are not to be taken as veritable patterns of the Jewish censer.

The general Epistle of JAMES.

This and the six Epistles which follow, are called 'Catholic,' being written to Christians in general, without distinction of church. The design of this epistle was to encourage the Jewish Christians under persecution, and to guard them against abusing the doctrine of justification by faith.

CHAP. I.

JAMES, [b] a servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ, [c] to the twelve tribes which are scattered abroad, greeting.

2 My brethren, [d] count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations;

3 Knowing f this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience.

4 But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing.

5 If [f] any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and [l] it shall be given him.

6 But [m] let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. For he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed.

7 For let not that man think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord.

8 A double minded man is unstable in all his ways.

9 Let the brother of low degree [t] rejoice in that he is exalted:

10 But the rich, in that he is made low: because [o] as the flower of the grass he shall pass away.

11 For the sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withereth the grass, and the flower thereof falleth, and the grace of the fashion of it perisheth: so also shall the rich man fade away in his ways.

12 Blessed [s] is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive [u] the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him.

13 Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with [o] evil, neither tempteth he any man:

14 But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed.

15 Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, [x] bringeth forth death.

16 Do not err, my beloved brethren.

17 Every [y] good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, [z] with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.

18 Of [b] his own will begat he us with the word of truth, [c] that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures.

19 Wherefore, my beloved brethren, [e] let every man be swift to hear, [f] slow to speak, [h] slow to wrath:

20 For the wrath of man worketh not the righteousness of God.

21 Wherefore lay apart all filthiness and superfluity of naughtiness, and receive with meekness the engrafted word, [i] which is able to save your souls.

22 But [n] be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves.

23 For [o] if any be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass:

24 For he beholdeth himself, and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was.

CHAP. II.

MY brethren, have not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, with [a] respect of persons.

2 For if there come unto your [†] assembly a man with a gold ring, in goodly apparel, and there come in also a poor man in vile raiment;

3 And ye have respect to him that weareth the gay clothing, and say unto him, Sit thou here [§] in a good place; and say to the poor, Stand thou there, or sit here under my footstool:

4 Are ye not then partial in yourselves, and are become judges of evil thoughts?

5 Hearken, my beloved brethren, [p] Hath not God chosen the poor of this world [r] rich in faith, and heirs of [t] the kingdom [u] which he hath promised to them that love him?

6 But ye have despised the poor. Do not rich men oppress you, and draw you before the judgment seats?

7 Do not they blaspheme that worthy name by the which ye are called?

8 If ye fulfil the royal law according to the scripture, [v] Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself, ye do well:

9 But if ye have respect to persons, ye commit sin, and are convinced of the law as transgressors.

10 For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, [z] he is guilty of all.

11 For [†] he that said, Do not commit adultery, said also, Do not kill. Now if thou commit no adultery, yet if thou kill, thou art become a transgressor of the law.

12 So speak ye, and so do, as they that shall be judged by [d] the law of liberty.

13 For [f] he shall have judgment without mercy, that hath shewed no mercy; and [i] mercy [‡] rejoiceth against judgment.

14 What [k] doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him?

15 If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food,

16 And [m] one of you say unto them, Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body; what doth it profit?

17 Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being [§] alone.

18 Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith

Digitized by Google

*without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works.

19 Thou believest that there is one God; thou doest well: [e] the devils also believe, and tremble.

20 But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?

21 Was not Abraham our father justified by works, [d] when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar?

22 *Seest thou [f] how faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made perfect?

23 And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, [d] Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called [i] the Friend of God.

24 Ye see then how that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only.

25 Likewise also [l] was not Rahab the harlot justified by works, when she had received the messengers, and had sent them out another way?

26 For as the body without the †spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.

CHAP. III.

MY brethren, [a] be not many masters, [p] knowing that we shall receive the greater §condemnation.

2 For [r] in many things we offend all. If any man offend not in word, [s] the same is a perfect man, and able also to bridle the whole body.

3 Behold, [t] we put bits in the horses' mouths, that they may obey us; and we turn about their whole body.

4 Behold also the ships, which though they be so great, and are driven of fierce winds, yet are they turned about with a very small helm, whithersoever the governor listeth.

5 Even so [u] the tongue is a little member, and [v] boasteth great things. Behold, how great ‖a matter a little fire kindleth!

6 And [k] the tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity: so is the tongue among our members, that [w] it defileth the whole body, and setteth on fire the *course of nature; and it is set on fire of hell.

7 For every †kind of beasts, and of birds, and of serpents, and of things in the sea, is tamed, and hath been tamed of ‡mankind:

8 But the tongue can no man tame; it is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison.

9 Therewith bless we God, even the Father; and therewith curse we men, [d] which are made after the similitude of God.

10 Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing. My brethren, these things ought not so to be.

11 Doth a fountain send forth at the same ‖place sweet water and bitter?

12 Can the fig tree, my brethren, bear olive berries? either a vine, figs? so can no fountain both yield salt water and fresh.

13 Who is a wise man and endued with knowledge among you? let him shew out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom.

14 But if ye have bitter envying and strife in your hearts, [l] glory not, and lie not against the truth.

15 This [m] wisdom descendeth not from above, but is earthly, *sensual, devilish.

16 For where envying and strife is, there is † confusion and every evil work.

17 But [p] the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be intreated, full of mercy and

CHAP. IV.

FROM whence come wars and ‡fightings among you? come they not hence, even of your §lusts that war in your members?

2 Ye lust, and have not: ye ‖kill, and desire to have, and cannot obtain: ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ye ask not.

3 Ye [f] ask, and receive not, [g] because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your lusts.

4 Ye adulterers and adulteresses, know ye not that [h] the friendship of the world is enmity with God? whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God.

5 Do ye think that the scripture saith in vain, [m] The spirit that dwelleth in us lusteth † to envy?

6 But he giveth more grace. Wherefore he saith, [n] God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble.

7 Submit yourselves therefore to God. [o] Resist the devil, and he will flee from you.

8 Draw [p] nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded.

9 Be afflicted, and mourn, and weep: let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your joy to heaviness.

10 Humble [q] yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up.

11 Speak not evil one of another, brethren. He that speaketh evil of his brother, [r] and judgeth his brother, speaketh evil of the law, and judgeth the law: but if thou judge the law, thou art not a doer of the law, but a judge.

12 There is one lawgiver, who is able to save and to destroy: who art thou that judgest another?

13 Go [s] to now, ye that say, To day or to morrow we will go into such a city, and continue there a year, and buy and sell, and get gain:

14 Whereas ye know not what shall be on the morrow. For what is your life? ‖It [t] is even a vapour, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away.

15 For that ye ought to say, [u] If the Lord will, we shall live, and do this, or that.

16 But now ye rejoice in your boastings: all such rejoicing is evil.

17 Therefore [x] to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin.

CHAP. V.

GO to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you.

2 Your riches are corrupted, and [y] your garments are motheaten.

3 Your gold and silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. [z] Ye have heaped treasure together for the last days.

4 Behold, [a] the hire of the labourers who have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth: and [b] the cries of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of the Lord of sabaoth.

5 Ye have lived in pleasure on the earth, and been wanton; ye have nourished your hearts, as in a day of slaughter.

6 Ye have condemned and killed the just; and he doth not resist you.

7 [a] Be patient therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. Behold, the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until he receive the early and latter rain.

8 Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts: [b] for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh.

9 † Grudge not one against another, brethren, lest ye be condemned: behold, the judge [c] standeth before the door.

10 Take, [d] my brethren, the prophets, who have spoken in the name of the Lord, for an example of suffering affliction, and of patience.

11 Behold, [e] we count them happy which endure. Ye have heard of [f] the patience of Job, and have seen [g] the end of the Lord; that the Lord is very pitiful, and of tender mercy.

12 But above all things, my brethren, [h] swear not, neither by heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath: but let your yea be yea; and your nay, nay; lest ye fall into condemnation.

13 Is any among you afflicted? let him pray. Is any merry? [i] let him sing psalms.

14 Is any sick among you? let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, [k] anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord:

15 And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; [l] and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him.

16 Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed. [m] The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.

17 Elias was a man subject to like passions as we are, and [n] he prayed earnestly that it might not rain: and it rained not on the earth by the space of three years and six months.

18 And [o] he prayed again, and the heaven gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit.

19 Brethren, if any of you do err from the truth, and one convert him;

20 Let him know, that he which converteth the sinner from the error of his way [p] shall save a soul from death, and [p] shall hide a multitude of sins.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CH. III. 4.—ANCIENT SHIPS. There is a great difference between ancient and modern ships; this makes it difficult to understand some of the statements in the maritime narratives and allusions in Scripture. There is also a greater difficulty arising from the phraseology peculiar to the seaman, whose language must be acquired at sea. Hence scholars have been greatly perplexed in translating those words which belong to shipping matters, and some have inevitably been led into confusion and mistake. Infidels, ready to catch at every trifle which will afford them a sneer at the expense of the Bible, have turned these difficulties to account; but, as in all other cases, time and improvement in knowledge have unravelled many perplexities. Two passages in particular have been noticed as capable of receiving new light. In Acts xxvii. 29, it is said, "Fearing lest they should have fallen upon rocks, they cast four anchors out at the stern." This has been thought to be an insurmountable objection. Four anchors! when our largest men-of-war would have but two, and certainly would not cast four anchors, and all four from the stern! But if we inquire into the form and construction of these anchors, and if it should appear that they were not like our own, the subject will assume a different aspect. And such is the matter of fact. What is translated "four anchors," should have been rendered 'the four-fluked anchor,' the anchor which had four points (fukes) for holding the ground. We have such anchors represented in books of antiquities, and we know, further, that such are used in the East to this day, from representations furnished by Bruce and Norden. Understand Luke, therefore, as saying, 'We threw out the best anchor we had; that most likely to hold the ground, and to keep us from driving; even the four-fluked anchor, that it might hold us back from striking against the rocks,' and the supposed absurdity disappears at once. The other passage to be noticed is, "When they had weighed anchors, they committed the ship to the sea," which is better rendered, 'Having cut away the anchors, they left them in the sea.' The part of the ship to which the apostle James directs attention is the helm or rudder, by which the ship is steered. Luke speaks of loosing the rudder-bands, which leads to a further understanding of the ancient rudders. The ships in those days had commonly two rudders, one on each side, which were fastened to the ship by bands or chains; and on loosing these bands the rudders sunk deeper into the sea, and by their weight rendered the ship less subject to be overset by the winds. But it seems, rather, that the rudders had been fastened before, when they had let the vessel drive; and were now loosened, when they had need of them to steer into the creek: and after they had just been throwing out their corn to lighten the ship, it is not easy to suppose they should immediately contrive a method to increase the weight of it. That they had frequently two rudders to their ships, Bochart and Elsner have confirmed by several authorities. The rudder-bands were evidently, from the representations still extant of ancient ships, a kind of brace for the purpose of keeping the rudder steady, and preventing its action against the side of the vessel; in fact, without some such confinement, a current of water, rushing from under the ship against the broad part of the rudder, would carry it away, in spite of the strongest arm that might endeavour to retain it. At the same time the bands prevented that entire play or freedom of the instrument which was occasionally necessary. These, then, were knocked off, so that the steersman had greater scope for the exertions of his arms as circumstances required, than he could possibly have while they remained in their places. The loosing of the rudder-bands will occasion no difficulty to the nautical reader, it being still usual to tie up the helm when the ship is at anchor.

CH. IV. 13.—EASTERN MERCHANTS. Eastern merchants convey the products of one place to some distant city, where they remain until they have disposed of their own goods, and purchased others suitable for another distant market; and thus the operation is repeated, until, after a number of years, the trader is enabled to return prosperously to his home. Or again, a shopkeeper or merchant takes only the first step in this process—conveying to a distant town, where the best purchases in his own line are to be made, such goods as are likely to realise a profit, and returning without any further step, with a stock for his own shop or warehouse. These operations are seldom very rapid, as the adventurer likes to wait opportunities for making advantageous bargains; and sometimes opens a shop in the place to which he comes, to sell by retail the goods he has brought. 'The merchants in the East,' says Roberts, 'have ever been famous for their trading peregrinations; and often are we reminded of the "company of Ishmaelites who came from Gilead, with their camels," &c., Gen. xxxvii. See the young adventurer: he has received a certain sum from his father, and goes to another town, where he has relatives or friends, and he cautiously commences his business. He never loses sight of frugality; and should he, in the course of a few years, have gained a competency, he returns to his native place, there to husband out his days. But should he not prosper, he goes to another town, for his affairs are so arranged in reference to rents and other matters, he finds no difficulty in removing. But another trader will not thus settle: he carries in two or three bags various spices, which are needed by every family, and gums and drugs, or cloth and silk, and muslins, or jewels, or precious stones, and after a year or so he returns with the proceeds of his journey.'

The First Epistle general of PETER.

Addressed to converted Jews in the provinces near the southern shore of the Black Sea.

CHAP. I.

PETER, an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the strangers [a] scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia,

2 Elect [c] according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, [d] through sanctification of the Spirit, unto obedience and [e] sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ: [f] Grace unto you, and peace, be multiplied.

3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which [h] according to his [i] abundant mercy [j] hath begotten us again unto a lively hope [k] by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead,

4 To an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven † for you,

5 Who [l] are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.

6 Wherein ye greatly rejoice, though now [p] for a season, if need be, ye are in heaviness through manifold temptations:

7 That [r] the trial of your faith, being much more precious than of gold that perisheth, though it be tried with fire, might be found unto praise and honour and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ:

8 Whom having not seen, ye love; in whom, [t] though now ye see him not, yet believing, ye rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory:

9 Receiving [v] the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls.

10 Of [x] which salvation the prophets have enquired and searched diligently, who prophesied of the grace that should come unto you:

11 Searching what, or what manner of time the Spirit of Christ which was in them did signify, when it testified beforehand [z] the sufferings of Christ, and the glory that should follow.

12 Unto whom it was revealed, that not [a] unto themselves, but unto us they did minister the things, which are now reported unto you by them that have preached the gospel unto you with [b] the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven; [c] which things the angels desire to look into.

13 Wherefore gird up the loins of your mind, [d] be sober, and hope [e] to the end for the grace that is to be brought unto you [‖] at the revelation of Jesus Christ;

14 As obedient children, not fashioning yourselves according to the former lusts in your ignorance:

15 But [f] as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation;

16 Because it is written, [g] Be ye holy; for I am holy.

17 And if ye call on the Father, [h] who without respect of persons judgeth according to every man's work, pass the time of your sojourning here in fear:

18 Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation [i] received by tradition from your fathers;

19 But with the precious blood of Christ,

[a] as of a lamb without blemish and without spot:

20 Who verily was foreordained before the foundation of the world, but was manifest in these last times for you,

21 Who by him do believe in God, that raised him up from the dead, and gave him glory; that your faith and hope might be in God.

22 Seeing ye [d] have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit unto unfeigned love of the brethren, see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently:

23 Being [f] born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, [m] by the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever.

24 † For [n] all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away:

25 But the word of the Lord endureth for ever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you.

CHAP. II.

WHEREFORE laying aside all malice, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil speakings,

2 As [c] newborn babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby:

3 If so be ye have [u] tasted that the Lord is gracious.

4 To whom coming, as unto a living stone, [y] disallowed indeed of men, but chosen of God, and precious,

5 Ye [c] also, as lively stones, § are built up a spiritual house, [a] an holy priesthood, to offer up [b] spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ.

6 Wherefore also it is contained in the scripture, [d] Behold, I lay in Sion a chief corner stone, elect, precious: and he that believeth on him shall not be confounded.

7 Unto you therefore which believe he is ‖ precious: but unto them which be disobedient, [f] the stone which the builders disallowed, the same is made the head of the corner,

8 And [g] a stone of stumbling, and a rock of offence, [k] even to them which stumble at the word, being disobedient: [m] whereunto also they were appointed.

9 But ye are [o] a chosen generation, [p] a royal priesthood, [r] an holy nation, [s] a † peculiar people; that ye should shew forth the ‡ praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvellous light:

10 Which [u] in time past were not a people, but are now the people of God: which had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy.

11 Dearly beloved, I beseech you [y] as strangers and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul;

12 Having your conversation honest among the Gentiles: that, § whereas they speak against you as evildoers, they may by your good works, [a] which they shall behold, glorify God in the day of visitation.

13 Submit [b] yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake: whether it be to the king, as supreme;

14 Or unto governors, as unto them that are sent by him for the punishment of evildoers, and for the praise of them that do well.

15 For so is the will of God, that with well doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men:

16 As[f] free, and not [g]using your liberty for a cloke of maliciousness, but as the servants of God.

17 ‡ Honour [h] all men. [i] Love the brotherhood. [k] Fear God. Honour the king.

18 Servants, [m]be subject to your masters with all fear; not only to the good and gentle, but also to the froward.

19 For this is §thankworthy, if a man for conscience toward God endure grief, suffering wrongfully.

20 For what glory is it, if, when ye be buffeted for your faults, ye shall take it patiently? but if, when ye do well, and suffer for it, ye take it patiently, this is §acceptable with God.

21 For [p] even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered [q]for us, [r]leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps:

22 Who [s] did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth:

23 Who, [t] when he was reviled, reviled not again; when he suffered, he threatened not; but committed †himself to him that judgeth righteously:

24 Who [u] his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree, [x] that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness: by whose stripes ye were healed.

25 For ye were as sheep going astray; but are now returned [y] unto the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls.

CHAP. III.

LIKEWISE, ye wives, be in subjection to your own husbands; that, if any obey not the word, they also may without the word be won by the conversation of the wives;

2 While they behold your chaste conversation coupled with fear.

3 Whose [a] adorning let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel;

4 But let it be [b] the hidden man of the heart, in that which is not corruptible, even the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price.

5 For after this manner in the old time the holy women also, who trusted in God, adorned themselves, being in subjection unto their own husbands:

6 Even as Sara obeyed Abraham, [c] calling him lord: whose §daughters ye are, as long as ye do well, and are not afraid with any amazement.

7 Likewise, [d] ye husbands, dwell with them according to knowledge, giving honour unto the wife, as unto the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the grace of life; that your prayers be not hindered.

8 Finally, be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another, ||love [e] as brethren, be pitiful, be courteous:

9 Not [f] rendering evil for evil, or railing for railing: but contrariwise blessing;

[y] or, will

knowing that ye are thereunto called, [z] that ye should inherit a blessing.

10 For [a] he that will love life, and see good days, [b] let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile:

11 Let him [c] eschew evil, and do good; [d] let him seek peace, and ensue it.

12 For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, [e] and his ears are open unto their prayers: but the face of the Lord is †against them that do evil.

13 And who is he that will harm you, if ye be followers of that which is good?

14 But [f] and if ye suffer for righteousness' sake, happy are ye: and [g] be not afraid of their terror, neither be troubled;

15 But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and [h] fear:

16 Having [i] a good conscience; that, whereas they speak evil of you, as of evildoers, they may be ashamed that falsely accuse your good conversation in Christ.

17 For it is better, if the will of God be so, that ye suffer for well doing, than for evil doing.

18 For Christ also hath [k] once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, being put to death [l] in the flesh, but [m] quickened by the Spirit:

19 By which also he went and preached unto the spirits [n] in prison;

20 Which sometime were disobedient, [o] when once the longsuffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved by water.

21 The [p] like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, [q] but the answer of a good conscience toward God,) by the resurrection of Jesus Christ:

22 Who is gone into heaven, and [r] is on the right hand of God; angels and authorities and powers being made subject unto him.

CHAP. IV.

FORASMUCH then as Christ hath suffered for us in the flesh, arm yourselves likewise with the same mind: for [s] he that hath suffered in the flesh hath ceased from sin;

2 That he no longer should live the rest of his time in the flesh to the lusts of men, [t] but to the will of God.

3 For the time past of our life may suffice us to have wrought the will of the Gentiles, when we walked in lasciviousness, lusts, excess of wine, revellings, banquetings, and abominable idolatries:

4 Wherein they think it strange that ye run not with them to the same excess of riot, [u] speaking evil of you:

5 Who shall give account to him that is ready [x] to judge the quick and the dead.

6 For for this cause was the gospel preached also to them that are dead, that they might be judged according to men in the flesh, but live according to God in the spirit.

7 But [y] the end of all things is at hand: be ye therefore sober, and watch unto prayer.

8 And [z] above all things have fervent charity among yourselves: for [a] charity [b] shall cover the multitude of sins.

9 Use [a] hospitality one to another without grudging.

10 As [b] every man hath received the gift, even so minister the same one to another, as good stewards of [c] the manifold grace of God.

11 If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God; if any man minister, let him do it as of the ability which God giveth: that [f] God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to [g] whom be praise and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 Beloved, think it not strange concerning [h] the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you:

13 But rejoice, inasmuch as [m] ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings; that, when his glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy.

14 If [n] ye be reproached for the name of Christ, happy are ye; for the spirit of glory and of God resteth upon you: on their part he is evil spoken of, but on your part he is glorified.

15 But let none of you suffer as a murderer, or as a thief, or as an evildoer, or as a busybody in other men's matters.

16 Yet if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; [o] but let him glorify God on this behalf.

17 For the time is come [p] that judgment must begin at the house of God: and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God?

18 And [q] if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?

19 Wherefore let them that suffer according to the will of God [r] commit the keeping of their souls to him in well doing, as unto a faithful Creator.

CHAP. V.

THE elders which are among you I exhort, who am also [a] an elder, and [d] a witness of the sufferings of Christ, and also [b] a partaker of the glory that shall be revealed:

2 Feed the flock of God [e] which is among you, taking the oversight thereof, not by constraint, but willingly; not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind;

3 Neither as [†] being [e] lords over God's heritage, but being ensamples to the flock.

4 And when [g] the chief Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive [i] a crown of glory that fadeth not away.

5 Likewise, ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder. Yea, all of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility: for [l] God resisteth the proud, and [m] giveth grace to the humble.

6 Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time:

7 Casting [s] all your care upon him; for he careth for you.

8 Be sober, be vigilant; because [r] your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour:

9 Whom [t] resist stedfast in the faith, [t] knowing that the same afflictions are accomplished in your brethren that are in the world.

10 But the God of all grace, who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered [u] a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you.

11 To him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 By Silvanus, a faithful brother unto you, as I suppose, I have written briefly, exhorting, and testifying that this is the true grace of God wherein ye stand.

13 The church that is at Babylon, elected together with you, saluteth you; and so doth [v] Marcus my son.

14 Greet ye one another with a kiss of charity. [b] Peace be with you all that are in Christ Jesus. Amen.

The Second Epistle general of PETER.

Confirming the doctrines and instructions in the First Epistle, and guarding against false teachers and scoffers.

CHAP. I.

[a] SIMON Peter, a servant and an apostle of Jesus Christ, to them that have obtained like precious faith with us through the righteousness [†] of God and our Saviour Jesus Christ:

2 Grace and peace be multiplied unto you through the knowledge of God, and of Jesus our Lord,

3 According as his divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, [d] through the knowledge of him [e] that hath called us [§] to glory and virtue:

4 Whereby [f] are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be [i] partakers of the divine nature, [k] having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust.

5 And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue [m] knowledge;

6 And to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness;

7 And to godliness brotherly kindness; and [n] to brotherly kindness charity.

8 For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be [‡] barren [b] nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 But he that lacketh these things is blind, and cannot see afar off, and hath forgotten that he was [c] purged from his old sins.

10 Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence [f] to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, [k] ye shall never fall:

11 For so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

12 Wherefore [l] I will not be negligent to put you always in remembrance of these things, though ye know them, and be established in the present truth.

13 Yea, I think it meet, as long as I am in this tabernacle, to stir you up by putting you in remembrance;

14 Knowing [a] that shortly I must put off this my tabernacle, even as [b] our Lord Jesus Christ hath shewed me.

15 Moreover I will endeavour that ye [c] may be able after my decease to have these things always in remembrance.

16 For we have not followed cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were [d] eyewitnesses of his majesty.

17 For he received from God the Father honour and glory, when there came such a voice to him from the excellent glory, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

18 And this voice which came from heaven we heard, when we were with him in the holy mount.

19 We have also a more sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto [e] a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and [f] the day star arise in your hearts:

20 Knowing this first, that no prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation.

21 For the prophecy came not ‡ in old time by the will of man: [g] but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost.

CHAP. II.

BUT [h] there were false prophets also among the people, even as [i] there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord [k] that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction.

2 And many shall follow their ‖ pernicious ways; by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of.

3 And [l] through covetousness shall they with feigned words make merchandise of you: [m] whose judgment now of a long time lingereth not, and their damnation slumbereth not.

4 For if God spared not [n] the angels that sinned, but [o] cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment;

5 And spared not the old world, but saved [p] Noah the eighth person, [q] a preacher of righteousness, bringing in the flood upon the world of the ungodly;

6 And [r] turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrha into ashes condemned them with an overthrow, [s] making them an ensample unto those that after should live ungodly;

7 And [t] delivered just Lot, vexed with the filthy conversation of the wicked:

8 (For that righteous man dwelling among them, [u] in seeing and hearing, vexed his righteous soul from day to day with their unlawful deeds;)

9 The [w] Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptations, and to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished:

10 But chiefly them that walk after the flesh in the lust of uncleanness, and despise † government. Presumptuous are they, self-willed, they are not afraid to speak evil of dignities.

11 Whereas [x] angels, which are greater in power and might, bring not railing accusation [*] against them before the Lord.

12 But these, [y] as natural brute beasts, made to be taken and destroyed, speak evil of the things that they understand not; and shall utterly perish in their own corruption;

13 And [z] shall receive the reward of unrighteousness, as they that count it pleasure [a] to riot in the day time. Spots they are and blemishes, sporting themselves with their own deceivings while [b] they feast with you;

14 Having eyes full of † adultery, and that cannot cease from sin; beguiling unstable souls: an heart they have exercised with covetous practices; cursed children:

15 Which have forsaken the right way, and are gone astray, following the way of [c] Balaam the son of Bosor, who loved the wages of unrighteousness;

16 But was rebuked for his iniquity: the dumb ass speaking with man's voice forbad the madness of the prophet.

17 These are wells without water, clouds that are carried with a tempest; to whom the mist of darkness is reserved for ever.

18 For when they speak great swelling words of vanity, they allure through the lusts of the flesh, through much wantonness, those that [d] were ‡ clean escaped from them who live in error.

19 While they promise them [e] liberty, they themselves are [f] the servants of corruption: for of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought in bondage.

20 For [g] if after they have escaped the pollutions of the world [h] through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning.

21 For [i] it had been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them.

22 But it is happened unto them according to the true proverb, [k] The dog is turned to his own vomit again; and the sow that was washed to her wallowing in the mire.

CHAP. III.

THIS second epistle, beloved, I now write unto you; in both which I [l] stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance:

2 That ye may be mindful of the words which were spoken before by the holy prophets, and of the commandment of us the apostles of the Lord and Saviour:

3 Knowing [m] this first, that there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts,

4 And saying, [n] Where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation.

5 For this they willingly are ignorant of, that [o] by the word of God the heavens were of old, and the earth [p] standing out of the water and in the water:

6 Whereby the world that then was, being overflowed with water, perished:

7 But the heavens and the earth, which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto [q] fire against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men.

8 But, beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day.

9 The [b] Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but [d] is longsuffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but [f] that all should come to repentance.

10 But [g] the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which [h] the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up.

11 Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness,

12 Looking [k] for and [o] hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall [m] be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat?

13 Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look [p] for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness.

14 Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent [q] that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless.

15 And account that [r] the longsuffering of our Lord is salvation; even as our beloved brother Paul also according to the wisdom given unto him hath written unto you;

16 As also in all his epistles, [s] speaking in them of these things; in which are some things hard to be understood, which they that are unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do also the other scriptures, unto their own destruction.

17 Ye therefore, beloved, seeing ye know these things before, [t] beware lest ye also, being led away with the error of the wicked, fall from your own stedfastness.

18 But [u] grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. [x] To him be glory both now and for ever. Amen.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

1 Pet. I. 1.—ACROPOLIS OF AMASIA. This was the chief city of Pontus, and the ancient residence of the kings of Cappadocia. Pontus was a province of Asia Minor, and was situated north of Cappadocia, and bounded west by Paphlagonia. The country extended along the south shore of the sea called Pontus Euxinus, at present the Black Sea. This ancient kingdom was originally a part of Cappadocia. The kingdom was divided into three parts, 1. Pontus Cappadocius, extending from Pontus Polemoniacus to Colchis, having Armenia Minor and the upper stream of the Euphrates for its southern boundary. 2. Pontus Galaticus, extending from the river Halys to the Thermodon. 3. Pontus Polemoniacus, from the Thermodon to the borders of Pontus Cappadocius. This country and the adjacent provinces were at different periods under the dominion of the Assyrians, Medes, and Persians; the last of whom divided Cappadocia into satrapies or governments. For a time Pontus fell under the power of the Macedonians. Some time after it recovered its freedom, we find it a most powerful warlike nation, and engaged in a conflict with the Romans. The Roman army was greatly composed of troops of Bythinia, Cappadocia, Paphlagonia, and Gallo-Grsecia, and, together with the Roman soldiers in Asia, amounted to 70,000 men and 6000 horse. But the forces of the king of Pontus amounted to 250,000 foot, 40,000 horse, and 130 armed chariots. These facts shew its importance. The king of Pontus and the Romans had many severe battles, but after a time Hannibal the Vii., who had been so powerful, lost his military strength, and laid violent hands on himself. Pompey immediately obtained entire possession of Pontus, and reduced it to the form of a Roman province. Amasia gave birth to two distinguished men, Mithridates the Great, and Strabo the geographer. It is now one of the ancient towns of Turkey in Natolia, and the capital of the district of that name. It is the residence of a pacha. It is commanded by a fort, situated in the highest part of the town, as seen in the cut. Like the citadel of Athens, this acropolis is built upon a rock —a sharp-pointed rock. It is surrounded by mountains, so that it can be approached only by two narrow passes on the north and south, which are so rugged as to be deemed impregnable. Amasia is now extensive and populous, having about 70,000 inhabitants, with narrow and dirty streets, and wooden houses. It has a large Christian population.

Ch. I. 7.—REFINERS SITTING AT WORK. The refiner's office is to melt and test metals, purifying them from their dross. The art of refining appears to have been very ancient. Our cut shews how the Egyptians used the furnace. The allusion to this art is very common in Scripture, and it is always very forcible and striking, as in Is. xlviii. 10, "Behold, I have refined thee, but not with silver; I have chosen thee in the furnace of affliction;" which Rosenmuller interpreta, he had not tried them with that intensity of heat which was necessary to melt and refine silver; and he remarks, that those skilled in metals observe that gold is easily liquified, but that silver requires a more intense heat to purify it, and that the same is, 'that God has not dealt with his people with the utmost severity, but with comparative clemency and mildness.' In Malachi the same figure is used to describe the effects of Messiah's ministry: "He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; and he shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver, that they may offer unto the Lord an offering in righteousness." Here a trial is signified under the image of an assayist's separation of the nobler metals from the dross with which they are blended in the ore. 'The worship of God should be purged of all hypocrisy and superstition, and reduced to a few simple rites, the natural expressions of true devotion.' In the text above a comparison is drawn between gold and faith, and the precious metal, though ever so pure and valuable, is lighter than vanity when they are weighed together. The believer is a richer man than Cresus. It is not surprising that the refiner should be a Scripture subject for illustration. It admits of forcible and beautiful applications, and is in obvious that it is a business of some importance. A traveller, in describing Damascus and its trades, says, 'The Armenian gold and silversmiths carry on their trade in what was once a Christian church. It is parted off into alleys, where the workmen sit with fire, bellows, anvils, hammers, pincers, drawers, and so forth; and the ear is stunned with the incessant clattering on all sides. Old men, with sallow faces and grey beards, are seen poring over ingots of gold and silver, melting the metal in pots and pans on charcoal fires, or drawing it out into long wires, and hammering it into different shapes; and people are constantly coming in with rings, bracelets, silver filagree baskets, and various kinds of jewellery to be repaired, or to serve as patterns for articles to be made to order. The stocks of the jewellers are considerable.'

2 Pet. II. 6.—THE SALT OR DEAD SEA. 'No one,' says Herschell, 'can look on this remarkable spot without feeling that the curse rests upon it. It is a salt lake, or inland sea, about fifty miles in length, and generally from ten to twelve miles broad. The Arabs call it "the sea of Lot." Robinson observes, that 'the phenomena around the Dead Sea are such as might naturally be expected from the character of its waters, and the region round about—a naked, solitary desert. It lies in its deep cauldron, surrounded by lofty cliffs of naked limestone rock, and exposed for seven or eight months in each year to the unclouded beams of a burning sun. Nothing, therefore, but sterility and death-like solitude can be looked for upon its shores.' The water is intensely salt, with a bitter, disagreeable taste. Those who have bathed in it have found its water extremely buoyant. The stories of the pestiferous nature of the Dead Sea and its waters are a mere fable. There is naturally an immense evaporation from the sea itself, in consequence of its low position and exposure to the summer heats. Ancient and modern travellers agree that the Dead Sea has no traces of animal or vegetable life. There being no fish, there are no water-fowls. The cities of the plain are supposed to have stood at the southern end of the lake. See note on Jude.

The First Epistle general of JOHN.

Written to correct certain errors respecting the person of Christ, and the obligations of Christians

CHAP. I.

THAT [a] which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and [c] our hands have handled, of the Word of life;

2 (For the life [d] was manifested, and we have seen it, [e] and bear witness, and shew unto you that eternal life, which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us;)

3 That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us: and truly [f] our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ.

4 And these things write we unto you, [h] that your joy may be full.

5 This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that [i] God is light, and in him is no darkness at all.

6 If [m] we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth:

7 But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and [p] the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin.

8 If [q] we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us.

9 If [r] we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to [s] cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

10 If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

CHAP. II.

MY little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin, [d] we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous:

2 And [f] he is the propitiation for our sins: and not for our's only, but [g] also for the sins of the whole world.

3 And hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his commandments.

4 He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him.

5 But [k] whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected: hereby know we that we are in him.

6 He [l] that saith he abideth in him [m] ought himself also so to walk, even as he walked.

7 Brethren, I write no new commandment unto you, but an old commandment [o] which ye had from the beginning. The old commandment is the word which ye have heard from the beginning.

8 Again, a new commandment I write unto you, which thing is true in him and in you: [r] because the darkness is past, and the true light now shineth.

9 He that saith he is in the light, and hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now.

10 He that loveth his brother abideth in the light, and [t] there is none † occasion of stumbling in him.

11 But he that hateth his brother is in darkness, and [v] walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes.

12 I write unto you, little children, because [b] your sins are forgiven you for his name's sake.

13 I write unto you, fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I write unto you, young men, because ye have overcome the wicked one. I write unto you, little children, because ye have known the Father.

14 I have written unto you, fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I have written unto you, young men, because [c] ye are strong, and the word of God abideth in you, and ye have overcome the wicked one.

15 Love [i] not the world, neither the things that are in the world. [k] If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him.

16 For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, [n] and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world.

17 And [o] the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever.

18 Little children, [r] it is the last time: and as ye have heard that [x] antichrist shall come, [n] even now are there many antichrists; whereby we know [r] that it is the last time.

19 They [z] went out from us, but they were not of us; for [a] if they had been of us, they would no doubt have continued with us: but they went out, [b] that they might be made manifest that they were not all of us.

20 But [y] ye have an unction from the Holy One, and [c] ye know all things.

21 I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth, but because ye know it, and that no lie is of the truth.

22 Who is a liar but he that denieth that Jesus is the Christ? He is antichrist, that denieth the Father and the Son.

23 Whosoever [h] denieth the Son, the same hath not the Father: [but] ‡ he that acknowledgeth the Son hath the Father also.

24 Let that therefore abide in you, which ye have heard from the beginning. If that which ye have heard from the beginning shall remain in you, ye also shall continue in the Son, and in the Father.

25 And [n] this is the promise that he hath promised us, even eternal life.

26 These things have I written unto you concerning them that seduce you.

27 But the anointing which ye have received of him abideth in you, and [p] ye need not that any man teach you: but as the same anointing [q] teacheth you of all things, and is truth, and is no lie, and even as it hath taught you, ye shall abide in [n] him.

28 And now, little children, abide in him; that, when he shall appear, we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming.

29 If [o] ye know that he is righteous, ‡ ye know that every one that doeth righteousness is born of him.

CHAP. III.

BEHOLD, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that [a] we should be called the sons of God: therefore the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not.

2 Beloved, [b] now are we the sons of God, and [c] it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, [d] we shall be like him; for [e] we shall see him as he is.

3 And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.

4 Whosoever committeth sin transgresseth also the law: for [f] sin is the transgression of the law.

5 And ye know that he was manifested [g] to take away our sins; and [h] in him is no sin.

6 Whosoever abideth in him sinneth not: whosoever sinneth hath not seen him, neither known him.

7 Little children, let no man deceive you: [i] he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous.

8 He that committeth sin is of the devil; for the devil sinneth from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, [k] that he might destroy the works of the devil.

9 Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for [l] his seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

10 In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the devil: whosoever doeth not righteousness is not of God, neither he that loveth not his brother.

11 For this is the [m] message that ye heard from the beginning, [n] that we should love one another.

12 Not as [o] Cain, who was of that wicked one, and slew his brother. And wherefore slew he him? Because his own works were evil, and his brother's righteous.

13 Marvel not, my brethren, if the world hate you.

14 We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother abideth in death.

15 Whosoever [p] hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know [q] that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him.

16 Hereby [r] perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.

17 But [s] whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?

18 My little children, [t] let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth.

19 And hereby we know that we are of the truth, and shall [u] assure our hearts before him.

20 For if our heart condemn us, God is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things.

21 Beloved, [v] if our heart condemn us not, then have we confidence toward God.

22 And [w] whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight.

23 And [x] this is his commandment, That we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, [y] and love one another, as he gave us commandment.

24 And he that keepeth his commandments [z] dwelleth in him, and he in him. And [a] hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit which he hath given us.

CHAP. IV.

BELOVED, [b] believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because [c] many false prophets are gone out into the world.

2 Hereby know ye the Spirit of God: [d] Every spirit that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is of God:

3 And every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is not of God: and this is that spirit of antichrist, whereof ye have heard that it should come; and [e] even now already is it in the world.

4 Ye are of God, little children, and have overcome them: because greater is he that is in you, than [f] he that is in the world.

5 They [g] are of the world: therefore speak they of the world, and the world heareth them.

6 We are of God: [h] he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us. Hereby know we [i] the spirit of truth, and the spirit of error.

7 Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God.

8 He that loveth not [k] knoweth not God; for God is love.

9 In [l] this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, [m] that we might live through him.

10 Herein is love, [n] not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son [o] to be the propitiation for our sins.

11 Beloved, [p] if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another.

12 No [q] man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us.

13 Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit.

14 And [r] we have seen and do testify that [s] the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world.

15 Whosoever [t] shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God.

16 And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him.

17 Herein is [u] our love made perfect, that [v] we may have boldness in the day of judgment: because as he is, so are we in this world.

18 There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear: because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love.

19 We love him, because he first loved us.

20 If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?

21 And [w] this commandment have we from him, That he who loveth God love his brother also.

one that loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him.

2 By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God, and keep his commandments.

3 For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and [c] his commandments are not grievous.

4 For [d] whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world: and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.

5 Who is he that overcometh the world, but [e] he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God?

6 This is he that came [f] by water and blood, even Jesus Christ; not by water only, but by water and blood. [g] And it is the Spirit that beareth witness, because the Spirit is truth.

7 For there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, [h] the Word, and the Holy Ghost: [m] and these three are one.

8 And there are three that bear witness in earth, the spirit, and the water, and the blood: and these three agree in one.

9 If we receive [p] the witness of men, the witness of God is greater: [r] for this is the witness of God which he hath testified of his Son.

10 He that believeth on the Son of God [s] hath the witness in himself: he that believeth not God [v] hath made him a liar; because he believeth not the record that God gave of his Son.

11 And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and [x] this life is in his Son.

12 He [a] that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life.

13 These [b] things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God.

14 And this is the confidence that we have [c] in him, that, if we ask any thing according to his will, he heareth us:

15 And if we know that he hear us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him.

16 If any man see his brother sin a sin which is not unto death, he shall ask, and [d] he shall give him life for them that sin not unto death. [e] There is a sin unto death: [f] I do not say that he shall pray for it.

17 All unrighteousness is sin: and there is a sin not unto death.

18 We know that [g] whosoever is born of God sinneth not; but he that is begotten of God [h] keepeth himself, and that wicked one toucheth him not.

19 And we know that we are of God, and [i] the whole world lieth in wickedness.

20 And we know that the Son of God is come, and [m] hath given us an understanding, [n] that we may know him that is true, and we are in him that is true, even in his Son Jesus Christ. [o] This is the true God, and eternal life.

21 Little children, [p] keep yourselves from idols. Amen.

The Second Epistle of JOHN.

Addressed to a pious lady of eminence, to caution her against some false teachers.

THE elder unto the elect lady and her children, whom I love in the truth; and not I only, but also all they that have known [c] the truth;

2 For the truth's sake, which dwelleth in us, and shall be with us for ever.

3 Grace [e] be with you, mercy, and peace, from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love.

4 I rejoiced greatly that I found of thy children walking in truth, as we have received a commandment from the Father.

5 And now I beseech thee, lady, not as though I wrote a new commandment unto thee, but that which we had from the beginning, [g] that we love one another.

6 And this is love, that we walk after his commandments. This is the commandment, That, as ye have heard from the beginning, ye should walk in it.

that is in thee, even as thou walkest in the truth.

4 I have no greater joy than to hear that [a] my children walk in truth.

5 Beloved, thou doest faithfully whatsoever thou doest to the brethren, and to strangers;

6 Which have borne witness of thy charity before the church: whom if thou bring forward on their journey [b] after a godly sort, thou shalt do well:

7 Because that for his name's sake [c] they went forth, [f] taking nothing of the Gentiles.

8 We therefore ought to receive such, that we might be fellowhelpers to the truth.

9 I wrote unto the church: but Diotrephes, [h] who loveth to have the preeminence among them, receiveth us not.

10 Wherefore, if I come, I will remember his deeds which he doeth, prating against us with malicious words: and not content therewith, neither doth he himself receive the brethren, and forbiddeth them that would, and casteth them out of the church.

11 Beloved, [i] follow not that which is evil, but that which is good. [k] He that doeth good is of God: but he that doeth evil hath not seen God.

12 Demetrius [d] hath good report of all men, and of the truth itself: yea, and we also bear record; [g] and ye know that our record is true.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

1 Jno. v. 21.—GREEK AND ROMAN IDOLS. Those to whom the apostle wrote were surrounded by idolaters, and there was a danger of their falling into the prevailing sin; hence his exhortation, "Little children, keep yourselves from idols." He would have them avoid worshipping them, or holding communion with them or their devotees in any way. The first objects of idolatry were the sun, moon, and stars, angels, demons, men, and animals; afterwards, as men became more corrupt, they began to form images, and to entertain the opinion, that by virtue of consecration, the gods were called down to inhabit their statues; though it is certain that the wiser heathens considered them only as figures designed to recall to their minds the memories of their gods. But the people in general believed the statues to be gods, and paid divine worship to stocks and stones. Idolatry seems to have prevailed soon after the flood, for so early as the time of Abraham, we scarcely find any other worship; and it appears from Scripture, that Abraham's forefathers, and even Abraham himself, were for a time idolaters. The Hebrews were expressly forbidden to make any representation of God, —they were not so much as to look upon an idol; and, from the time of the Maccabees to the destruction of Jerusalem, the Jews extended this precept to the making the figure of any man. By the law of Moses they were commanded to destroy all the images they found, and were forbidden to apply any of the gold or silver to their own use, that no one might receive the least profit from anything belonging to an idol. The Jewish rabbies even asserted that it was unlawful to use any vessel that had been employed in sacrificing to a false god, to warm themselves with the wood of a grove after it was cut down, or to shelter themselves under its shade. When the apostles went forth to preach to the Gentiles, they found them everywhere given to idolatry, the learned equally with the ignorant, so that Athens was swarming with idols. How readily and easily the Gentiles made men into gods is seen in the conduct of the Lycaonians, when, on Paul curing the cripple at Lystra, they took Barnabas for Jupiter, and Paul for Mercury, and cried, "The gods are come down to us in the likeness of men." Their idolatry partook of a sort of ubiquity; they had celestial gods and terrestrial. They had goddesses as well as gods. They had inferior as well as superior deities. They had goddesses of the woods and gods of the sea: gods not only of earth, but of hell. Their idolatry met them at all times, in every place, and under all circumstances. Mars, Minerva, and others, were their leaders in war; and Jupiter, Juno, and others, aided in giving them success. Spoils were dedicated to these, and to Apollo in his temple. To demolish a trophy was looked upon as unlawful, and a kind of sacrilege, because they were all consecrated to some deity. These were gods worshipped by the learned Grecians. The Romans also abounded in gods: they had one for every month in the year. 'These twelve gods were believed to preside over the twelve months; to each of them was allotted a month: January to Janus, February to Neptune March to Minerva, April to Venus, May to Apollo, June to Mercury, July to Jupiter, August to Ceres, September to Vulcan, October to Mars, November to Diana, December to Vesta.' The Christian religion, wherever it prevailed, entirely rooted out the pagan idolatry; as did also the Mahommedan, which is built upon the worship of one God. But the popish church, though denying that they worship images, pay that degree of adoration to the pictures and images of saints and martyrs, that must inevitably induce the vulgar crowd, and even many of a higher grade, to commit acts so like idolatry that it is difficult to distinguish between them. If they profess to reject paganism, they retain much that resembles its form and spirit. They burn lamps, wax candles, and incense, before the images of saints and martyrs, and kneeling, offer their vows and petitions; while, like the pagans, they are said to believe that the saint to whom the image is dedicated presides in a particular manner about its shrine, and works miracles by the intervention of its image; and that, if the image were destroyed or taken away, the saint would no longer perform any miracle in that place. The word rendered idols in the text above referred to, means properly an image, spectre, shade—as of the dead; then any image or figure which would represent anything, particularly anything invisible: and hence anything designed to represent God, and that was set up with a view to be acknowledged as representing him, or to bring him the ideas perfections more vividly before the mind. This word is applicable to idol gods—heathen deities, (Rom. ii. 22; 1 Cor. viii. 4, 7; x. 19; 2 Cor. vi. 16; 1 Thes. i. 9;) but it would also be applicable to any image designed to represent the true God, and through or by which the true God was to be adored. The essential things in the word seem to be an image or representation of the Deity, and the making of that an object of adoration instead of the true God. Since one of these things would be likely to lead to the other, both are forbidden in the prohibitions of idolatry, Exod. x. 4, 5. This would forbid all attempts to represent God by paintings or statuary; all idol-worship, or worship of heathen gods; all images and pictures that would be substituted in the place of God as objects of devotion, or that might transfer the homage from God to the image; and all giving of those affections to other beings or objects which are due to God. The idols given by our artist are Diana, Jupiter, and Mars.

2 Jno. 12.—WRITING TABLETS. Ancient writing was done by engraving on hard substances, as stone or lead. They afterwards wrote on sticks, or pieces of wood. Then a board was used, thinly spread over with wax, which was marked with a style, or iron pen. These were tied together, and sent to parties concerned, filled with letters or epistles. Subsequently we find paper and parchment introduced, which letters the Arabs to this day roll up, then flatten and fasten them at one end, instead of sealing them. The Egyptians wrote both on papyrus and linen. The ink with which the ancients wrote was not so fluid as ours; and it appears from Roman manuscripts, of about the time of the apostle Paul, that the ink was vitriolic, from the circumstance of the corrosive acid having eaten through some of the parchments.

The general Epistle of JUDE.

Probably written to caution against the same deceivers as those against whom the Second Epistle of Peter was written.

JUDE, the servant of Jesus Christ, and [a] brother of James, to them that are sanctified by God the Father, and [b] preserved in Jesus Christ, and [c] called:

2 Mercy unto you, and peace, and love, be multiplied.

3 Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of [d] the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that [e] ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints.

4 For there are certain men crept in unawares, [f] who were before of old ordained to this condemnation, ungodly men, [g] turning the grace of our God into lasciviousness, and denying the only Lord God, and our Lord Jesus Christ.

5 I will therefore put you in remembrance, though ye once knew this, how that the Lord, having saved the people out of the land of Egypt, afterward [h] destroyed them that believed not.

6 And the angels which kept not their [i] first estate, but left their own habitation, [j] he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness unto the judgment of the great day.

7 Even as [k] Sodom and Gomorrha, and the cities about them in like manner, giving themselves over to fornication, and going after [†] strange flesh, are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire.

8 Likewise also these filthy dreamers defile the flesh, despise dominion, and [l] speak evil of dignities.

9 Yet [m] Michael the archangel, when contending with the devil he disputed about the body of Moses, durst not bring against him a railing accusation, but said, [n] The Lord rebuke thee.

10 But these speak evil of those things which they know not: but what they know naturally, as brute beasts, in those things they corrupt themselves.

11 Woe unto them! for they have gone in the way [o] of Cain, and [p] ran greedily after the error of Balaam for reward, and perished [q] in the gainsaying of Core.

12 These are spots in your feasts of charity, when they feast with you, feeding themselves without fear: [r] clouds they are without water, carried about of winds; trees whose fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, [s] plucked up by the roots;

13 Raging [t] waves of the sea, foaming out their own shame; wandering stars, to whom is reserved the blackness of darkness for ever.

14 And Enoch also, [u] the seventh from Adam, prophesied of these, saying, Behold, [v] the Lord cometh with ten thousands of his saints,

15 To execute judgment upon all, and to convince all that are ungodly among them of all their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly committed, and of all their hard speeches which ungodly sinners have spoken against him.

16 These are murmurers, complainers, walking after their own lusts; and their mouth speaketh great swelling words, [w] having men's persons in admiration because of advantage.

17 But, beloved, remember ye the words which were spoken before of the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ;

18 How that they told you [x] there should be mockers in the last time, who should walk after their own ungodly lusts.

19 These be they [y] who separate themselves, sensual, having not the Spirit.

20 But ye, beloved, [z] building up yourselves on your most holy faith, [a] praying in the Holy Ghost,

21 Keep yourselves in the love of God, [b] looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.

22 And of some have compassion, making a difference:

23 And others [c] save with fear, [d] pulling them out of the fire; hating even [e] the garment spotted by the flesh.

24 Now [f] unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and [g] to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy,

25 To [h] the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen.

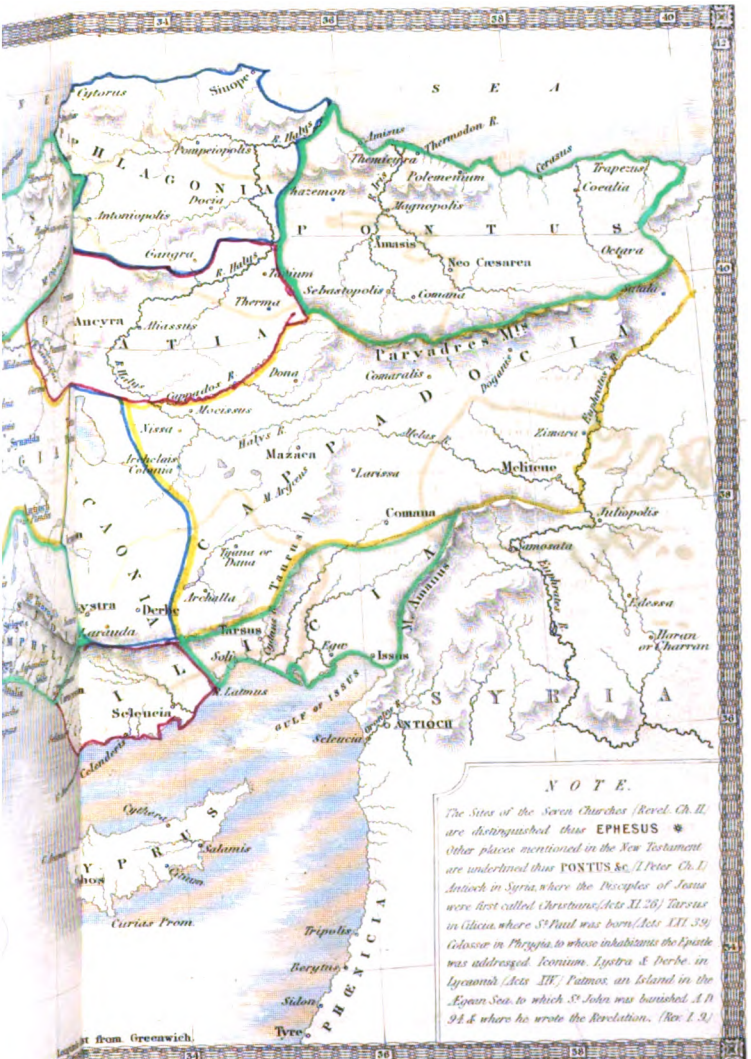
EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.



Ver. 7.—"Even as Sodom and Gomorrha." For an explanation of this allusion, see plate and illustration in 2 Pet. ii. 6. The divine hand was evident in the destruction of the cities of the plain; but it is obvious that, the materials being all ready, God had only to speak the word, and they at his bidding performed his work. Dr. Adam Clarke thinks that 'a shower of nitrous particles might have been precipitated from the atmosphere—here, as in many other places, called heaven—which, by the action of fire on the electric fluid, would be immediately ignited, and so consume the cities. And, as the plains about Sodom and Gomorrha abounded with asphaltus, or bitumen pits, that which is particularly meant, with reference to the plain, in Gen. xix. 24, "Then the Lord rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrha brimstone and fire from the Lord out of heaven," is the setting fire to this vast store of inflammable matter by the agency of lightning or the electric fluid; and this, in the most natural and literal manner, accounts for the whole plain being burnt up, as that plain abounded with this bituminous substance.' We may here introduce a few remarks respecting the far-famed but fabulous apples of Sodom. Maunden the traveller says, 'The far-famed fruit of the tree of Sodom, "which tempts the eye, and turns to ashes on the lips," is nowhere to be found on the western shore; and Burckhardt seems to favour the opinion of its having only an imaginary existence, but it does exist in the vicinity of El Ghor. I saw one of the apples at Mar Saba, and perhaps the only plant in Egypt producing this fruit I discovered at Kosem Amoos, in Upper Egypt, growing in a corner of the small temple of Osis, facing the Nile. The plant was not quite the height of the palma christi. The fruit was like one of the pomegranate, and indeed, from the similarity of the fruit and leaves, I consider the Dead Sea apple as a spurious pomegranate. It was indeed tempting to the eye, but deceitful to the sense. On opening it, it was quite empty, the surface of the rind having only a light feculent sort of cotton attached to it, which was destroyed by the lightest touch. This was the true Dead Sea apple which I saw in Egypt, and which I also found in Mar Saba, albeit Shaw and Pococke doubt its existence.'

The REVELATION of S. JOHN the Divine.

Predicts the destinies of the church from a period shortly after the fall of Jerusalem to the end of time. Written about A. D. 95.

CHAP. I.

THE Revelation of Jesus Christ, which [a] God gave unto him, to shew unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass; and he sent and signified it by his angel unto his servant John:

2 Who bare record of the word of God, and of the testimony of Jesus Christ, and of all things [b] that he saw.

3 Blessed [c] is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein: for [d] the time is at hand.

4 JOHN to the seven churches which are in Asia: Grace be unto you, and peace, from him [e] which is, and which was, and which is to come; and from the seven Spirits which are before his throne;

5 And from Jesus Christ, [f] who is the faithful witness, and the [g] first begotten of the dead, and [h] the prince of the kings of the earth. Unto him [i] that loved us, [k] and washed us from our sins in his own blood,

6 And hath [l] made us kings and priests unto God and his Father; [m] to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

7 Behold, [n] he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and [o] they also which pierced him: and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him. Even so, Amen.

8 I [p] am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the Almighty.

9 I John, who also am your brother, and companion in tribulation, and [q] in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ, was in the isle that is called Patmos, for the word of God, and for the testimony of Jesus Christ.

10 I was in the Spirit on [r] the Lord's day, and heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet, 11 Saying, I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last: and, What thou seest, write in a book, and send it unto the seven churches which are in Asia; unto Ephesus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamos, and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and unto Philadelphia, and unto Laodicea.

12 And I turned to see the voice that spake with me. And being turned, [s] I saw seven golden candlesticks;

13 And in the midst of the seven candlesticks [t] one like unto the Son of man, clothed with a garment down to the foot, and girt about the paps with a golden girdle.

14 His head and [u] his hairs were white like wool, as white as snow; and his eyes were as a flame of fire;

15 And [v] his feet like unto fine brass, as if they burned in a furnace; and [w] his voice as the sound of many waters.

16 And he had in his right hand seven stars: and [x] out of his mouth went a sharp twoedged sword: [y] and his countenance was as the sun shineth in his strength.

17 And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. And he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not; [z] I am the first and the last:

18 I [a] am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and [b] have the keys of hell and of death.

19 Write the things which thou hast seen, and the things which are, [c] and the things which shall be hereafter;

20 The mystery of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks. The seven stars are [d] the angels of the seven churches: and [e] the seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven churches.

CHAP. II.

UNTO the angel of the church of Ephesus write; These things saith [f] he that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, who walketh in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks;

2 I [g] know thy works, and thy labour, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear them which are evil: and [h] thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars:

3 And hast borne, and hast patience, and for my name's sake hast laboured, and hast [i] not fainted.

4 Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love.

5 Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; [k] or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent.

6 But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the Nicolaitanes, which I also hate.

7 He [l] that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat [m] of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God.

8 And unto the angel of the church in Smyrna write; These things saith [n] the first and the last, which was dead, and is alive;

9 I know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but thou art [o] rich) and I know the blasphemy of [p] them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan.

10 Fear [q] none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days: [r] be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee [s] a crown of life.

11 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt of [t] the second death.

12 And to the angel of the church in Pergamos write; These things saith he which hath the sharp sword with two edges;

13 I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where Satan's seat is: and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith, even in those days wherein Antipas was my faithful martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth.

14 But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of [a] Balaam, who taught Balac to cast a stumblingblock before the children of Israel, [b] to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit fornication.

15 So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of [c] the Nicolaitanes, which thing I hate.

16 Repent; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and [d] will fight against them with the sword of my mouth.

17 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it.

18 And unto the angel of the church in Thyatira write; These things saith the Son of God, who hath his eyes like unto a flame of fire, and his feet are like fine brass;

19 I know thy works, and charity, and service, and faith, and thy patience, and thy works; and the last to be more than the first.

20 Notwithstanding I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman [e] Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants [f] to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols.

21 And I gave her space [g] to repent of her fornication; and she repented not.

22 Behold, I will cast her into a bed, and them that commit adultery with her into great tribulation, except they repent of their deeds.

23 And I will kill her children with death; and all the churches shall know that [h] I am he which searcheth the reins and hearts: and [i] I will give unto every one of you according to your works.

24 But unto you I say, and unto the rest in Thyatira, as many as have not this doctrine, and which have not known the depths of Satan, as they speak; I will put upon you none other burden.

25 But that which ye have already hold fast till I come.

26 And he that overcometh, and keepeth [j] my works unto the end, [k] to him will I give power over the nations:

27 And [l] he shall rule them with a rod of iron; as the vessels of a potter shall they be broken to shivers: even as I received of my Father.

28 And I will give him [m] the morning star.

29 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

CHAP. III.

AND unto the angel of the church in Sardis write; These things saith he that hath the seven Spirits of God, and the seven stars; I know thy works, that thou hast a name that thou livest, [n] and art dead.

2 Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die: for I have not found thy works perfect before God.

3 Remember [o] therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. [p] If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee.

4 Thou hast [q] a few names even in Sardis which have not [r] defiled their garments; and they shall walk with me in white: for they are worthy.

5 He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not [s] blot out his name out of the [t] book of life, but [u] I will confess his name before my Father, and before his angels.

6 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

7 And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write; These things saith [v] he that is holy, [w] he that is true, he that hath [x] the key of David, [y] he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and [z] shutteth, and no man openeth;

8 I know thy works: behold, I have set before thee [a] an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name.

9 Behold, I will make [b] them of the synagogue of Satan, which say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie; behold, [c] I will make them to come and worship before thy feet, and to know that I have loved thee.

10 Because thou hast kept the word of my patience, [d] I also will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon [e] all the world, to try them that dwell [f] upon the earth.

11 Behold, [g] I come quickly: hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown.

12 Him that overcometh will I make [h] a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is [i] new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: and I will write upon him my new name.

13 He [k] that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

14 And unto the angel of the church [l] of the Laodiceans write; [m] These things saith the Amen, [n] the faithful and true witness, [o] the beginning of the creation of God;

15 I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot.

16 So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth.

17 Because thou sayest, [p] I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked:

18 I counsel thee [q] to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and [r] white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear; and anoint thine eyes with eyesalve, that thou mayest see.

19 As [s] many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore, and repent.

20 Behold, [t] I stand at the door, and knock: [u] if any man hear my voice, and open the door, [v] I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.

21 To him that overcometh [w] will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne.

22 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

CHAP. IV.

AFTER this I looked, and, behold, a door was opened in heaven: and the first voice which I heard was as it were of a trumpet talking with me; which said, [c] Come up hither, and I will shew thee things which must be hereafter.

2 And immediately I was in the spirit: and, behold, [d] a throne was set in heaven, and one sat on the throne.

3 And he that sat was to look upon like a jasper and a sardine stone: [e] and there was a rainbow round about the throne, in sight like unto an emerald.

4 And [f] round about the throne were four and twenty seats: and upon the seats I saw four and twenty elders sitting, clothed in white raiment; and they had on their heads crowns of gold.

5 And out of the throne proceeded [m] lightnings and thunderings and voices: [n] and there were seven lamps of fire burning before the throne, which are the seven Spirits of God.

6 And before the throne there was [o] a sea of glass like unto crystal: [p] and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts full of eyes before and behind.

7 And [q] the first beast was like a lion, and the second beast like a calf, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle.

8 And the four beasts had each of them [r] six wings about him; and they were full of eyes within: and they [t] rest not day and night, saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come.

9 And when those beasts give glory and honour and thanks to him that sat on the throne, who liveth for ever and ever,

10 The four and twenty elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying,

11 [u] Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: [v] for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created.

CHAP. V.

AND I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne [a] a book written within and on the backside, [c] sealed with seven seals.

2 And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof?

3 And no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon.

4 And I wept much, because no man was found worthy to open and to read the book, neither to look thereon.

5 And one of the elders saith unto me, Weep not: behold, [e] the Lion of the tribe of Juda, [f] the Root of David, hath prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof.

6 And I beheld, and, lo, in the midst of the throne and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the elders, stood [h] a Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and

[a] seven eyes, which are the seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth.

7 And he came and took the book out of the right hand of him that sat upon the throne.

8 And when he had taken the book, the four beasts and four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them harps, and golden vials full of [b] odours, [b] which are the prayers of saints.

9 And [d] they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and [f] hast redeemed us to God by thy blood [g] out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation;

10 And [i] hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth.

11 And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was [l] ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands;

12 Saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing.

13 And [p] every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, [s] Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever.

14 And the four beasts said, Amen. And the four and twenty elders fell down and worshipped him that liveth for ever and ever.

CHAP. VI.

AND I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard, as it were the noise of thunder, one of the four beasts saying, Come and see.

2 And I saw, and behold [v] a white horse: [v] and he that sat on him had a bow; [y] and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer.

3 And when he had opened the second seal, I heard the second beast say, Come and see.

4 And there went out another horse that was red: and power was given to him that sat thereon to take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another: and there was given unto him a great sword.

5 And when he had opened the third seal, I heard the third beast say, Come and see. And I beheld, and lo a black horse; and he that sat on him had a pair of balances in his hand.

6 And I heard a voice in the midst of the four beasts say, ‡ A measure of wheat for a penny, and three measures of barley for a penny; and [d] see thou hurt not the oil and the wine.

7 And when he had opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth beast say, Come and see.

8 And I looked, and behold a pale horse: and his name that sat on him was Death, and Hell followed with him. And power was given § unto them over the fourth part of the earth, [f] to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death, [i] and with the beasts of the earth.

9 And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar [a] the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for [a] the testimony which they held:

10 And they cried with a loud voice, saying, [d] How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?

11 And white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, [f] that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled.

12 And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, [g] and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and [h] the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood;

13 And [i] the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her [k] untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind.

14 And [l] the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and [m] every mountain and island were moved out of their places.

15 And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, [n] hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains;

16 And [o] said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb:

17 For [p] the great day of his wrath is come; [q] and who shall be able to stand?

CHAP. VII.

AND after these things I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, [a] holding the four winds of the earth, [r] that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree.

2 And I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea,

3 Saying, [s] Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have [t] sealed the servants of our God [t] in their foreheads.

4 And [h] I heard the number of them which were sealed: and there were sealed [i] an hundred and forty and four thousand of all the tribes of the children of Israel.

5 Of the tribe of Juda were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Reuben were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Gad were sealed twelve thousand.

6 Of the tribe of Aser were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Nepthalim were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed twelve thousand.

7 Of the tribe of Simeon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Levi were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Issachar were sealed twelve thousand.

8 Of the tribe of Zabulon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Joseph were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Benjamin were sealed twelve thousand.

9 After this I beheld, and, lo, [u] a great multitude, which no man could number, [u] of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, [k] clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands;

10 And cried with a loud voice, saying, [x] Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb.

11 And all the angels stood round about the throne, and about the elders and the four beasts, and fell before the throne on their faces, and worshipped God,

12 Saying, Amen: Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen.

13 And one of the elders answered, saying unto me, What are these which are arrayed in white robes? and whence came they?

14 And I said unto him, Sir, thou knowest. And he said to me, These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have [k] washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

15 Therefore are they before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple: and he that sitteth on the throne shall [y] dwell among them.

16 They [z] shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; [p] neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat.

17 For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne [c] shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters: [y] and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

CHAP. VIII.

AND [a] when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour.

2 And [c] I saw the seven angels which stood before God; [a] and to them were given seven trumpets.

3 And another angel came and stood at the altar, having a golden censer: and there was given unto him much incense, that he should [t] offer it with the prayers of all saints upon the golden altar which was before the throne.

4 And [d] the smoke of the incense, which came with the prayers of the saints, ascended up before God out of the angel's hand.

5 And the angel took the censer, and filled it with fire of the altar, and cast it [t] into the earth: and [t] there were voices, and thunderings, and lightnings, [h] and an earthquake.

6 And the seven angels which had the seven trumpets prepared themselves to sound.

7 The first angel sounded, [m] and there followed hail and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast upon the earth: and the third part [m] of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up.

8 And the second angel sounded, [e] and as it were a great mountain burning with fire was cast into the sea: and the third part of the sea [p] became blood;

9 And the third part of the creatures which were in the sea, and had life, died; and the third part of the ships were destroyed.

10 And the third angel sounded, [r] and there fell a great star from heaven, burning as it were a lamp, and it fell upon the third part of the rivers, and upon the fountains of waters;

11 And [r] the name of the star is called Wormwood: [p] and the third part of the waters became wormwood; and many men died of the waters, because they were made bitter.

12 And [b] the fourth angel sounded, and the third part of the sun was smitten, and the third part of the moon, and the third part of the stars; so as the third part of them was darkened, and the day shone not for a third part of it, and the night likewise.

13 And I beheld, [d] and heard an angel flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, [e] Woe, woe, woe, to the inhabiters of the earth by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels, which are yet to sound!

CHAP. IX.

AND the fifth angel sounded, [g] and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of [h] the bottomless pit.

2 And he opened the bottomless pit; [i] and there arose a smoke out of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by reason of the smoke of the pit.

3 And there came out of the smoke [m] locusts upon the earth: and unto them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power.

4 And it was commanded them [o] that they should not hurt [r] the grass of the earth, neither any green thing, neither any tree; but only those men which have not [t] the seal of God in their foreheads.

5 And to them it was given that they should not kill them, [v] but that they should be tormented five months: and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man.

6 And in those days [y] shall men seek death, and shall not find it; and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them.

7 And [a] the shapes of the locusts were like unto horses prepared unto battle, [b] and on their heads were as it were crowns like gold, [d] and their faces were as the faces of men.

8 And they had hair as the hair of women, and [f] their teeth were as the teeth of lions.

9 And they had breastplates, as it were breastplates of iron; and the sound of their wings was [i] as the sound of chariots of many horses running to battle.

10 And they had tails like unto scorpions, and there were stings in their tails: and their power was to hurt men five months.

11 And [l] they had a king over them, which is the angel of the bottomless pit, whose name in the Hebrew tongue is Abaddon, but in the Greek tongue hath his name [o] Apollyon.

12 One [m] woe is past; and, behold, there come two woes more hereafter.

13 And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God,

14 Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound [p] in the great river Euphrates.

15 And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared [q] for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men.

16 And [s] the number of the army of the horsemen were two hundred thousand thousand: [u] and I heard the number of them.

17 And thus I saw the horses in the vision, and them that sat on them, having breastplates of fire, and of jacinth, and brimstone: [x] and the heads of the horses were as the heads of lions; and out of their mouths issued fire and smoke and brimstone.

18 By these three was the third part of men killed, by the fire, and by the smoke, and by the brimstone, which issued out of their mouths.

19 For their power is in their mouth, and in their tails: [f] for their tails were like unto serpents, and had heads, and with them they do hurt.

20 And the rest of the men which were not killed by these plagues [t] yet repented not of the works of their hands, that they should not worship [i] devils, and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk:

21 Neither repented they of their murders, [m] nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

CHAP. X.

AND I saw another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud: [p] and a rainbow was upon his head, and [r] his face was as it were the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire:

2 And he had in his hand a little book open: [s] and he set his right foot upon the sea, and his left foot on the earth,

3 And cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roareth: and when he had cried, [v] seven thunders uttered their voices.

4 And when the seven thunders had uttered their voices, I was about to write: and I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, [x] Seal up those things which the seven thunders uttered, and write them not.

5 And the angel which I saw stand upon the sea and upon the earth [z] lifted up his hand to heaven,

6 And sware by him that liveth for ever and ever, [a] who created heaven, and the things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the sea, and the things which are therein, [b] that there should be time no longer:

7 But [c] in the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound, [d] the mystery of God should be finished, as he hath declared to his servants the prophets.

8 And the voice which I heard from heaven spake unto me again, and said, Go and take the little book which is open in the hand of the angel which standeth upon the sea and upon the earth.

9 And I went unto the angel, and said unto him, Give me the little book. And he said unto me, [e] Take it, and eat it up; and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth sweet as honey.

10 And I took the little book out of the angel's hand, and ate it up; and it was in my mouth [f] sweet as honey: and as soon as I had eaten it, [g] my belly was bitter.

11 And he said unto me, [i] Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings.

CHAP. XI.

AND there was given me [k] a reed like unto a rod: and the angel stood, saying,

[a] Rise, and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein.

2 But [b] the court which is without the temple [c] leave out, and measure it not; [d] for it is given unto the Gentiles: and the holy city shall they [e] tread under foot forty and two months.

3 And I will give † power unto my two witnesses, and they shall prophesy a thousand two hundred and threescore days, clothed in sackcloth.

4 These are the [f] two olive trees, and the two candlesticks standing before the God of the earth.

5 And if any man will hurt them, [g] fire proceedeth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies: [h] and if any man will hurt them, he must in this manner be killed.

6 These [i] have power to shut heaven, that it rain not in the days of their prophecy: and [k] have power over waters to turn them to blood, and to smite the earth with all plagues, as often as they will.

7 And when they [l] shall have finished their testimony, the beast that ascendeth out of the bottomless pit [m] shall make war against them, and shall overcome them, and kill them.

8 And their dead bodies shall lie in the street of the great city, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, [n] where also our Lord was crucified.

9 And they of the people and kindreds and tongues and nations shall see their dead bodies three days and an half, [o] and shall not suffer their dead bodies to be put in graves.

10 And they that dwell upon the earth shall rejoice over them, and make merry, [p] and shall send gifts one to another; because these two prophets tormented them that dwelt on the earth.

11 And after three days and an half [q] the Spirit of life from God entered into them, and they stood upon their feet; [r] and great fear fell upon them which saw them.

12 And they heard a great voice from heaven saying unto them, Come up hither. And they ascended up to heaven [s] in a cloud; [t] and their enemies beheld them.

13 And the same hour was there a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake were slain [u] of men seven thousand: and the remnant were affrighted, [v] and gave glory to the God of heaven.

14 The second woe is past; and, behold, the third woe cometh quickly.

15 And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; [w] and he shall reign for ever and ever.

16 And the four and twenty elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God,

17 Saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned.

18 And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, [x] and the time of the dead, that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldest destroy them which [y] destroy the earth.

CHAP. XII.

AND there appeared a great ‡ wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars:

2 And she being with child cried, [p] travailing in birth, and pained to be delivered.

3 And there appeared another § wonder in heaven; and behold [a] a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads.

4 And [b] his tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, [m] and did cast them to the earth: and the dragon stood before the woman which was ready to be delivered, [r] for to devour her child as soon as it was born.

5 And she brought forth a man child, [s] who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron: and her child was caught up unto God, and to his throne.

6 And the woman fled into the wilderness, where she hath a place prepared of God, that they should feed her there [u] a thousand two hundred and threescore days.

7 And there was war in heaven: [x] Michael and his angels fought [y] against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels,

8 And prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven.

9 And [c] the great dragon was cast out, [a] that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: [d] he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

10 And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, / Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ: for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, [h] which accused them before our God day and night.

11 And / they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony; [m] and they loved not their lives unto the death.

12 Therefore [n] rejoice, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them. [p] Woe to the inhabiters of the earth and of the sea! for the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, [r] because he knoweth that he hath but a short time.

13 And when the dragon saw that he was cast unto the earth, he persecuted the woman which brought forth the man child.

14 And [s] to the woman were given two wings of a great eagle, that she might fly into the wilderness, into her place, where she is nourished [u] for a time, and times, and half a time, from the face of the serpent.

15 And the serpent [x] cast out of his mouth water as a flood after the woman, that he might cause her to be carried away of the flood.

16 And the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up the flood which the dragon cast out of his mouth.

17 And the dragon was wroth with the woman, [y] and went to make war with the remnant of her seed, which keep the

CHAP. XIII.

AND I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw [a] a beast rise up out of the sea, [f] having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his horns ten crowns, and upon his heads the [g] name of blasphemy.

2 And the beast which I saw was like unto a leopard, and his feet were as the feet of a bear, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion: and [i] the dragon gave him his power, and his seat, and great authority.

3 And I saw one of his heads as it were [†]wounded to death; and his deadly wound was healed: and [k] all the world wondered after the beast.

4 And they worshipped the dragon which gave power unto the beast: and they worshipped the beast, saying, [m] Who is like unto the beast? who is able to make war with him?

5 And there was given unto him [n] a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies; and power was given unto him to [§]continue forty and two months.

6 And he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God, to blaspheme his name, [o] and his tabernacle, and them that dwell in heaven.

7 And it was given unto him [p] to make war with the saints, and to overcome them: and power was given him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations.

8 And all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, [q] whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb slain [b] from the foundation of the world.

9 If any man have an ear, let him hear.

10 He [r] that leadeth into captivity shall go into captivity: [s] he that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword. [t] Here is the patience and the faith of the saints.

11 And I beheld another beast [u] coming up out of the earth; and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon.

12 And he exerciseth all the power of the first beast before him, and causeth the earth and them which dwell therein to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed.

13 And [k] he doeth great wonders, [l] so that he maketh fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men,

14 And deceiveth them that dwell on the earth [m] by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast; saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an image to the beast, which had the wound by a sword, [n] and did live.

15 And he had power to give [o] life unto the image of the beast, that the image of the beast should both speak, and cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast should be killed.

16 And he caused all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to [†]receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads:

17 And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or [n] the name of the beast, or the number of his name.

18 Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six.

CHAP. XIV.

AND I looked, and, lo, [h] a Lamb stood on the mount Sion, and with him [c] an hundred forty and four thousand, [d] having his Father's name written in their foreheads.

2 And I heard a voice from heaven, [f] as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder: and I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps:

3 And [h] they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders: and no man could learn that song but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth.

4 These are they which were not defiled with women; [i] for they are virgins. These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth. These [l] were redeemed from among men, [m] being the firstfruits unto God and to the Lamb.

5 And [o] in their mouth was found no guile: [r] for they are without fault before the throne of God.

6 And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, [t] having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people,

7 Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come: [v] and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters.

8 And there followed another angel, saying, [a] Babylon is fallen, is fallen, [a] that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.

9 And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand,

10 The same [f] shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and [k] he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb:

11 And [i] the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name.

12 Here is the patience of the saints: here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus.

13 And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, [n] Blessed are the dead [o] which die in the Lord [‖]from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, [r] that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them.

14 And I looked, and behold a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sat [t] like unto the Son of man, having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand a sharp sickle.

15 And another angel came out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sat on the cloud, [t] Thrust in thy sickle, and reap: for the time is come for thee to reap; for the harvest [v]of the earth is [‡]ripe.

16 And he that sat on the cloud thrust in his sickle on the earth; and the earth was reaped.

17 And another angel came out of the temple which is in heaven, he also having a sharp sickle.

18 And another angel came out from the altar, [h] which had power over fire; and cried with a loud cry to him that had the sharp sickle, saying, [i] Thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth; for her grapes are fully ripe.

19 And the angel thrust in his sickle into the earth, and gathered the vine of the earth, and cast it into the great winepress of the wrath of God.

20 And [j] the winepress was trodden without the city, and blood came out of the winepress, even unto the horse bridles, by the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs.

CHAP. XV.

AND I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvellous, [k] seven angels having the seven last plagues; for in them is filled up the wrath of God.

2 And I saw as it were [l] a sea of glass [m] mingled with fire: and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, [n] having the harps of God.

3 And they sing [o] the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, [p] Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; [q] just and true are thy ways, thou King of [r] saints.

4 Who [s] shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify thy name? for thou only art holy: for [t] all nations shall come and worship before thee; for thy judgments are made manifest.

5 And after that I looked, and, behold, [u] the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened:

6 And the seven angels came out of the temple, having the seven plagues, [v] clothed in pure and white linen, and having their breasts girded with golden girdles.

7 And one of the four beasts gave unto the seven angels seven golden vials full of the wrath of God, [w] who liveth for ever and ever.

8 And [x] the temple was filled with smoke [y] from the glory of God, and from his power; and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled.

CHAP. XVI.

AND I heard a great voice out of the temple saying to the seven angels, Go your ways, and pour out the vials of [z] the wrath of God upon the earth.

2 And the first went, and poured out his vial upon the earth; and [a] there fell a noisome and grievous sore upon the men which had the mark of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image.

3 And the second angel poured out his vial [b] upon the sea; and [c] it became as the blood of a dead man: and every living soul died in the sea.

4 And the third angel poured out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters; and they became blood.

5 And I heard the angel of the waters say, [d] Thou art righteous, O Lord, [e] which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus.

6 For [f] they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, [g] and thou hast given them blood to drink; for they are worthy.

7 And I heard another out of the altar say, Even so, Lord God Almighty, [z] true and righteous are thy judgments.

8 And the fourth angel poured out his vial upon the sun; and power was given unto him to scorch men with fire.

9 And men were [a] scorched with great heat, and [b] blasphemed the name of God, which hath power over these plagues: [c] and they repented not to give him glory.

10 And the fifth angel poured out his vial upon the [d] seat of the beast; and his kingdom was full of darkness; [e] and they gnawed their tongues for pain,

11 And blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, and repented not of their deeds.

12 And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates; [f] and the water thereof was dried up, [g] that the way of the kings of the east might be prepared.

13 And I saw three unclean [h] spirits like frogs come out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet.

14 For [i] they are the spirits of devils, [k] working miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the earth [l] and of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty.

15 Behold, [m] I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, [n] lest he walk naked, and they see his shame.

16 And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon.

17 And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air; and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, It is done.

18 And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, [o] such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great.

19 And [p] the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell: and great Babylon [q] came in remembrance before God, to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of his wrath.

20 And every island fled away, and the mountains were not found.

21 And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every stone about the weight of a talent: and men blasphemed God because of [r] the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great.

CHAP. XVII.

AND there came one of the seven angels which had the seven vials, and talked with me, saying unto me, Come hither; I will shew unto thee the judgment of [s] the great whore that sitteth upon many waters:

2 With [t] whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication, and the inhabitants of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication.

3 So he carried me away in the spirit [u] into the wilderness: and I saw a woman sit upon a scarlet coloured beast, full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

4 And the woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet colour, [v] and [x] decked with gold and precious stones and pearls, having a golden cup in her hand full of abomi-nations and filthiness of her fornication:

5 And upon her forehead was a name written, [a] MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, [b] THE MOTHER OF [c] HARLOTS AND ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.
6 And I saw the woman drunken with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus: and when I saw her, [f] I wondered with great admiration.
7 And the angel said unto me, Wherefore didst thou marvel? I will tell thee the mystery of the woman, and of the beast that carrieth her, which hath the seven heads and ten horns.
8 The beast that thou sawest was, and is not; and shall ascend out of the bottomless pit, and go into perdition: and they that dwell on the earth shall wonder, whose names were not written in [l] the book of life from the foundation of the world, when they behold the beast that was, and is not, and yet is.
9 And [m] here is the mind which hath wisdom. The seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth.
10 And there are seven kings: five are fallen, and one is, and the other is not yet come; and when he cometh, he must continue a short space.
11 And the beast that was, and is not, even he is the eighth, and is of the seven, and goeth into perdition.
12 And [r] the ten horns which thou sawest are ten kings, which have received no kingdom as yet; but receive power as kings one hour with the beast.
13 These have one mind, and shall give their power and strength unto the beast.
14 These [s] shall make war with the Lamb, and [t] the Lamb shall overcome them: [u] for he is Lord of lords, and King of kings: [v] and they that are with him are called, and chosen, and faithful.
15 And he saith unto me, [y] The waters which thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues.
16 And the ten horns which thou sawest upon the beast, [z] these shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate [a] and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and burn her with fire.
17 For [b] God hath put in their hearts to fulfil his will, and to agree, and give their kingdom unto the beast, [c] until the words of God shall be fulfilled.
18 And the woman which thou sawest is that great city, which reigneth over the kings of the earth.

CHAP. XVIII.

AND after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; [f] and the earth was lightened with his glory.
2 And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, [g] Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and [h] is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and [i] a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.
3 For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, [k] and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the [l] abundance of her delicacies.
4 And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, [m] Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues.

5 For [b] her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities.
6 Reward [d] her even as she rewarded you, and double unto her double according to her works: [e] in the cup which she hath filled fill to her double.
7 How [f] much she hath glorified herself, and lived deliciously, so much torment and sorrow give her: for she saith in her heart, I sit a [d] queen, and am no widow, and shall see no sorrow.
8 Therefore shall her plagues come in one day, death, and mourning, and famine; and [f] she shall be utterly burned with fire: [k] for strong is the Lord God who judgeth her.
9 And [m] the kings of the earth, who have committed fornication and lived deliciously with her, shall bewail her, and lament for her, when they shall see the smoke of her burning,
10 Standing afar off for the fear of her torment, saying, [o] Alas, alas that great city Babylon, that mighty city! for in one hour is thy judgment come.
11 And [p] the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her; for no man buyeth their merchandise any more:
12 The merchandise of gold, and silver, and precious stones, and of pearls, and fine linen, and purple, and silk, and scarlet, and all [t] thyine wood, and all manner vessels of ivory, and all manner vessels of most precious wood, and of brass, and iron, and marble,
13 And cinnamon and odours, and ointments, and frankincense, and wine, and oil, and fine flour, and wheat, and beasts, and sheep, and horses, and chariots, and [z] slaves, and [a] souls of men.
14 And the fruits that thy soul lusted after are departed from thee, and all things which were dainty and goodly are departed from thee, and thou shalt find them no more at all.
15 The merchants of these things, which were made rich by her, shall stand afar off for the fear of her torment, weeping and wailing,
16 And saying, Alas, alas that great city, that was clothed in fine linen, and purple, and scarlet, and decked with gold, and precious stones, and pearls!
17 For in one hour so great riches is come to nought. And [d] every shipmaster, and all the company in ships, and sailors, and as many as trade by sea, stood afar off,
18 And cried when they saw the smoke of her burning, saying, What city is like unto this great city!
19 And [e] they cast dust on their heads, and cried, weeping and wailing, saying, Alas, alas that great city, wherein were made rich all that had ships in the sea by reason of her costliness! for in one hour is she made desolate.
20 Rejoice [f] over her, thou heaven, and ye holy apostles and prophets; for [f] God hath avenged you on her.
21 And a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone, and cast it into the sea, saying, [m] Thus with violence shall that great city Babylon be thrown down, and shall be found no more at all.
22 And [s] the voice of harpers, and musicians, and of pipers, and trumpeters, shall be heard no more at all in thee; and no craftsman, of whatsoever craft he be, shall be found any more in thee, and the sound of a millstone shall be heard no more at all in thee;

23 And [b] the light of a candle shall shine no more at all in thee; [c] and the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride shall be heard no more at all in thee: for [d] thy merchants were the great men of the earth; [f] for by thy sorceries were all nations deceived.

24 And in her was found the blood of prophets, and of saints, and of all that were slain upon the earth.

CHAP. XIX.

AND after these things [g] I heard a great voice of much people in heaven, saying, Alleluia; Salvation, and glory, and honour, and power, unto the Lord our God:

2 For true and righteous are his judgments: for he hath judged the great whore, which did corrupt the earth with her fornication, and [i] hath avenged the blood of his servants at her hand.

3 And again they said, Alleluia. And [m] her smoke rose up for ever and ever.

4 And the four and twenty elders and the four beasts fell down and worshipped God that sat on the throne, saying, [n] Amen; Alleluia.

5 And a voice came out of the throne, saying, [o] Praise our God, all ye his servants, and ye that fear him, both small and great.

6 And [p] I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, Alleluia: for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth.

7 Let us be glad and rejoice, and give honour to him: for [r] the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready.

8 And [s] to her was granted that she should be arrayed in fine linen, clean and [o] white: [b] for the fine linen is the righteousness of saints.

9 And he saith unto me, Write, [o] Blessed are they which are called unto the marriage supper of the Lamb. And he saith unto me, These are the true sayings of God.

10 And [e] I fell at his feet to worship him. And he said unto me, f See thou do it not: I am thy fellowservant, and of thy brethren [f] that have the testimony of Jesus: worship God: for the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy.

11 And [i] I saw heaven opened, and behold a white horse; and he that sat upon him was called Faithful and True, and [l] in righteousness he doth judge and make war.

12 His [m] eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many crowns; and he had a name written, that no man knew, but he himself.

13 And [o] he was clothed with a vesture dipped in blood: and his name is called [r] The Word of God.

14 And the armies which were in heaven followed him upon white horses, [s] clothed in fine linen, white and clean.

15 And [t] out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the nations: and [u] he shall rule them with a rod of iron: and [v] he treadeth the winepress of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God.

A. D. 96.

16 And he hath on his vesture and on his thigh a name written, [w] KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS.

17 And I saw an angel standing in the sun; and he cried with a loud voice, saying to all the fowls that fly in the midst of heaven, [d] Come and gather yourselves together unto the supper of the great God;

18 That ye may eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of captains, and the flesh of mighty men, and the flesh of horses, and of them that sit on them, and the flesh of all men, both free and bond, both small and great.

19 And [g] I saw the beast, and the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against him that sat on the horse, and against his army.

20 And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. [h] These both were cast alive into a lake of fire [l] burning with brimstone.

21 And the remnant were slain with the sword of him that sat upon the horse, which sword proceeded out of his mouth: and all the fowls were filled with their flesh.

CHAP. XX.

AND I saw an angel come down from heaven, [p] having the key of the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand.

2 And he laid hold on [r] the dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil, and Satan, and bound him a thousand years,

3 And cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and [s] set a seal upon him, [t] that he should deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years should be fulfilled: and after that he must be loosed a little season.

4 And I saw [u] thrones, and they sat upon them, and [v] judgment was given unto them: and I saw [w] the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the word of God, and which had not worshipped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and [d] reigned with Christ a thousand years.

5 But the rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand years were finished. This is the first resurrection.

6 Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: on such [h] the second death hath no power, but they shall be [k] priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years.

7 And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison,

8 And shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, [x] Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battle: the number of whom is as the sand of the sea.

9 And [p] they went up on the breadth of the earth, and compassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city: and fire came down from God out of heaven, and devoured them.

10 And the devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophet are, and shall be tormented day and night for ever and ever.

11 And [r] I saw a great white throne, and him that sat on it, from whose face [a] the earth and the heaven fled away; [a] and there was found no place for them.

12 And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; [c] and the books were opened: and another [d] book was opened, which is the book of life: and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, [e] according to their works.

13 And the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and [o] hell delivered up the dead which were in them: and they were judged every man according to their works.

14 And [h] death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death.

15 And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire.

CHAP. XXI.

AND [i] I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea.

2 And I John saw [l] the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared [m] as a bride adorned for her husband.

3 And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, [n] the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God.

4 And [p] God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, [r] neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away.

5 And he that sat upon the throne said, [t] Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: for these words are true and faithful.

6 And he said unto me, It is done. [u] I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. [x] I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely.

7 He that overcometh shall inherit [†] all things; and [z] I will be his God, and he shall be my son.

8 But [a] the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death.

9 And there came unto me one of the seven angels which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come hither, I will shew thee the bride, the Lamb's wife.

10 And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and shewed me [*] that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God,

11 Having the glory of God: and her light was like unto a stone most precious, even like a jasper stone, clear as crystal;

12 And had a wall great and high, and had twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels, and names written thereon, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel:

13 On the east three gates; on the north three gates; on the south three gates; and on the west three gates.

14 And the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and [b] in them the names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.

15 And he that talked with me [d] had a golden reed to measure the city, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof.

16 And the city lieth foursquare, and the length is as large as the breadth: and he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs. The length and the breadth and the height of it are equal.

17 And he measured the wall thereof, an hundred and forty and four cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, of the angel.

18 And the building of the wall of it was of jasper: and the city was pure gold, like unto clear glass.

19 And [f] the foundations of the wall of the city were garnished with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper; the second, sapphire; the third, a chalcedony; the fourth, an emerald;

20 The fifth, sardonyx; the sixth, sardius; the seventh, chrysolyte; the eighth, beryl; the ninth, a topaz; the tenth, a chrysoprasus; the eleventh, a jacinth; the twelfth, an amethyst.

21 And the twelve gates were twelve pearls; every several gate was of one pearl: and the street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass.

22 And [*] I saw no temple therein: for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple of it.

23 And [q] the city had no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it: for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof.

24 And [s] the nations of them which are saved shall walk in the light of it: and the kings of the earth do bring their glory and honour into it.

25 And the gates of it shall not be shut at all by day: for [p] there shall be no night there.

26 And they shall bring the glory and honour of the nations into it.

27 And [y] there shall in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie: but they which are written in the Lamb's [k] book of life.

CHAP. XXII.

AND he shewed me [c] a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb.

2 In the midst of the street of it, and on either side of the river, was there [d] the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month: and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations.

3 And [e] there shall be no more curse: but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it; and his servants shall serve him:

4 And [f] they shall see his face; and his name shall be in their foreheads.

5 And there shall be no night there; and they need no candle, neither light of the sun; for [g] the Lord God giveth them light: [i] and they shall reign for ever and ever.

6 And he said unto me, These sayings are faithful and true: and the Lord God of the holy prophets sent his angel to shew unto his servants the things which must shortly be done.

7 Behold, I come quickly: [k] blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophecy of this book.

8 And I John saw these things, and heard them. And when I had heard and seen, I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel which shewed me these things.

9 Then saith he unto me, See thou do it not: for I am thy fellowservant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book: worship God.

10 And [e] he saith unto me, Seal not the sayings of the prophecy of this book: for the time is at hand.

11 He f that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still.

12 And, behold, I come quickly; [h] and my reward is with me, [i] to give every man according as his work shall be.

13 I [k] am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last.

EXPLANATORY NOTES TO THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

CH. II. 8.—SMYRNA, situated at the extremity of a beautiful bay on the coast of Asia Minor, was one of the principal cities of Ionia. Many cities have claimed the honour of having given birth to Homer, but it is believed that the real claimant is Smyrna. This city, after 400 years of decay, was rebuilt by Antigonus and Lysimachus. The streets are said to have been remarkably handsome, well paved, and drawn at right angles. Numerous fine porticos, temples, theatres, and a public library, with the splendid and lofty acropolis, rendered it one of the most beautiful cities of Ionia. Under the Roman emperors Smyrna flourished greatly; and its schools of eloquence and philosophy were held in considerable repute. It has suffered from various sieges and earthquakes. Modern Smyrna is beautifully situated at the foot of a lofty mountain, that stretches along the shore to a great extent, and has upon its summit the castellated building seen in our view. This is perhaps the finest port in Asia, capable of containing a large fleet. It was upon this mountain that the church was founded referred to by the apostle John. Polycarp, the first bishop of Smyrna, suffered martyrdom here in the flames, A.D. 166. The modern streets are narrow, and many houses are built with clay, low and flat-roofed. The population fluctuates. In 1814, 40,000 persons were cut off by the plague. Hartley reckons the population at 75,000. Smyrna had no judgment denounced against it, and still remains a large and busy city.

CH. II. 12.—PERGAMOS. This was the ancient metropolis of Mysia. It had a library of 200,000 volumes, which Antony and Cleopatra caused to be transported to Egypt. Here Galen the physician was born. Here parchment, originally called pergamena, was invented. Its population is now about 15,000, chiefly Turks. Numerous ancient ruins of a fortress, a theatre, and a naumachia, attest the magnificence of this once royal city. The church of Pergamos was reproved for the doctrines and deeds of some of its members, but commended for holding fast the name of the Lord, and not denying his faith in a time of persecution.

CH. II. 18.—THYATIRA. This was a city of Lydia. During the wars of the Greek kings of Syria, it underwent various changes, and finally surrendered to the Romans under Scipio. It was celebrated for dyeing purple, and is so at the present time for dyeing, and its scarlet cloths are deemed superior to any other in Asia Minor. Modern Thyatira is called by the Turks Ak-hissar, or the White Castle, and is situated on a plain about twenty-seven miles from Sardis. Its streets are narrow, its houses low, and mostly of mud. In 1820 the town contained about 1500 habitations, houses, and huts. It has many shops, and a considerable trade is carried on with Smyrna in cotton wool. Thyatira had soon tares mingled with its wheat; but there were those among the people that could save a city. It still exists, while greater cities have fallen.

CH. III. 4.—SARDIS. This city was situated on the river Pactolus, which is now an insignificant brook in the scene. It also stood at the foot of mount Tmolus, which rises majestically in the background. Sardis was formerly the capital of the country of Lydia in Asia, and the residence of the Lydian kings. It was exceedingly rich and glorious. It was taken and plundered by Cyrus; but it continued a place of very considerable importance in connexion with the Persian empire. After suffering many disasters in war, it was entirely ruined by an earthquake in the time of our Lord. It was rebuilt by Tiberius, the Roman emperor, but it never recovered its former splendour. The most remarkable of its ruins are two noble columns, which are prominently distinguished in our view. They belonged to the temple of Cybele, a magnificent edifice constructed of white marble. These, with a few mutilated fragments of other columns scattered on the sward, or sunk in it, are all that now remain, and these are buried to nearly half their height in the soil. Other columns have been blown up by gunpowder for the use of masons and stonecutters, and it is apprehended that such will ultimately be the fate of the few that remain. Sardis is now a miserable village called Sart. Its inhabitants are all Turkish herdsmen, living in low huts of clay. No one bearing the name of Christian now lives in Sardis.

CH. III. 7.—PHILADELPHIA. Philadelphia stands on a rising ground beneath the snowy mount Tmolus. The houses are embosomed in trees, which gives a pleasing effect to the scene. Not long before the writing of the apocalypse, this city suffered much from earthquakes, so that it became almost deserted, which may account for the poverty of the church there. Philadelphia was once a very considerable city in Asia Minor. It defended itself against its powerful foes better than others, and even made a capitulation with Bajazet, in 1390. Gibbon says, 'Philadelphia alone has been saved by prophecy or courage. At a distance from the sea, forgotten by the emperors, encompassed on all sides by the Turks, her valiant citizens defended her religion and freedom above fourscore years, and at length capitulated with the proudest of the Ottomans. Among the Greek colonies and churches of Asia, Philadelphia is still erect—a column in a scene of ruins.' Philadelphia is now a considerable town. There has been a succession of Christians there in every generation, and though little pure religion now prevails, yet it has been kept amidst great trials; and it is hoped that Christ has had disciples there in every age, and has some even now.

ORIENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS TO THE EPISTLES.

ROMANS.

Ch. I.—7. Rome. One of the most celebrated cities of the world, renowned for its antiquity, grandeur, and power. It was founded by Romulus 752 or 753 years before Christ. For a time it was governed by kings, and then by two consuls annually elected. The latter mode of government lasted for many centuries. Julius Cæsar first acquired the supreme power, but refused the name of emperor, which his successor and nephew Augustus assumed. The succeeding Roman emperors were distinguished by their crimes and licentiousness. At length Constantine embraced Christianity, and Pagan Rome lost its power, and he made Constantinople the seat of government. Rome, however, eventually became powerful by superstition and influence as the head of the Latin church. That power is now greatly weakened, but the Pope yet continues sovereign, reigning amidst a people wearied with his oppressions. Twenty years ago Rome contained 120,000 persons, among whom, from 15,000 to 30,000 were paupers. Recent revolutions have much changed its condition. The Pope is only propped up on his throne by foreign arms. 16. Also to the Greek. After Alexander's generals had established their respective empires in Egypt and Asia, the inhabitants of those countries were considered as Greeks, because they usually spoke the Greek language; and as the Jews were little acquainted with other idolatrous nations, they naturally called all the heathens 'Greeks.' Hence, in their nomenclature, Jews and Greeks comprehended all mankind. 31. Without natural affection. The practice of exposing infants to perish is here most likely referred to; it prevailed during many ages at Rome, and also in Greece and other heathen countries, and is still practised among many of the latter. Until the father, or, in his absence, a friend for him, lifted the new-born infant from the ground and placed it in his bosom, it remained undecided whether it was to be exposed or preserved.

Ch. VII.—24. Who shall deliver me from the body of this death? Though some dry critics dispute the propriety of Doddrige's opinion, that here is an allusion to the ancient punishment of fastening a living body to a dead one, it is a very natural illustration and most likely correct. (See note and cut end of Rom.)

Ch VIII.—15. Whereby we cry, Abba, Father. St. Paul alludes to a law among the Jews, which forbade slaves to call a freeman Abba.—Claude. 23. The adoption. The Romans had a twofold form of adoption; the first was a private transaction between the parties, receiving the person adopted into the family; the second was a public recognition in the forum. The latter is thought to be here alluded to.

Ch. XI.—4. Baal. The idol of the Phœnicians and the Canaanites. They worshipped this god under the image of a bull, a calf, or a heifer, the first denoting the sun, the second the moon; the former was Moloch, king of heaven, the latter Melechet, queen of heaven. (See note and cut Judg. ii. 11.)

Ch. XIII.—4. Beareth not the sword in vain. Bearing the sword appears to denote the power of life and death, which was, with the Roman magistrates, denoted by their being girded with a sword, or by its being borne before them—a custom still in some degree retained in Europe as well as in the East. The sword probably became this symbol, because decapitation was the primary capital punishment, and that was usually inflicted with the sword in ancient times, as it still is in the East.—Pictorial Bible. 14. Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ. This metaphor is probably taken from the theatre, where the actors assume the name and attire of the person they represent. Plutarch says, 'that the kings of Persia on the day of their coronation, put on a robe which the first Cyrus had worn before he was king, to remind them of imitating his exemplary temper and conduct.'—Ibid.

Ch. XIV.—2. Another, who is weak, eateth herbs. The Jewish sect of the Essenes did so from religious scruples, and the Romans and the Greeks from philosophical dogmas.—Bloomfield.

Ch. XVI.—16 Salute one another with an holy kiss. Learned writers trace this custom to an ancient Oriental one borrowed from the synagogues. In the Apostolic age, the kiss was given before taking the Lord's supper. It was understood to express mutual love and, in things spiritual, equality. The custom continued during a great part of the first century, but there is reason to think that it became so liable to abuse and misrepresentations in the scandalous tales of the heathens, who inferred from it promiscuous intercourse, that it seems to have been laid aside at a very early period of the Christian Church.

I. CORINTHIANS.

Ch. IV.—13. Filth of the world. The expression was applied to those poor wretches, who, being the very dregs of the people, were offered up as expiatory sacrifices, in times of any plague, or public calamity, to the infernal deities. They were brought to the place of execution with cheese, dried figs, and a cake in their hands: and, after they were beaten with rods, they were burnt, and their ashes cast into the sea with the following sentence, 'Be thou an expiation, be thou a refuse, or an offscouring.'

Ch. IX.—24. They which run.—25. Every man that striveth. The games to which the Apostle alludes were celebrated with extraordinary pomp and splendour every fourth year, on the Isthmus which joins the Peloponnesus to the main land, and on a part of which the city of Corinth stood. There were in Greece four species of games—the Pythian, or Delphic; the Isthmian, or Corinthian; the Nemean, and the Olympic. On these occasions persons were assembled from all parts of Greece, and the time during which they continued was devoted to extraordinary festivity and amusement. The Isthmian or Corinthian games were celebrated in the narrow part of the Isthmus of Corinth, to the north of the city, and were, doubtless, the games to which the Apostle more particularly alluded, though the games in each of the places were substantially of the same nature, and the same illustration would, in the main, apply to all. Striveth for the mastery. Signifies every one that agonizes in wrestling, boxing, or pitching bar or quoit. 25. Is temperate in all things. Those who intended to compete for the prize at the Isthmian games, underwent a severe previous training. This training lasted twelve months, during which, under an experienced teacher of the gymnastic arts, all the wants of nature, and all sensual indulgence, was under the most strict regulation. Their eating, drinking, walking, and sleeping, were determined as to time and quantity by rule; and they were constantly exercised in those arts, the prizes for which they intended to contest. A corruptible crown. The crown in the olympic games, sacred to Jupiter, was of wild olive; in the Pythian, sacred to Apollo, of laurel; in the Isthmian, or Corinthian, of the pine, &c. Most of these were evergreens but they would soon dry or break to pieces.

26. Beateth the air. This phrase is taken from the habits of the pugilists or boxers, who were accustomed, before entering the lists, to exercise their limbs with the gauntlet, in order to acquire greater skill and dexterity. There was also, before the real contest commenced, a play with their fists and weapons, by way of show or bravado, which was called a mock-battle, or a fighting the air.

Ch. X.—21. The cup of devils, or of 'demons.' This alludes to the libations that were offered in honour of heathen deities.

Ch. XI.—4. Having his head covered. With a veil, or turban, or cap, or whatever else is worn on the head. To remove the hat, the turban, or the covering of the head, is a mark of respect for a superior when in his presence. Dishonoureth his head. There are various interpretations of this as it was idolatrous, ridiculous, superstitious, &c. Barnes says, 'He dishonoureth Christ as his head, that is, he does not, in his presence and in his service, observe the usual and proper custom by which subordinate station is recognised, and which indicates respect for a superior.' 14, 15. If a man have long hair, it is a shame—if a woman, it is a glory. The men shave all the hair off their heads excepting one lock; and those that wear their hair are thought effeminate. Both these particulars are mentioned by Chardin, who says, 'They are agreeable to the custom of the East: the men are shaved, the women nourish their hair with great fondness, which they lengthen by tresses and tufts of silk, down to their heels. The young men who wear their hair in the East, are looked upon as effeminate and infamous.'

II. CORINTHIANS.

Ch. II.—14. Causeth us to triumph in Christ. Here is an allusion to the custom of victorious generals, who, in their triumphal processions, carried some of their relations with them in their chariot. And maketh manifest the savour, &c. In triumphs, the streets through which the victorious generals passed were strewed with flowers, the people also were used to throw flowers into the triumphal car as it passed along. This, as well as the other customs observed in triumphal processions, was derived from the Greeks, who in that manner honoured the conquerors in the games, when they entered into their respective cities. Plutarch tells us, that in triumphal processions the streets were 'full of incense.' 16. The savour of death unto death. All who are acquainted with ancient history know that the captives of greatest note followed the triumphal chariot in chains, and that some of them had their lives granted to them; whereas others were put to death immediately after the procession was over. Wherefore to such the smell of the flowers and of the incense, with which the procession was accompanied, was a savour of life, ending in their death. But to those captives who had their lives granted to them, this was a smell of life unto life, that is, a vivifying refreshing smell, which gave them the assurance of life, and increased its enjoyment.

Ch. III.—1. Epistles of commendations, &c. Letters of introduction were common among the Greeks, the Romans, and the Jews as they are now. They were usually given to persons who were about to travel, as there were no inns, and as travellers were dependant on the hospitality of those among whom they travelled.

Ch. IV.—7. But we have this treasure in earthen vessels. Here is probably an allusion to the ancient method of hiding treasures of money in earthen vessels or pots.—Dr. Macknight.

Ch. XI.—33. Through a window in a basket. It is curious that the monks of Sinai hoist their visitors in a basket into the window of their convent, the door being shut on account of plundering Arabs. The expedient was common. A place, said to be the same here alluded to, is still shewn at Damascus.

GALATIANS.

Ch. III.—1. Who hath bewitched you? The allusion is to the popular error which prevailed in the East, and in more civilised countries, and at a nearer period—that of fascination, or bewitching with the eye. It was believed among the heathens that great mischief might ensue from an evil eye, or from being regarded with envious or malicious looks. Hence, Pliny relates, that 'among the Illyrians, &c. there were certain enchanters, who, with their looks, could bewitch and kill those whom they beheld for a considerable time, especially if they did so with angry eyes.' 24. The law was our schoolmaster. This properly means pedagogue. Schoolmaster does not express the nature of the office here referred to. The pedagogue was a servant, often a freed-man, and sometimes a slave, who attended the children of great men to their exercises and to schools; also the servant who taught children their letters and superintended their behaviour. They were generally persons of rigid manners. Bloomfield conjectures that they also attended the study of their lessons, and assisted them in preparing for the master. They also attended at public spectacles.

Ch. IV.—10. Ye observe days, &c. The days here referred to are doubtless the days of the Jewish festivals. They had numerous days of such observances; and in addition to those specified in the Old Testament, the Jews had added many others, as days commemorative of the destruction and rebuilding of the Temple, and of other important events in their history.

EPHESIANS.

Ch. I.—13. Sealed. It is certain that many allusions in this Epistle will appear the clearer when it is borne in mind that the goddess Diana was zealously worshipped at Ephesus; and Hewlett, by his note here, seems to think that the present allusion may receive some illustration from the fact, that those who were initiated into the mysteries of Diana received a seal or ring, with the figure of a he-goat, as the mark of their initiation.

Ch. II.—2. Prince of the power of the air. Satan is so called probably with reference to the Jewish notion, that the air was peopled by evil spirits. But, indeed, the heathen also were familiar with the idea that the air was inhabited, or pervaded, by spiritual beings—demons; and this was, in particular, a dogma of the Pythagorean philosophy, with which the Ephesians were imbued.

Ch. IV.—8. Led captivity captive. That is, led vanquished enemies captive. The Apostle has been thought to allude to a custom of the triumphal processions of Roman conquerors, in which the captives were led in chains behind the car of the victor. Captives of the highest rank were in general reserved for this purpose. The custom was not peculiar to the Romans, but prevailed from the most remote antiquity in Egypt and the East.

Ch. V.—18. Be not drunk with wine. There may here be some allusion to the notorious Bacchanalia of the heathen. Those dissolute ceremonies were celebrated in honour of the god of wine, and during their continuance men and women made it a point of religion to intoxicate themselves, and ran tumultuously about the streets, fields, and vineyards, with wild songs and shoutings. Scarcely a sober person could be found any where.

PHILIPPIANS.

Ch. II.—15. Among whom ye shine as lights in the world. This metaphor has an allusion to the buildings which we call light-houses, the most illustrious of which was raised in the island of Pharos (see note and cut end of Phil.) The Colossus at Rhodes held in one hand a flame which enlightened the whole bay. These lights were also sometimes moveable, and were used to direct the marches of the caravans in the night. Pitts thus describes them: 'They are somewhat like iron stoves, into which they put short dry wood which some of the camels are loaded with. Every cotter hath one of these poles belonging to it, some of which have ten, some twelve of these lights on their tops, and they are likewise of different figures, one perhaps oval, another triangular, or like an N or M, &c., and that every one known by them his respective cotter. They are carried in the front and set up in the place where the caravan is to pitch, before that comes up, at some distance from one another.'—Pococke, &c.

Ch. III.—14. I press toward the mark, for the prize. The Apostle often evidently refers to the chariot race which was run in the stadium. Four chariots started at the same time for the goal, which was at the further extremity of the stadium. The charioteer who reached it first was the conqueror. Other competitors presented themselves, and the course was run again by four at a time, as in the first instances. The one who successively gained the victory over all that presented themselves won the crown, which was woven of branches of various trees, and though of small value in itself, was esteemed in the highest degree honourable. A crown of this kind was given, not only to those who came off victors in the chariot race, but to those also who succeeded in conquests of a different kind. Wherever the victor went he received a branch of palm, he was robed in a splendid dress, and escorted with the highest honours to his city and his home.

COLOSSIANS.

Ch. II.—14. Nailing it to his cross. An allusion to the ancient custom of abrogating laws, by driving a nail through the tables on which they were written and hung up to public view.

Ch. III.—3. Your life is hid with Christ in God. A figurative expression probably derived from the custom of hiding valuable property in times of danger and alarm.

Ch. IV.—13. Hierapolis. A city of Phrygia, now called Pambouk-Kalesi, was situated six miles north of Laodicea; and its ruins are now about a mile and a half in circumference.

II. THESSALONIANS.

Ch. II.—4. He as God, &c. When the Pope visited Leghorn several years ago, the great square of the town presented a scene worthy of being noticed. An immense multitude crowded the square to excess. The Pope appeared and all fell on their knees. His holiness then stood over the kneeling multitude and pronounced his benediction. It was one of those scenes which irresistibly led the spectators to the prophetic words regarding the Man of Sin, "He, as God, sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God."—Scottish Narrative. In the Pope's own medal, given below, Papal Rome is represented as holding out her cup, as if the cup of salvation, while she bears in her left hand the sign of the cross —her proud motto being, 'She sits upon the universe.'

I. TIMOTHY.

Ch. IV.—2. Seared as with a hot iron. The use of the cautery was common among the ancient doctors, as it still is in the East. Hence the allusion.

Ch. VI.—8. Having food and raiment let us be therewith content. House-room is not mentioned, being the least of the wants of a man in the East.—Bloomfield.

II. TIMOTHY.

Ch. II.—4. No man that warreth entangleth himself. Roman soldiers were not allowed to marry or suffered to engage in agriculture, merchandize, or mechanical employments; and they were forbidden to act as tutors to any persons, or curators to any man's estate, or proctors in the cause of other men. The general principle was that they were excluded from those relations, agencies, and engagements, which it was thought would direct their minds from that which was to be the sole object of pursuit. 5. Yet is he not crowned, except he strive lawfully. In the agonistical contests, he who transgressed the rules in the least matter, not only failed of the prize, even though the apparent victor, but was sometimes disgraced and punished.

Ch. IV.—16. No man stood with me. The friends of the accused appeared in the Roman courts habited in mourning, to show their respect for them. But it seems the cruel persecutions of the Christians at Rome under Nero, which are thought to have preceded the writing of this Epistle, now deterred them. Numbers had been put to death in the most dreadful manner, or driven from the city, and the rest seem in consequence to have been greatly intimidated.

TITUS.

Ch. I.—12. The Cretians are always liars. To be a Cretian became synonymous with being a liar, in the same way as to be a Corinthian, became synonymous with living a licentious life.

Ch. II.—5. Keepers at home. Jealousy is so common and powerful among the people of the East, that their wives are very much confined to their houses. Russell informs us that the Turks of Aleppo, being very jealous, keep their women as much at home as they can, so that it is but seldom that they are allowed to visit each other. Necessity, however, obliges the husbands to suffer them to go often to the bagnio, and Mondays and Thursdays are a sort of licensed days for them to visit the tombs of their deceased relations, which furnishes them with an opportunity of walking abroad in the gardens or fields; they have so contrived that almost every Thursday in the spring bears the name of some particular sheik (or saint) whose tomb they must visit on that day. (Their cemeteries and gardens are out of their cities in common.) By this means the greatest part of the Turkish women of the city get abroad to breathe the fresh air at such seasons, unless confined (as is not uncommon) to their houses, by order of the bashaw, and so deprived even of that little freedom which custom had procured them from their husbands.—S. Burder. 10. Not purloining. The domestic slaves of the Romans, and doubtless of others in this age, were notoriously addicted to pilfering the property of their masters, and to fraudulent practices in buying and selling for them. The masters were obliged to be always watchful and on their guard, and locks and seals were in great requisition.—Kitto.

HEBREWS.

Ch. XI.—24. The son of Pharaoh's daughter. Pharaoh signifies the sun. It was through the well known system of analogies that the king obtained this title, being the chief of earthly, as the sun was of heavenly bodies. The name is Phra in Hebrew, and is taken from the Egyptian word Pire, signifying the sun; Pharaoh is an unwarranted corruption.—Wilkinson. 26. Greater riches than the treasures of Egypt. That the riches of the country were immense is proved by the appearance of the furniture and ornaments, enamels, and by the great quantity of jewels of gold, silver, precious stones, and other objects of luxury in use among the Egyptians in the earliest times; their treasures became proverbial throughout the neighbouring states, and a love of pomp and splendour continued to be the ruling passion of the Egyptians till the latest period of their existence as an independent state, which is fully demonstrated by the history of the celebrated Cleopatra.—Wilkinson.

Ch. XII —1. Compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses. An allusion, doubtless, to the ancient games. A great multitude of spectators usually occupied the circular seats in the amphitheatre, from which they could easily behold the combatants. Let us lay aside every weight. There is allusion here doubtless to runners in the games, who were careful not to encumber themselves with anything that was heavy. Hence their clothes were so made as not to impede their running, and hence they were careful in their training not to overburden themselves with food, and in every way to remove what would be an impediment or hindrance. 4. Not yet resisted unto blood. There is here undoubtedly a continuance of the allusion to the agonistic games.—The wrestlings and wrestlings for mastery there. In those games the boxers were accustomed to arm themselves for the fight with the cestus. This at first consisted of strong leathern thongs wound around the hands and extending only to the wrist, to give greater solidity to the fist. Afterwards these were made to extend to the elbow, and then to the shoulder; and finally, they sowed pieces of lead or iron in them that they might strike a heavier and more destructive blow. The consequence was, that those who were engaged in the fight were often covered with blood, and that resistance "unto blood" showed a determined courage, and a purpose not to yield.

JAMES.

Ch. I.—1. The twelve tribes—scattered abroad. There were properly two dispersions, the eastern beyond the Euphrates, and the western commencing in the time of Alexander. This increased so much, that, in the Apostle's age, all the commercial and manufacturing cities of Syria, Egypt, and other parts of the sea-coast of Africa, Asia Minor, Greece, Italy, and Spain, were full of them. 11. The sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat. The sun, in those countries, as soon as it gets high, say about ten o'clock, produces the burning heat mentioned, which some needlessly understand of the burning wind. 23. In a glass. The glasses or mirrors in the East, were anciently made of polished steel. (See note and cut Ex. xxxviii. 8.)

Ch. IV.—13. We will go into such a city—and buy and sell, &c. Most of the Eastern merchants are, and have ever been, more or less pedlars, going out for a year or more, and tarrying a longer or shorter time in a city. The Jews were thus constantly trading to Tyre, Babylon, Alexandria, Antioch, Ephesus, Corinth, Rome, &c.

I. PETER.

Ch. III.—3. Let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair. Roman women used to take as much as eight hours at a time at their toilet to have their hair plaited by their female slaves. And so particular were they, that if a single hair was pulled out they have sometimes caused a slave to be whipped for it, and even put to death for not doing it to please them. This abuse of a practice otherwise neat in itself, was what the Apostle condemned.

I. JOHN.

Ch. II.—1. My little children: or, my dear children. John was then in all probability the only surviving apostle, and most of the Christians were young in years compared with himself. The diminutive is commonly used by way of endearment, and to express peculiar affection.

JUDE.

Ver. 12. Feasts of charity. Many think these were the agapæ, or love feasts, sacred meals which, among the early Christians, preceded the eucharist and afterwards succeeded it, to which all, especially the rich, furnished their contributions; but there is a different opinion, namely, that the reference is simply to the eating of the Lord's supper.

ORIENTAL ILLUSTRATIONS TO THE REVELATION.

Ch. I.—1. His angel. In the style of prophecy from whence the expressions in the Revelation are chiefly taken, every thing is called an angel that notifies a message from God, or executes the will of God. A prophetic dream, winds, and flames of fire, &c., these are used by God as voices to teach us; so that God revealed by his angel was be made known by voice, by dream, by vision, or any other manner of true prophetic revelation. 4, 11. The seven churches which are in Asia—Ephesus. (See note and cut end of Eph.) Laodicea. (See note and cut end of Col.) For the other churches, see notes and cuts end of Rev.

Ch. II.—1. Walketh in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks. An expression taken from the office of the priests, in dressing the lamps, which was to keep them always burning before the Lord. 17. A white stone, and in the stone a new name written. It was the custom in Greece to give judgments and votes by white and black stones: the white being a token of absolution or approbation, the black of condemnation or rejection. In the public games also these stones were used; the victor's reward being assigned to him by a white stone, on which was inscribed his name and the value of his prize.

Ch. III.—5. Shall be clothed in white raiment. White or shining garments were marks of favour and honour; under the law they were the garments of the priests, and worn in the courts of princes. Thus Pharaoh honoured Joseph by arraying him in vestures of fine linen, as well as putting a gold chain about his neck. The book of life. An allusion to the registers in which the names of parties were enrolled and by which they had a claim to certain privileges. In such registers the genealogies of the priests were kept, in which, if a man were not registered, he was rejected, as not belonging to the family of priests; or if any would prove their right to the privilege of free citizens, they were to show their names in the common registers.

Ch. V.—8. Harps, and golden vials full of odours. Harps were a principal part of the temple music, to which allusion is here made. Vials were also of common use in the temple service; they were not like small bottles, which we now call vials, but were like cups on a plate, in allusion to the censers of gold in which the priests offered incense in the Temple. These censers were a sort of cups, which, because of the heat of the fire burning the incense, were often put upon a plate or saucer. The common custom of drinking tea, and other hot liquors, out of a tea-cup and saucer, will shew the form of these censers.

Ch. XIX.—10. I fell at his feet to worship him. This appears to have been the act of homage usually paid to great men in the East, and which was now performed under impressions more solemn than those which were made by the presence of princes and kings. Mr. Bruce thus describes the ceremony now alluded to. 'The next remarkable ceremony in which these two nations (of Persia and Abyssinia) agreed, is that of adoration, invariably observed in Abyssinia to this day, as often as you enter the sovereign's presence. This is not only kneeling, but absolute prostration: you first fall upon your knees, then upon the palms of your hands, then incline your head and body till your forehead touches the ground; and, in case you have an answer to expect, you lie in that posture till the king, or somebody from him, desires you to rise.'

INDEX TO THE NOTES.

 The reader will observe that the Notes are divided into six sections, corresponding with the principal divisions of the Sacred Books, and that they follow the last Book of the division to which they respectively belong. Thus the Notes to the Pentateuch will be found at the end of Deuteronomy; to the Historical Books, at the end of Esther; to the Poetical Books, at the end of Canticles; to the Prophetical Books, at the end of Malachi; to the Gospels and Acts, at the end of Acts; and to the Epistles and Apocalypse, at the end of Revelation. As each section is given in the order of the Books, the texts in the Index will furnish an easy reference to the Notes. Those on the Engravings on coloured paper are placed at the end of the Books to which they refer.
